PREFACE.

This work revises "Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of the State of Washington," published in 1897. The added laws embrace acts passed at six regular biennial sessions of the legislature, 1899 to 1909, inclusive, and the extraordinary sessions of the years 1901 and 1909, as well as a few earlier enactments that have been discovered to be in force. The new annotations cover the decisions reported in Washington Reports, volumes 16 to 52, inclusive.

The Codes of Procedure (Civil, Probate, Justice, and Criminal) in the first volume follow the order of arrangement of the earlier work; except that the chapters relating to wills, and descent and distribution, have been taken from the General Statutes and inserted in the Probate Code, and the schedule of taxable fees of officers and witnesses has been inserted in the chapter on Costs. No other material changes have been made in this volume, except that the preliminary matter, constitutions, and constitutional index have been placed in front to avoid confusion with the index and tables.

Modern methods, and the vast increase in general legislation, require an alphabetical arrangement for the general statutes embraced in the second volume. It has been impossible to achieve an entirely satisfactory plan. Any alphabetical classification is more or less arbitrary, and should be familiarized by users of the book. Accordingly, the heads used are as few and as general as possible. Cross-reference heads are employed to point the way, but this feature has not been extended to take the place of an index. Each general title is preceded by a complete table of contents, and subdivided when necessary. One who bears these simple points in mind will avoid the principal difficulties encountered in the use of a new classification.

Judge Ballinger's invaluable historical references at the end of each section are preserved and the same system adopted for the subsequent enactments, except that the Ballinger Code numbers appear in parentheses immediately after the current code section numbers, an asterisk indicating a later enactment or amendment. His cross-references have also been adapted, amplified, and the system extended to the new enactments.

But few liberties have been taken with Judge Ballinger's annotations to the first fifteen volumes of Washington Reports, but the necessity for more condensation, in the work on the subsequent thirty-seven volumes, has been recognized, and is obvious from these covers. Much has necessarily been sacrificed to brevity, and it has been exceedingly difficult—I will say impossible—to decide where to draw the line to one's entire satisfaction. All citations of current laws, from the earliest times to date, have been briefly noted, at the expense of great labor; this being the first attempt that has been made to reduce to the same terms the ever-varying citations of early acts, re-enactments, and compilations.

It has been deemed advisable to print in the form of an appendix, with a separate index immediately following, all the old criminal laws governing prosecutions for crimes committed prior to June 9, 1909. For convenience in reference, the consecutive numbering of sections has been carried through this appendix. The tables of sectional cross-references to earlier compilations and session laws hardly need explanation. The tables for the session laws include only the acts passed since the publication of Ballinger's Code.

Mr. E. G. Kreider's work on the indexes speaks for itself. My thanks are due to him for other valuable assistance, and also to Mr. W. L. Sachse, and Mr. Robert M. Davis, of the Tacoma Bar, Mr. George R. Biddle of the Seattle Bar, and others.

I cannot take leave of this work without acknowledging my renewed appreciation of Judge Ballinger's original compilation of the laws of the Territory and State. It has been my happy purpose to see that none of its value should be lost, and it is with pleasure and confidence that I place it all anew before an appreciative and indulgent profession and the less discriminating general public.

ARTHUR REMINGTON.

PREFACE TO BALLINGER'S ANNOTATED CODES AND STATUTES, 1897.

This work embraces the statute law and codes of the state of Washington, as now existing, including all acts of a general nature passed at the fifth biennial session of the legislature, of 1897.

The statute law has been arranged in titles of broad generic significance with the purpose of establishing a logical and systematic order for this branch of the law, while the codes have been substantially continued in the order of arrangement as found in former publications. Commencing with the statute law, the sections are numbered throughout the entire work in one series, leaving several blank sections between each chapter or article for the convenience of future legislation. The matter contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, probate, justice's and criminal codes has not, for the most part, been difficult of logical and harmonious compilation, and it is believed to present a fairly well-codified system for this branch of the law. The statute law has presented many perplexing problems touching conflicting, superseded, obsolete and repealed provisions, and where the validity of a statute or any part thereof is in doubt, it has been deemed best to retain it, without hazarding the possible omission of laws in force, although the result may be ever so obnoxious to a general codification.

Following each section is given a brief historic reference to the legislation affecting the same, from the first territorial session of February 28, 1854, to the last biennial session, of 1897, in chronological order; also a comparative reference to codes of other states possessing like provisions. This reference clause has been prepared with much labor and care, and will, without doubt, meet with grateful favor by the lawyer who desires to trace our laws to their original sources.

An effort has been made to bring all inter-dependent matter together by means of cross-references, immediately preceding the annotations under the section. The value of such reference table is apparent in a compilation of laws which have never been systematically codified.

The territorial, state and federal decisions have been carefully annotated and placed under the sections which they interpret. These notes have been given with the view of stating, concisely, the point or points adjudicated under the statute in each case; and in stating the principles enunciated, the cases themselves have been consulted rather than the syllabi, and while great care has been taken in their preparation, it is not intended that they shall obviate the necessity of reference to the cases themselves for a full understanding of the law as declared, but to operate merely as a guide to the practitioner. Where they have been deemed pertinent, without overencumbering the work, notes of decisions of other courts have been subjoined interpreting like statutory provisions in other states.

The constitution of Washington is exhaustively annotated and indexed and comparative references given to the constitutions of all the other states of the Union. A separate and complete index to the constitution is given in connection therewith.

PREFACE.

The index to the codes and statutes has been prepared with great care, recognizing its importance as a means of easy access to the various provisions of the law, and it is believed that with its comprehensive scope and abundant cross-references that no feature of the law should escape the practitioner.

A table of sectional references from Hill's Annotated Codes and Statutes to the sections of this work is appended.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

THE UNANIMOUS DECLARATION OF THE THIRTEEN UNITED STATES OF AMERICA IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation, till his assent should be obtained; and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature,—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining, in the mean time, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners, refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislature.

He has effected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:—

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury;

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our government;

For suspending our own legislature, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring, on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms. Our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts, by their legislature, to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war; in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in general congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare that these united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as free and independent states, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent states may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

PREAMBLE.

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

§ 1. LEGISLATIVE POWER—CONGRESS.—All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and house of representatives.

§ 2. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.—The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand; but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the state of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

§ 3. SENATE.—The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state, the executive thereof may make temporary appointment until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The vice president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

The senate shall choose their other officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust, or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

§ 4. ELECTIONS OF SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES.—The times, places, and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

SESSIONS OF CONGRESS.—The congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

§ 5. POWERS OF HOUSES OF CONGRESS—QUORUM.—Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may, in their judgment, require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

§ 6. COMPENSATION OF MEMBERS—PRIVILEGES—DISABILITIES.—The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

§ 7. MANNER OF PASSING BILLS—ORDERS, RESOLUTIONS, ETC.—All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the president of the United States. If he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment), shall be presented to the president of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

§ 8. POWERS OF CONGRESS.—The congress shall have power,—

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts, and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

To regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states and with the Indian tribes;

To establish an uniform rule of naturalization; and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

To establish post-offices and post-roads;

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas and offenses against the law of nations;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

To raise and support armies; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

To provide and maintain a navy;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections, and repel invasions;

To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the states, respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by congress;

To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states, and the acceptance of congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings; and

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

§ 9. LIMITATIONS OF POWERS OF CONGRESS.—The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.

No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one state be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by laws; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditure of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States; and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them shall, without the consent of the congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

§ 10. LIMITATION OF POWERS OF STATES.—No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts; or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of the congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any state on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the congress.

No state shall, without the consent of congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

§ 1. EXECUTIVE POWER—PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT. The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice president, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:—

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

[The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the vote shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for president; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list, the said house shall in like manner choose the president. But in choosing the president, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote. A quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the vice president.]

The congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes, which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

No person, except a natural-born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president, and the congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the president and vice president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a president shall be elected.

The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:—"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the constitution of the United States."

§ 2. POWERS AND DUTIES OF PRESIDENT.—The president shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two thirds of the senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint, ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law; but the congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions, which shall expire at the end of their next session.

§ 3. MESSAGES—CONVENING AND ADJOURNING CONGRESS, ETC.—He shall from time to time give to the congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

§ 4. IMPEACHMENT OF OFFICERS.—The president, vice president, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

§ 1. JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.—The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

§ 2. JUDICIAL POWER.—The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity, arising under this constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority;—to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls;—to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction;—to controversies to which the United States shall be a party;—to controversies between two or more states;—between a state and citizens of another state;—between citizens of different states;—between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state, or the citizens thereof, and foreign states, citizens, or subjects.

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed.

§ 3. TREASON—EVIDENCE—PUNISHMENT.—Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

The congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

§ 1. RECORDS AND PROCEEDINGS OF STATES—EFFECT—AUTHENTICATION.—Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other state. And the congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records, and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

§ 2. PRIVILEGES OF CITIZENS.—The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.

A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

No person held to service or labor in one state, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

§ 3. NEW STATES.—New states may be admitted by the congress into this Union; but no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state; nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states, or parts of states, without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned, as well as of the congress.

The congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular state.

§ 4. REPUBLICAN FORM OF GOVERNMENT—GUARANTEE OF. The United States shall guarantee to every state in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

AMENDMENTS.—The congress, whenever two thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress: Provided, That no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first articles; and that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

DEBTS—SUPREME LAW—NO RELIGIOUS TEST.—All debts contracted and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this constitution as under the confederation.

This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

ARTICLE VII.

RATIFICATION.—The ratification of the conventions of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

Done in convention by the unanimous consent of the states present the seventeenth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the twelfth. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names.

TREATY BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN.

IN REGARD TO LIMITS WESTWARD OF THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS.

PREAMBLE.

Whereas, a treaty between the United States of America and her Majesty, the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, was concluded and signed by their plenipotentiaries at Washington, on the fifteenth day of June last, which treaty is word for word as follows:—

The United States of America and Her Majesty, the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, deeming it to be desirable for the future welfare of both countries that the state of doubt and uncertainty which has hitherto prevailed respecting the sovereignty and government of the territory on the northwest coast of America, lying westward of the Rocky or Stony Mountains, should be finally terminated by an amicable compromise of the right mutually asserted by the two parties, over the said territory, have respectively named plenipotentiaries to treat and agree concerning the terms of such settlement; that is to say: The President of the United States of America has, on his part, furnished with full powers James Buchanan, Secretary of State of the United States, and her Majesty, the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, has, on her part, appointed the right honorable Richard Pakenham, a member of her Majesty's most honorable Privy Council, and her Majesty's envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the United States; who, after having communicated unto each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following articles:—

ARTICLE I.

From the point on the forty-ninth parallel of north latitude, where the boundary laid down in existing treaties and conventions between the United States and Great Britain terminates, the line of boundary between the territory of the United States, and those of her Britannic Majesty shall be continued westward along the said forty-ninth parallel of north latitude to the middle of the channel which separates the continent from Vancouver's Island, and thence southerly, through the middle of the said channel, and of Fuca Straits to the Pacific Ocean: Provided, however, That the navigation of the whole of said channel and straits, south of the forty-ninth parallel of north latitude, remain free and open to both parties.

ARTICLE II.

From the point at which the forty-ninth parallel of north latitude shall be found to intersect the great northern branch of the Columbia River, the navigation of the said branch shall be free and open to the Hudson's Bay Company, and to all British subjects trading with the same, to the point where the said branch meets the main stream of the Columbia, and thence down the said main stream to the ocean, with free access into and through the said river or rivers, it being understood that all the usual portages along the line thus described shall, in like manner, be free and open. In navigating the said river or rivers, British subjects, with their goods and produce, shall be treated on the same footing as citizens of the United States; it being, however, always understood that nothing in this article shall be construed as preventing, or intended to prevent, the government of the United States from making any regulations respecting the navigation of the said river or rivers, not inconsistent with the present treaty.

ARTICLE III.

In the future appropriation of the territory south of the forty-ninth parallel of north latitude, as provided in the first article of this treaty, the possessory rights of the Hudson's Bay Company, and of all British subjects who may be already in the occupation of land or other property lawfully acquired within the said territory, shall be respected.

"POSSESSORY RIGHTS" OF BRITISH SUBJECTS.—The stipulation of the United States as to the possessory rights of British subjects in the occupation of land in Oregon did not constitute a grant to such British subjects, nor confer upon them any interest in the soil: Cowenia et al. v. Hannah et al., 3 Or. 465; Town v. De Haven et al., 5 Saw. 146.

Such stipulation was merely a promise by the United States to Great Britain, for a violation of which the only remedy would be a claim upon the United States for compensation: Id.

ARTICLE IV.

The farms, lands, and other property of every description belonging to the Puget Sound Agricultural Company on the north side of the Columbia River shall be confirmed to the said company. In case, however, the situation of those farms and lands should be considered by the United States to be of public and political importance, and the United States government should signify a desire to obtain possession of the whole, or of any part thereof, the property so required shall be transferred to the said government, at a proper valuation, to be agreed upon between the parties.

ARTICLE V.

The present treaty shall be ratified by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, and by her Britannic Majesty; and the ratifications shall be exchanged at London, at the expiration of six months from the date hereof, or sooner if possible.

In witness whereof, the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

Now, therefore, be it known, that I, James K. Polk, President of the United States of America, have caused the said treaty to be made public, to the end that the same, and every clause and article thereof, may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

ENABLING ACT.

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE DIVISION OF DAKOTA INTO TWO STATES AND TO ENABLE THE PEOPLE OF NORTH DAKOTA, SOUTH DAKOTA, MONTANA, AND WASHINGTON TO FORM CONSTITUTIONS AND STATE GOVERNMENTS, AND TO BE ADMITTED INTO THE UNION ON AN EQUAL FOOTING WITH THE ORIGINAL STATES, AND TO MAKE DONATIONS OF PUBLIC LANDS TO SUCH STATES.

[Approved February 22, 1889.]

§ 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the inhabitants of all that part of the area of the United States now constituting the territories of Dakota, Montana, and Washington, as at present described, may become the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, and Washington, respectively, as hereinafter provided.

§ 2. The area comprising the territory of Dakota shall, for the purposes of this act, be divided on the line of the seventh standard parallel produced due west to the western boundary of said territory; and the delegates elected as hereinafter provided to the constitutional convention in districts north of said parallel shall assemble in convention, at the time prescribed in this act, at the city of Bismarck; and the delegates elected in districts south of said parallel shall at the same time assemble in convention at the city of Sioux Falls.

§ 3. That all persons who are qualified by the laws of said territories to vote for representatives to the legislative assemblies thereof are hereby authorized to vote for and choose delegates to form conventions in said proposed states; and the qualifications for delegates to such conventions shall be such as by the laws of said territories, respectively, persons are required to possess to be eligible to the legislative assemblies thereof; and the aforesaid delegates to form said conventions shall be apportioned within the limits of the proposed states, in such districts as may be established as herein provided, in proportion to the population of each of such counties and districts, as near as may be, to be ascertained at the time of making said apportionments by the persons hereinafter authorized to make the same, from the best information obtainable, in each of which districts three delegates shall be elected, but no elector shall vote for more than two persons for delegates to such conventions; that said apportionments shall be made by the governor, the chief justice, and the secretary of said territories; and the governors of said territories shall, by proclamation, order an election of the delegates aforesaid in each of said proposed states, to be held on the Tuesday after the second Monday in May, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, which proclamation shall be issued on the fifteenth day of April, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine; and such election shall be conducted, the returns made, the result ascertained, and the certificates to persons elected to such convention issued in the same manner as is prescribed by the laws of said territories regulating elections therein for delegates to Congress; and the number of votes cast for delegates in each precinct shall also be returned. The number of delegates to said conventions respectively shall be seventy-five; and all persons residents in said proposed states, who are qualified voters of said territories as herein provided, shall be entitled to vote upon the election of delegates, and under such rules and regulations as said conventions may prescribe, not in conflict with this act, upon the ratification or rejection of the constitutions.

§ 4. That the delegates to the conventions elected as provided for in this act shall meet at the seat of government of each of said territories, except the delegates elected in South Dakota, who shall meet at the city of Sioux Falls, on the fourth day of July, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, and after organization shall declare, on behalf of the people of said proposed states, that they adopt the constitution of the United States; whereupon the said conventions shall be, and are hereby, authorized to form constitutions and state governments, for said proposed states respectively. The constitutions shall be republican in form, and make no distinction in civil or political rights on account of race or color, except as to Indians not taxed, and not be repugnant to the constitution of the United States and the principles of the Declaration of Independence. And said conventions shall provide, by ordinances irrevocable without the consent of the United States, and the people of said states:—

First. That the perfect toleration of religious sentiment shall be secured, and that no inhabitant of said states shall ever be molested in person or property on account of his or her mode of religious worship.

Second. That the people inhabiting said proposed states do agree and declare that they forever disclaim all right and title to the unappropriated public lands lying within the boundaries thereof, and to all lands lying within said limits owned or held by any Indian or Indian tribes; and that until the title thereto shall have been extinguished by the United States, the same shall be and remain subject to the disposition of the United States, and said Indian lands shall remain under the absolute jurisdiction and control of the Congress of the United States; that the lands belonging to citizens of the United States residing without the said state shall never be taxed at a higher rate than the lands belonging to residents thereof; that no taxes shall be imposed by the states on lands or property therein belonging to or which may hereafter be purchased by the United States, or reserved for its use. But nothing herein, or in the ordinances herein provided for, shall preclude the said states from taxing as other lands are taxed any lands owned or held by any Indian who has severed his tribal relations, and has obtained from the United States or from any person a title thereto by patent or other grant, save and except such lands as have been or may be granted to any Indian or Indians under any act of Congress containing a provision exempting the lands thus granted from taxation; but said ordinances shall provide that all such lands shall be exempt from taxation by said states so long and to such extent as such act of Congress may prescribe.

Third. That the debts and liabilities of said territories shall be assumed and paid by said states, respectively.

Fourth. That provision shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of systems of public schools, which shall be open to all the children of said states, and free from sectarian control.

§ 5. That the convention which shall assemble at Bismarck shall form a constitution and state government for a state to be known as North Dakota, and the convention which shall assemble at Sioux Falls shall form a constitution and state government for a state to be known as South Dakota: Provided, That at the election for delegates to the constitutional convention in

ENABLING ACT.

South Dakota, as hereinbefore provided, each elector may have written or printed on his ballot the words "For the Sioux Falls constitution," or the words "Against the Sioux Falls constitution," and the votes on this question shall be returned and canvassed in the same manner as for the election provided for in section three of this act; and if a majority of all votes cast on this question shall be "For the Sioux Falls constitution," it shall be the duty of the convention which may assemble at Sioux Falls, as herein provided, to resubmit to the people of South Dakota, for ratification or rejection at the election hereinafter provided for in this act, the constitution framed at Sioux Falls and adopted November third, eighteen hundred and eighty-five, and also the articles and propositions separately submitted at that election, including the question of locating the temporary seat of government, with such changes only as relate to the name and boundary of the proposed state, to the reapportionment of the judicial and legislative districts, and such amendments as may be necessary in order to comply with the provisions of this act; and if a majority of the votes cast on the ratification or rejection of the constitution shall be for the constitution irrespective of the articles separately submitted, the state of South Dakota shall be admitted as a state in the Union under said constitution as hereinafter provided; but the archives, records, and books of the territory of Dakota shall remain at Bismarek, the capital of North Dakota, until an agreement in reference thereto is reached by said states. But if at the election for delegates to the constitutional convention in South Dakota a majority of all the votes cast at that election shall be "Against the Sioux Falls constitution," then and in that event it shall be the duty of the convention which will assemble at the city of Sioux Falls on the fourth day of July, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, to proceed to form a constitution and state government as provided in this act the same as if that question had not been submitted to a vote of the people of South Dakota.

§ 6. It shall be the duty of the constitutional convention of North Dakota and South Dakota to appoint a joint commission, to be composed of not less than three members of each convention, whose duty it shall be to assemble at Bismarek, the present seat of government of said territory, and agree upon an equitable division of all property belonging to the territory of Dakota, the disposition of all public records, and also adjust and agree upon the amount of the debts and liabilities of the territory, which shall be assumed and paid by each of the proposed states of North Dakota and South Dakota; and the agreement reached respecting the territorial debts and liabilities shall be incorporated in the respective constitutions, and each of said states shall obligate itself to pay its proportion of such debts and liabilities the same as if they had been created by such states respectively.

§ 7. If the constitutions formed for both North Dakota and South Dakota shall be rejected by the people at the elections for the ratification or rejection of their respective constitutions, as provided for in this act, the territorial government of Dakota shall continue in existence the same as if this act had not been passed. But if the constitution formed for either North Dakota or South Dakota shall be rejected by the people, that part of the territory so rejecting its proposed constitution shall continue under the territorial government of the present territory of Dakota, but shall, after the state adopting its constitution is admitted into the Union, be called by the name of the territory of North Dakota, or South Dakota, as the case may be: Provided,

ENABLING ACT.

That if either of the proposed states provided for in this act shall reject the constitution which may be submitted for ratification or rejection at the election provided therefor, the governor of the territory in which such proposed constitution was rejected shall issue his proclamation reconvening the delegates elected to the convention which formed such rejected constitution, fixing the time and place at which said delegates shall assemble; and when so assembled they shall proceed to form another constitution, or to amend the rejected constitution, and shall submit such new constitution, or amended constitution, to the people of the proposed state for ratification or rejection, at such time as said convention may determine; and all the provisions of this act, so far as applicable, shall apply to such convention so reassembled, and to the constitution which may be formed, its ratification or rejection, and to the admission of the proposed state.

§ 8. That the constitutional convention which may assemble in South Dakota shall provide by ordinance for resubmitting the Sioux Falls constitution of eighteen hundred and eighty-five, after having amended the same as provided in section five of this act, to the people of South Dakota for ratification or rejection at an election to be held therein on the first Tuesday in October, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine; but if said constitutional convention is authorized and required to form a new constitution for South Dakota, it shall provide for submitting the same in like manner to the people of South Dakota for ratification or rejection at an election to be held in said proposed state on the said first Tuesday in October. And the constitutional conventions which may assemble in North Dakota, Montana, and Washington shall provide in like manner for submitting the constitutions formed by them to the people of said proposed states, respectively, for ratification or rejection, at elections to be held in said proposed states on said first Tuesday in October; at the elections provided in this section, the qualified voters of said proposed states shall vote directly for or against the proposed constitutions, and for or against any articles or propositions separately submitted. The returns of said elections shall be made to the secretary of each of said territories, who, with the governor and chief justice thereof, or any two of them, shall canvass the same; and if a majority of the legal votes cast shall be for the constitution, the governor shall certify the result to the President of the United States, together with a statement of the votes cast thereon, and upon separate articles or propositions, and a copy of said constitution, articles, propositions, and ordinances. And if the constitutions and governments of said proposed states are republican in form, and if all the provisions of this act have been complied with in the formation thereof, it shall be the duty of the President of the United States to issue his proclamation announcing the result of the election in each, and thereupon the proposed states which have adopted constitutions and formed state governments as herein provided shall be deemed admitted by Congress into the Union, under and by virtue of this act, on an equal footing with the original states, from and after the date of said proclamation.

§ 9. That until the next general census, or until otherwise provided by law, said states shall be entitled to one representative in the House of Representatives of the United States, except South Dakota, which shall be entitled to two; and the representatives to the fifty-first Congress, together with the governors and other officers provided for in said constitutions, may be elected on the same day of the election for the ratification or rejection of the constitutions; and until said state officers are elected and qualified under the provisions of each constitution, and the states, respectively, are admitted into the Union, the territorial officers shall continue to discharge the duties of their respective offices in each of said territories.

§ 10. That upon the admission of each of said states into the Union, sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in every township of said proposed states, and where such sections, or any parts thereof, have been sold or otherwise disposed of by or under the authority of any act of Congress, other lands equivalent thereto, in legal subdivisions of not less than one quarter section, and as contiguous as may be to the section in lieu of which the same is taken, are hereby granted to said states for the support of common schools, such indemnity lands to be selected within said states in such manner as the legislature may provide, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior: Provided, That the sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections embraced in permanent reservations for national purposes shall not, at any time, be subject to the grants nor to the indemnity provisions of this act, nor shall any lands embraced in Indian, military, or other reservations of any character be subject to the grants or to the indemnity provisions of this act, until the reservation shall have been extinguished and such lands be restored to and become a part of the public domain.

§ 11. That all lands herein granted for educational purposes shall be disposed of only at public sale, and at a price not less than ten dollars per acre, the proceeds to constitute a permanent school fund, the interest of which only shall be expended in the support of said schools. But said lands may, under such regulations as the legislatures shall prescribe, be leased for periods of not more than five years, in quantities not exceeding one section to any one person or company; and such land shall not be subject to pre-emption, homestead entry, or any other entry under the land laws of the United States, whether surveyed or unsurveyed, but shall be reserved for school purposes only.

§ 12. That upon the admission of each of said states into the Union, in accordance with the provisions of this act, fifty sections of the unappropriated public lands within said states, to be selected and located in legal subdivisions, as provided in section ten of this act, shall be and are hereby granted to said states for the purpose of erecting public buildings at the capital of said states for legislative, executive, and judicial purposes.

§ 13. That five per centum of the proceeds of the sales of public lands lying within said states which shall be sold by the United States subsequent to the admission of said states into the Union, after deducting all the expenses incident to the same, shall be paid to the said states, to be used as a permanent fund, the interest of which only shall be expended for the support of common schools within said states respectively.

teen hundred and eighty-one shall be so amended as to provide that none of said lands shall be sold for less than ten dollars per acre, and the proceeds shall constitute a permanent fund to be safely invested and held by said states severally, and the income thereof be used exclusively for university purposes. And such quantity of the lands authorized by the fourth section of the act of July seventeenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-four, to be reserved for university purposes in the territory of Washington, as, together with the lands confirmed to the vendees of the territory by the act of March fourteenth, eighteen hundred and sixty-four, will make the full quantity of seventy-two entire sections, are hereby granted in the like manner to the state of Washington for the purposes of a university in said state. None of the lands granted in this section shall be sold at less than ten dollars per acre; but said lands may be leased in the same manner as provided in section eleven of this act. The schools, colleges, and universities provided for in this act shall forever remain under the exclusive control of the said states respectively, and no part of the proceeds arising from the sale or disposal of any lands herein granted for educational purposes shall be used for the support of any sectarian or denominational school, college, or university. The section of land granted by the act of June sixteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty, to the territory of Dakota, for an asylum for the insane, shall, upon the admission of said state of South Dakota into the Union, become the property of said state.

§ 15. That so much of the lands belonging to the United States as have been acquired and set apart for the purpose mentioned in "An Act appropriating money for the erection of a penitentiary in the territory of Dakota," approved March second, eighteen hundred and eighty-one, together with the buildings thereon, be, and the same is, hereby granted, together with any unexpended balances of the moneys appropriated therefor by said act, to said state of South Dakota for the purposes therein designated; and the states of North Dakota and Washington shall respectively have like grants for the same purpose and subject to like terms and conditions, as provided in said act of March second, eighteen hundred and eighty-one, for the territory of Dakota. The penitentiary at Deer Lodge City, Montana, and all lands connected therewith and set apart and reserved therefor, are hereby granted to the state of Montana.

§ 16. That ninety thousand acres of land, to be selected and located as provided in section ten of this act, are hereby granted to each of said states, except to the state of South Dakota, to which one hundred and twenty thousand acres are granted for the use and support of agricultural colleges in said states, as provided in the acts of Congress making donations of lands for such purpose.

§ 17. That in lieu of the grant of land for purposes of internal improvement made to new states by the eighth section of the act of September fourth, eighteen hundred and forty-one, which act is hereby repealed as to the states provided for by this act, and in lieu of any claim or demand by the said states, or either of them, under the act of September twenty-eighth, eighteen hundred and fifty, and section 2479 of the Revised Statutes, making a grant of swamp and overflowed lands to certain states, which grant it is hereby declared is not extended to the states provided for in this act, and in lieu of any grant of saline lands to said states, the following grants of land are hereby made, to wit:—

§ 18. That all mineral lands shall be exempted from the grants made by this act. But if sections sixteen and thirty-six, or any subdivisions or portion of any smallest subdivision thereof in any township, shall be found by the Department of the Interior to be mineral lands, said states are hereby authorized and empowered to select, in legal subdivisions, an equal quantity of other unappropriated lands in said states in lieu thereof, for the use and the benefit of the common schools of said states.

ENABLING ACT.

§ 21. There shall be appointed for each of said districts one district judge, one United States attorney, and one United States marshal. The judge of each of said districts shall receive a yearly salary of three thousand five hundred dollars, payable in four equal installments, on the first days of January, April, July, and October of each year, and shall reside in the district. An act providing that the wages of labor shall be forthwith paid on cessation of the work is in accordance with a sound public policy and is not void under this section as a deprivation of property without due process of law: Shortall v. Puget Sound Bridge & Dredge Co., 45 Wash. 290.

Section 6339, infra, in regard to the right of a person to the first use of spring waters arising on his land, is unconstitutional as to riparian rights to the use of the water for domestic purposes by lower proprietors whose lands were patented prior to the enactment of the statute, as it deprives them of property without due process of law: Nielson v. Spomer, 46 Wash. 14.

The statutory allowance of an attorney's fee to the plaintiff upon the foreclosure of a lien is not unconstitutional where it is not imposed as a penalty, but allowed as costs: Ivall v. Willis, 17 Wash. 645; Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 403.

And authorizing an attorney's fee in favor of the plaintiff in an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien is not unconstitutional: Littell v. Saulsberry, 40 Wash. 550.

Cook*, 13 Wash. 158.

The act giving servants, clerks, laborers, etc., the right to claim from the proceeds of execution or attachment, etc., due them for services, etc., is not open to the objection that it deprives one of his property without due process of law: Gleason v. Tacoma Hotel Co., 16 Wash. 412.

Seattle Dock Co.*, 35 Wash. 503.

It is within the police power to place reasonable restrictions upon the disposal by retail dealers of their stocks of goods in bulk, for the protection of the public and prevention of frauds: McDaniels v. Connelly Shoe Co., 30 Wash. 549.

A state statute prohibiting the sale of process butter unless it is plainly marked with the words "Renovated Butter," falls within the police powers of the state, and is not in violation of Art. I, § 8 of the federal constitution: Hathaway v. McDonald, 27 Wash. 659.

Section 1368, infra, providing that no real estate of a deceased person shall be liable for his debts unless administration be granted within six years, is not unconstitutional as depriving a mortgagee of property without due process of law: Fuhrman v. Power, 43 Wash. 533.

TAXATION OF PROPERTY.—The municipal taxation of agricultural lands included within the corporate limits of a city is not unconstitutional on the ground that it is a taking of private property without just compensation: Ferguson v. Snohomish, 8 Wash. 668; Frace v. Tacoma, 16 Wash. 69.

The requirement of due process of law is complied with in a proceeding to enforce the payment of taxes, where the owner is given an opportunity to appear in court in response to a suit for the enforcement of a tax lien: Whatcom County v. Fairhaven Land Co., 7 Wash. 101.

There is no vested right to have property assessed in a particular way, and the legislature may change the mode of assessment at any time: Heilig v. Puyallup, 7 Wash. 29.

Where a property owner has notice and an opportunity to defend before his title is actually divested by the issuance of a tax deed, the issuance of a tax certificate without notice to him will not constitute a taking of property without due process of law: State ex rel. American Savings Union v. Whittlesey, 17 Wash. 447.

The statutory proceeding to foreclose a county delinquency tax certificate, being in rem, need not require personal notice in order to constitute due process of law: Williams v. Pittock, 35 Wash. 271; Pennsylvania Co. v. Tacoma, 36 Wash. 656; Carson v. Titlow, 38 Wash. 196; Plumb v. Dvas, 38 Wash. 240; Allen v. Peterson, 38 Wash. 599.

But in the case of an individual certificate, the statute requiring personal service of notice, the judgment is void if notice is not given: McManus v. Morgan, 38 Wash. 528.

The tax itself is sufficient notice to owners: Spokane Falls & N. R. Co. v. Abitz, 38 Wash. 8.

The fact that a property owner was lulled into security by a promise of city officials to give him notice of the time to be fixed for a hearing does not deprive him of his property without due process of law, where he had no right to rely upon the promise: Alexander v. Tacoma, 35 Wash. 366.

FENCE AND STOCK LAWS.—Laws 1883, page 51, in relation to liability of railroad companies for killing stock, is unconstitutional, because it imposes a penalty where no duty to fence exists, and would be taking property without due process of law: Oregon R. & N. Co. v. Smalley, 1 Wash. 206.

Laws of 1893, page 418, providing that a railroad company shall be subject to a penalty of double the value of stock killed by collision with its trains, in case of failure to notify the owner within forty-eight hours thereafter, is unconstitutional, on the same grounds: Jolliffe v. Brown, 14 Wash. 155.

But the section of the act providing that, in actions for injuries to stock occasioned by collision with moving trains, proof that the railroad track was not fenced so as to turn stock shall be prima facie evidence of negligence merely establishes a rule of evidence, and is constitutional: Jolliffe v. Brown, 14 Wash. 155.

TRADE AND BUSINESS.—The statute making it unlawful for any person to open on Sunday any shop, store or building, or place of business whatever, for the purpose of trade or sale of goods, wares and merchandise, does not violate this section: State v. Nichols, 28 Wash. 628.

Laws of 1901, page 222, to regulate the purchase, sale, transfer and encumbrance of stocks of goods, wares or merchandise in bulk is a rightful exercise of legislative power, and hence not a violation of this section: McDaniels v. Connelly Shoe Co., 30 Wash. 549.

Laws of 1905, page 238, § 2, arbitrarily fixing the weight of standards for lumber cars at one thousand pounds, and requiring such weight to be deducted from the net weight of the lumber on all carloads received for shipment, is unconstitutional as unreasonable and requiring the carriage of part of the lumber without reward, being a taking of property without due process of law: State ex rel. Washington Mill Co. v. Great Northern R. Co., 43 Wash. 658.

The right to hold and dispose of property ceases with death, and hence acts respecting the devolution of the right or title thereto do not abridge the constitutional rights of the citizen: State v. Clarke, 30 Wash. 439.

REMEDIES.—Section 720, infra, authorizing an injunction to restrain the malicious erection of any structure intended to spite, injure, or annoy an adjoining proprietor, does not violate this section: Karasek v. Peier, 22 Wash. 419.

PROCESS.—In proceedings in rem, constructive service by publication is sufficient to give validity to a judgment purely in rem, and constitutes due process of law: Wilson v. Beyers, 5 Wash. 303.

To grant an injunction without notice or any showing of necessity is to deprive a party of his rights, "without due process of law": In re Groen, 22 Wash. 53.

Laws 1893, page 237, providing for the location of county roads and award of damages therefor, is unconstitutional as to resident owners of lands appropriated, for the reason that it does not provide for personal service of notice: In re Smith's Petition, 9 Wash. 85.

Upon the formation of a diking district under Laws of 1895, page 304, personal service upon every person within the district of notice of the petition to organize the district is not necessary, and failure to give such personal service would not constitute a taking of private property without due process of law: Hansen v. Hammer, 15 Wash. 315.

The fact that a section of the irrigation act authorized the testing of the validity of the proceedings without personal notice, and the entry of a judgment thereon, would only affect the validity of such a judgment, and would not render the entire act void as a taking of property without due process: Kinkade v. Witherop, 29 Wash. 10.

By laws of 1889, page 261, for the condemnation of rights of way for irrigation purposes, the filing of a complaint, etc., provides ample notice and due process of law: Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31.

An order in garnishment, that goods claimed by third parties be delivered to the sheriff, would be taking private property without due process of law: Coombs v. Davis, 2 W. T. 466; Weisbach v. Arnold, 3 W. T. 111.

Section 819, infra, entitling the plaintiff in an action of forcible entry and detainer to a writ of restitution before judgment, on filing a bond securing the defendant for costs and damages, does not deprive defendant of property without due process of law: State ex rel. German Sav. & Loan Soc. v. Prather, 19 Wash. 336; Morris v. Healy Lumber Co., 33 Wash. 451.

The drainage act does not authorize the taking of private property without due process of law because of the failure to directly provide for contesting the assessment: State ex rel. Latimer v. Henry, 28 Wash. 38.

Under § 7731, infra, a municipal corporation of the fourth class may prohibit the running at large of domestic animals, and an ordinance providing for the summary sale of impounded animals, under reasonable notice, without a judicial inquiry, is effective to transfer the title and does not authorize the taking of property without due process of law: Shook v. Sexton, 37 Wash. 509. See, also, Wilson v. Beyers, 5 Wash. 304.

§ 4. RIGHT OF PETITION AND ASSEMBLAGE.—The right of petition and of the people peaceably to assemble for the common good shall never be abridged.

§ 6. OATHS—MODE OF ADMINISTERING.—The mode of administering an oath or affirmation shall be such as may be most consistent with and binding upon the conscience of the person to whom such oath or affirmation may be administered.

A contempt proceeding is not a criminal case, within the meaning of this section: State ex rel. Dye v. Reilly, 40 Wash. 217.

The defendant as a witness in a criminal prosecution is subject to be contradicted, disputed or impeached the same as any other witness, and cross-examination for this purpose is not prohibited by this section: State v. Duncan, 7 Wash. 336.

As to proper cross-examination of accused, see State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7.

But a defendant, and a witness in his own behalf in a criminal prosecution, cannot be compelled to testify to matters tending to criminate him: State v. O'Hara, 17 Wash. 525.

As to admissibility of voluntary confession of defendant at preliminary hearing, see State v. Washing, 36 Wash. 485.

When it plainly appears to the court that a question propounded to a witness cannot be answered affirmatively without incriminating him, it is the duty of the court to caution him as to his privilege of not answering: Perkins v. North End Bank, 17 Wash. 100.

The discharge of a defendant before verdict upon a prosecution for larceny is not a bar to subsequent prosecution for obtaining the money under false pretenses, when the first discharge resulted from a variance between the information and proof: State v. Reiff, 14 Wash. 664.

A defendant has been once in jeopardy when he has been arraigned upon an information sufficiently charging the crime, a jury has been sworn and a court of competent jurisdiction has ordered the discharge of the accused at the close of the case made by the state: State v. Hubbell, 18 Wash. 482.

A plea of former jeopardy cannot be based upon the discharge of the jury for failure to agree: State v. Costello, 29 Wash. 366.

Discharging a jury on a holiday because of its inability to agree would not be a void act, under our statutes, so as to constitute former jeopardy: State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 515.

The conviction of a defendant charged with murder in the first degree as guilty of murder in the second degree is an acquittal of the higher charge: State v. Murphy, 13 Wash. 229.

A verdict of guilty upon an insufficient information, set aside at the instance of defendant, is a mistrial and does not constitute former jeopardy: State v. Riley, 36 Wash. 441.

The voluntary dismissal of an information for assault and battery is a bar to a conviction for assault and battery, under a subsequent information charging the same facts as constituting the crime of attempting to commit mayhem: State v. Durbin, 32 Wash. 289.

The acquittal of a defendant of one offense is no bar to another offense committed in the same act or transaction, or when the second prosecution is for an offense based upon a different statute: State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 491; State v. Reiff, 14 Wash. 664; State v. Campbell, 40 Wash. 480.

The reversal of a judgment for errors of law is not an acquittal on the merits: State v. White, 8 Wash. 230; State v. Riley, 36 Wash. 441.

After reversal of a judgment of conviction a new indictment may be filed identical with the former except that the Christian name of the person killed is changed: State v. Freidrich, 4 Wash. 204.

As to offenses to which a plea of former jeopardy is a defense, see State v. Armstrong, 29 Wash. 57; State v. Campbell, 40 Wash. 480.

The only competent evidence of former conviction is the production of a record from a court of competent jurisdiction founded upon an indictment or other proper accusation: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563.

§ 11. RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.—Absolute freedom of conscience in all matters of religious sentiment, belief, and worship shall be guaranteed to every individual, and no one shall be molested or disturbed in person or property on account of religion, but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace and safety of the state. No public money or property shall be appropriated for or applied to any religious worship, exercise, or instruction, or the support of any religious establishment. No religious qualification shall be required for any public office or employment, nor shall any person be incompetent as a witness or juror in consequence of his opinion on matters of religion, nor be questioned in any court of justice touching his religious belief to affect the weight of his testimony.

The enactment of Sunday laws, being within the police power, does not unduly abridge the rights of the citizen: State v. Nichols, 28 Wash. 628.

Laws of 1903, page 68, prohibiting the business of barbering on Sunday, does not violate the federal constitutional prohibitions against abridging the privileges of a citizen even as to those who conscientiously believe in the observance of the seventh day of the week: State v. Bergfeldt, 41 Wash. 234.

§ 12. SPECIAL PRIVILEGES AND IMMUNITIES PROHIBITED.

No law shall be passed granting to any citizen, class of citizens, or corporation, other than municipal, privileges or immunities which, upon the same terms, shall not equally belong to all citizens or corporations.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 533-537, §§ 99-118.

The licensing of fishing in certain waters and giving exclusive control of the location for one year does not violate the constitutional inhibition against granting exclusive privileges: Walker v. Stone, 17 Wash. 578.

The right given to members of the bar to recommend four eligible persons of the county, from whom the court shall select two to act as commissioners for the selection of jurors, imposes merely a duty, and is not the conferring of a privilege or immunity upon any class of citizens such as is prohibited by this section: State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435.

The statute authorizing county superintendents to charge five cents mileage in counties of the first to the tenth classes inclusive, and ten cents mileage in all counties having a higher class number than the tenth, does not violate this section: Henry v. Thurston County, 31 Wash. 638.

Laws 1901, page 356, regulating new corporations to be thereafter authorized to do business in this state, and making them a class unto themselves, does not violate the provisions of this section: State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies, 35 Wash. 338.

Authorizing county commissioners to appoint road supervisors from among the qualified electors of the state is not unconstitutional as granting special privileges or immunities to any citizen or class of citizens: State ex rel. Griffith v. Newland, 37 Wash. 428.

Laws 1899, page 93, § 15, providing that mortgaged premises occupied as a homestead by the mortgagors shall remain in their possession during the period of redemption, is not unconstitutional as granting special privileges to one class of citizens: North Pacific Loan & Trust Co. v. Bennett, 49 Wash. 34.

Laws of 1905, page 372, providing that every person who canvasses or sells by sample certain specified articles "after shipment to the state," shall pay in advance a license fee of $200 per year, violates the state and federal restrictions against discrimination between citizens of this and other states, and is unconstitutional: Bacon v. Locke, 42 Wash. 215.

Where a law is uniform in its operation upon persons or property similarly situated, in so far as it operates at all, its constitutionality is not affected by the number of persons within the scope of its operations: Redford v. Spokane St. R. Co., 15 Wash. 419; State v. Considine, 16 Wash. 358; Fitch v. Applegate, 24 Wash. 26; McDaniels v. Connelly Shoe Co., 30 Wash. 549.

And such a statute is equal and uniform, although it may act upon very few people: Lewis County v. Gordon, 20 Wash. 80.

Laws 1905, page 110, requiring a broker's contract to be in writing, is not unconstitutional as class legislation, or as an unwarranted interference with the right to contract: Ross v. Kaufman, 48 Wash. 678.

It should be presumed in favor of the proviso to Laws 1899, page 194, § 4, excepting from the prohibition against salmon fishing during the closed season "any Indian residing in this state," who is allowed to take salmon "at any time for the use of himself and family," that the same was intended to apply only to Indians who have not assumed the duties and obligations of citizenship; hence the act is not unconstitutional under this section as granting special privileges to any citizen or class of citizens, etc.: State v. Lewis, 45 Wash. 475.

A poll tax may be restricted to males over twenty-one years of age and under fifty, since the state constitution does not require uniformity therein, but the same may be made by appropriate classification; and the above is not unreasonable or unjust: Thurston County v. Tenino Stone Quarries, 44 Wash. 351.

The law requiring jurors to be householders, but making no such requirement as to jurors summoned upon an open venire, is not unconstitutional as discriminating against classes of citizens, or granting privileges which do not equally belong to all citizens: Redford v. Spokane St. R. Co., 15 Wash. 419.

The law conferring upon women the right to vote is void as in conflict with the organic act granting the legislature authority to fix the qualification of voters provided that the right be conferred only upon citizens of the United States, and "citizens" is to be construed as "male citizens": Bloomer v. Todd, 3 W. T. 599.

A woman cannot claim unlawful discrimination as to sex by a law forbidding the employment of females in places where intoxicating liquors are sold: State v. Considine, 16 Wash. 358.

Laws of 1903, page 230, making it unlawful for male persons to live off the earnings of prostitutes is not in conflict with the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution because it discriminates between male and female persons, since the privileges and immunities referred to are such only as are lawful, and prostitution may be prohibited or restricted to any class and in any way without infringing constitutional provisions: State ex rel. Zenner v. Graham, 34 Wash. 81.

A game law restricting the killing of deer in certain counties only does not grant special privileges to certain people, and is constitutional: Hays v. Territory, 2 W. T. 286.

The act providing for the inspection of grain in certain cities and other places where grain is received in carload lots for milling or export is not obnoxious to the provisions of this section: Wright v. Lilly, Bogardus & Co., 18 Wash. 77.

The migratory stock tax law of 1899, authorizing abatement or deduction from next regular assessment, is unconstitutional: Nathan v. Spokane County, 35 Wash. 26.

The refusal of a city to grant a telephone company a franchise for the erection of poles and wires in the streets could not be construed as the granting of special privileges in violation of this section: State ex rel. Spokane etc. Tel. Co. v. Spokane, 24 Wash. 53.

An ordinance of a city prohibiting barbers from pursuing their calling on Sunday for compensation is void as an act of special legislation, as it singles out one class of people and imposes restrictions upon them which are not imposed on other citizens alike: Tacoma v. Krech, 15 Wash. 296 (overruled in State v. Nichols, 28 Wash. 628.)

An ordinance imposing a license tax upon all merchants using trading stamps for the purpose of stimulating the sale of goods is not void as imposing a burden upon a portion only of a class of merchants, as it applies to all who engage in business of that kind: Fleetwood v. Read, 21 Wash. 547.

The proviso to § 2916, infra, excepting from the operation of the Sunday law hotels, drug-stores, livery-stables and undertakers, does not violate this section: State v. Nichols, 28 Wash. 628. Bal. Code, § 7250, prohibiting the keeping open of any theater on Sunday is not unconstitutional as class legislation: In re Donnellan, 49 Wash. 460.

The "sales in bulk" act is not in restraint of trade, since it does not prevent the sale of stocks of goods in bulk, but merely restricts the application of the proceeds when stocks are sold in that manner: McDaniels v. Connelly Shoe Co., 30 Wash. 549.

An ordinance prohibiting any person from peddling fruits, vegetables, butter, eggs, etc., within the fire limits of a city, excepting farmers disposing of produce grown by themselves, grants special privileges, in violation of this section: In re Camp, 38 Wash. 393.

An act prohibiting the employment of female labor in places where liquor is sold is not unequal and does not abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens, where it applies to all engaged in a like business and extends to all females employed: State v. Considine, 16 Wash. 358.

The act prohibiting the business of railroad ticket brokerage, and requiring railroad companies to duly commission all agents authorized to sell tickets and to redeem unused tickets, does not deny the equal protection of the laws: In re O'Neill, 41 Wash. 174.

The statutes forbidding the employment of females in any mechanical or mercantile establishment for more than ten hours during any day is constitutional, although a restriction to some extent upon the right of women to contract their labor: State v. Buchanan, 29 Wash. 602.

An ordinance prescribing an eight-hour day, and forbidding the employment for longer hours of any laborer upon municipal construction work, making the same a part of all city contracts for such work, and providing a penalty for any violation thereof by any city contractor, is not unconstitutional as in conflict with the fourteenth amendment or any other federal or state constitutional provision: In re Broad, 36 Wash. 449 (overruling Seattle v. Smyth, 22 Wash. 327); Normile v. Thompson, 37 Wash. 465.

An ordinance prohibiting solicitations by hack drivers in railroad stations, when used by passengers entering or leaving the same, is not an unreasonable restriction upon the right of private contract, especially where the passengers have opportunity on the trains or at an office in the building to fulfill their wants without solicitation: Seattle v. Hurst, 50 Wash. 42.

Acts regulating the practice of medicine, and requiring an examination and license do not violate the constitutional inhibition against the granting of special privileges: Fox v. Territory, 2 W. T. 297; State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424.

The qualification of residence, or application of different tests for residents and nonresidents, does not infringe any constitutional provision: Fox v. Territory, 2 W. T. 297; State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424; State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191. An act requiring an applicant for a pilot's license to be a qualified voter does not unlawfully discriminate between citizens of the state: State v. Ames, 47 Wash. 328.

The act to regulate barbering (Laws 1901, p. 349) is not void on the ground of being local, class, and special legislation, because of the fact that it divides the communities of the state into classes, for which different regulations are provided: State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191.

The fact that a law provides for the issuance of a certificate without examination, upon the payment of one dollar, to all barbers carrying on their occupation in cities of the first, second and third classes at the time the act took effect, while barbers subsequently coming into those cities would be required to stand examination and pay five dollars for a certificate, would not render the act void as discriminating against one class of citizens in favor of others: State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191.

Laws of 1901, page 349, providing for the licensing of barbers, and creating a board to regulate the practice of the trade, gives such board power to revoke a certificate for the causes specified, issued to barbers who were following the occupation at the time the act went into effect, as well as to those who were not: State v. Chaney, 36 Wash. 350.

The act regulating the business of plumbing and requiring plumbers to secure a license infringes the state and federal constitutions: State ex rel. Richey v. Smith, 42 Wash. 237.

The statute providing a penalty for following the occupation of a barber without first having obtained a license applies to one whose license had been regularly revoked, and who continued to practice without obtaining another license: State v. Chaney, 36 Wash. 350.

Laws 1901, page 315, § 1, providing, as qualifications of dentists, that the applicant for a license to practice shall be possessed of a diploma from a dental college in good standing, shall be of good moral character, etc., contains no unreasonable requirements: In re Thompson, 36 Wash. 377. The statutory requirement that an applicant for a license to practice dentistry shall present a diploma from a dental college before taking his examination is not so unreasonable and arbitrary as to infringe any constitutional right: State ex rel. Thompson v. State Board of Dental Examiners, 48 Wash. 291.

That portion of Laws of 1891, page 314, requiring one to submit to an examination and secure a license from the state dental board, in order to "own, run, or manage" a dental office, as distinguished from the practice of dentistry, is unconstitutional: State v. Brown, 37 Wash. 97.

Laws of 1903, page 68, prohibiting the business of barbering on Sunday, does not violate the constitutional prohibitions against class legislation or special privileges even as to those who conscientiously believe in the observance of the seventh day of the week: State v. Bergfeldt, 41 Wash. 234.

The statutes providing for liens in favor of laborers working on railroads, canals, etc., on the franchise, earnings, and all the real and personal property of the person or company used in the operation of the business, to the extent of the moneys due for wages, is not unconstitutional as in violation of this section: Fitch v. Applegate, 24 Wash. 25.

The provisions of the act of 1893 relating to the excavation of public waterways and creating liens upon the state tide lands cannot be claimed to be invalid or contrary to the provisions of this section: Seattle & Lake Washington Wa- terway Co. v. Seattle Dock Company, 35 Wash. 503.

An act providing for an attorney's fee to plaintiff in case of recovery against a railroad company for the killing of stock is unconstitutional as an attempt to grant special privileges to one class of litigants, where it is in the nature of an added penalty, and there was no failure to perform a statutory duty: Jolliffe v. Brown, 14 Wash. 155.

Statutory allowance of attorney's fees where allowed as costs and not as a penalty is constitutional: Ival v. Willis, 17 Wash. 645; Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 403; Little v. Saulsberry, 40 Wash. 550.

§ 13. HABEAS CORPUS.—The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety requires it.

The statute providing that no inquiry shall be made into the legality of any judgment or process whereby a party is in custody, when such custody is upon a process, issued on a final judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction, precludes the issuance of a writ of habeas corpus in such case, and is not obnoxious to the constitution: In re Lybarger, 2 Wash. 131.

A defendant acquitted on the ground of insanity may be confined in prison after a full hearing, while his condition continues: In re Brown, 39 Wash. 160.

Under a statute imposing a fine not exceeding $500 and defendant to be committed until such fine is paid, a fine of $500 and costs is valid: Foster v. Territory, 1 Wash. 411.

Under a statute providing for a fine not exceeding $500, to which may be added imprisonment, a sentence of imprisonment without imposing a fine is not erroneous: State v. Dunlap, 25 Wash. 292.

A forfeiture of a $750 liquor license in addition to a fine and liability upon a bond is not unconstitutional as excessive penalty for selling intoxicating liquors to a minor: Krueger v. Colville, 49 Wash. 295.

§ 16. EMINENT DOMAIN.—Private property shall not be taken for private use, except for private ways of necessity, and for drains, flumes, or ditches on or across the lands of others for agricultural, domestic, or sanitary purposes. No private property shall be taken or damaged for public or private use without just compensation having been first made, or paid into court for the owner, and no right-of-way shall be appropriated to the use of any corporation other than municipal until full compensation therefor be first made in money, or ascertained and paid into court for the owner, irrespective of any benefit from any improvement proposed by such corporation, which compensation shall be ascertained by a jury, unless a jury be waived, as in other civil cases in courts of record, in the manner prescribed by law. Whenever an attempt is made to take private property for a use alleged to be public, the question whether the contemplated use be really public shall be a judicial question, and determined as such, without regard to any legislative assertion that the use is public.

The provision in this section authorizing the taking of lands for private ways of necessity is not self-executing: Long v. Billings, 7 Wash. 267.

This section prevents the taxation of costs in condemnation proceedings against the land owner only in the lower court, and does not exempt him from the costs of his appeal to the supreme court, when, under § 929, infra, he fails to recover a greater amount of damages on the appeal: Kitsap County v. Melker, 52 Wash. 49.

§ 17. IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT.—There shall be no imprisonment for debt except in cases of absconding debtors.

An absconding debtor is one who leaves or is about to leave the jurisdiction, or who conceals himself within the jurisdiction for the purpose of avoiding the process of the courts: Burrichter v. Cline, 3 Wash. 135, 136; see Cline v. Harmon, 2 Wash. 155.

Arrest and bail is a provisional remedy only, and not a special proceeding, like an attachment merely ancillary to the action in which it is invoked: Cline v. Harmon, 2 Wash. 155, 158.

Under this section there can be no imprisonment for debt except in the case of absconding debtors: Burrichter v. Cline, 3 Wash. 135; Cline v. Harmon, 2 Wash. 155.

Statutes for the taxation of cost against the complaining witness and imprisonment for nonpayment are valid, under this section: Colby v. Backus, 19 Wash. 347.

A decree for alimony is not a debt within the meaning of this section, and may be enforced by imprisonment for contempt, without infringing the constitution: In re Cave, 26 Wash. 213.

In decree of divorce making distribution of property, see In re Van Alstine, 21 Wash. 194.

As to legality of commitment in contempt proceedings, see In re Coulter, 25 Wash. 526.

"Debt" within the meaning of the constitutional provision that there shall be no imprisonment for debt refers to contract obligations and not to obligations arising from fraud or in tort: In re Milecke, 52 Wash. 312.

§ 18. MILITARY POWER, LIMITATION OF.—The military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.

The legislature has power to provide that where there are four candidates for office, a candidate receiving less than forty per cent of the party vote shall not be deemed its nominee, and that in such case, the candidate receiving the highest number of first and second choice votes shall be the nominee, since there is no interference with the freedom of the elector in casting his first choice ballot: State ex rel. Zent v. Nichols, 50 Wash. 508.

That a primary election will tend to destroy political parties which are of general utility or necessity is a political rather than a judicial question which cannot be urged upon the courts against the validity or constitutionality of the law: State ex rel. Zent v. Nichols, 50 Wash. 508.

§ 20. BAIL, WHEN AUTHORIZED.—All persons charged with crime shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident, or the presumption great.

State ex rel. Denham v. Superior Court, 28 Wash. 590.

The supreme court has no authority to reduce as excessive the amount of an appeal bond fixed by the trial court in a prosecution for manslaughter: State v. Minkler, 6 Wash. 623.

As to right to release on bail pending habeas corpus proceedings in extradition cases, see Foye, In re, 21 Wash. 250.

An infant committed to the reform school has a right to be admitted to bail pending an appeal to the supreme court: Packenhams v. Reed, 37 Wash. 258.

§ 21. TRIAL BY JURY.—The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate,¹ but the legislature may provide for a jury of any number less than twelve in courts not of record, and for a verdict by nine or more jurors in civil cases in any court of record,² and for waiving of the jury in civil cases where the consent of the parties interested is given thereto.³

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1645-1650, §§ 1-26.

This section was held in the particular case not to be violated by the trial court in taking from the consideration of the jury the question of the bona fides of the sale: Furth v. Snell, 13 Wash. 660; Creagh v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 19 Wash. 108.

Section 2033, Code of 1881, authorizing a jury in insolvency proceedings of not less than six is in conflict with the organic act in so far as it provides for a less number than twelve jurymen: Thomas v. Hilton, 3 W. T. 365.

Bal. Code, § 4792, providing that county commissioners shall select as jurors such only as are householders is not in violation of Art. I, § 21, of the constitution, which provides that the right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate: State v. Holedger, 15 Wash. 443.

The constitutional provision with reference to the right to trial by jury must be construed with reference to the right as it existed in the territory at common law at the time of the adoption of the constitution: State ex rel. Mullen v. Doherty, 16 Wash. 382.

As to nature of cause of action or issue triable by jury, see Winston v. Crowe, 28 Wash. 65; Filley v. Murphy, 30 Wash. 1.

The constitutional right of trial by jury is not impaired by the summary trial and punishment of a person for the violation of a city ordinance against disorderly conduct, since such constitutional guaranty does not extend to petty and minor offenses: State ex rel. Belt v. Kennan, 25 Wash. 621.

The statutes prescribing as a qualification for jurors that they be householders does not violate this section: State v. Holedger, 15 Wash. 443.

The provision of this section is not intended to interfere with the right of the individual to waive such privilege: State v. Ellis, 22 Wash. 129.

And will be deemed waived by a youthful offender tried before a justice of the peace, for disturbing a public school, when he did not demand a jury trial: State v. Packenham, 40 Wash. 403.

Bal. Code, §§ 6930 and 4978, do not confer the right to try a criminal case by a jury of less than twelve persons: State v. Ellis, 22 Wash. 129.

The railway fence law of 1883 is unconstitutional as denying the right of jury trial: Dacres v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 1 Wash. 525; Oregon R. & Nav. Co. v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 195.

The provision herein that "the right to trial by jury shall remain inviolate" is inapplicable in proceedings to try the right to a public office: State ex rel. Mullen v. Doherty, 16 Wash. 382; State ex rel. Orr v. Fawcett, 17 Wash. 188.

The jury law of 1903, page 50, providing for a $12 jury fee in civil cases, is not unconstitutional as imposing any unreasonable conditions upon the right of trial by jury: State ex rel. Clark v. Neterer, 33 Wash. 535.

Refusing a jury trial of issues raised in an equitable action is no ground for reversal: Dearborn Foundry Co. v. Augustine, 5 Wash. 67. An action for accounting between partners is an equitable action: Hamar v. Peterson, 9 Wash. 152. A defendant is not entitled to a jury trial although the action against him is substantially one for damages when the remedy is sought against him in an action seeking equitable relief against other parties: Murray v. Okanogan Live Stock etc. Co., 12 Wash. 259. Proceedings to contest a will are in their nature equitable and trial by jury of issues of fact therein is not a matter of right: In re Clayson's Estate, 26 Wash. 253.

A proceeding to recover specific real or personal property must be tried by jury: In re Alfstad's Estate, 27 Wash. 175; Winston v. Crowe, 28 Wash. 65; Filley v. Murphy, 30 Wash. 1. And so of an action to enjoin defendant from enforcing a judgment against plaintiff: Spokane Co-operative Min. Co. v. Pearson, 28 Wash. 118. As to when an action is an equitable one, see Bluett v. Wilce, 43 Wash. 492.

§ 22. RIGHTS OF ACCUSED PERSONS.—In criminal prosecutions, the accused shall have the right to appear and defend in person, and by counsel,¹ to demand the nature and cause of the accusation against him, to have a copy thereof, to testify in his own behalf, to meet the witnesses against him face to face,² to have compulsory process to compel the attendance of witnesses in his own behalf, have a speedy public trial³ by an impartial jury of the county in which the offense is alleged to have been committed, and the right to appeal in all cases; and in no instance shall any accused person before final judgment be compelled to advance money or fees to secure the rights herein guaranteed.

See ante, notes to § 9 of this article.

See infra, §§ 6911, 6916, and notes, speedy trial, etc.

3. Compulsory process and speedy public trial—See references, supra, also Cal., I, 13; Colo., II, 16; N. Dak., I, 13; Ida., I, 13; Wy., I, 10.

SUBPOENA, ORDER FOR.—The privileges of a defendant cannot be held to include the right to decide upon the materiality of the testimony that he expects from witnesses desired; this is for the court to decide and no subpoena should issue, in such cases, on behalf of a defendant to compel the attendance of witnesses without an order of the court first obtained: State ex rel. Carraher v. Graves, 13 Wash. 485, 487.

The provision of the constitution guaranteeing the accused compulsory process to obtain witnesses in his behalf contemplates all the means necessary to a production of the witness on a trial, but a preliminary examination is not a trial within the meaning of this section: State ex rel. Thurston Co. v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445, 450.

NATURE OF ACCUSATION.—The accused has a constitutional right to be apprised of the nature of the cause of action against him, hence under an information charging the accused with an assault with intent to commit murder, a verdict of "assault with a deadly weapon with intent to do bodily harm" is erroneous, as not within the charge as laid: State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462, 464.

A justice of the peace is not required, under this section, to prepare a copy of the complaint in a criminal action and deliver it to the accused, but the constitutional mandate is sufficiently complied with when the complaint is tendered him for the purpose of making a copy if he chooses: State v. White, 8 Wash. 230.

PRESENCE OF ACCUSED.—The granting of a continuance, in a criminal prosecution, without the personal presence of the accused, is not in violation of the constitutional provision giving the accused the right to appear and defend in person and by counsel: State v. Duncan, 7 Wash. 336.

IMPARTIAL JURY.—The discretion of the trial court to determine the partiality or impartiality in the jury is subject to review by the appellate court, under the constitutional guaranty to the accused of a trial by an impartial jury: State v. Rutten, 13 Wash. 203.

It is a violation of a defendant's constitutional rights to deny his challenge to a juror who has formed an opinion as to defendant's guilt from newspaper accounts, where it would take strong evidence to change such opinion, even though he could lay aside his opinion and try the case wholly upon the evidence: State v. Murphy, 9 Wash. 204, 214.

The guaranty that the defendant shall have a "public trial by an impartial jury, etc.," does not prevent the court in its discretion from sending the jury out, during the argument of counsel on instructions asked to be given as the law of the case, during the trial: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99.

ADVANCEMENT OF FEES.—A person convicted of murder is entitled, on appeal, to a transcript of the record at the expense of the public on showing that he is without means and unable to pay clerks' fees therefor: State v. Fenimore, 2 Wash. 370; compare Stowe v. State, 2 Wash. 124.

The language of this section, relating to the advancement of fees, has reference to the final judgment of the trial court, and not of the supreme court. The county commissioners cannot be required, for the benefit of a defendant in a criminal cause, to pay for a copy of a stenographer's report of a trial: Stowe v. State, 2 Wash. 124. See, also, State ex rel. Langhorn v. Superior Court, 32 Wash. 80.

ASSIGNMENT OF COUNSEL.—The constitutional guaranties to the accused in case he is unable by reason of poverty to employ counsel to defend him make it the duty of the court to assign him counsel, even although the law makes no provision for payment of such services: Presby v. Klickitat County, 5 Wash. 330. See, also, State v. Bush, 41 Wash. 13.

PRESUMPTIONS.—Section 2795, infra, providing that the presumption of burglarious intent should follow proof of unlawful entry, does not contravene the constitutional rights of one accused of crime: State v. Anderson, 5 Wash. 350.

It is the constitutional right of defendant to demand proof of his guilt before he shall be convicted of a crime: State v. Anderson, supra, 352.

The words "without specifying any further particulars in regard thereto," authorized by § 2813, infra, as to informations in embezzlement, are not in violation of this section: State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288, 297.

No constitutional rights of defendants in criminal prosecutions are violated by the act of March 21, 1895, providing that, in prosecutions for larceny under Penal Code, § 52, where the animal alleged to have been stolen was permitted to run on the range, proof of possession of the animal by the person accused of stealing the same shall be prima facie evidence that he acquired possession thereof recently, and shall have the effect of throwing on him the burden of explaining such possession: State v. Kyle, 14 Wash. 550.

In a capital case in which twenty witnesses were examined and four days were consumed in the trial, it is an infringement of the constitutional right of the accused to appear and defend, and an abuse of discretion, to limit the time for argument to the jury to an hour and a half on each side: State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540.

Under this section it is error for the court to refuse to grant a continuance to procure the presence in person of a material witness for defendant, when proper application has been made therefor: State v. Williams, 18 Wash. 47.

The requirement that the accused shall have the right to meet the witnesses face to face will not exclude evidence of dying declarations: State v. Baldwin et al., 15 Wash. 15. And does not exclude the testimony of a witness, since deceased, on a former trial: State v. Cushing 17 Wash. 544. And defendant may waive his right to have the witnesses present, when: See State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75.

As to discretion of court in allowing separation and exclusion of witnesses, see State v. Lee Doon, 7 Wash. 308; State v. Armstrong, 37 Wash. 51; State v. Ilomaki, 40 Wash. 629; State v. Dalton, 43 Wash. 278.

It is error to keep the accused or a witness for him in manacles during the progress of the trial, unless plainly necessary: State v. Williams, 18 Wash. 47.

As to appointment and service of interpreter for accused, see Elick v. Territory, 1 W. T. 136; State v. Thompson, 14 Wash. 285; State v. Michel, 20 Wash. 162.

The statute providing that the discharge of an accused person for want of a speedy trial shall not bar a further prosecution does not violate this section: State ex rel. Repath v. Caldwell, 9 Wash. 336. Failure to prosecute diligently an appeal from a police court does not entitle an accused person to a dismissal, for want of a speedy trial: State v. Parmeter, 49 Wash. 435.

Depositions are not admissible: See Freidrich v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358; State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499; State v. Paggett, 8 Wash. 579; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

One charged as an accessory to the crime of rape by procuring its commission cannot be convicted under an information charging him as a principal: State v. Gifford, 19 Wash. 464.

Criminal offenses cognizable by a justice of the peace may be prosecuted before any justice in the county: State ex rel. Calderwood v. Schomber, 23 Wash. 573.

§ 23. BILL OF ATTAINDER, EX POST FACTO LAW, ETC.—No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligations of contracts shall ever be passed.

VESTED RIGHTS, ESTATES AND INTERESTS.—The legislature has power to change the law of descent as to community lands, and make the same applicable to lands previously acquired: Mable v. Whittaker, 10 Wash. 656.

The title of executors under a nonintervention will is a vested right, which cannot be impaired by a change in the law after the death of the testator: State ex rel. Phinney v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 186.

The abolition of dower is not the destruction of a vested right, dower being a mere expectancy: Hamilton v. Hirsch, 2 W. T. 222.

Laws for the protection of bona fide occupants of land who have, in good faith, made permanent improvements, have no retrospective effect: Investment Co. v. Hambach, 37 Wash. 629.

A municipal ordinance requiring fire-escapes upon buildings of a certain description within prescribed limits impairs no vested rights by reason of applying to buildings erected in compliance with a previous ordinance requiring a different kind of fire-escapes: Seattle v. Hinckley, 40 Wash. 468.

Laws of 1893, requiring notice of application for a tax deed, has no application to a sale made under Laws of 1891: Ford v. Durie, 8 Wash. 87.

But a period of fourteen months before the expiration of the period of redemption would be a reasonable time to enable a purchaser to give notice required by the statute to secure a tax deed: Herrick v. Niesz, 16 Wash. 74.

The legislature may shorten the period of redemption from a tax sale, as long as a reasonable time is allowed after the passage of the act for redeeming from the tax: Allen v. Peterson, 38 Wash. 599.

There is no vested right, either in municipal corporations of the third or fourth class, or the citizens thereof, to have property assessed in any particular way: Heilig v. Puyallup City Council, 7 Wash. 29.

A law authorizing a reassessment for local improvements to cure defects in a former assessment may dispense with the jurisdictional requirements of the former law, so long as no constitutional right is invaded: Frederick v. Seattle, 13 Wash. 428; Tacoma Land Co. v. Tacoma, 14 Wash. 700.

An officer has no vested right to an office to which he has been elected or appointed: State ex rel. McReavy v. Burke, 8 Wash. 412.

A right to a logger's lien is a part of the laborer's contract, and is not affected by the subsequent repeal of the statute: Garneau v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 8 Wash. 467.

REMEDIES.—The right to execution and supplemental proceedings on a judgment being a vested right, it cannot be summarily cut off without the limitation of a reasonable time to avail a party thereof: Murne v. Schwabacher, 2 W. T. 130.

There being no vested rights in any particular remedy, the legislature can change the procedure for settling a statement of facts and make it applicable to pending suits: Wintermute v. Carner, 8 Wash. 585.

There is no vested right in mere procedure: State ex rel. Phinney v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 186.

While limitation laws pertain only to the remedy, a reduction of the time will not be given a retroactive effect so as to cut off rights of action that have already accrued, until lapse of the period after the enactment: Moore v. Brownfield, 7 Wash. 23; Baer v. Choir, 7 Wash. 631; McAuliff v. Parker, 10 Wash. 141.

OBLIGATION OF CONTRACTS.—The law in existence at the time of the adoption of a contract becomes a part of it: State ex rel. Phinney v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 186.

The state constitution cannot be said to impair the obligation of the enabling act, which was but a proposition, and in the case of conflict is modified: Romine v. State, 7 Wash. 215.

The obligation of a contract to furnish school books for five years, entered into by the state board of education, cannot be impaired either by subsequent legislation or by the action of any board proceeding by authority of such legislation: Rand, McNally & Co. v. Hartranft, 29 Wash. 591.

Laws of 1889-90, page 431, granting to abutting owners the preference right to purchase tide lands, was simply a privilege and not a contract creating any obligation on the part of the state: Allen v. Forest, 8 Wash. 700. See, also, State ex rel. Megler v. Forrest, 13 Wash. 268; Bartlett v. Forrest, 12 Wash. 483.

The purchaser of tide lands from the state acquires no contract right through such purchase, as to the manner in which the funds accruing from such sales shall be expended, when: See Tacoma Land Co. v. Young, 18 Wash. 495.

Where the franchise granted by a city to a water company to supply water is not exclusive, the city may subsequently erect and operate a water plant in the same territory: North Springs Water Co. v. Tacoma, 21 Wash. 517.

An unlimited franchise to a railroad company to lay its tracks in a street creates a perpetual right, which the railroad can be deprived of by the city only by the exercise of the right of eminent domain: Seattle v. Columbia etc. R. Co., 6 Wash. 379.

An ordinance granting a franchise to use city streets is in the nature of a contract, and it is not in the power of the city council to destroy rights and property thus granted by the passage of an ordinance repealing the franchise ordinance: Commercial Electric Light etc. Co. v. Tacoma, 17 Wash. 661.

A statute amending the law with reference to redemption from tax sales does not impair the obligation of any contract: Herrick v. Niesz, 16 Wash. 74.

The claim of the state against a city for a percentage of the liquor license fees collected by the city, and due under the law to the state, is a well-grounded moral or equitable obligation, although barred by the statute of limitations, and the bar may be removed by the legislature: State v. Aberdeen, 34 Wash. 61.

A county warrant is a contract to pay money with interest at the legal rate at the time issued, which cannot be impaired by a subsequent law reducing the rate of interest: Union Sav. Bank etc. v. Gelbach, 8 Wash. 497.

A law providing for the diversion of a fund out of which a warrant was to be paid in the order of its issuance is invalid as to any warrants issued prior to its passage, on the ground that it would impair the obligation of a contract: Eidemiller v. Tacoma, 14 Wash. 376.

As to validating illegal school warrants by a vote of the school district, see State ex rel. Dunn v. Dorsey, 19 Wash. 120.

A law changing the fund from which a contract liability of a city is payable from a general fund to an indebtedness fund, which latter is heavily burdened with outstanding warrants, so greatly lessens the value of the remedy as to impair the obligation of the contract: Townsend Gas etc. Co. v. Hill, 24 Wash. 469.

A law seeking to cut off all existing rights to renew or sue upon a judgment is void, as to existing judgments, as impairing the obligation thereof: Bettman v. Cowley, 19 Wash. 207; Palmer v. Laberee, 23 Wash. 409; Raught v. Lewis, 24 Wash. 47; Denio v. Benham, 24 Wash. 485; Fischer v. Kittinger, 39 Wash. 174.

Also as to a subsequent judgment, when based upon a contract made prior to the enactment of the law, as the obligation of the contract is thereby impaired: Howard v. Ross, 38 Wash. 627; Williams v. Packard, 39 Wash. 217.

But such a law does not impair the obligation of a contract as applied to existing judgments founded upon tort: Gaffney v. Jones, 39 Wash. 587.

Marriage is not a contract in the sense that the obligation thereof is affected by a legislative divorce: Maynard v. Hill, 2 W. T. 321.

A law reducing the statutory rate of interest is an impairment of the obligation of the contract: Union Sav. Bank & Trust Co. v. Gelbach, 8 Wash. 497; Burns v. Woolery, 15 Wash. 134. A law changing the rate of interest does not affect an antecedent judgment in which the rate of interest was specified: Burns v. Woolery, 15 Wash. 134.

Acts giving liens to subcontractors and materialmen notwithstanding payment to the principal contractor are valid, and do not impair the obligation of a contract: Spokane Mfg. etc. Co. v. McChesney, 1 Wash. 609. An act giving farm laborers priority over all other liens upon crops which they have assisted in raising is not unconditional as impairing the obligation of a prior mortgage in advance of the labor thereon, where such act was in force at the time of the execution of the mortgage, and must therefore have entered into and formed a part of the contract: Sitton v. Dubois, 14 Wash. 624.

An act exempting from liability for debts the proceeds or assets of life insurance policies impairs the obligation of the contract in so far as it applies to antecedent debts and policies: In re Heilbron's Estate, 14 Wash. 536.

The act of March 7, 1891, increasing certain penalties imposed upon any tenant who wrongfully continues in possession of premises after a violation on his part of the terms of a lease, is applicable to tenancies entered into before its passage: Woodward v. Winchill, 14 Wash. 394.

Where the right to a remedy which is essential to the recovery of a debt is not merely postponed, but virtually destroyed, the obligation of the contract is impaired: Bettman v. Cowley, 19 Wash. 207.

And where all remedies are taken away and none substituted: Palmer v. Laberee, 23 Wash. 409.

A legislative enactment which so far affects the remedy subsisting when and where a contract is made, as substantially to impair and lessen the value of such contract, impairs the obligation of contracts: In re Heilbron's Estate, 14 Wash. 536; Swinburne v. Mills, 17 Wash. 611.

There is a distinction between a simple remedy which the legislature may change and one which is a part of the obligation, a change in which cannot be made without lessening the value of the contract: Swinburne v. Mills, 17 Wash. 611; Canadian etc. Trust Co. v. Blake, 24 Wash. 102.

The time for commencing an action relates to the remedy only, and may be abridged by subsequent legislation where a reasonable time is allowed for commencing actions upon pre-existing causes: McQuesten v. Morrill, 12 Wash. 335; Bettman v. Cowley, 19 Wash. 207. But the period cannot be extended and the right renewed after the bar is complete: Packscher v. Fuller, 6 Wash. 534.

As to invalidity of law making substantial changes in execution sales, see Swinburne v. Mills, 17 Wash. 611; Dennis v. Moses, 18 Wash. 537.

The statute allowing a purchaser at execution sales upon a money judgment the right to possession during the period of redemption, does not impair the obligation of pre-existing contracts, entered into under a law whereby the debtor was entitled to such possession, and as to subsequent judgments on pre-existing obligations, the act does not change the remedy or affect any right: Wilson v. Wold, 21 Wash. 398.

As to invalidity of law making changes in right to possession to property sold under execution during period of redemption, see Canadian & American Mtg. & Trust Co. v. Blake, 24 Wash. 102.

RETROSPECTIVE AND EX POST FACTO LAWS.—The prohibition of the state constitution against special legislation incorporating cities and towns is prospective in its operation, and does not affect special charters: Tacoma Land Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. 482.

The constitutional prohibition against diminishing the compensation of any public officer during his term does not apply to officers who receive specific fees for specific services: State ex rel. Thurston County v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445.

A statute will not be given a retroactive construction if existing rights are thereby impaired, unless such clearly appears to be the legislative intent: Heilbron's Estate, In re, 14 Wash. 536; Moore v. Brownfield, 7 Wash. 23; Packscher v. Fuller, 6 Wash. 534.

The act of 1869, requiring notice of a wife's title to real estate to be filed and recorded in order to exempt the husband's interest therein from his debts, does not apply to lands acquired before the passage of the act: Lemon v. Waterman, 2 W. T. 485.

A statute giving a lien to materialmen or laborers, notwithstanding payment to the main contractor, is constitutional as to future transactions: Spokane Mfg. etc. Co. v. McChesney, 1 Wash. 609.

The legislature has power to enact a change in the method of the collection of taxes which were assessed and levied under a former law, as long as an adequate remedy is left: Spokane County v. Northern Pacific R. Co., 5 Wash. 89.

An act expressly limiting its effect to judgments entered subsequent to the taking effect of the law indicates an intent to make the act retroactive as to prior contracts, where the judgment was subsequently entered, and the act is void: Swinburne v. Mills, 17 Wash. 611.

Laws 1890, page 91, amending Code 1881, § 389, with respect to the exclusion of evidence of any transaction or statement by a deceased person, so as to embrace transactions with persons "deriving right or title by, through or from any deceased person," applies to transactions or statements prior to the date of the amending enactment, and is constitutional; since it merely declares a rule of evidence and relates only to the remedy, in which there is no vested right: Kenney Presbyterian Home v. Kenney, 45 Wash. 106.

A curative statute validating former acknowledgments of conveyances does not violate the constitution or affect vested rights in property: Skellinger v. Smith, 1 W. T. 369.

The passage by the legislature of a void law with the intent of legalizing attempted incorporations, or empowering them to reincorporate, cannot be construed as a legislative recognition of such municipal corporations: Denver v. Spokane Falls, 7 Wash. 226.

Acts authorizing special elections to validate void municipal indebtedness are not unconstitutional, being merely curative acts, relating only to what had been done before the enactment of the law: Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576; Hunt v. Fawcett, 8 Wash. 396.

Laws intended to authorize a municipal corporation to assume and ratify an indebtedness created by the residents of a de facto municipality are within the limits of legislative power: State ex rel. Traders' Bank v. Winter, 15 Wash. 407.

The legislature may authorize the payment of indebtedness incurred under an unconstitutional law: Lewis County v. Gordon, 20 Wash. 80; Skagit County v. McLean, 20 Wash. 92; State ex rel. Latimer v. Henry, 28 Wash. 38.

Or it may validate municipal contracts entered into by a de facto municipality: Pullman v. Hungate, 8 Wash. 519; State ex rel. Hemen v. Ballard, 16 Wash. 418; Abernethy v. Medical Lake, 9 Wash. 112.

It is within the power of the legislature to enact a statute authorizing the making of an assessment to cover the cost of work done on a public improvement under a void law: State ex rel. Latimer v. Henry, 28 Wash. 38.

A statute prescribing the qualifications of a person practicing medicine is in no sense an ex post facto law, as it does not proceed upon the idea of punishment for past acts: Fox v. Territory, 2 W. T. 297.

A law changing the mode of procedure in prosecutions for crime from an indictment to an information, does not contain any of the elements or respond to any of the accepted definitions of an ex post facto law: Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 552; State v. Hoyt, 4 Wash. 818.

The requirement that an insane person shall obtain a certificate from a physician and permit from the warden of the penitentiary before making application for release, is not unconstitutional as an ex post facto law: State ex rel. Thompson v. Snell, 49 Wash. 177.

The state cannot urge the unconstitutionality of laws as being ex post facto where a party elects to submit to the additional burdens imposed upon him thereby: State ex rel. Thompson v. Snell, 49 Wash. 177.

The law changing the mode of procedure from an indictment to an information does not constitute it an ex post facto law, nor violate any of the guaranties of the federal constitution: Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 552; State v. Hoyt, 4 Wash. 818; compare McCarty v. State, 1 Wash. 377; see notes to Art. I, §§ 2, 23.

§ 24. RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS.—The right of the individual citizen to bear arms in defense of himself or the state shall not be impaired, but nothing in this section shall be construed as authorizing individuals or corporations to organize, maintain, or employ an armed body of men.

A person accused of grand larceny, committed prior to the admission of the state into the Union, is entitled to the guaranty of the United States constitution of presentment by a grand jury, and cannot be prosecuted therefor by information, under the provisions of the state constitution: McCarty v. State, 1 Wash. 377; State v. Holmes, 9 Wash. 528.

Infamous crimes may be prosecuted in this state by information, as the constitution of the United States does not assume to regulate prosecutions under state laws: Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 552; State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 506; State v. Baldwin, 15 Wash. 15; State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499; State v. Williamson, 13 Wash. 336.

This section does not require an information or indictment against one charged with assault and battery in a municipal court or that of a justice of the peace, as the offense was within the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace before the adoption of the constitution: State v. Gleason, 15 Wash. 509.

§ 26. GRAND JURY.—No grand jury shall be drawn or summoned in any county, except the superior judge thereof shall so order.

Cited in 2 Wash. 555.

§ 27. TREASON, DEFINED, ETC.—Treason against the state shall consist only in levying war against the state, or adhering to its enemies, or in giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or confession in open court.

§ 29. CONSTITUTION MANDATORY.—The provisions of this constitution are mandatory, unless by express words they are declared to be otherwise.

Cited in 11 Wash. 437; 25 Wash. 265; 46 Wash. 274.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 513-516, §§ 2-24.

The mandatory provisions of the constitution are addressed to the respective departments called upon to perform the same, and one department cannot coerce another into obedience thereto: State ex rel. Reed v. Jones, 6 Wash. 452. See Nelson v. Troy, 14 Wash. 435.

In construing the provisions of the constitution, no importance can be attached to the debates of the constitutional convention as showing the intention, as there is no record of such debates, and they would not express the intention of the whole convention, or of the people voting upon the adoption of the constitution: State ex rel. School District No. 24 v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 270.

The constitution is to receive a liberal construction: State ex rel. Snell v. Warner, 4 Wash. 773; State ex rel. Chamberlain v. Daniel, 17 Wash. 111.

Single provisions are to be read in connection with other clauses taken as a whole: State ex rel. Chamberlain v. Daniel, 17 Wash. 111.

Upon a conflict, the state constitution must control the enabling act, the latter being but a proposition which was accepted by the people as modified by the constitution: Romine v. State, 7 Wash. 215.

The courts should not declare a law repugnant to the constitution without a strong conviction, divested of a reasonable doubt: Ah Lim v. Territory, 1 Wash. 156. Nor unless clearly violating some express provision of the constitution: Board of Directors Middle etc. Dist. v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 147; Bellingham Bay Imp. Co. v. New Whatcom, 20 Wash. 53; State ex rel. Murphy v. McBride, 29 Wash. 335. Where doubt exists, the law is sustained: State ex rel. School Dist. No. 24 v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 270. Before the judiciary will declare an act of the legislature invalid on the ground that it is in conflict with the constitution such conflict must be shown to be clear and unquestionable and every intendment must be given force in favor of the constitutionality of the law: Reeves v. Anderson, 13 Wash. 17; Nelson v. Troy, 11 Wash. 435.

§ 30. RIGHTS RESERVED.—The enumeration in this constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny others retained by the people.

§ 1. LEGISLATIVE POWERS, WHERE VESTED.—The legislative powers shall be vested in a senate and house of representatives, which shall be called the legislature of the state of Washington.

See Art. IV, § 1, notes.

The legislature has power to change the law of descent as to community lands and make the same applicable to lands previously acquired: Mabie v. Whittaker, 10 Wash. 656.

The constitution does not restrict the legislature to the special powers delegated to it, but the legislative power extends to a subject unless there is an express or implied restriction thereon in the constitution: State v. Clark, 30 Wash. 439.

LEGISLATIVE POWERS AND DELEGATION THEREOF.—The legislative department is not in any sense an inferior department, but the executive, legislative and judicial departments are equal; no one of them is responsible to either of the others for its acts, but is responsible only to the people whom it represents: State ex rel. Reed v. Jones, 6 Wash. 452. Legacies and inheritances are natural subjects of legislative control in the absence of constitutional inhibition: State v. Clark, 30 Wash. 439.

Authority may be conferred upon the trustees of the reform school to decide when a child committed to the school by the courts shall be returned to the court for discharge or sentence upon his conviction: Mason, In re, 3 Wash. 609.

A statute authorizing the creation of a municipal corporation by a judicial court, upon petition of a majority of the inhabitants of the territory to be incorporated, is unconstitutional, as delegating legislative functions to the court: Territory ex rel. Kelly v. Stewart, 1 Wash. 98. It is not an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power to provide for the examination and licensing, by a state board of examiners, of physicians or dentists: In re Thompson, 36 Wash. 377. The drainage act (Bal. Code, § 3726; Laws 1895, p. 251, § 12), requiring the superior court to find that a proposed ditch is practicable and conducive to the public health and will increase the value of the lands, is not unconstitutional as a delegation of legislative authority; since the court does not originate or devise the system or plan, but simply approves those proposed by the county commissioners: State ex rel. Matson v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 491.

Laws authorizing election precincts to regulate the sale of liquor are unconstitutional as a delegation of legislative authority: Lessman v. Territory, 3 W. T. 452; Thornton v. Territory, 3 W. T. 482.

Authority to county boards to employ assistants and deputies for the county officers at the expense of their respective counties imposes administrative duties, and is not an unlawful delegation of legislative power: Nelson v. Troy, 11 Wash. 435. The same is true of the appointment of road supervisors by the county commissioners: State ex rel. Griffith v. Newland, 37 Wash. 428. And the same is true of the statute creating a state capital commission and investing it with power to erect a building and to do whatever is necessary to accomplish the object: State ex rel. Attorney General v. McGraw, 13 Wash. 311.

The act granting cities of the first class power to frame their own charters is not an unlawful delegation of legislative power: Reeves v. Anderson, 13 Wash. 17.

A law authorizing the adoption of charter amendments requiring the submission of the matter of granting franchises to a vote of the people is not unconstitutional as an unlawful delegation of legislative power to the people: Hindman v. Boyd, 42 Wash. 17.

Legislature cannot delegate to cities power to create inferior courts: In re Clougherty, 2 Wash. 137. The constitutional authority to frame a freeholders' charter does not authorize a city to exercise the power of eminent domain: Tacoma v. State, 4 Wash. 64. Nor to extend municipal boundaries: State ex rel. Snell v. Warner, 4 Wash. 773. Nor to require registration at city elections: Seymour v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 138. Nor to provide a tribunal and clothe it with authority to determine an election contest: State ex rel. Fawcett v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 604.

Legislature not having power to pass laws partaking of the character of special legislation, it cannot delegate such power to a city council: Tacoma v. Kreech, 15 Wash. 296. The power to vacate streets may be delegated to municipal corporations: Ponischil v. Hoquiam Sash and Door Co., 41 Wash. 303.

An act making it a misdemeanor for anyone except authorized agents of a railroad company to sell railroad tickets, and requiring companies to commission their agents, is not unconstitutional as delegating to the companies the power to say who are guilty of the offense by issuing or withholding the authority: In re O'Neill, 41 Wash. 174.

POLICE POWER.—The discretion of the legislature cannot be limited upon a proper subject for its control by the exercise of the police power: Ah Lim v. Territory, 1 Wash. 156.

Its authority is supreme to determine what is immoral, unless it is clearly partial, arbitrary and oppressive: State v. Considine, 16 Wash. 358.

The police power in its broadest acceptation means the general power of the state to preserve and promote the public welfare: Karasek v. Peier, 22 Wash. 419.

§ 2. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATE.—The house of representatives shall be composed of not less than sixty-three nor more than ninety-nine members. The number of senators shall not be more than one-half nor less than one-third of the number of members of the house of representatives. The first legislature shall be composed of seventy members of the house of representatives and thirty-five senators.

§ 3. THE CENSUS.—The legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of the state in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, and every ten years thereafter; and at the first session after such enumeration, and also after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall apportion and district anew the members of the senate and house of representatives, according to the number of inhabitants, excluding Indians not taxed, soldiers, sailors, and officers of the United States army and navy in active service.

Wis., IV, 3; N. Y., Rev., III, 4, Amend. Cited in 15 Wash. 50.

§ 4. ELECTION OF REPRESENTATIVES AND TERM OF OFFICE.—Members of the house of representatives shall be elected in the year eighteen hundred and eighty-nine at the time and in the manner provided by this constitution, and shall hold their offices for the term of one year and until their successors shall be elected.

Cited in 49 Wash. 72.

§ 5. ELECTIONS, WHEN TO BE HELD.—The next election of the members of the house of representatives after the adoption of this constitution shall be on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, eighteen hundred and ninety, and thereafter members of the house of representatives shall be elected biennially, and their term of office shall be two years; and each election shall be on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, unless otherwise changed by law.

§ 6. ELECTION AND TERM OF OFFICE OF SENATORS.—After the first election the senators shall be elected by single districts of convenient and contiguous territory at the same time and in the same manner as members of the house of representatives are required to be elected, and no representative district shall be divided in the formation of a senatorial district. They shall be elected for the term of four years, one-half of their number retiring every two years. The senatorial districts shall be numbered consecutively, and the senators chosen at the first election had by virtue of this constitution, in odd-numbered districts, shall go out of office at the end of the first year, and the senators elected in the even-numbered districts shall go out of office at the end of the third year.

§ 7. QUALIFICATIONS OF LEGISLATORS.—No person shall be eligible to the legislature who shall not be a citizen of the United States and a qualified voter in the district for which he is chosen.

§ 8. JUDGES OF THEIR OWN ELECTION AND QUALIFICATION—QUORUM.—Each house shall be the judge of the election, returns, and qualifications of its own members,¹ and a majority of each house shall constitute a quorum to do business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day and may compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.²

§ 11. JOURNAL, PUBLICITY OF MEETINGS—ADJOURNMENTS.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings and publish the same.¹ except such parts as require secrecy. The doors of each house shall be kept open, except when the public welfare shall require secrecy. Neither house shall adjourn for more than three days, nor to any place other than that in which they may be sitting, without the consent of the other.

§ 12. SESSIONS, WHEN—DURATION.—The first legislature shall meet on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1889. The second legislature shall meet on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in January, A. D. 1891, and sessions of the legislature shall be held biennially thereafter, unless specially convened by the governor, but the times of meeting of subsequent sessions may be changed by the legislature. After the first legislature the sessions shall not be more than sixty days.

The object of the requirement that the subject of an act shall be expressed in its title is, that no person may be deceived as to what matters are being legislated upon: Seymour v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 138, 148; as the constitution has not indicated the degree of particularity necessary to express in its title the subject of an act, technical interpretations should not prevail, but the objection should be grave and the conflict palpable: Id., 149; see Marston v. Humes, 3 Wash. 267.

It is not necessary to the validity of a penal statute that it declare in its title the purpose for which it was enacted: Ah Lim v. Territory, 1 Wash. 156, 165.

If the title of an act relates only to proceedings by information, a section of the act dispensing with grand juries, unless ordered by the judge, is properly within the title, and does not bring another subject into the act: In re Rafferty, 1 Wash. 382; see Art. 1, § 26.

A provision in an act giving any person losing money at gaming a cause of action to recover from the dealer or winner is fairly embraced within the title of the act, which reads "An act to prevent and punish gaming": Maling v. Crummey, 5 Wash. 222.

The title of the act (Laws 1890, p. 131) relating to "incorporation" of cities and towns is broad enough to include the sections of the act providing for enlargement and consolidation: King Co. v. Davies, 1 Wash. 290.

The provisions of the act (Laws 1890, p. 520) authorizing cities to purchase waterworks, etc., is sufficiently expressed in the title: Seymour v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 138.

So also the provisions of the act authorizing the consolidation of municipal corporations (Laws 1890, p. 138): State v. New Whatcom, 3 Wash. 7.

The title of the act of March 26, 1890 (Laws 1890, p. 520) is not invalid on the ground that the subject is not expressed in the title: Yesler v. Seattle, 1 Wash. 308.

The subject matter of the act amending § 109, Code of 1881, is included within the title of "An act relating to pleadings in civil actions, and amending §§ 76, 77 and 109 of the Code of Washington of 1881": Marston v. Humes, 3 Wash. 267; but see Heilig v. Puyallup, 7 Wash. 29, 32; compare Harland v. Territory, 3 W. T. 131; Speck v. Gray, 14 Wash. 589; State v. Halbert, 14 Wash. 306; distinguished in State v. Halbert, 14 Wash. 308.

The act (Laws 1890, p. 51) providing for the extending the issuing of bonds, regardless of population, to five per cent of its taxable property to be taken from the last assessment for city purposes: Held, that the title embraced but one subject, and such provisions were within the title and valid though the remainder of the act might be unconstitutional: Van Houten v. Routhe, 1 Wash. 306.

The act (Laws 1890, p. 249) creating a mining bureau and defining its powers does not authorize the mining bureau either to direct or superintend a geological or mineralogical survey of the state, nor disburse moneys appropriated for such purposes; if it had attempted to so enlarge them it would have been in contravention of this section of the constitution: Parrish v. Reed, 2 Wash. 491, 494.

The act (Laws 1890, p. 225) empowering cities and towns organized prior to the adoption of the constitution to extend their credit and fund their indebtedness, and validate existing indebtedness, is not unconstitutional under this section: Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 577.

The law of 1893, page 407, being an act to provide for the manner of commencing civil actions in the superior court, and bringing the same to trial, does not violate this section: McMaster v. Thresher Co., 10 Wash. 147.

The act of February 2, 1888, entitled "an act to regulate, restrain or prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors," does not contravene the provisions of the organic act (§ 1924): State v. Spokane Falls, 2 Wash. 40.

The title being "An act to secure to the owners of livestock payment of the full value of all animals killed or maimed by railroad trains," and providing a liability for all animals killed or maimed where roads are not fenced: Held, to embrace but one object, which was expressed in the title: O. R. & N. Co. v. Smalley, 1 Wash. 206, 209.

If the title of an act is comprehensive enough to embrace all of its provisions, when the act is construed as a whole, the fact that certain sections are held unconstitutional will not necessarily render the remainder unconstitutional on the ground that the title of the act is not broad enough to include the same: Jolliffe v. Brown, 14 Wash. 155; see Van Houten v. Routhe, 1 Wash. 306.

An act of the legislature will not be declared void on the ground of violating this section unless the violation is most clear—sound policy and legislative convenience requiring that this provision should be liberally construed: Lancey v. King Co., 15 Wash. 9.

The act of Feb. 12, 1895 (§ 5629 et seq., this code), entitled "An act to grant and prescribe powers of counties relative to public works undertaken or proposed by the state of Washington, or the United States," contains but one subject matter, which is fairly embraced within the scope of its title: Id.

The subject matter of the act of March 19, 1895, page 176, providing for the election of superior court judges by newly established districts is sufficiently embraced in the title reciting that it is "an act in relation to superior courts and the election of superior court judges": State v. Rusk, 15 Wash. 403.

The title of an act (Laws 1895, p. 451), showing that its object is to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts and the sale of bonds arising therefrom is not broad enough to embrace a provision in the act for validating the indebtedness of a district previously organized and the levying of a tax to pay the same: Percival v. Cowychee etc. Dist., 15 Wash. 480; see Marston v. Humes, 3 Wash. 267; In re Rafferty, 1 Wash. 382.

This provision must be liberally construed: Dacres v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 1 Wash. 525; Lancey v. King County, 15 Wash. 9.

Acts relating to one or more subjects: Clarke County v. Brazee, 1 W. T. 199; In re Rafferty, 1 Wash. 382; State v. Spokane Falls, 2 Wash. 40; Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576; McMaster v. Advance Thresher Co., 10 Wash. 147; Bettman v. Cowley, 19 Wash. 207; Bogue v. Seattle, 19 Wash. 396; Merritt v. Corey, 22 Wash. 444; State v. Hall, 24 Wash. 255, 64 Pac. 153; Jensen-King-Byrd Co. v. Williams, 35 Wash. 161; Seattle & Lake Wash. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 35 Wash. 503; Weed v. Goodwin, 36 Wash. 31; State ex rel. Nettleton v. Case, 39 Wash. 177; State v. Packenham, 40 Wash. 403; State v. Moran, 46 Wash. 596.

Expression in title of subject of act in general: Baker v. Prewett, 3 W. T. 474; Ah Lim v. Territory, 1 Wash. 156; State v. Ames, 47 Wash. 328; State v. Winsor, 50 Wash. 508; State ex rel. Wolfe v. Parmenter, 50 Wash. 164.

The purpose of the title is only to call attention to the subject matter, and the act must be looked to for full description: Marston v. Humes, 3 Wash. 267; Lancey v. King County, 15 Wash. 9; Seattle v. Barto, 31 Wash. 141; State v. Fraternal Knights and Ladies, 35 Wash. 338.

The title of an act is sufficient if the object is fairly embraced therein: Baker v. Prewett, 3 W. T. 474; Marston v. Humes, 3 Wash. 267; State ex rel. Dustin v. Rusk, 15 Wash. 403; Percival v. Cowychee & Wide Hollow Irr. Dist., 15 Wash. 480; State ex rel. American Sav. Union v. Whittlesey, 17 Wash. 447; Karasek v. Peier, 22 Wash. 419; Hathaway v. McDonald, 27 Wash. 659; Seymour v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 138.

The object of this section is to secure protection and enlightenment of the members of the legislature and to give fair notice of the purpose of the bill: State ex rel. Potter v. King County, 49 Wash. 619.

The organic act of the territory of Oregon authorized a special act of the legislature divorcing parties from the bonds of matrimony: Maynard v. Hill, 2 W. T. 321.

The marriage relation being a status, rather than a contract, its dissolution by the legislature is not the impairment of the obligation of a contract: Id.; see Maynard v. Valentine, 2 W. T. 1.

This section is mandatory and self-executing: Seattle v. Chin Let, 19 Wash. 38.

§ 25. EXTRA COMPENSATION, PROHIBITED.—The legislature shall never grant any extra compensation to any public officer, agent, servant, or contractor after the services shall have been rendered or the contract entered into, nor shall the compensation of any public officer be increased or diminished during his term of office.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2181, §§ 43, 44.

The prohibition found in this section does not apply to officers who receive specific fees for specific services, hence, the fees of justices and constables may be reduced by a law passed subsequent to their election and qualification: State v. Grimes, ex rel. Thurston County, 7 Wash. 445.

A legislative act which provides that the county treasurer shall be charged with the duty of assessing and collecting city taxes, and that the city shall pay him therefor the sum of five hundred dollars per year, does not violate this section: State v. Carson, 6 Wash. 250. See Rhode v. Seavey, 4 Wash. 91, question as to justices' of the peace salaries in cities over five thousand inhabitants raised, but not decided.

Attorneys' fees paid by delinquent taxpayers upon collections made by county attorneys under Laws of 1891, page 321, § 105, cannot be allowed as extra compensation under this section: Spokane County v. Allen, 9 Wash. 229, 232; affirming and distinguishing State v. Carson, 6 Wash. 250.

The legislature has no power to grant extra compensation to employees of the legislature, where no services in addition to their regular duties were rendered; but extra compensation can be granted to clerks for services additional to their regular duties: State ex rel. Eshelman v. Cheetham, 21 Wash. 437. And the restriction applies as well to either branch as to both branches of the legislature: Id.

Allowing a policeman witness fees, although he draws a regular salary, does not fall within the inhibition of this section or § 8 of Art. XI: State v. Saillard, 22 Wash. 267.

The state treasurer is not entitled to compensation in addition to his salary for services in disposing of the securities deposited with him by a foreign insurance company as trustee for the policy holders: Young v. Millett, 19 Wash. 486.

As to members of a city council, see Tacoma v. Lillis, 4 Wash. 797; James v. Seattle, 22 Wash. 654.

Where the commissioner of public lands, an office created by the constitution, was elected for the term of four years, and served for two years drawing a salary under the general appropriation acts, which for ten years theretofore allowed a salary of $2,000 per annum, his salary cannot be increased during his term by a general act fixing his compensation at $3,000, even if the same were the first general act fixing his salary: State ex rel. Ross v. Clausen, 47 Wash. 607.

Laws 1907, changing the title of county surveyor to county engineer and changing the compensation from $5 per day for the time employed to a fixed salary per year, violates the provisions of this section and of § 8, Art. XI, prohibiting such increase, etc., of the "salary" of "county officers" under like circumstances, as the two provisions must be construed together: State ex rel. Funke v. Board of Commrs. of Pierce County, 48 Wash. 461.

A law requiring the city council in cities of the third class to sit as a board of equalization, for which they may receive compensation, merely imposes a special duty, and the repeal of such law does not violate the provisions of this section: Heilig v. Puyallup City Council, 7 Wash. 29.

The allowance of a deputy to a county officer does not violate the provisions of this section as to increasing compensation of an officer during his term: Nelson v. Troy, 11 Wash. 435.

§ 26. SUITS AGAINST THE STATE.—The legislature shall direct by law in what manner and in what courts suits may be brought against the state.

This section was intended to permit actions against the state in like manner as against individuals: Northwestern & Pacific Hypotheek Bank v. State, 18 Wash. 73.

The word "claim," used in the statute directing how suits may be brought against the state, must be held to mean cause of action: Northwestern & Pac. Hypotheek

Bank v. State, 18 Wash. 73. A statute permitting suits to be brought against a state does not of itself subject the state to a liability that did not exist before: Billings v. State, 27 Wash. 288.

Conditions precedent to action against state: See Nye v. Kelly, 19 Wash. 73.

The state auditor cannot plead an offset in favor of the state against a county when mandamus at the suit of the county to issue warrants for the amount of school funds duly apportioned to the county: State ex rel. Tanner v. Cheetham, 23 Wash. 666.

§ 27. ELECTIONS—VIVA VOCE VOTE.—In all elections by the legislature the members shall vote viva voce, and their votes shall be entered on the journal.

Cal., IV, 28; Ia., III, 38; Minn., IV, 30; Neb., III, 8; N. C., II, 9; Tenn., IV, 4; Wis., IV, 30.

§ 28. SPECIAL LEGISLATION.—The legislature is prohibited from enacting any private or special laws in the following cases:—

1. For changing the names of persons, or constituting one person the heir at law of another.

2. For laying out, opening, or altering highways, except in cases of state roads extending into more than one county, and military roads to aid in the construction of which lands shall have been or may be granted by congress.

3. For authorizing persons to keep ferries wholly within this state.

4. For authorizing the sale or mortgage of real or personal property of minors, or others under disability.

5. For assessment or collection of taxes,^a or for extending the time for collection thereof.^b

6. For granting corporate powers or privileges.

8. For incorporating any town or village, or to amend the charter thereof.

9. From giving effect to invalid deeds, wills, or other instruments.

10. Releasing or extinguishing, in whole or in part, the indebtedness, liability, or other obligation of any person or corporation to this state, or to any municipal corporation therein.

11. Declaring any person of age, or authorizing any minor to sell, lease, or encumber his or her property.

12. Legalizing, except as against the state, the unauthorized or invalid act of any officer.

13. Regulating the rate of interest on money.

14. Remitting fines, penalties, or forfeitures.

15. Providing for the management of common schools.

16. Authorizing the adoption of children.

SPECIAL MUNICIPAL CHARTERS.—The constitutional prohibition against special legislation incorporating cities and towns is purely prospective in its operation and does not affect existing special charters: Tacoma Land Co. v. Pierce Co., 1 Wash. 482; see State v. New Whatcom, 3 Wash. 7.

The contention that by the terms of the act under which Dist. No. 10 was incorporated a different and better system of education was provided for cities than was enjoyed by the rest of the state, amounting to special legislation, will not be sustained: Holmes & Bull F. Co. v. Hedges, 13 Wash. 696, 707.

The special act of the territorial legislature, Laws of 1869, page 437, incorporating the city of Seattle, does not come within the prohibition of the organic law (Rev. Stats. U. S., sec. 1889) against granting private charters or special privileges, as such act of incorporation is the grant of a public charter: Alger v. Hill, 2 Wash. 344. See Seattle v. Yesler, 1 W. T. 571.

Laws of 1890, page 135, § 6, providing for the organization, classification, incorporation and government of municipal corporations, violates the constitutional inhibition against creating municipal corporations by special laws: Denver v. Spokane Falls, 7 Wash. 226.

A law is not necessarily a general law merely because it applies to all communities in the state similarly situated: Denver v. Spokane Falls, 7 Wash. 226.

As to regulation of government and affairs of counties, towns and municipalities, see Newman v. North Yakima, 7 Wash. 220.

Laws of 1903, page 209, chapter 115, appropriating certain sums for the construction of armories in three specified cities, violates the provisions of subdivision 6 of this section: Terry v. King County, 43 Wash. 61.

A law conferring the right of eminent domain upon boom companies does not violate subdivision 6 of this section: North River Boom Co. v. Smith, 15 Wash. 138.

The drainage act of 1895, page 143, granting the power of eminent domain, applying alike to all lands and persons similarly situated, is not special legislation: Lewis County v. Gordon, 20 Wash. 80; Skagit County v. McLean, 20 Wash. 92.

A law authorizing the validation of invalid warrants of a city is not special legislation, but is a curative act, applicable only to what has been done before the date of the act: Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576; Hunt v. Fawcett, 8 Wash. 396. And so, of a law authorizing a municipal corporation to assume and ratify an indebtedness created by the residents of a de facto municipality: State ex rel. Traders' Bank v. Winter, 15 Wash. 407. And the legislature may authorize the payment of an indebtedness incurred under an unconstitutional law: Lewis County v. Gordon, 20 Wash. 80; Skagit County v. McLean, 20 Wash. 92; State ex rel. Lattimer v. Henry, 28 Wash. 38. Or the legislature may validate municipal contracts entered into by a de facto municipality: Pullman v. Hungate, 8 Wash. 519; State ex rel. Hemen v. Ballard, 16 Wash. 418; Abernethy v. Medical Lake, 9 Wash. 112.

§ 29. CONVICT LABOR.—After the first day of January, eighteen hundred and ninety, the labor of convicts of this state shall not be let out by contract to any person, copartnership, company, or corporation, and the legislature shall by law provide for the working of convicts for the benefit of the state.

Cal., X, 6; cf. Mont., XVIII, 2.

§ 30. BRIBERY OR CORRUPT SOLICITATION.—The offense of corrupt solicitation of members of the legislature, or of public officers of the state or any municipal division thereof, and any occupation or practice of solicitation of such members or officers to influence their official action, shall be defined by law, and shall be punished by fine and imprisonment. Any person may be compelled to testify in any lawful investigation or judicial proceeding against any person who may be charged with having committed the offense of bribery or corrupt solicitation, or practice of solicitation, and shall not be permitted to withhold his testimony on the ground that it may criminate himself or subject him to public infamy, but such testimony shall not afterwards be used against him in any judicial proceeding, except for perjury in giving testimony; and any person convicted of either of the offenses aforesaid shall, as part of the punishment therefor, be disqualified from ever holding any position of honor, trust, or profit in this state. A member who has a private interest in any bill or measure proposed or pending before the legislature shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon.

Cf. Ala., IV, 40-42; Ark., V, 35; Cal., IV, 35; Colo., V, 40-42; Mont., V, 41-42; N. Dak., II, 40; N. Y., Rev., XIII, 2, 3, 4; Pa., III, 29-32; S. Dak., III, 28; Tex., XVI, 41; Wy., III, 42-46.

Private interest: Ala., IV, 43; La., 50; N. Dak., II, 43; Mont., V, 44; Pa., IV, 33; Wy., III, 46.

§ 31. LAWS, WHEN TO TAKE EFFECT.—No law, except appropriation bills, shall take effect until ninety days after the adjournment of the session at which it was enacted, unless in case of any emergency (which emergency must be expressed in the preamble or in the body of the act) the legislature shall otherwise direct by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each house; said vote to be taken by yeas and nays and entered on the journals.

Cf. Colo., V, 19; Fla., III, 18; Ill., IV, 13; Ind., IV, 28; Ia., III, 22; Ky., 55; Mo., IV, 36; N. Dak., XI, 67; S. Dak., III, 22.

Cited in 24 Wash. 419; 25 Wash. 612.

If two conflicting acts passed at the same session cannot be harmonized, and one contains an emergency clause and the other does not, the one containing the emergency clause must be taken to overcome the other: Heilig v. Puyallup City Council, 7 Wash. 29.

Where an act passed two years previously is amended in various particulars, and by adding another section which provided that "an emergency exists and this act shall take effect immediately," the emergency clause has reference to the amendatory act and not to the original act, which accordingly takes effect upon approval: State ex rel. Oregon R. & Navigation Co. v. Railroad Commission, 52 Wash. 17.

§ 32. LAWS, HOW SIGNED.—No bill shall become a law until the same shall have been signed by the presiding officer of each of the two houses in open session, and under such rules as the legislature shall prescribe.

Ill., IV, 13; Ia., III, 15; Mont., V, 27; Neb., III, 2.

An enrolled bill properly certified is conclusive, and courts cannot inquire into the proceedings before its passage: State ex rel. Reed v. Jones, 6 Wash. 452. Distinguished in Scouten v. Whatcom, 33 Wash. 280, allowing the enrolled bill to be impeached to determine the legislative intent when there was an ambiguity. If it appears from the history of the act that a clause repealing a former act was included through inadvertence, such clause will be held qualified by the intention of the legislature as manifested in other parts of the same act: Howlett v. Cheetham, 17 Wash. 626.

§ 33. OWNERSHIP OF LANDS BY ALIENS, PROHIBITED—EXCEPTIONS.—The ownership of lands by aliens, other than those who in good faith have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, is prohibited in this state, except where acquired by inheritance, under mortgage or in good faith in the ordinary course of justice in the collection of debts; and all conveyances of lands hereafter made to any alien directly, or in trust for such alien, shall be void: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to lands containing valuable deposits of minerals, metals, iron, coal, or fire clay, and the necessary land for mills and machinery to be used in the development thereof and the manufacture of the products therefrom. Every corporation, the majority of the capital stock of which is owned by aliens, shall be considered an alien for the purposes of this prohibition.

Cited in 16 Wash. 167; 16 Wash. 172; 16 Wash. 375; 18 Wash. 664; 19 Wash. 85; 29 Wash. 230; 33 Wash. 546; 45 Wash. 340; 46 Wash. 105; 46 Wash. 221.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 58, 59, §§ 3, 4.

A lease of lands for ninety-nine years is within the prohibition against alien ownership: State ex rel. Winston v. Morrison, 18 Wash. 664. So is a lease for forty-five years to a corporation upon the majority of its stock being conveyed to aliens: State ex rel. Winston v. Hudson Land Co., 19 Wash. 85. But a deed to an alien of mortgaged lands in satisfaction of a bona fide mortgage debt is not void: Oregon Mortgage Co. v. Carstens, 16 Wash. 165. The inhibition against alien ownership of lands applies to the acquisition of a right of way for a water flume under the condemnation laws by a corporation the majority of whose stock is held by aliens: State ex rel. Morrell v. Superior Court, 33 Wash. 542. But the inhibition in this section places no restriction upon the granting of fishing licenses to such a corporation:

See Hastings v. Anacortes P. Co., 29 Wash. 224. An alien can acquire land in this state containing deposits of limestone, silica and silicated rock, such deposits being minerals within the meaning of this section, and not to be restricted by the words "metals, iron, coal or fireclay": State ex rel. Atkinson v. Evans, 46 Wash. 219.

A deed to an alien will pass a title good against all the world except the state, and one which can only be attacked by a direct proceeding on the part of the state: Oregon Mortgage Co. v. Carstens, 16 Wash. 165; Goon Gans v. Richardson, 16 Wash. 373. One who conveys land to an alien has no right to the property on the theory that the deed is void under this section, since the deed is void as against the state only, which alone can raise objections against the alien ownership of real property: Abrahams v. State, 45 Wash. 327. In eminent domain proceedings the objection may be raised by the owner of the land: State ex rel. Morrell v. Superior Court, 33 Wash. 542.

§ 34. BUREAU OF STATISTICS, AGRICULTURE AND IMMIGRATION.—There shall be established in the office of the secretary of state a bureau of statistics, agriculture, and immigration, under such regulations as the legislature may provide.

§ 35. PROTECTION OF EMPLOYEES.—The legislature shall pass necessary laws for the protection of persons working in mines, factories, and other employments dangerous to life or deleterious to health, and fix pains and penalties for the enforcement of the same.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 522, 523, §§ 44-51.

Restricting the hours of labor of females in certain occupations is a legitimate exercise of the police power of the state, in behalf of the welfare of society at large: State v. Buchanan, 29 Wash. 602.

A law forbidding the employment of females in places where intoxicating liquors are sold as a beverage is a prohibition on contracts against good morals and clearly within legislative power: State v. Conside, 16 Wash. 358.

The enactment of Sunday laws requiring the cessation of labor on the score of the physical and moral well-being of society is an appropriate exercise of the police power of the state: State v. Nichols, 28 Wash. 628.

Prohibiting the use of opium is a valid exercise of the police power: Ah Lim v. Territory, 1 Wash. 156.

Laws enacted for the promotion of health are a proper exercise of the police power: State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424; Hathaway v. McDonald, 27 Wash. 659; State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191; In re Thompson, 36 Wash. 377.

§ 36. WHEN BILLS MUST BE INTRODUCED.—No bill shall be considered in either house unless the time of its introduction shall have been at least ten days before the final adjournment of the legislature, unless the legislature shall otherwise direct by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each house, said vote to be taken by yeas and nays and entered upon the journal, or unless the same be at a special session.

Cf. Ark., V, 34; Colo., V, 19; Md., III, 27; Mich., IV, 28; and Tex. III, 37; Wy., III, 22.

§ 37. REVISION OR AMENDMENT.—No act shall ever be revised or amended by mere reference to its title, but the act revised or the section amended shall be set forth at full length.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2621, §§ 33-36.

A repealed law is incapable of amendment: Howlett v. Cheetham, 19 Wash. 626.

Setting forth provision as altered or amended: Bierer v. Blurock, 9 Wash. 63; State ex rel. Redpath v. Caldwell, 9 Wash. 336; Copland v. Pirie, 26 Wash. 481; State v. Scott, 32 Wash. 279; In re Dietrich, 32 Wash. 471; State v. Lawson, 455.

Implied amendment: State ex rel. Redpath v. Caldwell, 9 Wash. 336; Dexter v. Olsen, 40 Wash. 199.

Invalidity of amendatory act as affecting act amended: Poncin v. Furth, 15 Wash. 201; State ex rel. Zent v. Nichols, 50 Wash. 508.

Repeal and revival of acts: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2622-2628, §§ 37-52; Howlett v. Cheetham, 17 Wash. 626; Pierce v. Commercial Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 272.

General repeal of inconsistent acts and provisions: State v. Carson, 6 Wash. 250; Baer v. Choir, 7 Wash. 631; McMaster v. Advance Thresher Co., 10 Wash. 147; Tacoma School District v. Hedges, 13 Wash. 69; State v. Allen, 14 Wash. 103; Stetson-Post Mill Co. v. Brown, 21 Wash. 619.

The primary election law does not violate this section; since the constitution was not intended to prevent the enactment of statutes complete in themselves which repealed or amended existing statutes, without setting forth the repealed statutes: State ex rel. Zent v. Nichols, 50 Wash. 508. So, also, of the drainage act, Laws 1903, page 90; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Pierce County, 51 Wash. 12.

Repeals by implication are not favored: Meade v. French, 4 Wash. 11; State ex rel. Purves v. Moyer, 17 Wash. 643; State v. Binnard, 21 Wash. 349; Leavenworth v. Billings, 26 Wash. 1; Callvert v. Winsor, 26 Wash. 368.

The later of two repugnant sections upon the same subject impliedly repeals earlier sections: Graetz v. McKenzie, 3 Wash. 194; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Ellison, 3 Wash. 225; Dahl v. Tibbals, 5 Wash. 259; Philbrick v. Andrews, 8 Wash. 7; Pierce v. Commercial Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 272. See, also, Mansfield v. First Nat. Bank, 5 Wash. 665; *Baum v. Repeal of special by general act: Cascades R. R. Co. v. Sohns, 1 W. T. 557; Callvert v. Winsor, 26 Wash. 368; Tacoma Land Co. v. Pierce County, 1 Wash. 482.

A special act may be impliedly repealed by a general act, where the intention of the legislature to so repeal plainly appears: Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Haas, 2 Wash. 376; State ex rel. Whatecom County v. Purdy, 14 Wash. 343; Stetson-Post Mill Co. v. Brown, 21 Wash. 619. See, also, Meade v. French, 4 Wash. 11; Seattle & Montana Ry. Co.

A special act will not repeal a general law unless it expressly so declares, or unless it is in necessary conflict with the general law: Corbett v. Territory, 1 W. T. 431.

Repeal by amendatory act: State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 218; State ex rel. Redpath v. Caldwell, 9 Wash. 336; Mudgett v.

As to implied repeal by revision or codification, see State ex rel. Christie v. Meek, 26 Wash. 405. Nonuser of a statute will not affect its abrogation, unless its obsolescence is in some way recognized by subsequent legislation: State ex rel. Christie v. Meek, 26 Wash. 405.

Re-enactment or revival of act repealed: King County v. Neely, 1 W. T. 241; Emigh v. State Ins. Co., 3 Wash. 122; Cochrane v. King County, 12 Wash. 518.

§ 38. LIMITATION ON AMENDMENTS.—No amendment to any bill shall be allowed which shall change the scope and object of the bill.

§ 39. FREE TRANSPORTATION TO PUBLIC OFFICERS PROHIBITED.—It shall not be lawful for any person holding public office in this state to accept or use a pass or to purchase transportation from any railroad or other corporation, other than as the same may be purchased by the general public, and the legislature shall pass laws to enforce this provision.

ARTICLE III.

THE EXECUTIVE.

§ 1. EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.—The executive department shall consist of a governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, superintendent of public instruction, and a commissioner of public lands, who shall be severally chosen by the qualified electors of the state at the same time and place of voting as for the members of the legislature.

A member of the state board of education is an executive officer within the meaning of this section: Id.; State v. Smith, 6 Wash. 496.

This section does not limit the executive officers of the state to those enumerated therein. The object was to classify the executive department, rather than to exclusively establish its officers: State v. Womack, supra.

§ 2. GOVERNOR, TERM OF OFFICE.—The supreme executive power of this state shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office for a term of four years, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

considered the head of the executive department, in which department other officers may exist whose functions are executive: State v. Womack, 4 Wash. 19; see State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 195; State v. Smith, 6 Wash. 496.

§ 3. OTHER EXECUTIVE OFFICERS, TERMS OF OFFICE.—The lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, superintendent of public instruction, and commissioner of public lands shall hold their offices for four years respectively, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

§ 4. RETURNS OF ELECTIONS, CANVASS, ETC.—The returns of every election for the officers named in the first section of this article shall be sealed up and transmitted to the seat of government by the returning officers, directed to the secretary of state, who shall deliver the same to the speaker of the house of representatives at the first meeting of the house thereafter, who shall open, publish, and declare the result thereof in the presence of a majority of the members of both houses. The person having the highest number of votes shall be declared duly elected, and a certificate thereof shall be given to such person, signed by the presiding officers of both houses; but if any two or more shall be highest and equal in votes for the same office, one of them shall be chosen by the joint vote of both houses. Contested elections for such officers shall be decided by the legislature in such manner as shall be decided by law. The terms of all officers named in section one of this article shall commence on the second Monday in January after their election, until otherwise provided by law.

§ 11. REMISSION OF FINES AND FORFEITURES.—The governor shall have power to remit fines and forfeitures, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, and shall report to the legislature at its next meeting each case of reprieve, commutation, or pardon granted, and the reasons for granting the same, and also the names of all persons in whose favor remission of fines and forfeitures shall have been made, and the several amounts remitted, and the reasons for the remission.

§ 12. VETO POWER.—Every act which shall have passed the legislature shall be, before it becomes a law, presented to the governor. If he approves, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, which house shall enter the objections at large upon the journal, and proceed to reconsider. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the members present shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of the members present, it shall become a law; but in all such cases the vote of both houses shall be determined by the yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for or against the bill shall be entered upon the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within five days, Sundays excepted, after it shall be presented to him, it shall become a law without his signature, unless the general adjournment shall prevent its return, in which case it shall become a law unless the governor, within ten days next after the adjournment, Sundays excepted, shall file such bill, with his objections thereto, in the office of the secretary of state, who shall lay the same before the legislature at its next session, in like manner as if it had been returned by the governor. If any bill presented to the governor contain several sections or items, he may object to one or more sections or items while approving other portions of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the section or sections, item or items, to which he objects, and the reasons therefor, and the section or sections, item or items, so objected to, shall not take effect unless passed over the governor's objection, as hereinbefore provided.

THE JUDICIARY.

§ 1. JUDICIAL POWER, WHERE VESTED.—The judicial power of the state shall be vested in a supreme court, superior courts, justices of the peace, and such inferior courts as the legislature may provide.

Cf. Cal., VI, 1; Ida., V, 2; Ill., IV, 1; Mich., VI, 1; Mont., VIII, 1; Nev., VI, 1; N. C., IV, 4; N. Dak., IV, 85; S. C., IV, 1; S. Dak., V, 1; Wy., V, 1.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 520, 521, §§ 36-41.

A judicial court cannot exercise legislative functions, and the legislature cannot impose such powers upon it: Territory v. Stewart, 1 Wash. 98, 100; and a statute authorizing the creation of a municipal corporation by a judicial court is unconstitutional, as a delegation of legislative functions: Id., 98.

The trustees of the reform school are invested with authority to decide what children are of such a vicious disposition as to be detrimental to its interests, and this authority does not contravene this section of the constitution: In re Mason, 3 Wash. 609.

By the constitution all the judicial power (which is a distinct branch of sovereignty) is vested in the courts therein created, independent of legislation, and the jurisdiction of the courts is universal, covering the whole domain of judicial power: In re Cloherty, 2 Wash. 137.

Settling a statement of facts is a judicial act and cannot be performed by a judge whose term of office has expired: Hallam v. Tillinghast, 19 Wash. 20.

The judicial department is not charged with seeing that the mandatory provisions of the constitution are complied with; and when they are directed to either the executive or legislative department, the judiciary has no concern with them: State ex rel. Reed v. Jones, 6 Wash. 452.

The power to "hear and determine" conferred in various matters upon local administrative officers is not judicial power: Bellingham Bay Imp. Co. v. New Whatcom, 20 Wash. 53.

Making trustees of the reform school judges of the fact that an incorrigible youth should be returned to the court committing him does not conflict with the prerogative of the court: In re Mason, 3 Wash. 609.

The legislature may provide new inferior courts, not specially mentioned in the constitution, with such inferior judicial power as it may deem wise; and may transfer from one court to another limited portions of judicial power: Cloherty, In re, 2 Wash. 137.

There is no court apart from the officer who is by the constitution designated as justice of the peace: State ex rel. Maltby v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 223.

The power conferred upon the legislature by the constitution to create additional inferior courts is not one of its original inherent powers as the supreme legislative body of the state, but is a delegated power which must be exercised in the manner pointed out and cannot be redelegated to a city, which has not inherent power to create courts: In re Cloherty, 2 Wash. 137.

A municipal court is an inferior court under this section: In re Barbee, 19 Wash. 306.

Laws requiring the court to settle a statement of facts as agreed to by the parties is not unconstitutional as placing the settlement in the hands of the parties: State ex rel. Hersner v. Arthur, 7 Wash. 358.

Conceding the right to legislate upon a subject, courts cannot restrain the action of the legislature on considerations of policy or natural equity: State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424; Frederick v. Seattle, 13 Wash. 428.

The vacation of a street by a city council is a legislative question and will not be disturbed by the courts, in the absence of an abuse of discretion: Kakeldy v. Columbia & Puget Sound R. Co., 37 Wash. 675.

Section 7898, infra, authorizing a city council to enter a decision determining the regularity of an assessment for local improvements, and providing for an appeal from such decision, is not unconstitutional as an attempt to confer upon the council judicial powers in violation of this section: Bellingham Bay Imp. Co. v. New Whatcom, 20 Wash. 53; Heath v. McCrea, 20 Wash. 342.

§ 2. SUPREME COURT.—The supreme court shall consist of five judges, a majority of whom shall be necessary to form a quorum and pronounce a decision. The said court shall always be open for the transaction of business except on non-judicial days. In the determination of causes, all decisions of the court shall be given in writing, and the grounds of the decision shall be stated. The legislature may increase the number of judges of the supreme court from time to time, and may provide for separate departments of said court.

Cf. Cal., Art. VI, § 2.

Cited in 29 Wash. 342.

The legislature may increase the number of judges of the supreme court, and decrease the number to five: State ex rel. Murphy v. McBride, 29 Wash. 335.

§ 3. ELECTION AND TERMS OF SUPREME JUDGES.—The judges of the supreme court shall be elected by the qualified electors of the state at large, at the general state election, at the times and places at which state officers are elected, unless some other time be provided by the legislature. The first election of judges of the supreme court shall be at the election which shall be held upon the adoption of this constitution, and the judges elected thereat shall be classified by lot, so that two shall hold their office for the term of three years, two for the term of five years, and one for the term of seven years. The lot shall be drawn by the judges who shall for that purpose assemble at the seat of government, and they shall cause the result thereof to be certified to the secretary of state, and filed in his office. The judge having the shortest term to serve, not holding his office by appointment or election to fill a vacancy, shall be the chief justice, and shall preside at all sessions of the supreme court, and in case there shall be two judges having in like manner the same short term, the other judges of the supreme court shall determine which of them shall be chief justice. In case of the absence of the chief justice, the judge having in like manner the shortest or next shortest term to serve shall preside. After the first election the terms of judges elected shall be six years from and after the second Monday in January next succeeding their election. If a vacancy occur in the office of a judge of the supreme court, the governor shall appoint a person to hold the office until the election and qualification of a judge to fill the vacancy, which election shall take place at the next succeeding general election, and the judge so elected shall hold the office for the remainder of the unexpired term. The term of office of the judges of the supreme court first elected shall commence as soon as the state shall have been admitted into the Union, and continue for the term herein provided, and until their successors are elected and qualified. The sessions of the supreme court shall be held at the seat of government until otherwise provided by law.

Wis., VII, 9; Nev., VI, 3.

Cited in 29 Wash. 343, 349.

The provision herein as to term of office does not apply to a judge elected to fill a vacancy for the remainder of the unexpired term: State ex rel. Murphy v. McBride, 29 Wash. 335.

§ 4. JURISDICTION.—The supreme court shall have original jurisdiction in habeas corpus and quo warranto and mandamus as to all state officers, and appellate jurisdiction in all actions and proceedings, excepting that its appellate jurisdiction shall not extend to civil actions at law for the recovery of money or personal property when the original amount in controversy or the value of the property does not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars, unless the action involves the legality of a tax, impost, assessment, toll, municipal fine, or the validity of a statute. The supreme court shall also have power to issue writs of mandamus, review, prohibition, habeas corpus, certiorari, and all other writs necessary and proper to the complete exercise of its appellate and revisory jurisdiction. Each of the judges shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus to any part of the state upon petition by or on behalf of any person held in actual custody, and may make such writs returnable before himself, or before the supreme court, or before any superior court of the state, or any judge thereof.

The term "proceedings" in this section covers applications for relief not included in an ordinary proceeding, such as proceedings under the insolvency law, condemnation, habeas corpus, quo warranto, and the like; arrest in civil actions being a provisional remedy, ancillary to the main action, does not fall within the class covered by the term proceedings: Cline v. Harmon, 2 Wash. 155, 157; Windt v. Banniza, 2 Wash. 147, followed.

The supreme court being authorized to issue writs of mandamus, must in a proper case exercise the power granted: State v. Superior Court, 12 Wash. 677, 684.

A member of the board of regents of the state agricultural college is not a state officer over whom the supreme court has original jurisdiction in mandamus proceedings within the meaning of this section: State v. Smith, 6 Wash. 496; State v. Smith, 9 Wash. 195. Such officers are state officers, but not such as contemplated by this provision: State v. Smith, 6 Wash. 498.

While it is true that the constitution invests the supreme court with original jurisdiction in habeas corpus, under this section, it does not follow that it must take original jurisdiction in cases that have been commenced in the superior court or before a judge thereof: In re Graham, 7 Wash. 237, 238.

A garnishment, while auxiliary to the main cause, is a "proceeding" within the meaning of the statute regulating appeals to the supreme court: Tatum v. Geist, 40 Wash. 575.

The limitation on appellate jurisdiction has application to the amount sued for and not to the judgment rendered: Bleeker v. Satsop Ry. Co., 3 Wash. 77.

But while the amount claimed is held to be the original amount in controversy, yet the bare allegation that property sought to be recovered is of certain value does not establish such value for the purpose of giving appellate jurisdiction. The value is that found by the court and jury: Herrin v. Pugh, 9 Wash. 637.

Where the object of the proceeding (in garnishment) is to ascertain the title and right of possession of personal property, and not the recovery of money, the action is within the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court, whether the principal debt be more or less than $200: Campbell v. Simkins, 10 Wash. 160.

The supreme court has no jurisdiction if the amount in controversy is under $200: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 87, § 33; Penter v. Straight, 1 Wash. 365; Lotz v. Mason County, 6 Wash. 166; Moskeland v. Stephens, 18 Wash. 693; National Grocery Co. v. Cann, 39 Wash. 596; State ex rel. Ide v. Coon, 40 Wash. 682; State ex rel. Bassett v. Freasure, 39 Wash. 198; State ex rel. Plaisie v. Cole, 40 Wash. 474.

An appeal from a judgment dismissing an action for a writ of mandamus to compel the issuance of a city warrant for the sum of $140.75 will be dismissed for the reason that the original amount in controversy is not within the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court: State ex rel. Lack v. Meads, 49 Wash. 468.

The jurisdiction of the supreme court on appeal from a judgment for costs on dismissal of an action of ejectment is not affected by the amount in controversy, as only actions for the recovery of money or personal property are controlled thereby: Hamilton v. Witner, 50 Wash. 689.

As to what constitutes the claim, see Durand v. Simpson Logging Co., 21 Wash. 21; Leavitt v. Carr, 22 Wash. 361; Fidelity Deposit Co. v. Faben, 51 Wash. 308.

As to aggregated claims, interests or judgments, see Goodyear Rubber Co. v. Schreiber, 29 Wash. 94; Garneau v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 20 Wash. 97.

Where an appeal is taken by a garnishee the amount claimed from him must be at least $200: Schreiner v. Emel, 26 Wash. 555.

Amount, how determined: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 88, 89, §§ 37-40; Graves v. Thompson, 35 Wash. 282; Durand v. Simpson Log. Co. 21 Wash. 21; Leavitt v. Carr, 22 Wash. 361; Goodyear Rubber Co. v. Schreiber, 29 Wash. 94; Garneau v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 20 Wash. 97. In an action to foreclose a mechanics' lien for less than $100, in which the defendants counterclaim for $350 damages, the amount in controversy is over two hundred dollars, regardless of the finding of the court: Sorrill v. McGougan, 44 Wash. 558.

The jurisdiction of the supreme court on appeal in replevin cannot be determined by ex parte affidavits as to the value of the property; and if the value is not found by the court or jury, and the complaint and the only evidence on the subject show the value to be over $200, the supreme court has jurisdiction: Gilbert Co. v. Husted, 49 Wash. 61.

In an action to recover personal property, and damages for its detention, under the claim and delivery statute, where the value of the property is not found by the court or jury, the test of the jurisdiction of the appellate court is the value alleged in the complaint, if the demand appears to have been made in good faith: Gilbert Co. v. Husted, 49 Wash. 61.

Reduction below $200, by amendment, remission, payment or satisfaction deprives the court of jurisdiction: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 88, 89, §§ 41, 42; Huber v. Brown, 17 Wash. 4; Peters v. Lewis, 28 Wash. 366; Dodge v. Corliss, 28 Wash. 474; Taylor v. Spokane Falls etc. R. Co., 32 Wash. 450; Fenton v. Morgan, 16 Wash. 30; Puyallup Light etc. Co. v. Stevenson, 21 Wash. 604; Stewart v. Hanna, 35 Wash. 148.

In a trial of the rights of property attached by a third party an appeal will lie although the amount of the claim of the attaching creditor may be less than two hundred dollars, if the property is found to exceed that value: Eidson v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 225.

The supreme court has no jurisdiction to review by certiorari the action of the lower court, when the original amount in controversy is not sufficient to authorize an appeal: State v. Superior Ct., 8 Wash. 271. In State v. Superior Ct., 6 Wash. 352, it was held that the jurisdiction to inquire into the proceedings of the superior court by certiorari was not dependent upon the amount in controversy, but will lie whenever the judgment of the superior court is rendered without proper service of summons.

Where by certiorari the superior judge is directed to certify to the supreme court a transcript of the record in a certain action, it is his duty to make return thereto, and a return made by the clerk of the court is insufficient: State v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 496; State v. Superior Ct., 15 Wash. 668.

The supreme court has original jurisdiction to entertain an application for temporary alimony, attorney's fees and suit money pending an appeal: Holcomb v. Holcomb, 49 Wash. 498; Sullivan v. Sullivan, 49 Wash. 508.

The jurisdiction of the supreme and superior courts is defined by the constitution, and reference must be had thereto to determine the question: State ex rel. Amsterdamsch etc. v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 668; Waugh, In re, 32 Wash. 50.

The provisions of this section as to jurisdiction in quo warranto and mandamus must be construed in the light of the law as it existed, or as defined by the current of authority, at the time of the adoption of the constitution: State ex rel. White v. Board of State Land Commrs., 23 Wash. 700; Winsor v. Bridges, 24 Wash. 540; Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78; State ex rel. Attorney General v. Seattle Gas & Elec. Co., 28 Wash. 488; Board of Directors Middle Kittitas Irr. Dist. v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 147.

The provision herein giving the supreme court original jurisdiction in quo warranto and mandamus as to all state officers, does not exclude the jurisdiction of the superior courts in the issuance of injunctions against state officers: Jones v. Reed, 3 Wash. 57.

The adoption of the state constitution made no change in the method of appealing causes to the supreme court except that the power to regulate the practice on appeal was transferred to the state legislature: Stenger v. Roeder, 3 Wash. 412.

This section, conferring appellate jurisdiction on the supreme court in all cases, is not self-executing: Western American Co. v. St. Ann Co., 22 Wash. 158.

The provision herein giving the supreme court original jurisdiction in habeas corpus is self-executing: Rafferty, In re, 1 Wash. 382.

The courts will not pass upon the operation and effect of legislative enactments prior to their going into effect: State ex rel. Campbell v. Superior Court, 25 Wash. 271.

The constitutionality of a law may be raised in mandamus proceedings by ministerial officers, proceeded against for its nonenforcement or for noncompliance therewith: Hindman v. Boyd, 42 Wash. 17.

Decisions of what courts and other tribunals subject to appeal to the supreme: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 82-84, §§ 15-22.

As to municipal and other local courts, see Falsetto v. Seattle, 18 Wash. 509. An appeal does not lie to the superior court from the county board of equalization: Olympia Waterworks v. Thurston County, 14 Wash. 268; Knapp v. King County, 15 Wash. 541; Olympia Waterworks v. Gelbach, 16 Wash. 482; Baker v. King County, 17 Wash. 622; Noyes v. King County, 18 Wash. 417; Lewis v. Bishop, 19 Wash. 312; Templeton v. Pierce County, 25 Wash. 377; Seattle etc. R. Co. v. Simpson, 19 Wash. 628; Buchanan v. Adams County, 15 Wash. 699.

coln County, 25 Wash. 198 (overruling Hull v. Stephenson, supra); State ex rel. Banks v. Board of Commissioners, 18 Wash. 160.

The supreme court has no original jurisdiction to grant injunctive relief pending an appeal upon the application of an appellant, who alleges the commission of acts by the respondent entitling him to relief independent of the appeal, and which are not in violation of appellant's supersedeas bond: Van Siclen v. Muir, 44 Wash. 361.

What are suits in equity, within this section: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 84, § 23; Fenton v. Morgan, 16 Wash. 30; Trumbull v. Jefferson County, 37 Wash. 604; Griffith v. Maxwell, 20 Wash. 403; State ex rel. Dudley v. Daggett, 28 Wash. 1 (said to be overruled in State ex rel. Plaisie v. Cole, 40 Wash. 474, and State ex rel. Ide v. Coon, 40 Wash. 682; Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253; Horrell v. California etc. Assn., 40 Wash. 531; Spokane v. Smith, 37 Wash. 583.

What are actions at law, for the recovery of money: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 85, § 24; Barto v. Seattle etc. R. Co., 28 Wash. 179; Tom v. Sayward, 5 Wash. 383; *Chapin v. When is an action "civil" and not criminal, within this section: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 85, § 25; State ex rel. Olson v. Allen, 14 Wash. 684; State ex rel. Geiger v. Geiger, 20 Wash. 181; State v. Murrey, 30 Wash. 383; In re Garfinkle, 37 Wash. 650.

When is the validity of statutes or ordinances involved: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 86, § 26; Doty v. Krutz, 13 Wash. 169; Jacobs v. Puyallup, 10 Wash. 384; Huber v. Brown, 17 Wash. 4; Shook v. Sexton, 37 Wash. 509.

§ 5. SUPERIOR COURT—ELECTION OF JUDGES, TERMS OF, ETC.—There shall be in each of the organized counties of this state a superior court, for which at least one judge shall be elected by the qualified electors of the county at the general state election: Provided, That until otherwise directed by the legislature one judge only shall be elected for the counties of Spokane and Stevens; one judge for the county of Whitman; one judge for the counties of Lincoln, Okanogan, Douglas, and Adams; one judge for the counties of Walla Walla and Franklin; one judge for the counties of Columbia, Garfield, and Asotin; one judge for the counties of Kittitas, Yakima, and Klickitat; one judge for the counties of Clark, Skamania, Pacific, Cowlitz, and Wahkiakum; one judge for the counties of Thurston, Chehalis, Mason, and Lewis; one judge for the county of Pierce; one judge for the county of King; one judge for the counties of Jefferson, Island, Kitsap, San Juan, and Clallam; and one judge for the counties of Whatcom, Skagit, and Snohomish. In any county where there shall be more than one superior judge, there may be as many sessions of the superior court at the same time as there are judges thereof, and whenever the governor shall direct a superior judge to hold court in any county other than that for which he has been elected, there may be as many sessions of the superior court in said county at the same time as there are judges therein or assigned to duty therein by the governor, and the business of the court shall be so distributed and assigned by law, or, in the absence of legislation therefor, by such rules and orders of court as shall best promote and secure the convenient and expeditious transaction thereof. The judgments, decrees, orders, and proceedings of any session of the superior court held by any one or more of the judges of such court shall be equally effectual as if all the judges of said court presided at such session. The first superior judges elected under this constitution shall hold their offices for the period of three years, and until their successors shall be elected and qualified, and thereafter the term of office of all superior judges in this state shall be for four years from the second Monday in January next succeeding their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified. The first election of judges of the superior court shall be at the election held for the adoption of this constitution. If a vacancy occurs in the office of judge of the superior court, the governor shall appoint a person to hold the office until the election and qualification of a judge to fill the vacancy, which election shall be at the next succeeding general election, and the judge so elected shall hold office for the remainder of the unexpired term.

The intention of the constitution is that the regular term of all superior court judges shall be uniform both as to duration, commencement and ending thereof, hence the act (Laws of 1890, p. 346) providing for additional judges is void in so far as it changed the term of office of judges appointed thereunder: State v. Twichell, 4 Wash. 715.

This section fixing the judicial districts "until otherwise directed by the legislature" vests the power in the legislature to change the districts: State ex rel. Dustin v. Rusk, 15 Wash. 403.

The constitution and laws of this state recognize the distinction between the superior courts and the judges thereof: State ex rel. Romano v. Yakey, 43 Wash. 15. The term "court" is broader than the term "judge," as the former continues while the latter may change: Gunderson v. Cochran, 3 Wash. 476; Shepard v. Gove, 26 Wash. 452.

A judge of the superior court, who has been elected to fill an unexpired term, is entitled to qualify and take office as soon as the result of the election has been declared, the provision herein as to beginning of term of office only applying to original terms, and not to unexpired terms: State ex rel. Linn v. Millett, 20 Wash. 221.

§ 6. JURISDICTION OF SUPERIOR COURTS.—The superior court shall have original jurisdiction in all cases in equity and in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real property, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll, or municipal fine, and in all other cases in which the demand or the value of the property in controversy amounts to one hundred dollars, and in all criminal cases amounting to felony, and in all cases of misdemeanor not otherwise provided for by law; of actions of forcible entry and detainer; of proceedings in insolvency; of actions to prevent or abate a nuisance; of all matters of probate, of divorce, and for annulment of marriage; and for such special cases and proceedings as are not otherwise provided for. The superior court shall also have original jurisdiction in all cases and of all proceedings in which jurisdiction shall not have been by law vested exclusively in some other court; and said court shall have the power of naturalization and to issue papers therefor. They shall have such appellate jurisdiction in cases arising in justices' and other inferior courts in their respective counties as may be prescribed by law. They shall always be open, except on nonjudicial days, and their process shall extend to all parts of the state. Said courts and their judges shall have power to issue writs of mandamus, quo warranto, review, certiorari, prohibition, and writs of habeas corpus, on petition by or on behalf of any person in actual custody in their respective counties. Injunctions and writs of prohibition and of habeas corpus may be issued and served on legal holidays and non-judicial days.

The superior courts of this state are courts of general jurisdiction: State v. Jones, 2 Wash. 662, 665.

They are given by the constitution universal original jurisdiction, leaving the legislature to carve out from that jurisdiction the jurisdiction of other courts; they have exclusive original jurisdiction of the matters enumerated as particularly within their "original jurisdiction": Moore v. Perrott, 2 Wash. 1, 4.

Under the provision that superior courts shall have jurisdiction in all cases in which some other court has not been given exclusive jurisdiction by law, the superior courts have concurrent jurisdiction with justices of the peace where the sum sued for is less than one hundred dollars: State ex rel. Shannon v. Hunter, 3 Wash. 92; and, under this section, they have jurisdiction to issue writs of certiorari in the common-law sense: Wilson v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 543, 545.

It is manifest, under this section, that it was not the intention of the framers of the constitution to exclude any sort of manner of causes from the jurisdiction of the superior court, and it seems that it is authorized to enjoin officers of a county, who, in excess of their powers, are seeking to create a burden on the taxpayers by directing an illegal expenditure of public money: Krieschel v. County Commrs., 12 Wash. 428.

Prohibition will not lie to restrain courts having original jurisdiction of cases in equity from issuing injunctions in excess of their jurisdiction, when there is a complete remedy by appeal from any final judgment that may be rendered by said courts in such cases: State v. Jones, 2 Wash. 662.

The superior court has no jurisdiction over a contest of election of a city officer, in the absence of a statute authorizing such contest, notwithstanding the provisions of this section: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 604.

The provision herein giving the superior court original jurisdiction in equity and special cases not otherwise provided for, is not a self-executing extension of jurisdiction over the contest of the election of a city officer: State ex rel. Fawcett v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 604.

The method by which it shall exercise its jurisdiction must be conferred by the constitution and by legislative authority: Howe v. Barto, 12 Wash. 627. The state courts have jurisdiction of offenses committed by Indians who have severed their tribal relations: State v. Williams, 13 Wash. 335; State v. Howard, 33 Wash. 250; State v. Smokalem, 37 Wash. 91. And they have jurisdiction to determine questions between Indians regarding Indian lands, when: See Bird v. Winyer, 24 Wash. 269.

It is not a valid objection to the jurisdiction of the superior court that the judge was not a resident of the county, the constitution not requiring a local judge in each county: American Bonding Co. v. Dufur, 49 Wash. 632. Jurisdiction of superior courts in probate matters: See Reformed Presbyterian Church v. McMillen, 31 Wash. 643. There is no probate court in this state, but instead one court of general jurisdiction: Filley v. Murphy, 30 Wash. 1.

The provision herein that the courts shall always be open except on nonjudicial days, and the provision as to issuance of writs of prohibition, etc., cannot be construed as prohibiting the reception of a verdict on nonjudicial days: State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111. Under the provision herein that courts shall always be open except on nonjudicial days, any act of a judicial nature performed by a judge is, in contemplation of law, done in open court, although done at chambers: Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78.

As to jurisdiction in quo warranto to determine who is entitled to the office of councilman of a city, see Blake v. Morris, 14 Wash. 262; State ex rel. Hyland v. Peter, 21 Wash. 243. The superior courts have concurrent jurisdiction with municipal courts over misdemeanors committed within such cities: State v. Considine, 16 Wash. 358.

An act empowering the courts to restrain by injunction the commission of an act not prohibited by any law is not unconstitutional for that reason, since the effect of the act authorizing injunction is substantially to declare the action illegal: Karasek v. Peier, 22 Wash. 419.

Although terms of court are abolished, the provision in a statute as to terms of court must be construed as synonymous with the "sessions of court," provided for by the rules of the superior courts of the state: Krutz v. Batts, 18 Wash. 460.

The superior courts have no term fixed by statute, but are courts of continuous session: Coyle v. Seattle Elec. Co., 31
Wash. 181.

County commissioners in establishing roads exercise quasi legislative authority, and the superior court on appeal is not authorized to revise or control the decision: Selde v. Lincoln County, 25 Wash.
198.

It is beyond the power of the federal government to impose any burden on the procedure of state courts: Dawson v. Mc-Carty, 21 Wash. 314.

§ 7. EXCHANGE OF JUDGES—JUDGE PRO TEMPORE.—The judge of any superior court may hold a superior court in any county at the request of the judge of the superior court thereof, and upon the request of the governor it shall be his duty to do so. A case in the superior court may be tried by a judge pro tempore, who must be a member of the bar, agreed upon in writing by the parties litigant or their attorneys of record, approved by the court, and sworn to try the case.

The provision of this section empowering the judge of any superior court to hold court at the request of the superior judge of any county is self-executing: *State v.

Holmes*, 12 Wash. 169, 173.

A visiting judge, in the absence of an affirmative showing to the contrary, is presumed to possess jurisdiction to discharge the duties of judge of the court to which he has been called: Id.

A visiting judge may hold a session of court at the request of a resident judge, without any request of the governor:
Hindman v. Boyd, 42 Wash. 17.

§ 8. ABSENCE OF JUDICIAL OFFICER.—Any judicial officer who shall absent himself from the state for more than sixty consecutive days shall be deemed to have forfeited his office: Provided, That in cases of extreme necessity the governor may extend the leave of absence such time as the necessity therefor shall exist.

Cf. Cal., VI, 9; Mont., VIII, 37; Nev., VI, 17.

§ 9. REMOVAL OF JUDGES, ATTORNEY GENERAL, ETC.—Any judge of any court of record, the attorney general, or any prosecuting attorney may be removed from office by joint resolution of the legislature, in which three-fourths of the members elected to each house shall concur, for incompetency, corruption, malfeasance, or delinquency in office, or other sufficient cause stated in such resolution. But no removal shall be made unless the officer complained of shall have been served with a copy of the charges against him as the ground of removal, and shall have an opportunity of being heard in his defense.
Such resolution shall be entered at length on the journal of both houses, and on the question of removal the ayes and nays shall also be entered on the journal.

Cf. Cal., VI, 10.

§ 10. JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.—The legislature shall determine the number of justices of the peace to be elected in incorporated cities or towns and in precincts, and shall prescribe by law the powers, duties, and jurisdiction of justices of the peace: Provided, That such jurisdiction granted by the legislature shall not trench upon the jurisdiction of superior or other courts of record, except that justices of the peace may be made police justices of incorporated cities and towns. In incorporated cities or towns having more than five thousand inhabitants, the justices of the peace shall receive such salary as may be provided by law, and shall receive no fees for their own use.

This section is self-executing with reference to the matter of population, merely the matter of fixing salaries being referred to the legislature, and the courts are justified in receiving testimony to determine the amount of population: Anderson v. Whatcom Co., 15 Wash. 47.

The last clause of this section does not apply to justices of the peace in incorporated cities containing less than five thousand inhabitants by the last federal census, but which contain more than five thousand inhabitants by a census taken pursuant to § 2754 of the Code of 1881: Rhode v. Seavey, 4 Wash. 91.

Justices of the peace have no jurisdiction under this section, in causes in which the demand or value of the property in controversy is one hundred dollars or more: Moore v. Perrott, 2 Wash. 1; and a judgment rendered for a greater amount is void: Id.

In this case, cause removed to superior court held sufficient under Art. XXVII, § 5, although amount claimed exceeded constitutional jurisdiction: Id.

A justice of the peace has no jurisdiction of an action for the recovery of a sum due, and interest thereon, arising on contract for payment of money, when the total amount claimed is in excess of one hundred dollars, inclusive of interest: State ex rel. Egbert v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 369; and where a justice of the peace has no jurisdiction of the subject matter of an action brought before him, the superior court cannot acquire any by an appeal from the justice: Id.

A census taken pursuant to the provisions of § 2754 of the Code of 1881 is not a state census within the meaning of this section: Rhode v. Seavey, supra.

Where two cities have been consolidated, thereby making the population of the new city more than five thousand, the acting justice of the peace of one of the cities does not thereby become the justice of the peace of the consolidated city, and entitled to the salary provided for justices in cities of more than five thousand population: Whiting v. Collier, 9 Wash. 412.

Salary is not fixed for a justice of the peace in a city of less than five thousand inhabitants during the time after such city acquires more than five thousand inhabitants: Ogden v. Chehalis County, 41 Wash. 45.

Justices having jurisdiction to punish misdemeanors have power to punish criminally persons guilty of creating and maintaining nuisances, made misdemeanors: State v. Schaffer, 31 Wash. 305.

§ 11. COURTS OF RECORD.—The supreme court and the superior court shall be courts of record, and the legislature shall have power to provide that any of the courts of this state, excepting justices of the peace, shall be courts of record.

Cf. Cal., VII, 12.

§ 12. INFERIOR COURTS.—The legislature shall prescribe by law the jurisdiction and powers of any of the inferior courts which may be established in pursuance of this constitution.

See notes to § 1 of this article.

Cf. Cal., VI, 13.

The power conferred upon the legislature to create additional inferior courts is not one of its original, inherent powers, which can be delegated by it, but is a delegated power which must be exercised in the manner pointed out, and cannot be again delegated: In re Cloherty, 2 Wash. 137.

The legislature being originally vested with authority to create police courts, it cannot delegate that power to a city: Id., 139.

peace, shall receive to his own use any fees or perquisites of office.¹ The judges of the supreme court and judges of the superior courts shall severally, at stated times, during their continuance in office, receive for their services the salaries prescribed by law therefor, which shall not be increased after their election, nor during the term for which they shall have been elected. The salaries of the judges of the supreme court shall be paid by the state. One-half of the salary of each of the superior court judges shall be paid by the state, and the other one-half by the county or counties for which he is elected.² In cases where a judge is provided for more than one county, that portion of his salary which is to be paid by the counties shall be apportioned between or among them according to the assessed value of their taxable property, to be determined by the assessment next preceding the time for which such salary is to be paid.

§ 14. SALARIES OF SUPREME AND SUPERIOR COURT JUDGES.—Each of the judges of the supreme court shall receive an annual salary of four thousand dollars ($4,000); each of the superior court judges shall receive an annual salary of three thousand dollars ($3,000), which said salaries shall be payable quarterly. The legislature may increase the salaries of the judges herein provided.

Cf. Cal., VI, 17.

§ 15. INELIGIBILITY OF JUDGES.—The judges of the supreme court and the judges of the superior court shall be ineligible to any other office or public employment than a judicial office or employment during the term for which they shall have been elected.

The terms of supreme and superior court judges commence from the second Monday in January, and of other state officers on the second Monday in January after their election and qualification: See §§ 3 and 5 of this article and § 4 of Art. III.

The provisions of §§ 18, 19, Laws of 1893, page 301, are not open to the objection that they impose a public employment upon judges which is nonjudicial, in violation of this section: Seanor v. County Commrs., 13 Wash. 48, 63.

§ 16. CHARGING JURIES.—Judges shall not charge juries with respect to matters of fact, nor comment thereon, but shall declare the law.

As to unlawful comment on the evidence in giving instructions to the jury, see notes to § 339, infra.

All remarks and observations as to the facts before the jury are positively prohibited by this provision, and if any such are made, the judgment will be reversed, unless the appellate court can see that they were in no sense prejudicial: State v. Walters, 7 Wash. 246; remarks in this case held not prejudicial: Id. See, also, Furth v. Snell, 13 Wash. 660, 664.

An incidental allusion to the facts called to the court's attention in determining a motion for a nonsuit is not an infringement on this prohibition: Patchen v. Parke & L. M. Co., 6 Wash. 486; following Blue v. McCabe, 5 Wash. 125. See Waite v.

Strand, 9 Wash. 333, 334, language attributed to nisi prius judge held violative of this provision.

In passing on a motion for a nonsuit, it is not error for the judge to comment on the testimony in presence of jury when defendant has not asked for their withdrawal during the consideration of the motion: Blue v. McCabe, supra; see Pepperall v. City Park Transit Co., 15 Wash. 176, 183.

It is error under this section to tell the jury that there is no dispute in the testimony on a certain point, or that any fact is conclusively proven: Bardwell v. Ziegler, 3 Wash. 34.

The statement of the trial judge preliminary to instructing the jury, that "you will be left to determine between the demands of public justice and the defense of the prisoner at the bar," is not a comment that would lead the jury to understand that public justice could demand the conviction of an innocent person, under any circumstances, or to express an opinion as to defendant's guilt or innocence: State v. Brooks, 4 Wash. 328.

A defendant requested the court to charge that "the bare possession of stolen property, alone, is not sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty," to which the court added, "It is only a circumstance tending to show guilt": Held, not violative of this provision: State v. Duncau, 7 Wash. 336.

An instruction informing the jury that they may consider the relations of the parties and witnesses, their interest, temper, bias, demeanor, intelligence and credibility in testifying, does not contravene the provisions of this section: Klepsch v. Donald, 4 Wash. 436.

The fact that the court, in charging the jury, rehearses the plaintiff's or defendant's theory of the case is not a comment on the facts in violation of the constitutional inhibition: Binnian v. Jennings, 14 Wash. 677, 680.

Remarks and conduct of judge during the trial, when not unlawful comment, under this section: Patchen v. Parke & Lacy Machinery Co., 6 Wash. 486; Earles v. Bigelow, 7 Wash. 581; Livesley v. Pier, 11 Wash. 268; State v. Burns, 19 Wash. 52; State v. Crotts, 20 Wash. 245; Knox v. Fuller, 23 Wash. 34; State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655; Miller v. Dumon, 24 Wash. 648; *Koontz v. § 17. ELIGIBILITY OF JUDGES.—No person shall be eligible to the office of judge of the supreme court or judge of a superior court unless he shall have been admitted to practice in the courts of record of this state or of the territory of Washington.

Cal., VI, 23; Colo., VI, 10; Mont., VIII, 10; N. Dak., IV, 94; S. Dak., V, 10; Wy., V, 10.

§ 18. SUPREME COURT REPORTER.—The judges of the supreme court shall appoint a reporter for the decisions of that court, who shall be removable at their pleasure. He shall receive such annual salary as shall be prescribed by law.

Cf. Ala., VI, 22; Ark., VII, 7; Cal., VI, 21; Kan., III, 4; Neb., VI, 8; S. C., IV, 7.

§ 19. JUDGES MAY NOT PRACTICE LAW.—No judge of a court of record shall practice law in any court of this state during his continuance in office.

Ala., VI, 20; Cal., VI, 22; Colo., VI, 18; Mont., VIII, 31; N. Dak., IV, 117; S. Dak., V, 31; Wy., V, 25.

§ 20. DECISIONS, WHEN TO BE MADE.—Every case submitted to a judge of a superior court for his decision shall be decided by him within ninety days from the submission thereof: Provided, That if within said period of ninety days a rehearing shall have been ordered, then the period within which he is to decide shall commence at the time the cause is submitted upon such a rehearing.

Cf. Cal., VI, 24.

Cited in 33 Wash. 202.

The failure of a judge to decide a case within ninety days from its submission, as required by this section, does not render the judgment void for want of jurisdiction: Demaris v. Barker, 33 Wash. 200. The entry of a judgment some six months after its rendition is not void under this section, where the decision of the court was in fact given orally at the close of the trial: West Phila. Title & T. Co. v. Olympia, 19 Wash. 150.

§ 21. PUBLICATION OF OPINIONS.—The legislature shall provide for the speedy publication of opinions of the supreme court, and all opinions shall be free for publication by any person.

Cf. Cal., VI, 16; N. Y., Rev., VI, 21; Wis., VII, 21.

§ 22. CLERK OF SUPREME COURT.—The judges of the supreme court shall appoint a clerk of that court, who shall be removable at their pleasure, but the legislature may provide for the election of the clerk of the supreme court and prescribe the term of his office. The clerk of the supreme court shall receive such compensation by salary only as shall be provided by law.

§ 23. COURT COMMISSIONERS.—There may be appointed in each county, by the judge of the superior court having jurisdiction therein, one or more court commissioners, not exceeding three in number, who shall have authority to perform like duties as a judge of the superior court at chambers, subject to revision by such judge, to take depositions and to perform such other business connected with the administration of justice as may be prescribed by law.

Cf. Cal., VI, 14.

Cited in 27 Wash. 83; 44 Wash. 616; 49 Wash. 317.

A court commissioner has power to try causes in which a jury is not required, and to enter judgment, which stands as the final judgment of the court, when no proceedings are instituted for its review in the court below: Peterson v. Dillon, 27

Wash. 78. A court commissioner has no power to take the arraignment of a prisoner, accept a plea of guilty, and render judgment: State v. Philip, 44 Wash. 615. This section cannot be limited by the act of the legislature to superior courts in counties having a resident judge: Howard v. Hansen, 49 Wash. 314.

§ 24. RULES FOR SUPERIOR COURTS.—The judges of the superior courts shall, from time to time, establish uniform rules for the government of the superior courts.

Cf. Tex., V, 25.

The court has no power to establish rules which would have the effect of extending the statutory period within which amendments may be proposed to a statement of facts: Warburton v. Ralph, 9

Wash. 537. The court has a right, for good reasons, to suspend its own rules: Washington Bank of Walla Walla v. Horn, 24 Wash. 299. A rule of court is not a law: Nichols v. Griffin, 1 W. T. 374.

§ 25. REPORTS OF SUPERIOR COURT JUDGES.—Superior judges shall, on or before the first day of November in each year, report in writing to the judges of the supreme court such defects and omissions in the laws as their experience may suggest, and the judges of the supreme court shall, on or before the first day of January in each year, report in writing to the governor such defects and omissions in the laws as they may believe to exist.

Colo., VI, 27; Ida., V, 25.

§ 26. CLERK OF THE SUPERIOR COURT.—The county clerk shall be, by virtue of his office, clerk of the superior court.

§ 27. STYLE OF PROCESS.—The style of all process shall be "The State of Washington," and all prosecutions shall be conducted in its name and by its authority.

A prosecution for the violation of a town ordinance may be brought in the name of the state, notwithstanding the provisions of a statute that such prosecution shall be in the name of the "People of the State of Washington": State v. Fountain, 14 Wash. 236. Or may be brought in the name of the municipality: Seattle v. Chin Let, 19 Wash. 38. It is not error to admit in evidence a void warrant not running in the name of the state: State v. Symes, 20 Wash. 484.

§ 28. OATH OF JUDGES.—Every judge of the supreme court, and every judge of a superior court shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe an oath that he will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Washington, and will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of judge to the best of his ability, which oath shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state.

ARTICLE V.

IMPEACHMENT.

§ 1. IMPEACHMENT—POWER OF AND PROCEDURE.—The house of representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment. The concurrence of a majority of all the members shall be necessary to an impeachment. All impeachments shall be tried by the senate, and when sitting for that purpose, the senators shall be upon oath or affirmation to do justice according to law and evidence. When the governor or lieutenant governor is on trial, the chief justice of the supreme court shall preside. No person shall be convicted without a concurrence of two-thirds of the senators elected.

ARTICLE VI.

ELECTIONS AND ELECTIVE RIGHTS.

§ 1. QUALIFICATIONS OF ELECTORS.—All male persons of the age of twenty-one years or over, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections: They shall be citizens of the United States; they shall have lived in the state one year, and in the county ninety days, and in the city, town, ward or precinct thirty days immediately preceding the election at which they offer to vote; they shall be able to read and speak the English language: Provided, That Indians not taxed shall never be allowed the elective franchise: And further provided, That this amendment shall not effect [affect] the right of franchise of any person who is now a qualified elector of this state. The legislature shall enact laws defining the manner of ascertaining the qualifications of voters as to their ability to read and speak the English language, and providing for punishment of persons voting or registering in violation of the provisions of this section.

This section is amended. See 2d amendment, infra.

The right to vote in this state at any election, general or special, resides in those possessing the qualifications prescribed in this section, subject only to compliance with such reasonable provisions respecting registration and regulating the exercise of the right as the legislature may provide: Stallcup v. Tacoma, 13 Wash. 141, 151.

A provision, directing that votes not indorsed by initials of an election officer shall not be counted, is in conflict with this section of the constitution, entitling all male persons having certain qualifications to vote at all elections, as annulling the voter's right without fault on his part: Moyer v. Van de Vanter, 12 Wash. 377.

Persons of either sex may hold the office of county superintendent of schools without any violation of the constitution; and it is within the province of the legislature to provide that a person of either sex may hold such office: *Russell v. § 4. RESIDENCE, CONTINGENCIES AFFECTING.—For the purpose of voting and eligibility to office, no person shall be deemed to have gained a residence by reason of his presence, or lost it by reason of his absence, while in the civil or military service of the state or of the United States, nor while a student at any institution of learning, nor while kept at public expense at any poorhouse or other asylum, nor while confined in public prison, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of this state or of the United States, or of the high seas.

§ 7. REGISTRATION.—The legislature shall enact a registration law, and shall require a compliance with such law before any elector shall be allowed to vote: Provided, That this provision is not compulsory upon the legislature, except as to cities and towns having a population of over five hundred inhabitants. In all other cases the legislature may or may not require registration as a prerequisite to the right to vote, and the same system of registration need not be adopted for both classes.

The mere failure or neglect of the legislature to make any provision for registration does not operate to deprive those having the constitutional qualifications from exercising the elective franchise: Stallcup v. Tacoma, 13 Wash. 141, 151.

§ 8. ELECTIONS, TIME OF HOLDING.—The first election of county and district officers not otherwise provided for in this constitution, shall be on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, eighteen hundred and ninety, and thereafter all elections for such officers shall be held biennially on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November. The first election of all state officers not otherwise provided for in this constitution, after the election held for the adoption of this constitution, shall be on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, eighteen hundred and ninety-two, and the elections for such state officers shall be held in every fourth year thereafter on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday in November.

A judge of the superior court is a "state officer" within the contemplation of this section: State v. Twichell, 4 Wash. 715.

Under this section and § 14 of the "Schedule," the term of office of county officers is for two years, commencing on the second Monday of January next succeeding their election; and the act of Feb. 4, 1886, prescribing the tenure of office in Washington territory has been thereby abrogated: McMurray v. Hollis, 5 Wash. 458.

The act of Mar. 26, 1890 (p. 317), providing that counties shall be divided into commissioners' districts and county commissioners elected therein, and the act of Feb. 28, 1891 (p. 116), fixing the term of office of such commissioners, does not violate this section, providing that the election of county and district officers must be held biennially, as such section must be construed with Art. XI, § 5: State ex rel. Hays v. Twichell, 9 Wash. 530.

ARTICLE VII.

REVENUE AND TAXATION.

§ 1. ANNUAL STATE TAX.—All property in the state not exempt under the laws of the United States, or under this constitution, shall be taxed in proportion to its value, to be ascertained as provided by law. The legislature shall provide by law for an annual tax sufficient, with other sources of revenue, to defray the estimated ordinary expenses of the state for each fiscal year. And for the purpose of paying the state debt, if there be any, the legislature shall provide for levying a tax annually, sufficient to pay the annual interest and principal of such debt within twenty years from the final passage of the law creating the debt.

Laws 1897, page 139, § 5, providing for exemption from taxation of personal property to a certain amount, is in conflict with this and the next section: State ex rel. Chamberlain v. Daniel, 17 Wash. 111.

The power to impose and the method of collecting taxes rest in the discretion of the legislature, and the expediency thereof will not be questioned by the courts: Nathan v. Spokane County, 35 Wash. 26.

The absence of specially delegated power to tax inheritances is not to be construed as a restriction on the legislative power to provide such a tax: State v. Clark, 30 Wash. 439.

Franchises, being a species of personal property, are taxable under this section: Commercial Elec. L. & P. Co. v. Judson, 21 Wash. 49.

The title of Laws 1901, page 67, which is confined to the taxation of "inheritances," is sufficiently broad to include a tax on the right of succession by a will as well as by operation of law: In re White's Estate, 42 Wash. 360.

§ 2. TAXATION—UNIFORMITY AND EQUALITY—EXEMPTION.—The legislature shall provide by law a uniform and equal rate of assessment and taxation on all property in the state, according to its value in money, and shall prescribe such regulations by general law as shall secure a just valuation for taxation of all property, so that every person and corporation shall pay a tax in proportion to the value of his, her, or its property: Provided, That a deduction of debts from credits may be authorized: Provided further, That the property of the United States, and of the state, counties, school districts, and other municipal corporations, and such other property as the legislature may by general laws provide, shall be exempt from taxation.

This section is amended. See 3d amendment, infra.

Our constitution requires uniform and equal taxation; and whether there is such uniformity and equality according to value must be a judicial question: Whatcom County v. Fairhaven L. Co., 7 Wash. 101, 107.

A set of abstract books is personal property, and the subject of assessment and taxation under this section: Booth & Hanford Abstract Co. v. Phelps, 8 Wash. 549.

Officers of a national bank may be compelled to exhibit to a county assessor a list of names and residences of all stockholders in the bank, with the number of their shares, as required by § 5210, U. S. Rev. Stats.: Paul v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 296; Paul v. Chapin, 3 Wash. 433.

School districts are, within the contemplation of the constitution, municipal corporations: Maxon v. School Dist., 5 Wash. 142; Board of Directors v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 147; State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 270, 272.

Municipal corporations are subject to the constitutional requirement that assessments and taxation shall be uniform and equal, etc., but are not restricted, except by their charters, as to the time of making assessments or of the collection of taxes, or the instrumentalities or agencies used therein: State v. Carson, 6 Wash. 250, 254.

The act of 1883 (Laws 1883, p. 64), providing for taxing "gross earnings" of railroad companies, was not repugnant to § 1924 of the organic act, requiring all taxes to be equal and uniform, etc.: C. & P. S. Ry. Co. v. Chilberg, 6 Wash. 612.

Statutes exempting persons and property from taxation are to be strictly construed; and exemptions are not to be extended by judicial construction to property other than that expressly designated by law: Thurston Co. v. Sisters of Charity, 14 Wash. 264, 267.

The legislature could exempt under this provision the property of any person or corporation from taxation, but could not establish a different rule of taxation as to any other class of property from that imposed upon other classes: Id.

The assessment of mortgages at their par value and lands and other property at one-fourth or one-fifth their cash value, is in violation of the organic act (§ 1924, U. S. Rev. Stats.): Andrews v. King Co., 1 Wash. 46.

An assessment upon property for local improvements is not a tax within the meaning of this section, requiring all taxes to be uniform and according to value: Austin v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 667; Seanor v. County Commrs., 13 Wash. 48; State ex rel. Olmstead v. Mudgett, 21 Wash. 99. And such assessments are not in conflict with the organic act (Rev. Stats. U. S., § 1924): Spokane Falls v. Browne, 3 Wash. 84. Assessment of property in local district for the benefit of improvements has nothing to do with taxation: Board of Directors v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 147.

Neither subsequent legislative construction nor acquiescence for any length of time can affect the meaning of the constitutional enactment: State ex rel. Chamberlain v. Daniel, 17 Wash. 111.

The provision of the statute for issuance of certificates of delinquency, which shall draw fifteen per cent interest does not violate this section as to uniformity of taxation: State ex rel. American Sav. Union v. Whittlesey, 17 Wash. 447.

Laws 1897, page 77, requiring the county treasurer to collect assessments for street improvements, does not violate the provision for uniform taxation: State ex rel. Olmstead v. Mudgett, 21 Wash. 99.

Laws 1907, page 69, § 1, exempting moneys from taxation, violates the constitutional requirement that all property be taxed: State ex rel. Wolfe v. Parmenter, 50 Wash. 164.

A tax on trades, professions and occupations is not within the inhibition in relation to uniformity of taxation: Fleetwood v. Reed, 21 Wash. 547; Stull v. De Mattos, 23 Wash. 71; Garfinkle, In re, 37 Wash. 650.

The requirement of a uniform and equal rate of taxation is not a requirement of uniform methods of assessments: Pacific National Bank v. Pierce County, 20 Wash. 675. A statute providing for the taxation of mining property at the price it would bring at "a fair voluntary sale for cash" does not violate this or the next section as to uniformity and method of assessing corporate property: Eureka District Gold Min. Co. v. Ferry County, 28 Wash. 250. The defense of double taxation is not available to a defendant unless he first shows that he has paid one tax: Heath v. McCrea, 20 Wash. 342. Double taxation is not invalid unless expressly prohibited: Pacific National Bank v. Pierce County, 20 Wash. 675. Double taxation will not be inferred unless necessarily imposed to carry out the law: Ridpath v. Spokane County, 23 Wash. 436; Lewiston Water etc. Co. v. Asotin County, 24 Wash. 371. Tax on bank shares is not a property tax, but an excise tax upon the corporate franchise: Pacific National Bank v. Pierce County, 20 Wash. 675; Ridpath v. Spokane County, 23 Wash. 436. And so is the annual license fee imposed upon corporations doing business in this state: Chehalis Boom Co. v. Chehalis County, 24 Wash. 135.

A tax upon franchises is not invalid because the legislature has not specifically provided a method of ascertaining their value: Commercial Elec. L. & P. Co. v. Judson, 21 Wash. 49.

Corporate franchises are taxable under the laws of the state: Chehalis Boom Co. v. Chehalis County, 24 Wash. 135; Edison Elec. Illuminating Co. v. Spokane County, 32 Wash. 168.

Franchises may be taxed in connection with the tangible property of a corporation: Ridpath v. Spokane County, 23 Wash. 436; Lewiston Water etc. Co. v. Asotin County, 24 Wash. 371.

DEDUCTION OF DEBTS FROM CREDITS.—The provision in this section authorizing a deduction of debts from credits is not in conflict with the 14th amendment of the constitution of the United States: Newport v. Mudgett, 18 Wash. 271. A proviso that debts may be deducted from credits in the assessment of property does not recognize debts as property within the requirement of the section that all property be taxed: State ex rel. Wolfe v. Parmenter, 50 Wash. 164. Credits are not property within the meaning of this and the next previous section requiring all property to be taxed in proportion to its value by uniform law, and providing that the deduction of debts from credits may be authorized, and Laws 1907, page 69, § 1, exempting the same, is valid: State ex rel. Wolfe v. Parmenter, 50 Wash. 164. Under the laws of 1893 and 1895 only partnership debts could be deducted from the assessed value of the credits: Barnes v. Flummerfelt, 21 Wash. 498. Bank stocks are credits within the meaning of this section: Pullman State Bank v. Manring, 18 Wash. 250; Anderson County v. First Nat. Bank, 38 Wash. 255. As to liability of shares of stockholders after insolvency, see Baker v. King County, 17 Wash. 622; Bramel v. Manring, 18 Wash. 421; Hewitt v. Traders' Bank, 18 Wash. 326.

Laws 1903, page 290, prescribing a scale of fees in probate, based upon the valuation of the estate is void because not uniform and having no relation to the services rendered: State ex rel. Nettleton v. Case, 39 Wash. 177. Laws 1895, page 105, "migratory stock tax," is not unconstitutional on the ground of making a distinction between different kinds of personal property for the purposes of taxation: Wright v. Stinson, 16 Wash. 368.

Laws 1899, page 295, § 12, the "migratory stock tax," is not unconstitutional on account of making distinctions as to the manner of assessments, but is unconstitutional so far as authorizing an abatement or reduction from the next regular assessment corresponding to the portion of the year that the goods were in the state: Nathan v. Spokane Count, 35 Wash. 26. See Eureka District Gold Min. Co. v. Ferry County, 28 Wash. 250.

§ 3. ASSESSMENT OF CORPORATE PROPERTY.—The legislature shall provide by general law for the assessing and levying of taxes on all corporation property as near as may be by the same methods as are provided for the assessing and levying of taxes on individual property.

Cf. Ala., XI, 6; Colo., X, 10; Ida., VII, 8; Ia., VIII, 2; Mont., XII, 7; Nev., VIII, 2; Ohio, XIII, 4; S. C., XII, 2.

§ 4. NO SURRENDER OF POWER OR SUSPENSION OF TAX ON CORPORATE PROPERTY.—The power to tax corporations and corporate property shall not be surrendered or suspended by any contract or grant to which the state shall be a party.

Cf. Ark., XVI, 7; Cal., XIII, 6; Colo., X, 9; Ida., VII, 8; La., 205; Mont., XII, 7; Me., IX, 9; Mo., X, 2; N. Dak., XI, 178; Pa., IX, 3; S. Dak., XI, 3; Tex., VIII, 4; Wy., XV, 14.

§ 5. TAXES, HOW LEVIED.—No tax shall be levied except in pursuance of law; and every law imposing a tax shall state distinctly the object of the same, to which only it shall be applied.

Cf. Mont., XII, 11.
Cited in 14 Wash. 381; 17 Wash. 141; 28 Wash. 45; 30 Wash. 445; 31 Wash. 146; 36 Wash. 454; 50 Wash. 256.

There is no limitation, under the constitution, upon the legislature's making provision for levy of taxes by county commissioners, for payment of obligations theretofore incurred by the county, as well as those to be incurred during the ensuing fiscal year: Mason v. Purdy, 11 Wash. 591.

Funds raised by a county for general purposes cannot be applied to the payment of assessment for local improvements: State ex rel. Latimer v. Henry, 28 Wash. 38. A charge made upon the passing of an estate is not a tax on property: State v. Clark, 30 Wash. 439.

§ 6. TAXES, HOW PAID.—All taxes levied and collected for state purposes shall be paid in money only into the state treasury.

Cf. Mont., XII, 10.

§ 7. ANNUAL STATEMENT.—An accurate statement of the receipts and expenditures of the public moneys shall be published annually in such manner as the legislature may provide.

§ 8. TAX TO COVER DEFICIENCIES.—Whenever the expenses of any fiscal year shall exceed the income, the legislature may provide for levying a tax for the ensuing fiscal year, sufficient, with other sources of income, to pay the deficiency, as well as the estimated expenses of the ensuing fiscal year.

Cf. Mont., XII, 12; Minn., IX, 2; Nev., IX, 2; Or., IX, 6; S. C., IX, 3; S. Dak., XI, 1; Wis., VIII, 5; W. Va., X, 5.

This section has application to matters of state revenue and expenses, and not to those of counties: Mason v. Purdy, 11 Wash. 591, 593.

§ 9. SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS OR TAXATION FOR LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.—The legislature may vest the corporate authorities of cities, towns, and villages with power to make local improvements by special assessment, or by special taxation of property benefited. For all corporate purposes, all municipal corporations may be vested with authority to assess and collect taxes, and such taxes shall be uniform in respect to persons and property within the jurisdiction of the body levying the same.

This section is identical with the Const. of Illinois (Const., § 9, Art. IX): Austin v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 667, 669; Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576; see notes to § 2 of this article.

There is no vested right, either in a municipal corporation or in the citizen, to have property assessed in any particular way, these matters, like others pertaining to such corporations, are entirely within legislative control: Heilig v. Puyallup, 7 Wash. 29.

The provisions of this section and of Art. XI, § 12, do not render invalid the act of March 9, 1893 (Laws 1893, p. 167), making the assessment-roll of a city of the first class the same as that of the county, and making the county treasurer ex-officio tax collector: State v. Carson, 6 Wash. 250; compare Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576.

The act of March 9, 1893, entitled "an act relating to internal improvements in cities, authorizing the issuance and collection of bonds upon the property benefited by local improvements, and declaring an emergency," is constitutional: Germond v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 365.

Charging the indebtedness of each of the former cities, consolidated under act of March 27, 1890, to the property within its limits is a regulation in accordance with equity and justice, and not forbidden by the provisions of this section: DeMattos v. New Whatcom, 4 Wash. 127.

The authority given by the legislature to validate certain municipal indebtedness, under act of Feb. 26, 1890 (§ 5, p. 225), already created in excess of the limit of one and one-half per cent, is not a void exercise of legislative power, or an attempt to assess and collect taxes on municipal corporations in violation of this section: Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576.

Where a municipal corporation has done an act beyond its statutory powers, but within the powers competent for the legislature to have conferred upon it, the act may be validated by a curative statute: Id., 587.

The requirement of the organic act, § 1924, refers to general taxation only, and not to special assessments for local improvements; § 7 of the Charter of Spokane Falls (Laws 1886, p. 302), providing that "real estate only shall be assessed" for local improvements, is, therefore, constitutional: Spokane Falls v. Brown, 3 Wash. 84.

The act relating to diking districts contained in § 4096, infra, is not unconstitutional under this section: Hansen v. Hammer, 15 Wash. 315.

Laws 1899, page 234, authorizing laying of water mains as local improvement is valid: Smith v. Seattle, 25 Wash. 300. The improvement by the state of its own tide lands, lying within the corporate limits of a city, does not violate this section: Mississippi Valley Trust Co. v. Seattle & Lake Wash. W. Co., 20 Wash. 272.

The act authorizing a city to initiate special assessments for local improvements, which provides that the apportionment of the tax shall be made by commissioners appointed by the superior court subject to revision by the court, is not obnoxious to this section: In re Westlake Avenue, 40 Wash. 144. Assessing property for local improvements in proportion to the assessment of the property for general taxation is void: Monk v. Ballard, 42 Wash. 35.

This section does not restrict the delegation of legislative power to authorize local improvements by special taxation of property benefited, to the corporate authority of cities, towns and villages: Hansen v. Hammer, 15 Wash. 15.

Section 7685, infra, providing that cities of the third class may levy and collect an annual street poll tax upon male inhabitants between certain ages, not members of a volunteer fire company, violates this section: State v. Ide, 35 Wash. 576. See Thurston County v. Tenino Stone Quarries, 44 Wash. 351. Laws 1905, page 140, authorizing cities of the third and fourth class to impose and collect an annual poll tax from male inhabitants over twenty-one years of age does not, by reason of the exemption of females and minors, violate the provisions of this section requiring uniformity in city taxes in respect to persons and property: Tekoa v. Reilly, 47 Wash. 202.

The drainage act of 1895 (§ 4275, infra) does not violate the provisions of this section in that it imposes upon the court and jury the duty of making an assessment: State ex rel. Matson v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 491.

Laws 1905, page 84, § 22, in relation to assessments for local improvements, is not invalid as delegating the levy of assessments to the superior court, or to other than corporate authorities: Seattle v. Seattle and Montana R. Co., 50 Wash. 132.

ARTICLE VIII.

PUBLIC INDEBTEDNESS.

§ 1. LIMITATION ON STATE DEBT.—The state may, to meet casual deficits or failure in revenues or for expenses not provided for, contract debts, but such debts, direct and contingent, singly or in the aggregate, shall not at any time exceed four hundred thousand dollars ($400,000), and the moneys arising from the loans creating such debts shall be applied to the purpose for which they were obtained, or to repay the debts so contracted, and to no other purpose whatever.

Cf. Cal., XVI, 1; Colo., XI, 3; Ida., VIII, 1; Mont., XIII, 2; N. Dak., XII, 182; N. Y., Rev., VII, 2 (identical); S. Dak., XIII, 2; Wy., XVI, 1.

Cited in 12 Wash. 542; 16 Wash. 572; 21 Wash. 208.

This section constitutes an "impassable barrier" to the creation of any indebtedness in excess of the limitation for any period of time, however brief, or for any purpose, however worthy: State v. McGraw, 12 Wash. 541, 543.

The act of March 22, 1895, creating a board of finance, is unconstitutional, under the provisions of this section: State v. McGraw, 12 Wash. 541.

School bonds issued against one fund and sold to another fund of the state do not constitute an increase of indebtedness within the prohibition of this section: State ex rel. Winston v. Rogers, 21 Wash. 206.

§ 2. POWERS EXTENDED IN CERTAIN CASES.—In addition to the above limited power to contract debts, the state may contract debts to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or to defend the state in war, but the money arising from the contracting of such debts shall be applied to the purpose for which it was raised, and to no other purpose whatever.

Compare reference to last section.

§ 3. SPECIAL INDEBTEDNESS, HOW AUTHORIZED.—Except the debt specified in sections one and two of this article, no debts shall hereafter be contracted by or on behalf of this state, unless such debt shall be authorized by law for some single work or object to be distinctly specified therein, which law shall provide ways and means, exclusive of loans, for the payment of the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within twenty years from the time of the contracting thereof. No such law shall take effect, until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election, and all moneys raised by authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object therein stated, or to the payment of the debt thereby created, and such law shall be published in at least one newspaper in each county, if one be published therein, throughout the state, for three months next preceding the election at which it is submitted to the people.

The majority required by this provision is a majority of those who vote upon the proposition, and not of those who may vote: Metcalf v. Seattle, 1 Wash. 297.

The act of 1893, authorizing the excavation of public waterways, and providing for liens upon the tide lands belonging to the state, does not violate this section: Seattle & Lake Wash. Waterway

Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 35 Wash. 503. As to validity of proposed plan to issue warrants for erection of a capitol building, see State ex rel. Attorney General v. McGraw, 13 Wash. 311.

§ 4. MONEYS DISBURSED ONLY BY APPROPRIATIONS.—No moneys shall ever be paid out of the treasury of this state, or any of its funds, or any of the funds under its management, except in pursuance of an appropriation by law; nor unless such payment be made within two years from the first day of May next after the passage of such appropriation act, and every such law making a new appropriation, or continuing or reviving an appropriation, shall distinctly specify the sum appropriated, and the object to which it is to be applied, and it shall not be sufficient for such law to refer to any other law to fix such sum.

Where the legislature designates the amount to be paid, and that it be paid out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, it is a sufficient compliance with this section without using the formal words "there is hereby appropriated," etc.: State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 191, 193.

Under this section, forbidding payment of money out of the treasury, except in pursuance of an appropriation by law, the state treasurer may, on that ground, lawfully question the legality of any warrant issued by the state auditor: State v. Lind-sley, 3 Wash. 125.

The proposed plan of the state capitol commission for the exchange, etc., of certain state warrants for the purpose of erecting a state capitol building, is not a violation of this provision of the constitution: State v. McGraw, 13 Wash. 311, 322.

§ 6. LIMITATIONS UPON MUNICIPAL INDEBTEDNESS.—No county, city, town, school district, or other municipal corporation shall for any purpose become indebted in any manner to an amount exceeding one and one-half per centum of the taxable property in such county, city, town, school district, or other municipal corporation, without the assent of three-fifths of the voters therein voting at an election to be held for that purpose, nor in cases requiring such assent shall the total indebtedness at any time exceed five per centum on the value of the taxable property therein, to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county purposes previous to the incurring of such indebtedness, except that in incorporated cities the assessment shall be taken from the last assessment for city purposes: Provided, That no part of the indebtedness allowed in this section shall be incurred for any purpose other than strictly county, city, town, school district, or other municipal purposes: Provided further, That any city or town, with such assent, may be allowed to become indebted to a larger amount, but not exceeding five per centum additional for supplying such city or town with water, artificial light, and sewers, when the works for supplying such water, light, and sewers shall be owned and controlled by the municipality.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2089-2092, §§ 385-392.

This provision is self-executing and sufficient, without further legislative sanction: Holmes & Bull F. Co. v. Hedges, 13 Wash. 696, 698; cited in State v. Hopkins, 14 Wash. 59, 67.

School districts are, within the contemplation of the constitution, municipal corporations: Maxon v. School Dist., 5 Wash. 142; but irrigation districts formed under Laws of 1890 (p. 671) are not: Board of Directors v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 147.

The limitation of this section, on counties contracting indebtedness in excess of one and one-half of one per cent, applies to the total indebtedness of counties, whether contracted prior or subsequent to the adoption of the constitution: Rehmke v. Goodwin, 2 Wash. 676.

Under the act of March 21, 1890, county commissioners are authorized to issue bonds for the purpose of funding existing county indebtedness up to the one and one-half per cent limit without a vote of the people: Id.; and if authorized to issue bonds for funding indebtedness without such vote, the fact that the bonds are issued pursuant to an election will not affect their validity: Hunt v. Fawcett, 8 Wash. 396; but they are not authorized to submit to a vote the question of ratifying county indebtedness incurred in excess of one and one-half per cent limitation; and, in order to validate additional indebtedness, there must be prior assent given thereto by a three-fifths vote at an election held for that purpose: Rahmke v. Goodwin, supra; see Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576.

The repayment of moneys for taxes illegally collected is not the incurring of a debt within the meaning of this section: Phelps v. Tacoma, 15 Wash. 367, 375.

A county is not authorized, under the Laws of 1890 (p. 37, § 3), after it has reached the one and one-half per cent limit, to borrow money upon an issue of bonds voted by the people and apply any of the proceeds to the redemption of its outstanding warrants within that limit, for the purpose of issuing new warrants in their stead for current expenses: Hunt v. Fawcett, 8 Wash. 396; cited in State v. Hopkins, 14 Wash. 59, 68.

The constitutional limitation of county indebtedness in this section does not include the necessary expenditures made mandatory in the constitution and provided for in the legislature, and which are thereby imposed upon the county: Ranch v. Chapman, 16 Wash. 568; Duryee v. Friars, 18 Wash. 55; Farquharson v. Yeargin, 24 Wash. 549.

Liabilities incurred by a county in conforming to the constitution and laws of the state, and those current expenses which are necessary to the maintenance and life of county government itself, are primary obligations, which, of necessity, always continue, and which are entitled to priority over liabilities incurred by the county for other purposes: Id.

If the municipal indebtedness, at date of incurring, is within five per cent of taxable property, as shown by last previous assessment, it may be validated by a subsequent vote, irrespective of assessed value at time of election: West v. Chehalis, 12 Wash. 369; see William v. Shoudy, 12 Wash. 362.

The constitution has cut off from every municipal corporation every subject of expense and indebtedness except those within the legitimate intendment of its organization; and as to cities it has fixed the one and one-half per cent limitation, beyond which they cannot incur indebtedness without the assent of their constituents: Yesler v. Seattle, 1 Wash. 308, 318.

The act of Feb. 26, 1890, confers on cities the power to become indebted to the limit prescribed by this section, the method and details of which are left to the city, except that the people must be consulted after the one and one-half per cent limit is reached: Id.

This provision is a limitation upon the powers, and not a grant of the right to incur indebtedness, and has no effect on cities until the data which gives life to such limitation is first ascertained: Childs v. Anacortes, 5 Wash. 452.

The assessment-roll for city purposes is made the basis for such limitation: Id.

Where a city has been recently incorporated and until a regular assessment for city purposes can be made, such city may take the last assessment-roll of the county as the basis of the valuation of the property, and declare the same to be the valuation of the city for the purpose of establishing a basis for incurring indebtedness: Id.

The term "assessment," as used in the constitution, and "assessment-roll," as used in the statutes, are correlative terms, and are interpreted to mean the aggregate of all taxable property as finally determined by official ascertainment: Seymour v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 427, 435.

Although warrants issued by a city may make its indebtedness in excess of the lawful limit, according to the valuation at the time when issued, yet, if such indebtedness was legal according to the valuation for the year in which it was incurred, the warrants are valid: Childs v. Anacortes, supra.

Municipal indebtedness for water, sewerage and light purposes is no part of the general indebtedness of a city, but is authorized, under this section, in excess of the five per cent permitted for general purposes: Austin v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 676; and such indebtedness is authorized in any sum, provided the total municipal indebtedness does not exceed ten per cent of its assessed valuation: Metcalf v. Seattle, 1 Wash. 297.

The act of March 7, 1891, providing for validation of warrants issued in excess of the one and one-half per cent limit, is not special legislation, but a curative act applicable only to what had been done before the date of its passage: Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576; West v. Chehalis, 12 Wash. 369.

A contract entered into by a city with one advancing moneys to it for the completion of a water system, providing for the creation of a special fund for repayment out of receipts, and that no obligation is to be assumed by the city except to make payments out of the special fund, is not an incurring of an indebtedness within the meaning of this section: Winston v. Spokane, 12 Wash. 524; Baker v. Seattle, supra.

The three-fifths majority required to carry an election, etc., is three-fifths of those persons who actually vote at the election, and not three-fifths who may have the right to vote: Metcalf v. Seattle, supra; Fox v. Seattle, 43 Wash. 74.

As the language of the constitutional provision permitting cities to incur an indebtedness up to five per cent of their taxable property, when authorized by the legislature, is not certain to the effect that the legislature must provide that the three-fifths vote of the citizens therefor shall be an antecedent one, the act of March 7, 1891, authorizing elections to ratify existing indebtedness in excess of one and one-half per cent limit, is not unconstitutional: Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576, 578.

An act authorizing counties to condemn land for a ship canal, entirely within the county, does not violate the provision of this section as to incurring debt for any other than county purposes: Lancey v. King County, 15 Wash. 9. For any general county purpose, the county commissioners may, without a vote, incur indebtedness not exceeding one and one-half per cent, etc.: Cochrane v. King County, 12 Wash. 518.

As to validity of warrants issued in excess of the limit, where bonds had been issued and proceeds partly diverted to other purposes, see State Savings Bank v. Davis, 22 Wash. 406.

A proposition to increase the indebtedness of a county, submitted at a general election, need only receive three-fifths of the votes cast by voters who specially voted thereon: Strain v. Young, 25 Wash. 578.

The provision prohibiting cities from incurring indebtedness cannot be construed as a prohibition upon the method of payment for water mains other than out of a general fund for that purpose: Smith v. Seattle, 25 Wash. 300. The transfer of general funds to a special fund for the purpose of constructing an extension to a water system is not the incurring of a municipal debt, within constitutional inhibition, where the special fund is solvent and the general fund is not impaired: Griffin v. Tacoma, 49 Wash. 525.

As to debts and expenditures subject to limitation, see Childs v. Anacortes, 5 Wash. 452; Phelps v. Tacoma, 15 Wash. 367; German-Amer. Sav. Bank v. Spokane, 17 Wash. 315; Hazeltine v. Blake, 26 Wash. 231. Current or necessary expenses: See Hull v. Ames, 26 Wash. 272; Gladwin v. Ames, 30 Wash. 608.

For public improvements, property or works, see Metcalf v. Seattle, 1 Wash. 297; Austin v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 667; Seymour v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 427. Warrants payable out of a special fund or from special assessments are no part of the municipal indebtedness limited by the constitution: Thomas & Co. v. Olympia, 12 Wash. 465; German-Amer. Sav. Bank v. Spokane, 17 Wash. 315; Wilson v. Aberdeen, 19 Wash. 89; Northwestern Lumber Co. v. Aberdeen, 22 Wash. 404; Potter v. Whatcom, 25 Wash. 207; Winston v. Spokane, 12 Wash. 524; Kenyon v. Spokane, 17 Wash. 57. The fact that the special fund which is to be provided is not in existence would not make expenditures incurred on the credit of such fund an indebtedness against the city: Faulkner v. Seattle, 19 Wash. 320. The limitation has no application to debt incurred in laying water mains charged against abutting property: Smith v. Seattle, 25 Wash. 300.

COMPUTATION OF LIMIT OR AMOUNT.—Taxes due and cash in the treasury must be deducted to determine the debt limit of a municipal corporation: State ex rel. Barton v. Hopkins, 14 Wash. 59; Graham v. Spokane, 19 Wash. 447; Rands v. Clark County, 15 Wash. 697; Kelley v. Pierce County, 15 Wash. 697; Eidenmiller v. Tacoma, 14 Wash. 376; also interest due on taxes assessed, levied and unpaid: State ex rel. American Sav. Union v. Whittlesey, 17 Wash. 447. See, also, State ex rel. Atkinson v. Ross, 43 Wash. 290.

§ 7. CREDIT NOT TO BE LOANED.—No county, city, town, or other municipal corporation shall hereafter give any money or property, or loan its money or credit, to or in aid of any individual, association, company, or corporation, except for the necessary support of the poor and infirm, or become directly or indirectly the owner of any stock in or bonds of any association, company, or corporation.

School districts are municipal corporations within the contemplation of the constitution: Maxon v. School Dist., 5 Wash. 142; State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 270; but irrigation districts are not: Board of Directors v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 147.

An act authorizing counties to condemn land for a ship canal, does not violate this section forbidding any county giving money or property, etc., to or in aid of any individual, etc.: Lancey v. King County, 15 Wash. 9. An ordinance of a city which in effect provides an arrangement whereby the city loans its credit is void: Moran v. Thompson, 20 Wash. 525. A county has no power to issue its negotiable bonds in aid of the acquisition by the United States of a completed ship canal in such county: State ex rel. Potter v. King County, 45 Wash. 519.

ARTICLE IX.

EDUCATION.

§ 1. PREAMBLE.—It is the paramount duty of the state to make ample provision for the education of all children residing within its borders, without distinction or preference on account of race, color, caste, or sex.

Cited in 13 Wash. 699; 16 Wash. 576; 17 Wash. 139; 40 Wash. 105.

§ 2. PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM.—The legislature shall provide for a general and uniform system of public schools. The public school system shall include common schools, and such high schools, normal schools, and technical schools as may hereafter be established. But the entire revenue derived from the common school fund, and the state tax for common schools, shall be exclusively applied to the support of the common schools.

The act of Jan. 31, 1888 (p. 15), requiring bonds to be taken from contractors by school districts, does not violate the last clause of this section: Pacific Mfg. Co. v. School Dist. No. 7, 6 Wash. 21; Maxon v. School Dist., 5 Wash. 142, distinguished.

The model training school in a state normal school is not a common school within this section: School District v. Bryan, 51 Wash. 498.

The act of the legislature providing for school districts in cities of ten thousand or more inhabitants is not unconstitutional on the ground that it affords a different and better system of education to such cities, which amounts to special legislation: Holmes & Bull Furniture Co. v. Hedges, 13 Wash. 696.

§ 3. FUNDS FOR SUPPORT OF.—The principal of the common school fund shall remain permanent and irreducible. The said fund shall be derived from the following named sources, to wit: Appropriations and donations by the state to this fund; donations and bequests by individuals to the state or public for common schools; the proceeds of lands and other property which revert to the state by escheat and forfeiture; the proceeds of all property granted to the state, when the purpose of the grant is not specified or is uncertain; funds accumulated in the treasury of the state for the disbursement of which provision has not been made by law; the proceeds of the sale of timber, stone, minerals, or other property from school and state lands, other than those granted for specific purposes; all moneys received from persons appropriating timber, stone, minerals, or other property from school and state lands other than those granted for specific purposes, and all moneys other than rental recovered from persons trespassing on said lands; five per centum of the proceeds of the sale of public lands lying within the state which shall be sold by the United States subsequent to the admission of the state into the Union, as approved by section thirteen of the act of Congress enabling the admission of the state into the Union; the principal of all funds arising from the sale of lands and other property which have been and hereafter may be granted to the state for the support of common schools. The legislature may make further provisions for enlarging said fund. The interest accruing on said fund, together with all rentals and other revenues derived therefrom, and from lands and other property devoted to the common school fund, shall be exclusively applied to the current use of the common schools.

Interest only on the school fund can be appropriated under the enabling act: State ex rel. Houston v. Maynard, 31 Wash. 12. Laws 1895, page 55, providing for the creation of a state normal school fund, etc., conflicts with the enabling act, section eleven: Id.

§ 4. SECTARIAN CONTROL OR INFLUENCE PROHIBITED.—All schools maintained or supported wholly or in part by the public funds shall be forever free from sectarian control or influence.

Cf. Cal., IX, 8; Colo., IX, 7; Ida., IX, 5; 11; Nev., XI, 9; S. Dak., VIII, 16; Wy., Ky., 189; La., 228; Mont., XI, 9; Miss., VII, 8. VIII, 208; N. Dak., VIII, 152; Neb., VIII,

§ 5. LOSS OF PERMANENT FUND TO BECOME STATE DEBT.—All losses to the permanent common school or any other state educational fund which shall be occasioned by defalcation, mismanagement, or fraud of the agents or officers controlling or managing the same shall be audited by the proper authorities of the state. The amount so audited shall be a permanent funded debt against the state in favor of the particular fund sustaining such loss, upon which not less than six per cent annual interest shall be paid. The amount of liability so created shall not be counted as a part of the indebtedness authorized and limited elsewhere in this constitution.

See infra, Art. XVI, § 5, investment of permanent school fund.

the particular fund sustaining the loss," etc., was not to render the fund less, but more, secure: State ex rel. Hellar v. Young, 21 Wash. 391.

ARTICLE X.

MILITIA.

§ 1. WHO LIABLE TO MILITARY DUTY.—All able-bodied male citizens of this state between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, except such as are exempt by laws of the United States or by the laws of this state, shall be liable to military duty.

The governor shall have power to call forth the militia to execute the laws of the state to suppress insurrections and repel invasions.²

§ 3. SOLDIERS' HOME.—The legislature shall provide by law for the maintenance of a soldiers' home for honorably discharged Union soldiers, sailors, marines and members of the state militia disabled while in the line of duty, and who are bona fide citizens of the state.

§ 4. PUBLIC ARMS.—The legislature shall provide by law for the protection and safe keeping of the public arms.

A county is a quasi municipal corporation organized exclusively in the interests

§ 2. COUNTY SEATS—LOCATION AND REMOVAL.—No county seat shall be removed unless three-fifths of the qualified electors of the county voting on the proposition at a general election shall vote in favor of such removal, and three-fifths of all votes cast on the proposition shall be required to relocate a county seat. A proposition of removal shall not be submitted in the same county more than once in four years.

The majority required to carry the question submitted to the electors under this section and § 6, Art. VIII, is a majority of those who vote upon that proposition: Metcalf v. Seattle, 1 Wash. 297.

The superior court has no jurisdiction of the subject matter of an action which seeks to enjoin the removal of a county seat on the ground of fraud committed in the election thereof: Parmeter v. Bourne, 8 Wash. 45.

The removal of a county seat is a political question, the regulation and control of which are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the legislative department: Id., 55. A private citizen and taxpayer has no such property interest in the location of a county seat as will give him a right of action to contest its removal: Id., 45; but in Rickey v. Williams, 8 Wash. 479, held, that an injunction will lie at the suit of a county officer to enjoin the removal of the county seat, when the board of commissioners had never obtained jurisdiction by proper petition to order the submission of the question.

A board of county commissioners is not vested with exclusive discretion in the matter of declaring the result of an election for removal of the county seat, but an attempt on their part to declare a result contrary to law is sufficient to give the superior court jurisdiction to enjoin them: Krieschell v. County Commissioners, 12 Wash. 428.

The commissioners may go behind the returns and examine the ballots for the purpose of determining the result: Heffner v. Board of County Commrs., 16 Wash. 273. Their decision cannot be reviewed by the courts: Id. The general act authorizing appeals from their decisions does not apply: Lawry v. Board of County Commrs., 12 Wash. 446.

§ 3. NEW COUNTIES.—No new county shall be established which shall reduce any county to a population less than four thousand, nor shall a new county be formed containing a less population than two thousand.¹ There shall be no territory stricken from any county unless a majority of the voters living in such territory shall petition therefor, and then only under such other conditions as may be prescribed by a general law applicable to the whole state. Every county which shall be enlarged or created from territory taken from any other county or counties shall be liable for a just proportion of the existing debts and liabilities of the county or counties from which such territory shall be taken:² Provided, That in such accounting neither county shall be charged with any debt or liability then existing, incurred in the purchase of any county property or in the purchase or construction of any county buildings then in use or under construction which shall fall within and be retained by the county: Provided further, That this shall not be construed to affect the rights of creditors.

As to alteration and creation of new counties, see Farquharson v. Yeargin, 24 Wash. 549. Under this section it cannot be presumed that the legislature has determined the prerequisite of population where the act attempting to create the new county contains provisions for taking a census to determine the population: State ex rel. Chehalis County v. Superior Court, 47 Wash. 453.

An act to create a new county out of a county bounded by several districts is void for indefiniteness and uncertainty, where it provides that the petition and proceedings therefor shall be transmitted by the governor to the superior judge of "the next nearest judicial district adjoining the judicial district" in which the county in question is situated, there being nothing to determine what superior court judge or district was intended: State ex rel. Chehalis County v. Superior Court, 47 Wash. 453.

§ 4. COUNTY GOVERNMENT AND TOWNSHIP ORGANIZATION.

The legislature shall establish a system of county government, which shall be uniform throughout the state, and by general laws shall provide for township organization, under which any county may organize whenever a majority of the qualified electors of such county voting at a general election shall so determine; and whenever a county shall adopt township organization the assessment and collection of the revenue shall be made, and the business of such county and the local affairs of the several townships therein, shall be managed and transacted in the manner prescribed by such general law.

This section does not authorize township organization upon a majority of those voting upon the question: State ex rel. Miliken v. Board of Commrs., 49 Wash. 70.

§ 5. ELECTION AND COMPENSATION OF COUNTY OFFICERS.

The legislature, by general and uniform laws, shall provide for the election in the several counties of boards of county commissioners, sheriffs, county clerks, treasurers, prosecuting attorneys, and other county, township, or precinct and district officers, as public convenience may require, and shall prescribe their duties and fix their term of office. It shall regulate the compensation of all such officers, in proportion to their duties, and for that purpose may classify the counties by population. And it shall provide for the strict accountability of such officers for all fees which may be collected by them, and for all public moneys which may be paid to them, or officially come into their possession.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 694-700, §§ 9-36.

This section should be construed with § 7, and when so construed, it seems clear that the "term" referred to in § 7 is the term authorized to be provided for in this section: Smalley v. Snell, 6 Wash. 161, 162.

The term "fix their term of office," is clear and unambiguous, and does not mean merely that the legislature is limited to fixing the time of the commencement and ending of such term, but that it may designate the duration and extent of the term of office: State ex rel. Hays v. Twichell, 9 Wash. 530, 532; see McMurray v. Hollis, 5 Wash. 458, 461.

Limitations imposed by this section are confined only to the officers of the county, as distinguished from mere clerks or deputies: Nelson v. Troy, 11 Wash. 435.

A duly elected road overseer does not become disqualified to hold his office by reason of a change of the boundaries of his road district, leaving his residence outside thereof, such change being prospective as affecting such office: State ex rel. O'Connell v. Nelson, 7 Wash. 114.

Under this provision and the statutes of this state a county treasurer is held strictly accountable for all public funds coming into his hands, and the exercise by him of ordinary care in the selection of a deposit for such funds will not excuse him from fully accounting for the moneys deposited therein, in case of subsequent insolvency of the banks, even if the county has not provided him with a suitable and safe place in which to keep the funds: Fairchilds v. Hedges, 14 Wash. 117.

As to duty of county commissioners to ascertain population of county, see State ex rel. Smith v. Neal, 25 Wash. 264. The power to fill offices provisionally in new counties is a necessary incident of the legislative power to create new counties: Farquharson v. Yeargin, 24 Wash. 549.

A law classifying counties by the number of their inhabitants and regulating the fees of officers and prescribing their duties with reference thereto is not local or class legislation: Henry v. Thurston County, 31 Wash. 638.

Road supervisors appointed by the county commissioners are not county officers: State ex rel. Griffith v. Newland, 37 Wash. 428.

The treasurer and his bondsmen are liable for loss of deposits in a bank, made with the approval of the county commissioners: Kittitas County v. Travers, 16 Wash. 528. Both the county and the treasurer are liable for damages for the acts of a receiver, in attempting to collect void taxes, when: Rose v. Pierce County, 25 Wash. 119. Treasurer not liable when: See Hoexter v. Judson, 21 Wash. 646.

Laws 1903 creating the office of county fruit inspector, to be appointed by the county commissioners for a term of years, violates the mandatory provisions of this section: State ex rel. Egbert v. Blumberg, 46 Wash. 270.

The board of county commissioners in each county shall fill all vacancies occurring in any county, township, precinct, or road district office of such county by appointment, and officers thus appointed shall hold office till the next general election, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

The provisions of this section are applicable to justices of the peace, and the same is self-executing: State ex rel. Moody v. Cronin, 5 Wash. 398.

The prosecuting attorney of a county, being a county officer, a vacancy in that office should be filled by appointment of the county commissioners, and not by the governor: State ex rel. McMartin v. Whitney, 9 Wash. 377.

The prosecuting attorney being a county officer, a vacancy in the office should be filled by appointment of the county commissioners and not by the governor: State ex rel. McMartin v. Whitney, 9 Wash. 377. This section is applicable to vacancies in the office of county commissioners, who have the exclusive right to fill such vacancy, § 327, Bal. Code, providing otherwise, being unconstitutional: State ex rel. Pendergast v. Fulton, 37 Wash. 271.

§ 7. TENURE OF OFFICE LIMITED TO TWO TERMS.—No county officer shall be eligible to hold his office more than two terms in succession.

A prosecuting attorney holding office under the provisions of Art. XXVII, § 6, of the Const., does not fill such a term as is contemplated by this section: Smalley v. Snell, 6 Wash. 161.

Under this section the incumbency of the office for a part of a term under the appointment of the county commissioners will not disqualify the officer from holding the office for the two succeeding terms: Koontz v. Kurtzman, 12 Wash. 59.

Term of office for two years and until a successor is elected is but one term which may be for more than two years: State ex rel. Meredith v. Tallman, 24 Wash. 426.

§ 8. SALARIES AND LIMITATIONS AFFECTING.—The legislature shall fix the compensation by salaries of all county officers, and of constables in cities having a population of five thousand and upwards, except that public administrators, surveyors, and coroners may or may not be salaried officers. The salary of any county, city, town, or municipal officer shall not be increased or diminished after his election or during his term of office, nor shall the term of any such officer be extended beyond the period for which he is elected or appointed.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2180, 2181, §§ 41-44.

A city has no power to change the salary of an officer during his term of office, and this provision is an express limitation upon the power of the council in this respect: Tacoma v. Lillis, 4 Wash. 797, 803.

As to the question of whether the city treasurer was an officer who would fall under this prohibition, it is plain that he is: Ballard v. Keane, 13 Wash. 201, 202.

Attorney's fees paid by delinquent taxpayers to county attorneys under the Law of 1891 (p. 231, § 105) cannot be allowed as extra compensation under this section: Spokane County v. Allen, 9 Wash. 229.

The law requiring city councils in cities of the third class to sit as a board of equalization, for which they may receive compensation, merely imposes a special duty upon such council, and an act relieving them of that duty does not violate this provision: Heilig v. Puyallup, 7 Wash. 29.

A legislative provision that the county treasurer shall receive the sum of $500 per annum for assessing and collecting city taxes does not contravene this provision. The additional salary in this case is for services outside the duties of county treasurer: State ex rel. Seattle v. Carson, 6 Wash. 250; nor is it in conflict with § 12 of this article, denying the legislature the right to impose taxes on municipal corporations: Id., 258.

Allowance of compensation to a deputy does not violate this provision, when at the time of the principal's induction into office there was a valid statute in force authorizing the employment of additional help when necessary: Nelson v. Troy, 11 Wash. 435.

The attempt to deprive a county treasurer of the compensation which the law at the time of his election gave him for duties as city tax collector, while leaving him still under obligations to perform such duties, is in conflict with this section, which prohibits the salary of an officer to be increased or diminished during his term of office: Mudgett v. Liebes, 14 Wash. 482, 486.

Under this section, the provision contained in § 4548, infra, providing that the county superintendent shall receive compensation at the rate of three dollars for each school visited, is invalid: Cox v. Holmes, 14 Wash. 255, 256.

Shortening the term or abolishing an office created by the legislature does not violate the provision of this section as to increasing or diminishing the salary of an officer during his term: Bogue v. Seattle, 19 Wash. 396. Nor does the allowance of witness fees to a policeman, although he receives a regular salary: State v. Saillard, 22 Wash. 267.

The prohibition against increasing or diminishing compensation of officers does not apply to officers receiving specific fees for specific services: State ex rel. Thurston County v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445. A county treasurer, who is also ex officio treasurer of a school district of his county is not entitled to additional compensation as such: School District v. Cole, 4 Wash. 395. As to additional compensation of county treasurer for collecting city taxes, see State ex rel. Olmstead v. Mudgett, 21 Wash. 99.

Extending the term of county superintendent by deferring the beginning of the term of office of his successor does not violate this section: State ex rel. Meredith v. Tallman, 24 Wash. 426.

Laws 1907, changing the title of county surveyor to county engineer, and changing compensation from $5.00 per day for time employed to a fixed compensation per year, violates this section and § 25 of Art. II, as the two sections must be construed together: State ex rel. Funke v. Board of Commrs., 48 Wash. 461.

An officer who has collected fees under authority of a statute is estopped from asserting that the statute can have no constitutional application to his office: Spokane County v. Allen, 9 Wash. 229.

§ 9. STATE TAXES NOT TO BE RELEASED OR COMMUTED.—No county, nor the inhabitants thereof, nor the property therein, shall be released or discharged from its or their proportionate share of taxes to be levied for state purposes, nor shall commutation for such taxes be authorized in any form whatever.

§ 10. INCORPORATION OF MUNICIPALITIES.—Corporations for municipal purposes shall not be created by special laws; but the legislature, by general laws, shall provide for the incorporation, organization, and classification, in proportion to population, of cities and towns, which laws may be altered, amended, or repealed.¹ Cities and towns heretofore organized or incorporated may become organized under such general laws whenever a majority of the electors voting at a general election shall so determine, and shall organize in conformity therewith;² and cities or towns heretofore or hereafter organized and all charters thereof framed or adopted by authority of this constitution shall be subject to and controlled by general laws.³ Any city containing a population of twenty thousand inhabitants or more shall be permitted to frame a charter for its own government consistent with and subject to the constitution and laws of this state, and for such purpose the legislative authority of such city may cause an election to be had, at which election there shall be chosen by the qualified electors of said city fifteen freeholders thereof, who shall have been residents of said city for a period of at least two years preceding their election, and qualified electors, whose duty it shall be to convene within ten days after their election, and prepare and propose a charter for such city. Such proposed charter shall be submitted to the qualified electors of said city, and if a majority of such qualified electors voting thereon ratify the same, it shall become the charter of said city, and shall become the organic law thereof, and supersede any existing charter, including amendments thereto, and all special laws inconsistent with such charter. Said proposed charter shall be published in two daily newspapers published in said city for at least thirty days prior to the day of submitting the same to the electors for their approval, as above provided. All elections in this section authorized shall only be had upon notice, which notice shall specify the object of calling such election, and shall be given for at least ten days before the day of election in all election districts of said city. Said elections may be general or special elections, and, except as herein provided, shall be governed by the law regulating and controlling general or special elections in said city. Such charter may be amended by proposals therefor submitted by the legislative authority of such city to the electors thereof at any general election, after notice of said submission published as above specified, and ratified by a majority of the qualified electors voting thereon. In submitting any such charter or amendment thereto, any alternate article or proposition may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to others.

All doubt as to the power of cities of this state, having a population of twenty thousand, to frame charters for their own government, is removed by the express language of this provision: Reeves v. Anderson, 13 Wash. 17, 21.

General laws cannot be affected by the adoption of a freeholders' charter, but they are binding upon the corporation: Seymour v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 138, 146.

The prohibition against special legislation in incorporating cities and towns is prospective in its operation, and does not affect existing special charters created under the territorial regime: Tacoma Land Co. v. Pierce Co., 1 Wash. 482. See Art. II, § 28, subd. 8.

The act of March 9, 1893 (p. 183), validating de facto towns, ineffectually attempting to incorporate under prior void acts, is constitutional, and not special legislation: Pullman v. Hungate, 8 Wash. 519; State ex rel. Bradley v. Berry, 13 Wash. 708; State ex rel. Rice v. Centralia, 8 Wash. 659.

The act of March 27, 1890 (p. 135, § 6), authorizing reincorporation of void municipal corporations, violates the constitutional inhibition against creating municipal corporations by special laws: Town of Denver v. Spokane Falls, 7 Wash. 226.

The act of March 27, 1890 (p. 138), authorizing cities and towns to consolidate, and to hold special elections therefor in each of the cities and towns proposed to be consolidated, does not contravene the provisions of this section: State ex rel. Cole v. New Whatcom, 3 Wash. 7.

The majority prescribed by this section requisite to carry a proposition authorized to be submitted to the electors is a majority of those who vote upon the proposition: Metcalf v. Seattle, 1 Wash. 297; and the vote necessary for the ratification of a proposed amendment to a freeholders' charter is a majority of those voting on the specific proposition, if submitted, at a general election: State v. Denny, 4 Wash. 135.

The act of February 26, 1890, requiring the incorporation, organization and classification of cities in proportion to population, does not violate this section, since the same authority was conferred upon municipal corporations to be thereafter organized by other legislation at the same session: Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576, 585.

This section must be construed to require the same publication of proposed amendments to a city charter as is required upon the adoption of the charter itself: Wade v. Tacoma, 4 Wash. 85.

The boundaries of a city, acting under a freeholders' charter, cannot be extended by an amendment of its charter; for an extension to be valid under the constitution it must be consummated by virtue of action under the general laws: State ex rel. Snell v. Warner, 4 Wash. 773, 776.

The constitution and statutes thereunder, authorizing the incorporation of cities and towns, do not confine the limits of the corporation to those of any pre-existing city or town, but the boundary may be established by the vote of the people within the limits of the proposed incorporation: Ferguson v. Snohomish, 8 Wash. 668.

This section authorizes cities to frame their own charters for self-government within certain limitations, hence Art. IV, § 33, freeholders' charter of Seattle, providing that a claim for damages against the city shall be presented within six months after the claim accrues and that no action should be maintained until sixty days after such presentation, is not unconstitutional, although the general law of limitations prescribes a three years' limit: Scurry v. Seattle, 8 Wash. 278, 279.

Cities authorized by the constitution to frame their own charters have no authority to provide therein for the creation of municipal or police courts. Such power is delegated by the constitution to the legislature, which can alone exercise it: In re Cloherty, 2 Wash. 137.

A city cannot adopt a charter empowering it to fix the price of gas to be furnished its inhabitants, under this section, authorizing cities of a specific population to frame charters, etc., where a general law authorizes such cities to regulate and control the use of gas, but contains no provision as to price: Tacoma Gas Co. v. Tacoma, 14 Wash. 288.

Where the legislature has passed a general law upon the particular subject, the power to fix rates for lighting the city must be found therein, and not under § 11 of this article: Id., 293, 294.

The salary of elective officers must be provided for in the charter and cannot be redelegated by the charter framers to the legislative bodies of such cities: Taylor v. Tacoma, 8 Wash. 174; Bardsley v. Sternberg, 18 Wash. 612.

The legislature having no authority to pass laws partaking of the character of special legislation, it cannot delegate such power to a city council: Tacoma v. Krech, 15 Wash. 296.

The vacation of streets is a legislative function which may be delegated by the legislature to municipal corporations: Ponischil v. Hoquiam Sash and Door Co., 41 Wash. 303.

The constitutional authority to frame a freeholders' charter does not authorize a city to exercise the power of eminent domain: Tacoma v. State, 4 Wash. 64. Nor to require registration at city elections: Seymour v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 138. Nor to provide a tribunal and clothe it with authority to determine an election contest: State ex rel. Fawcett v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 604. Nor to decide all questions as to qualifications and election of members of the city council in cases of contests: State ex rel. Navin v. Weir, 26 Wash. 501.

The proper classification of municipal corporations may be determined by a census taken for that purpose by the local authorities: Anderson v. Whatcom County, 15 Wash. 47; State ex rel. Smith v. Neal, 25 Wash. 264.

A charter of the city of the first class may be amended by a general law which affects every city of such class: State ex rel. Seattle v. Carson, 6 Wash. 250.

It is the evident policy of the state constitution that charters of cities of the first class and amendments thereto shall be subject to the control of general laws: Hyndman v. Boyd, 42 Wash. 17; Benton v. Seattle Electric Co., 50 Wash. 156. Permitting amendments to a charter to be adopted by a vote of the people is not an unwarranted delegation of legislative power: State ex rel. Mullen v. Doherty, 16 Wash. 382.

The adoption of charter amendments requiring the submission of the matter of granting franchises to a vote of the people is not unconstitutional as an unlawful delegation of legislative power to the people: Hyndman v. Boyd, 42 Wash. 17.

An ordinance fixing the minimum fine for a misdemeanor is not void, although the general law of the state fixes no minimum: Seattle v. Pearson, 15 Wash. 575. See, also, Seattle v. Chin Let, 19 Wash. 38.

This section does not permit the adoption of unreasonable charter limitations against claims and actions for damages against the city: Hase v. Seattle, 51 Wash. 174.

§ 11. POLICE AND SANITARY REGULATIONS.—Any county, city, town, or township, may make and enforce within its limits all such local, police, sanitary, and other regulations as are not in conflict with general laws.

The right of a municipal corporation to impound stock running at large, under charter powers, is a valid exercise of police power, and does not violate this section nor § 3 of Art. I: Wilson v. Beyers, 5 Wash. 303.

Bicycles are vehicles and their use in the streets is a proper subject for police regulation in the interests of public safety: Simpson v. Whatcom, 33 Wash. 392.

A municipal ordinance requiring fire escapes upon buildings of a certain description within prescribed limits is within the police power: Seattle v. Hinckley, 40 Wash. 468.

A legislative act supersedes an ordinance: Tacoma Gas & Elec. Light Co. v. Tacoma, 14 Wash. 288.

A city may regulate the speed of automobiles in the city, notwithstanding Laws 1905, page 293, requires a state license for automobiles, and prohibits cities from imposing any license on same: Bellingham v. Cissna, 44 Wash. 397.

As to sufficiency of compliance with charter provisions fixing license fees for retail liquor licenses, see Seattle v. Clark, 28 Wash. 717.

An ordinance prescribing an eight-hour day upon municipal construction work is not unconstitutional: In re Broad, 36 Wash. 449 (overruling Seattle v. Smyth, 22 Wash. 327); Normile v. Thompson, 37 Wash. 465. Nor is an ordinance prescribing the minimum wages to be paid for a day's labor: Gies v. Broad, 41 Wash. 448.

§ 12. ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION OF TAXES IN MUNICIPALITIES.—The legislature shall have no power to impose taxes upon counties, cities, towns, or other municipal corporations, or upon the inhabitants or property thereof, for county, city, town, or other municipal purposes, but may by general laws vest in the corporate authorities thereof the power to assess and collect taxes for such purposes.

There is no vested right, either in municipal corporations of third or fourth class, or citizens thereof, to have property assessed in any particular way; the legislature may change the mode of assessment at any time: Heilig v. Puyallup, 7 Wash. 29.

The provisions of this section are not violated by the enactment (Laws 1893, p. 301) providing for the establishment and improvement of highways in counties, etc., as the improvement is for a county purpose, and an assessment therefor is not a tax within the meaning of the constitution: Seanor v. County Commissioners, 13 Wash. 48, 61, 62.

The act of March 9, 1893 (p. 231), authorizing the issuance and collection of bonds upon the property benefited by local improvements, is constitutional and applicable to cities of every class: Germond v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 365.

Laws 1903, page 393, requiring the municipal authorities of a city to submit to a vote of the people charter amendments, etc., thereby compelling the city to incur the expense of such election, does not violate the provisions of this section: Hindman v. Boyd, 42 Wash. 17. Laws 1893, page 167, providing for the assessment and collection of taxes in cities of the first class does not violate the provisions of this section against the imposition by the legislature of taxes upon municipal corporations: State ex rel. Seattle v. Carson, 6 Wash. 250; Germond v. Tacoma, 6 Wash. 369; State ex rel. Seattle v. Abrahams, 6 Wash. 372. See, also, Pierce County ex rel. Maloney v. Spike, 19 Wash. 652.

The act of February 26, 1890, § 5, empowering certain cities and towns to extend their credit, etc., does not violate the provisions of this section prohibiting the legislature from imposing involuntary debts upon any city, etc.: Baker v. Seattle, 2 Wash. 576. Under this section and Laws 1899, page 290, § 6, cities were not granted power to impose penalties and interest on unpaid taxes: New Whatcom v. Roeder, 22 Wash. 570.

This section only authorizes a general law for the collection of taxes by the corporate authorities of a county for general county purposes: State ex rel. Latimer v. Henry, 28 Wash. 38.

Under this section and Const., Art. VII, § 9, the legislature may authorize the taxation, by cities, of persons, as well as property, within their limits: State v. Ide, 35 Wash. 576.

A county having acted upon a petition for the establishment of a county road cannot question the constitutionality of the act authorizing it: Seanor v. Board of County Commissioners, 13 Wash. 48.

§ 13. PRIVATE PROPERTY, WHEN MAY BE TAKEN FOR PUBLIC DEBT.—Private property shall not be taken or sold for the payment of the corporate debt of any public or municipal corporation, except in the mode provided by law for the levy and collection of taxes.

§ 14. PRIVATE USE OF PUBLIC FUNDS PROHIBITED.—The making of profit out of county, city, town, or other public money, or using the same for any purpose not authorized by law, by any officer having the possession or control thereof, shall be a felony, and shall be prosecuted and punished as prescribed by law.

The enactment of § 2812, infra, is in perfect harmony with this provision, and applies to public officers, such as city treasurer: State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288; see State v. Boggs, 16 Wash. 146.

Depositing funds of a city in a bank, subject to repayment on demand, is neither a loan nor an investment of the funds: Bardsley v. Sternberg, 18 Wash. 612.

§ 15. DEPOSIT OF PUBLIC FUNDS.—All moneys, assessments, and taxes belonging to or collected for the use of any county, city, town, or other public or municipal corporation, coming into the hands of any officer thereof, shall immediately be deposited with the treasurer, or other legal depository, to the credit of such city, town, or other corporation respectively, for the benefit of the funds to which they belong.

CORPORATIONS, HOW FORMED.—Corporations may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special acts.¹ All laws relating to corporations may be altered, amended, or repealed by the legislature at any time, and all corporations doing business in this state may, as to such business, be regulated, limited, or restrained by law.

§ 3. EXISTING CHARTERS NOT TO BE EXTENDED NOR FORFEITURE REMITTED.—The legislature shall not extend any franchise or charter, nor remit the forfeiture of any franchise or charter of any corporation now existing, or, which shall hereafter exist under the laws of this state.

§ 4. LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS.—Each stockholder in all incorporated companies, except corporations organized for banking or insurance purposes, shall be liable for the debts of the corporation to the amount of his unpaid stock, and no more, and one or more stockholders may be joined as parties defendant in suits to recover upon this liability.

§ 5. TERM "CORPORATION," DEFINED—RIGHT TO SUE AND BE SUED.—The term "corporations," as used in this article, shall be construed to include all associations and joint stock companies having any powers or privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships, and all corporations shall have the right to sue and shall be subject to be sued in all courts in like cases as natural persons.

§ 6. LIMITATIONS UPON ISSUANCE OF STOCK.—Corporations shall not issue stock, except to bona fide subscribers therefor, or their assignees; nor shall any corporation issue any bond or other obligation for the payment of money, except for money or property received or labor done. The stock of corporations shall not be increased, except in pursuance of a general law, nor shall any law authorize the increase of stock, without the consent of the person or persons holding the larger amount in value of the stock, nor without due notice of the proposed increase having been previously given in such manner as may be prescribed by law. All fictitious increase of stock or indebtedness shall be void.

Laws of 1901, page 356, regulating new corporations to be thereafter authorized to do business, in this state, and making them a class unto themselves, does not violate this section, where the law applies equally to all foreign and domestic corporations thereafter to be authorized to transact business: State v. Fraternal Knights & Ladies, 35 Wash. 338.

§ 8. ALIENATION OF FRANCHISE NOT TO RELEASE LIABILITIES.—No corporation shall lease or alienate any franchise, so as to relieve the franchise, or property held thereunder, from the liabilities of the lessor or grantor, lessee or grantee, contracted or incurred in the operation, use, or enjoyment of such franchise or any of its privileges.

so as to relieve it or property held thereunder from the liabilities herein imposed: Klosterman v. Mason County etc. Ry. Co., 8 Wash. 281.

§ 9. STATE NOT TO LOAN ITS CREDIT OR SUBSCRIBE FOR STOCK.—The state shall not in any manner loan its credit, nor shall it subscribe to or be interested in the stock of any company, association or corporation.

§ 10. EMINENT DOMAIN AFFECTING.—The exercise of the right of eminent domain shall never be so abridged or construed as to prevent the legislature from taking the property and franchises of incorporated companies, and subjecting them to public use the same as the property of individuals.

One railroad may condemn property of another not held for a public use: Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Bellingham Bay & E. R. Co., 29 Wash. 491.

§ 11. PROHIBITION AGAINST ISSUANCE OF MONEY AND LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS IN BANKS.—No corporation, association, or individual shall issue or put in circulation as money anything but the lawful money of the United States.¹ Each stockholder of any banking or insurance corporation or joint stock association shall be individually and personally liable equally and ratably, and not one for another, for all contracts, debts, and engagements of such corporation or association accruing while they remain such stockholders, to the extent of the amount of their stock therein at the par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such shares.

The double liability imposed by this section is a secondary, and not a primary, liability, the stockholders occupying the position of sureties: Wilson v. Book, 13 Wash. 676; Watterson v. Masterson, 15 Wash. 511. But this rule has no application to the limitation of actions, and does not require that the primary assets be exhausted and applied before recourse be had against the stockholder: Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253.

The superadded liability of the stockholder is personal and does not follow the stock: Shuey v. Holmes, 21 Wash. 223; Shuey v. Adair, 24 Wash. 378.

§ 12. RECEIVING DEPOSITS BY BANK AFTER INSOLVENCY.—

Any president, director, manager, cashier, or other officer of any banking institution who shall receive or assent to the reception of deposits after he shall have knowledge of the fact that such banking institution is insolvent or in failing circumstances, shall be individually responsible for such deposits so received.

This provision does not preclude the legislature from making officers of a bank criminally liable for the same act: State v. Oleson, 35 Wash. 149.

§ 13. COMMON CARRIERS, REGULATION OF.—All railroad, canal, and other transportation companies are declared to be common carriers, and subject to legislative control. Any association or corporation organized for the purpose, under the laws of this state, shall have the right to connect at the state line with railroads of other states. Every railroad company shall have the right with its road, whether the same is now constructed or may hereafter be constructed, to intersect, cross, or connect with any other railroad, and when such railroads are of the same or similar gauge they shall, at all crossings and at all points where a railroad shall begin or terminate at or near any other railroad, form proper connections so that the cars of any such railroad companies may be speedily transferred from one railroad to another. All railroad companies shall receive and transport each the other's passengers, tonnage, and cars, without delay or discrimination.

Grinsfelder v. Spokane St. R. Co.*, 19 Wash. 518. Irrigation companies are public carriers of water: Prescott Irrigation Co. v. Flathers, 20 Wash. 454. Owner of an office building is, in the operation of a passenger elevator: Edwards v. Burke, 36 Wash. 107.

RAILROAD CROSSINGS.—The right of one railroad to cross another would not justify such a crossing and recrossing of parallel roads as would amount to a longitudinal taking of property already devoted to a public use: Seattle & M. R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150. The petitioning railroad must accommodate itself to the first: Id. Railroad tracks constructed lengthwise upon a public street cannot be claimed to constitute part of the railroad company's yard so that another company could not cross the same: Id.

To justify the condemnation by one railroad for a crossing of the terminal grounds of another, great necessity therefor must be shown: State ex rel. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co. v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 389.

§ 14. PROHIBITION AGAINST COMBINATIONS BY CARRIERS.

No railroad company or other common carrier shall combine or make any contract with the owners of any vessel that leaves port or makes port in this state, or with any common carrier, by which combination or contract the earnings of one doing the carrying are to be shared by the other not doing the carrying.

No discrimination in charges or facilities for transportation shall be made by any railroad or other transportation company between places or persons, or in the facilities for the transportation of the same classes of freight or passengers within this state, or coming from or going to any other state. Persons and property transported over any railroad, or by any other transportation company, or individual, shall be delivered at any station, landing, or port at charges not exceeding the charges for the transportation of persons and property of the same class, in the same direction, to any more distant station, port, or landing. Excursion and commutation tickets may be issued at special rates.

§ 18. MAXIMUM RATES FOR TRANSPORTATION.—The legislature shall pass laws establishing reasonable maximum rates of charges for the transportation of passengers and freight, and to correct abuses and to prevent discrimination and extortion in the rates of freight and passenger tariffs on the different railroads and other common carriers in the state, and shall enforce such laws by adequate penalties. A railroad and transportation commission may be established, and its powers and duties fully defined by law.

Cf. Cal., XII, 22; Ga., IV, 2 (1); Ill., XI, 12; Neb., XI, 4.

The constitutional provision requiring the legislature to establish reasonable maximum transportation rates, does not prevent the delegation of such power to a railroad commission, since it further provides that the legislature may establish a railroad and transportation commission and define its powers; hence it does not prevent the establishment of a regulative commission with power to fix maximum rates in conflict with the maximum rate laws, and Laws 1907, providing such a commission, impliedly repeals former maximum rate laws of the state, upon the taking effect of conflicting rates established by the commission: State ex rel. Great Northern R. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 52 Wash. 33.

§ 19. TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE COMPANIES.—Any association or corporation, or the lessees or managers thereof, organized for the purpose, or any individual, shall have the right to construct and maintain lines of telegraph and telephone within this state, and said companies shall receive and transmit each other's messages without delay or discrimination, and all of such companies are hereby declared to be common carriers and subject to legislative control. Railroad corporations organized or doing business in this state shall allow telegraph and telephone corporations and companies to construct and maintain telegraph lines on and along the rights-of-way of such railroads and railroad companies, and no railroad corporation organized or doing business in this state shall allow any telegraph corporation or company any facilities, privileges, or rates for transportation of men or material or for repairing their lines not allowed to all telegraph companies. The right of eminent domain is hereby extended to all telegraph and telephone companies. The legislature shall, by general law of uniform operation, provide reasonable regulations to give effect to this section.

any public office within this state. The legislature shall pass laws to carry this provision into effect.

See supra, Art. II, § 39, and references.

§ 21. EXPRESS COMPANIES.—Railroad companies, now or hereafter organized or doing business in this state shall allow all express companies organized or doing business in this state transportation over all lines of railroad owned or operated by such railroad companies upon equal terms with any other express company; and no railroad corporation organized or doing business in this state shall allow any express corporation or company any facilities, privileges, or rates for transportation of men or materials or property carried by them, or for doing the business of such express companies, not allowed to all express companies.

See supra, § 15.

§ 22. MONOPOLIES AND TRUSTS.—Monopolies and trusts shall never be allowed in this state, and no incorporated company, copartnership, or association of persons in this state shall directly or indirectly combine or make any contract with any other incorporated company, foreign or domestic, through their stockholders, or the trustees, or assignees of such stockholders, or with any copartnership or association of persons, or in any manner whatever, for the purpose of fixing the price or limiting the production or regulating the transportation of any product or commodity. The legislature shall pass laws for the enforcement of this section by adequate penalties, and in case of incorporated companies, if necessary for that purpose, may declare a forfeiture of their franchise.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

§ 1. EDUCATIONAL, REFORMATORY AND PENAL INSTITUTIONS.—Educational, reformatory, and penal institutions, those for the benefit of blind, deaf, dumb, or otherwise defective youth, for the insane or idiotic, and such other institutions as the public good may require, shall be fostered and supported by the state, subject to such regulations as may be provided by law. The regents, trustees, or commissioners of all such institutions existing at the time of the adoption of this constitution, and of such as shall thereafter be established by law, shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate; and upon all nominations made by the governor, the question shall be taken by ayes and noes, and entered upon the journal.

ARTICLE XIV.

SEAT OF GOVERNMENT.

§ 1. STATE CAPITAL, LOCATION OF.—The legislature shall have no power to change or to locate the seat of government of this state; but the question of the permanent location of the seat of government of the state shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the territory, at the election to be held for the adoption of this constitution. A majority of all the votes cast at said election, upon said question, shall be necessary to determine the permanent location of the seat of government for the state; and no place shall ever be the seat of government which shall not receive a majority of the votes cast on that matter. In case there shall be no choice of location at said first election, the legislature shall, at its first regular session after the adoption of this constitution, provide for submitting to the qualified electors of the state, at the next succeeding general election thereafter, the question of choice of location between the three places for which the highest number of votes shall have been cast at the said first election. Said legislature shall provide further, that in case there shall be no choice of location at said second election, the question of choice between the two places for which the highest number of votes shall have been cast shall be submitted in like manner to the qualified electors of the state at the next ensuing general election: Provided, That until the seat of government shall have been permanently located as herein provided the temporary location shall remain at the city of Olympia.

§ 2. CHANGE OF STATE CAPITAL.—When the seat of government shall have been located as herein provided, the location thereof shall not thereafter be changed except by a vote of two-thirds of all the qualified electors of the state voting on that question, at a general election, at which the question of location of the seat of government shall have been submitted by the legislature.

Colo., VIII, 3; Ida., X, 2; Mont., X, 3; Wy., VII, 23.

§ 3. RESTRICTIONS ON APPROPRIATIONS FOR CAPITOL BUILDINGS.—The legislature shall make no appropriations or expenditures for capitol buildings or grounds, except to keep the territorial capitol buildings and grounds in repair, and for making all necessary additions thereto, until the seat of government shall have been permanently located, and the public buildings are erected at the permanent capital in pursuance of law.

ARTICLE XV.

HARBORS AND TIDE WATERS.

§ 1. HARBOR LINE COMMISSION AND RESTRAINT ON DISPOSITION OF CERTAIN TIDE LANDS.—The legislature shall provide for the appointment of a commission whose duty it shall be to locate and establish harbor lines in the navigable waters of all harbors, estuaries, bays, and inlets of this state, wherever such navigable waters lie within or in front of the corporate limits of any city, or within one mile thereof upon either side. The state shall never give, sell, or lease to any private person, corporation, or association any rights whatever in the waters beyond such harbor lines, nor shall any of the area lying between any harbor line and the line of ordinary high tide, and within not less than fifty feet nor more than six hundred feet of such harbor line (as the commission shall determine) be sold or granted by the state, nor its rights to control the same relinquished, but such area shall be forever reserved for landings, wharves, streets, and other conveniences of navigation and commerce.

See infra, Art. XVII, tide lands.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2404-2410, §§ 84-101.

"Tide lands" are "state" lands in a certain sense—that is, they belong to the state; but in all the nomenclature of our constitution and statutes the latter term does not include the former: Seattle & M. Ry. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 152.

Tide lands belong to the state, with full power of disposition thereof, restricted only by constitutions, state and national; and no individual can claim any easement in or impose any servitude upon them without legislative consent: Eisenbach v. Hatfield, 2 Wash. 236.

Under this provision, the board of harbor line commissioners is authorized to establish harbor lines in front of towns, as well as cities, as the word "cities" here used includes towns: State v. Harbor Line Commrs., 4 Wash. 6; and the act of March 31, 1895 (Laws of 1895, p. 406), authorizing the disestablishment of harbor lines in front of towns under certain conditions is unconstitutional, as being in conflict with this article, which contemplates that such lines, when once established, shall forever remain so: Wilson v. State Land

Commrs., 13 Wash. 65; see Stimson Mill Co. v. Harbor Line Commrs., 4 Wash. 6.

Under the provisions of this article, a riparian proprietor, within one mile of the corporate limits of any city, has no right to extend wharves in front of his land below high-water mark, except by permission of the state: Eisenbach v. Hatfield, supra.

The riparian proprietor's rights to future accretions, not yet in existence, give him no vested right, as there can be no present vested right in that which may never exist: Id.

The building by the state or its grantees of wharves upon shores of navigable waters is neither a taking nor a damaging of private property for public use: Id.

The act of 1854, authorizing bank owners to build wharves in front of their premises, was but a license, which the constitution and subsequent laws have abrogated: Id.

Under this section the term "commerce" must be construed as modified by the term "navigation"; and the curing and canning of fish, maintaining wholesale and retail fish markets, etc., are not "conveniences of navigation and commerce": State ex rel. Denny v. Bridges, 19 Wash. 44.

As to the validity of grant of tide lands to the United States, see State ex rel. Bussell v. Callvert, 33 Wash. 380.

§ 2. LEASING AND MAINTENANCE OF WHARVES, DOCKS, ETC.—The legislature shall provide general laws for the leasing of the right to build and maintain wharves, docks, and other structures, upon the areas mentioned in section one of this article, but no lease shall be made for any term longer than thirty years, or the legislature may provide by general laws for the building and maintaining upon such area wharves, docks, and other structures.

Cited in 1 Wash. 301; 13 Wash. 65; 22 Wash. 101.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2406, § 91.

As to construction of the clause regarding leasing for wharves, docks, etc., see State ex rel. Denny v. Bridges, 19 Wash. 44. The only right of the lessee is to make improvements for the purposes of navigation and commerce and receive remuneration therefor under state regulations: State ex rel. Trimble v. Bridges, 22 Wash. 98. The leasing of harbor line areas to the highest bidder by the harbor line commission is a purely executive or administrative act, and will not be controlled by writ of prohibition: State ex rel. White v. State Board of Land Commrs., 23 Wash. 700.

§ 3. EXTENSION OF STREETS OVER TIDE LANDS.—Municipal corporations shall have the right to extend their streets over intervening tide lands to and across the area reserved as herein provided.

Cf. Cal., XV, 1.

Cited in 4 Wash. 9, 10; 6 Wash. 333, 334; 6 Wash. 387; 7 Wash. 156; 10 Wash. 462; 11 Wash. 231; 13 Wash. 65; 17 Wash. 658; 19 Wash. 429.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 240, § 88.

The municipal corporations here referred to are only those having power to lay out streets: State v. Harbor Line Commrs., 4 Wash. 6, 10.

It would seem that the right to extend streets must end with the low tide line, for the easement or grant is only over "tide lands": State v. Forrest, 11 Wash. 227, 232.

The space between the harbor reserve and high tide line must be considered as "intervening tide lands," irrespective of location of low tide: State v. Forrest, 11 Wash. 227, 231.

To hold that this provision is self-executing might be very embarrassing when the matter of the disposal of the inner tide lands comes up (that matter being committed entirely to the legislature), since the state's officers can have no official knowledge of streets as laid out by a city: Seattle & M. Ry. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150, 156.

Under the constitution and laws of the state, cities of the first class have, as against private parties, the absolute right to extend their streets over and across tide lands lying within their corporate limits, subject only to the superior right of navigation in the waters covering such lands. The rights of the city in this respect are paramount to any rights of private parties: Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Seattle, 6 Wash. 332; Seattle v. Columbia etc. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 379.

The fact that certain tide lands afford a passageway over which logs can be floated to a sawmill, and thus are convenient to the operation of the mill, gives no right of purchase, in view of the fact that, under this section, an adjoining municipal corporation has authority to extend its streets over such lands and cut them off from all connection with the mill: Globe Mill Co. v. Bellingham Bay Imp. Co., 10 Wash. 458; cited in State v. Forrest, 11 Wash. 227, 233.

And a city cannot run such street extension across tide lands at an angle instead of a direct course: Ilwaco v. Ilwaco R. & Nav. Co., 17 Wash. 652. And the right is not a continuing one, when: See State ex rel. Gatzert etc. Land Co. v. Bridges, 19 Wash. 428. The state land commissioners appointed under the act of March 26, 1895, have no authority to review the action of local boards of tide land appraisers in the location of streets upon tide lands, which acts had been subsequently confirmed by the legislature: Seattle v. Forrest, 14 Wash. 423.

Prior to 1895, commissioners could not lay out streets across tide lands: Id.; Ilwaco v. Ilwaco R. & N. Co., 17 Wash. 652.

As to effect of laying out streets over tide lands by the tide land appraisers, see West Seattle v. West Seattle Land Co., 38 Wash. 359.

The legislature has the power to vacate streets platted across the tide lands of the state, when: Henry v. Seattle, 42 Wash. 420.

ARTICLE XVI.

SCHOOL AND GRANTED LANDS.

§ 1. DISPOSITION OF.—All the public lands granted to the state are held in trust for all the people, and none of such lands, nor any estate or interest therein, shall ever be disposed of unless the full market value of the estate or interests disposed of, to be ascertained in such manner as may be provided by law, be paid or safely secured to the state; nor shall any lands which the state holds by grant from the United States (in any case in which the manner of disposal and minimum price are so prescribed) be disposed of except in the manner and for at least the price prescribed in the grant thereof, without the consent of the United States.

Cf. Colo., IX, 10; Ida., IX, 8; N. Dak., IX, 163, 164.

Cited in 7 Wash. 152; 51 Wash. 55, 56.

Under this and the next section, title to state lands cannot be secured by adverse possession, and an act providing that limitations shall not run against the state violates this section: O'Brien v. Wilson, 51 Wash. 52.

§ 2. MANNER AND TERMS OF SALE.—None of the lands granted to the state for educational purposes shall be sold otherwise than at public auction to the highest bidder; and the value thereof, less the improvements, shall, before any sale, be appraised by a board of appraisers, to be provided by law, the terms of payment also to be prescribed by law, and no sale shall be valid unless the sum bid be equal to the appraised value of said land. In estimating the value of such lands for disposal, the value of improvements thereon shall be excluded: Provided, That the sale of all school and university land heretofore made by the commissioners of any county or the university commissioners, when the purchase price has been paid in good faith, may be confirmed by the legislature.

See references to § 1.

See note to previous section.

The provisions of the enabling act, that lands granted for the support of the public schools upon condition that such lands shall be sold only at public auction and for not less than ten dollars per acre, must be construed as modified by the state constitution, providing for the confirmation of sales of such lands theretofore made under the authority of territorial laws: Romine v. State, 7 Wash. 215.

§ 3. LIMITATIONS ON SALES.—No more than one-fourth of the land granted to the state for educational purposes shall be sold prior to January first, eighteen hundred and ninety-five, and not more than one-half prior to January first, nineteen hundred and five: Provided, That nothing herein shall be so construed as to prevent the state from selling the timber or stone off of any of the state lands in such manner and on such terms as may be prescribed by law: And provided further, That no sale of timber lands shall be valid unless the full value of such lands is paid or secured to the state.

§ 4. HOW MUCH MAY BE OFFERED IN CERTAIN CASES—PLATTING OF.—No more than one hundred and sixty acres of any granted lands of the state shall be offered for sale in one parcel, and all lands within the limits of any incorporated city, or within two miles of the boundary of any incorporated city, where the valuation of such lands shall be found by appraisement to exceed one hundred dollars per acre shall, before the same be sold, be platted into lots and blocks of not more than five acres in a block, and not more than one block shall be offered for sale in one parcel.

§ 5. INVESTMENT OF PERMANENT SCHOOL FUND.—None of the permanent school fund shall ever be loaned to private persons or corporations, but it may be invested in national, state, county, or municipal bonds.

This section is amended. See 1st amendment, infra.

See Art. IX, §§ 3 and 5, and references.

Cited in 7 Wash. 271, 272; 21 Wash. 208; 21 Wash. 392; 40 Wash. 100.

Under the provisions of this section the moneys in the permanent school fund may be invested in school district bonds, school districts being municipal corporations within the purview of the constitution: State v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 270; Board of Directors v. Peterson, 4 Wash. 147; Maxon v. School Dist., 5 Wash. 142.

Warrants are not bonds, and hence Laws 1899, page 53, authorizing the investment of permanent school fund in state warrants, violates the provisions of this section: State ex rel. Hellar v. Young, 21 Wash. 391. Such funds are expressly authorized to be invested in state bonds: State ex rel. Winston v. Rogers, 21 Wash. 206. But may not be invested in bonds issued to defray the cost of construction of waterworks in a city, payable out of the revenue of such waterworks system: State ex rel. Port Townsend v. Clausen, 40 Wash. 95.

ARTICLE XVII.

TIDE LANDS.

§ 1. DECLARATION OF STATE OWNERSHIP.—The state of Washington asserts its ownership to the beds and shores of all navigable waters in the state up to and including the line of ordinary high tide in waters where the tide ebbs and flows, and up to and including the line of ordinary high water within the banks of all navigable rivers and lakes: Provided, That this section shall not be construed so as to debar any person from asserting his claim to vested rights in the courts of the state.

See supra, Art. XV, harbors and tide waters.

Cited in 2 Wash. 245; 2 Wash. 259; 2 Wash. 265; 2 Wash. 279; 5 Wash. 159; 7 Wash. 152; 11 Wash. 233; 18 Wash. 499; 24 Wash. 644; 40 Wash. 373; 40 Wash. 418, 419; 49 Wash. 68; 49 Wash. 131.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 525, § 60; 2 Id., pp. 2124-2127, §§ 21-32; Id., pp. 2404-2410, §§ 84-102.

The rights of the state in tide lands is subject to the paramount right of the United States to regulate commerce and navigation; consequently, the United States, by its proper officers, is the only party that can interfere in cases of state legislation being opposed to that of Congress upon the subject of navigation and harbor lines; and, until the contrary appears, all such legislation must be presumed to be in the interest of trade and navigation: Harbor Line Commrs. v. State, 2 Wash. 531.

As the rule is a fixed one, that "high-water mark" is the limit of government grants, the fact that a portion of the tide flat is uncovered at low tide, and, in consequence, not covered by navigable water, will not render such tide flat subject to entry under what is known as the Valentine Scrip Act: Baer v. Moran Bros. Co., 2 Wash. 608.

A riparian owner of land, by reason of such ownership, can assert no valuable right below the line of ordinary high tide, as against the state. The provision of this section, that no person shall be debarred from asserting his claim to vested rights in the courts of this state, applies only to some special rights held by a riparian owner by way of improvement made under express or implied license from the representative of the sovereign power, and not to a vested right incident to riparian ownership: Harbor Line Commrs. v. State, 2 Wash. 530.

Tide lands in the state of Washington belong to the state, which has full power to dispose of them subject only to the restrictions imposed by the constitutions of the state and of the United States: Eisenbach v. Hatfield, 2 Wash. 236; Board of Harbor Line Commrs. v. State, 2 Wash. 530; State ex rel. Stimson Mill Co. v. Harbor Line Commrs., 4 Wash. 6; State ex rel. Columbia etc. R. Co. v. Harbor Line Commrs., 4 Wash. 816; Morse v. O'Connell, 7 Wash. 117; Allen v. Forrest, 8 Wash. 700; Sullivan v. Callvert, 27 Wash. 600.

Lands lying below the line of ordinary high-water mark in a fresh-water lake belong to the state: McCue v. Bellingham Bay etc. Co., 5 Wash. 156.

The assertion in this section as to ownership embraces a claim of title extending below the low tide line: State ex rel. McKenzie v. Forrest, 11 Wash. 227.

This section should not be construed as affecting the rights of riparian proprietors upon non-navigable waters, though their source is in navigable waters: New Whatcom v. Fairhaven Land Co., 24 Wash. 493.

A small lake having no navigable inlet or outlet, upon which a small steamer is run during the camping season, is navigable within the meaning of this section: Madson v. Spokane Valley Land etc. Co., 40 Wash. 414. See, also, Kalez v. Spokane Valley etc. Co., 42 Wash. 43.

The navigability of waters must not depend upon artificial means: East Hoquiam Boom & Log Co. v. Neeson, 20 Wash. 142.

An unmeandered fresh water river not a navigable stream, when: Griffith v. Holman, 23 Wash. 347.

A channel in a slough, forming an arm of Puget Sound, is a navigable stream in a legal sense, though not navigable at low tide: Dawson v. McMillen, 34 Wash. 269.

"Navigable streams," as used in this section, has reference only to such streams as are navigable for general commercial purposes, and not to those which are public highways merely for the floating of logs and timber products: Watkins v. Dorris, 24 Wash. 636.

The title relinquished by the general government to the state to all tide and shore lands is applicable only to such lands as lie between the meander line and low-water mark: Washougal etc. Trans. Co. v. Dalles etc. Nav. Co., 27 Wash. 490.

The United States had power to grant to a railroad corporation, for some purposes, at least, lands below high-water mark of tide waters: Kneeland v. Korter, 40 Wash. 359.

A meandered slough is not navigable to the extent of requiring the consent of the United States to its obstruction, when: See State ex rel. Matson v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 491.

Tide lands belonging to the state cannot be taken under the eminent domain act: Seattle & M. R. Co. v. State, 7 Wash. 150.

The right of a riparian owner to future accretions to his land is not a vested right: Eisenback v. Hatfield, 2 Wash. 236.

Where an applicant for tide lands has complied with all the preliminary requirements of the existing law at the time of his application, which would entitle him to a contract of sale, he has acquired a vested right in such lands, of which he cannot be deprived by a subsequent repeal of the law under which his application was made: State ex rel. Billings v. Bridges, 22 Wash. 64.

Abutters on tide lands have no vested right therein by reason of their preference right to purchase the same: Seattle etc. Waterway Co. v. Seattle Dock Co., 35 Wash. 503.

§ 2. DISCLAIMER OF CERTAIN LANDS.—The state of Washington disclaims all title in and claim to all tide, swamp, and overflowed lands patented by the United States: Provided, The same is not impeached for fraud.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2405, § 86.

There was no occasion for mentioning swamp and overflowed lands in this section, since they were expressly withheld from the state by § 17 of the enabling act: Baer v. Moran Bros. Co., 2 Wash. 608, 615.

The disclaimer in this section, while not in terms confirmatory of titles so acquired, is substantially a grant to the patentees of the interests of the state in such lands: Scurry v. Jones, 4 Wash. 468. The disclaimer is as broad as the claim of title in § 1: Id; State ex rel. McKenzie v. Forrest, 11 Wash. 227.

Under this section, unless impeached for fraud, the state can assert no title to patented tide lands, although lying below the line of ordinary high tide: Cogswell v. Forrest, 14 Wash. 1.

As to littoral rights of grantee in the abutting tide lands under conveyance from patentee under patent covering upland and tide land, see Denny v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 19 Wash. 298.

Under the enabling act, § 4, and this section, the state has no authority to sell tide lands within the limits of an Indian reservation and patented to individual members of the tribe prior to statehood: Jones v. Callvert, 32 Wash. 610.

Presumption as to disclaimer in this section where the meander line of the government survey was run years before the adoption of the constitution: See Kneeland v. Korter, 40 Wash. 359. The disclaimer applies to lands granted to a railroad corporation prior to the admission of the state, although patent therefor did not issue until thereafter, when: Kneeland v. Korter, 40 Wash. 359.

ARTICLE XVIII.

STATE SEAL.

§ 1. SEAL OF THE STATE.—The seal of the state of Washington shall be a seal encircled with the words, "The seal of the state of Washington," with the vignette of General George Washington as the central figure, and beneath the vignette the figures "1889."

See supra, Art. III, § 18, and references.

ARTICLE XIX.

EXEMPTIONS.

§ 1. EXEMPTIONS — HOMESTEADS, ETC.—The legislature shall protect by law from forced sale a certain portion of the homestead and other property of all heads of families.

Cf. Ala., X; Ark., IX; Cal., XVII, 1; Colo., XVIII, 1; Fla., X, Ga., IX; Ill., IV, 32; Kan., XV, 9; Mich., XVI; Mont., XIX, 4; N. Dak., XVII, 208; Nev., IV, 30; N. C., X; S. Dak., XXI, 4; Tenn., XI, 11; Tex., XVI, 51; Va., XI; W. Va., VI, 48; Wy., XIX, 1.

Cited in 20 Wash. 7; 14 Wash. 520; 43 Wash. 182.

The provision that the legislature shall by law protect a certain portion of the homestead from forced sale, does not apply when the homestead has been voluntarily encumbered: Or. Mortgage Co. v. Hersner, 14 Wash. 515; Stone v. So Relle, 14 Wash. 704.

ARTICLE XX.

PUBLIC HEALTH AND VITAL STATISTICS.

§ 1. BOARD OF HEALTH AND BUREAU OF VITAL STATISTICS.—There shall be established by law a state board of health and a bureau of vital statistics in connection therewith, with such powers as the legislature may direct.

Cal., XX, 14; Tex., XVI, 32.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 522, 523, §§ 44-50.

Where it is ascertainable from an act that its object was the public health and its provisions are appropriate and adapted to that end, it cannot be defeated as an arbitrary exercise of the legislative will under the guise of the police power: State v. Buchanan, 29 Wash. 602.

Restricting the right to own, run, or manage a dental office is not a proper exercise of the police power, since technical knowledge or skill is not essential to the proper exercise of such right and is not required for the well-being of the public, and the acts in question do not injuriously affect the health, good order, or safety of society: State v. Brown, 37 Wash. 97.

An act regulating the practice of medicine and restricting it to persons duly licensed is a valid exercise of the police power: Fox v. Territory, 2 W. T. 297; State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424.

This power to thus restrict occupations affecting public health and comfort extends to the practice of dentistry: State ex rel. Smith v. Board of Examiners, 31 Wash. 492; In re Thompson, 36 Wash. 377; State v. Brown, 37 Wash. 106; State v. Sexton, 37 Wash. 110. Also, to the trade of barbers: State v. Sharpless, 31 Wash. 191. But the police power does not extend to the licensing of blacksmiths: In re Aubrey, 36 Wash. 308. Nor to plumbers: State ex rel. Richey v. Smith, 42 Wash. 237.

§ 2. REGULATIONS CONCERNING MEDICINE, SURGERY AND PHARMACY.—The legislature shall enact laws to regulate the practice of medicine and surgery, and the sale of drugs and medicines.

See notes to previous section.

ARTICLE XXI.

WATER AND WATER RIGHTS.

§ 1. PUBLIC USE OF WATER.—The use of the waters of this state for irrigation, mining, and manufacturing purposes shall be deemed a public use.

Cf. Cal., XIV, 1; Colo., XVI, 5; Ida., XV, 1; Mont. II, 15; N. Dak., XVII, 210; Wy., IX, 1.

Cited in 20 Wash. 458; 39 Wash. 668.

This section is in conflict with the due process clause in the federal constitution to the extent of taking private property for uses essentially private: State ex rel.

Tacoma Industrial Company v. White River Power Co., 39 Wash. 648.

The condemnation of land for an irrigation ditch constitutes a public use: Prescott Irrigation Co. v. Flathers, 20 Wash. 154.

The state can make any use of the waters or body of a navigable lake and confer the rights of irrigation therein: Kalez v. Spokane Valley etc. Co., 42 Wash. 43.

ARTICLE XXII.

LEGISLATIVE APPORTIONMENTS.

§ 1. SENATORIAL APPORTIONMENT.—Until otherwise provided by law, the state shall be divided into twenty-four senatorial districts, and said districts shall be constituted and numbered as follows: The counties of Stevens and Spokane shall constitute the first district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Spokane shall constitute the second district, and be entitled to three senators; the county of Lincoln shall constitute the third district, and be entitled to one senator; the counties of Okanogan, Lincoln, Adams, and Franklin shall constitute the fourth district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Whitman shall constitute the fifth district, and be entitled to three senators; the counties of Garfield and Asotin shall constitute the sixth district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Columbia shall constitute the seventh district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Walla Walla shall constitute the eighth district, and be entitled to two senators; the counties of Yakima and Douglas shall constitute the ninth district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Kittitas shall constitute the tenth district, and be entitled to one senator; the counties of Klickitat and Skamania shall constitute the eleventh district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Clarke shall constitute the twelfth district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Cowlitz shall constitute the thirteenth district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Lewis shall constitute the fourteenth district, and be entitled to one senator; the counties of Pacific and Wahkiakum shall constitute the fifteenth district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Thurston shall constitute the sixteenth district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Chehalis shall constitute the seventeenth district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Pierce shall constitute the eighteenth district, and be entitled to three senators; the county of King shall constitute the nineteenth district, and be entitled to five senators; the counties of Mason and Kitsap shall constitute the twentieth district, and be entitled to one senator; the counties of Jefferson, Clallam, and San Juan shall constitute the twenty-first district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Snohomish shall constitute the twenty-second district, and shall be entitled to one senator; the counties of Skagit and Island shall constitute the twenty-third district, and be entitled to one senator; the county of Whatcom shall constitute the twenty-fourth district, and be entitled to one senator.

§ 2. APPORTIONMENT OF REPRESENTATIVES.—Until otherwise provided by law, the representatives shall be divided among the several counties of the state in the following manner: The county of Adams shall have one representative; the county of Asotin shall have one representative; the county of Chehalis shall have two representatives; the county of Clarke shall have three representatives; the county of Clallam shall have one representative; the county of Columbia shall have two representatives; the county of Cowlitz shall have one representative; the county of Douglas shall have one to call a convention to revise or amend this constitution, they shall recommend to the electors to vote at the next general election for or against a convention; and if a majority of all the electors voting at said election shall have voted for a convention, the legislature shall at the next session provide by law for calling the same; and such convention shall consist of a number of members, not less than that of the most numerous branch of the legislature.

Cal., XVIII, 2.

Cited in 1 Wash. 301; 49 Wash. 75.

§ 3. SUBMISSION TO THE PEOPLE.—Any constitution adopted by such convention shall have no validity until it has been submitted to and adopted by the people.

BOUNDARIES.

§ 1. The majority required for an amendment to the constitution under this and the next section is three-fifths of those voting on the question submitted: Metcalf v. Seattle, 1 Wash. 297.

The above remark was made in construing other sections of the constitution, and not this section, and in Strain v. Young, 25 Wash. 383, it is implied that the language of this section is susceptible to another construction.

§ 2. CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTIONS.—Whenever two-thirds of the members elected to each branch of the legislature shall deem it necessary or other evidences in writing of the title of the United States: And provided, That all civil process issued from the courts of this state, and such criminal process as may issue under the authority of this state, against any person charged with crime in cases arising outside of such reservations, may be served and executed thereon in the same mode and manner and by the same officers as if the consent herein given had not been made.

COMPACT WITH THE UNITED STATES.

The following ordinance shall be irrevocable without the consent of the United States and the people of this state:—

First. That perfect toleration of religious sentiment shall be secured, and that no inhabitant of this state shall ever be molested in person or property on account of his or her mode of religious worship.

Second. That the people inhabiting this state do agree and declare that they forever disclaim all right and title to the unappropriated public lands lying within the boundaries of this state, and to all lands lying within said limits owned or held by any Indian or Indian tribes; and that until the title thereto shall have been extinguished by the United States, the same shall be and remain subject to the disposition of the United States, and said Indian lands shall remain under the absolute jurisdiction and control of the congress of the United States, and that the lands belonging to citizens of the United States residing without the limits of this state shall never be taxed at a higher rate than the lands belonging to residents thereof, and that no taxes shall be imposed by the state on lands or property therein belonging to or which may be hereafter purchased by the United States or reserved for use: Provided, That nothing in this ordinance shall preclude the state from taxing, as other lands are taxed, any lands owned or held by any Indian who has severed his tribal relations, and has obtained from the United States or from any person a title thereto by patent or other grant, save and except such lands as have been or may be granted to any Indian or Indians under any act of congress containing a provision exempting the lands thus granted from taxation, which exemption shall continue so long and to such an extent as such act of congress may prescribe.

Third. The debts and liabilities of the territory of Washington, and payment of the same, are hereby assumed by this state.

Fourth. Provision shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of systems of public schools free from sectarian control, which shall be open to all the children of said state.

Public lands of the general government may be made part of an Indian reservation by an executive proclamation by the President of the United States: Jones v. Callvert, 32 Wash. 610.

ARTICLE XXVII.

SCHEDULE.

In order that no inconvenience may arise by reason of a change from a territorial to a state government, it is hereby declared and ordained as follows:—

§ 1. EXISTING RIGHTS, ACTIONS AND CONTRACTS SAVED.—No existing rights, actions, suits, proceedings, contracts, or claims shall be affected by a change in the form of government, but all shall continue as if no such change had taken place; and all process which may have been issued under the authority of the territory of Washington previous to its admission into the Union shall be as valid as if issued in the name of the state.

§ 2. LAWS IN FORCE CONTINUED.—All laws now in force in the territory of Washington which are not repugnant to this constitution shall remain in force until they expire by their own limitation, or are altered or repealed by the legislature: Provided, That this section shall not be so construed as to validate any act of the legislature of Washington Territory granting shore or tide lands to any person, company, or any municipal or private corporation.

Where the highest judicial authority of the territory has decided a law invalid because its object was not clearly expressed in the title, the above section does not continue it as a law "then in force": State v. Halbert, 14 Wash. 306; Id., 703; State v. Smith, 15 Wash. 698.

This section cannot be construed as reenacting a statute, but merely as continuing in force all valid laws which were then in existence: State v. Ellis, 22 Wash. 129.

The constitution and laws have abrogated the act of the territorial legislature of 1884 authorizing certain owners to build wharves in front of their premises: Eisenbach v. Hatfield, 2 Wash. 236.

Session Laws 1869, page 408, and Bal. Code, §§ 155-164, regarding the payment of interest on warrants, were carried forward and made a part of the statutes by virtue of this section: State ex rel. Capital Nat. Bank v. Young, 22 Wash. 547.

As to the duties of the attorney general, under territorial laws, kept in force by this section, see State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Seattle Gas Co., 28 Wash. 488.

§ 3. DEBTS, FINES, ETC., TO INURE TO THE STATE.—All debts, fines, penalties, and forfeitures which have accrued or may hereafter accrue to the territory of Washington shall inure to the state of Washington.

§ 4. RECOGNIZANCES.—All recognizances heretofore taken or which may be taken before the change from a territorial to a state government shall remain valid, and shall pass to and may be prosecuted in the name of the state, and all bonds executed to the territory of Washington, or to any county or municipal corporation, or to any officer or court in his or its official capacity, shall pass to the state authorities and their successors in office, for the uses therein expressed, and may be sued for and recovered accordingly; and all the estate, real, personal, and mixed, and all judgments, decrees, bonds, specialties, choses in action, and claims or debts, of whatever description belonging to the territory of Washington shall inure to and vest in the state of Washington, and may be sued for and recovered in the same manner and to the same extent by the state of Washington as the same could have been by the territory of Washington.

Cf. Colo., S. 3, 22; Ida., S. 4; Mont., S. 11; N. Dak., S. 4, 5; Wy., S. 2, 5.

§ 5. CRIMINAL PROSECUTIONS AND PENAL ACTIONS.—All criminal prosecutions and penal actions which may have arisen, or which may arise, before the change from a territorial to a state government, and which shall then be pending, shall be prosecuted to judgment and execution in the name of the state. All offenses committed against the laws of the territory of Washington, before the change from a territorial to state government, and which shall not be prosecuted before such change, may be prosecuted in the name and by the authority of the state of Washington, with like effect as though such change had not taken place; and all penalties incurred shall remain the same as if this constitution had not been adopted. All actions at law and suits in equity which may be pending in any of the courts of the territory of Washington at the time of a change from a territorial to a state government shall be continued and transferred to the court of the state having jurisdiction of the subject matter thereof.

Cited in 2 Wash. 3; 6 Wash. 159.

Under the provisions of the enabling act and constitution for the transfer of causes pending in the territorial supreme court to the state supreme court, the state supreme court acquired all the powers of the territorial court under the territorial statutes to remand criminal cases to the successors of the territorial district court, for the execution of its judgments: Way v. Woolery, 6 Wash. 157.

The removal of a cause from a justice of the peace to the superior court under the form of an appeal, the action not having been brought to judgment prior to the admission of the state, and being beyond the constitutional limit of jurisdiction in justice's court, was held to be a compliance with this section: Moore v. Perrott, 2 Wash. 1.

§ 6. RETENTION OF TERRITORIAL OFFICERS.—All officers now holding their office under the authority of the United States, or of the territory of Washington, shall continue to hold and exercise their respective offices until they shall be superseded by the authority of the state.

See notes to Art. XI, § 7.

Cited in 6 Wash. 161, 163; 8 Wash. 472; 28 Wash. 16; 28 Wash. 498.

As all laws were continued in force and all officers continued in office by this section and § 2, supra, of the schedule, the county auditor was likewise continued in office: Garneau v. Port Blakeley M. Co., 8 Wash. 467.

The time of holding an office, under the provisions of this section, is not a "term" within the contemplation of Art. XI, § 7, supra: Smalley v. Snell, 6 Wash. 161.

§ 7. CONSTITUTIONAL OFFICERS, WHEN ELECTED.—All officers provided for in this constitution, including a county clerk for each county, when no other time is fixed for their election, shall be elected at the election to be held for the adoption of this constitution on the first Tuesday of October, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine.

§ 8. CHANGE OF COURTS — TRANSFER OF CAUSES.—Whenever the judge of the superior court of any county, elected or appointed under the provisions of this constitution, shall have qualified, the several causes then pending in the district court of the territory, except such causes as would have been within the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States district court, had such court existed at the time of the commencement of such causes within such county, and the records, papers, and proceedings of said district court, and the seal and other property pertaining thereto, shall pass into the jurisdiction and possession of the superior court of such county. And where the same judge is elected for two or more counties, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the district court having custody of such papers and records to transmit to the clerk of such county or counties other than that in which such records are kept the original papers in all cases pending in such district court and belonging to the jurisdiction of such county or counties, together with transcript of so much of the records of said district court as relate to the same; and until the district courts of the territory shall be superseded in manner aforesaid, the said district courts and the judges thereof shall continue with the same jurisdiction and powers, to be exercised in the same judicial districts respectively, as heretofore constituted under the laws of the territory. Whenever a quorum of the judges of the supreme court of the state shall have been elected and qualified, the causes then pending in the supreme court of the territory, except such causes as would have been within the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States circuit court had such court existed at the time of the commencement of such causes, and the papers, records, and proceedings of said court, and the seal and other property pertaining thereto, shall pass into the jurisdiction and possession of the supreme court of the state, and until so superseded the supreme court of the territory and the judges thereof shall continue with like powers and jurisdiction as if this constitution had not been adopted.

Colo., S. 5; Ida., S. 16; Mont., S. 14, 15; N. Dak., S. 6; Wy., S. 15.

§ 9. SEALS OF COURTS AND MUNICIPALITIES.—Until otherwise provided by law, the seal now in use in the supreme court of the territory shall be the seal of the supreme court of the state. The seal of the superior courts of the several counties of the state shall be, until otherwise provided by law, the vignette of General George Washington, with the words "Seal of the superior court of — county" surrounding the vignette. The seal of municipalities and of all county officers of the territory shall be the seals of such municipalities and county officers, respectively, under the state, until otherwise provided by law.

Colo., S. 17; Ida., S. 17; Mont., S. 6; N. Dak., S. 7; Wy., S. 16.

§ 10. PROBATE COURT, TRANSFER OF.—When the state is admitted into the Union, and the superior courts in their respective counties organized, the books, records, papers, and proceedings of the probate court in each county, and all causes and matters of administration pending therein shall, upon the expiration of the term of office of the probate judges, on the second Monday in January, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, pass into the jurisdiction and possession of the superior court of the same county created by this constitution, and the said court shall proceed to final judgment or decree, order, or other determination in the several matters and causes as the territorial probate court might have done if this constitution had not been adopted. And until the expiration of the term of office of the probate judges, such probate judges shall perform the duties now imposed upon them by the laws of the territory. The superior courts shall have appellate and revisory jurisdiction over the decisions of the probate courts as now provided by law until such latter courts expire by limitation.

Colo., S. 8; Ida., S. 18; N. Dak., S. 8; would have jurisdiction to review a judgment of the old probate court for apparent error or fraud: Ball v. Clothier, 34 Wash. 299.

 Under this section the superior court

§ 11. DUTIES OF FIRST LEGISLATURE.—The legislature, at its first session, shall provide for the election of all officers whose election is not provided for elsewhere in this constitution, and fix the time for the commencement and duration of their term.

§ 12. ELECTION CONTESTS FOR SUPERIOR JUDGES, HOW DECIDED.—In case of a contest of election between candidates at the first general election under this constitution for judges of the superior courts, the evidence shall be taken in the manner prescribed by the territorial laws, and the testimony so taken shall be certified to the secretary of state, and said officer, together with the governor and treasurer of state, shall review the evidence and determine who is entitled to the certificate of election.

Colo., S. 13.

§ 13. REPRESENTATION IN CONGRESS.—One representative in the congress of the United States shall be elected from the state at large at the first election provided for in this constitution, and thereafter at such times and places and in such manner as may be prescribed by law. When a new apportionment shall be made by congress, the legislature shall divide the state into congressional districts, in accordance with such apportionment. The vote cast for representative in congress at the first election shall be canvassed and the result determined in the manner provided for by the laws of the territory for the canvass of the vote for delegate in congress.

§ 14. DURATION OF TERM OF CERTAIN OFFICERS.—All district, county, and precinct officers who may be in office at the time of the adoption of this constitution, and the county clerk of each county elected at the first election, shall hold their respective offices until the second Monday of January, A. D. eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and until such time as their successors may be elected and qualified, in accordance with the provisions of this constitution; and the official bonds of all such officers shall continue in full force and effect as though this constitution had not been adopted, and such officers shall continue to receive the compensation now provided until the same be changed by law.

See notes to Art., VI, § 8.

Under Art. VI, § 8, of the Const., and under this section, the term of office of county officers is for two years, commencing on the second Monday of January next succeeding their election; and the act of February 4, 1886, entitled "an act to prescribe the tenure of office, etc.," has been abrogated by such constitutional provisions: McMurray v. Hollis, 5 Wash. 458.

By virtue of this section the office of district attorney ceased to exist on the first Monday in January, 1891, and the office of county attorney being a new office created by the constitution, the former officer could not succeed or hold over in the latter: In re Humason, 46 Fed. Rep. 392.

§ 15. ELECTION ON ADOPTION OF CONSTITUTION, HOW TO BE CONDUCTED.—The election held at the time of the adoption of this constitution shall be held and conducted in all respects according to the laws of the territory; and the votes cast at said election for all officers (where no other provisions are made in this constitution), and for the adoption of this constitution, and the several separate articles, and the location of the state capital, shall be canvassed and returned in the several counties in the manner provided by territorial laws, and shall be returned to the secretary of the territory in the manner provided by the Enabling Act.

§ 16. WHEN CONSTITUTION TO TAKE EFFECT.—The provisions of this constitution shall be in force from the day on which the president of the United States shall issue his proclamation declaring the state of Washington admitted into the Union, and the terms of all officers elected at the first election under the provisions of this constitution shall commence on the Monday next succeeding the issue of said proclamation, unless otherwise provided herein.

Colo., S. 12; Ida., S. 7; N. Dak., S. 11.
Cited in 2 Wash. 3.

The provisions of the constitution were in force from November 11, 1889, when the proclamation of the president of the United States was issued admitting the state of Washington into the Union, consequently the terms of all officers thereunder began on Monday, Nov. 18, 1889; Moore v. Perrott, 2 Wash. 1, 3.

§ 17. SEPARATE ARTICLES.—The following separate articles shall be submitted to the people for adoption or rejection at the election for the adoption of this constitution:—

Separate article No. 1. “All persons, male and female, of the age of twenty-one years or over, possessing the qualifications provided by this constitution, shall be entitled to vote at all elections.”

Separate article No. 2. “It shall not be lawful for any individual, company, or corporation, within the limits of this state, to manufacture, or cause to be manufactured, or to sell, or offer for sale, or in any manner dispose of any alcoholic, malt, or spirituous liquors, except for medicinal, sacramental, or scientific purposes.”

If a majority of the ballots cast at said election on said separate articles be in favor of the adoption of either of said separate articles, then such separate article so receiving a majority shall become a part of this constitution, and shall govern and control any provision of the constitution in conflict therewith.

§ 18. BALLOT.—The form of ballot to be used in voting for or against this constitution, or for or against the separate articles, or for the permanent location of the seat of government, shall be,—

1. For the constitution, —.
- Against the constitution, —.
2. For woman suffrage article, —.
- Against woman suffrage article, —.
3. For prohibition article, —.
- Against prohibition article, —.

[The result of the election was against both woman suffrage and prohibition.]

4. For the permanent location of the seat of government. [Name of place voted for.]

§ 19. APPROPRIATION.—The legislature is hereby authorized to appropriate from the state treasury sufficient money to pay any of the expenses of this convention not provided for by the Enabling Act of congress.

CERTIFICATE.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

AMENDMENT 1.

Art. 16. Sec. 5. Investment of School Fund.—None of the permanent school fund of this state shall ever be loaned to private persons or corporations, but it may be invested in national, state, county, municipal, or school district bonds.

AMENDMENT 2.

Art. 6. Sec. 1. Qualifications of Voters.—All male persons of the age of twenty-one years or over, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections: They shall be citizens of the United States; they shall have lived in the state one year, and in the county ninety days, and in the city, town, ward, or precinct thirty days immediately preceding the election at which they offer to vote; they shall be able to read and speak the English language: Provided, That Indians not taxed shall never be allowed the elective franchise. And further provided, That this amendment shall not affect the right of franchise of any person who is now a qualified elector of this state. The Legislature shall enact laws defining the manner of ascertaining the qualifications of voters as to their ability to read and speak the English language, and providing for punishment of persons voting or registering in violation of the provisions of this section.

AMENDMENT 3.

Art. 7, Sec. 2, was amended by adding the following proviso: “And provided further, That the Legislature shall have power, by appropriate legislation, to exempt personal property to the amount of $300 for each head of a family liable to assessment and taxation under the provisions of the laws of this state of which the individual is the actual bona fide owner.”

AMENDMENT 4.

Art. 1. Sec. 11. Absolute freedom of conscience in all matters of religious sentiment, belief and worship, shall be guaranteed to every individual, and no one shall be molested or be disturbed in person or property on account of religion; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness or justify practices inconsistent with the peace and safety of the state. No public money or property shall be appropriated for or applied to any religious worship, exercise, or instruction, or support of any religious establishment. Provided, however, That this article shall not be so construed as to forbid the employment by the state of a chaplain for the state penitentiary, and for such of the state reformatories as in the discretion of the Legislature may seem justified. No religious qualification shall be required for any public office or employment, nor shall any person be incompetent as a witness or juror, in consequence of his opinion on matters of religion, nor be questioned in any court of justice touching his religious belief to affect the weight of his testimony.

Approved November, 1904.

§ 2. (4651.) Is a Court of Record—General Powers.

The supreme court shall be a court of record, and shall be vested with all power and authority necessary to carry into complete execution all its judgments, decrees, and determinations in all matters within its jurisdiction, according to the rules and principles of the common law, and the constitution and laws of this state. [L. '90, p. 323, § 10; 2 H. C., § 2; Const., Art. IV, § 11.]

Cited in 6 Wash. 159.

§ 3. (4652.) Court House and Rooms—Furnishing.

If proper rooms in which to hold the court, and for the accommodation of the officers thereof, are not provided by the state, together with attendants, furniture, fuel, lights, record books and stationery, suitable and sufficient for the transaction of business, the court, or any three justices thereof, may direct the clerk of the supreme court to provide the same; and the expense thereof, certified by any three justices to be correct, shall be paid out of the state treasury, out of any funds therein not otherwise appropriated. Such moneys shall be subject to the order of the clerk of the supreme court, and be by him disbursed on proper vouchers, and accounted for by him in annual settlements with the state auditor. [L. '90, p. 322, § 4; 2 H. C., § 3; Const., Art. IV, § 2.]

The first part of this section is omitted, as it is covered by the next section.

§ 4. (4652.*) Is Always Open—Sessions.

The supreme court shall always be open for the transaction of business except on nonjudicial days. It shall hold regular sessions for the hearing of causes en banc, and in each of its departments, at the capital of the state [on the second Mondays of January, May, and October of each year]. Special sessions at the same place may be held at such other times as may be prescribed by the judges of such court. [L. '09, p. 36, § 7.]

The bracketed words substituted from the previous section for, "at the respective times now provided by law for holding terms of the supreme court."

See infra, §§ 61-63, legal holidays.

See infra, § 64, business authorized to be transacted on nonjudicial days.

Cited in 1 Wash. 268; 2 Wash. 369; 44 Wash. 148.

Under the provision of the constitution requiring the supreme court to be always open for the transaction of business, except on nonjudicial days, there are no terms in the sense in which they were formerly held, but only a division of its sittings into sessions: Skagit Ry. Co. v. Cole, 1 Wash. 330.

This section and the rules of court clearly provide the dates for the beginning of each session: Jones & Co. v. Spokane Valley L. & Water Co., 44 Wash. 146.

§ 5. (4653.) Effect of Adjournments.

Adjournments from day to day, or from time to time, are to be construed as recesses in the sessions, and shall not prevent the court from sitting at any time. [L. '90, p. 323, § 7; 2 H. C., § 4.]

This, and the preceding section, with §§ 18, 26, infra, abolish terms of courts, and is a departure in this respect from the system in force under the territorial organization.

§ 6. (4656.) Style of Process.

Its process shall run in the name of the "state of Washington," bear test in the name of the chief justice, be signed by the clerk of the court, dated when issued, sealed with the seal of the court, and made returnable according to law, or such rule or orders as may be prescribed by the court. [L. '90, p. 323, § 11; 2 H. C., § 7.]

See infra, § 32, process of superior courts.

§ 7. (4657.) The Seal.

The seal of the supreme court shall be the vignette of General George Washington, with the words "Seal of the Supreme Court, State of Washington," surrounding the vignette. [L. '90, p. 324, § 17; 2 H. C., § 8; Const., Art. XXVII, § 9.]

§ 8. Two Departments—Assignment of Judges—Quorum.

There shall be two departments of the supreme court, denominated respectively department one and department two. The chief justice shall assign four of the associate judges to each department and such assignment may be changed by him from time to time: Provided, That the associate judges shall be competent to sit in either department and may interchange with one another by agreement among themselves, or if no such agreement be made, as ordered by the chief justice. The chief justice may sit in either department and shall preside when so sitting, but the judges assigned to each department shall select one of their number as presiding judge. Each of the departments shall have the power to hear and determine causes, and all questions arising therein, subject to the provisions in relation to the court en banc. The presence of three judges shall be necessary to transact any business in either of the departments, except such as may be done at chambers, but one or more of the judges may from time to time adjourn to the same effect as if all were present, and a concurrence of three judges shall be necessary to pronounce a decision in each department: Provided, that if three do not concur, the cause shall be reheard in the same department or transmitted to the other department, or to the court en banc. [L. '09, p. 34, § 3. For former laws relating to quorum, see L. '90, p. 322, § 5; 2 H. C., § 5; Bal. Code, § 4654; L. '05, p. 14, § 2. See, also, Const., Art. IV, § 2.]

§ 9. Apportionment of Business—Order for Hearings en Banc.

The chief justice shall from time to time apportion the business to the departments, and may, in his discretion, before a decision is pronounced, order any cause pending before the court to be heard and determined by the court en banc. When a cause has been allotted to one of the departments and a decision pronounced therein, the chief justice, together with any two associate judges, may order such cause to be heard and decided by the court en banc. Any four judges may, either before or after decision by a department, order a cause to be heard en banc. [L. '09, p. 34, § 4.]

§ 10. Decisions of Department—Finality—Rehearings.

The decision of a department, except in cases otherwise ordered as hereinafter provided, shall not become final until thirty days after the filing thereof, during which period a petition for rehearing, or for a hearing en banc, may be filed, the filing of either of which, except as hereinafter otherwise provided, shall have the effect of suspending such decision until the same shall have been disposed of. If no such petition be filed the decision of a department shall become final thirty days from the date of its filing, unless during such thirty-day period an order for a hearing en banc shall have been made: Provided, that if for any cause the chief justice or a majority of the department rendering any decision shall be of the opinion that such decision should go into effect prior to thirty days after its filing, it shall go into effect, and a judgment issue thereon, any time after its filing and prior to such thirty-day period, upon being in writing approved by the chief justice and any two associate judges who took no part in rendering such decision. The effect of granting a petition for a rehearing, or of ordering a cause once decided by department to be heard en banc, shall be to vacate and set aside the decision. Whenever a decision shall become final, as herein provided, a judgment shall issue thereon. [L. '09, p. 35, § 4.]

§ 11. Hearings en Banc—Quorum—Finality of Decision.

The chief justice, or any four judges, may convene the court en banc at any time, and the chief justice shall be the presiding judge of the court when so convened. The presence of five judges shall be necessary to transact any business, and a concurrence of five judges present at the argument shall be necessary to pronounce a decision in the court en banc: Provided, that if five of the judges so present do not concur in a decision, then reargument shall be ordered and all the judges qualified to sit in the cause shall hear the argument, but to render a decision a concurrence of five judges shall be necessary; and every decision of the court en banc shall be final except in cases in which no previous decision has been rendered in one of the departments, and in such cases the decision of the court en banc shall become final thirty days after its filing, unless during such period a petition for rehearing be filed. The filing of such petition within such period shall have the effect of suspending the decision until disposed of by the concurrence of five judges: Provided, that if for any cause five judges shall be of the opinion that such decision should go into effect prior to thirty days after its filing, it shall go into effect any time after its filing and prior to such thirty-day period upon being in writing approved by six judges of such court. Whenever a decision shall become final as herein provided, a judgment shall issue thereon. [L. '09, p. 35, § 5.]

§ 12. Acting Chief Justice.

In cases of the absence of the chief justice, or his inability to act, the judge having the shortest term to serve, not holding his office by appointment or election to fill a vacancy, shall perform the duties and exercise the powers of the chief justice during such absence or inability to act. In case there shall be two or more judges having in like manner the same short term, the other judges of the supreme court shall determine which of them shall perform the duties and exercise the powers of the chief justice during such absence or inability to act. [L. '09, p. 36, § 6.]

§ 13. Rules of Practice and Form of Process.

The supreme court may from time to time institute such rules of practice and prescribe such forms of process to be used in such court and in the court en banc and each of its departments, and for the keeping of the dockets, records and proceedings, and for the regulation of such court, including the court en banc and in departments, as may be deemed most conducive to the due administration of justice. [L. '09, p. 36, § 8. Cf. L. '90, p. 323, § 12; 2 H. C., § 6; Bal. Code, § 4655.]

See notes to § 52, infra. Rules adopted: See 51 Wash. xxxiii.

Rules of superior courts: See infra, § 36.

§ 14. (4658.) Effect of Judgment.

The judgments and decrees of the supreme court shall be final and conclusive upon all the parties properly before the court. [L. '90, p. 323, § 8; 2 H. C., § 9.]

A judgment of the supreme court in an equity cause cannot be modified by the superior court: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 234.

Upon a retrial, after reversal or remand on appeal, the trial court is bound by the decision on appeal as the law of the case: Taylor v. Gale, 24 Wash. 336; Payette v. Ferrier, 31 Wash. 43; Crooker v. Pacific Lounge etc. Co., 34 Wash. 191; Clark v. Eltinge, 34 Wash. 323.

However, upon reversing an order of the superior court, made without notice, a writ of prohibition will not be issued to enjoin the lower court from making further orders without notice, as it will be assumed that the rule of decision will be observed: In re Sullivan's Estate, 36 Wash. 278.

The decision of the supreme court upon the first appeal of a cause is conclusive upon the second appeal as the law of the case: Tibbals v. Mt. Olympus Water Co., 16 Wash. 480; Taake v. Seattle, 18 Wash. 178; Smith v. Seattle, 20 Wash. 613; State

v. Boyce, 25 Wash. 422; State ex rel. Holgate v. Superior Court, 19 Wash. 114; Miller v. Lake Irr. Co., 33 Wash. 132; State ex rel. American etc. Mtg. Co. v. Tanner, 45 Wash. 348.

CHAPTER II.

SUPERIOR COURTS.

Judges of: See "State Officers," § 9050 et seq., infra.

§ 15. (4663.) Original Jurisdiction of Superior Courts.

The superior courts shall have original jurisdiction in all cases in equity, and in all cases at law which involve the title or possession of real property, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll, or municipal fine, and in all other cases in which the demand or the value of the property in controversy amounts to one hundred dollars, and in all criminal cases amounting to felony, and in all cases of misdemeanor not otherwise provided for by law; of actions of forcible entry and detainer; of proceedings in insolvency; of actions to prevent or abate a nuisance; of all matters of probate, of divorce, and for annulment of marriage, and for such special cases and proceedings as are not otherwise provided for; and shall also have original jurisdiction in all cases and of all proceedings in which jurisdiction shall not have been by law vested exclusively in some other court, and shall have the power of naturalization, and to issue papers therefor. Said courts and their judges shall have power to issue writs of mandamus, quo warranto, review, certiorari, prohibition, and writs of habeas corpus, on petition by or on behalf of any person in actual custody in their respective counties. Injunctions and writs of prohibition and of habeas corpus may be issued on legal holidays and nonjudicial days. [L. '90, p. 342, § 5; 2 H. C., § 10; Const., Art. IV, § 6.]

See infra, § 1278, jurisdiction in probate.

See supra, § 1, notes.

See infra, § 16, naturalization.

Cited in 32 Wash. 53; 43 Wash. 228.

Jurisdiction in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 720, §§ 1-13. Superior courts are courts of general jurisdiction: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 728, § 44.

The word "court" means something more than judge; judges change, but the court continues: Gunderson v. Cochrane, 3 Wash. 476, 478; Shepard v. Gove, 26 Wash. 452; State ex rel. Romano v. Yakey, 43 Wash. 15.

The superior courts have concurrent jurisdiction with justices of the peace where the sum sued for is less than one hundred dollars: State v. Hunter, 3 Wash. 92. And concurrent jurisdiction with municipal courts in cities of the first class over misdemeanors committed within such cities: State v. Considine, 16 Wash. 358.

The jurisdiction of the superior court in the issuance of injunctions against state officers is not excluded by art. IV, § 4, of the Const.: Jones v. Reed, 3 Wash. 57, 60-62. The superior court has jurisdiction to entertain quo warranto to determine who is entitled to the office of councilman of a city: See Blake v. Morris, 14 Wash. 262; State ex rel. Hyland v. Peter, 21 Wash. 243.

Admitting, but not deciding, that the writ coram nobis might issue from a superior court of this state to inquire into certain alleged misstatements by the prosecuting witness upon the trial of a criminal cause, the petition therefor would not be sufficient when based upon the claim that the testimony of such witness "was not in accordance with the facts but was fraudulent and untrue": State v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 339. See, also, State v. Armstrong, 41 Wash. 601. It is not a valid objection to the jurisdiction of the superior court that the judge was not a resident of the county, the constitution not requiring a local judge in each county: American Bonding Co. v. Dufur, 49 Wash. 632.

A state court has no jurisdiction to determine the equities of claimants to public lands by enjoining the prosecution of a claim before the land department or requiring a relinquishment of a claim, when the title is still in the United States and the land office has not determined the right to a patent: Columbia Canal Co. v. Benham, 47 Wash. 249.

§ 16. (4704.) Naturalization of Aliens.

The superior courts of the several counties shall have jurisdiction, and it shall be their duty to hear applications and proofs by aliens to become citizens of the United States, and to grant certificates of citizenship to such applicants, in accordance with section 2165 of the Revised Statutes of the United States. [L. '86, p. 113, § 1; Const., Art. IV, § 6.]

A judgment of the superior court naturalizing a person ineligible to citizenship is void on its face and may be attacked or disregarded at any time: Yamashita, In re, 30 Wash. 234.

§ 17. (4664.) Appellate Jurisdiction.

The superior courts shall have such appellate jurisdiction in cases arising in justices' and other inferior courts in their respective counties as may be prescribed by law. [L. '90, p. 343, § 6; 2 H. C., § 12; Const., Art. IV, § 6.]

See infra, § 1910, notes, appeals from justices' courts.

§ 18. (4665.) Are Courts of Record—Always Open—Sessions.

The superior courts are courts of record, and shall be always open, except on nonjudicial days. They shall hold their sessions at the county seats of the several counties, respectively. They shall hold regular and special sessions in the several counties of this state at such times as may be prescribed by the judge or judges thereof. [L. '90, p. 343, § 7; 2 H. C., § 13. Cf. L. '91, p. 89, § 1; 2 H. C., § 41; Bal. Code, § 4708; Const., Art. IV, §§ 6, 11.]

Bal. Code, § 4708, as to the place of holding court, is included in this section.

See infra, §§ 61-65, legal holidays.

See note § 5, supra.

The court is always deemed open for purposes connected with a cause submitted to a jury: Edwards v. Territory, 1 W. T. 195. See, also, State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111; Krutz v. Batts, 18 Wash. 460; Coyle v. Seattle Electric Co., 31 Wash. 181; Kalb v. German Sav. & Loan Soc., 25 Wash. 349; Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78.

§ 26. (4666.) Effect of Adjournments.

Adjournments from day to day, or from time to time, are to be construed as recesses in the sessions, and shall not prevent the court from sitting at any time. [L. '90, p. 343, § 8; 2 H. C., § 14.]

See note to § 18, supra.

§ 27. (4667.) Judge of Another County to Sit—Designation by Governor.

Whenever a judge of the superior court of any county in this state, or a majority of such judges in any county in which there is more than one judge of said court, shall request the governor of the state to direct a judge of the superior court of any other county to hold a session of the superior court of any such county as is first herein above mentioned, the governor shall thereupon request and direct a judge of the superior court of some other county, making such selection as the governor shall deem to be most consistent with the state of judicial business in other counties, to hold a session of the superior court in the county the judge shall have requested the governor as aforesaid. Such request and direction by the governor shall be made in writing, and shall specify the county in which he directs the superior judge to whom the same is addressed to hold such session of the superior court, and the period during which he is to hold such session. Thereupon it shall be the duty of the superior judge so requested, and he is hereby empowered, to hold a session of the superior court of the county specified by the governor, at the seat of judicial business thereof, during the period specified by the governor, and in such quarters as the county commissioners of said county may provide for the holding of such session. [L. '90, p. 343, § 10; 2 H. C., § 15; L. '93, p. 67, § 1; Const., Art. IV, § 7.]

See infra, § 29, extent of powers of visiting judge.

§ 28. (4668.) Sessions Held at Request of Another Judge.

Whenever a like request shall be addressed by the judge, or by a majority of the judges (if there be more than one) of the superior court of any county to the superior judge of any other county, he is hereby empowered, if he deem it consistent with the state of judicial business in the county or counties whereof he is a superior judge (and in such case it shall be his duty to comply with such request), to hold a session of the superior court of the county the judge or judges whereof shall have made such request, at the seat of judicial business of such county, in such quarters as shall be provided for such session by the board of county commissioners, and during such period as shall have been specified in the request, or such shorter period as he may deem necessary by the state of judicial business in the county or counties whereof he is a superior judge. [L. '90, p. 343, § 10; 2 H. C., § 15; L. '93, p. 68, § 2; Const., Art. IV, § 7.]

Cited in 12 Wash. 172.

Where judges are allowed by statute to exchange courts on request, a judge who has tried a cause in another district than his own may certify and settle a statement of facts after returning to his own district: King Co. v. Hill, 1 Wash. 63.

There being no constitutional or statutory provision in this state requiring the fact to be spread of record, when any visiting judge has been called to hold court in another county, the presumption must obtain, in the absence of an affirmative showing to the contrary, that such visiting judge properly acquired jurisdiction to discharge the duties of judge of the court to which he has been called: State v. Holmes, 12 Wash. 170; State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 696.

§ 29. (4669.) Number of Sessions at Same Time—Effect of Acts of Visiting Judge.

In any county where there shall be more than one superior judge, or in which a superior judge of another county may be holding a session of the superior court, as in this chapter provided, there may be as many sessions of the superior court at the same time as there are judges thereof, or assigned to duty therein by the governor, or responding to a request made as provided in the last preceding section. In such cases the business of the court shall be so distributed and assigned by law, or in the absence of legislation therefor, by such rules and orders of the court as shall best promote and secure the convenient and expeditious transaction thereof. Judgments, decrees, orders and proceedings of any session of the superior court held by one or more of the judges of said court, or by any judge of the superior court of another county pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, shall be equally effectual as if all the judges of such court presided at such session. [L. '90, p. 341, § 2; 2 H. C., § 16; L. '93, p. 68, § 3.]

Power of judge to act outside his county, see infra, §§ 41, 42, 59.

"Chapter" in this section, refers to §§ 27-30.

Cited in 25 Wash. 146.

Under the rules of allotment of causes in the superior court of King county an order transferring an equity cause from the equity department to the civil jury department for the sole purpose of having the question of title in partition tried by a jury is unauthorized: State v. Lichtenberg, 4 Wash. 553, 556.

The court has power to direct a jury trial of issue of fact in an equity cause: Dearborn Fd. Co. v. Augustine, 5 Wash. 67, 70; see Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33.

Mandamus will not lie to compel two of the three judges of the superior court of a county to perform certain acts, for the reason that, if it take all of them to do the act, all are necessary parties, while if one could do the act, the one whose duty it was to act should be proceeded against alone: State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 327.

A visiting judge has all the powers of a resident judge: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1570, § 14; Demaris v. Barker, 33 Wash. 200; Fisher v. Puget Sound Brick etc. Co., 34 Wash. 578; Hindman v. Boyd, 42 Wash. 17.

§ 30. (4670.) Expenses of Judge Called to Another County.

Any judge of the superior court of any county in this state who shall hold a session of the superior court of any other county, in pursuance of the provisions of this chapter, shall be entitled to receive from the county in which he shall hold such sessions the amount of his actual traveling expenses from his residence to the place where he shall hold such sessions, and on his return to his residence, and of the actual traveling expenses of his sojourn at the place where he shall hold such sessions during the continuance thereof. The county clerk of such county shall, upon the presentation to him by such judge of a statement of such expenses, verified by his affidavit, issue to such judge a certificate that he is entitled to the amount thereof; and upon presentation of such certificate to the auditor of such county he shall draw a warrant on the general fund of such county for the amount in favor of such judge. [L. '93, p. 69, § 4; Const., Art. IV, § 14.]

This section supersedes § 2965, 1 Hill's Code.

§ 32. (4671.) Jurisdiction—Process—Venue.

The process of the superior courts shall extend to all parts of the state: Provided, that all actions for the recovery of the possession of, quieting the title to, or for the enforcement of liens upon real estate shall be commenced in the county in which the real estate, or any part thereof, affected by such action or actions is situated. [L. '90, p. 343, § 9; 2 H. C., § 17; Const., Art. IV, § 6.]

See Const., Art. IV, § 27, style of process.

See infra, § 204, and notes, venue of actions.

Process extends to reservations: See Const., Art. XXV, § 1.

§ 35. (4672.) Process, to Whom Directed.

Unless otherwise provided by statute, all process issuing out of the [superior] court shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which it is to be served, and be by him executed according to law. [L. '91, p. 84, § 5; 2 H. C., § 795.]

See infra, § 2080, criminal process directed to sheriff, where.

§ 36. (4673.) Judges to Establish Uniform Rules.

The judges of the superior courts shall, from time to time, establish uniform rules for the government of the superior courts. [L. '90, p. 344, § 13; 2 H. C., § 18; Const., Art. IV, § 24.]

See supra, § 13, rules of supreme court.

See infra, § 52, notes, as to rules.

Power to make rules, effect, etc.: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 725, §§ 29-32.

The court has no power to establish rules which would have the effect to extend the statutory period within which amendments may be proposed to a statement of facts: Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537, 542.

But the court has the right, for good reasons, to suspend its own rule requiring twenty-four hours' notice to a party to file an original paper in his possession: Washington Bank of Walla Walla v. Horn, 24 Wash. 299.

§ 38. (4674.) Seal.

The seals of the superior courts of the several counties of the state shall be, until otherwise provided by law, the vignette of General George Washington, with the words, "Seal of the Superior Court of — County, State of Washington," surrounding the vignette. [L. '90, p. 345, § 17; 2 H. C., § 19; Const., Art. XXVII, § 9.]

See supra, § 7, seal of supreme court.
Cited in 20 Wash. 96.

§ 39. (4675.) Limit of Time for Decision.

Every case submitted to a judge of a superior court for his decision shall be decided by him within ninety days from the submission thereof: Provided, That if within said period of ninety days a rehearing shall have been ordered, then the period within which he is to decide shall commence at the time the cause is submitted upon such rehearing, and upon willful failure of any judge so to do, he shall be deemed to have forfeited his office. [L. '90, p. 344, § 12; 2 H. C., § 20; Const., Art. IV, § 20.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 630.

The failure of a judge to decide a case within ninety days from its submission does not render the judgment void for want of jurisdiction: Demaris v. Barker, 33 Wash. 200. See, also, Moylan v. Moylan, 49 Wash. 341.

§ 40. (4676.) Judges Pro Tempore—Appointment—Oath—Compensation.

A case in the superior court of any county may be tried by a judge pro tempore, who must be a member of the bar, agreed upon in writing by the parties litigant, or their attorneys of record, approved by the court, and sworn to try the case; and his action in the trial of such cause shall have the same effect as if he were the judge of such court. A judge pro tempore shall, before entering upon his duties in any cause, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation:—

I do solemnly swear (or affirm, as the case may be) that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Washington, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office of judge pro tempore in the cause wherein — is plaintiff and — defendant, according to the best of my ability.

He shall receive a compensation of ten dollars for each day engaged in said trial, to be paid in the same manner as the salary of the superior judge. [L. '90, p. 343, § 11; 2 H. C., § 21; Const., Art. IV, § 7.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 693; 25 Wash. 603.

If the attorneys in an action agree upon a judge pro tem., and such agreement is approved by the regular judge and entered upon the journal, and the judge pro tem. properly sworn to try the case, the presumption from the journal entries is that a written stipulation was entered into as required by this section: State v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 691.

When defendant appears and tries his case before a judge pro tem. he is estopped from thereafter questioning the legality of his appointment: Id.

If a cause has been transferred to a judge pro tem. for trial, he retains jurisdiction of it to the end, and an order of the regular judge vacating the judgment of the judge pro tem. is void: Id.

And a judge pro tempore may be so appointed to hear and determine whatever remains to be done in a case, even after verdict, such as the determination of a motion for new trial, and the entry of judgment upon verdict theretofore entered: Nelson v. Seattle Traction Co., 25 Wash. 602.

§ 41: Powers of Judge in Other Counties of His District.

Any judge of the superior court of the state of Washington shall have power, in any county within his district: (1) To sign all necessary orders and papers in probate matters pending in any other county in his district; (2) to issue restraining orders, and to sign the necessary orders of continuance in actions or proceedings pending in any other county in his district; (3) to decide and rule upon all motions, demurrers, issues of fact or other matters that may have been submitted to him in any other county. All such rulings and decisions shall be in writing and shall be filed immediately with the clerk of the proper county: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall authorize the judge to hear any matter outside of the county wherein the cause or proceeding is pending, except by consent of the parties. [L. '01, p. 76, § 1.]

§ 42. Decisions and Rulings Out of His Own District.

Any judge of the superior court of the state of Washington who shall have heard any cause, either upon motion, demurrer, issue of fact, or other matter in any county out of his district, may decide, rule upon, and determine the same in any county in this state, which decision, ruling and determination shall be in writing and shall be filed immediately with the clerk of the county where such cause is pending. CHAPTER III.JUSTICES' COURTS.

See "Justices of the Peace and Constables," § 6513 et seq., infra.
Justice Code: See infra, §§ 1755-1924.

§ 43. (4680.) General Powers of Justices of the Peace.

Every justice of the peace elected in any precinct in this state is hereby authorized to hold a court for the trial of all actions in the next section enumerated, to hear, try, and determine the same according to law; and for that purpose, where no special provision is otherwise made by law, such court shall be vested with all the necessary powers which are possessed by courts of record in this state; and all laws of a general nature shall apply to such justice's court, as far as the same may be applicable, and not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter. [L. '54, p. 226, § 22; Cd. '81, § 1709; 2 H. C., § 22; Const., Art. IV, § 10.]

See infra, § 1770, and notes, jurisdiction of justices.

See infra, § 1891, jurisdiction in contempt cases.

See infra, § 52, powers respecting judicial proceedings.

See infra, § 1755, civil actions and proceedings in justices' courts.

§ 44. (4681.) Jurisdiction in Civil Actions and Proceedings.

Every justice of the peace shall have jurisdiction and cognizance of the following civil actions and proceedings:—

1. Of an action arising on contract for the recovery of money only in which the sum claimed is less than one hundred dollars;

2. Of an action for damages for injuries to the person, or for taking or detaining personal property, or for injuring personal property, or for an injury to real property when no issue raised by the answer involves the plaintiff's title to or possession of the same, when the amount of damages claimed is less than one hundred dollars; also of actions to recover the possession of personal property, when the value of such property, as alleged in the complaint, is less than one hundred dollars;

3. Of an action for a penalty less than one hundred dollars;

4. Of an action upon a bond conditioned for the payment of money, when the amount claimed is less than one hundred dollars, though the penalty of the bond exceed that sum, the judgment to be given for the sum actually due, not exceeding the amount claimed in the complaint;

5. Of an action on an undertaking or surety bond taken by him or his predecessor in office, when the amount claimed is less than one hundred dollars;

6. Of an action for damages for fraud in the sale, purchase, or exchange of personal property, when the damages claimed are less than one hundred dollars;

7. To take and enter judgment on confession of a defendant, when the amount of the judgment confessed is less than one hundred dollars;

8. To issue writs of attachment upon goods, chattels, moneys, and effects, when the amount is less than one hundred dollars;

See infra, § 6515, jurisdiction prohibited over certain claims.

See supra, § 15, and notes, concurrent jurisdiction with the superior court.

See infra, § 1755, civil actions and proceedings in justices' courts.

Cited in 20 Wash. 96.

The amount claimed and not the amount recovered is the test by which justices' jurisdiction is determined: Ebey v. Engle, 1 W. T. 72; but this case was overruled in Bagley v. Carpenter, 2 W. T. 19, 22.

Under the constitution justices of the peace have no jurisdiction in cases in which the demand or value of property in controversy is one hundred dollars or more: Moore v. Perrott, 2 Wash. 1, 3.

A justice of the peace has no jurisdiction of an action for the recovery of a sum due and interest thereon, when the total amount of the claim exceeds one hundred dollars, by the addition of the interest thereon: State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 369.

If the justice has no jurisdiction of the subject matter of an action the superior court can acquire no jurisdiction thereof by an appeal: Id.

The judicial acts of a justice of the peace and his power over a judgment entered by him are exhausted upon the moment the judgment is rendered, and all his acts thenceforward relating thereto are only ministerial: McCoy v. Bell, 1 Wash. 504, 511.

A justice of the peace does not acquire jurisdiction of the subject matter of an action, when the complaint fails to allege that the property in controversy is within the same county as the justice court: Woodbury v. Henningsen, 11 Wash. 12. See, also, Walters v. Field, 29 Wash. 558; Larson v. Allan Line Steamship Co., 37 Wash. 555.

§ 45. (4682.) Restrictions on Civil Jurisdiction.

The jurisdiction conferred by the last section shall not, however, extend to the following civil actions:—

1. In which the title to real property shall come in question;

2. Nor to an action for the foreclosure of a mortgage, or enforcement of a lien on real estate;

3. Nor to an action for false imprisonment, libel, slander, malicious prosecution, criminal conversation, or seduction;

4. Nor to any action against an executor or administrator as such. [L. '54, p. 227, § 24; Cd. 81, § 1711; 2 H. C., § 24; Const., Art. IV, §§ 6, 10.]

The words "forcible entry and detainer" omitted from this section, as superior courts have exclusive jurisdiction in forcible entry and detainer: See infra, §§ 810-837.

§ 46. (4683.*) Jurisdiction in Criminal Cases—Cities of First and Other Classes.

Justices of the peace shall have jurisdiction concurrent with the superior courts of all misdemeanors and gross misdemeanors committed in or which may be tried in their respective counties: Provided, that justices of the peace in cities of the first class shall in no event impose greater punishment than a fine of five hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for six months; and justices of the peace other than those elected in cities of the first class shall in no event impose greater punishment than a fine of one hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for thirty days. [L. '09, p. 377, §1. Cf. L. '60, p. 279, § 171; L. '73, p. 181, § 184; L. '75, p. 51, § 1; Cd. 81, § 1886; 2 H. C., § 25; L. '01, p. 34, § 1; Const., Art. IV, §§ 6, 10.]

Under this section a justice of the peace has jurisdiction of the misdemeanor of violating the eight-hour day law, punishable by a fine of from $25 to $200, where the fine imposed did not exceed $100: State v. Davis, 43 Wash. 116. See, also, State ex rel. Belt v. Kennan, 25 Wash. 621; In re Casey, 27 Wash. 686.

§ 47. (4684.) Territorial Jurisdiction of Justices—Residence.

The jurisdiction of justices of the peace elected in pursuance of the provisions of this act shall be coextensive with the limits of the county in which they are elected or appointed, and no other or greater, but every justice of the peace shall continue to reside in the precinct for which he was elected or appointed, during his continuance in office. No justice of the peace shall hold his office in the same room with a practicing attorney, unless such attorney shall be his law partner; and in that case, such partner shall not be permitted to appear or practice as an attorney in any case tried before such justice of the peace. See infra, § 55, in what cases justice may act as attorney.

Section 3294, Code of 1881, omitted from Hill's Code; it provides: "The law partner of any probate judge or justice of the peace in this territory shall not practice as attorney or counselor in the court over which such judge or justice presides." The extent to which this section is in force is uncertain.

CHAPTER IV.

MAGISTRATES.

§ 50. (4690.) Definition of Magistrate.

A magistrate is an officer having power to issue a warrant for the arrest of a person charged with the commission of a crime. [L. '91, p. 91, § 1; 2 H. C., § 30.]

§ 51. (4691.) Who are Magistrates.

The following persons are magistrates:—

1. The justices of the supreme court;
2. The superior judges, and justices of the peace;
3. All municipal officers authorized to exercise the powers and perform the duties of a justice of the peace. [L. '91, p. 91, § 2; 2 H. C., § 31.]

CHAPTER V.

POWERS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS.

§ 52. (4695.) Powers of Courts Respecting Conduct of Judicial Proceedings.

Every court of justice has power,—

1. To preserve and enforce order in its immediate presence;
2. To enforce order in the proceedings before it, or before a person or body empowered to conduct a judicial investigation under its authority;
3. To provide for the orderly conduct of proceedings before it or its officers;
4. To compel obedience to its judgments, decrees, orders, and process, and to the orders of a judge out of court, in an action, suit, or proceeding pending therein;
5. To control, in furtherance of justice, the conduct of its ministerial officers, and of all other persons in any manner connected with a judicial proceeding before it, in every matter appertaining thereto;
6. To compel the attendance of persons to testify in an action, suit, or proceeding therein, in the cases and manner provided by this code;
7. To administer oaths in an action, suit, or proceeding pending therein, and in all other cases where it may be necessary in the exercise of its powers or the performance of its duties. [L. '91, p. 91, § 1; 2 H. C., § 32.]

See infra, § 1264, who may administer oaths.

See infra, § 1946, power of magistrates to order recognizances for certain offenses committed in his presence.

§ 53. (4696.) Court may Punish for Contempt.

For the effectual exercise of the powers specified in the last section, the court may punish for contempt in the cases and the manner provided by law. [L. '91, p. 92, § 2; 2 H. C., § 33.]

See infra, § 1049 et seq., and notes, relating to contempts in general.
See infra, § 58, punishment of contempts by "judicial officer."

§ 54. (4697.) Judicial Officer Defined—When Disqualified.

A judicial officer is a person authorized to act as a judge in a court of justice. Such officer shall not act as such in a court of which he is a member in any of the following cases:—

1. In an action, suit or proceeding to which he is a party, or in which he is directly interested;

2. When he was not present and sitting as a member of the court at the hearing of a matter submitted for its decision;

3. When he is related to either party by consanguinity or affinity within the third degree. The degree shall be ascertained and computed by ascending from the judge to the common ancestor and descending to the party, counting a degree for each person in both lines, including the judge and party and excluding the common ancestor;

4. When he has been attorney in the action, suit or proceeding in question for either party; but this section does not apply to an application to change the place of trial, or the regulation of the order of business in court. In the cases specified in subdivisions three and four, the disqualification may be waived by the parties, and except in the supreme court shall be deemed to be waived unless an application for a change of the place of trial be made as provided by law. [Cf. L. '91, p. 92, § 3; 2 H. C., § 34; L. '95, p. 63, § 1.]

Cited in 18 Wash. 393.

When a judge is disqualified by pecuniary interest, relationship, or bias: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1572, §§ 22, 23, 25; Barnett v. Ashmore, 5 Wash. 163; State ex rel. Barnard v. Board of Education, 19 Wash. 8; State v. Strodemier, 40 Wash. 608.

Where an order made by a judge on the trial of a cause disposes of all the issues, his successor has jurisdiction to sign the necessary judgment to be entered therein, as such act is a purely formal matter not involving the exercise of any discretion, and does not fall under the prohibition of subdivision 2 of this section: Hazard v. McAndrews, 18 Wash. 392.

§ 55. (4698.) When may Act as Attorney.

Any judicial officer may act as an attorney in any action, suit, or proceeding to which he is a party or in which he is directly interested. A justice of the peace, otherwise authorized by law, may act as an attorney in any court other than the one of which he is judge, except in an action, suit, or proceeding removed therefrom to another court for review; but no judicial officer shall act as attorney in any court, except as in this section allowed. [L. '91, p. 92, § 4; 2 H. C., § 35; see Cd. '81, § 3293.]

See infra, this title, chapter X, attorneys, in general.
See supra, § 49, partners of justices.

§ 56. (4699.) Judge as Distinguished from a Court.

A judge may exercise, out of court, all the powers expressly conferred upon a judge as contradistinguished from a court, and not otherwise. [L. '91, p. 92, § 5; 2 H. C., § 36.]

Cited in 43 Wash. 22; 44 Wash. 617.

The word "court" sometimes signifies more than the judge who tries the cause: Gunderson v. Cochrane, 3 Wash. 476; Shepard v. Gove, 26 Wash. 452; State ex rel. Romano v. Yakey, 43 Wash. 15.

Powers of judge at chambers, or out of court: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1570, § 15; Ainsworth v. Territory, 3 W. T. 270; Murne v. Schwabacher, 2 W. T. 130; Kalb v. German Sav. & L. Soc., 25 Wash. 349.

§ 57. (4700.) Powers of Judicial Officers.

Every judicial officer has power,—

1. To preserve and enforce order in his immediate presence, and in the proceedings before him, when he is engaged in the performance of a duty imposed upon him by this code or other statute;

2. To compel obedience to his lawful orders, as provided in this code;

3. To compel the attendance of persons to testify in a proceeding pending before him in the cases and manner provided in this code;

4. To administer oaths to persons, in a proceeding pending before him, and in all other cases where it may be necessary, in the exercise of his powers and the performance of his duties. [L. '91, p. 92, § 6; 2 H. C., § 37.]

See supra, § 52, and notes, powers of courts.

§ 58. (4701.) Judicial Officer may Punish for Contempt.

For the effectual exercise of the powers specified in the last preceding section, a judicial officer may punish for contempt, in the cases and manner provided by law. [L. '91, p. 93, § 7; 2 H. C., § 38.]

See supra, § 53, punishment of contempt by "court."

See infra, § 1049 et seq., and notes, relating to contempts in general.

§ 59. (4702.) Judges may Exercise Certain Powers, Where.

The judges of the supreme and superior courts have power in any part of the state to take and certify,—

1. The proof and acknowledgment of a conveyance of real property, or any other written instrument authorized or required to be proved or acknowledged;

2. The acknowledgment of satisfaction of a judgment in any court;

3. An affidavit or deposition to be used in any court of justice or other tribunal of this state;

4. To exercise any other power and perform any other duty conferred or imposed upon them by statute. [L. '91, p. 93, § 8; 2 H. C., § 30.]

See infra, § 1264, who may administer oaths.

No power outside county where cause is pending: See supra, § 41.

Cited in 21 Wash. 203.

Where a judge from another county is called in for the trial of a cause, such visiting judge is not required to return to the county where the trial was held, in order to settle and certify a statement of facts on appeal, but may perform such duty in any other county, under this section: State ex rel. Malouf v. McDonald, 21 Wash. 201.

§ 60. (4703.) When Inferior Judicial Officers may Act.

Every other judicial officer may, within the county, city, district, or precinct in which he is chosen,—

1. Exercise the powers mentioned in subdivisions one, two, and three of the last preceding section;

2. Exercise any other power and perform any other duty conferred or imposed upon him by other statute. [L. '91, p. 93, § 9; 2 H. C., § 40.]

§ 61. (4709.) Legal Holidays.

The following days are legal holidays, namely: Sunday; the first day of January, commonly called New Year's day; the fourth day of July; the twenty-second day of February; the twenty-fifth day of December, commonly called Christmas day; and any day designated by public proclamation of the chief executive of the state as a legal holiday, or as a day of thanksgiving; the day known and observed as Memorial or Decoration Day; and the day on which a general election is held throughout the state. [Cf. L. '88, p. 107, § 1; L. '91, p. 80, § 1; 2 H. C., § 42.]

Labor Day: See infra, § 62.

Lincoln's Birthday: See infra, § 63.

See infra, §§ 150, 252, and notes, computation of time.

See supra, § 3, when supreme court should be open.

Cited in 14 Wash. 311; 49 Wash. 2, 3, 6.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1369, §§ 1-3.

Holidays have only the sanctity attached to them by statute: State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 515.

A contract to perform certain services each day during the term of contract does not include Sundays, and services performed on Sundays cannot be offset against shortages on other days: Go Fun v. Fidalgo Island Can. Co., 37 Wash. 238.

The defendant having admitted the due and legal service of a summons and complaint on a legal holiday cannot thereafter question the legality of such service: McClellan v. Gaston, 18 Wash. 472.

Proceedings under a judgment will not be restrained on the ground that the judgment was entered on a holiday, where it merely appears from the complaint that on a holiday the judge heard the arguments, announced his decision, and directed a judgment to be entered; since it will be presumed that the judgment was properly entered at a subsequent date: Stewart v. State Board of Medical Examiners, 48 Wash. 655.

A final judgment entered on a judicial day is not void by reason of the fact that prior proceedings were had in the case upon a legal holiday proclaimed by the governor, where no objection was made at the time to such prior proceedings: State ex rel. Walter v. Superior Court, 49 Wash. 1.

§ 62. (4710.) Labor Day.

The first Monday of September of each year is hereby declared to be a legal holiday in the state of Washington, to be known as Labor Day. [L. '91, p. 39, § 1; 2 H. C., § 43.]

See last section and notes.

§ 63. (4711.) Lincoln's Birthday.

The twelfth day of February of each year, the same being the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, be and it is hereby declared to be a legal holiday in the state of Washington. [L. '95, p. 6, § 1.]

See supra, § 61, and notes, legal holiday.

§ 64. (4712.) No Courts on Legal Holidays, Except, etc.

No court shall be open, nor shall any judicial business be transacted, on a legal holiday, except,—

1. To give, upon their request, instructions to a jury when deliberating of their verdict;

2. To receive the verdict of a jury;

3. For the exercise of the powers of a magistrate in a criminal action, or in a proceeding of a criminal nature;

4. For hearing an application for writs of habeas corpus, injunction, prohibition, and attachment. [L. '91, p. 80, § 2; 2 H. C., § 44; see Cd. '81, § 1267; Const., Art. IV, § 6.]

Cited in 49 Wash. 3, 6.

The authorization for issuance of writs on legal holidays and nonjudicial days, given by Art. IV, § 6, of the Const., does not in express terms embrace attachment writs.

A verdict may be received on Sunday: State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111. The court may discharge a jury in a criminal case on a holiday: State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 515.

§ 65. (4713.) Sitting Deemed Adjourned Over Legal Holiday.

If any legal holiday happen to be a day appointed for the sitting of a court, or to which it is adjourned, such sitting shall be deemed appointed for or adjourned to the next day which is not a legal holiday. [L. '91, p. 81, § 3; 2 H. C., § 45.]

Cited in 35 Wash. 129.

§ 66. (4714.) Proceedings may be Adjourned from Time to Time.

A court or judicial officer has power to adjourn any proceeding before it or him, from time to time, as may be necessary, unless otherwise expressly provided by law. [L. '91, p. 93, § 10; 2 H. C., § 46.]

See supra, § 5, effect of adjournment of supreme court.

See supra, § 26, effect of adjournment of superior court.

§ 67. (4715.) Proceedings not to Fail for Want of Judge or Court.

No proceeding in a court of justice, in any action, suit, or proceeding pending therein, is affected by a vacancy in the office of any or all of the judges, or by the failure of a session of the court. [L. '91, p. 89, § 2; 2 H. C., § 47.]

Cited in 1 Wash. 338, 340; 9 Wash. 220.

§ 68. (4716.) Court may Provide Rooms, etc.

If the proper authority neglects to provide any supreme or superior court with rooms, furniture, fuel, lights, and stationery, suitable and sufficient for the transaction of its business, and for the jury attending upon it, if there be one, the court may order the sheriff to do so, at the place within the county designated by law for holding such court; and the expense incurred by the sheriff in carrying such order into effect, when ascertained and ordered to be paid by the court, is a charge upon the county. [L. '91, p. 93, § 11; 2 H. C., § 48.]

See notes to § 719.

Where the court in pursuance of this section has ordered the sheriff to hire rooms suitable for the court and its officers and has directed the auditor to issue a warrant in payment therefor, the proper remedy of the county commissioners to prevent such expenditure is injunction and not prohibition: State v. Hunter, 4 Wash. 712; Barnett v. Ashmore, 5 Wash. 163.

§ 69. (4717.) Proceeding When Mode not Prescribed.

When jurisdiction is, by the constitution of this state, or by statute, conferred on a court or judicial officer all the means to carry it into effect are also given; and in the exercise of the jurisdiction, if the course of proceeding be not specifically pointed out by statute, any suitable process or mode of proceeding may be adopted which may appear most conformable to the spirit of this code. [L. '91, p. 94, § 12; 2 H. C., § 49.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 33; 10 Wash. 575; 16 Wash. 129.

This section is little, if anything, more than a re-enactment of the common law:

State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 30, 33, 34.

The superior courts may, under it, take cognizance of appeals from the state board of equalization and appeal, in tide land contests, although the law may fail to prescribe a method of procedure in such cases: Hays v. Merchants Bank Port Townsend, 10 Wash. 573, 575.

CHAPTER VI.

COUNTY CLERKS—CLERK OF SUPERIOR COURT.

§ 70. (4718.) Bond of Clerk—Conditions—When Filed, etc.

Every county clerk, before he enters on the duties of his office, shall enter into bond, payable to the state of Washington, with good and sufficient sureties, as provided by law for other county officers, the amount to be fixed and the bond to be approved by the judge or a majority of the judges presiding over the court of which he is clerk. The bond shall be conditioned that he will faithfully perform the duties of his office, and account for and pay over all moneys which may come into his hands by virtue of his office, and that he, his executors or administrators will deliver to his successor, safe and undefaced, all books, records, papers, seals, apparatus and furniture belonging to his office, and cause said bond to be filed in the office of the county treasurer of his said county, after it has been recorded in a book kept for that purpose by the county auditor. § 77. (4724.) Powers and Duties of Clerks of Supreme and Superior Courts.

The clerk of the supreme court, and each clerk of a superior court, has power to take and certify the proof and acknowledgment of a conveyance of real property or any other written instrument, authorized or required to be proved or acknowledged, and to administer oaths in every case when authorized by law; and it is the duty of the clerk of the supreme court, and of each county clerk for each of the courts for which he is clerk,—

'91, p. 98, § 4; 2 H. C., § 74.]

See infra, § 4032, employment of necessary help.

When the verification to an information is made by the prosecuting attorney before the deputy clerk, it is proper that the jurat should be signed by such officer in his own name, and it is unnecessary that he sign, in such case, in the name of his principal by himself as deputy: State v. Devine, 6 Wash. 587. See, also, State v. Rosener, 8 Wash. 42; State v. White, 12 Wash. 417.

A judgment entered by a court commissioner is reviewable by the superior court: Id.

Court commissioners are authorized to take evidence under an order of reference in supplemental proceedings and report thereon to the court, by virtue of this section, and Const., Art. Such revision shall be upon the records of the case, and the findings of fact and conclusions of law entered by the court commissioner, and unless a demand for revision is made within ten days from the entry of the order or judgment of the court commissioner, his orders and judgments shall be and become the orders and judgments of the superior court, and from same an appeal may be taken to the supreme court in all cases where an appeal will lie from like orders and judgments entered by the judge. Qualifications in general: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 165, §§ 27-30.

The word "homo" in the phrase "liber legalis et homo," defining the qualifications of jurors at the common law, at the time of the adoption of the federal constitution, was not employed in the narrow sense of designating men in contradistinction of women for jury service: Hays v.

Ty., 2 W. T., 286, 289. See contra Harland v. Territory, where it was held that women were not qualified to sit as jurors: Harland v. Territory, 3 W. T. 131.

The extent to which this is superseded by the next section, if at all, may be disputed.

The provision in this section that judicial officers shall not be compelled to serve as jurors is merely a privilege granted such officers, and is no ground of challenge for cause: State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75.

Waiver of challenge: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1657, § 53; State v. Clark, 34 Wash. 485; Heasley v. Nichols, 38 Wash. 485.

There being no repealing clause to the act of 1909, the previous section is retained.

§ 99. Who may be Excused.

A person summoned as a juror may be excused from acting as such on account of any of the reasons stated in section 98, when his own health requires, on account of death in his family, or if [of] illness in his family of such character that he is required to be in attendance thereupon, or when his business interests would be seriously prejudiced by such service. No person, however, shall be excused from service as a juror on account of business reasons unless his service as such would lead to the waste or destruction of his property, and unless it shall appear that after having been summoned as a juror he had made every reasonable effort to permit of his serving as a juror without causing waste or destruction to his property. When excused for any of the foregoing reasons, the name of the juror so excused shall be placed upon the jury list from which jurors are drawn to serve at the next succeeding jury term, and he shall be summoned with the other jurors to serve at such term. Any person applying to be excused from jury service for any of the causes herein specified, shall be placed upon oath (or affirmation) to testify truly in all respects as to the cause for such excuse, and that he will answer truly any question put to him by the judge with respect thereto. [L. '09, p. 134, § 7.]

See next section.

§ 100. (4737.) Public Interest as an Excuse.

A person may be excused from acting as a juror when, for any reason. . . . interests of the public will be materially injured by his attendance; but no person shall be excused on account of the causes in this section mentioned, unless it appear that after he was summoned he could not, by reasonable precaution, have provided against them. [L. '91, p. 87, § 7; 2 H. C., § 57.]

The above portions of § 7 of the act of 1891 are retained: See notes to § 94.

§ 101. Jury Districts—Lists Prepared by Clerk—Annual Revision.

Upon the taking effect of this act, the judge or judges of the superior court of each county in the state shall divide the county into not less than three nor more than six jury districts, following the lines of voting precincts, and arranging the districts in such manner that the population in each district shall be equal, so nearly as may be. The fixing of the boundaries of the district shall be evidenced by an order made by the court and entered upon its records. During the month of July of each year, the county clerk of each county in the state shall make up a jury list containing the names of all the qualified jurors in the county so far as he may be able to ascertain the same from the latest tax rolls and poll books of the county, or from any other official sources of information, and shall ascertain, so far as possible, the voting precinct and place of residence of each juror, and if these cannot be ascertained, the school district in which he resides. He shall provide boxes sufficient in number to correspond with the number of jury districts fixed by the court, and numbered to correspond therewith, and having written the names of the jurors in each district upon slips of paper, which shall be similar in size, quality of paper, and writing, he shall deposit such slips in the jury box of the proper district. The jury list shall be revised from year to year, new lists being made up each year, adding thereto the names of new residents, and omitting therefrom the names of persons who may have removed from the county, or who have served as jurors within five years theretofore (unless they shall be necessary to make up a sufficient list), and the names of the new list shall be deposited in the boxes for service for that year, as hereinbefore provided. § 102. Jury Terms.

Jury terms shall commence on the first Monday in each month, unless postponed to a later date by order of the judge or judges of the superior court, but it shall not be necessary to call a jury for any month in any county unless the judge or judges of the superior court of that county shall consider that there is sufficient business to be submitted to a jury to require that one be called. [L. '09, p. 133, § 4.]

See, also, next section.

§ 103. Jury, How Drawn.

When the judge or judges of the superior court of any county shall deem that the public business requires a jury term to be held, he or they shall require the county clerk to draw a jury to serve for the ensuing month. The county clerk on the second Saturday of the calendar month preceding the month on which the jury is to be called to serve, shall be blindfolded and in the presence of the judge or judges of the superior court, shall draw from the jury boxes such number of names as the judge or judges may have ordered to be summoned as jurors for the ensuing month. The names shall be drawn in equal number from each jury box, and before the drawing is made the box shall be shaken up so that the slips bearing names thereon may be thoroughly mixed, and the drawing of the slips shall depend purely upon chance. The names of persons so drawn to serve as jurors shall be struck from the jury list by the county clerk, and they shall not be called to serve as jurors for five years thereafter, unless their services shall be necessary because there are not sufficient competent jurors to be found within the county who have not served within that time. [L. '09, p. 133, § 4.]

Former laws cited in 15 Wash. 449; 17 Wash. 550.

cannot act in place of the sheriff: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563, 566. See, also, State v. Cushing, 17 Wash. 554; State v. Lattin, 19 Wash. 57.

§ 104. Grand Jury, How Drawn.

Whenever the judge or judges of the superior court of any county in the state shall desire to summon a grand jury, the names of persons to serve as grand jurors shall be drawn from the jury list as hereinbefore provided: Provided, however, that the names of the persons who so serve as grand jurors shall not be stricken from the jury list, and such service shall not excuse them from service upon the petit jury as though they had not been summoned on the grand jury. [L. '09, p. 133, § 5.]

§ 105. Drawing in Certain Counties in Absence of Judge.

When, pursuant to any statute of this state, there is elected but one judge of the superior court in and for two or more counties, the superior court of any such county may by an order made and entered of record direct that until such order be altered or revoked, the drawing from such box of the names of persons to serve as jurors in that court shall take place in the court room in such county and not in open court and without the presence of the judge; and while such order remains in force the drawing shall be made accordingly; but the names of the persons drawn shall nevertheless be entered upon the journal of such court, together with the clerk's certificate prescribed in section 4 of this act, and the judge of the superior court for any such county may, while he is within or without such county, make in writing and sign the order prescribed in said section 4 for drawing persons to serve as jurors; but he shall then forward such order to the clerk of such court in time to reach such clerk on or before 10 o'clock A. M. of the last Saturday in the current month; and such drawing shall then take place at said hour on said Saturday. If at the time when the said judge would otherwise make said order, it appears to the judge of said court that no jury will be needed in the ensuing month, the judge may omit said order, and no jury need be drawn for such ensuing month. [L. '05, p. 275, § 14.]

It is doubtful if this section is in force. There being no repealing clause to the act of 1909, it would seem that this section, which relates to counties of the first fifteen classes, might not be superseded. "Section 4," mentioned, relates to the order "on the second Saturday of each calendar month" corresponding to § 103, supra, in the present practice.

§ 106. (4744.) Irregularities do not Invalidate.

The failure on the part of any officer to perform the duties required within the time, or other irregularity in said drawing, shall in no way invalidate the selecting, summoning or drawing of said jurors. [Cf. L. '88, p. 116, § 4; L. '90, p. 332, § 2; 2 H. C., § 62.]

Cited in 12 Wash. 291.

This section shows the intention of the legislature to be that the regulations for the drawing of jurors is not mandatory: State v. King, 12 Wash. 290.

§ 107. (4745.) Proceedings When Venire Set Aside.

If for any cause the court shall see fit to set aside the venire for grand or petit jurors, returned as above provided, an open venire may thereupon issue to the sheriff, who shall thereupon complete the panel by such open venire as speedily as possible. [Cf. L. '90, p. 332, § 3; L. '91, p. 88, § 8; 2 H. C., § 63.]

§ 108. (4747.) Sheriff to Summon Jurors.

When a venire is delivered to the sheriff, he shall without delay proceed to summon the jurors as therein directed, and shall immediately thereafter make and file in the court a return of his doings thereon. [L. '91, p. 88, § 10; 2 H. C., § 65.]

The fact that the sheriff does not make a return of his acts in summoning a special venire of jurors until after the commencement of a trial is not ground for a challenge: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563, 568.

§ 109. Additional Drawing—Open Venire.

If, for any reason, the jurors drawn for service upon the petit jury for any month shall not be sufficient to dispose of the pending jury business, the judge or judges of the superior court may draw from the jury list such additional names as they may consider necessary, and the persons whose names are so drawn shall thereupon be summoned to serve as jurors forthwith. By stipulation or agreement made in open court as a part of the record the parties to any action may agree that an open venire may issue to make up the jury in that action, and upon order of the court approving of such stipulation and directing the number of jurors to be drawn, the clerk shall issue an open venire and the sheriff shall fill the same by summoning from the bystanders, or elsewhere, a sufficient number of persons to fill the open venire. [L. '09, p. 134, § 6. Cf. L. '90, p. 331, § 1; 2 H. C., § 60; L. '95, p. 140, § 3; L. '90, p. 102, § 7; L. '01, p. 208, § 11; L. '05, p. 274, § 11.]

See, also, next section.

See supra, § 94, as to other disqualifications.

See infra, § 111, previous service within one year.

A statute requiring persons impaneled as jurors to be householders, but making no such requirement of those summoned upon an open venire to complete the panel, is not unconstitutional as a violation of Art. I, § 12, of the Const., which provides that "no law shall be passed granting to any citizen, class of citizens . . . privileges or immunities which, upon the same terms, shall not equally belong to all citizens": Redford v. Spokane St. Ry. Co., 15 Wash. 419; nor is the same in violation of Art. I, § 21, of the Const.: State v. Hol-edger, 15 Wash. 443.

It is a mere irregularity and not prejudicial error for a court to order a venire for additional jurors before the regular panel is exhausted: Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265, 271.

Where the panel of petit jurors has been discharged, the court was authorized, under § 8, p. 401, Laws of 1863, to summon a jury to try a criminal cause: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 548, 553.

See, also, Cushing v. State, 17 Wash. 544; State v. Lattin, 19 Wash. 57; State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540.

§ 110. (4746.) Venire to Fill Incomplete Panel.

If for any cause a sufficient number of grand or petit jurors are not returned by the sheriff in the manner first herein contemplated, or if a sufficient number of grand or petit jurors are not in attendance, the court may order the panel filled by summoning a sufficient number by an open venire issued and directed to the sheriff. [Cf. L. '90, p. 332, § 4; L. '91, p. 88, § 9; 2 H. C., § 64.]

This section is in force as to grand jurors, at least: See previous section and notes. See infra, § 323, manner of impaneling jury.

§ 111. (4748.) Juror not to be Summoned Twice in One Year.

No person shall be summoned as a petit juror in any superior court, upon an open venire, more than once in one year. [L. '91, p. 88, § 11; 2 H. C., § 66.]

For balance of this section, see infra, § 328.

See supra, § 94, qualifications of jurors.

See supra, § 97, who are exempt.

See infra, § 326, challenge for cause.

This section was intended to cut off what is known as professional jurors: See 1 Thomp. Tr., § 58.

This section does not render one incompetent to serve as a juror, in the absence of a challenge: State v. Hall, 24 Wash. 255.

CHAPTER IX.

ATTORNEY GENERAL AND PROSECUTING ATTORNEYS.

Duties of attorney general: See "State Officers," § 9035 et seq., infra.

Duties of prosecutors: See "Counties," § 3958 et seq., infra.

§ 112. (4753.) Powers and Duties of Attorney General.

The powers and duties of the attorney general, in relation to actions and proceedings in the courts, shall be,—

1. To appear for and represent the state before the supreme court in all cases in which the state is interested;

2. To institute and prosecute all actions and proceedings for or for the use of the state, which may be necessary in the execution of the duties of any state officer;

3. To defend all actions and proceedings against any state officer in his official capacity, in any of the courts of this state or the United States;

4. To consult and advise the several prosecuting attorneys in matters relating to the duties of their office, and when, in his judgment, the interests of the state require, he shall attend the trial of any person accused of a crime, and assist in the prosecution. [L. '91, p. 95, § 2; 2 H. C., § 84.]

The office of attorney general is created by the constitution: Art. III, § 1.

Powers, compensation, etc.: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 328; Ritchie v. State, 42 Wash. 653; State ex rel. Stratton v. Maynard, 35 Wash. 168; State ex rel. Attorney General v. Seattle Gas etc. Co., 28 Wash. 488.

§ 113. (4754.) Prosecuting Attorneys Defined.

Prosecuting attorneys are attorneys authorized by law to appear for and represent the state and the counties thereof in actions and proceedings before the courts and judicial officers. [L. '91, p. 95, § 3; 2 H. C., § 85.]

Cited in 18 Wash. 224; 21 Wash. 61; 28 Wash. 500.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 951.

Under the constitution and statutes the office of county attorney is identical with that of prosecuting attorney: Spokane Co. v. Allen, 9 Wash. 229.

One who, while elected as a county attorney, assumes the duties of the office of prosecuting attorney, and as such collects delinquent taxes, is estopped to deny that he was in reality filling the office of prosecuting attorney, when action is instituted against him by the county to recover the sums collected by him under such law: Id.

The prosecuting attorney of a county being a county officer, under the constitution and laws of this state, a vacancy in the office should be filled by appointment of the county commissioners and not by the governor: State v. Whitney, 9 Wash. 377. See Swanson v. Nagle, 32 Wash.

169; State v. Heaton, 21 Wash. 59. Under this section the county attorney has power to bring an action to compel the auditor to draw a warrant to settle a judgment duly entered against the county: State ex rel. Porter v. Headlee, 18 Wash. 220.

But a county attorney has no authority to institute action in name of county against county commissioners to restrain them from bonding certain warrant indebtedness of county: Spokane County v. Bracht, 23 Wash. 102.

§ 114. (4755.) Appointment by the Court.

When from illness or other cause the prosecuting attorney is temporarily unable to perform his duties, the court or judge may appoint some qualified person to discharge the duties of such officer in court until such disability is removed. [L. '91, p. 95, § 5; 2 H. C., § 87.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 62.

The court has no power to appoint special counsel to represent the state before the grand jury while the prosecuting attorney stands ready and willing to perform his duties in that respect: State v. Heaton, 21 Wash. 59.

But it is within the discretion of the court to allow special counsel to aid the prosecuting attorney in the prosecution of a case: State v. Hosher, 26 Wash. 643.

§ 115. (4756.*) Deputy Prosecuting Attorneys—Appointment.

The prosecuting attorney of each county may appoint, by and with the consent of the county commissioners, one or more deputies who shall have the same power in all respects as their principal. Such appointment shall be in writing, signed by the prosecuting attorney and filed in the county auditor's office. Each deputy thus appointed shall have the same qualifications required of the prosecuting attorney, but his appointment may be revoked by the prosecuting attorney or county commissioners at will. The prosecuting attorney shall be responsible for the acts of his deputies. [L. '03, p. 7, § 1. Cf. L. '91, p. 96, § 6; 2 H. C., § 88; see L. '86, p. 63, § 17.]

Cited in 33 Wash. 327.

Under § 2142, Code 1881, providing that each prosecuting attorney may appoint deputies, etc., a deputy prosecuting attorney has the power to subscribe his principal's name to an information: Hammond v. State, 3 Wash. 171.

And the fact that in the body of the affidavit he is described as prosecuting attorney instead of deputy is immaterial. The verification by the deputy is also sufficient: Id.

It is proper for the deputy in executing papers pertaining to his duties to sign his own name thereto as such, and it is unnecessary that he sign in the name of his principal, by himself as deputy: State v. Devine, 6 Wash. 587.

An assistant prosecuting attorney is ex officio one of the attorneys for plaintiff in action to foreclose delinquency tax certificate where the action is brought by the prosecuting attorney under Laws of 1899, p. 296: Swanson v. Hoyle, 32 Wash. 169.

§ 116. (4757.) General Powers and Duties of Prosecuting Attorneys.

The prosecuting attorney of each county shall have authority, and it shall be his duty, subject to the supervisory control and direction of the attorney general, to appear for and represent the state and the county of which he is prosecuting attorney, in all criminal and civil actions and proceedings in such county in which the state or such county is a party. [L. '91, p. 96, § 7; 2 H. C., § 89.]

See infra, § 3958 et seq.

Cited in 21 Wash. 61; 28 Wash. 500.

Where a county on relation of its prosecuting attorney makes application for a writ of mandate against the county commissioners and the writ is allowed, such attorney cannot be permitted in the after proceedings, though with the consent of the parties, to represent both the county and its commissioners: Clark County v. Commissioners, 1 W. T. 250.

The fact that an action to restrain the issuance of a warrant upon a claim against the county had been instituted by the prosecuting attorney in his own name instead of that of the county would not affect the validity of the judgment in the action, when such suit had been directed to be brought by the county commissioners, and where it appeared that the county was the real party in interest, had appeared and no objection had been raised as to the title of party plaintiff: State ex rel. Porter v. Headlee, 18 Wash. 220.

CHAPTER X.

ATTORNEYS AND COUNSELORS AT LAW.

Compensation of: See infra, § 474 et seq.

§ 118. (4758.) Attorney and Counsel Defined.

An attorney is a person duly admitted to practice law and authorized to appear for and represent a party in the written proceedings in any action or proceeding in any stage thereof. An attorney other than the one who represents the party in the written proceedings may also appear for and represent a party in court or before a judicial officer, and then he is known in the particular action or proceeding as counsel only, and his authority is limited to the acts that are done in the court or before such officer at that time. [L. '91, p. 95, § 1; 2 H. C., § 90; L. '95, p. 178, § 1.]

Cited in 30 Wash. 234.

§ 119. Attorneys to be Admitted.

No person shall be permitted to practice as an attorney and counselor at law or to commence, conduct or defend any action or proceeding in which he is not a party concerned, in any of the courts of this state, either by using or subscribing his own name or the name of any other person, or to solicit business as, or to advertise, or represent himself, in any way, as an attorney or counselor at law, unless he has been previously admitted to practice law in this state. [L. '09, p. 533, § 1. Cf. L. '63, p. 403, § 1; L. '77, p. 321, § 1; Cd. '81, § 3275; L. '91, p. 96, §§ 8, 10; 2 H. C., §§ 91, 93; L. '95, p. 178, § 2; L. '03, p. 391, § 1.]

See § 142, infra. See, also, Rules of Court, XXIV to XXXV, 51 Wash. xliii, et seq.

§ 120. General Qualifications for Admission—Fee.

No person shall hereafter be admitted to practice law in this state except by order of the supreme court, either on motion or by examination. Each applicant for admission shall show by his affidavit to the court that he is over twenty-one years of age, a citizen of the United States and a resident of this state, or has come into this state for the purpose of making it his permanent residence, that he intends to actively engage in the practice of the law as a profession, and that he is not laboring under suspension or disbarment of any court whatsoever, and that he never was suspended or disbarred by any court, or if so, in what courts and when, and giving the time of reinstatement, and shall also file a certificate of at least two members of the bar of the supreme court to the effect that he is of good moral character and recommending his admission: Provided, that attorneys living outside of this state may practice in the courts of this state on the same terms and conditions as attorneys of this state are permitted to practice in the courts of their respective states, territories or districts, and not otherwise. The fee for admission shall be twenty-five dollars, to be paid to the clerk of the court at the time of filing his application, and in case the court refuses to admit the applicant the fee shall be returned to him, otherwise to be accounted for as other court fees. It shall be competent for any person to present to the court any reason why an applicant should not be admitted as an attorney and counselor at law in this state. [L. '09, p. 533, § 2. Cf. Cd. '81, § 3276; L. '91, p. 96, § 9; 2 H. C., § 92; L. '95, p. 179, § 4. Cf. L. '97, p. 12, § 1.]

A Japanese is not a citizen entitled to admission to practice law: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 317, § 1; Yamishita, In re, 30 Wash. 234.

In an action for an attorney's compensation, in which the pleadings admit that he is admitted to practice, the defendant is not entitled to show that plaintiff resorted to bribery to secure his admission to practice: Dodds v. Gregson, 35 Wash. 402.

§ 121. Admissions on Motion—Law Graduates—Certificates.

The following applicants may be admitted on motion:—

(a) Graduates of the law department of the state university.

(b) Members of the bar of other states having been entitled to practice in the highest courts of record in their respective states for at least two years immediately preceding their application for admission to practice in this state: Provided, That such applicant upon showing the qualifications as provided in the next preceding section, the court, if satisfied of the applicant's fitness, shall enter an order permitting such applicant to practice law in this state for a period of one year, at the end of which time, the court being satisfied that such applicant is of good moral character and a fit and proper person to practice law in this state, an order shall be entered so admitting such applicant. [L. '09, p. 534, § 3. Cf. L. '03, p. 391, § 1.]

§ 122. Notice of Application for Examination—Fee.

All persons making application for admission to the bar as herein provided, shall file a notice of such application with the clerk of the supreme court at least one week before the date of such examination, as shall be fixed by rule of the supreme court, and shall pay to said clerk the sum of $25, in full for all fees, for filing his application, entering his admission and the issuing of a certificate therefor, and the fee so paid to the clerk shall be accounted for by him as other fees. [L. '95, p. 179, § 5; L. '03, p. 392, § 3; L. '07, p. 407, § 1.]

This section may be superseded. $20 changed to $25, by § 120, supra.

Examinations for admission to the bar shall be held at the state capital on the first Thursday and Friday after the second Monday in January, May, and October of each year, and shall be both oral and written as to the applicant's knowledge of the law. No person shall be admitted to such examination unless he present to the court evidence that he has sufficient general education to admit him to the freshman or higher class in the state university, or has completed a full four years' course in a high school of approved standing, or holds a certificate or diploma recognized as equal or equivalent to a diploma from such high school, or is the holder of a first grade teachers' certificate in this state, or a certificate of a higher grade. Nor shall any such applicant be examined unless he shall have filed with the clerk of the supreme court, two years before such examination, a notice of his commencement of the study of the law: Provided, this provision shall not apply to anyone taking the examination within two years after the taking effect of this act, who shall on or before the first day of January, 1910, file with the said clerk a statement in which the time he commenced the study of the law is set forth, provided the time he applies for admission is at least two years after the time named in such statement. Every applicant shall also present an affidavit by some member of the bar of the supreme court, or a certificate from the dean, or head, of some law school of approved standing, to the effect that such applicant has regularly and attentively studied law under the direction of the affiant, or dean or head of such law school, as the case may be, for a period of two years: Provided, that thirty-five full weeks of study in a law school in any one year shall be equivalent to a year's study. [L. '09, p. 534, § 4. Cf. L. '95, p. 179, § 3.]

§ 124. Rules—Examining Board—Appointment—Compensation.

The supreme court shall make such other rules as may be necessary for the admission of applicants to practice law, and for the purpose of conducting the examination of applicants may appoint a board consisting of three lawyers, who shall hold their office for a term of three years unless sooner removed by the court: Provided, however, that the first appointments after the taking effect of this act one member shall be appointed for one year, one for two years and one for three years, and thereafter each member shall be appointed for a term of three years, except to fill a vacancy. No person shall be eligible as a member of such board unless he shall have been a member in good standing of the bar of the supreme court of this state for not less than five years immediately preceding his appointment, and no person shall be eligible to succeed himself on such board. Each member of said board shall be allowed ten dollars ($10) per day for each day actually spent in the performance of his duties, and five cents per mile for each mile actually and necessarily traveled in going to and returning from attendance on the court to conduct such examinations. [L. '09, p. 535, § 5. Cf. L. '03, p. 391, § 1.]

§ 125. Oath.

Every person before being admitted to practice law in this state shall take and subscribe the following oath:

(1) I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution and laws of the state of Washington;

(2) I will maintain the respect due to the courts of justice and judicial officers;

(3) I will not counsel or maintain any suit or proceedings which shall appear to be illegal and unjust except such as I believe to be honestly debatable under the law of the land;

(4) I will employ for the purpose of maintaining the causes confided to me such means only as are consistent with truth, and never seek to mislead the judge or jury by any artifice or false statement of fact or law;

(5) I will maintain the confidence and preserve inviolate the secrets of my client and will accept no compensation in connection with his business except from him or with his knowledge and approval;

(6) I will abstain from all offensive personalities and advance no fact prejudicial to the honor or reputation of a fellow attorney, party or witness unless required by the justice of the cause with which I am charged;

(7) I will never reject from any consideration of personal matters the cause of the defenseless or oppressed or delay any man's cause for lucre or malice, so help me God. [L. '09, p. 535, § 6.]

§ 126. Revocation of License.

Upon the production of proof to the supreme court that any person admitted to practice law in this state, has been at the time of his admission to practice law, disbarred or suspended from practice in any state or territory of the United States, or that there was pending against such person any proceedings for disbarment or suspension in any such state or territory at the time of his admission to practice here laboring under any disability to practice in the courts, of any such state or territory, or that such person had ever been, at the time of his admission to practice here, convicted of a felony or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, then said supreme court shall revoke and cancel the certificate of admission granted to such person. The proceedings for the revocation and cancellation of such certificate may be taken by the court of its own motion, or may be taken upon the information of another, and in either case the party shall have the privilege of making his own defense; such proceedings shall be by motion and answer, and evidence may be examined on either side. [L. '09, p. 536, § 7.]

For removal and suspension, see § 139, infra.

§ 127. (4763.) Disqualifications.

No person shall practice as an attorney and counselor at law in any court of this state who does not reside in the state, or is not a citizen of the United States, or who holds a commission as judge of any court of record, or who is a sheriff, coroner or deputy sheriff; nor shall the clerk of the supreme court or of the superior court, or the deputy of either, practice in the particular court of which he is clerk or deputy clerk; but nothing herein contained shall prevent attorneys and counselors at law, who reside without this state, practicing in this state, unless the state or territory in which they reside prohibits attorneys and counselors at law residing in this state to practice therein, but nothing herein contained shall prevent any judge of any of the courts of this state from finishing any business by him undertaken in the district, circuit or supreme court of the United States prior to his election as judge. [L. '95, p. 179, § 6.]

See supra, § 81, clerk of court or partner.

See supra, § 49, partners of justices of the peace.

See supra, § 55, judicial officer.

Nonresident attorneys who have been admitted to the bar in this state, may sue summons in actions in this state: Wagnitz v. Ritter, 31 Wash. 343.

§ 128. (4764.) No Exclusion on the Ground of Sex.

No person shall be excluded from acting as an attorney at law and practicing in all the courts of this state on account of sex. [L. '95, p. 180, § 7.]

§ 129. (4765.) Duties of Attorneys and Counselors.

It shall be the duty of an attorney and counselor,—

1. To support the constitution of the United States and the laws of the state;
2. To maintain the respect due to the courts of justice and judicial officers;
3. To counsel or maintain such actions, proceedings, or defenses only as appear to him legal and just, except the defense of a person charged with a public offense;
4. To employ, for the purpose of maintaining the causes confided to him, such means only as are consistent with truth, and never to seek to mislead the judge by any artifice or false statement of fact or law;

5. To maintain inviolate the confidence, and at every peril to himself to preserve the secrets, of his client;

6. To abstain from all offensive personality, and to advance no fact prejudicial to the honor or reputation of a party or witness, unless required by the justice of the cause with which he is charged;

7. Never to reject, from any consideration personal to himself, the cause of the defenseless or oppressed. [L. '63, p. 404, § 5; Cd. '81, § 3279; 2 H. C., § 94.]

Cited in 5 Wash. 332; 18 Wash. 480; 48 Wash. 158.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 323, 324, §§ 30-34.

An attorney, when he enters into the employ of another, undertakes that he possesses a reasonable amount of skill and knowledge as an attorney and also that he will exercise the same in the course of his employment, but he is not a guarantor of results nor liable for losses unless occasioned by neglect or want of reasonable skill and knowledge as an attorney: Isham v. Parker, 3 Wash. 755, 778.

Professional confidence once reposed in an attorney cannot be divested by the expiration of his professional employment: Nichols v. Griffin, 1 W. T. 374. But see Messenger v. Murphy, 33 Wash. 353.

An attorney is an officer of the court and takes his office with all its burdens as well as privileges; and among the burdens thus assumed as that of being obliged, when requested by the court, to conduct without compensation the defense of pauper criminals, where the law provides no compensation therefor: Presby v. Klickitat Co., 5 Wash. 329, 332.

Assignment as counsel by the court: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 317, § 5; Jenkins v. Jenkins University, 17 Wash. 160.

As to acting for adverse parties, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 317, §§ 3, 4; Clarke County v. County Commrs. 1 W. T. 250; Nickles v. Griffin, 1 W. T. 374; Messenger v. Murphy, 33 Wash. 353; Shine v. Culver, 42 Wash. 484.

Dealings between attorney and client:

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 323, 324, §§ 32-34.

As to what facts do not show fraud on part of attorney, see Snohomish Land Co. v. Blood, 40 Wash. 626; Gaffney v. Jones, 18 Wash. 311.

A sale of mining stock by an attorney to his client, an old lady inexperienced in business matters, for whom he had been transacting business, will be canceled for fraud, if proved: Landis v. Wintermute, 40 Wash. 673.

The fact that an attorney, while conducting litigation respecting certain land in behalf of a client, buys up the tax titles against such land, would not constitute a violation of his duty as attorney: Payette v. Willis, 23 Wash. 299. Attorney taking assignment of mortgage for his corporation: See Security Sav. Soc. v. Cohalan, 31 Wash. 266.

Attorney buying outstanding title adverse to his client: See Carson v. Fogg, 34 Wash. 448.

An attorney is guilty of contemptuous conduct warranting his suspension from practice, under this section, where his petition for a rehearing attempts to intimidate the court into rendering a favorable decision by setting forth that scandalous and offensive rumors are current to the effect that a majority of the court had prejudged the case and agreed to dismiss the appeal in return for political favors received, and that the only way to refute such scandals and uphold the dignity of the court would be to deny the motion to dismiss and hear the case on its merits: In re Robinson, 48 Wash. 153.

An attorney and counselor has authority,—

1. To bind his client in any of the proceedings in an action or special proceeding by his agreement duly made, or entered upon the minutes of the court; but the court shall disregard all agreements and stipulations in relation to the conduct of or any of the proceedings in an action or special proceeding, unless such agreement or stipulation be made in open court, or in presence of the clerk, and entered in the minutes by him, or signed by the party against whom the same is alleged, or his attorney;

2. To receive money claimed by his client in an action or special proceeding during the pendency thereof, or after judgment upon the payment thereof, and not otherwise, to discharge the same or acknowledge satisfaction of the judgment;

3. This section shall not prevent a party employing a new attorney, or from issuing an execution upon a judgment, or from taking other proceedings prescribed by statute for its enforcement. [L. '63, p. 404, § 6; Cd. '81, § 3280; 2 H. C., § 95.]

Retainer and authority: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 318-323, §§ 10-29.

An attorney may discontinue a suit by virtue of his general power as an attorney of record: Simpson v. Brown, 1 W. T. 247.

Courts will not allow an issue to be joined where both plaintiff and defendant are represented by the same attorney: Clark County v. Commrs., 1 W. T. 250; Simpson v. Brown, supra.

An attorney employed by a railroad company specially to represent it in a condemnation proceeding has no authority to bind the company by an agreement for the payment of damages to a person not a party to the proceeding: Haynes v. Tacoma, Olympia etc. Ry. Co., 7 Wash. 211.

The guardian of a minor who wages an action has the same right to control it that any other suitor has, and may stipulate for a dismissal of an appeal regardless of the objections of his attorney: South Bend Land Co. v. Denio, 7 Wash. 303. See, also, Schultheis v. Nash, 27 Wash. 250.

Money and notes secured by mortgage received by an attorney in settlement of a client's claim, though one of the notes is payable to the attorney, belong, in the absence of some special agreement, to the client, who may intervene in a foreclosure suit brought by the attorney, and obtain a decree for his use and benefit: Parker v. Esch, 5 Wash. 296.

The court will not presume, merely because one of the defendants is represented specially by a firm, one of whose members has the same surname as the attorney signing the stipulation, that the latter is a member of said firm: Haas v. Gaddis, 1 Wash. 89, 93.

For power to sell as agent, see Scully v. Book, 3 Wash. 182.

Although a stipulation for the compromise of a suit may have been entered into by the attorneys for the respective parties, without authority, yet it will be sufficient if it appears that their action was subsequently ratified by their clients: Denney v. Parker, 10 Wash. 218.

The fact that the attorney for a plaintiff in a mortgage foreclosure suit was also the attorney for a claimant in a lien foreclosure suit, involving the same property, will not charge the lien claimant with notice of the pendency of the suit of mortgage foreclosure, when he has not been made a party nor has knowledge thereof through a lis pendens: Pacific Mfg. Co. v. Brown, 8 Wash. 347.

A party is charged with the notice of a fact of which his attorney has knowledge, where such knowledge is obtained in the course of his employment for the party sought to be charged therewith: Pacific Mfg. Co. v. Brown, Id.; following Hood v. Fahnestock, 8 Watts. 489, 34 Am. Dec. 489; Rodgers v. Palmer, 102 U. S. 263. See, also, Deering v. Holcomb, 26 Wash. 588.

A judgment rendered against a party not served with process, but upon the appearance of an unauthorized attorney, will be set aside as a nullity when the relief therefrom is claimed promptly and proof of unauthorized is clear and convincing: McEachern v. Brackett, 8 Wash. 652, 655.

Acceptance of an attorney of the fruits of a decree in the lower court will, as a general rule, be regarded as the acceptance of his client: Lyons v. Alexander, 1 W. T. 482.

And the fact that the moneys received were afterward returned does not change the rule: Id.

A creditor is chargeable with the knowledge of his attorney that he intends to make an assignment at the time he confesses judgment in favor of a creditor, though such knowledge was gained while the attorney had been the attorney for the debtor: Heyman v. Barmon, 6 Wash. 516, 519.

In an action by an attorney to recover pay for services rendered in certain cases, it is not error to refuse to instruct that "the burden of proof is upon the attorney in all such cases to show the validity of the contract made and dealings had with his client": Isham v. Parker, 3 Wash. 755, 765.

In a suit to recover attorney's fees, when plaintiff has shown the character of services rendered by him and time occupied therein, the testimony of other attorneys is competent as to what such services were worth: Id.

Where an attorney is under a written contract to receive a stated compensation for conducting certain cases through the courts to the court of last resort, he is entitled to extra compensation for all unusual proceedings and services therein: Id.

And the fact that additional counsel were employed with his consent does not deprive him from recovering the reasonable worth of his services, irrespective of the number of counsel engaged therein: Id. See Ramage v. Littlejohn, 17 Wash. 386.

Under a contract whereby an attorney agrees to render professional services in certain cases for a reasonable attorney's fee, such as the client thinks reasonable and is able to pay, the attorney is bound by the client's judgment as to what is a reasonable fee, in the absence of a showing that the client has refused, through some fraudulent or other bad motive, to name or pay what is clearly a reasonable fee: Howe v. Kenyon, 4 Wash. 677.

Receipt by attorney of a party to a judgment, given to the clerk of court for money paid into clerk's office in satisfaction of the judgment, will bind the client: Lyons v. Bain et al., 1 W. T. 482. See, also, High v. Emerson, 23 Wash. 103; Gaffney v. Megrath, 23 Wash. 476.

Stipulation by attorney, who, without objection, has appeared generally in an action, that notice of appeal might be given and statement of facts settled after the expiration of the time limited by law, is binding on all the defendants, though other defendants were represented, specially, by other attorneys; and the fact that a third defendant was specially represented by a firm, one of whose members bears the same surname as the attorney stipulating, will not warrant the court in assuming the attorney signing the stipulation was the member of the firm, and that he represented only the third defendant: Haas v. Gaddis, 1 Wash. 89.

Scope of authority in general: See Ashcraft v. Powers, 22 Wash. 440; Irwin v. Buffalo Pitts Co., 39 Wash. 346; Eldridge v. Stenger, 19 Wash. 697; Smalley v. Laugenour, 30 Wash. 307.

By accepting the benefits of a stipulation made by its attorney in compromising a suit to foreclose sewer and grade assessments, a city is estopped to question the authority of the attorney, or the validity of the judgment confessed, by reason of the fact that the settlement and judgment included the discharge of taxes and assessments: State ex rel. Lippincott v. Spokane, 44 Wash. 688.

Control of judgment: See Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244; Carson v. Fogg, 34 Wash. 448.

SATISFACTION OF JUDGMENT OR EXECUTION.—If the attorney of record is specially authorized to compromise the suit after judgment, he may satisfy the same of record upon the full execution of an agreement of settlement made by him: High v. Emerson, 23 Wash. 103.

An attorney employed by a guardian ad litem to prosecute an action for a minor has authority to receive payment of the judgment and enter satisfaction thereof, where there is no general guardian, especially in view of above section: State ex rel. Lane v. Ballinger, 41 Wash. 23.

Settlements, compromises, and releases in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 322, §§ 26, 27; Livesley v. Pier, 11 Wash. 268; High v. Emerson, 23 Wash. 103; Collins v. Fidelity Trust Co., 33 Wash. 136; Sawyer v. Vermont Loan etc. Co., 41 Wash. 524; Lambert v. Gillette, 24 Wash. 726; Gaffney v. Megrath, 23 Wash. 476.

The attorney's knowledge of fraudulent acts by the adverse party even if acquired in past transactions is constructive notice to his client, when there is no showing of collusion between the attorney and the adverse party: Deering v. Holcomb, 26 Wash. 588.

Where, after a judgment for plaintiff has been assigned, an appeal is taken and plaintiff's attorney of record appeared for the respondent on the appeal, he was the attorney for the assignee of the judgment, although paid by the plaintiff, and had authority to receive payment and satisfy the judgment under this section: Hayes v. Koepyi, 46 Wash. 43.

Where an attorney foreclosed a mortgage upon a tract of land subject to a water right, the extent of which was in dispute, and in litigating the question suppressed knowledge of a lost unrecorded deed which granted to the defendants the greater water right contended for by them, whereby a decree was entered in favor of the plaintiffs adjudging the premises subject to the lesser water right only, the knowledge of the attorney becomes the knowledge of another of his clients who purchased the lesser right shortly after the foreclosure, who accordingly would not be entitled to equitable relief to obtain the greater water right as against the purchaser at the foreclosure sale: Schmidt v. Olympia Light and Power Co., 46 Wash. 360.

§ 131. (4767.) Proceedings When Attorney Appears Without Authority.

If it be alleged by a party for whom an attorney appears that he does so without authority, the court may at any stage of the proceedings relieve the party for whom the attorney has assumed to appear from the consequences of his act; it may also summarily, upon motion, compel the attorney to repair the injury to either party consequent upon his assumption of authority. [L. '69, p. 405, § 7; Cd. '81, § 3281; 2 H. C., § 96.]

As to employment of attorney, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 325, § 35; Ramage v. Littlejohn, 17 Wash. 386; Schultheis v.

Nash, 27 Wash. 250; Sullivan's Estate, In re, 36 Wash. 217.

Sufficiency and proof of authority to settle: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 322, § 27; Timm v. Timm, 34 Wash. 228; Erickson v. McNeeley & Co., 41 Wash. 509.

§ 132. (4768.) Attorney may be Required to Show Authority.

The court or a judge may, on motion of either party, and on showing reasonable grounds therefor, require the attorney for the adverse party, or for any one of several adverse parties, to produce or prove the authority under which he appears, and until he does so, may stay all proceedings by him on behalf of the party for whom he assumes to appear. [L. '63, p. 405, § 8; Cd. '81, § 3282; 2 H. C., § 97.]

A party for whom an attorney assumes to act may question the attorney's authority in a proceeding to set aside the judgment: Dormitzer v. German Sav. & Loan Soc., 23 Wash. 132.

§ 133. (4769.) Change of Attorneys.

The attorney in an action or special proceeding may be changed at any time before judgment or final determination as follows:—

1. Upon his own consent, filed with the clerk or entered upon the minutes; or

2. Upon the order of the court, or a judge thereof, on the application of the client, or for other sufficient cause; but no such change can be made until the charges of such attorney have been paid by the party asking such change to be made. [L. '63, p. 405, § 9; Cd. '81, § 3283; 2 H. C., § 98.]

Cited in 23 Wash. 305; 27 Wash. 114; 27 Wash. 255.

Change and substitution: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 319, 320, §§ 14-16; Belle City Mfg. Co. v. Kemp, 27 Wash. 111; Schultheis v. Nash, 27 Wash. 250; Payette v. Willis, 23 Wash. 299; Farwell v. Colman, 35 Wash. 308.

In an action to recover attorney's fees by an attorney who had been discharged, evidence on the part of the defendant that plaintiff did not attend to the taking of certain depositions is inadmissible under an answer alleging a discharge on account of plaintiff's improper conduct in having instigated the case, and where it did not appear that the depositions were necessary: Sessions v. Warwick, 46 Wash. 165.

In an action by an attorney to recover on an entire contract for the payment of $1,000 for services to be rendered in another suit, the jury is properly discharged and judgment rendered for the plaintiff, where the defendant's evidence admits the contract and the balance due, and there was no evidence of any defense to go to the jury; it appearing that the only ground alleged in the answer for discharging the plaintiff was known to the defendant before employing the plaintiff: Sessions v. Warwick, 46 Wash. 165.

A party plaintiff may settle his cause of action without the consent of his attorney notwithstanding an agreement that the attorney was to be compensated by receiving one-half of the amount of any judgment recovered, where no collusion or fraud against the attorney is practiced and the attorney has not taken the steps provided by statute for asserting a lien upon the subject matter of the action: McRea v. Warehime, 49 Wash. 194.

§ 134. (4770.) Notice of Change and Substitution.

When an attorney is changed, as provided in the last section, written notice of the change, and of the substitution of a new attorney, or of the appearance of the party in person, must be given to the adverse party; until then, he shall be bound to recognize the former attorney. [L. '63, p. 405, § 10; Cd. '81, § 3284; 2 H. C., § 99.]

See notes to last section.

Cited in 3 Wash. 392; 27 Wash. 114.

§ 135. (4771.) Proceedings on Death or Removal of Attorney.

When an attorney dies, or is removed or suspended, or ceases to act as such, a party to an action for whom he was acting as attorney must, at least twenty days before any further proceedings against him, be required by the adverse party, by written notice, to appoint another attorney, or to appear in person. [L. '63, p. 405, § 11; Cd. '81, § 3285; 2 H. C., § 100.]

Cited in 35 Wash. 387.

This section does not apply to a voluntary withdrawal by the attorney, since a twenty days' delay could thereby be secured by collusion: McInnes v. Sutton, 35 Wash. 384.

§ 136. (4772.) Lien of Attorneys.

An attorney has a lien for his compensation, whether specially agreed upon or implied, as hereinafter provided,—

1. Upon the papers of his client, which have come into his possession in the course of his professional employment;
2. Upon money in his hands belonging to his client;
3. Upon money in the hands of the adverse party in an action or proceeding, in which the attorney was employed, from the time of giving notice of the lien to that party;
4. Upon a judgment to the extent of the value of any services performed by him in the action, or if the services were rendered under a special agreement, for the sum due under such agreement, from the time of filing notice of such lien or claim with the clerk of the court in which such judgment is entered, which notice must be filed with the papers in the action in which such judgment was rendered, and an entry made in the execution docket, showing name of claimant, amount claimed, and date of filing notice. [L. '63, p. 406, § 12; Cd. '81, § 3286; 2 H. C., § 101.]

See §§ 474, 475, infra, relating to compensation of attorneys.

Cited in 3 Wash. 375; 11 Wash. 208; 23 Wash. 307; 25 Wash. 511; 41 Wash. 196.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 327, 328, §§ 45-48.

Where parties to an action, on a hearing before a court commissioner, agree that the commissioner shall fix the attorney fee therein, no proof is necessary as to what constitutes reasonable attorneys' fees: Wheeler v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617, 625.

A finding that $250 is a reasonable attorney's fee for services rendered is without support, where the case was tried upon an agreed statement of facts which fails to state what was a reasonable amount; and where it was agreed that a bill for $150 had been presented before suit, the judgment will, on appeal, be reduced to such amount: Bates v. School District No. 10 of Pierce County, 45 Wash. 498.

Where a county attorney seeks to recover fees from a school district for attending to the trial of a case, rendered upon request of the district, without any express agreement, the fact that for five years previously, while the attorney was first deputy, the school district had been in the habit of paying the county attorney for such services is material, as it shows that the attorney was not estopped to recover fees by reason of a course of conduct in the county attorney's office: Bates v. School District No. 10 of Pierce County, 45 Wash. 498.

Three thousand five hundred dollars is an unreasonable allowance for attorney's fees for services rendered in securing a restraining order preventing the dismantling of a smelter and the removal of machinery, the property being worth $250,000, where it appears that the application therefor was not contested and the order was continued in force from time to time without resistance, the complaint embracing only six pages of typewritten matter: McMullan v. Northport Smelting and Refining Co., 49 Wash. 76.

ATTORNEY'S LIEN.—Mandamus will not lie against the mayor and city clerk to pay attorney's lien filed on judgment obtained for a client against the city, which client had assigned and satisfaction of which had been entered of record, where no judicial proceedings have been had to determine validity: Chambers v. Territory of Washington, 3 W. T. 280.

Where attorneys have filed a lien against a money decree in divorce for their fees, the court has power to summon them before it to determine what lien they have, and what would be a reasonable fee for their services: State v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 311.

The fact that an attorney has knowledge of an assignment by his client of a claim which he is prosecuting to judgment will not estop the attorney from claiming a lien upon the judgment recovered, when there has been no express waiver of the right of lien: Niagara Fire Ins. Co. v. Hart, 13 Wash. 651.

Although a judgment debtor may have notice of a lien claimed by the attorney for the adverse party, such judgment debtor has a right to pay the amount of the judgment into court to be thereafter disbursed to the proper parties entitled thereto, and such payment would discharge all his obligations under the judgment and lien: Wooding v. Crain, 11 Wash. 207.

The fact that an attorney had perfected his lien against a judgment in the superior court, from which an appeal had been taken, would not, when notice of lien had not been filed with the clerk of the supreme court, preclude that officer from disbursing the amount paid on the judgment entered in the supreme court, free of all claim of lien: Id.

The general or retaining lien of an attorney at common law, and by this section, is nonassignable and lost by delivery of the papers, and cannot be enforced by action: Gottstein v. Harrington, 25 Wash. 508.

§ 137. (4773.) Proceedings to Compel Delivery of Papers.

When an attorney refuses to deliver over money or papers to a person from or for whom he has received them in the course of professional employment, whether in an action or not, he may be required by an order of the court in which an action, if any, was prosecuted, or if no action was prosecuted, then by order of any judge of a court of record, to do so within a specified time, or show cause why he should not be punished for a contempt. [L. '63, p. 406, § 13; Cd. '81, § 3287; 2 H. C., § 102.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 16, 376.

§ 138. (4774.) Proceedings Where Lien Exists.

If, however, the attorney claim a lien upon the money or papers, under the provisions of this chapter, the court or judge may,—

1. Impose as a condition of making the order that the client give security, in a form and amount to be directed, to satisfy the lien, when determined in an action;

2. Summarily to inquire into the facts on which the claim of a lien is founded, and determine the same; or

3. To refer it, and upon the report determine the same as in other cases. [L. '63, p. 406, § 14; Cd. '81, § 3288; 2 H. C., § 103.]

As to lien for contingent fees, see Carson v. Fogg, 34 Wash. 448.

§ 139. (4775.*) Removal and Suspension of Attorneys.

An attorney and counselor may be removed or suspended by any court of record of the state, for either of the following causes, arising after his admission to practice: 1. His conviction of a felony or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, in which case the record of conviction shall be conclusive evidence. 2. Willful and malicious disobedience or violation of an order of the court requiring him to do or forbear an act connected with, or in the course of, his profession, which he ought in good faith to do or forbear, and any violation of the oath taken by him, or of his duties as such attorney and counselor. 3. Corruptly or willfully, and without authority, appearing as attorney for a party to an action or proceeding. 4. Lending his name to be used as attorney and counselor by another person who is not an attorney and counselor. 5. For the commission of any act involving moral turpitude, dishonesty or corruption, whether the same be committed in the course of his relations as an attorney or counselor at law, or otherwise, and whether the same shall constitute a felony or misdemeanor or not; and in the event that such act shall constitute a felony or misdemeanor, conviction thereof in a criminal proceeding shall not be a condition precedent to disbarment or suspension from practice therefor. 6. In all cases where an attorney is removed or suspended by a superior court, the judgment or order of removal or suspension may be reviewed on appeal by the supreme court. [L. '09, p. 130, § 1. Cf. L. '63, p. 406, § 15; Cd. '81, § 3289; 2 H. C., § 104; L. '97, p. 9, § 1.]

Violation of duty: See supra, § 129, and notes.

Revocation of license: See supra, § 126.

Cited in 32 Wash. 58; 45 Wash. 88.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 317, 318, §§ 6-9.

Where the court has fined an attorney for contempt and entered an order suspending him from practice therein until he has purged himself from the contempt by apologizing, the supreme court can intervene by mandamus to compel said court to vacate and set aside the order of suspension: State v. Sachs, 2 Wash. 373.

The right of an attorney to appear in court, being property, cannot be taken from him excepting by due process of law: State v. Sachs, supra, 376.

A petitioner for disbarment of an attorney has no such interest in the subject matter thereof as to entitle him to appeal from a judgment of dismissal of his petition: In re Ault's Disbarment, 15 Wash. 417.

Jurisdiction of the supreme court to suspend: Lambuth, In re, 18 Wash. 478; Waugh, In re, 32 Wash. 50. The supreme court has inherent original jurisdiction, irrespective of statutes, to suspend or disbar an attorney for contemptuous conduct: In re Robinson, 48 Wash. 153.

Grounds for suspension or for striking from roll: See Lambuth, In re, 18 Wash. 478; Jones v. Waugh, 20 Wash. 711.

Findings of fact showing the securing of employment as an attorney through false representations as to other counsel, and as to the status of a case pending in the supreme court, and the representing of adverse interests in the same case, and conduct while acting as judge which necessarily involves immorality as a man and lawyer, are sufficient to support a judgment of disbarment of an attorney for unprofessional conduct, without regard to any provision of the barratry statute of 1903 prohibiting the solicitation of business; since this section authorizing the removal of an attorney for any violation of his oath or of his duties as an attorney comprehends all acts involving the attorney's honesty and reliability: State ex rel. Dill v. Martin, 45 Wash. 76.

The state courts have jurisdiction to disbar an attorney for the solicitation of money for the purpose of bribing a referee in bankruptcy, appointed by the United States court, as it directly involves the attorney's integrity and professional conduct, and it is immaterial in what court the act was committed: State ex rel. Hardin v. Grover, 47 Wash. 39.

In proceedings in disbarment of an attorney founded on two distinct charges, findings stated as if the charge contained but one specification are sufficient, as the law does not require findings to be separated as to distinct causes of action: Id.

A disavowal of improper motive in the employment of scandalous and contemptuous language in a petition for a rehearing, with an apology, will not be considered a complete defense to disbarment proceedings, where the attorney had long experience at the bar; and the offense being flagrant, mere reprimand is insufficient, and the attorney will be suspended for six months, and costs of briefs taxed against him: In re Robinson, 48 Wash. 153.

§ 140. (4776.) Proceedings for Removal or Suspension.

The proceedings to remove or suspend an attorney and counselor, as provided in the last section, must be taken by the court of its own motion for matter within its knowledge, or may be taken upon the information of another, and in either case the party shall have the privilege of making his defense. [L. '63, p. 406, § 16; Cd. '81, § 3290; 2 H. C., § 105.]

See Rule XXXIV, 51 Wash. xlv.

Cited in 45 Wash. 84.

Nature of proceedings to disbar: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 318, § 8; Waugh, In re, 32 Wash. 50; Ault's Disbarment, In re, 15 Wash. 417; State ex rel. Martin v. Poindexter, 43 Wash. 147.

Proceedings for the disbarment of an attorney at law may be instituted on the information or relation of the bar association composed of attorneys who are members of the bar of the county: State ex rel. Dill v. Martin, 45 Wash. 76.

In a proceeding for the disbarment of an attorney, it is reversible error to tax costs against the defendant, there being no statute in this state authorizing costs against either party: Id.

Such proceedings shall be by motion and answer, and evidence may be examined on either side. [L. '63 p. 407, § 17; Cd. '81, § 3291; 2 H. C., § 106.]

For revocation of license: See supra, § 126.

§ 142. (4778.) Persons not Admitted cannot Practice.

No person shall practice in any court of record except a party or his regularly authorized attorney and counselor at law: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to prevent a party from employing any person to assist him in the preparation of his papers in the case before the time of trial, nor so as to prevent any person from trying any particular cause in court, leave of court being first had and obtained, and entered of record. [L. '63, p. 407, § 18; Cd. '81, § 3292; 2 H. C., § 107.]

This section is probably superseded by § 119, supra.

CHAPTER I.

RULES OF DECISION AND CONSTRUCTION.

§ 143. (4783.) Common Law, How Far Prevails.

The common law, so far as it is not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the United States, or of the state of Washington, nor incompatible with the institutions and condition of society in this state, shall be the rule of decision in all the courts of this state. [Cf. L. '63, p. 88, § 1; Cd. '81, § 1; L. '91, p. 31, § 1; 2 H. C., § 108.]

Common-law offenses: See infra, §§ 2299, 2723.

The statute of frauds and of 13th Elizabeth are in force in this state by virtue of this section: Wagner v. Law, 3 Wash. 502; Bates v. Drake, 28 Wash. 447; Richards v. Redelsheimer, 36 Wash. 325.

What is meant by this section is, that where there are no governing provisions of the written laws, the courts of this state are to endeavor to administer justice according to the promptings of reason and common sense, which are the cardinal principles of the common law; but not that the decisions of the English courts are to be taken blindly and without inquiry as to their reasoning and application to the circumstances: Sayward v. Carlson, 1 Wash. 29, 40, 41; Lane v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 21 Wash. 119.

The phrase "laws of the United States," as used in the organic act, does not relate simply to statute law, but embraces all other rules of propriety and conduct in which the supreme power exhibits, and according to which it exerts its governmental force. "Laws of the territory" means the laws which the territory, considered as a political power subordinate to the general government, has authority to administer: Phelps v. S. S. City of Panama, 1 W. T. 519, 525.

The statutory action for the possession of real property is the common-law action of ejectment, with the added incident of the determination of title, and the departure of allowing action against one not in possession, but claiming an interest or title to the land: Smith v. Wingard, 3 W. T. 291, 298.

The rule of the common law that the flow of surface water from premises of an upper proprietor to those of a lower may not be obstructed or diverted to his damage is in force in this state: Cass v. Dicks, 14 Wash. 75, 78.

The common law of England was expressly adopted by the first legislature of the territory of Washington and applies in all its original rigor in this state: State v. Williams, 18 Wash. 47.

§ 144. (4784.) Laws to be Liberally Construed.

The provisions of this code shall be liberally construed, and shall not be limited by any rule of strict construction. [Cf. L. '54, p. 221, § 504; Cd. '81, §§ 758, 1686; L. '91, p. 40, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1707.]

The provisions of a statute, so far as they are substantially the same as those of a statute existing at the time of their enactment, must be construed as continuations thereof. [Cf. Cd. '81, §§ 761, 1681; L. '91, p. 40, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1708.]

Criminal laws, as continuations of former acts: See infra, § 2300.

The following sections relating to construction of statutes appear in the Code of 1881: "Sec. 760. No action or proceeding commenced before this code takes effect, and no right accrued, is affected by its provisions; but the proceedings therein must conform to the requirements of this code as far as applicable." See, also, Id., § 1682; Abb. R. P. S., p. 265.

"Sec. 762. No statute law, or rule, is continued in force because it is consistent with the provisions of this code on the same subject; but in all cases provided for by this code, all statutes, laws and rules heretofore in force in this territory, whether consistent or not with the provisions of this code, unless expressly continued in force by it, are repealed and abrogated." See, also, Id., § 1684; Abb. R. P. S., pp. 265-267.

"Sec. 763. This repeal, or abrogation, does not revive any former law heretofore repealed, nor does it affect any rights already existing or accrued, or any action or proceeding already taken, except as in this code provided; nor does it affect any private statute not expressly repealed." See, also, Id., § 1685; Abb. R. P. S., pp. 266, 267.

"Sec. 1683. When a limitation, or period of time prescribed in any existing statute for acquiring a right or barring a remedy has begun to run before this code takes effect, and the same or any other limitation is prescribed in this code, the time which is run shall be deemed part of the time prescribed as such limitation." Abb. R. P. S., p. 267; § 133a, 2 H. C.

For construction of this last section see Baer v. Choir, 7 Wash. 631. See, also, Stetson-Post Mill Co. v. Brown, 21 Wash. 619.

And in the Laws of 1890, page 94, § 1, the following construction of the term "territory" is authorized:

"Sec. 1. Wherever in the laws now in force in the state of Washington or in the laws of the territory of Washington as continued in force by virtue of the acts of Congress, as under the operations and provisions of the constitution of this state, the words territory and territory of Washington shall be used, the same shall be construed to mean state and state of Washington": See In re Rafferty, 1 Wash. 382.

§ 146. (4786.) Word "Person" Defined.

The term "person" may be construed to include the United States, this state, or any state or territory, or any public or private corporation, as well as an individual. [Cf. L. '54, p. 99, § 134; L. '57, p. 46; Cd. '81, §§ 756, 964; L. '91, p. 40, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1709.]

This section and § 148, infra, were enacted as a part of the criminal code as well as of the civil code: See Code 1881, §§ 964, 965.

See infra, §§ 2011, 2303, term "person" defined.

See infra, § 1208, construction in lien cases.

Cited in 6 Wash. 137.

While the term "person" may, under this section, be construed to include a private corporation, the term "any two or more persons," used in § 3679, infra, should not be so construed: Denny Hotel Co. v. Schram, 6 Wash. 134, 137. Held in Nyman v. Berry, 3 Wash. 734, that an insolvent corporation does not come within the provisions of the insolvent debtor's law. See, also, Barnes v. Flummerfelt, 21 Wash. 498, 500; West Coast Mfg. & Inv. Co. v. West Coast Imp. Co., 25 Wash. 627, 642; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Seattle Gas & Elec. Co., 28 Wash. 488, 493; State v. Packenham, 40 Wash. 403, 406.

§ 147. (4787.) Term "Officer" Defined.

Whenever any term indicating an officer is used it shall be construed, when required, to mean any person authorized by law to discharge the duties of such officer. [L. '54, p. 221, § 501; Cd. '81, § 755; 2 H. C., § 1710.]

A road supervisor is not an "officer": See State ex rel. Griffith v. Newland, 37 Wash. 428, 431.

§ 148. (4788.) Words Importing Number and Gender, How Construed.

Words importing the singular number may also be applied to the plural of persons and things; words importing the plural may be applied to the singular; and words importing the masculine gender may be extended to females also. [Cf. L. '54, p. 99, § 135; Id., p. 221, § 502; L. '57, p. 45, § 1; Cd. '81, §§ 756, 965; L. '91, p. 40, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1711.]

See note to § 146, supra.

See infra, § 1208, construction in lien cases.

Cited in 20 Wash. 523.

§ 149. (4789.) Word "Month" Defined.

The word "month" or "months," whenever the same occurs in the statutes of this state now in force, or in statutes hereinafter enacted, or in any contract made in this state, shall be taken and construed to mean "calendar month." [L. '77, p. 333; Cd. '81, § 759; L. '91, p. 40, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1712.]

It was intimated in Hale v. Finch, 1 W. T. 517, that when in the statute the word "month" is used a lunar month is meant, unless the contrary is indicated. The above section was, however, enacted subsequent to this ruling.

§ 150. (4790.) Computation of Time.

The time within which an act is to be done, as herein provided, shall be computed by excluding the first day and including the last, unless the last day is a holiday or Sunday, and then it is also excluded. [Cf. L. '54, p. 219, § 486; Cd. '81, § 743; L. '88, p. 32, § 1; 2 H. C., § 794.]

See infra, § 252, computation of time for service of notice.

Cited in 7 Wash. 537; 18 Wash. 263; 40 Wash. 40.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2720-2722.

A notice of application to settle a statement of facts on appeal served May 20th, to be heard May 31st, when May 30th was a legal holiday, is a full ten days' notice exclusive of May 30th, and is sufficient: Thompson v. Huron L. Co., 5 Wash. 527. See, also, State ex rel. Bickford v. Benson, 21 Wash. 365; Spokane & Idaho Lumber Co. v. Stanley, 25 Wash. 653; Perkins v.

§ 152. Amendments to Code.

It shall be proper for the legislature in amending or repealing existing statutes, and for the courts in referring to existing statutes, to refer to or cite Ballinger's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Washington, containing such law. [L. '99, p. 110, § 2.]

CHAPTER II.

FORMS OF ACTIONS.

§ 153. (4793.) Only One Form of Action.

There shall be in this state hereafter but one form of action for the enforcement or protection of private rights and the redress of private wrongs, which shall be called a civil action. [L. '54, p. 131, § 1; L. '60, p. 5, § 1; L. '71, p. 3, § 1; L. '73, p. 4, § 2; Cd. '81, § 2; 2 H. C., § 109.]

See infra, § 255, forms of pleading.

See infra, § 296, what causes may be united.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 30-32, §§ 8-18.

Section 2 of the Practice Act of 1869 (Laws 1869, p. 3, § 1) was amended in 1871 (Laws 1871, p. 3, § 1) so as to revive the distinction between actions at law and suits in chancery to the extent of adopting the laws of the United States and the chancery rules of the United States courts, as the law and practice in the territorial courts in equity causes, with slight modifications: Garrison v. Cheeney, 1 W. T. 489; but the present rule was restored by the Laws of 1873. The courts recognize natural inherent distinctions not recognized by law: Overlock v. Shinn, 28 Wash. 205. There is a distinction between law and equity, although difference in forms are abolished: Barto v. Seattle etc. R. Co., 28 Wash. 179.

Under the code system of pleading, the technical learning of the common-law pleader is of little value: Puget Sound Iron Co. v. Worthington, 2 W. T. 472. While under the code system few common-law forms of pleading may be demurrable, most are obnoxious to motions, and none are so concise as our practice act contemplates: Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215. Pleadings under the code are not subjected to the rules of the old system of pleadings: Newburg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182.

The respective jurisdictions of law and equity have not been changed by the reformed procedure, except to allow legal and equitable causes of action to be joined in the same complaint, without affecting the allegations in either necessary to constitute a cause of action: Thompson v. Caton, 3 W. T. 31, 36. An action at law is maintainable upon an equitable assignment: Dickerson v. Spokane, 26 Wash. 292; Barto v. Seattle etc. R. Co., supra.

The fictions of the common law are abolished and presumptions are not to be pleaded as facts, but the facts themselves must be stated: Distler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200, 203. But it is error to compel the trial of a cause as an action at law, when both the complaint and answer invoke the equity powers of the court: Distler v. Dabney, 7 Wash. 431.

Although an action may be commenced as an equitable one, yet, when there is nothing to give equity jurisdiction the court may still permit it to be tried as an action at law, if defendant is not thereby prevented from having a fair trial: Surber v. Kittinger, 6 Wash. 240; see, also, Knox

v. Bard, 7 Wash. 41. And equitable relief is given in actions at law: Young v. Stampfer, 27 Wash. 350; Goupille v. Chaput, 43 Wash. 702. The name given to an action is immaterial: Watson v. Glover, 21 Wash. 677; Dornitzer v. German-American Sav. etc. Soc., 23 Wash. 132; Dunlap v. Rauch, 24 Wash. 620.

Receivers may be appointed by the court whether sitting as a court of law or chancery, and liens and mortgages are foreclosed in equity because of the relief sought being of an equitable nature, and the principle is not affected by the requirement that there shall be but one form of action: Washington Iron Co. v. Jenson, 3 Wash. 584, 590. But courts of equity have no jurisdiction to collect a tax or to appoint a receiver for that purpose: Pierce County v. Merrill, 19 Wash. 175. The test by which to determine whether an action is properly brought in equity is whether the relief sought is of an equitable nature: Washington Iron Co. v. Jenson, supra. The intention of the code is to abolish distinctions between legal and equitable actions, but it is not within the spirit of the code to dismiss an action for damages, if the facts alleged show that a party is entitled to any equitable relief: Browder v. Phinney, 30 Wash. 74. Under this section an action may be maintained for both legal and equitable relief: Durga v. Lincoln Creek Lumber Co., 47 Wash. 477.

An action by a judgment creditor to quiet title, in which the complaint alleges a conveyance in fraud of creditors and the purchase of the property by plaintiff on execution sale, should not be dismissed for error in the form of action, in that the complaint failed to allege that the plaintiff was in possession, or that the land was vacant and unoccupied, but alleged the defendants to be in possession by the receipt of rents; since the code abolishes all distinctions in the forms of action, and the court may give the relief sought where the facts stated show the party entitled thereto: Brown v. Baldwin, 46 Wash. 106.

§ 154. (4794.) Parties, How Designated.

The party commencing the action shall be known as the plaintiff, and the opposite party the defendant. [L. '54, p. 131, § 2; Cd. '81, § 3; 2 H. C., § 110.]

CHAPTER III.

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS.

§ 155. (4796.) Limitations Prescribed—Objections, How Taken.

Actions can only be commenced within the periods herein prescribed after the cause of action shall have accrued, except when in special cases a different limitation is prescribed by statute; but the objection that the action was not commenced within the time limited can only be taken by answer or demurrer. [Cf. L. '54, p. 362, § 1; L. '60, p. 289, § 1; L. '63, p. 85, § 16; L. '69, p. 8, § 25; L. '73, p. 8, § 25; Cd. '81, § 25; L. '85, p. 74, § 1; L. '91, p. 90, § 1; 2 H. C., § 111.]

See infra, § 259, grounds of demurrer.

See infra, § 890, limitations against the state.

See infra, § 1477, limitations on claims against estates.

See infra, § 2005 et seq., limitations of criminal actions.

Section 133a, 2 Hill's Code (§§ 1294, 1683, Cd. 1881), being of a temporary nature and obsolete, is omitted. See note to § 145, supra, where this section is given in full. See, also, Packscher v. Fuller, 6 Wash. 534; Baer v. Choir, 7 Wash. 631, decided thereunder.

Cited in 7 Wash. 86; 12 Wash. 669; 25 Wash. 388; 26 Wash. 423, 467, 487; 27 Wash. 151, 595; 28 Wash. 538; 34 Wash. 569; 41 Wash. 611; 42 Wash. 453.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1723-1745.

Under the weight of authority the statute of limitations is not now, at least, generally regarded as an unconscionable defense: Morgan v. Morgan, 10 Wash. 99, 194. See, also, Deering v. Holcomb, 26 Wash. 588; Liberman v. Gurensky, 27 Wash.

410. The statute is not to be viewed with disfavor: McClaine v. Fairchild, 23 Wash. 758. See, also, Thomas v. Price, 33 Wash. 459; Peterson v. Philadelphia Mtg. etc. Co., 33 Wash. 464.

It is a statute of repose: Wickham v. Sprague, 18 Wash. 466; Bettman v. Cowley, 19 Wash. 207; Northern Pacific R. Co. v. Ely, 25 Wash. 384; Northern Pacific R. Co. v. Hasse, 28 Wash. 353.

But the statute, as a defense, must be clearly established, as it is not such a meritorious defense that either the law or the facts should be strained in aid of it: Bowman v. Colfax, 17 Wash. 344; Port Townsend v. Eisenbeis, 28 Wash. 533.

If it appear from the face of the complaint that the statute of limitations has run against the demand pleaded, advantage thereof may be taken by demurrer: Wilt v. Buchtel, 2 W. T. 417; Weber v. Yancy, 7 Wash. 84; Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512, 524. And by § 259, subd. 7, infra, it is now necessary to raise the question by demurrer where the bar appears upon the face of the complaint, otherwise it will be treated as waived. Or by answer if defect does not clearly appear on face of complaint: Damon v. Leque, 17 Wash. 573.

But a demurrer for want of sufficient facts does not present the objection that it appears on face of complaint that action is barred by the statute of limitation: Joergenson v. Joergenson, 28 Wash. 477. See, also, Hays v. Peavey, 43 Wash. 163; Board of Church Erec. Fund etc. v. First Presbyterian Church, 19 Wash. 455. But see Roche v. Spokane, 22 Wash. 121.

When the defendants have failed to set up the statute of limitations in the lower court, the objection will not be entertained in the appellate court: Mudgett v. Clay, 5 Wash. 103, 112; Herrick v. Niesz, 16 Wash. 74; and will not be allowed on retrial after a reversal on appeal: Bay View Brewing Co. v. Grubb, 31 Wash. 34. But see Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78.

Under § 265 infra, if a counterclaim be not barred by the statute of limitations at the commencement of the action in which it is pleaded, it does not become so afterward during the pendency of that action: Shelton v. Conant, 10 Wash. 193.

If the nature of the answer and the proof thereunder clearly indicate that it was intended to plead a three years' statute as a bar, and by mistake two years had been specified instead, it is not error to allow an amendment correcting the same: Morgan v. Morgan, 10 Wash. 99. See, also, Kinkhead v. Holmes & Bull Furniture Co., 24 Wash. 216.

If a defendant wishes to avail himself of the fact of nonresidence, he must allege it affirmatively in his answer: Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 654, 664. See, also, Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464.

Limitation laws will not be given a retroactive effect, unless it appears that such was clearly the legislative intention: Moore v. Brownfield, 7 Wash. 23, 25; Gillette v. Hibbard, 3 Mont. 412. See, also, State v. Aberdeen, 34 Wash. 61; Seattle v. De Wolfe, 17 Wash. 349; Bowman v. Colfax, 17 Wash. 344; State ex rel. Hemen v. Ballard, 16 Wash. 418; Young v. Tacoma, 31 Wash. 153.

If the legislature reduces the period of limitation for the commencement of an action, rights already accrued are not barred until the lapse of the full statutory period: Moore v. Brownfield, supra; see, also, Raymond v. Morrison, 9 Wash. 156.

Time for commencing an action relates to the remedy only, and may be abridged if a reasonable time is allowed for commencing actions upon pre-existing causes: Bettman v. Cowley, 19 Wash. 207.

If the period of limitation is reduced by statute from twenty to ten years, the limitation does not begin to run as to accrued actions until the taking effect of the new law, unless the legislative intent to give it a retroactive effect clearly appears: Moore v. Brownfield, supra; Scurry v. Seattle, 8 Wash. 278; see Raymond v. Morrison, supra.

When the statute begins to run in cases of fraud: See Morgan v. Morgan, supra.

The statute of limitations, embodied in this chapter, is not controlled or affected by §§ 1294, 1683, Code of 1881, providing that "when a limitation or period of time prescribed in any existing statute for acquiring a right or barring a remedy has begun to run before this code takes effect, and the same or any limitation is prescribed in this code, the time which has already run shall be deemed to be part of the time prescribed as such limitation by this code," as such sections were parts of laws on special subjects enacted in 1881, and were not embraced in the civil practice act of that year: Baer v. Choir, 7 Wash. 631.

Actions against sureties: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2351, § 52: Spokane County v. Prescott, 19 Wash. 418; Bassett v. Thrall, 21 Wash. 231; Beebe v. Redward, 35 Wash. 615; Denny v. Spurr, 38 Wash. 347; Pacific Bridge Co. v. U. S. Fidelity etc. Co., 33 Wash. 47; Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253; Henry v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 36 Wash. 553.

Failure to pay an installment of interest, under a clause authorizing the payee to declare the whole debt due does not start the running of the statute of limitations: Weinberg v. Naher, 51 Wash. 591.

LIMITATION AS AGAINST STATE OR MUNICIPALITY.—Adverse possession of county or city streets does not run against the public: West Seattle v. West Seattle Land & Imp. Co., 38 Wash. 359; Rapp v. Stratton, 41 Wash. 263. See, also, Northern Pacific R. Co. v. Ely, 25 Wash. 384; Port Townsend v. Eisenbach, 28 Wash. 533. Estoppel to rely on limitation: See Denny v. Palmer, 26 Wash. 469.

Under the provisions of the charter of the city of Port Townsend in regard to taxes levied in said city, the general statute of limitations for the commencement of actions has no application to a suit to foreclose a tax lien: Port Townsend v. Trumbull, 40 Wash. 386. It seems that the statute should commence to run from the time the action could have been per-fectured with reasonable diligence: Bowman v. Colfax, 17 Wash. 344.

COMPUTATION OF TIME: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1733-1742, §§ 28-66; Perkins v. Jennings, 27 Wash. 145. See, also, Spinning v. Pierce County, 20 Wash. 126; George v. Butler, 26 Wash. 456; Gove v. Tacoma, 26 Wash. 474; West Coast Imp. Co. v. West Coast Mfg. Co., 25 Wash. 628; Bank

v. Lucas, 26 Wash. 417; Hanna v. Kasson, 26 Wash. 568; Sterrett v. Mining etc. Co., 30 Wash. 164; Brigham-Hopkins Co. v. Gross, 30 Wash. 277; Morrissey v. Faucett, 28 Wash. 52; Sears v. Kilbourn, 28 Wash. 194; First Nat. Bank v. Parker, 28 Wash. 234; Potter v. Whatcom, 20 Wash. 589; State v. Lorenz, 22 Wash. 289; Raymond v. Boles, 26 Wash. 494.

§ 156. (4797.) Actions to be Commenced in Ten Years.

The period prescribed in the preceding section for the commencement of actions shall be as follows:—

Within ten years,—

1. Actions for the recovery of real property, or for the recovery of the possession thereof; and no action shall be maintained for such recovery unless it appear that the plaintiff, his ancestor, predecessor, or grantor, was seised or possessed of the premises in question within ten years before the commencement of the action. [Cf. L. '54, p. 363, § 2; Cd. '81, § 26; 2 H. C., § 112; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See infra, § 165, and notes, actions not otherwise provided for.

See infra, § 785 et seq., actions to recover real property.

See infra, §§ 967-973, actions by and against executors and administrators.

See infra, § 7906, actions on local assessments.

Cited in 6 Wash. 536-538; 7 Wash. 25, 636; 8 Wash. 291; 10 Wash. 104; 25 Wash. 388, 572; 27 Wash. 595; 28 Wash. 359; 36 Wash. 216; 41 Wash. 281, 611; 43 Wash. 672; 49 Wash. 334; 50 Wash. 117.

As to adverse possession of real property, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 44-55.

Our statute of limitations is one of adverse possession, under which the rightful owner of real estate is seised of the same, whether in actual possession thereof or not, unless the same is in the actual adverse possession of another, and ownership and seisin once shown will be presumed to have continued until overcome by proof of adverse possession: Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497, 499.

Actual, uninterrupted and notorious possession, under claim of right, but without color of title, is sufficient to entitle the possessor to the benefit of the statute, and such possession need not be adverse as to all the world: Moore v. Brownfield, 7 Wash. 23. As to adverse possession of part of railroad right of way, see Northern Pacific R. Co. v. Ely, 25 Wash. 384; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Hasse, 28 Wash. 353.

Possession by grantee of land in a deed placed in escrow, but never delivered, and that of grantee's agent, is possession of grantor for purposes of adverse possession: McAuliff v. Parker, 10 Wash. 141. But possession maintained by force does not constitute peaceable adverse possession: Laurendeau v. Fugelli, 5 Wash. 632. Possession under a contract forbidden by law, is not adverse, and does not entitle the possessor to the benefit of the statute: Bullene v. Garrison, 1 W. T. 587. Possession by adjoining land owners who had agreed as to division line: See Lindley v. Johnston, 42 Wash. 257.

If title is claimed by adverse possession, there is no question but that the possession must be adverse, and that the adverseness thereof is the essential ingredient that ripens into title; and that without that element the statute would not run. But there are certain facts which must be pleaded and proved to warrant the legal conclusion of adverse holding: Bellingham Bay L. Co. v. Dibble, 4 Wash. 764. Not adverse if held under or subservient to higher title: Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 419. Possession must be under claim of right, and actual, open, notorious, continuous and under color of title: Blake v. Shriver, 27 Wash. 597; Yesler Estate v. Holmes, 39 Wash. 35; Lohse v. Burch, 42 Wash. 161.

An allegation in a complaint that the ancestor of plaintiff died seised and possessed of the premises is a sufficient allegation of plaintiff's possession: Balch v. Smith, supra.

Adverse possession may be established by proof that the premises in controversy were generally reputed in the community where situated to belong to the party setting up such claim of title: McAuliff v. Parker, supra. And adverse possession for ten years subsequent to passage of Code of 1881 is sufficient to bar a recovery, although at the time the right of action accrued the limitation was twenty years: McAuliff v. Parker, supra; citing Baer v. Choir, 7 Wash. 631.

Adverse possession cannot be established by proof of a general understanding in the community that the property was reputed to belong to the claimant or his grantors, in the absence of testimony showing that the claimant had ever exercised any acts of ownership over it: McInerney v. Beck, 10 Wash. 515.

Although possession be held in subordination to the title of the United States, it may be adverse to one claiming against the possession: Moore v. Brownfield, supra; Francoeur v. Newhouse, 43 Fed. Rep. 230.

Possession of a donation claim under a writing, purporting to be a quitclaim deed, executed before the expiration of the four years' residence required by the donation act, is possession under a contract prohibited by law, and hence gives no color of title; such possession cannot be adverse, so as to entitle possessor to the benefit of the statute of limitations: Bulene v. Garrison, supra.

Although a person may own a specific interest in a certain parcel of land, yet if he stands by at an administrator's sale thereof and permits the whole tract to be sold as the property of decedent, and permits the purchaser to pay for and take possession of the land, improve it and pay taxes thereon under claim of absolute ownership, and sets up no claim of interest during a period of fifteen years, he is estopped from claiming ownership: Roeder v. Fouts, 5 Wash. 135.

In order to bar an action for the recovery of real estate under this section, adverse possession must have been maintained for a period of ten years subsequent to the taking effect of the statute: Tacoma Bldg. etc. Assn. v. Clark, 8 Wash.

289. See, also, Moore v. Brownfield, supra; Raymond v. Morrison, 9 Wash. 156; Weber v. Yancy, 7 Wash. 84.

While a new statute of limitations takes effect upon pre-existing rights of action, and limits them, yet the full time allowed by the new statute should be available to the complainant: Baer v. Choir, 7 Wash. 631, following Sohn v. Watterson, 17 Wall. 596; see McAuliff v. Parker, supra; Packscher v. Fuller, 6 Wash. 534; distinguished in Scurry v. Seattle, 8 Wash. 278. See, also, Bowman v. Colfax, 17 Wash. 344; State ex rel. Hemen v. Ballard, 16 Wash. 418; Young v. Tacoma, 31 Wash. 153.

An action to redeem real property sold under a decree of foreclosure of mortgage does not fall within this section, but under § 165, infra: Parker v. Dacres, 2 W. T. 439.

Adverse possession of real estate as a bar: See Long v. Eisenbeis, 23 Wash. 556; Krutz v. Isaacs, 25 Wash. 566; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Ely, 25 Wash. 384; Lindley v. Johnston, 42 Wash. 257; Hyde v. Britton, 41 Wash. 277; Ferrell v. Lord, 43 Wash. 667; Slaght v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 39 Wash. 576; Thornley v. Andrews, 40 Wash. 580; Chezum v. McBride, 21 Wash. 558; Jones v. Herrick, 35 Wash. 434; Brodack v. Morsbach, 38 Wash. 72. An action to quiet title on the ground of fraud, not commenced until more than twenty years after discovery of the fraud, is barred by the statute of limitations: Carroll v. Hill Tract Improvement Co., 44 Wash. 569.

§ 157. (4798.) Within Six Years.

Within six years,—

1. An action upon a judgment or decree of any court of the United States, or of any state or territory within the United States;
2. An action upon a contract in writing, or liability express or implied arising out of a written agreement;
3. An action for the rents and profits or for the use and occupation of real estate. [L. '54, p. 363, § 3; Cd. '81, § 27; 2 H. C., § 113; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See infra, § 810 et seq., forcible entry and detainer.

See infra, § 1432, limitation of actions against sureties on administrators' bonds.

See infra, § 1368, limitation upon letters of administration to bind decedent's real estate.

Cited in 1 Wash. 8; 7 Wash. 86; 19 Wash. 419; 25 Wash. 401; 26 Wash. 418, 419, 456, 467, 492, 500, 559; 27 Wash. 151, 595; 28 Wash. 480; 32 Wash. 468, 486; 34 Wash. 569; 41 Wash. 301, 302; 50 Wash. 490; 51 Wash. 415.

This section, subdivision 1, does not apply to judgments rendered by courts of this state or of the late territory: Burns v. Conner, 1 Wash. 6.

This section is applicable to domestic, as well as to foreign, judgments: Citizens' National Bank of Crawfordsville v. Lucas, 26 Wash. 417.

A statute of another state prohibiting action on a judgment obtained in one of its courts, unless leave of court is first obtained, affects the remedy merely, and does not apply to an action on such judgment in a court of this state: Weber v. Yancy, 7 Wash. 84.

The proceeding prescribed by the statute to revive the lien of a judgment (§ 459, infra) is not the commencement of an action, but only the mode which secures the fruits of an action already determined, and hence not controlled by this section: Burns v. Conner, supra.

An action on a bond for conveyance of realty, held barred in Wilt v. Buchtel, 1 W. T. 417, 420.

An agreement to convey land being an executory contract, the statute of limitations will not begin to run as a bar to action thereon until after a breach of the contract: Maitland v. Langa, 14 Wash. 92.

Where street railway franchises contained conditions whereby the company agreed to keep certain portions of streets in repair, and to save the city harmless from the payment of damages growing out of or in any way connected with the franchises, an action by the city to recover over the amount of a judgment for damages caused by defects in the streets is not based upon the common-law liability making the city and the company joint tort feorsors; and such action, therefore, will not be barred by the statute of limitations in two years, but the six-year or three-year limitation for actions on contract applies: Seattle v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 47 Wash. 552.

Where a city is indemnified by provisions of a franchise from damages for defects in certain portions of the street, the statute of limitations does not begin to run upon the recovery of a judgment for damages against the city, where the cause was appealed, but only from the date of the affirmance of the judgment in the supreme court or perhaps from the date of its payment by the city: Seattle v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 47 Wash. 552.

An action to foreclose a mortgage must be commenced within six years after condition broken: Krutz v. Gardner, 25 Wash. 396. See, also, Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464.

An action against the surety upon a promissory note is barred by the lapse of six years after its maturity, where no payments have been made by the surety, and he has not ratified any payments by his principal: Bassett v. Thrall, 21 Wash. 231.

An action for contribution between co-sureties upon a promissory note is upon an implied liability arising out of an express contract, and is controlled by this section: Caldwell v. Hurley, 41 Wash. 296.

Upon the insolvency of a banking corporation and the appointment of a receiver, the right of action on unpaid stock subscriptions is barred six years after insolvency and the appointment of a receiver: Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253; Chilberg v. Siebenbaum, 41 Wash. 663.

As to limitations under mortgages, see Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Ely, 25 Wash. 384; Krutz v. Gardner, 25 Wash. 396; Hanna v. Kasson, 26 Wash. 568; Catlin v. Murray, 37 Wash. 164; Investment Securities Co. v. Adams, 37 Wash. 211.

As to covenants of warranty, quiet enjoyment and for payment of taxes, see West Coast Mfg. etc. Co. v. West Coast

Imp. Co., 25 Wash. 627; Litchfield v. Cowley, 34 Wash. 566.

On cause of action against surety, see Spokane County v. Prescott, 19 Wash. 418; Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253; Pacific Bridge Co. v. United States Fidelity Co., 33 Wash. 47.

On instruments for payment of money, see Perkins v. Jennings, 27 Wash. 145; Joergenson v. Joergenson, 28 Wash. 477.

A mortgage is a mere incident to the notes, and the right of action upon each note accrues as fast as it matures, and thereupon starts the running of the statute as to such note: George v. Butler, 26 Wash. 456. See, also, First Nat. Bank of Snohomish v. Parker, 28 Wash. 234; White v. Krutz, 37 Wash. 34.

As to notice required to set the statute running, see Potter v. New Whatcom, 20 Wash. 589; State v. Lorenz, 22 Wash. 289; McClaine v. Fairchild, 23 Wash. 758; Gove v. Tacoma, 34 Wash. 434; Northwestern Lumber Co. v. Aberdeen, 35 Wash. 636; Hemen v. Ballard, 40 Wash. 81; Chilberg v. Siebenbaum, 41 Wash. 663.

Where no administration upon the estate of a deceased person has been taken out within six years after his death, his real estate cannot, under § 1368, infra, be subject to a mortgage foreclosure, although no one appears to defend the action as to a portion of the title: Fuhrman v. Power, 43 Wash. 533.

The limitation in this section against right of action upon contracts in writing after the expiration of six years, is not extended in case of the death of a debtor by the provisions of §§ 1470, 1472, as the latter sections give that right only to claims not already barred by the general statute of limitations: Bank of Montreal v. Buchanan, 32 Wash. 480.

A mortgagee is entitled to the allowance of the mortgage debt, as a claim against the estate, when duly presented to the administrator, notwithstanding the fact that twenty years may have elapsed between the death of the mortgagor and the appointment of the administrator, and that the right to enforce the mortgage lien became barred at the end of six years: Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464.

The presumption as to the validity of a judgment cannot be overthrown on collateral attack on the ground that the face of the record shows that the cause of action might have been barred by the statute of limitations: Christofferson v. Pfennig, 16 Wash. 491.

The defense of the statute of limitations is a personal privilege, and can be pleaded only by the person directly entitled to the benefit of it; it cannot be set up by other defendants in the action: Board of Church Erec. Fund etc. v. First Presbyterian Church, 19 Wash. 455.

Where it appears that at least some of the items in a bill of particulars are within six years, it is error to sustain a demurrer to complaint, on ground of the statute of limitation: See Hayes v. Peavey, 43 Wash. 163.

As to suits on judgments, see Bignold v. Carr, 24 Wash. 413; Bank v. Lucas, 26 Wash. 417; Shepherd v. Gove, 26 Wash. 452; Cathcart v. Bryant, 28 Wash. 31.

Actions for rent—Installments: See Mounts v. Gorenson, 29 Wash. 262.

An equitable defense to a judgment in that it was procured by collusion and fraud is not barred by the statute of limitations or by laches, as long as a right of action on the judgment survives, but may be made whenever the judgment is sought to be enforced: State ex rel. American Freehold-Land Mortgage Co. v. Tanner, 45 Wash. 348.

§ 158. (4799.) Within Five Years.

No action for the recovery of any real estate sold by an executor or administrator under the laws of this state, or the laws of the territory of Washington, shall be maintained by any heir or other person claiming under the deceased, unless it is commenced within five years next after the sale, and no action for any estate sold by a guardian shall be maintained by the ward, or by any person claiming under him, unless commenced within five years next after the termination of the guardianship, except that minors and other persons under legal disability to sue at the time when the right of action first accrued may commence such action at any time within three years after the removal of the disability. [Cf. L. '54, p. 290, §§ 137, 138; L. '90, p. 81, § 1; 2 H. C., § 114.]

See infra, § 1693 et seq., validity of sales of estates.

Cited in 3 Wash. 517.

§ 159. (4800.) Within Three Years.

Within three years,—

1. An action for waste or trespass upon real property;
2. An action for taking, detaining, or injuring personal property, including an action for the specific recovery thereof, or for any other injury to the person or rights of another not hereinafter enumerated;
3. An action upon a contract or liability, express or implied, which is not in writing, and does not arise out of any written instrument;
4. An action for relief upon the ground of fraud, the cause of action in such case not to be deemed to have accrued until the discovery by the aggrieved party of the facts constituting the fraud;
5. An action against a sheriff, coroner, or constable upon a liability incurred by the doing of an act in his official capacity and by virtue of his office, or by the omission of an official duty, including the nonpayment of money collected upon an execution; but this subdivision shall not apply to action for an escape;
6. An action upon a statute for penalty or forfeiture, where an action is given to the party aggrieved, or to such party and the state, except when the statute imposing it prescribed a different penalty [limitation];
7. An action for seduction and breach of promise of marriage. [Cf. L. '54, p. 363, § 4; L. '69, p. 8, § 28; Cd. '81, § 28; 2 H. C., § 115; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See infra, § 4000, liability of sheriff.

See infra, §§ 160, 163, action upon a statute for a penalty.

See infra, § 573 et seq., and § 707 et seq., action to recover specific personalty.

See infra, § 937 et seq., action for waste, trespass, etc.

See infra, § 963 et seq., action for fines and forfeitures.

See infra, § 166, action upon open account.

See infra, § 161, action for escape.

Action to set aside a tax or tax deed: See infra, § 162.

If services are rendered upon a contract of employment for an indefinite period, at an agreed rate of wages per month, the contract is continuous, and the statute of limitations will not begin to run until the services are ended: Ah How v. Furth, 13 Wash. 550; Morrissey v. Faucett, 28 Wash. 58.

Plaintiff in an action for recovery of damages for change of street grade cannot file an amended complaint setting up a second cause of action for injury to land caused by raising the grade above the natural surface, when the work has been done more than three years prior to its filing. If actions of this kind are to be regarded as trespasses on real property, this section governs, and if not, § 165 governs: Sargent v. Tacoma, 10 Wash. 212, 215. "Liability," as used in this section, applies to contracts only: Suter v. Wenatchee Water Power Co., 35 Wash. 4.

An action to quiet title as against a fraudulent conveyance of land is not an action for relief on the ground of fraud, within the meaning of subdivision 4 of this section. This subdivision refers to suits by parties to contracts seeking to be relieved from them when fraudulently induced. The fraud must be the substantive cause of the action and not incidental: Wagner v. Law, 3 Wash. 500; Stewart v. Thompson, 32 Cal. 260. But an action to set aside a deed by wife of community lands for fraud against her husband was held to fall under this subdivision: Morgan v. Morgan, 10 Wash. 99.

A wife domiciled in another state than that of her husband is subject to the statutory provisions as to limitations affecting actions for the wrongful taking and detention of her personal property, as her residence does not, under our statute, necessarily follow that of her husband: McCain v. Gibbons, 7 Wash. 314.

In order to rescind a contract on the ground of fraud, an action therefor should be promptly commenced upon the discovery of the fraud: Sackman v. Campbell, 15 Wash. 57. See, also, Pronger v. Old Nat. Bank, 20 Wash. 626; Gay v. Havermale, 30 Wash. 624.

An action on an open account for services accrues at the date of full performance, at which time the right to compensation fully accrues: Happy v. Prickett, 24 Wash. 290.

As to action on official bonds: See Spokane County v. Prescott, 19 Wash. 418; Dickman v. Strobach, 26 Wash. 558. An action upon a statutory bond given to a school district to guarantee a building contract is barred where the same was not commenced within three years from the time that the debt was contracted and the statute had run against such debt: Johnson Service Co. v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 46 Wash. 434.

INJURIES TO THE PERSON.—The right of action given to personal representatives of one whose death has been caused by the wrongful act of another may be commenced at any time within three years under this section: Robinson v. Baltimore & Seattle Min. etc. Co., 26 Wash. 484.

As to injuries to property, see Suter v. Wenatchee Water P. Co., 35 Wash. 1.

For acts or omissions in official capacity: See Quaker City v. Nat. Bank of Tacoma, 27 Wash. 259.

Miscellaneous actions: See Wickham v. Sprague, 18 Wash. 466; Morrissey v. Faucett, 28 Wash. 52; Smith v. Seattle, 18 Wash. 484; Doran v. Seattle, 24 Wash. 182; Sterrett v. Northport Min. etc. Co., 30 Wash. 164; Spokane County v. Prescott, 19 Wash. 418.

Vacation of judgment: See Peyton v. Peyton, 28 Wash. 278.

An action for relief on the ground of fraud within the meaning of the statute, will not be deemed as having accrued until the discovery by the aggrieved party of the facts constituting the fraud: Stearns v. Hockbrunn, 24 Wash. 206; Fidelity Nat. Bank v. Adams, 38 Wash. 75; Walla Walla County v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 40 Wash. 398.

Want of diligence by person entitled to sue: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1740, § 57; Morgan v. Morgan, 10 Wash. 99; Irwin v. Holbrook, 32 Wash. 249; Bellingham Bay Imp. Co. v. Fairhaven etc. R. Co., 17 Wash. 371.

What constitutes discovery of fraud: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1740, § 58; Irwin v. Holbrook, 26 Wash. 89; Gove v. Tacoma, 26 Wash. 474; Deering v. Holcomb, 26 Wash. 588; Griffith v. Seattle Consolidated St. R. Co., 36 Wash. 627; Wickham v. Sprague, 18 Wash. 466.

Existence of trust: See Snipes v. Kelleher, 31 Wash. 386.

§ 160. (4801.) Within Two Years.

Within two years,—

1. An action for libel, slander, assault, assault and battery, and false imprisonment;

2. An action upon a statute for a forfeiture or penalty to the state. [Cf. L. '54, p. 363, § 5; L. '69, p. 9, § 29; Cd. '81, § 29; 2 H. C., § 116; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See last section, subd. 6, and § 163, infra, forfeiture or penalty to state.

See infra, § 4000, liability of sheriff.

Cited in 41 Wash. 301.

§ 161. (4802.) Within One Year.

Within one year,—

1. An action against a sheriff or other officer for the escape of a prisoner arrested or imprisoned on civil process;

2. An action by an heir, legatee, creditor, or other party interested, against an executor or administrator, for alleged misfeasance, malfeasance or mismanagement of the estate within one year from the time of final settlement, or the time such alleged misconduct was discovered. [Cf. L. '54, p. 364, § 5; L. '69, p. 9, § 30; Cd. '81, § 30; 2 H. C., § 117; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See supra, § 159, subd. 5, action against officer.

See infra, § 967, actions by and against executors, etc.

See infra, § 1432, limitation against sureties on administrator's bond.

Cited in 4 Wash. 634.

An action by an administrator against a former administrator to recover money and property of the estate is not subject to the limitation imposed by subdivision 2 of this section. This subdivision has reference to the time of the final settlement of the estate and not to the settlement of accounts of intermediate administrators in the progress of the settlement of the estate: Bartels v. Gove, 4 Wash. 632.

§ 162. Action to Cancel Tax or Tax Deed.

Actions to set aside or cancel the deed of any county treasurer issued after and upon the sale of lands for general, state, county or municipal taxes, or for the recovery of lands sold for delinquent taxes, must be brought within three years from and after the date of the issuance of such treasurer's deed: Provided, this section shall not apply to actions not otherwise barred on deeds heretofore issued if the same be commenced within one year after the passage of this act. [L. '07, p. 398, § 1.]

§ 163. (4803.) Special Provisions for Action on Penalty.

An action upon a statute for a penalty given in whole or in part to the person who may prosecute for the same shall be commenced within three [one] years [year] after the commission of the offense; and if the action be not commenced within one year by a private party, it may be commenced within two years after the commission of the offense in behalf of the state by the prosecuting attorney of the county where said offense was committed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 364, § 6; Cd. '81, § 31; 2 H. C., § 118; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See supra, § 159, subd. 6, and § 160, subd. 2, forfeiture and penalty.

The words in brackets were in the Laws of 1854 and subsequent enactments down to Code 1881, and the change appears to be inadvertent.

§ 164. (4804.) Within Three Months.

Within three months,—

(1) An appeal from any order of a board of county commissioners, or upon a claim rejected by said boards;

(2) Upon claims against an estate, rejected by an executor or administrator within three months after the rejection. [Cf. Cd. '81, § 32; 2 H. C. § 119.]

See infra, § 967, actions by and against executors and administrators.

See infra, §§ 1477, 1480, limitations on rejected claims.

The first subdivision of this section conflicts with § 3909, infra. See note to that section.

§ 165. (4805.) Actions for Relief not Otherwise Provided for.

An action for relief not hereinbefore provided for shall be commenced within two years after the cause of action shall have accrued. [L. '54, p. 364, § 7; Cd. '81, § 33; 2 H. C., § 120; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See notes to § 159, supra.

Under this section and § 155 supra, an action by a municipal corporation for the foreclosure of a lien created by an assessment upon property for street grading purposes must be commenced within two years after the cause of action accrues: Spokane v. Stevens, 12 Wash. 667. See infra, § 7906, limitation in cases of special assessment liens. See, also, Interstate Sav. & L. Co. v. Cairns, 16 Wash. 215; State ex rel. Hemmen v. Ballard, 16 Wash. 418; Bowman v. Colfax, 17 Wash. 344; Seattle v. De Wolf, 17 Wash. 349. Limitation to enforce assessment prior to March 9, 1892, was two years: Frye v. Mount Vernon, 42 Wash. 272. But this limitation was extended to ten years by § 7906: Young v. Tacoma, 31 Wash. 164. A street assessment is subject to the statute of limitations: Hinckley v. Seattle, 37 Wash. 271.

An action to quiet title as against a fraudulent conveyance of land is not subject to the limitations of this section: Wagner v. Law, 3 Wash. 500, 517.

An action to redeem real property sold on foreclosure of a mortgage falls under this section and not the provisions relating to real actions (see supra, § 156): Parker v. Dacres, 2 W. T. 439; Id., 130 U. S. 43.

An action for death by wrongful act falls under the provisions of this section, and the statute begins to run at the time the death occurs, although long after the injury is received causing it: Nestelle v. N. P. Ry. Co., 56 Fed. 261.

As to actions or proceedings not specially provided for, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1732, § 26; Spokane v. Stevens, 12 Wash. 667; Ballard v. West Coast Imp. Co., 15 Wash. 572; Seattle v. De Wolfe, 17 Wash. 349; Gaffner v. Johnson, 39 Wash. 437; Smith v. Seattle, 18 Wash. 484. An action for damages to abutting property resulting from the change of a street grade is not an action for trespass, barred by the statute of limitations within three years, under § 159, subdivision 1, but is an action for relief not otherwise provided for, limited to two years by this section: Denny v. Everett, 46 Wash. 342.

§ 166. (4806.) Actions on Mutual Open Accounts.

In an action brought to recover a balance due upon a mutual, open, and current account, where there have been reciprocal demands between the parties, the cause of action shall be deemed to have accrued from the time of the last item proved in the account on either side; but whenever a period of more than one year shall have elapsed between any of the series of items or demands they are not to be deemed such an account. [L. '54, p. 364, § 8; L. '69, p. 10, § 33; Cd. '81, § 34; 2 H. C., § 121; see ref to § 155, supra.]

See supra, § 159, subd. 3, and notes, action on contract not in writing.

An entry by a creditor upon his own books, of an alleged payment of an account by a debtor, is not admissible, in a suit against the debtor, to remove the bar of the statute of limitations: Schlotfeldt v. Bull, 18 Wash. 64.

Upon a counterclaim for a board bill, it is proper to instruct that the lapse of three years would defeat a recovery unless a payment had been made on the liability, without instructing that the statute begins to run only from the close of the account, where the periods covered a number of years and were so infrequent and far removed that they became independent transactions, precluding the idea of a continuous transaction: Hendelman v. Kahan, 50 Wash. 247.

On open accounts: See Bellingham Bay Imp. Co. v. Fairhaven etc. Co., 17 Wash. 371.

§ 167. (4807.*) Actions in Name of State, etc.

The limitations prescribed in this act (chapter) shall apply to actions brought in the name or for the benefit of any county or other municipality or quasi municipality of the state, in the same manner as to actions brought by private parties: Provided, that there shall be no limitation to actions brought in the name or for the benefit of the state, and no claim of right predicated upon the lapse of time shall ever be asserted against the state: And further provided, that no previously existing statute of limitation shall be interposed as a defense to any action brought in the name of or for the benefit of the state, although such statute may have run and become fully operative as a defense prior to the adoption of this act, nor shall any cause of action against the state be predicated upon such a statute. An action shall be deemed commenced when the complaint is filed. [L. '03, p. 26, § 1. Cf., L. '54, p. 364, § 9; L. '69, p. 10, §§ 34, 35; L. '73, p. 10, §§ 34, 35; Cd. '81, § 35; 2 H. C., § 122; see ref. to § 155.]

Effect of change or repeal of limitation: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1727, 1728, §§ 4-6½; Seattle v. De Wolfe, 17 Wash. 349; State v. Aberdeen, 34 Wash. 61; Bowman v. Colfax, 17 Wash. 344; State ex rel. Hemen v. Ballard, 16 Wash. 418; Young v. Tacoma, 31 Wash. 153.

Limitations do not run as against state or municipality: See West Seattle v. West Seattle Land & Imp. Co., 38 Wash. 359; Rapp v. Stratton, 41 Wash. 263; Laurendeau v. Fugelli, 5 Wash. 632; Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Ely, 25 Wash. 384. An assessment for local improvements: Port Townsend v. Eisenbeis, 28 Wash. 533.

Under this section title by adverse possession may be acquired under the statute of limitations as against a railroad right of way, although granted by act of Congress: Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Hasse, 28 Wash. 353.

Estoppel to rely on limitation: See Denny v. Palmer, 26 Wash. 469.

Reimbursement from person ultimately liable: See Gaffner v. Johnson, 39 Wash. 437.

Accrual of liabilities for acts or omissions in official capacity: See Spokane County v. Prescott, 19 Wash. 418; Spinning v. Pierce County, 20 Wash. 126.

Conditions precedent to accrual: See Bowman v. Colfax, 17 Wash. 344; Bennett v. Thorne, 36 Wash. 253.

As to necessity for demand, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1736, § 44; Sayward v. Gardner, 5 Wash. 247; Bidwell v. Tacoma, 26 Wash. 518; New York Security T. Co. v. Tacoma, 30 Wash. 661; Chilberg v. Siebenbaum, 41 Wash. 663.

The title to the act of 1903 is not broad enough to embrace the provision that an action shall be deemed commenced when the complaint is filed; but the act does not repeal by implication that part of Bal. Code, § 4807, which provides that an action is deemed commenced when the complaint is filed: Blalock v. Condon, 51 Wash. 604.

Actions brought by private parties are not deemed commenced until the complaint is filed: Id.

Bal. Code, § 4807 (prior to amendment), providing that limitations prescribed for the commencement of actions shall run against the state, county or other public corporations, so far as the same gives title to school lands by adverse possession, is repugnant to the state constitution and to the acts of Congress providing that school lands shall not be disposed of except at public auction for full market value paid or secured to the state: O'Brien v. Wilson, 51 Wash. 52.

§ 168. (4808.) Operation of Statute Suspended, When.

If the cause of action shall accrue against any person who shall be out of the state or concealed therein, such action may be commenced within the terms herein respectively limited after the return of such person into the state, or after the time of such concealment; and if after such cause of action shall have accrued, such person shall depart from and reside out of this state, or conceal himself, the time of his absence or concealment shall not be deemed or taken as any part of the time limited for the commencement of such action. [L. '54, p. 364, § 10; Cd. '81, § 36; 2 H. C., § 123; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

Cited in 5 Wash. 664; 10 Wash. 432; 26 Wash. 461, 492; 41 Wash. 533, 534; 51 Wash. 415.

Absence or departure from state suspending the operation of the statute: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1738, § 53; Bignold v. Carr, 24 Wash. 413; Meek v. White, 26 Wash. 491; Fidelity Nat. Bank v. Adams, 38 Wash. 75; Denny v. Palmer, 26 Wash. 469; George v. Butler, 26 Wash. 456; Perkins v. Bailey, 38 Wash. 46; Marvin v. Yates, 26 Wash. 50.

Return and residence after absence: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1739, § 55; Omaha Nat. Bank v. Lindsay, 41 Wash. 531.

As to effect of denial of nonresidence under this section, see Meek v. White, 26 Wash. 491.

The word "return," used in this section, must be construed to come into, and consequently applies to nonresidents coming for the first time into this state, as well as to former residents returning after temporarily sojourning out of the state: Weber v. Yancy, 7 Wash. 84; Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 659, 664; Omaha Nat. Bank v. Lindsay, 41 Wash. 531; see Citizens' Nat. Bank v. Lucas, 26 Wash. 417.

The fact that a nonresident owns property in the state liable to attachment will not set the statute running from the time the right of action accrues, but the statute is tolled during his absence: Denny v. Sayward, 10 Wash. 422, 431; Meek v. White, 26 Wash. 491.

Residence in a certain state for a number of years will, when nothing appears to the contrary, raise the presumption of citizenship there: Weber v. Yancy, supra.

The fact that a defendant is a nonresident of the state at the time the cause of action accrues against him must be affirmatively alleged in his answer, in the absence of such averment in the complaint, in order to rebut the presumption of his residence in the state: Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 659, 662; and where his nonresidence is not shown by the pleadings he cannot avail himself of the objection that he was a nonresident: Id.

Action upon a judgment of another state against a nonresident there is not barred by our statute, when the judgment defendant has not become a resident of this state, until after the expiration of six years from the time of the commencement of such residence here: Weber v. Yancy, supra; Lake v. Steinbach, supra.

The running of the statute of limitations against relief on the ground of fraud is not affected by ill-health or negotiations that did not commence until the statute had run: Carroll v. Hill Tract Improvement Co., 44 Wash. 569.

An action to foreclose a mortgage is barred as against a purchaser of the property from the mortgagor more than six years after maturity of the debt, when the action was not commenced within a reasonable time (fifteen months after the purchase), as the absence of the mortgagor from the state does not suspend the running of the statute: Boyer v. Price, 45 Wash. 667.

A judgment debtor is a nonresident of this state, within the meaning of this section, where she had her abode in Idaho and rented a house and taught school there since 1897, living with her daughter as the only member of her family, and only returned to this state to spend her vacation after being elected to teach in Idaho for another year: Dignam v. Shaff, 51 Wash. 412.

§ 169. (4809.) Suspension for Personal Disability.

If a person entitled to bring an action mentioned in this chapter, except for a penalty or forfeiture, or against a sheriff or other officer, for an escape, be, at the time the cause of action accrued, either under the age of twenty-one years, or insane, or imprisoned on a criminal charge, or in execution under the sentence of a court for a term less than his natural life, the time of such disability shall not be a part of the time limited for the commencement of action. [Cf. L. '54, p. 364, § 11; L. '61, p. 61, § 1; L. '69, p. 10, § 38; Cd. '81, § 37; 2 H. C., § 124; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See infra, § 175, cumulative disabilities.

See infra, § 174, disability must have existed when action accrued.

See infra, § 193, continuance of action by representative.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1737, §§ 47, 48.

Under this section an action commenced within four years after the minor attains his majority is within time: May v. Sutherland, 41 Wash. 609.

After a ward becomes of age she stands in the relation of a creditor of her guardian and where she has knowledge after majority sufficient to put her on inquiry as to whether her guardian has appropriated a portion of her property, her right of action against him for fraud would accrue from the date of such knowledge: Wickham v. Sprague, 18 Wash. 466.

The ten-year statute of limitations for actions for the recovery of real property does not begin to run against a minor until he attains his majority: McMillan v. Walker, 48 Wash. 342.

§ 170. (4810.) Suspension by Death.

If a person entitled to bring an action die before the expiration of the time limited for the commencement thereof, and the cause of action survive, an action may be commenced by his representatives after the expiration of the time and within one year from his death. If a person against whom an action may be brought die before the expiration of the time limited for the commencement thereof, and the cause of action survives, an action may be commenced against his representatives after the expiration of that time, and within one year after the issuing of letters testamentary or of administration. [L. '54, p. 364, § 12; Cd. '81, § 38; 2 H. C., § 125; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1748, §§ 49-51.

When the statute has commenced to run against a party, its operation is not arrested by his subsequent death before the end of the statutory period: McAuliff v. Parker, 10 Wash. 141, 146.

It was held in Scott v. McNeal, 5 Wash. 309, that the court was warranted in finding a party dead who had been absent from the state for seven years, where there was no evidence that he still lived, and in ordering administration upon his estate; and further, that although the supposed deceased person returned to this state he could not maintain ejectment against an innocent purchaser of his estate sold under decree in probate; but this case was reversed on writ of error: Scott v. McNeal, 154 U. S. 34, 35. See State ex rel. Young v. Superior Court, 43 Wash. 34.

This section is superseded, so far as actions to charge land with debt are concerned, by § 1368; Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464.

As to effect of death of person liable, see Gleason v. Hawkins, 32 Wash. 464; Frew v. Clark, 34 Wash. 561; Fuhrman v. Power, 43 Wash. 533; Bank of Montreal v. Buchanan, 32 Wash. 480.

Effect of administration: Brigham-Hopkins Co. v. Gross, 20 Wash. 218; Brigham-Hopkins Co. v. Gross, 30 Wash. 277.

§ 171. (4811.) Suspension by War.

When a person shall be an alien subject or a citizen of a country at war with the United States, the time of the continuance of the war shall not be a part of the period limited for the commencement of the action. [L. '54, p. 365, § 13; Cd. '81, § 39; 2 H. C., § 126; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

§ 172. (4812.) Suspension by Judicial Proceedings.

When the commencement of an action is stayed by injunction or a statutory prohibition, the time of the continuance of the injunction or prohibition shall not be a part of the time limited for the commencement of the action. § 173. (4813.) Suspension by Reversal of Judgment.

If an action shall be commenced within the time prescribed therefor, and a judgment therein for the plaintiff be reversed on error or appeal, the plaintiff, or if he die and the cause of action survive, his heirs or representatives, may commence a new action within one year after reversal. [L. '54, p. 365, § 15; Cd. '81, § 41; 2 H. C., § 128; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

§ 174. (4814.) When Disability Available.

No person shall avail himself of a disability unless it existed when his right of action accrued. [L. '54, p. 365, § 16; Cd. '81, § 42; 2 H. C., § 129; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See next section and supra, § 169, other disabilities.

§ 175. (4815.) Cumulative Disabilities.

When two or more disabilities shall coexist at the time the right of action accrues, the limitation shall not attach until they all be removed. [L. '54, p. 365, § 17; Cd. '81, § 43; 2 H. C., § 130; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See last section and supra, § 169, other disabilities.

§ 176. (4816.) New Promise must be in Writing.

No acknowledgment or promise shall be sufficient evidence of a new or continuing contract whereby to take the case out of the operation of this chapter, unless the same is contained in some writing signed by the party to be charged thereby; but this section shall not alter the effect of any payment of principal or interest. [L. '54, p. 365, § 18; Cd. '81, § 44; 2 H. C., § 131; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

Correspondence relating to several promissory notes, when not sufficient to remove the bar of the statute, under this section: Bank of Montreal v. Guse, 51 Wash. 365.

§ 177. (4817.) Effect of Partial Payment.

When any payment of principal or interest has been or shall be made upon any existing contract, whether it be a bill of exchange, promissory note, bond, or other evidence of indebtedness, if such payment be made after the same shall have become due, the limitation shall commence from the time the last payment was made. A payment and acceptance of interest on a promissory note relieves the note from the statute: Koslowski v. Yesler, 2 W. T. 407.

Payment made upon an indebtedness after the same has become due fixes a new date for the running of the statute of limitations in respect to actions thereon: Ah How v. Furth, 13 Wash. 550.

Part payment: See Perkins v. Jennings, 27 Wash. 145; Warnock v. Itawis, 38 Wash. 144; Stubblefield v. McAuliff, 20 Wash. 442; Bassett v. Thrall, 21 Wash.

§ 178. (4818.) Foreign Statutes of Limitations, How Applied.

When the cause of action has arisen in another state, territory, or country between nonresidents of this state, and by the laws of the state, territory, or country where the action arose an action cannot be maintained thereon by reason of the lapse of time, no action shall be maintained thereon in this state. [L. '54, p. 365, § 20; Cd. '81, § 46; 2 H. C., § 133; see ref. to § 155, supra.]

See notes to § 155, supra.

Cited in 6 Wash. 537; 7 Wash. 315; 24 Wash. 9; 41 Wash. 533.

In transitory actions, the statute of limitations of the forum, and not that of the place where the contract was made, governs; hence, when a maker of a promissory note, given in California, removed to Washington territory before the statute had run on the same, he cannot thereafter here plead the statute of California in order to bar the action: Adams v. Kelly, 2 W. T. 263.

Where a married woman, after the removal of her husband to this state, remained in Dakota for the purpose of settling up the affairs of her separate property, preparatory to following him, she cannot, under the provisions of this section, maintain an action in this state for the wrongful taking and detention of personal property in Dakota by a resident there, when such action is barred by the laws of that state, as, under the laws giving a married woman complete control of her separate property, her residence does not necessarily follow the domicile of her husband: McCain v. Gibbons, 7 Wash. 314.

This section is inapplicable in the case of an action upon a promissory note by a resident of this state against a nonresident, although at the time of the execution of the note both plaintiff and defendant were nonresidents, where plaintiff had taken up his residence within this state prior to the maturity of the note: Freundt v. Hahn, 24 Wash. 8.

An action upon a judgment of the state of Minnesota entered in 1903 is not barred by the statute of limitations in this state in the year 1905: Childs v. Blethen, 40 Wash. 340.

"Arose" and "arisen," in this section should be defined not to have been used in the sense of "originated," but rather in the sense of the right of action having "accrued": Freundt v. Hahn, 24 Wash. 8. See, also, Omaha National Bank v. Lindsay, 41 Wash. 531.

CHAPTER IV.

PARTIES TO ACTIONS.

§ 179. (4824.) In Whose Name Actions to be Prosecuted.

Every action shall be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, except as is otherwise provided by law. [Cf. L. '54, p. 131, § 3; L. '69, p. 3, § 4; L. '75, p. 4, § 1; L. '77, p. 4, § 4; Cd. '81, § 4; 2 H. C., § 134.]

See infra, § 189, for necessary parties.

See infra, § 191, for assignees of choses in action, etc.

See infra, § 192, for joinder of parties.

See infra, § 259, and notes, demurrer.

Cited in 4 Wash. 784; 5 Wash. 362; 16 Wash. 588; 21 Wash. 454; 22 Wash. 272; 23 Wash. 444; 27 Wash. 10, 335; 28 Wash. 183; 33 Wash. 165, 678.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2193-2196, §§ 1-14.

The rule of the common law that the death of the plaintiff, or the determination of his interest in the subject matter of the action, abated the suit, is modified by this section, taken in connection with § 193, infra, where the cause of action survives or continues: Box v. Kelso, 5 Wash. 360, 362.

A cause of action which survives to a personal representative can be enforced in the name of an assignee, but mere personal torts which die with the party, and do not survive to the personal representative, are not capable of passing by assignment, so as to preserve the right of action: Slauson v. Schwabacher, 4 Wash. 783. See Jones v. Miller, 35 Wash. 499.

A creditor may bring an action in his own name to set aside a fraudulent conveyance made by the debtor prior to making an assignment for benefit of creditors: Fidelity Nat. Bank v. Adams, 38 Wash. 70.

Under the provisions of this section the courts are governed by the rules of the common law as modified by 3 Edward III, and our local statutes, permitting assignments of choses in action to extend to commercial paper: Id., 784.

In an action upon a promissory note by an indorsee who makes the payee a party defendant, only slight proof that the plaintiff is the real party in interest is necessary, as the indorser would be bound by the judgment, and no injury could result to the maker; furthermore, the introduction of the note indorsed in blank is prima facie sufficient: Yakima Nat. Bank v. Knipe, 6 Wash. 348. See, also, Seattle Nat. Bank v. Emmons, 16 Wash. 585;

Lodge v. Lewis, 32 Wash. 191; State v. Headlee, 18 Wash. 220; Capital Brewing Co. v. Crosbie, 22 Wash. 270.

A plaintiff is sufficiently shown to be the real party in interest when he introduces the note sued on purporting to be indorsed in blank, since the production of such note in evidence prima facie establishes the fact that plaintiff is the owner and holder thereof: Id. See, also, Little v. Saulsberry, 40 Wash. 550.

A general assignment for the benefit of creditors does not cut off the assignor from prosecuting an action already begun in his own name, until the assignee makes application for substitution: Box v. Kelso, supra.

In a suit brought by A. against B. for damages to crops by B.'s cattle, on the trial it was discovered that C. had an interest in part of the crop injured. Held, that C.'s interest was consistent with A.'s right to recover for the trespass, and, at most, could only operate as a partial failure of proof: Washburn v. Case, 1 W. T. 253.

Indians sustaining tribal relations are capable of entering into binding contracts except in cases prohibited by Congress, hence they may sue and be sued: Gho v. Julles, 1 W. T. 325.

Where the defect of parties appears on the face of a claim filed and summons issued, defendant's appearance and pleading to the merits is a waiver: Baxter v. Scoland, 2 W. T. 86.

A defect of parties is waived where the same is not raised by demurrer, answer, or otherwise in the court below: Budlong v. Budlong, 48 Wash. 645.

§ 180. (4825.) Executor, Trustee, etc., may Sue in Their Own Names.

An executor or administrator, or guardian of a minor or person of unsound mind, a trustee of an express trust, or a person authorized by statute, may sue without joining the person for whose benefit the suit is prosecuted. A trustee of an express trust, within the meaning of this section, shall be construed to include a person with whom or in whose name a contract is made for the benefit of another. [L. '54, p. 131, § 4; L. '69, p. 4, § 5; Cd. '81, § 5; 2 H. C., § 135.]

See infra, § 187, suing by guardian.

See infra, § 296, joinder of actions.

See infra, § 489, costs in such cases.

See infra, § 967 et seq., actions by and against executors and administrators.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2194, § 4.

Under this section a bank may maintain an action in its own name for the purpose of securing relief against excessive taxation of its capital stock: Citizens' Nat. Bank of Dayton v. Columbia County, 23 Wash. 441.

Under the act of Congress of August 13, 1894, which provides that persons having a right of action for unpaid labor and materials may bring suit on such bond in the name of the United States for their use and benefit, the United States is a proper party plaintiff in the courts of the state, under this section: United States v. Rundle, 27 Wash. 7.

Consignors cannot maintain an action of conversion against the carrier as trustees of an express trust, where they unconditionally parted with title, especially when the suit is not prosecuted for the benefit of the purchasers: Sweeney v. Waterhouse & Co., 39 Wash. 507.

A foreign executor of an estate, who is, in writing, empowered by the beneficiaries of such estate to purchase certain property in the interest of the estate, is thereby constituted a trustee of an express trust, within this section: Doe v. Tenino Coal & Iron Co., 43 Wash. 523.

A trustee of an express trust may be sued without joining his beneficiary: See Thompson v. Price, 37 Wash. 394.

A person to whom a deed of land is conveyed without consideration, to hold the title for the grantors, is a trustee of an express trust, within this section, and may sue to quiet title without joining the real owners: Carr v. Cohn, 44 Wash. 586.

§ 181. (4826.) Husband and Wife must Join—Exception.

When a married woman is a party, her husband must be joined with her, except,—

1. When the action concerns her separate property, or her right or claim to the homestead property, she may sue alone;

2. When the action is between herself and her husband, she may sue or be sued alone;

3. When she is living separate and apart from her husband, she may sue or be sued alone. [L. '54, p. 131, § 5; L. '69, p. 4, § 6; L. '75, p. 4, § 2; Cd. '81, § 6; 2 H. C., § 136.]

See infra, § 5931, liability for family expenses.

See next section, when husband and wife may join.

Cited in 21 Wash. 236; 25 Wash. 5.

An action brought for permanent injuries to community real estate must be brought by husband and wife jointly: Parke v. Seattle, 8 Wash. 78.

And the rule extends to actions for rents and profits: Lownsdale v. Gray's Harbor Co., 21 Wash. 542.

But the wife is not a necessary party plaintiff in action for damages on breach of contract beneficial to community property: Belt v. Washington Water Power Co., 24 Wash. 387; see O'Toole v. Faulkner, 34 Wash. 371.

The wife is a proper although not a necessary party to actions for her personal injuries: Hawkins v. Front St. Cable Ry. Co., 3 Wash. 592.

Where the wife brought an action in her own name for personal injuries sustained by her, the husband's name may be added by amendment at the trial: Davis v. Seattle, 37 Wash. 223.

Where plaintiff had owned the land and been in possession thereof from a date long prior to the passage of the first statute of this state as to community property, it cannot be presumed that his wife has such an interest therein as to make her a necessary party to the action for damage to the same: Spurlock v. Port Townsend Southern R. Co., 13 Wash. 29.

But wife is a necessary party in action for wrongful appropriation of community property: Lownsdale v. Gray's Harbor Boom Co., 21 Wash. 542. See, also, Armstrong v. Oakley, 23 Wash. 122; Dane v. Daniel, 23 Wash. 379; Chehalis County v. Ellingson, 25 Wash. 638.

As to whether the wife is a necessary party in actions involving community rights and liabilities: Ballinger Com. Prop., § 185 et seq.

Under the laws of the state of New Hampshire, a wife domiciled in that state, and owning an interest in real property in this state, may maintain an action in this state for a partition without joining her husband as party plaintiff: Sawyer v. Vermont Loan & T. Co., 41 Wash. 524.

In an action of replevin by a married woman under statutes authorizing her to acquire, hold and sue for property as if she were unmarried, a complaint alleging that she was the owner and entitled to the possession of the property is sufficient without deraigning her title; and an answer that she was a married woman and that the "property had been acquired since the marriage" states no affirmative defense, and requires no reply from her showing that she acquired the property as separate property: Hester v. Stine, 46 Wash. 469.

A married woman may maintain an action in her own name for alienation of her husband's affections: Brach v. Brown, 20 Wash. 266.

Also, to restrain the sale of a community property homestead: Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 2.

§ 182. (4827.) When Husband and Wife may Join.

Husband and wife may join in all causes of action arising from injuries to the person or character of either or both of them, or from injuries to the property of either or both of them, or arising out of any contract in favor of either or both of them. If a husband and wife be sued together, the wife may defend for her own right, and if the husband neglect to defend, she may defend for his right also. And she may defend in all cases in which she is interested, whether she is sued with her husband or not. [Cf. L. '54, p. 219, § 492; L. '77, p. 4, § 7; L. '75, p. 4, § 3; Cd. '81, § 7; 2 H. C., § 137.]

An action for personal injuries to the wife, caused by the negligence of another, must be brought in the name of the husband, and the wife, while not a necessary, is a proper, party to such action: Hawkins v. Front St. Cable Ry Co., 3

Wash. 592; see Phelps v. S. S. City of Panama, 1 W. T. 518, 535.

An action by a husband and wife for failure to properly bury the dead body of their child is not subject to the objection that there is a defect of parties plaintiff: Wright v. Beardsley, 46 Wash. 16.

A wife may be joined with the husband to recover loss of community property by fire: Hedican v. Penn. Fire Ins. Co., 21 Wash. 488.

This section authorizes an action by husband and wife to recover for personal injuries sustained by the husband: Apker v. Hoquiam, 51 Wash. 567.

§ 183. (4828.*) When Survivor's Heirs or Representatives may Sue.

The widow, or widow and her children, or child or children if no widow, of a man killed in a duel, shall have a right of action against the person killing him, and against the seconds and all aiders and abettors. When the death of a person is caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another, his heirs or personal representatives may maintain an action for damages against the person causing the death. If the deceased leave no widow or issue, then his parents, sisters or minor brothers who may be dependent upon him for support and who are resident within the United States at the time of his death, may maintain said action. When the death of a person is caused by an injury received in falling through any opening or defective place in any sidewalk, street, alley, square or wharf, his heirs or personal representatives, or if deceased leaves no widow or issue, then his parents, sisters or minor brothers who may be dependent upon him for support, and who are resident within the United States at the time of his death, may maintain an action for damages against the person whose duty it was, at the time of the injury, to have kept in repair such sidewalk or other place. In every such action the jury may give such damages, as under all circumstances of the case may to them seem just. [L. '09, p. 425, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 220, § 496; L. '75, p. 4, § 4; Cd. '81, § 8; 2 H. C., § 138.]

Bal. Code, § 4828, being the later expression of the legislative will upon the subject, supersedes § 703 of 2 Hill's Code, which is irreconcilable and repugnant to its provisions: Gractz v. McKenzie, 3 Wash. 194; N. P. Ry. Co. v. Ellison, 3 Wash. 225; Hedrick v. Ilwaco R. & N. Co., 4 Wash. 409; Klepsch v. Donald, 4 Wash. 436, 443; Dahl v. Tibbals, 5 Wash. 259; see *Atrops v. Code, § 4828, before its amendment action could be brought in favor of wife and children only: Robinson v. Baltimore etc. Red Co., supra; Copeland v. Seattle supra; Noble v. Seattle, 19 Wash. 133; Manning v. Tacoma R. & P. Co., 34 Wash. 406; Johnson v. Seattle Electric Co., 39 Wash. 211.

A husband can recover for his loss of time and funeral expenses resulting from the wrongful death of his wife, irrespective of statutes: Philby v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 46 Wash. 173.

In an action for death caused by the wrongful act of the defendant there can be no recovery on the ground of contributory negligence of the defendant, when the evidence shows that he was an employee of defendant railway company and was well informed of his situation and of the danger involved: Brennan v. Front St. Cable Ry. Co., 8 Wash. 363.

In an action for death by wrongful act of defendant, recovery is based on proof of pecuniary damage and not of the death caused by the unlawful act or neglect: Klepsch v. Donald, supra, 444.

Where blasting in a certain locality is not unlawful, the fact that a man was killed by a rock thrown by the blast between 940 and 1200 feet in a horizontal direction, constitutes only a prima facie case of negligence, which may be rebutted by showing due care in discharging the blast; and the question of negligence in such case cannot be taken from the jury: Id.

In an action for injuries to a woman pregnant with child, there can be no recovery for death of child, but there may be for the woman's suffering, etc., where such death is shown to be due to negligence of defendant: Hawkins v. Front St. Cable Ry Co., 3 Wash. 592.

An action for wrongful death may be prosecuted in the name of the administratrix of the deceased's estate, although it is not alleged that it is for the benefit of the widow and children, where they are named in the complaint, as the action will inure to their benefit by operation of law: Archibald v. Lincoln County, 50 Wash. 55.

Nonresident aliens may maintain an action for wrongful death under our statutes authorizing an action for the benefit of the widow and children: Anustasakas v. International Contract Co., 51 Wash. 119.

§ 184. (4829.) Action for Injury or Death of Child or Ward.

A father or in case of the death or desertion of his family the mother, may maintain an action as plaintiff for the injury or death of a child, and a guardian for the injury or death of his ward. [L. '69, p. 4, § 9; L. '73, p. 5, § 10; Cd. '81, § 9; 2 H. C., § 139.]

This section does not repeal § 194, infra: Noble v. Seattle, 19 Wash. 133.

A father may maintain an action for the death of his child, under the provisions of this section, although the administrator of the child's estate may have, theretofore, recovered judgment against the same defendant for causing the child's death by wrongful act or negligence: Hedrick v. Ilwaco R. & N. Co., 4 Wash. 400.

The measure of damages in such cases is the value of the child's services from date of injury to time of majority, taken in connection with prospects of life less cost of support and maintenance, to which may be added in proper cases expense of nursing and medical treatment: Id. 404.

In an action for damages for negligently causing the death of a child, pleading and proof of special pecuniary damages is unnecessary, as, in such cases, it falls within the province of the jury to judge of the pecuniary loss to the parents from the evidence showing the age of the child, its health, habits, character, and the station in life of the parents: Atrops v. Costello, 8 Wash. 149.

Punitive or exemplary damages cannot be recovered in an action brought under this section: Id., 152. See, also, Woodhouse v. Powles, 43 Wash. 617.

In an action by husband and wife to recover damages for death of their minor child, it is proper to grant leave to dismiss the wife as a party plaintiff: Dean v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 38 Wash. 565.

A mother may maintain an action for the death of her child, when: See Clark v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 29 Wash. 139.

In an action by parents for the death of their minor son who had run away from home, in which the defense is that he was emancipated and contributed nothing to the plaintiff's support, conversations and letters expressing an intent on the part of the decedent to contribute to such support are not incompetent as self-serving declarations: Dean v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 44 Wash. 564.

In an action by parents to recover for the death of their minor son, the sum of $178 for burial expenses and transporting the body to the old home is a proper item for recovery: Id.

§ 185. (4830.) Action by Parent for Seduction of Daughter.

A father, or in case of his death or desertion of his family, the mother, may maintain an action as plaintiff for the seduction of a daughter, and the guardian for the seduction of a ward, though the daughter or ward be not living with or in the service of the plaintiff at the time of the seduction or afterward, and there be no loss of service. facts held insufficient in State v. Cochran, 10 Wash. 562. See State v. O'Hare, 36 Wash. 516.

§ 186. (4831.) Action by Woman for Her Own Seduction.

An unmarried female over twenty-one years of age may maintain an action as plaintiff for her own seduction, and recover therein such damages as may be assessed in her favor; but the prosecution of an action to judgment by the father, mother, or guardian, as prescribed in the preceding section, shall be a bar to an action by such unmarried female. [L. '54, p. 220, § 497; L. '69, p. 5, § 11; Cd. '81, § 11; 2 H. C., § 141.]

This section authorizes a suit in this state for a seduction committed in another state or territory, in the absence of allegation as to the laws of the sister state, the presumption being that they are the same as the laws of this state: Murrilla v. Guis, 51 Wash. 93.

§ 187. (4832.) Appointment of Guardian Ad Litem for Infants.

When an infant is a party, he shall appear by guardian, or if he has no guardian, or in the opinion of the court the guardian is an improper person, the court shall appoint one to act. Said guardian shall be appointed as follows:—

1. When the infant is plaintiff, upon the application of the infant, if he be of the age of fourteen years, or if under that age, upon the application of a relative or friend of the infant;

2. When the infant is defendant, upon the application of the infant, if he be of the age of fourteen years, and apply within thirty days after the service of the summons; if he be under the age of fourteen, or neglect to apply, then upon the application of any other party to the action, or of a relative or friend of the infant. After pleading to the merits the objection cannot be raised that parties are minors and appear without guardian ad litem: Blumauer v. Clock, 24 Wash. 596; Donald v. Ballard, 34 Wash. 576.

A nonresident parent may be appointed guardian ad litem: See Shannan v. Consol. Tiger etc. Min. Co., 24 Wash. 119.

§ 188. Guardian Ad Litem of Insane Persons.

When an insane person is a party to an action in the superior courts he shall appear by guardian, or if he has no guardian, or in the opinion of the court the guardian is an improper person, the court shall appoint one to act as guardian ad litem. Said guardian shall be appointed as follows:

(1) When the insane person is plaintiff, upon the application of a relative or friend of the insane person.

(2) When the insane person is defendant, upon the application of a relative or friend of such insane person, such application shall be made within thirty days after the service of summons if served in the state of Washington, and if served out of the state or service is made by publication, then such application shall be made within sixty days after the first publication of summons or within sixty days after the service out of the state. If no such application be made within the time above limited, application may be made by any party to the action. [L. '99, p. 144, § 1.]

See notes to last section.

§ 189. (4833.) Who must be Made Parties.

All persons interested in the cause of action, or necessary to the complete determination of the question involved, shall, unless otherwise provided by law, be joined as plaintiffs when their interest is in common with the party making the complaint, and as defendants when their interest is adverse to the plaintiff: Provided, that where good cause exists, which shall be made to appear in the complaint, why a party who should be a plaintiff cannot, from a want of consent on his part or otherwise, be made such plaintiff, he shall be made a defendant. No binding order can be made upon a person in nowise made a party to the suit: Madison v. Madison, 1 W. T. 60.

An order of court requiring certain persons, not impleaded in an action, nor parties thereto except as garnishees, and having no notice, to deliver certain property claimed by them to another also not a party to the suit, is void for want of jurisdiction, and amounts to the taking of private property without due course of law: Weisbach v. Arnold, 3 W. T. 111; Coombs v. Davis, 2 W. T. 467.

If defect of parties is not raised by answer or demurrer, the court cannot dismiss an action for such defect unless upon refusal or neglect of plaintiff to make the necessary parties after an order to that effect: Harrington v. Miller, 4 Wash. 808. Objection to defect of parties cannot be raised by objections to testimony: Green v. Finnell, 22 Wash. 186; see infra, § 408, subd. 5, and § 196.

The tenant in possession is the only necessary party defendant in an action of ejectment; and although he may set up that there are tenants in common with him and ask that they may be made parties, plaintiff cannot be compelled to bring them in: Raymond v. Morrison, 9 Wash. 156. One partner, sued for the torts of the copartnership, cannot take advantage of any defect in parties defendant where the objection was not raised by demurrer: Grissom v. Hofus, 39 Wash. 51.

In an action of replevin the one in possession of the chattel claimed is the only necessary defendant, although an interest is asserted therein by others: Seattle Nat. Bank v. Meerwaldt, 8 Wash. 630. See O'Brien v. Seattle Ice Co., 43 Wash. 217.

proper party to institute foreclosure thereof, whether he has the legal title to any of the notes or not: Thompson v. Huron Lumber Co., 4 Wash. 600.

Where a number of loggers have participated in cutting and rafting a boom of logs, upon which they have filed liens, their joinder as plaintiffs in an action for damages for the destruction of the logs is proper: Peterson v. Sayward, 9 Wash. 503.

Parties injured by the same wrong may bring action jointly: Coleman v. Rathbun, 40 Wash. 303.

Although one of two joint lessees paid all the money on a contract of lease, this will not warrant an action by him alone for breach of the contract: Dietz v. Winehill, 6 Wash. 109.

Where an agent takes a promissory note, payable to himself, his principal may sue on it without any indorsement: Stinson v. Sachs, 8 Wash. 391. See, also, Wash. Nat. Bank v. Moyer, 22 Wash. 622.

The state is not a necessary party to an action for appropriation by a boom company of tide lands, which it has contracted to sell, as its interest therein is not subject to condemnation: *North River Boom Co. v. An agreement, as part consideration for the sale of a stock of goods, that the defendants would obtain an extension of their lease of a storeroom then in their possession, and that they would sublease one-half of the room to the plaintiffs for the term of the renewal, will be enforced, and it is not ground for denying specific performance that the court had no jurisdiction over the defendant's son, a non-resident, in whose name the renewal was taken, and who, at their request, held the lease in his name as their agent; it appearing from the evidence that the son had no interest in the lease or leased property, that the defendants retained and occupied the premises and paid the rent, and were the only real parties in interest: Capps v. Frederick, 44 Wash. 38.

§ 190. (4834.) Where Parties are Numerous One or More may Sue.

When the question is one of common or general interest to many persons, or where the parties are numerous, and it is impracticable to bring them all before the court, one or more may sue or defend for the benefit of the whole. [L. '54, p. 132, § 9; Cd. '81, § 14; 2 H. C., § 144.]

A part of the bondholders may maintain an action to foreclose a trust deed securing the bonds, where there are numerous bondholders residing at a distance who are unknown to plaintiffs, under this section: Clay v. Selah Valley Irrigation Co., 14 Wash. 543.

But this rule does not apply to the right to substitute one plaintiff for another: Hight v. Batley, 32 Wash. 165. See, also, Morrison v. Blue Star Nav. Co., 26 Wash. 541.

In an action by stockholders of a corporation to compel a reconveyance to the corporation, the complaint is sufficient to show legal capacity of the plaintiff to sue, without any allegation that they had moved the corporation to begin suit, where it appears that the officers and a majority of the trustees were wrongdoers and in control of the corporation and that a demand for corporate action would have been useless: Williams v. Erie Mountain Consolidated Mining Co., 47 Wash. 360. See, also, Coleman v. Rathbun, 40 Wash. 303; Bacon v. O'Keefe, 13 Wash. 655; Childs v. Blethen, 40 Wash. 340.

§ 191. (4835.) Actions on Assigned Instruments and Choses in Action.

Any assignee or assignees of any judgment bond, specialty, book account, or other chose in action, for the payment of money, by assignment in writing, signed by the person authorized to make the same, may, by virtue of such assignment, sue and maintain an action or actions in his or her name, against the obligor or obligors, debtor or debtors, therein named, notwithstanding the assignor may have an interest in the thing assigned: Provided, that any debtor may plead in defense a counterclaim or an offset, if held by him against the original owner, against the debt assigned, save that no counterclaim or offset shall be pleaded against negotiable paper assigned before due, and where the holder thereof has purchased the same in good faith and for value, and is the owner of all interest therein. [Cf. L. '54, p. 131, § 3; L. '79, p. 122, § 1; Cd. '81, § 15; L. '91, p. 69, § 2; 2 H. C., § 145.]

The complaint in an action upon an assignment of an account need not allege that the assignment is in writing, even in case proof of written assignment should be necessary upon the trial: Rice v. Yakima & P. C. R. Co., 4 Wash. 724.

A joint creditor may assign his undivided interest in an entire contract for the payment of money unless the objection is made by the debtor; but the assignment by all the joint creditors of their interest to another is not subject to the consent or objection of the debtor: Grippin v. Benham, 5 Wash. 589. See, also, Hays v. Hill, 23 Wash. 730; Seattle National Bank v. Emmons, 16 Wash. 585.

The undisputed construction of this section is that an assignment for the purpose of collection is an assignment for a valuable consideration, and where promissory notes have been assigned to plaintiff for the purpose of suit, he has sufficient interest therein to constitute him the real party in interest in an action to enforce collection thereof: McDaniel v. Pressler, 3 Wash., 636, 638; citing Hays v. Hathorn, 74 N. Y. 486. See, also, Lodge v. Lewis, 32 Wash. 191; Von Tobel v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 32 Wash. 683.

Mere personal torts, which die with the party and do not survive to the personal representative, are not capable of passing by assignment: Slausson v. Schwabacher, 4 Wash. 783; see Jones v. Miller, 35 Wash. 499.

The assignee of an insolvent debtor cannot maintain an action against an attaching creditor and the sheriff for injury to business credit and reputation of his assignor resulting from a malicious levy of the writ prior to the assignment: Id., 787.

An action upon a bond may be maintained by assignees who hold under separate assignments from the several obligees, when the action is brought jointly upon the entire cause of action by such assignees: McElroy v. Williams, 14 Wash. 627.

An assignment of a promissory note to an attorney at law for the purpose of collection is sufficient to warrant the bringing of suit thereon in his own name: Riddell v. Prichard, 12 Wash. 601; following McDaniel v. Pressler, supra. See, also, Lodge v. Lewis, supra; Von Tobel v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., supra.

An assignee in writing of a chose in action who holds the claim by a mere naked legal title may, under this section, maintain an action thereon in his own name, notwithstanding the assignor still has an interest in the claim: Von Tobel v. Stetson etc. Mill Co., 32 Wash. 683. See, also, State ex rel. Porter v. Headlee, 18 Wash. 220.

§ 192. (4836.) Actions Against Persons Severally Liable.

Persons severally liable upon the same obligation or instrument, including the parties to bills of exchange and promissory notes, may all, or any of them, be included in the same action, at the option of the plaintiff. [L. '54, p. 132, § 10; Cd. '81, § 16; 2 H. C., § 146.]

A judgment in which the parties are described by their partnership name is not void for that reason when the action has been waged against them as individuals comprising the partnership; and it will not preclude an action upon the judgment against one of the judgment debtors: Olson v. Veazie, 9 Wash. 481. See, also, Bignold v. Carr, 24 Wash. 413; Childs v. Bletheu, 40 Wash. 340.

Where two persons not jointly liable upon a contract are joined in an action for its breach, the complaint is subject to demurrer: Clark v. Great Northern R. Co., 31 Wash. 658.

In an action on a joint and several bond, an objection to any evidence because of the failure to bring the principal into court is properly overruled, since the statute authorizes a joint or several suit at the option of the plaintiff: Pacific Bridge Co. v. U. S. Fidelity etc. Co., 33 Wash. 47.

A payee suing upon a note can elect which of the parties liable thereon he will make parties defendant, and the maker has no right to a delay, that he may make the indorsers parties: Shuey v. Adair, 18 Wash. 188.

§ 193. (4837.) Action not to Abate by Disability.

No action shall abate by the death, marriage, or other disability of the party, or by the transfer of any interest therein, if the cause of action survive or continue; but the court may at any time within one year thereafter, on motion, allow the action to be continued by or against his representatives or successors in interest. Plaintiffs' disability caused by making a general assignment including the subject matter of the action, pendente lite, does not abate the action, but they may prosecute the action to final judgment in their own names. The assignee alone is the proper party to move for a substitution of parties plaintiff: Box v. Kelso, 5 Wash. 360. But defendants in default are entitled to notice of the substitution: Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318. See, also, Lavanaway v. Cannon, 37 Wash. 593. An order, made upon the ex parte application of plaintiff, substituting an administrator as a party to the action upon the death of the defendant, is not erroneous on the ground that it was made without notice to the administrator: Strong v. Eldridge, 8 Wash. 595.

Where a judgment has been rendered in a cause prior to the death of a party defendant, the jurisdiction of the appellate court to determine the appeal therefrom is not affected by the failure to present the claim upon which the action is founded to the administrator of the defendant's estate for allowance: Strong v. Eldridge, supra, citing Johnson v. Superior Court, 60 Cal. 578. An action to quiet title does not abate by conveyance before trial: Boyer v. Robinson, 43 Wash. 97.

When action abates upon the death of plaintiff: See Overlock v. Shinn, 28 Wash. 205.

Upon the death of a joint debtor, the right of action on the liability survives against his representatives: Megrath v. Gilmore, 15 Wash. 558.

Where executors have been substituted as parties defendant in a cause by stipulation, it is unnecessary to file an amended complaint showing the death of the defendant and the appointment and substitution of his executors: Id.

A purchaser of property which is specially affected by a temporary injunction granted to the original owner restraining a public nuisance has a right to be substituted as party plaintiff, under this section: Baker v. Northwest Building etc. Co., 33 Wash. 677; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318.

As to failure to amend the pleadings at the time of making a substitution of parties, when no objection thereto was made in the court below: Ellsworth v. Layton, 37 Wash. 340. In an action to quiet title, where the plaintiff conveyed the premises pending the suit, an order substituting the purchasers as parties plaintiff, unexcepted to and unappealed from, would probably authorize the prosecution of the suit by the substituted plaintiffs; and certainly, where the conveyance pending the action was satisfactorily proved: Vietzen v. Otis, 46 Wash. 402.

Where the bankruptcy court, in the dismissal of the petition in bankruptcy, inadvertently recited that the dismissal was without right to further prosecute the claim, an appeal from an order correcting the inadvertence will not abate an action in the state courts against the debtor, as the plea in abatement is easily determinable without reference to the appeal: Veysey v. Thompson, 49 Wash. 571.

§ 194. (4838.*) Action for Personal Injury Survives to Wife, Child, or Heirs.

No action for a personal injury to any person occasioning his death shall abate, nor shall such right of action determine, by reason of such death, if he have a wife or child living, or leaving no wife or issue, if he have dependent upon him for support and resident within the United States at the time of his death, parents, sisters or minor brothers; but such action may be prosecuted, or commenced and prosecuted, in favor of such wife or in favor of the wife and children, or if no wife, in favor of such child or children, or if no wife or child or children, then in favor of his parents, sisters or minor brothers who may be dependent upon him for support, and resident in the United States at the time of his death. [L. '09, p. 566, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 220, § 495; Cd. '81, § 18; 2 H. C., § 148.]

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 7, 8, §§ 18-24.

This section does not repeal § 184, supra: Noble v. Seattle, 19 Wash. 133.

§ 195. (4839.) Parties and Judgment in Actions for Purchase Price of Land.

In any action brought for the recovery of the purchase money against any person holding a contract for the purchase of lands, the party bound to perform the contract, if not the plaintiff, may be made a party, and the court in a final judgment may order the interest of purchaser to be sold or transferred to the plaintiff upon such terms as may be just, and may also order a specific performance of the contract in favor of the complainant, or the purchaser in case a sale be ordered. [L. '54, p. 219, § 490; Cd. '81, § 19; 2 H. C., § 149.]

Where the vendor of real estate retains the legal title, and afterward mortgages his interest to a third person, and also assigns to such person the purchaser's notes given for the purchase price, such mortgagee and assignee may maintain an action against the vendee on the notes, and the contract lien is secured thereby. In such case the vendor is a proper though not a necessary party: Shelton v. Jones, 4 Wash. 692.

Where a party sells all the timber upon a tract of land, and subsequently makes another bill of sale of all the cedar timber on the same land, he is a proper party defendant to an action by his first grantees, brought to quiet title to the timber: Larson v. Allen, 34 Wash. 113.

§ 196. (4840.) Bringing in New Parties.

The court may determine any controversy between parties before it when it can be done without prejudice to the rights of others, or by saving their rights; but when a complete determination of the controversy cannot be had without the presence of other parties, the court shall cause them to be brought in. [L. '69, p. 6, § 20; Cd. '81, § 20; 2 H. C., § 150.]

See supra, §§ 189, 190, who must be made parties.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2203, §§ 41-43.

If other parties than those before the court are necessary to a complete determination of the matter in controversy, it is the duty of the court to cause them to be brought in: Harrington v. Miller, 4 Wash. 808.

A new party should be brought in whenever, in the progress of the proceeding, and before the final order, there appears reason to believe that he owns an interest in the money or other property sought to be subjected to the judgment: Murne v. Schwabacher, 2 W. T. 130, 134; modified in Id., 2 W. T. 192. See Davis v. Seattle, 37 Wash. 223; Moore v. Gilmore, 16 Wash. 123.

When no power in garnishment to order in a new party: State ex rel. Nolte v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 500.

As to determination of any controversy between defendants, see Seattle v. Turner, 29 Wash. 515.

In an action to quiet title, it is discretionary to deny an application by plaintiff, made after resting and after the defendants had put in part of their evidence, for leave to file a complaint in intervention on behalf of one not a party, in order to litigate the validity of a deed not questioned theretofore on the trial: Johnson v. Conner, 48 Wash. 431.

Where a deed has been delivered in escrow, the remedy of the vendee, upon a refusal to deliver the deed, is against the escrow holder, and there is no defect of parties defendant by reason of failure to join the vendors: Bronx Inv. Co. v. National Bank of Commerce, 47 Wash. 566.

§ 197. (4841.) New Party Entitled to Service of Summons.

When a new party is introduced into an action as a representative or successor of a former party, such new party is entitled to the same summons, to be served in the same manner, as required for defendants in the commencement of an action. [L. '54, p. 219, § 485; L. '60, p. 99, § 477; L. '63,

p. 194, § 524; L. '69, p. 172, § 684; L. '73, p. 176, § 632; L. '77, p. 151, § 747; Cd. '81, §§ 21, 742; 2 H. C., §§ 151, 793.]

§ 198. (4842.) Substitution and Interpleader.

A defendant against whom an action is pending upon a contract, or for specific real or personal property, at any time before answer, upon affidavit that a person not a party to the action, and without collusion with him, makes against him a demand for the same debt or property, upon due notice to such person and the adverse party, may apply to the court for an order to substitute such person in his place, and discharge him from liability to either party on his depositing in court the amount of the debt, or delivering the property or its value to such person as the court may direct; and the court may in its discretion make the order. [L. '54, p. 132, § 12; L. '69, p. 7, § 22; Cd. '81, § 22; H. C., § 152.]

Actions of interpleader: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1558, 1559, §§ 1-5; Carstens v. Gustin, 19 Wash. 403; Belond v. Rayburn, 38 Wash. 406; Pierson v. Peirce, 42 Wash. 164; Zilke v. Woodley, 36 Wash. 84.

Facts pleaded held to constitute a proper case for an interpleader under this section: Marx v. Parker, 9 Wash. 473. Court may order third party to intervene upon application of either party: Moore v. Gilmore, 16 Wash. 123.

The provisions of this section do not furnish an exclusive remedy: See Wolverton v. Glasscock, 15 Wash. 279, 281.

§ 199. (4843.) Actions to Determine Conflicting Claims to Property.

Anyone having in his possession, or under his control, any property or money, or being indebted, where more than one person claims to be the owner of, entitled to, interested in, or to have a lien on such property, money or indebtedness, or any part thereof, may commence an action in the superior court against all or any of such persons, and have their rights, claims, interest, or liens adjudged, determined, and adjusted in such action. § 200. (4844.) Plaintiff may Disclaim and Deposit Property.

In all actions commenced under the preceding section, the plaintiff may disclaim any interest in the money, property, or indebtedness, and deposit with the clerk of the court the full amount of such money or indebtedness, or other property, and he shall not be liable for any costs accruing in said action. And the clerks of the various courts shall receive and file such complaint, and all other officers shall execute the necessary processes to carry out the purposes of this section, and also sections 199 and 201, of this code, free from all charge to said plaintiff, and the court, in its discretion, shall determine the liability for costs of the action. [L. '90, p. 93, § 2; 2 H. C., § 154.]

See notes to § 199.

§ 201. (4845.) Court may Protect Interest of Claimants.

Either of the defendants may set up or show any claim or lien he may have to such property, money, or indebtedness, or any part thereof, and the superior right, title, or lien, whether legal or equitable, shall prevail. The court, or judge thereof, may make all necessary orders, during the pendency of said action, for the preservation and protection of the rights, interests, or liens of the several parties. [L. '90, p. 94, § 3; 2 H. C., § 155.]

See notes to § 199.

§ 202. (4846.) Intervention.

Any person may, before the trial, intervene in an action or proceeding, who has an interest in the matter in litigation, in the success of either party, or an interest against both. An intervention takes place when a third person is permitted to become a party to an action or proceeding between other persons, either by joining the plaintiff in claiming what is sought by the complaint, or by uniting with the defendant in resisting the claims of the plaintiff, or by demanding anything adversely to both the plaintiff and the defendant, and is made by a complaint setting forth the grounds upon which the intervention rests, filed by leave of the court or judge on the ex parte motion of the party desiring to intervene. [L. '77, p. 7, § 23; Cd. '81, § 23; 2 H. C., § 156.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 605; 7 Wash. 79; 13 Wash. 4; 21 Wash. 168; 23 Wash. 31; 25 Wash. 51; 32 Wash. 166; 36 Wash. 418; 47 Wash. 384.

As to intervention in general, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2201-2203, §§ 32-40.

As to right to intervene, see Bissell v. Taylor, 7 Wash. 324.

Under this section, a creditor who has attached certain property of his debtor cannot intervene in opposition to the appointment of a receiver, in an action brought by other creditors against the same debtor: State ex rel. Arthur v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77.

A contract creditor, without judgment or other lien, cannot intervene in a foreclosure suit: Thompson v. Huron L. Co., 4 Wash. 600. Where a receiver has been appointed for an insolvent corporation, it is not error to refuse to permit an intervenor to file an amended cross-complaint setting up fraud on the part of the corporation in the execution of a mortgage: Biddle Purchasing Co. v. Port Townsend Steel, W. & Nail Co., 16 Wash. 681. Upon an action to foreclose a mortgage upon leasehold estates held by an insolvent corporation, and the appointment of a receiver for the corporation, the lessors of the property in question, who had claims against the corporation and had commenced an action to forfeit one of the leases for nonpayment of rent, in which the receiver had intervened, are not entitled to intervene in the foreclosure suit, and defend against the notes and mortgage as fraudulent, as they are simple contract creditors of the corporation without interest in the subject matter of, and unaffected by, the foreclosure suit, they not having reduced their claims to judgment or proved the same before the receiver: Hindman v. Colvin, 47 Wash. 382. A mortgagee has the right to intervene in a suit in which the mortgagor is a party defendant, and the mortgaged property attached, for the purpose of having the mortgage lien declared prior to that of the attachment, and to have the property attached subjected to its payment: Langert v. Brown, 3 W. T. 102.

A complaint in intervention is in time although not filed until after a motion is made in the principal cause for default against the defendant: Thompson v. Huron L. Co., supra.

Intervention, as we have it, is a peculiar proceeding, and should not be extended so as to take the place of equity suits, which furnish ample remedy in most cases: Id.

A mere general or contract creditor has not such a direct and immediate interest as entitles him to intervene in an action against an administrator for the recovery of real estate: Churchill v. Stephenson, 14 Wash. 620.

A bare service of the complaint, which was not filed until after final judgment, is not a compliance with the statute, and does not make the party an intervener or party to the proceedings, and demurring to such complaint does not waive the objection: Wiseman v. Eastman, 21 Wash. 163.

A third party has no right to intervene in an action merely because defendant is asserting an adverse claim to such third party's property as well as to that of plaintiff, when the rights attempted to be set up by means of the intervention affect entirely different property from that involved in the plaintiff's action: McNamara v. Crystal Min. Co., 23 Wash. 26.

Under this section, the receiver of an insolvent bank is entitled to intervene in an action by the trustee of a pledgee of such insolvent bank, and the fact that the bank, or its receiver, has another legal remedy for the enforcement of its claims is immaterial: Muhlenberg v. Tacoma, 25 Wash. 36.

A taxpayer in a school district whose children attend the school has no such interest in the matter in litigation as entitles him to intervene in an action brought against the district by the publisher of text-books under a contract with the state board: Westland Pub. Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 399.

An intervener cannot ask for the rescission of a contract of conveyance of land in another county because of the fraud of a third party: Boardman v. Hager, 24 Wash. 487.

§ 203. (4847.) Practice in Intervention.

When leave is given to intervene, a copy of the intervener's complaint shall be served upon the parties to the action or proceedings who have not appeared, or publication of a notice of the intervention containing a brief statement of the nature of the intervener's demand shall be made in all cases where there are absent or nonresident defendants. The notice shall be published in the same manner and for the same length of time as prescribed by law for publication of summons. And the complaint shall also be served upon the attorneys of the parties who have appeared, who may answer or demur to it as if it were an original complaint. The court shall determine upon the rights of the intervener at the same time the action is decided, and if the claim of the party intervening is not sustained, he shall pay all costs incurred by the intervention: Provided, that no intervention shall be cause for delay in the trial of an action between the original parties thereto. [L. '77, p. 7, § 24; Cd. '81, § 24; 2 H. C., § 157.]

CHAPTER V.

VENUE OF ACTIONS.

§ 204. (4852.) Action to be Commenced Where Subject is Situated.

Actions for the following causes shall be commenced in the county in which the subject of the action, or some part thereof, is situated:—

1. For the recovery of, for the possession of, for the partition of, for the foreclosure of a mortgage on, or for the determination of all questions affecting the title or for any injuries to real property;

2. All questions involving the rights to the possession or title to any specific article of personal property; in which last mentioned class of cases damages may also be awarded for the detention and for injury to such personal property. [L. '54, p. 133, § 13; L. '60, p. 7, § 15; L. '69, p. 12, § 48; L. '77, p. 11, § 48; Cd. '81, § 47; 2 H. C., § 158.]

See supra, § 32, venue of actions in certain cases.

See infra, § 1610, specific performance of contract of deceased.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2843, 2844, §§ 1-4.

The word "district," as used in this section in the Code of 1881, refers only to districts composed of two or more counties joined for judicial purposes, where sessions of court were held in but one of the counties: McLeod v. Ellis, 2 Wash. 117.

All actions for the causes mentioned in this section must be commenced in the county in which the subject of the action lies, and the court of no other county has jurisdiction: Wood v. Mastick, 2 W. T. 64. But court has jurisdiction to incidentally try title to land in another county on trial of another title in the proper county: Carkeek v. Boston Nat. Bank, 16 Wash. 399. Two mortgages securing the same debt, but covering lands in different counties, may be foreclosed in either county: Commercial Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Johnson, 16 Wash. 536.

Subdivision 1 of this section authorizes a mortgagee, whose mortgage covers several disconnected tracts of land in different counties, to foreclose his mortgage as to all of them, by a single suit, in any county where one tract is situated: Stevens v. Ferry, 48 Fed. 7.

This section refers to a peculiar class of actions which were always local; §§ 205, 207 and 208, infra, include only actions which were always transitory; § 208 does not apply to actions enumerated in this section: McLeod v. Ellis, supra.

Municipal corporations are subject to suit only in the county in which they are situated: North Yakima v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 655.

A suit seeking to enjoin the application of special funds of a municipal corporation is a local action within the provision involving the right to the possession or title to any specific article of personal property: Id.

Suits purely local in their nature must be commenced in the proper county, otherwise they will be dismissed on motion for want of jurisdiction: Id.; see Wood v. Mastick, supra.

In an action to recover specific personal property, the venue is jurisdictional, and a complaint is fatally defective which fails to allege that the property, or a part thereof at the time of the commencement of the action was in the county in which the action is brought: Stiles v. James, 2 W. T. 194. But a trial amendment to the complaint to show the venue in replevin is within the discretion of trial court: Standard Furniture Co. v. Anderson, 38 Wash. 582.

An action praying judgment upon a promissory note and seeking to foreclose a pledge of promissory notes and certificates of corporate stock, delivered as collateral security, is a transitory one, and must be brought in the county in which the defendant resides, or in which he may be served with process: State v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 607.

Proceedings instituted by a third party claiming property seized by the sheriff under attachment according to § 573, infra, is a new and independent action, and must be placed on the trial docket of the county where the property was seized; the court of no other county has jurisdiction of the subject matter of the action: State v. Superior Court, 5 Wash. 639, affirming McLeod v. Ellis, supra.

Actions for injuries to real property, being local in their nature, must be tried in the county where the property lies: McLeod v. Ellis, supra.

An action to enforce a resulting trust in lands of which a decedent died seised, and in a judgment recovered by him, may be brought in the county in which the land lies, and in which the judgment was rendered, although decedent died and his estate was administered upon, in another county: Reese v. Murnan, 5 Wash. 373.

An action to enforce a logger's lien (§ 1172, infra) is properly brought in the county in which the logs were cut and the lien notice filed, regardless of the fact that the logs were in another county: Overbeck v. Calligan, 6 Wash. 342.

An action for the specific performance of a contract to convey land is a transitory one, and need not be brought in the county where the land is situated: Morgan v. Bell, 3 Wash. 554.

An action in which the plaintiff seeks to compel the performance of a contract to convey an undivided interest in certain lands, to have several conveyances made by some of the defendants to others set aside, and for a partition of the lands, and, if specific performance cannot be decreed, asking that the moneys advanced thereon be declared a lien upon the lands, renders the action a local one under the statutes of this state: State v. Superior Court, 13 Wash. 187.

An action to rescind a contract for the removal of standing timber is local, and a change of venue to the county of defendant's residence is properly denied: Seymour v. LaFurgey, 47 Wash. 450.

§ 205. (4853.) Actions to be Tried Where Cause Arose.

Actions for the following causes shall be tried in the county where the cause, or some part thereof, arose:—

1. For the recovery of a penalty or forfeiture imposed by statute;
2. Against a public officer, or person specially appointed to execute his duties, for an act done by him in virtue of his office, or against a person who, by his command or in his aid, shall do anything touching the duties of such officer. [Cf. L. '54, p. 33, § 14; L. '60, p. 7, § 16; L. '69, p. 12, § 49; L. '77, p. 11, § 49; Cd. '81, § 48; 2 H. C., § 159.]

See notes to previous section.

§ 206. (4854.*) Venue of Actions Against Private Corporations.

An action against a corporation may be brought in any county where the corporation transacts business or transacted business at the time the cause of action arose; or in any county where the corporation has an office for the transaction of business or any person resides upon whom process may be served against such corporation, unless otherwise provided in this code. [L. '09, p. 69, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 220, § 494; L. '60, p. 101, § 488; L. '69, p. 13, § 50; L. '77, p. 11, § 50; Cd. '81, § 49; 2 H. C., § 160.]

See notes to last section.

See infra, §§ 226-228, manner of service on corporations.

Cited in 4 Wash. 658; 10 Wash. 149, 150; 14 Wash. 205; 23 Wash. 519; 24 Wash. 303; 40 Wash. 447; 42 Wash. 453; 43 Wash. 375; 48 Wash. 148.

Municipal corporations are not subject to the provisions of this section, but are governed by the rule of the common law: North Yakima v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 655, 658.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 651, § 153; Knoff v. Puget Sound Co-op. Co., 1 Wash. 57; Zindorf v. Western American Co., 26 Wash. 695; Hammel v. Fidelity Mutual Aid Assn., 42 Wash. 448; Carkeek v. Boston Nat. Bank, 16 Wash. 399.

If the action is brought against a corporation in the wrong county, the court has no jurisdiction to render judgment, as §§ 207 and 208 have no application to actions against corporations, such actions being governed solely by the provisions of this section: McMaster v. Thresher Co., 10 Wash. 147.

This section is applicable to original actions and does not relate to garnishment proceedings: Title Guarantee & T. Co. v. Seattle Theater Co., 23 Wash. 517.

Under this section service of process issued out of the superior court of Clarke county upon a purser and a wharfinger in the employ of a foreign corporation is sufficient, where the company was operating a line of steamers on the Columbia river, which, under the charge of the purser, received and discharged freight and passengers at Vancouver, landing regularly at the wharf there for that purpose, and hence making the wharf an office in this state for the transaction of such business: Sievers v. Dalles etc. Navigation Co., 24 Wash. 302.

A citizen of another state may maintain an action against a nonresident corporation, where no unfair advantage is sought and defendant has property in this state: Hunter v. Wenatchee Land Co., 36 Wash. 541.

Where an action was commenced against a corporation in the wrong county, in which it had no agent or place of business, the fact that another proper party defendant was served in another county and defaulted does not confer jurisdiction over the corporation, when it is not made to appear that the consenting co-defendant was a resident of the county in which the action was brought: Whitman v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 49 Wash. 150.

§ 207. (4855.) Venue in Cases not Before Specified.

In all other cases the action must be tried in the county in which the defendants, or some of them, reside at the time of the commencement of the action, or may be served with process, subject, however, to the power of the court to change the place of trial, as provided in the next two succeeding sections. [Cf. L. '54, p. 133, § 15; L. '60, p. 7, § 17; L. '69, p. 13, § 51; L. '75, p. 5, § 6; L. '77, p. 11, § 51; Cd. '81, § 50; L. '91, p. 71, § 1; 2 H. C., § 161.]

See next two succeeding sections and notes.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2844, §§ 8, 9.

This section provides for two classes of defendants, namely, all those having a place of residence in same county within the state, and all those who are not residents of the state: Kennedy v. Derrickson, 5 Wash. 289.

By virtue of this section a resident of any county is given the right to have actions against him tried in his home county, even although he may be served in another county: Id., 291.

The right to have the case tried in the county of his residence is an absolute one, subject only to certain exceptions: State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 668.

A judge, although having more than one county in his judicial district, cannot try an application for alimony except in the county where the divorce suit was instituted: State ex rel. Clark v. Neal, 19 Wash. 642.

An action for the enforcement of a trust, and an accounting thereunder, is a transitory one, irrespective of the fact that the action will take effect upon real property: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 306.

The fact that certain persons named as defendants are proper, but not necessary, parties will not deprive the principal defendant in a transitory action from obtaining a transfer to the county of his residence for trial: Id.

A defendant in a divorce case is not entitled to have the case removed to the county in which he resides: Bachelor v. Bachelor, 30 Wash. 639.

ACTIONS, TRANSITORY.—An action to recover unpaid purchase money due upon a conveyance of real estate is a transitory one, and cannot be made local by the prayer of the complaint that the sum due be declared a first lien on the premises and that they be sold to satisfy the same, since, in the absence of a reservation of a vendor's lien by agreement between the parties, such lien is not recognized in this state: Smith v. Allen, 18 Wash. 1.

§ 208. (4856.) Proceeding When Action Commenced in Wrong County.

If the county in which the action is commenced is not the proper county for the trial thereof, the action may, notwithstanding, be tried therein, unless the defendant, at the time he appears and demurs or answers, files an affidavit of merits, and demands that the trial be had in the proper county. [Cf. L. '75, p. 5, § 7; L. '77, p. 11, § 51; Cd. '81, § 50; L. '91, p. 78, § 1; 2 H. C., § 162.]

See note to next section.

See notes to last section.

See supra, § 204, when action to be commenced.

This section does not apply to actions enumerated in § 204, supra.

Cited in 5 Wash. 291, 519, 521; 10 Wash. 149, 150; 15 Wash. 367; 26 Wash. 404; 45 Wash. 29.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2846, 2847, §§ 16, 20, 23.

The provisions of this section apply only to transitory actions, and not to such as are local in their nature, hence actions for injuries to real property must be tried in the county where the property is situated: McLeod v. Ellis, 2 Wash. 117.

But see Carkeek v. Boston Nat. Bank, 16 Wash. 399.

If a defendant file an affidavit required by this section the court of the county in which the action is brought is without jurisdiction to try the cause, and a writ of prohibition will lie if the trial be attempted: State v. Superior Court, 5 Wash. 518; North Yakima v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 655, 661; Campbell v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 306; Allen v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 668. Overruled in State ex rel. Miller v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 555. See, also, State ex rel. LaFurgey, 47 Wash. 154; State ex rel. Martin v. Hinkle, 47 Wash. 156, holding remedy is by appeal; see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2847, § 24.

The fact that a defendant, at the time of filing his affidavit, makes demand for a bill of particulars instead of demurring or answering, is held a substantial compliance with the statute: State v. Superior Court, supra.

A motion for change of venue is not waived by failure to renew it after the filing of an amended complaint: Kennedy v. Derrickson, 5 Wash. 289.

Objection to the jurisdiction of the court, after its refusal to grant a change of venue to the county of defendant's residence, is waived by a general appearance asking leave to file a demurrer, also by motion to vacate a default judgment, and also by a motion for a new trial on the ground of accident and surprise: Seaton v. Cook, 45 Wash. 27.

A party entitled to a change of venue under this section, because sued in a county other than that of his residence, does not, after having made proper demand for change, waive his right thereto by failing to appear at the time a ruling is had upon his application: State v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 366.

Where it appears from defendant's affidavit of merits for removal of a cause that he is entitled to file an answer which will raise issues for trial, the affidavit is sufficient: Allen v. Superior Court, supra.

The application for transfer, made by all the defendants who had been served at the time, is not objectionable because of the fact, before its determination, another defendant is served, but has failed to join therein: Id.

Where a motion for transfer has been made, upon a sufficient affidavit, the failure of applicant to appear at the time set for hearing of the motion affords no ground for denying the same: Id.

Where all the defendants live in another county it is a matter of right to have their motion for change of venue granted: Smith v. Allen, 18 Wash. 1. A motion for change of venue is too late if interposed at close of plaintiff's case, notwithstanding the case as to the only resident defendant was then dismissed, there being no showing that he was made a party in bad faith: Rector v. Thompson, 26 Wash. 400.

§ 209. (4857.) Grounds Authorizing Change of Venue.

The court may, on motion, in the following cases, change the place of trial, when it appears by affidavit or other satisfactory proof,—

1. That the county designated in the complaint is not the proper county; or
2. That there is reason to believe that an impartial trial cannot be had therein; or
3. That the convenience of witnesses or the ends of justice would be forwarded by the change; or

4. That from any cause the judge is disqualified; which disqualification exists in either of the following cases: In an action or proceeding to which he is a party, or in which he is interested; when he is related to either party by consanguinity or affinity within the third degree; when he has been of counsel for either party in the action or proceeding. [Cf. L. '54, p. 134, § 16; L. '69, p. 13, § 52; L. '75, p. 6, § 8; L. '77, p. 12, § 52; Cd. '81, § 51; 2 H. C., § 163.]

See infra, §§ 2018, 2019, change of venue in criminal cases.

Cited in 2 Wash. 120; 3 Wash. 695; 10 Wash. 149; 19 Wash. 13; 40 Wash. 446.

As to grounds for change in venue, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2845-2847, §§ 10-24.

A change of place of trial, on account of local prejudice, rests solely in the discretion of the court. It may, of its own motion, examine as to public feeling, and properly make inquiry of the jurors touching the same: Ward v. Moorey, 1 W. T. 104.

This section should be liberally construed so far as same pertains to an impartial trial, convenience and justice: State ex rel. Wyman, Partridge & Co. v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 443.

A motion for a change of venue on the ground that the convenience of witnesses and ends of justice would be forwarded thereby is addressed to the discretion of the court, and where such discretion has not been abused, the order of the court denying the motion will not be disturbed: State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 673. See, also, State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111.

Although a judge may be disqualified under subdivision 4 of this section, he is, nevertheless, authorized to grant a change of venue, and may approve an agreement of the parties for the appointment of a judge pro tempore: State v. Sachs, 3 Wash. 691.

Where the judge is interested financially in the result of a case, although it may not render him legally responsible, and is biased in favor of one of the parties, his failure to grant a change of venue is an abuse of discretion: Burnett v. Ashmore, 5 Wash. 163.

A judge is disqualified if he has prejudged the case: State ex rel. Barnard v. Board, 19 Wash. 8. But the interest of a county does not disqualify the county commissioners from determining a contest over the establishing of a drain: O'Connell v. Baker, 35 Wash. 376.

§ 210. (4858.) To What Venue Changed—Only One Allowed.

If a motion for a change of the place of trial be allowed, the change shall be made to the county where the action ought to have been commenced, if it be for the cause mentioned in subdivision one of the last preceding section, and in other cases to the most convenient county where the cause alleged does not exist. Neither party shall be entitled to more than one change of the place of trial, except for causes not in existence when the first change was allowed. [L. '69, p. 14, § 53; L. '77, p. 12, § 53; Cd. '81, § 52; 2 H. C., § 164.]

§ 211. (4859.) Change to Newly Created County.

Any party in a civil action pending in the superior court in a county out of whose limits a new county, in whole or in part, has been created, may file with the clerk of such superior court an affidavit setting forth that he is a resident of such newly created county, and that the venue of such action is transitory, or that the venue of such action is local, and that it ought properly to be tried in such newly created county; and thereupon the clerk shall make out a transcript of the proceedings already had in such action in such superior court, and certify it under the seal of the court, and transmit such transcript, together with the papers on file in his office connected with such action, to the clerk of the superior court of such newly created county, wherein it shall be proceeded with as in other cases. [Cf. L. '54, p. 377, § 2; L. '69, p. 14, § 54; L. '77, p. 12, § 54; Cd. '81, § 53; L. '91, p. 72, § 2; 2 H. C., § 165.]

§ 215. (4860.) Transmission of Record on Change—Costs.

When an order is made transferring an action or proceeding for trial, the clerk of the court must transmit the pleadings and papers therein to the court to which it is transferred. The costs and fees thereof, and of filing the papers anew, must be paid by the party at whose instance the order was made, except in the cases mentioned in subdivision one, section 209, in which case the plaintiff shall pay costs of transfer. The court to which an action or proceeding is transferred has and exercises over the same the like jurisdiction as if it had been originally commenced therein. [L. '69, p. 14, §§ 55, 56; L. '75, p. 7, § 10; L. '77, p. 12, § 55; Cd. '81, § 54; 2 H. C., § 166.]

See notes to § 208, supra.

Cited in 25 Wash. 348.

Under this section, an information is amendable by the prosecuting attorney, on leave of the court of another county to which the prosecution has been transferred: State v. Lyts, 25 Wash. 347.

§ 216. (4861.) Change by Stipulation.

Notwithstanding the provisions of section 209, all the parties to the action by stipulation in writing or by consent in open court entered in the records may agree that the place of trial be changed to any county of the state, and thereupon the court must order the change agreed upon. [L. '77, p. 13, § 56; Cd. '81, § 55; 2 H. C., § 167.]

As to sufficient stipulation showing parties had agreed to change of venue, see Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517.

§ 217. (4862.) Effect of Neglect of Moving Party.

If such papers be not transmitted to the clerk of the proper court within the time prescribed in the order allowing the change, and the delay be caused by the act or omission of the party procuring the change, the adverse party, on motion to the court or judge thereof, may have the order vacated, and thereafter no other change of the place of trial shall be allowed to such party. [Cf.

L. '54, p. 135, § 21; L. '69, p. 15, § 57; L. '77, p. 13, § 57; Cd. '81, § 56; 2 H. C., § 168.]

§ 218. (4863.) When Change Deemed Complete.

Upon the filing of the papers with the clerk of the court to which the cause is transferred, the change of venue shall be deemed complete, and thereafter the action shall proceed as though it had been commenced in that court. [L. '54, p. 135, § 22; L. '69, p. 15, § 58; L. '77, p. 13, § 58; Cd. '81, § 57; 2 H. C., § 169.]

§ 219. (4864.) Clerk must Certify Entries with Transcript.

The clerk of the court must also transmit with the original papers, where an order is made changing the place of trial, a certified transcript of all record entries up to and including the order for change. [L. '77, p. 13, § 59; Cd. '81, § 58; 2 H. C., § 170.]

CHAPTER VI.

MANNER OF COMMENCING ACTIONS.

§ 220. (4869.) Service of Summons.

Civil actions in the several superior courts of this state shall be commenced by the service of a summons, as hereinafter provided, or by filing a complaint with the county clerk as clerk of the court: Provided, that unless service has been had on the defendant prior to the filing of the complaint, the plaintiff shall cause one or more of the defendants to be served personally, or commence service by publication within ninety days from the date of filing the complaint. [L. '93, p. 407, § 1; L. '95, p. 170, § 1.]

See generally for legislation on this subject: L. '54, pp. 135-138; L. '57, pp. 8-10; L. '59, pp. 8-11; L. '63, pp. 90-93; L. '69, pp. 5-19; L. '71, pp. 16-21; L. '73, pp. 16-21; L. '77, pp. 13-17; Cd. '81, §§ 59-72; L. '88, pp. 24-28; L. '91, pp. 99-102; 2 H. C., §§ 171-183.

See infra, § 647, and notes, attachments.

See infra, § 817 et seq., complaint and summons in forcible entry and detainer.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2357-2359, §§ 1-10.

This chapter as enacted in the Laws of 1893 does not violate the constitutional inhibition against more than one subject being embraced in the bill: McMaster v. Thresher Co., 10 Wash. 147; Merritt v. Corey, 22 Wash. 444.

Under the Laws of 1888, page 24, jurisdiction could be obtained of the person of defendant by service upon him of the summons prescribed in the act and without the service of the complaint in the action, its filing with the clerk being sufficient: Baldwin v. Baer, 10 Wash. 414, following Spokane Falls v. Curry, 2 Wash. 541.

Summons filed in "superior court of Pierce county," requiring defendant to appear in "superior court of the state of Washington for the county of Pierce, holding terms at Tacoma," is not a prejudicial variance: Ralph v. Lomer, 3 Wash. 401.

As to effect of repeal of law governing commencement of actions, see City of Seattle v. O'Connell, 16 Wash. 625.

Service by publication must be commenced within ninety days after filing complaint, and a second publication after that time upon quashing the first is not sufficient: Denning Inv. Co. v. Ely, 21 Wash. 102. See, also, Fuhrman v. Power, 43 Wash. 533. But where part of the defendants are residents and are served personally, it is not essential that publication as to nonresidents be commenced within ninety days, if there is no unreasonable delay: Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524.

Where a complaint is filed in the office of the clerk of the court within five days after service of summons, the service of a copy of the complaint may be omitted:

Mounts v. Goranson, 29 Wash. 261. A judgment is not void for want of jurisdiction because of the failure to file the complaint: Snohomish Land Co. v. Blood, 40 Wash. 626; In re Sullivan's Estate, 40 Wash. 202. As to sufficiency of filing, see Snohomish Land Co. v. Blood, 40 Wash. 626.

§ 221. (4870.) Summons, How Issued.

The summons must be subscribed by the plaintiff or his attorney, and directed to the defendant requiring him to answer the complaint, and serve a copy of his answer on the person whose name is subscribed to the summons, at a place within the state therein specified in which there is a postoffice, within twenty days after the service of the summons, exclusive of the day of service. [L. '93, p. 407, § 2.]

See references to last section.

Cited in 31 Wash. 345; 35 Wash. 280.

The act of 1893, embraced in this chapter, repeals and supersedes all former laws on the subject, and fixes the time for answer in response to summons as twenty days in all cases: McMaster v. Thresher Co., 10 Wash. 147. See, also, Merritt v. Corey, 22 Wash. 444.

Nonresident attorneys may issue summons if admitted to the bar of this state and provided the summons specifies a place in this state where the answer may be served: See Wagnitz v. Ritter, 31 Wash. 343.

§ 222. (4871.) Contents of Summons.

The summons shall also contain,—

1. The title of the cause, specifying the name of the court in which the action is brought, the name of the county designated by the plaintiff as the place of trial, and the names of the parties to the action, plaintiff and defendant;
2. A direction to the defendants summoning them to appear within twenty days after service of the summons, exclusive of the day of service, and defend the action;
3. A notice that, in case of failure so to do, judgment will be rendered against them, according to the demand of the complaint. It shall be subscribed by the plaintiff, or his attorney, with the addition of his postoffice address, at which the papers in the action may be served on him by mail. There may, at the option of the plaintiff, be added at the foot, when the complaint is not served with the summons, and the only relief sought is the recovery of the money, whether upon tort or contract, a brief notice specifying the sum to be demanded by the complaint. [L. '93, p. 407, § 3.]

v. Canadian etc. Co., 42 Wash. 457; De Corvet v. Dolan, 7 Wash. 365; Goore v. Goore, 24 Wash. 139.

§ 223. (4872.) Form of Summons.

Such summons shall be substantially in the following form:—

— COURT, — COUNTY.

A B, Plaintiff,

vs.

C D, Defendant.

The state of Washington, —, to the said —, defendant: You are hereby summoned to appear within twenty days after service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and defend the above entitled action in the court aforesaid; and in case of your failure so to do, judgment will be rendered against you, according to the demand of the complaint, which will be filed with the clerk of said court, or a copy of which is herewith served upon you.

E F, Plaintiff's Attorney.

P. O. Address, — County, Wash.

See references to §§ 220, 222, supra.

Cited in 31 Wash. 345; 35 Wash. 280.

A summons in substantial compliance with this form is good as against a general objection, first raised on appeal: Wagnitz v. Ritter, 31 Wash. 343.

§ 224. (4873.) Summons to be Accompanied by Copy of Complaint, When.

A copy of the complaint must be served upon the defendant with the summons unless the complaint itself be filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the action is commenced within five days after service of such summons, in which case the service of the copy may be omitted; but the summons in such case must notify the defendant that the complaint will be filed with the clerk of said court; and if the defendant appear within ten days after the service of the summons, the plaintiff must serve a copy of the complaint on the defendant or his attorney within ten days after the notice of such appearance, and the defendant shall have at least ten days thereafter to answer the same; and no judgment shall be entered against him for want of an answer in such case till the expiration of the time.

Where a summons and complaint had been served and the summons was quashed, the serving of an alias summons and notice that complaint had been filed is sufficient: Mounts v. Goranson, 29 Wash. 261.

§ 225. (4874.) Who Shall Serve Summons—Exception.

In all cases, except when service is made by publication, as hereinafter provided, the summons shall be served by the sheriff of the county wherein the service is made or by his deputy, or by any person over twenty-one years of age, who is competent to be a witness in the action, other than the plaintiff.

See references to § 220, supra.

Cited in 27 Wash. 173; 44 Wash. 306.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2359, §§ 13, 14.

Where the sheriff is disqualified, a writ of garnishment may be served by a private person: Russell v. Millett, 20 Wash. 212.

Under this section, an individual who acts in place of the sheriff in making service of summons, has no more power than the sheriff to modify the written terms of summons, unless authorized by the plaintiff: Washington Mill Co. v. Marks, 27 Wash. 170.

§ 226. (4875.) Manner of Service of Summons.

The summons shall be served by delivering a copy thereof, as follows:—

1. If the action be against any county in this state, to the county auditor;
2. If against any town or incorporated city in the state, to the mayor thereof;
3. If against a school district, to the clerk thereof;
4. If against a railroad corporation, to any station, freight, ticket or other agent thereof within this state;

5. If against a corporation owning or operating sleeping cars, or hotel cars, to any person having charge of any of its cars or any agent found within the state;

6. If against an insurance company, to any agent authorized by such company to solicit insurance within this state;

7. If against a company or corporation doing any express business, to any agent authorized by said company or corporation to receive and deliver express matters and collect pay therefor within this state;

8. If the suit be against a company or corporation other than those designated in the preceding subdivisions of this section, to the president or other head of the company or corporation, secretary, cashier or managing agent thereof;

9. If the suit be against a foreign corporation or nonresident joint stock company or association doing business within this state, to any agent, cashier or secretary thereof;

10. If against a minor under the age of fourteen years, to such minor personally, and also to his father, mother, guardian, or if there be none within this state, then to any person having the care or control of such minor, or with whom he resides, or in whose service he is employed, if such there be;

11. If against any person for whom a guardian has been appointed for any cause, then to such guardian;

12. In all other cases, to the defendant personally, or by leaving a copy of the summons at the house of his usual abode with some person of suitable age and discretion then resident therein. Service made in the modes provided in this section shall be taken and held to be personal service;

13. Whenever any domestic or foreign corporation, which has been doing business in this state, has been placed in the hands of a receiver and the receiver is in possession of any of the property or assets of such corporation, service of all process upon such corporation may be made upon the receiver thereof. [L. '93, p. 408, § 7; L. '97, p. 284, § 1.]

See references to § 220, supra.

See infra, notes to § 3720.

See notes to preceding section.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2359-2361, §§ 15-21.

Under subdivision 8 of this section, service of summons upon the agent of a domestic corporation in charge of a branch store of his principal is not sufficient: Osborne v. Columbia etc. Corp., 9 Wash. 666; and the fact that defendant corporation had knowledge of the pendency of the suit will not dispense with the necessity for proper service: Id. See, also, Bennett v. Supreme Tent etc. Maccabees, 40 Wash. 431.

But after general appearance party is in court for all purposes: French v. Ajax Oil & Development Co., 44 Wash. 308.

Under 2 Hill's Code, § 173, in order to obtain jurisdiction of a school district, service of process must be had on the clerk of the district; service on an individual member of the board is not sufficient: Downs v. Board of Directors, 4 Wash. 309.

Although a defendant may acknowledge service of process upon him in writing, the court will not take judicial notice of his signature, and, in the absence of any appearance by him, proof must be made of its genuineness: Id. And after appearance, judicial notice of defendant's acceptance of service of notices will be taken without proof of genuineness of signature of defendant: Tischner v. Rutledge, 35 Wash. 285. See, also, Neff v. Neff, 32 Wash. 82. Service on an infant is valid although not specifying her Christian name, if the record shows she was the only person to whom summons could refer: Gravelle v. Canadian etc. Mtg. & T. Co., 42 Wash. 457.

Service on a mayor and council binds their successors in office: Waldron v. Snohomish, 41 Wash. 566.

Service of one copy of summons upon the father, in an action in which his three minor children were defendants, was sufficient, where a copy was left with each of the minors, since the object of the service is notice, and one copy served on the father would answer that purpose as well as an increased number of copies: Morrison v. Morrison, 25 Wash. 467.

Subdivisions 7 and 8 of above section have no application to partnerships: Coughlin v. Pinkerton, 41 Wash. 500.

As to service by leaving copy of summons at residence of defendant, see Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Northwestern & P. H. Bank v. Ridpath, 29 Wash. 687.

§ 227. (4876.) Service of Summons on Corporation.

Whenever any corporation, created by the laws of this state, or late territory of Washington, does not have an officer in this state upon whom legal service of process can be made, an action or proceeding against such corporation may be commenced in any county where the cause of action may arise, or said corporation may have property, and service may be made upon such corporation by depositing a copy of the summons, writ, or other process, in the office of the secretary of state, which shall be taken, deemed and treated as personal service on such corporation: Provided, a copy of said summons, writ, or other process, shall be deposited in the postoffice, postage paid, directed to the secretary or other proper officer of such corporation, at the place where the main business of such corporation is transacted, when such place of business is known to the plaintiff, and be published at least once a week for six weeks in some newspaper printed and published at the seat of government of this state, before such service shall be deemed perfect. [L. '93, p. 409, § 8.]

See references to § 220, supra.

See supra, § 206, venue of actions against corporations.

See note to preceding section.

Service of summons upon an officer of a foreign corporation, who is temporarily present in the state, will not confer jurisdiction over the corporation, when the latter has never done any business in the state, nor maintained an office for that purpose nor appointed an officer or agent in the state for any purpose whatever: Carstens v. Leidigh, 18 Wash. 450.

Service on a soliciting agent of a foreign railway is not service on the company: Rich v. Chicago B. & Q. R. Co., 34 Wash. 14.

§ 228. (4877.) Service of Summons by Publication.

When the defendant cannot be found within the state, (of which the return of the sheriff of the county in which the action is brought, that the defendant cannot be found in the county, is prima facie evidence), and upon the filing of an affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, with the clerk of the court, stating that he believes that the defendant is not a resident of the state, or cannot be found therein, and that he has deposited a copy of the summons and complaint in the postoffice, directed to the defendant at his place of residence, unless it is stated in the affidavit that such residence is not known to the affiant, and stating the existence of one of the cases hereinafter specified, the service may be made by publication of the summons, by the plaintiff or his attorney in either of the following cases:—

1. When the defendant is a foreign corporation, and has property within the state;

2. When the defendant, being a resident of this state, has departed therefrom with intent to defraud his creditors, or to avoid the service of a summons, or keeps himself concealed therein with like intent;

3. When the defendant is not a resident of the state, but has property therein and the court has jurisdiction of the subject of the action;

4. When the action is for divorce in the cases prescribed by law;
5. When the subject of the action is real or personal property in this state, and the defendant has or claims a lien or interest, actual or contingent, therein, or the relief demanded consists wholly, or partly, in excluding the defendant from any interest or lien therein;
6. When the action is to foreclose, satisfy, or redeem from a mortgage, or to enforce a lien of any kind on real estate in the county where the action is brought, or satisfy or redeem from the same;
7. When the action is against any corporation, whether private or municipal, organized under the laws of this state and the proper officers on whom to make service do not exist or cannot be found. [L. '93, p. 410, § 9.]

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2361-2363, §§ 22-30.

Under the Laws of 1877, page 15, § 65, an affidavit stating that defendant resides out of the territory is sufficient to authorize service by publication: De Corvet v. Dolan, 7 Wash. 365.

Jurisdiction, when service by publication, dependent upon a strict compliance with the terms of the statute: State v. Superior Ct., 6 Wash. 352.

Affidavit for publication is jurisdictional, but need not state residence: Goore v. Goore, 24 Wash. 139. No judicial determination or order of court is required: Id.

And the affidavit is sufficient if it states conclusions: Id. See, also, Mosley v. Donnell, 42 Wash. 518.

It is immaterial that a sheriff's return of "not found" was dated prior to the commencement of the action: Allen v. Peterson, 38 Wash. 599.

Affidavits held sufficient: See Kahn v. Thorpe, 43 Wash. 463; Bardon v. Hughes, 45 Wash. 627.

Constructive service by publication is sufficient to give validity to a sale of cattle impounded in accordance with an ordinance of a city: Shook v. Sexton, 37 Wash. 509.

Where plaintiff knew a nonresident defendant's postoffice address, service by publication without mailing a copy of the summons confers no jurisdiction, although plaintiff made affidavit that he did not know defendant's "residence"; and the judgment is properly vacated for fraud: Noble v. Aune, 50 Wash. 73.

This section applies to tax foreclosures, under § 9255, infra: Williams v. Pittock, 35 Wash. 271; Bailey v. Hood, 38 Wash. 394.

A summons for publication requiring the defendant to appear within sixty days after a specified date is "substantially" in the form prescribed by this section, the omission of reference to the first publication being immaterial where the date thereof itself is given: Stubbs v. Continental Timber Co., 49 Wash. 431.

Service by publication in condemnation proceedings against nonresidents is authorized: Moynahan v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 172; State ex rel. Thomas v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 521. In divorce cases it is not necessary that the affidavit for publication describe the property involved: Goore v. Goore, 24 Wash. 139. An affidavit for publication stating that affiant is one of the attorneys of plaintiff will be presumed as stating the truth if not negatived by the record, even if affiant's name is not signed to the complaint as attorney in the case: Swanson v. Hoyle, 32 Wash. 169.

The publication of summons, in a foreclosure proceeding prior to filing the affidavit, is a mere irregularity, and is insufficient on a collateral attack to warrant any finding against the validity of the decree: Tilton v. O'Shea, 31 Wash. 513.

A garnishee cannot object that judgment was rendered against the principal defendant, who was out of the state, on service by publication: Holford v. Trewella, 36 Wash. 654.

Presumption as to validity of service by publication by recital in judgment: See Christofferson v. Pfennig, 16 Wash. 491.

Subdivision 4 of this section authorizes summons by publication in actions for annulment of the marriage: Piper v. Piper, 46 Wash. 371.

§ 229. Process Against "Unknown Heirs."

When the heirs of any deceased person are proper parties defendant to any action relating to real property in this state, and when the names and residences of such heirs are unknown, such heirs may be proceeded against under the name and title of "The unknown heirs" of the deceased. [L. '03, p. 277, § 1.]

See infra, § 239, unknown parties in condemnation proceedings.
See infra, § 306, defendant designated by fictitious name.

§ 230. Affidavit as to Unknown Heirs—Publication of Summons.

Upon presenting an affidavit to the court or judge, showing to his satisfaction that the heirs of such deceased person are proper parties to the action, and that their names and residences cannot with use of reasonable diligence be ascertained, such court or judge may grant an order that service of the summons in such action be made on such "Unknown heirs" by publication thereof in the same manner as in actions against nonresident defendants. [L. '03, p. 278, § 2.]

§ 231. Title of Cause—Unknown Claimants—Service of Summons.

In any action brought to determine any adverse claim, estate, lien, or interest in real property, or to quiet title to real property, the plaintiff may include as a defendant in such action, and insert in the title thereof, in addition to the names of such persons or parties as appear of record to have, and other persons or parties who are known to have, some title, claim, estate, lien, or interest in the lands in controversy, the following, viz.: "Also all other persons or parties unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien, or interest in the real estate described in the complaint herein." And service of summons may be had upon all such unknown persons or parties defendant by publication as provided by law in case of nonresident defendants. [L. '03, p. 278, § 3.]

§ 232. Judgment—Rights of Unknown Heirs and Parties.

All such unknown heirs of deceased persons, and all such unknown persons or parties, so served by publication as in the preceding section of this act, provided, shall have the same rights as are provided by law in case of all other defendants upon whom service is made by publication, and the action shall proceed against such unknown heirs, or unknown persons or parties, in the same manner as against defendants, who are named, upon whom service is made by publication, and with like effect; and any such unknown heirs or unknown persons or parties who have or claim any right, estate, lien, or interest in the said real property in controversy, at the time of the commencement of the action, duly served as aforesaid, shall be bound and concluded by the judgment in such action, if the same is in favor of the plaintiff therein as effectually as if the action was brought against such defendant by his or her name and constructive service of summons obtained: Provided, however, That such judgments shall not bind such unknown heirs, or unknown persons or parties, defendant, unless the plaintiff shall file a notice of lis pendens in the office of the auditor of each county in which said real estate is located, in the manner provided by law, before commencing the publication of said summons. [L. '03, p. 278, § 4.]

§ 233. (4878.) Manner of Publication and Form of Summons.

The publication shall be made in a newspaper printed and published in the county where the action is brought (and if there be no newspaper in the county, then in a newspaper printed and published in an adjoining county, and if there is no such newspaper in an adjoining county, then in a newspaper printed and published at the capital of the state) once a week for six consecutive weeks: Provided, that publication of summons shall not be had until after the filing of the complaint, and the service of the summons shall be deemed complete at the expiration of the time prescribed for publication as aforesaid. The summons must be subscribed by the plaintiff or his attorney or attorneys. The summons shall contain the date of the first publication, and shall require the defendant or defendants upon whom service by publication is desired, to appear and answer the complaint within sixty days from the date of the first publication of such summons; and said summons for publication shall also contain a brief statement of the object of the action. Said summons for publication shall be substantially as follows:—

In the superior court of the state of Washington for the county of _____ _____, Plaintiff, vs. No. _____
_____, Defendant.

The state of Washington to the said (naming the defendant or defendants to be served by publication):

As to manner of procedure if law regarding publication of summons is changed during time a summons is being published, see Woodham v. Anderson, 32 Wash. 500.

In a divorce summons by publication it is sufficient to state generally as to the relief demanded regarding property of the parties: See Goore v. Goore, 24 Wash. 139.

A summons requiring the defendant to appear within sixty days after the service of the summons does not comply with this section and is void: Thompson v. Robbins, 32 Wash. 149; Smith v. White, 32 Wash. 414; Woodham v. Anderson, 32 Wash. 500; Young v. Droz, 38 Wash. 648; Dolan v. Jones, 37 Wash. 176; Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244; Stoll v. Griffith, 41 Wash. 37; *Owen v. Under this and the following section a nonresident defendant is not entitled to have a default set aside, and to defend as a matter of right at any time before judgment, except upon sufficient cause shown: Strunz v. Hood, 44 Wash. 99.

A summons is sufficiently "subscribed" although the signature is printed: Warner v. Miner, 41 Wash. 98.

A summons is void, if it fails to state the year of the date of the first publication: McLean v. Lester, 48 Wash. 213.

§ 234. (4879.) Personal Service Out of State.

Personal service on the defendant out of the state shall be equivalent to service by publication, and the summons upon the defendant out of the state shall contain the same as personal summons within the state, except it shall require the defendant to appear and answer within sixty days after such personal service out of the state. [L. '93, p. 411, § 11; L. '95, p. 172, § 3.]

Under this section no affidavit as required for publication of summons is necessary where the court has assumed control of the property of the parties within this state: Jennings v. Rocky Bar Gold Min. Co., 29 Wash. 726.

The service on defendant outside of the state of a summons in the statutory form is not defective by reason of the clause requiring defendant to appear in twenty days if served in state: Lawyer Land Co. v. Steel, 41 Wash. 411.

Under Laws 1905, page 86, personal service on a defendant outside of state is authorized in condemnation proceedings: State ex rel. Thomas v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 521.

§ 235. (4880.) If No Personal Service, Who may Appear—Opening Default.

If the summons is not served personally on the defendant in the cases provided in the last two sections, he or his representatives, on application and sufficient cause shown, at any time before judgment, shall be allowed to defend the action and, except in an action for divorce, the defendant or his representative may in like manner be allowed to defend after judgment, and within one year after the rendition of such judgment, on such terms as may be just; and if the defense is successful, and the judgment, or any part thereof, has been collected or otherwise enforced, such restitution may thereupon be compelled as the court directs. [L. '93, p. 411, § 12.]

See notes to § 233, supra.

See references to § 220, supra.

This section by inadvertence says "last two sections," when it should refer to the last three sections.

Wash. 352; Montgomery v. Manning, 1 W. T. 434.

Under this section, a nonresident defendant, served by publication in a tax lien foreclosure, is not entitled to the vacation of a default judgment within one year as a matter of right, but good cause must be shown: Whitney v. Knowlton, 33 Wash. 319.

Default divorce decree on service by publication cannot be set aside on that ground alone: See Metler v. Metler, 32 Wash. 494.

§ 236. (4881.) Service on Joint Defendants.

When the action is against two or more defendants and the summons is served on one or more but not on all of them, the plaintiff may proceed as follows:—

1. If the action is against the defendants jointly indebted upon a contract, he may proceed against the defendants served unless the court otherwise directs; and if he recovers judgment it may be entered against all the defendants thus jointly indebted so far only as it may be enforced against the joint property of all and the separate property of the defendants served;

2. If the action is against defendants severally liable, he may proceed against the defendants served in the same manner as if they were the only defendants;

3. Though all the defendants may have been served with the summons, judgment may be taken against any of them severally, when the plaintiff would be entitled to judgment against such defendants if the action had been against them alone. [L. '93, p. 411, § 13.]

The subsequent appearance of another defendant after issues joined and the case set for trial as to some of the defendants, upon whom prior service had been had, will not entitle the latter, under this section, to have the case delayed for the making up of issues as to the defendant subsequently appearing: National Bank v. Galland, 14 Wash. 502.

Joint debtors, service on: See Livingston v. Lovgren, 27 Wash. 102.

§ 237. (4882.) Proof of Service.

Proof of service shall be as follows:—

1. If served by the sheriff or his deputy, the return of such sheriff or his deputy indorsed upon or attached to the summons;

2. If by any other person, his affidavit thereof indorsed upon or attached to the summons; or

3. In case of publication, the affidavit of the printer, publisher, foreman, principal clerk or business manager of the newspaper showing the same, together with a printed copy of the summons as published; or

4. The written admission of the defendant;

5. In case of personal service out of the state, the affidavit of the person making the service, sworn to before a notary public, with a seal attached, or a clerk of a court of record. In case of service otherwise than by publication, the return, admission or affidavit must state the time, place and manner of service. [L. '93, p. 412, § 14.]

Under the law of 1871, civil practice act, § 66, the sheriff was authorized, in ejectment, to serve the subpoena on the defendant to answer the complaint, and his certificate as to the facts of such service was sufficient proof: Parker v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 190.

No waiver of first service is shown by fact that defendant refused to accept service in writing from a private party, and thereafter service was made by the coroner: Russell v. Millett, 20 Wash. 212.

As to what must be shown by sheriff's return of service on a foreign corporation doing business in this state, see Cunningham v. Spokane Hydraulic Co., 18 Wash. 524.

As to sufficiency of return of service on board of county commissioners, see State Savings Bank v. Davis, 22 Wash. 406.

A return of service which recites that service was made on defendant by leaving a copy with father of defendant at his usual place of residence is insufficient: Mitchell, Lewis & Staver Co. v. O'Neil, 16 Wash. 108.

An affidavit attached to an original summons reciting that defendant was served by delivering to his wife at his usual place of residence copy of complaint and summons is insufficient to give court jurisdiction over him: Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318.

Proof of service is sufficient, although made in two affidavits, one showing service on defendants, and the other showing qualifications of party making the service: State ex rel. Thomas v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 521.

The return of service on a summons that it was left at the usual abode of defendant does not import that he had another residence elsewhere: Northwestern & P. H. Bank v. Ridpath, 29 Wash. 687.

The statements in a sheriff's return reciting facts not within his knowledge are not conclusive: Mitchell, Lewis & Staver Co. v. O'Neil, supra.

The return of sheriff that he made service by leaving copy with a person of suitable age at the residence of defendant, is subject to attack upon the question of residence: Krutz v. Isaacs, 25 Wash. 566.

Court should not set aside service prima facie sufficient except upon clear and convincing proof: Northwestern & P. H. Bank v. Ridpath, supra.

Although the document purporting to be an affidavit is not sworn to, it will be presumed nevertheless that service was made and that the court had jurisdiction: Boyle v. Superior Court, 19 Wash. 128.

An attorney cannot accept service of an original process for his client except under special authority: Ashcraft v. Powers, 22 Wash. 440.

The irregularity of service on holiday is waived by an acceptance of service: McClellan v. Gaston, 31 Wash. 515.

Proof of service of summons by affidavit must show that the person making the service was twenty-one years of age at the time the service was made, and proof that he was of age when the affidavit was made is insufficient: French v. Ajax Oil & Development Co., 44 Wash. 305.

§ 238. (4883.) Jurisdiction Acquired, When.

From the time of the commencement of the action by service of summons, or by the filing of a complaint, or as otherwise provided, the court is deemed to have acquired jurisdiction and to have control of all subsequent proceedings. A voluntary appearance of a defendant is equivalent to a personal service of the summons upon him. [L. '93, p. 412, § 15; L. '95, p. 172, § 4.]

A general appearance cures defects in service: Mulholland v. Washington Match

Co., 35 Wash. 315; McClellan v. Gaston, 18 Wash. 472. See, also, Filley v. Murphy, 30 Wash. 1.

§ 239. (4884.) Publication of Notice in Exercise of Eminent Domain.

If a party having or claiming a share or interest in or lien upon any property sought to be appropriated for public use be unknown, and such fact be made to appear by affidavit filed in the office of the clerk of the court, the notice required by law in such cases may be served by publication as in the case of nonresident owners, and such notice shall be directed by name to every owner of a share or interest in or lien upon the property sought to be so appropriated, and generally to all persons unknown having or claiming an interest or estate in the property or any portion thereof, and all such unknown parties shall in all papers and proceedings be designated as "unknown owners," and shall be bound by the provisions and be entitled to the benefits of the judgment the same as if they had been known and duly named. [L. '95, p. 352, § 1.]

See supra, § 233, manner of publication.

See infra, § 891 et seq., eminent domain.

§ 240. (4885.) Selection of Newspaper—Evidence of Payment.

In any suit or proceeding, in any court of this state, requiring a legal publication, said publication shall be made in any newspaper, of general circulation in the county, designated by the party or his attorney, at whose instance the said publication is made. A tender of a receipt from the publisher of the said newspaper, as full payment for said publication shall be accepted by the sheriff, or court, as payment in lieu of the cash payment of fees for same. [L. '93, p. 62, § 1.]

See supra, § 233, manner of publication.

See infra, § 253, weekly publication.

Publication may be made in a paper owned by the plaintiff: Callison v. Smith, 44 Wash. 202.

§ 241. (4886.) Appearance, What Constitutes.

A defendant appears in an action when he answers, demurs, makes any application for an order therein, or gives the plaintiff written notice of his appearance. After appearance a defendant is entitled to notice of all subsequent proceedings; but when a defendant has not appeared, service of notice or papers in the ordinary proceedings in an action need not be made upon him. Every such appearance made in an action shall be deemed a general appearance, unless the defendant in making the same states that the same is a special appearance. [Cf. 2 H. C., § 181; L. '93, p. 412, § 16.]

See references to § 220, supra.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 260-262, §§ 1-9.

Under this section a defendant must be held to have appeared when he has entered into a written stipulation agreeing to the transfer of a cause to another county for trial: Jones v. Wolverton, 15 Wash. 590; Cornell Univ. v. Denny Hotel Co., 15 Wash. 433.

One who joins in signing a stipulation with the other parties in the action in effect authenticates the signature of the others, and is not in a position to dispute them and insist on the courts requiring proof of any of the signatures: Jones v. Wolverton, supra.

Acceptance of service of summons and complaint by an attorney for defendant and the indorsement thereon of appearance constitutes an appearance within the meaning of § 181, 2 Hill's Code: Cornell Univ. v. Denny Hotel Co., supra.

Notice of motion to publish depositions is not necessary, as § 822 of 2 Hill's Code, requiring notice of motions to the adverse party, is not applicable to motions which cannot be contested: Mendenhall v. Kratz, 14 Wash. 453.

Where a notice of appeal under the act of 1883, not given in open court, was entertained by the judge without the preliminary notice required by § 822, 2 Hill's Code, the appeal should be dismissed: Parker v. Dacres 3 W. T. 12.

Under this section it is held that it is sufficient to give three days' notice of a motion to vacate a judgment taken through mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect: See Spokane & Idaho Lumber Co. v. Stanley, 25 Wash. 653.

Appearance of defendant, subsequent proceedings: See Norris v. Campbell, 27 Wash. 654; Walters v. Field, 29 Wash. 558.

Want of service of process, objected to by special appearance, is cured by a subsequent appearance to move to vacate a default judgment and for leave to answer on the merits: French v. Ajax Oil & Development Co., 44 Wash. 305.

A special appearance to object to the jurisdiction for want of service of process is rendered general by asking for the dismissal of the action for reasons relating to the merits, and waives the question of due service: Bain v. Thoms, 44 Wash. 382.

A voluntary answer constitutes a general appearance and waives service of process: Calhoun v. Nelson, 47 Wash. 617.

An answer reciting that "now comes the defendant" and alleging facts as a "full and complete and affirmative defense," constitutes a general appearance: Springfield Shingle Co. v. Edgecomb Mill Co., 52 Wash. 620.

§ 242. (4886a.) Notice—Service by Mail, etc.

When a party to an action has appeared in the same, he shall be entitled to at least three days' notice of any trial, hearing, motion, application, sale or proceeding therein; which notice shall be in writing specifying the time and place where the same will be had or made, and which shall be served on him or his attorney, but if neither such party nor his attorney reside in the county in which the action or proceeding is pending or where such application or motion is made, then service by mail may be had on such party or his attorney by mailing to either of them a copy of such notice, properly addressed with postage thereon fully prepaid, at least ten days before the time appointed for such hearing, application or sale. This section is not applicable to motions which cannot be contested: Mendenhall v. Kratz, 14 Wash. 453. And it is not applicable to proceedings after judgment: Galler v. McMahon, 51 Wash. 473.

§ 243. (4887.) Actions Affecting Title to Real Estate—Lis Pendens.

In an action affecting the title to real property the plaintiff, at the time of filing the complaint, or at any time afterwards, or whenever a writ of attachment of property shall be issued, or at any time afterwards, the plaintiff or a defendant, when he sets up an affirmative cause of action in his answer, and demands substantive relief at the time of filing his answer, or at any time afterwards, if the same be intended to affect real property, may file with the auditor of each county in which the property is situated a notice of the pendency of the action, containing the names of the parties, the object of the action, and a description of the real property in that county affected thereby. From the time of the filing only shall the pendency of the action be constructive notice to a purchaser or encumbrancer of the property affected thereby, and every person whose conveyance or encumbrance is subsequently executed or subsequently recorded shall be deemed a subsequent purchaser or encumbrancer, and shall be bound by all proceedings taken after the filing of such notice to the same extent as if he were a party to the action. For the purpose of this section an action shall be deemed to be pending from the time of filing such notice: Provided, however, that such notice shall be of no avail unless it shall be followed by the first publication of the summons, or by the personal service thereof on a defendant within sixty days after such filing. And the court in which the said action was commenced may, in its discretion, at any time after the action shall be settled, discontinued or abated, on application of any person aggrieved and on good cause shown and on such notice as shall be directed or approved by the court, order the notice authorized in this section to be canceled of record, in whole or in part, by the county auditor of any county in whose office the same may have been filed or recorded, and such cancellation shall be made by an indorsement to that effect on the margin of the record. [L. '93, p. 412, § 17.]

As to persons bound by judgment or decree, see Dow v. Ballard, 28 Wash. 87.

This section applies to condemnation proceedings, and subsequent purchasers are bound by the proceedings: Portland and Seattle R. Co. v. Ladd, 47 Wash. 88.

The filing of a lis pendens, in an action to foreclose a street assessment lien, and the subsequent judgment and sale, cuts off any interest of the parties to the action, and also of one claiming under a party by an unrecorded assignment of a sheriff's certificate of sale, whether the purchaser at the foreclosure sale had notice of such assignment or not, when such assignment was inferior to the lien foreclosed; hence a quit-claim deed from such party or assignee, made after judgment, conveys no title: Wright v. Jessup, 44 Wash. 618.

A judgment of the superior court being a lien upon real property of the judgment debtor in the county, from the date of its entry, under § 445, infra, a judgment of foreclosure of a mortgage is constructive notice of the sale and proceedings thereunder, without the filing of any notice of lis pendens or certificate of sale in the recorder's office; and subsequent purchasers from the mortgagor take an inferior title regardless of the fact of their taking possession and making improvements in good faith: Young v. Davis, 50 Wash. 504.

§ 244. (4888.) Notice, Upon Whom Served.

Notices shall be in writing; and notices and other papers may be served on the party or attorney in the manner prescribed in the next three sections where not otherwise provided by statute. [L. '93, p. 413, § 18.]

§ 245. (4889.) Manner of Making Service of Notice.

The services may be personal or by delivery to the party or attorney on whom service is required to be made, or it may be as follows:—

1. If upon an attorney, it may be made during his absence from his office by leaving the papers with his clerk therein, or with a person having charge thereof; or, when there is no person in the office, by leaving it between the hours of six in the morning and nine in the evening in a conspicuous place in the office; or, if it is not open to admit of such service, then by leaving it at the attorney's residence with some person of suitable age and discretion;

2. If upon a party, it may be made by leaving the papers at his residence between the hours of six in the morning and nine in the evening, with some person of suitable age and discretion. [L. '93, p. 413, § 19.]

Service of proposed statement of facts upon a clerk sufficient, when: See Times Printing Co. v. Seattle, 25 Wash. 149.

§ 246. (4890.) Service by Mail, When may be Made.

Service by mail may be made when the person making the service and the person on whom it is to be made reside in different places between which there is a regular communication by mail. [L. '93, p. 414, § 20.]

§ 247. (4891.) Service by Mail, Manner of.

In case of service by mail, the papers shall be deposited in the postoffice, addressed to the person on whom it is served, at his place of residence, and the postage paid; and in such case the time of service shall be double that required in case of personal service. [L. '93, p. 414, § 21.]

§ 248. (4892.) Service When No Attorney Appears.

Where a plaintiff or defendant who has appeared resides out of the state and has no attorney in the action, the service may be made by mail if his residence is known; if not known, on the clerk for him. But where a party, whether resident or nonresident, has an attorney in the action, the service of papers shall be upon the attorney instead of the party. But if the attorney shall have removed from the state, such service may be made upon him personally either within or without the state, or by mail to him at his place of residence, if known, and if not known, then by mail upon the party, if his residence is known, whether within or without the state. And if the residence of neither the party or attorney are known, the service may be made upon the clerk for the attorney. [L. '93, p. 414, § 22.]

See next section, limitation on this section.

§ 249. (4893.) Not Applicable to Service of Summons, etc.

The provisions of the four preceding sections do not apply to the service of a summons or other process, or of any paper to bring a party into contempt. [L. '93, p. 414, § 23.]

See infra, §§ 1049-1062, contempts and punishment thereof.

As the above section inferentially forbids service of summons by mail, a service by mail upon the statutory agent of a foreign corporation is insufficient: Bennett v. Supreme Tent etc. Maccabees, 40 Wash. 431.

§ 250. (4894.) Effect of Imperfect Paper—Amendments.

A notice or other paper is valid and effectual though the title of the action in which it is made is omitted, or it is defective either in respect to the court or parties, if it intelligently refers to such action or proceedings; and in furtherance of justice upon proper terms, any other defect or error in any notice or other paper or proceeding may be amended by the court, and any mischance, omission or defect relieved within one year thereafter; and the court may enlarge or extend the time, for good cause shown, within which by statute any act is to be done, proceeding had or taken, notice of paper filed or served, or may, on such terms as are just, permit the same to be done or supplied after the time therefor has expired, except that the time for bringing a writ of error or appeal shall in no case be enlarged, or a party permitted to bring such writ of error or appeal after the time therefor has expired. [L. '93, p. 414, § 24.]

See infra, § 307, what defects may be disregarded.

Cited in 12 Wash. 100; 15 Wash. 127; 26 Wash. 2; 51 Wash. 474.

This section does not relate to nor govern proceedings subsequent to entry of judgment, as the title of the act indicates that it is merely "an act to provide for manner of commencing civil actions in the superior courts, and bringing the same to trial": National Bank v. Seattle Pickle etc. Wks., 15 Wash. 126.

Under this section, a notice of an application to extend the time for filing a proposed statement of facts is sufficient to confer jurisdiction when given at 3 o'clock on the preceding afternoon: Galler v. McMahon, 51 Wash. 473.

Under this section a court may extend time in which to file motion for new trial after time fixed by statute has expired: Bailey v. Drake, 12 Wash. 99. See, also, Leavenworth v. Billings, 26 Wash. 1; McAllister v. Seattle Brew. etc. Co., 44 Wash. 179; Kreielsheimer v. Nelson, 31 Wash. 400.

§ 251. (4895.) Assessment of Damages.

A defendant who has appeared may, without answering, demand in writing an assessment of damages, of the amount which the plaintiff is entitled to recover, and thereupon such assessment shall be had or any such amount ascertained in such manner as the court on application may direct, and judgment entered by the clerk for the amount so assessed or ascertained. [L. '93, p. 415, § 25.]

§ 252. (4896.) Computation of Time.

The time within which an act is to be done shall be computed by excluding the first day and including the last. If the last day falls on a Sunday it shall be excluded. [L. '93, p. 415, § 26.]

See supra, § 150, and notes, computation of time generally.

If the day for filing a statement of facts and serving a notice thereof expired on Sunday, that day is excluded by statute, and such action had on the following day is sufficient: Bank of Shelton v. Willey, 7 Wash. 535, 537; see Spokane v. Brown, 3 Wash. 84, 86. See, also, Rogers v. Trumbull, 32 Wash. 211.

Notice to counsel on day following the expiration of time limit for an act to be done as required by statute is sufficient, when parties reside in different cities and the notice is deposited in the mail in sufficient time to have reached the party to be served within the time prescribed by statute: Bank of Shelton v. Willey, supra. See supra, §§ 246, 247.

Under subdivision 1 of § 516, 2 Hill's Code, requiring the redemptioner to give two days' notice to the purchaser of his intention to apply to sheriff to redeem, notice given on the fourth of the month of intention to apply on the sixth is sufficient: Scott v. Patterson, 1 Wash. 487, 490.

Notice given on May 20th for settlement of a statement of facts on May 31st is a full ten days' notice, and the fact that a legal holiday intervened will not extend the time: Thompson v. Huron Lumber Co., 5 Wash. 527.

§ 253. (4897.) Weekly Publication, How Made.

The publication of legal notices required by law, or by an order of a judge or court, to be published in a newspaper once in each week for a specified number of weeks, shall be made on the day of each week in which such newspaper is published. [L. '93, p. 415, § 27.]

See supra, § 233, publication and form of summons.

See supra, § 240, selection of newspaper, etc.

Court, 6 Wash. 352; and notes to preceding sections.

§ 254. (4898.) Service of Writ by Telegraph.

Any writ or order in any civil suit or proceeding, and all the papers requiring service, may be transmitted by telegraph for service in any place, and the telegraphic copy of such writ or order or paper so transmitted may be served or executed by the officer or person to whom it is sent for that purpose, and returned by him, if any return be requisite, in the same manner, and with the same force and effect in all respects, as the original thereof might be, if delivered to him, and the officer or person serving or executing the same shall have the same authority, and be subject to the same liabilities, as if the said copy were the original. The original, when a writ or order, shall also be filed in the court from which it was issued, and a certified copy thereof shall be preserved in the telegraph office from which it was sent; in sending it, either the original or certified copy may be used by the operator for that purpose. [L. '66, p. 69, § 17; Cd. '81, § 2358; 1 H. C., § 1558.]

See infra, § 9308, notice by telegraph, effect of.

CHAPTER VII.

PLEADINGS.

§ 255. (4903.) Rules to Determine Sufficiency.

All the forms of pleadings heretofore existing in civil actions inconsistent with the provisions of this code are abolished, and hereafter the forms of pleading and the rule by which the sufficiency of the pleadings is to be determined shall be as herein prescribed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 138, § 36; L. '69, p. 17, § 71; Cd. '81, § 73; 2 H. C., § 185.]

See supra, § 153, form of action.

See infra, § 296, joinder of causes.

Cited in 3 Wash. 203, 587, 588; 5 Wash. 662; 17 Wash. 5; 24 Wash. 329; 27 Wash. 396; 43 Wash. 221.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 31, § 12; Id., vol. 2, p. 2253, § 2.

Fictions are abolished, and presumptions are not to be pleaded as facts, but the facts themselves must be stated: Distler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200, 203.

Under the provisions of this section, and § 258, requiring the complaint to contain a plain and concise statement of facts, a complaint for money had and received will not support an action for the recovery of money paid by plaintiff to defendant on a contract for the conveyance of land, the right of recovery being based on defendant's default in complying with its conditions: Distler v. Dabney, supra.

The only distinction observed by the Code of 1881 as to the form of civil actions was that in equitable actions "The complaint shall be addressed to the judge," etc.; otherwise the pleadings are the same:

Wash. Iron Wks. Co. v. Jensen, 3 Wash. 584, 588.

The statute, § 1940, Code of 1881, providing that liens on vessels shall be enforced in a civil action, means the civil action provided by the code, and such actions are properly brought on the equity side of the court: Id., 586.

But few of the common-law forms are demurrable, but most are obnoxious to motions, and none are so concise as contemplated by the code: Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215.

Common-law forms are abolished: Newberg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182; Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215; Garrison v. Cheeney, 1 W. T. 489; State ex rel. Hawes v. Brewer, 39 Wash. 65.

Distinctions between legal and equitable proceedings are abolished: State ex rel. Holgate v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 33.

Technical refinements of the common law are abolished: First Nat. Bank of Pullman v. Young, 20 Wash. 337.

§ 256. (4904.) What Pleadings There shall be.

The only pleadings on the part of the plaintiff shall be,—

1. The complaint;
2. The demurrer;
3. The reply.

And on the part of the defendant,—

1. The demurrer;
2. The answer. [L. '54, p. 139, § 37; L. '69, p. 20, § 72; Cd. '81, § 74; 2 H. C., § 186.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 587, 588; 27 Wash. 397; 29 Wash. 532.

§ 257. (4905.) First Pleading—Complaint.

The first pleading on the part of the plaintiff shall be the complaint. [L. '54, p. 139, § 38; Cd. '81, § 75; 2 H. C., § 187.]

Cited in 29 Wash. 532.

§ 258. (4906.) What Complaint shall Contain.

The complaint shall contain,—

1. The title of cause, specifying the name of the court, the name of the county in which the action is brought, and the name of the parties to the action, plaintiff and defendant;

2. A plain and concise statement of facts, constituting the cause of action, without unnecessary repetition;

3. A demand for the relief which plaintiff claims; if the recovery of money or damages be demanded, the amount thereof shall be stated. [Cf. L. '54, p. 139, § 39; L. '77, p. 17, § 76; Cd. '81, § 76; L. '91, p. 106, § 1; 2 H. C., § 188.]

See infra, § 284, pleading instruments in writing and accounts.

See infra, § 285, rule of liberal construction.

See infra, § 287, pleading judgments of inferior courts.

See infra, § 288, pleading conditions precedent.

See infra, § 292, requisites in libel and slander.

See infra, § 305, when pleading may be stricken.

See infra, § 296, joinder of causes.

See infra, § 298, definition of material allegations.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2258-2260, §§ 23-34.

A complaint cannot be amended so as to substitute entirely new parties plaintiff: Leibman v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 520, 522.

Under our system of code pleading but few of the common-law forms will be found demurrable, most are obnoxious to motions, and none are so concise as our system contemplates: Renton v. Peter St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215.

Contrast between the rigid rules of the common law and code pleading pointed out: Id.

As to designation of unknown party by fictitious name, see infra, § 306.

SUBDIVISION ONE—FORMAL REQUISITES.—What may be considered surplusage in stating the name of the court: Nickles v. Griffen, 1 W. T. 374.

The title of an action can only be considered as a description of the parties, and cannot be relied upon as an allegation of the fact to aid the pleading: Tolmie v. Dean, 1 W. T. 46, 50.

Failure to allege the corporate character of defendant in a complaint is waived by defendant pleading a counterclaim, as though it were in fact a corporation: Frost v. Ainslie L. Co., 3 Wash. 241; Sengfelder v. Mut. Life Ins. Co., 5 Wash. 121.

A complaint against a private corporation, upon a contract made with it, without any averment of its incorporation, or that defendant is a member of the company, is bad on demurrer: Tolmie v. Dean, supra.

In an action to enforce a mechanic's lien, which makes the assignee of the estate of the person to whom the materials were furnished a party, and without describing him as assignee, merely alleging that he has some interest in the premises, does not make such assignee a party except in his personal capacity: Quimby v. Slipper, 7 Wash. 475.

Where immediately following the name of the defendant in the title of the cause the word "receiver" is added without being preceded by the word "as," the former word must be deemed mere descriptio personae: Vasele v. Grant St. Elec. R. Co., 16 Wash. 602.

Only facts, and not conclusions of law should be pleaded: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2254, §§ 5, 6; Parrish v. Reed, 2 Wash. 491; Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512; Baker-Boyer Nat. Bank v. Hughson, 5 Wash. 100; Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 659; State ex rel. Whitney v. Friars, 10 Wash. 348; Bay View Brewing Co. v. Grubb, 24 Wash. 163; Carlson v. County Commissioners, 38 Wash. 616. Neither conclusions nor probative facts should be pleaded, but the allegation of a fact will not be affected by the addition of conclusions or redundant matter: Brummett v. Campbell, 32 Wash. 358.

A conclusion of law is not admitted by a demurrer: MacMartin v. Stevens, 37 Wash. 616.

The complaint in an action to foreclose a logger's lien is not demurrable on the ground that it does not allege, except as a conclusion of law, that anything was due the plaintiff, when it states that "under the terms and conditions of the said contract defendants became indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of $303.87": Mason v. McGee, 15 Wash. 272.

SUBDIVISION TWO — REQUISITES IN PLEADING FACTS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2258, §§ 26, 27. This subdivision requires a "plain and concise statement of facts," and not their legal effect, or the legal conclusions inferred from them, with the view of informing the defendant of the exact nature of the claim against him, and the facts relied on to establish it, so that he can intelligently and directly answer the same: Distler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200, 203; P. S. I. Co. v. Worthington, 2 W. T. 472; First Nat. Bank of Pullman v. Young, 20 Wash. 337; Grant v. Walsh, 36 Wash. 190.

The essential facts must be alleged in the pleading: Tolmie v. Dean, supra.

Facts should be stated positively and in traversable form; this, however, does not necessarily prohibit the statement of a fact on "information and belief," but sufficient facts having been stated as existing, an allegation that the pleader states them "on information and belief" will be treated as surplusage: Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537.

In construing pleadings as against a demurrer, the office of which is to raise a substantial issue of law, evidentiary facts and even inferences from averments amounting to mere conclusions of law, will be considered in favor of the pleading: Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 107, 110; Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54.

A complaint must be measured by facts stated, and it is not necessary to name the particular action or label the form: Casey v. Oakes, 17 Wash. 409; Dunlap v. Rauch, 24 Wash. 620.

Where a plaintiff sets forth facts constituting a cause of action entitling him to some relief, he is not to be turned out of court because he has misconceived the nature of his remedial right: Damon v. Leque, 14 Wash. 253; Watson v. Glover, 21 Wash. 677; Dormitzer v. German Sav. & L. Soc., 23 Wash. 132; Yarwood v. Johnson, 29 Wash. 643; Brown v. Calloway, 34 Wash. 175; McKay v. Calderwood, 37 Wash. 194; Lawrence v. Halverson, 41 Wash. 534.

Defenses need not be anticipated in the complaint: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2259, § 31; Johnson v. Bellingham Bay Imp. Co., 13 Wash. 455; Randall v. Hoquiam, 30 Wash. 435; Malloy v. Benway, 34 Wash. 315; State v. Davis, 43 Wash. 116.

Under the liberal rule as to construction of pleadings required by our statutes, it is sufficient, in an action founded on a written instrument, to attach the instrument to the complaint as an exhibit and make sufficient reference thereto in the complaint to put the defendants on inquiry as to its contents: Hays v. Dennis, 11 Wash. 360.

In pleading the articles of incorporation and by-laws of a corporation it is sufficient to plead them in substance and legal effect without setting them out in haec verba: Seal v. Cameron, 24 Wash. 62. In the absence of a demurrer to the complaint, the pleading will be liberally construed upon attack after judgment: Montesano v. Blair, 12 Wash. 188; following Town of Elma v. Carney, 4 Wash. 418. And upon such attack for want of facts to state a cause of action, it must be most liberally construed and the judgment sustained, if by any reasonable intendment it can be: Mosher v. Bruhn, 15 Wash. 332; Johnson v. Leonhard, 1 Wash. 564; Lyen v. Bond, 3 W. T. 407.

Where a complaint sets forth two causes of action without separately stating them, it is not error to refuse to strike out portions of the complaint, when the two causes could be properly joined, but the proper remedy is a motion to require plaintiff to separately state his several causes of action: Richardson v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., 10 Wash. 648.

Where one of two causes of action, which had been joined in one complaint, has been held insufficient on appeal, it is error, upon a retrial of the cause upon the same complaint, after reversal, to permit the introduction of evidence supporting the cause of action which has been ruled upon adversely by the appellate court: Id.

Although the refusal of the court to compel plaintiff, on motion, to elect between two causes of action pleaded in his complaint may be error, it is not prejudicial if the election be made by plaintiff at the opening of the trial: Van Hook v. Burns, 10 Wash. 22.

Where a complaint sets forth facts tending to show a liability both in tort and on contract, such recital is not open to objection on the ground of stating more than one cause of action, when such facts all relate to a single transaction and are relied upon as the basis of a single cause of action: Barto v. Nix, 15 Wash. 563.

Although a complaint may be subject to attack by motion or demurrer on the ground that it does not allege facts sufficient to state a cause of action, yet, if the objection thereto is not raised until after answer, the complaint will be held sufficient, if the facts stated will justify a recovery upon any theory upon which a right can be founded: Blumenthal v. Pac. Meat Co., 12 Wash. 331.

Where money is owing to plaintiff from defendants, demand before suit for amount due is unnecessary: Chappell v. Woods, 9 Wash. 134.

And in an action to recover for work performed at the special instance and request of defendant, no allegation of demand is necessary, when there is no allegation showing that the action was based upon a mutual current account: Robertson v. Woolley, 12 Wash. 326.

A complaint alleging facts, which, if true, would establish fraud as a conclusion of law, sufficiently alleges fraud without a further specification thereof: Andrews v. King Co., 1 Wash. 46.

If plaintiff has pleaded no excuse for tender he cannot urge the uselessness of complying with the obligation on his part: Underwood v. Tew, 7 Wash. 297.

LAWS OF ANOTHER STATE must be pleaded and proven as any other fact, and the court will not take judicial notice of them: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2637, § 93; Daniel v. Pressler, 3 Wash. 636; Gunderson v. Gunderson, 25 Wash. 459; Stewart's Estate, In re, 26 Wash. 32; Daniel v. Gold Hill Min. Co., 28 Wash. 411; Lowry v. Moore, 16 Wash. 476. For an exception to this rule, see Cunningham v. Spokane Hyd. etc. Co., 20 Wash. 450.

Nonpayment is an affirmative matter, which must be pleaded and proved: Bethel v. Robinson, 4 Wash. 446; National Bank v. Western Iron & Steel Co., 14 Wash. 162.

An item of special damage, which, though recoverable, is not alleged in the complaint, cannot be included in the judgment: Sheehan v. Levy, 1 Wash. 149; see 148 U. S. 345; see Kaufman v. Tacoma, Olympia etc. Ry. Co., 11 Wash. 632.

If a complaint be faulty in other respects than as made by the code demurrable, such defects may be reached by motion: Renton v. Peter St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215. If any part of a complaint is good, it will stand as against a general demurrer: McCartney v. Glassford, 1 Wash. 579.

A complaint showing on its face that the demand for which suit is brought is barred by the statute of limitations, is bad on demurrer: Wilt v. Buchtel, 2 W. T. 417; see infra, § 259, subd. 7; also a complaint on a contract of sale which fails to show either a sale or a tender: Hawley v. Kenoyer, 1 W. T. 609.

When an amended complaint is filed, any error of the court in ruling upon the original complaint is thereby waived: Bell v. Waudy, 4 Wash. 743.

Amendment on trial: See notes to § 339, infra.

If a complaint is sufficient to support a judgment, and no objections have been taken to its sufficiency in the court below, it cannot be attacked for the first time on appeal: U. S. v. Small, 3 W. T. 478.

Where evidence is introduced upon the trial without objection covering defects in the complaint they will be treated as cured: Livesley v. O'Brien, 3 Wash. 546, 553; Waldron v. Home Mut. Ins. Co., 9 Wash. 534.

COMPLAINTS IN ACTIONS GENERALLY—ON CONTRACTS FOR PAYMENT OF MONEY.—In an action by a payee of a note against the maker, a complaint alleging that the payee assigned the note to a certain bank as security, and that the bank, though requested thereto, refuses to bring suit thereon after its maturity, fails to state a cause of action: Davis v. Erickson, 3 Wash. 654.

An allegation that representations were false and fraudulent and by reason thereof the maker of the note in controversy was induced to execute and deliver the same, does not show want of consideration, but at most is merely the expression of an opinion: National Bank v. Hughson, 5 Wash. 100.

In an action on promissory notes by an indorsee thereof, the complaint is sufficient as against general demurrer attacking an averment of ownership in plaintiff, which is alleged as follows: "That for value and before maturity, Alexander A. Munson indorsed said notes by writing across the back of each before delivery the name 'Alexander A. Munson.' That plaintiff is now the owner and holder of said notes and mortgage": Osborne & Co. v. Stevens, 15 Wash. 478.

In an action to recover from a bank the value of a note and mortgage assigned to it as collateral security, the complaint is proof against a general demurrer when it sets out the execution of the note and mortgage to plaintiff, with a description of the property mortgaged, and alleges that the note and mortgage were assigned to defendant in trust, according to the terms of a contract accepted by the defendant, whereby defendant should collect said note and out of the proceeds pay certain indebtedness of the plaintiff to itself and others, and deliver the balance of the moneys collected thereunder to plaintiff; that on a certain day, in violation of said contract, and without plaintiff's consent the defendant sold and assigned said note and mortgage and converted the same to its own use, refusing upon demand either to return the note and mortgage or to pay over to plaintiff the amount as due thereunder: Howard v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 10 Wash. 280.

Although a city charter may require that warrants for the payment of money be signed by the mayor and clerk of the city, a complaint upon a city warrant signed by an acting mayor is not demurrable for the reason that it fails to allege the proceedings of the city council by virtue of which the acting mayor came to occupy such position, as such facts are matters of evidence and not of pleading: Stephens v. Spokane, 11 Wash. 41.

In an action upon a contract which recognizes the right of the parties to make assignments, a complaint setting up the contract is not demurrable for the reason that the action is by and against different parties than those named in the contract, when the complaint shows their interest through assignment: Van Horne v. Watrous, 10 Wash. 525.

Error in the description of the name of the obligee in a bond is not material, when the obligor has not been misled; and recovery may be had thereon when the complaint of the obligee alleges the execution and delivery of the bond to itself, and then sets out the bond in full: P.-I. Pub. Co. v. Harris, 11 Wash. 500.

In an action upon an instrument executed by an attorney in fact, which is made a part of the complaint, it is sufficient to allege the execution by the principal without setting out that the agent had been constituted attorney for the purpose of its execution: Richmond v. Voorhees, 10 Wash. 316.

A complaint setting up a contract is not demurrable for the reason that the action is by and against different parties than those named in the contract, when the complaint shows their interest through assignment: Van Horne v. Watrous, 10 Wash. 525.

In an action by a corporation upon an unpaid stock subscription, the complaint is not demurrable on the ground that it fails to allege that the capital stock of the corporation had all been subscribed, when the complaint otherwise alleges that plaintiff is and has been a duly organized and existing corporation, during all the time referred to in the complaint: McKay v. Elwood, 12 Wash. 579.

In an action upon an account for merchandise sold and delivered between certain dates, in which the complaint nowhere alleges any accounting between the parties, the plaintiff cannot, without amendment, substitute on the trial a cause of action upon an account stated, and thus deprive defendant of the right to disprove the sale and delivery of the goods: Wilson v. Waldron, 12 Wash. 149.

Where plaintiff in an action for goods sold and delivered admits an extension of time of payment in complaint, he is estopped to say that such extension is void for want of consideration, and defendant is entitled to judgment of dismissal on the ground that the action is prematurely brought: Rockford Shoe Co. v. Jacob, 6 Wash. 421.

An action for money had and received cannot be maintained for the breach of a contract, although such contract was invalid for the reason that it was a lease of community lands executed by husband alone: Dietz v. Winehill, 6 Wash. 109.

If the complaint in an action for price of logs alleges that defendant took possession of them, it is sufficient, although other allegations may show that plaintiff was not in the actual possession thereof at time of sale: Tingley v. Fairhaven L. Co., 9 Wash. 34.

In an action brought for an accounting for proceeds of logs, complaint held to state no cause of action: Runyan v. Russell, 3 Wash. 665.

In an action upon an assignment of an account for a sum due, and for a further sum to be earned in the future, the complaint is not demurrable because founded on a claim not in existence at time of assignment, but is good for sum due at that time: Rice v. Yakima etc. Ry. Co., 4 Wash. 724.

A complaint alleging that defendant took charge of plaintiff's hogs, agreeing to deliver them to a designated purchaser upon payment of the purchase price, and that he allowed such purchaser to dispose of part of the hogs without such payment, and himself disposed of the remainder and converted the proceeds, is sufficient, without objection to the pleading before trial, to sustain the verdict: Lyen v. Bond, 3 W. T. 407, 15 Wash. 332.

A complaint for the recovery of commissions on land sales, alleging that the property was placed in plaintiff's hands, that a purchaser was found by plaintiff at price named, and bargain completed, but neglects to allege communication of facts to defendant, or that defendant carried out the arrangement made, or refused so to do, after notice, is insufficient: Penter v. Straight, 1 Wash. 365.

In an action to recover for services in doing the county printing, a complaint is demurrable for want of facts, when it does not allege that the work was done by plaintiff or that he had any interest in the newspaper in which the official notices were published: Rathbun v. Thurston Co., 8 Wash. 238.

That there was an agreement between a railway company and contractors engaged in constructing its roadbed, to transport the latter's employees, is sufficiently shown by an allegation in the complaint that there was an "arrangement" between them to that effect, when it is clear from the other allegations of the complaint that the word was used in the sense of an agreement or contract: Boyle v. G. N. R. Co., 13 Wash. 383.

FOR RECOVERY OF DAMAGES.—In an action against a railway company for personal injuries, an averment in the complaint that a certain firm were constructing a portion of its roadbed, when taken in connection with the further allegation that plaintiff was working for said firm as a common laborer, is sufficient to show that the firm were independent contractors of the railway company: Boyle v. Gt. N. R. Co., 15 Wash. 383.

In an action for damages for personal injuries the complaint states a sufficient cause of action in the absence of a demurrer, when it alleges that plaintiff was injured by the collapse of a trap-door in the floor of the car, under plaintiff's weight, and that the collapse and falling in of the trap-door were caused by the negligence of defendant in failing to properly secure, adjust and fasten said trap-door, and that the injury to plaintiff was without any fault or negligence on her part: Washington v. Spokane St. R. Co., 13 Wash. 9.

Where the complaint contains an allegation that plaintiff has been compelled to pay a certain sum for medical treatment and nursing, evidence thereof is admissible, without being pleaded as a distinct cause of action: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Hess, 2 Wash. 383.

Where the only allegation of negligence, in a complaint for injuries received as the result of a collision with a street-car, are that defendant "carelessly and negligently ran one of its cars along said street at a high rate of speed, and negligently and carelessly omitted while approaching plaintiff to give any signal by ringing the bell, or otherwise, of the approach of said car," it is error for the court to try the case upon the theory that general negligence had been alleged: Redford v. Spokane St. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 55.

It is not necessary in an action for injuries received on a public highway of a city, through the negligence of a private party, to allege and prove the incorporation of such city, since by § 1261 et seq., Gen. Stats., its streets are public highways: Carroll v. Centralia Water Co., 5 Wash. 613.

In an action against the sheriff for wrongfully seizing and selling a stock of goods mortgaged to secure an indebtedness, it is not necessary to allege their value at the time of taking, where no element of special damage is claimed; but in the absence of an allegation of special damage the mortgagee is entitled to recover his debt, and interest, not in excess of the value of the goods at the time of their taking, and, in order to support a judgment in such case, there must be evidence of the value of the goods seized: Sheehan v. Levy, 1 Wash. 149; Id., 3 Wash. 420.

A complaint in an action for damages for false representations in the particular case held to state a cause of action: Gates v. Moldstad, 14 Wash. 419.

ON POLICY OF INSURANCE: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1544, §§ 112-115. A complaint on a policy of insurance for certain amounts upon a stock of goods, safe and store fixtures, alleging loss of the "whole of said stock and fixtures," is sufficient to admit proof of the loss of the safe as included in the term "fixtures," the formal proof of loss showing that claim was made for the safe: Pencil v. Home Ins. Co., 3 Wash. 485; but a complaint that does not set out the policy sued on, nor show proof of loss, ownership of the property, or value thereof, does not state sufficient facts, although it does allege that notice of the fire was given defendant, and that plaintiff was damaged by the fire in a certain sum: Emigh v. State Ins. Co., 3 Wash. 122.

In an action on a fire insurance policy the omission by plaintiff of allegations showing his insurable interest in the building at the time of loss and value of the property destroyed are cured by admission of evidence thereon without objection, and by the verdict: Waldron v. Home Mut. Ins. Co., 9 Wash. 634.

FOR MALICIOUS PROSECUTION: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1771, § 10; Kerstetter v. Thomas, 36 Wash. 620. In an action for damages for malicious arrest and prosecution, if the complaint fail to show a favorable termination for plaintiff of proceedings upon which arrest was made, it is insufficient: Ferguson v. Tobey, 1 W. T. 275.

A complaint for malicious prosecution against two defendants alleging that they jointly "procured the arrest of plaintiff on a false charge," and "that in procuring the arrest and prosecution of the plaintiff the defendants acted maliciously and without probable cause," sufficiently charges a joint responsibility: Jones v. Jenkins, 3 Wash. 17.

CHARGING NUISANCE.—A complaint charging numerous proprietors of saloons and gambling houses with maintaining a public and private nuisance without naming or locating any particular house, or designating wherein it is a nuisance, is fatal on demurrer: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Whalen, 3 W. T. 452. See, also, Grantham v. Gilson, 41 Wash. 125.

ON CONTRACTS FOR CONVEYANCE OF LANDS.—A complaint in an action to enforce the specific performance of a contract to convey land is not demurrable on the ground that the contract was signed by an agent, when the question of agency does not appear on the face of the complaint itself: Wooding v. Crain, 10 Wash. 35. See, also, Boston Clothing Co. v. Solberg, 28 Wash. 262.

A complaint for specific performance of a contract to convey certain land which sets out a written memorandum thereof, indefinite and defective in the elements necessary to perfect a contract, and alleges that by mutual mistake of the parties thereto the contract agreed to and which was intended to have been embodied in said writing provided for the sale of "one acre, to be taken in a square form out of the northwest corner" of a certain lot, for which the buyer was to pay "one dollar in cash at this date," etc., is sufficient: Vail v. Tillman, 2 Wash. 476.

In an action for specific performance of contract to convey lands complaint in the particular case held sufficient to entitle plaintiff to equitable relief: Sayward v. Gardner, 5 Wash. 247. Where held not sufficient: See O'Connor v. Jackson, 23 Wash. 224.

Under a contract by which defendant was to convey to plaintiff certain lands, to be paid for in wheat, and plaintiff delivered the wheat, but afterward rescinded the contract, on account of defect in defendant's title, the proper form of pleading, under the code, in an action to recover the value of the wheat, is the common count in assumpsit for goods sold and delivered, omitting all reference to the original contract: Ankeny v. Clark, 1 Wash. 550; contra, see Dissler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200; Osten v. Winehill, 10 Wash. 333.

In an action against three defendants for the purchase price of land, a complaint alleging a deed therefor executed to one defendant at the request of the other two, who were the real purchasers; that the grantee in the deed executed a note secured by mortgage on the land to secure deferred payments, and that the other two defendants at the same time and as a part of the same transaction, executed a bond or guaranty for payment of said sum, states a cause of action against all defendants: Hanna v. Savage, 7 Wash. 414.

An allegation in a complaint that plaintiff was the owner of certain property at the date he contracted to sell it to defendant is immaterial if he was the owner and able to make delivery when time of performance arrived: Kleeb v. Bard, 7 Wash. 41.

In an action by a vendee to rescind a contract for the conveyance of land, on the ground of failure of title of the vendors, the complaint does not sufficiently allege defect of title when it states that the grantors "were not seised in fee or possessed of the right to sell and convey" the premises in controversy: Decker v. Schultze, 11 Wash. 47.

Where a contract of sale of land has been made by two persons, an allegation in a complaint for rescission of the contract by the purchaser that one of the vendors fraudulently misrepresented the title is insufficient, in the absence of allegations showing agency of the vendor making the misrepresentations for the other vendor: Webb v. Stephenson, 11 Wash. 342.

The object of a complaint being to establish title under the donation act, if it fails to show compliance with § 12 of that act, requiring an affidavit from claimant as a condition precedent to acquiring title, it fails to state a cause of action: Shockley v. Brown, 1 W. T. 463.

An allegation in a complaint for the recovery of lands that the ancestor of plaintiffs died seised and possessed of the property is a sufficient allegation of the possession of plaintiffs, as when seisin is once shown it will be presumed to continue until allegation and proof of adverse possession in someone else: Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497.

Averments as to title to and possession of property involved: See Freytag v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 1 Wash. 214; Hankle v. Denison, 34 Wash. 51.

In an action by a vendee for the specific performance of a contract to convey real estate "conditional on furnishing a good title," a complaint sufficiently alleges title in the vendor, as against a general demurrer, where it shows a tax title which the vendee is willing to accept: Newell v. Lamping, 45 Wash. 304.

TO SET ASIDE FRAUDULENT CONVEYANCES: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1307, §§ 76-79. In an action to set aside a conveyance of certain lands as being in fraud of creditors, an allegation in the complaint setting forth that plaintiff had obtained judgment and issued execution against the defendant, that "the said execution had been returned by the sheriff wholly unsatisfied and that the defendant has no other property out of which the plaintiff could make said judgment," is sufficient to render the complaint proof against demurrer on the ground that it fails to show by distinct averment that the debtor had no other property at the time the conveyance was made: Cook v. Tibbals, 12 Wash. 207. See, also, Allen v. Chambers, 18 Wash. 341; Reed v. Loney, 22 Wash. 433; Bates v. Drake, 28 Wash. 447; Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199.

The rule requiring matters constituting fraud to be pleaded is sufficiently complied with, in an action to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance, when the complaint alleges that "at the time said deed was executed by the said John A. Shoudy and M. E. Shoudy to the said Dexter Shoudy, the said John A. Shoudy and M. E. Shoudy were wholly insolvent and unable to pay their debts; that the said Dexter Shoudy is a son of said John A. Shoudy and M. E. Shoudy, and plaintiff avers that said deed was so executed by the said John A. Shoudy and the said M. E. Shoudy to said Dexter Shoudy without any consideration therefor; that no money or thing of value was paid or to be paid for said premises, but that such conveyance was made for the sole purpose of hindering, delaying and defrauding the creditors of the said John A. Shoudy and M. E. Shoudy, and particularly the plaintiff herein, and for the purpose of placing said property beyond the reach of the creditors of said John A. Shoudy and M. E. Shoudy, and for no other purpose whatever": Murray v. Shoudy, 13 Wash. 33.

A complaint charging that the owner of land, in order to effect a sale thereof to plaintiff, had conspired with another for the purpose of defrauding plaintiff by agreeing that the co-conspirator should represent and pretend to plaintiff that the purchase price of such land was more than the price actually placed thereon between the conspirators, does not state a cause of action against such land owner, when it does not show that he derived any benefit from such misrepresentation, nor that he said or did anything to lead plaintiff to enter into the contract: Kennah v. Huston, 15 Wash. 275.

In an action seeking to subject land fraudulently conveyed to the lien of a judgment, the complaint sufficiently states that the defendant had no other property out of which the execution could be satisfied, when it alleges that there was a return of nulla bona on the execution issued, and that the property attempted to be conveyed was all the property owned by the judgment debtor: O'Leary v. Duvall, 10 Wash. 666.

A complaint asking equitable relief in behalf of a creditor, to subject property to the payment of his debts, is insufficient unless it allege that he has reduced his claim to judgment, or in some other manner obtained a lien upon the specific property sought to be reached, although it be alleged that the debt cannot be collected by the ordinary process of law: Thompson v. Caton, 3 W. T. 31.

TO SET ASIDE A JUDGMENT.—An independent action will not lie to set aside a judgment rendered in a former suit between the same parties, when the action is based upon error of the court in setting aside a verdict in such suit: Davis v. Fields, 9 Wash. 78.

TO ADJUDGE DEFICIENCY JUDGMENT A PRIOR LIEN.—In an action to have a deficiency judgment adjudged as a prior lien on other realty of the mortgagee defendants, upon which an unsecured creditor had obtained a judgment lien, the complaint is demurrable when it fails to state that the mortgagee defendants were insolvent, or that any execution had been issued against them for the deficiency upon the foreclosure judgment and returned unsatisfied: Howard v. Devol, 15 Wash. 270.

IN INTERPLEADER.—A complaint in an action of interpleader is sufficient, especially when first objected to after judgment, when it alleges that plaintiff was indebted to a certain firm, that it had been garnisheed by two creditors of said firm, one of whom had obtained a judgment against plaintiff, but that the other garnishing claimant is assailing such judgment as void, that plaintiff is willing to pay the money due the principal debtor to the party entitled thereto and offers to pay said money into court to be applied as the court shall determine: Id.

SUBDIVISION THREE—DEMAND—AMOUNT: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2260, § 331. A claim for relief, as set forth in the complaint, cannot be in any manner enlarged in the reply to defendant's answer: Bell v. Waudby, 4 Wash. 743.

A complaint is not demurrable because the prayer for judgment is for a larger amount than is warranted by the facts: Howard v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 10 Wash. 280.

Where a complaint states a contract and a breach, nominal damages will be presumed: Johnson v. Cook, 24 Wash. 474.

The relief to which plaintiff is entitled, in an action in which there is no answer, cannot exceed what is demanded in the complaint: Bank of Cal. v. Dyer, 14 Wash. 279.

The prayer for relief is unimportant in determining the rights of the parties or the jurisdiction of the court: See Howard v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 10 Wash. 280; Smith v. Allen, 18 Wash. 1. Except where there is no answer: Bank of California v. Dyer, 14 Wash. 279. Under a prayer for general relief the court may give any special relief to which the parties are entitled: Dormitzer v. German Sav. & L. Soc., 23 Wash. 132; Yarwood v. Johnson, 29 Wash. 643; MacKay v. Smith, 27 Wash. 442.

In an action to recover upon a contract to pay the value of a wharf five years after its erection, an allegation that it cost a certain sum, "which was its value in the contemplation of the parties," is not sufficient allegation of value: Hart Lumber Co. v. Everett Land Co., 20 Wash. 71.

In an action to recover damages, an allegation of the damages sustained, together with a prayer for judgment thereon, is sufficient as an allegation of the nonpayment of the damages: Belt v. Washington Water P. Co., 24 Wash. 387.

The amount alleged in the ad damnum clause in a complaint and for which judgment is prayed, although in excess of the sum of $200, will not authorize an appeal to the supreme court, when it is evident from the pleadings that the original amount in controversy is less than $200: Doty v. Krutz, 13 Wash. 169.

The fact that in an action for specific performance of a contract to convey land the complaint contained an alternative prayer for damages in case performance cannot be had, will not deprive a court of equity of jurisdiction of the action (Morgan v. Bell, 3 Wash. 554, distinguished): Konnerup v. Frandsen, 8 Wash. 551.

§ 259. (4907.) Grounds of Demurrer of Defendant.

The defendant may demur to the complaint when it shall appear upon the face thereof either,—

1. That the court has no jurisdiction of the person of the defendant or of the subject matter of the action;
2. That the plaintiff has no legal capacity to sue; or
3. That there is another action pending between the same parties for the same cause; or
4. That there is a defect of parties, plaintiff or defendant; or
5. That several causes of action have been improperly united;
6. That the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action;
7. That the action has not been commenced within the time limited by law. [Cf. L. '54, p. 139, § 40; Cd. '81, § 77; L. '86, p. 75, § 1; L. '91, p. 106, § 2; 2 H. C., § 189.]

See next section, grounds of, how specified.

See infra, § 276, grounds of demurrer of plaintiff.

See infra, § 305, when pleading may be stricken.

See notes to last section.

See supra, § 155, manner of pleading statute of limitations.

DEMURRER GENERALLY.—A demurrer under our statute is neither the general nor special demurrer of the common law; but a new creation applicable only in the instances expressed in the statute: Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215.

It is said in Lafleur v. Douglas, 1 W. T. 185, that if the complaint is defective, a special demurrer to the defective portion is the proper proceeding. (This rule is true, under the present practice, if the term "special demurrer" be confined to a demurrer to an entire count.) It is held in Lowman v. West, 8 Wash. 355, that a demurrer does not lie to a single paragraph of a complaint unless it purports to present a complete cause of action.

A demurrer admits all facts properly pleaded: Barnett v. Ashmore, 5 Wash. 163, 166.

The grounds of a demurrer must be distinctly specified, but the right to demur is lost by answering, and even the objections that can be taken advantage of at any stage of the proceedings must be availed of by some other method: Renton v. St. Louis, supra.

If a demurrer is sustained opportunity should be given to amend, if the pleading is amendable; this is especially so, since honest endeavor may be secured by imposition of terms: Id.

Appearance and filing of a demurrer cures defects in service of process: Williams v. Miller, 1 W. T. 88.

Where the defendant demurs to a complaint and the court orders it amended, the order is in effect a sustaining of the demurrer: Id.

A demurrer avails nothing where it is dropped from the calendar because no one appears to prosecute it: Livesley v. O'Brien, 3 Wash. 546.

The filing by plaintiff of a motion to dismiss his action, after the sustaining of a demurrer to the complaint, is a waiver of any error made in ruling on the demurrer: Lowman v. West, 7 Wash. 407.

It is error to deny plaintiff's motion for dismissal of his action, and grant defendant's motion therefor, after sustaining a demurrer to complaint; such error will be presumed prejudicial unless the contrary affirmatively appears: Id.

The filing of an amendatory demurrer is within the discretion of the trial court: Roche v. Spokane County, 22 Wash. 121; McClaine v. Fairchild, 23 Wash. 758.

After a general demurrer has been overruled, defendant cannot subsequently interpose a special demurrer for misjoinder of causes of action: Burrows v. McCalley, 17 Wash. 269.

Objections to the sufficiency of the complaint are waived and cannot be considered when the demurrer is withdrawn and not prosecuted: Mosher v. Bruhn, 15 Wash. 332; Hardin v. Mullen, 16 Wash. 647; Watson v. Kent, 35 Wash. 21; Healy v.

King County, 37 Wash. 184. See, also, Criswell v. Directors School Dist. No. 24, 34 Wash. 420.

A demurrer to a complaint is waived by answering to the merits: Budlong v. Budlong, 48 Wash. 645.

A general demurrer to a pleading is an admission of the truth of the facts alleged: Soule v. Seattle, 6 Wash. 315; Brookman v. State Ins. Co., 15 Wash. 29; but see Olympia Waterworks v. Gelbach, 16 Wash. 482; Franklin Sav. Bank v. Moran, 29 Wash. 200.

And will not raise the question that complaint fails to allege the incorporation of plaintiff: Sly v. Mining Co., 28 Wash. 485.

A conclusion of law is not admitted by demurrer: MacMartin v. Stevens, 37 Wash. 616; Hester v. Thompson, 35 Wash. 119.

Under a general demurrer objections cannot be raised which are made grounds for special demurrer: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2274, §§ 88-92; Rice v. Yakima & Pac. Coast R. Co., 4 Wash. 724; Sly v. Palo Alto Gold Min. Co., 28 Wash. 485; Birmingham v. Cheetham, 19 Wash. 657; James v. James, 35 Wash. 655; Marvin v. Yates, 26 Wash. 50; Ames v. Kinnear, 42 Wash. 80.

The objection that an allegation of the complaint is merely a conclusion of law cannot be urged on the ground that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action: Livingstone v. Lovgren, 27 Wash. 102.

A general demurrer for want of sufficient facts, where there are two causes of action, is properly overruled where the second cause of action is properly stated: Meals v. De Soto Placer Min. Co., 33 Wash. 302; Marvin v. Yates, 26 Wash. 51.

A complaint which separately states two causes of action is good as against a general demurrer if either cause contains facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action: Hindle v. Holcomb, 34 Wash. 336.

If a portion of a complaint is defective, such defect must be reached by special demurrer, and not by a general demurrer to the whole complaint: Lafleur v. Douglass, 1 W. T. 185; Bellingham Bay Imp. Co. v. Fairhaven etc. R. Co., 17 Wash. 371; Weiser v. Holzman, 33 Wash. 87. See, also, Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779.

Objections to a complaint cannot be made by a demurrer on terms or objections at the trial: See Remington's Digest, p. 2275, § 93; Greene v. Finnell, 22 Wash. 186; Hindle v. Holcomb, 34 Wash. 336; Zeimantz v. Blake, 39 Wash. 6.

Objections to defects in pleadings cannot be raised by objection to any evidence at the trial: Erickson v. McLellan & Co., 46 Wash. 661.

IMPROPER JOINDER OF CAUSES: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2272, § 82; Id., p. 2274, § 90. A complaint improperly joining causes of action for mandamus and for injunction, will be proof against a demurrer for misjoinder if it states a good cause of action for injunction, and shows no ground for mandamus, although the causes be not separately stated: Times Pub. Co. v. Everett, 9 Wash. 518.

If two causes of action are improperly joined, the failure of the court to pass upon a demurrer on that ground is not cured by sustaining a demurrer to one of the paragraphs for want of sufficient facts: Penter v. Straight, 1 Wash. 365.

A complaint against the maker of a note on his written undertaking, and also against another party on a verbal promise to pay the same note, is not demurrable on the ground of improperly uniting two causes of action: Gilmore v. Skookum Box Factory, 20 Wash. 703.

The objection that a bill of particulars filed by plaintiff amplifies the claim set up in his complaint into two causes of action improperly united would not render the complaint itself demurrable: Dudley v. Duval, 29 Wash. 528.

Where two causes of action are improperly joined, and a demurrer on that ground is sustained, a plaintiff whose complaint stated a good cause of action cannot complain of the dismissal of the action upon sustaining the demurrer, when he elected not to amend his complaint: Johnson v. Seattle Elec. Co., 39 Wash. 211.

ANOTHER ACTION PENDING: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2272, § 79. The pendency of another suit between the same parties for the same cause of action cannot be raised by demurrer unless the fact appears on the face of the complaint: Jackson v. McAuley, 13 Wash. 298; Lowman v. West, 8 Wash. 355.

Under this and § 261, giving the defendant the right by demurrer, or answer, to raise the defense that there is another action pending between the same parties for the same cause, the objection may be interposed by the plaintiff to defendant's counterclaim, inasmuch as to such pleading the plaintiff occupies the position of a defendant: Caine v. Seattle & Northern Ry. Co., 12 Wash. 596.

A complaint to recover on certain warrants is demurrable as not constituting a cause of action where it appears therefrom that the invalidity of the same warrants had been determined in a prior action in which the present plaintiff was a party defendant: Seattle Nat. Bank v. School Dist., 20 Wash. 368.

DEFECT OF PARTIES, ETC.: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2204-2207, §§ 51-63.

If a defect of parties is not raised by answer or demurrer, the court cannot dismiss the action except upon the refusal or neglect of plaintiff to bring in the necessary parties, after being so ordered, as provided in §§ 261, 263, 408, subdivision 5; Harrington v. Miller, 4 Wash. 808.

Where a defect of parties plaintiff has not been raised in the court below by demurrer or answer, objection thereto is waived, and cannot be urged on appeal: Hannegan v. Roth, 12 Wash. 695.

While a court will not proceed to final judgment in the absence of a necessary party, it will not dismiss the action on account of the nonjoinder of such party, but will retain it until all necessary parties are brought in, after which it will proceed to judgment on the merits: Id.

A misjoinder of parties defendant furnishes no ground for reversal of a judgment where the cause was dismissed as to a defendant claimed to have been improperly joined: Jackson v. McAuley, 13 Wash. 298.

If a person is joined as party plaintiff in an action by an amended complaint, after the answer had averred such party had an interest in the controversy, defendants cannot afterward, on appeal, raise the objection that such additional party is not a party in interest: Shepard v. Hill, 6 Wash. 605.

A demurrer for defect of parties or misjoinder of causes of action is bad when it does not point out the defect or misjoinder: Lowman v. West, 8 Wash. 355.

INSUFFICIENCY OF FACTS PLEADED: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2271, § 76. Where enough facts are stated in a complaint to constitute a cause of action, but are not alleged with sufficient particularity, the defendant's remedy is not by demurrer, but by motion to make the complaint more definite and certain: Fares v. Gleason, 14 Wash. 657.

Although the allegations of a pleading be not as full and complete as they might be, they should be held sufficient when not attacked by motion or demurrer, if sufficient in other respects: Bell v. Waudby, 4 Wash. 743, 747; and while a complaint may be opened to attack by motion, it may yet be invincible against a general demurrer: Howard v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 10 Wash. 280, 283; Duryee v. Friars, 18 Wash. 55; Gehres v. Orlowski, 36 Wash. 156.

Objection to a complaint for insufficiency of facts cannot be raised by motion to dismiss, but only by demurrer or objection to admission of evidence: Wilkeson Coal & Coke Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177.

In construing a pleading, as against a demurrer, the office of which is to raise a substantial issue of law, evidentiary facts, and even inferences from averments amounting to mere conclusions of law, will be considered in favor of the pleading: Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 107.

Where the objection that the complaint does not state a cause of action has been raised in the lower court by demurrer, and the demurrer has been subsequently waived, the defendant cannot raise the objection of insufficiency of the complaint on appeal, as § 263, permitting the defendant to raise the objection at any stage of the proceedings that the complaint does not state a cause of action has no application to cases where the point has been once raised in the lower court by demurrer and then abandoned: Mosher v. Bruhn, 15 Wash. 332.

Demurrer does not lie for generality of statement or want of particularity: Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215; Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 107; Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54; Oregon R. & Nav. Co. v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 195; Green v. Tidball, 26 Wash. 338; Wiest v. Coal Creek R. Co., 42 Wash. 176; Allen v. Baxter, 42 Wash. 434; Watson v. Glover, 21 Wash. 677.

Want of definiteness in an answer must be taken advantage of by motion and not by demurrer: Schaad v. Robinson, 50 Wash. 283.

Conclusions of law are not ground for demurrer: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2272, § 77; Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 107; Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54; Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779.

Where triable issues of fact are presented by the complaint, answer and reply, it is error to sustain a demurrer to the reply, and dismiss the action: Davis v. Old-acres, 3 W. T. 593.

A complaint is not demurrable because the prayer is for a larger amount than is warranted by the facts: Howard v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 10 Wash. 280.

Where several lien claimants join in one action whose claims are of the same character, and the claim of each plaintiff is separately pleaded, it is error to sustain a general demurrer to the complaint for want of sufficient facts, if any of the causes are well pleaded: Chevret v. M. & L. Co., 4 Wash. 721.

In an action upon an assignment of an account due, and a further sum to be earned in future, the complaint is good against a general demurrer on the cause of action for the sum due: Rice v. Yakima & P. Ry. Co., 4 Wash. 724.

A complaint against a corporation on a contract made with it, without averment of its corporate existence, is bad on demurrer: Tomlie v. Dean, 1 W. T. 46.

A court of equity will sustain a demurrer to a complaint to vacate a judgment at law, unless facts justifying the action appear on its face: Wingard v. Jameson, 2 W. T. 402.

A complaint in an equitable action for return of a conveyance duly executed and placed in escrow, before final proof on government lands conveyed, and which defendant had wrongfully obtained and had recorded, is good against demurrer, as plaintiff had a special interest in the escrow, and an action at law would not afford an adequate remedy: Paxton v. Danforth's Admr., 1 Wash. 120, 124.

A complaint for the death of an employee is demurrable, when it shows that the peril to which he was exposed by his employment, and which resulted in his death, was such as could have been easily seen and appreciated by him: Bullivant v. Spokane, 14 Wash. 577.

In an action upon a forthcoming bond which provided that it should not become effective unless the superior court gave possession to the principal of the property then in the hands of a receiver, the complaint is demurrable as not stating a cause of action, when it fails to allege that the property had been delivered to the principal, although the complaint may recite an order of the court stating that the principal was in possession of the property: Larson v. Winder, 14 Wash. 647.

A demurrer to a complaint on the ground that it does not state a cause of action should not be sustained, where the complaint states facts sufficient to entitle the plaintiffs to the foreclosure of a mortgage against the defendants, who were subsequent execution purchasers of the property but had not been made parties to the original foreclosure proceedings, although the prayer in the present action is to quiet the title based upon the decree of foreclosure in the former action: Damon v. Leque, 14 Wash. 253.

In a complaint on a contract to freight produce to a certain point, part performance alleged, and refusal of defendants to permit plaintiff to complete contract, or to perform on their part, and damages asked for breach. Held, that, there being no allegation of payment on the part performed, it would be assumed that suit was brought for that as well as for the unperformed portion, and hence the demurrer was properly overruled to the complaint. If any part of the complaint is good it will stand against a general demurrer: McCartney v. Glassford, 1 Wash. 579.

ACTION BARRED: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2274, § 91. If it appear on the face of the complaint that the statute of limitations has run against the claim pleaded, advantage may be taken by demurrer: Wilt v. Buchtel, 2 W. T. 417. (The statute of limitations was not a specific ground of demurrer at the time this decision was rendered; under present statute if not raised by demurrer it will be waived, where the bar of the statute appears on the face of the complaint.)

Demurrer for want of facts does not raise the question of the statute of limitations: Board of Church Erection Fund v. First Pres. Church, 19 Wash. 455; George v. Butler, 26 Wash. 456; Joergenson v. Joergenson, 28 Wash. 477.

§ 260. (4908.) Grounds of Demurrer, How Specified.

The demurrer may specify the grounds of objection in the statutory language of the last preceding section, or the grounds may be distinctly specified; it may be taken to the whole complaint, or to any one of the alleged causes of action stated therein. [Cf. L. '54, p. 139, § 41; L. '77, p. 18, § 78; Cd. '81, § 78; 2 H. C., § 190.]

See notes to last section.

§ 261. (4909.) Objections, When to be Taken by Answer.

When any of the matters enumerated in section 259 do not appear upon the face of the complaint, the objection may be taken by answer. [L. '54, p. 139, § 42; Cd. '81, § 79; 2 H. C., § 191.]

See supra, § 259, notes, grounds of demurrer.

If a defect of parties is not raised by answer or demurrer, the court cannot dismiss the action except when plaintiff refuses or neglects to bring in the necessary parties: Harrington v. Miller, 4 Wash. 808.

§ 262. (4910.) Proceedings When Complaint is Amended.

If the complaint be amended, a copy thereof shall be served on the defendant or his attorney, and the defendant shall answer the same within such time as may be prescribed by the court; and if he omit to do so, the plaintiff may proceed to obtain judgment as in other cases of failure to answer. [L. '69, p. 20, § 78; Cd. '81, § 80; 2 H. C., § 192.]

See infra, § 411, judgment for want of answer.

See Sengenfelder v. Hill, 16 Wash. 355.

§ 263. (4911.) Objections not Taken Deemed Waived.

If no objection be taken either by demurrer or answer, the defendant shall be deemed to have waived the same, excepting always the objection that the court has no jurisdiction, or that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, which objection can be made at any stage of the proceedings, either in the superior or supreme court. [L. '54, p. 139, § 43; Cd. '81, § 81; 2 H. C., § 193.]

Waiver of defects and objections: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2305-2307, §§ 192-199.

The language of this section does not justify the interposition of a demurrer after an answer; if during the proper stage of pleading defendant has failed to demur, he must wait for his opportunity to make his objection in another form: Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215, 220; Weatherwax Lum. Co. v. Ray, 38 Wash. 545.

An objection to the complaint that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action is not waived by failure to demur: Lyen v. Bond, 3 W. T. 407.

While it is true that such an objection is not waived by not demurring, yet if defendant answers and goes to trial upon the merits, the complaint should be strongly construed against him, and the verdict sustained, if by any reasonable intendment it can be upheld: Id., 410.

In applying the provisions of this section, in case of objections raised for the first time in the appellate court, the objections are not looked upon as the court below would have considered them upon demurrer. The rule of construction of pleadings after verdict obtains, that every reasonable intendment comes to the aid of the pleading, while before verdict it is strictly construed as against the pleader: Coats v. W. C. F. & M. Ins. Co., 4 Wash. 375, 377.

As to whether a demurrer for want of sufficient facts is waived by filing an answer, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2307, § 199; Jones v. St. Paul etc. R. Co., 16 Wash. 25; O'Toole v. Faulkner, 29 Wash. 544; State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v. Gas Co., 28 Wash. 488; and Wappenstein v. Aberdeen, 39 Wash. 189.

Objections are considered waived if the facts stated will justify a recovery upon any theory upon which a right can be founded: Blumenthal v. Pacific Meat Co., 12 Wash. 331; State ex rel. Abernethy v.

Moss, 13 Wash. 42; Wappenstein v. Aberdeen, 39 Wash. 189; County of Island v. Babcock, 17 Wash. 438.

An order overruling a demurrer to a complaint for want of sufficient facts, followed by an answer, does not preclude the court from sustaining defendant's objection to any evidence at the trial on the ground that the complaint does not state sufficient facts, and that the evidence offered was insufficient to warrant a decree, where, under the most liberal rules of construction, the defect in the complaint and cause of action was one of substance which could not be cured by amendment: O'Day v. Ambaum, 47 Wash. 684.

A motion for a nonsuit on the ground that the complaint failed to state a cause of action was properly denied, where there was no demurrer and the defect had been cured by the admission of proof without objection: State ex rel. Jenkins v. Equitable Indemnity Assn., 18 Wash. 514.

After interposing a demurrer on the ground that a certain party was a necessary party plaintiff, the defendants, after such party had been brought in as a party plaintiff, are estopped to claim the original complaint fails to state any cause of action as to such party: Harrington v. Gordon, 42 Wash. 692; Gleason v. Tacoma Hotel Co., 16 Wash. 412.

On plaintiff's motion for judgment on the pleading the answer should be liberally construed: Townsend v. Price, 19 Wash. 415; but it is proper to allow judgment for the amount admitted due by answer: Ach v. Carter, 21 Wash. 140.

Where the complaint is sufficient and the answer contains no legal defense, judgment on the pleadings is properly entered for the plaintiff: Morris v. Healy Lum. Co., 33 Wash. 451.

Where no objection is made in the court below, either by demurrer or answer, to an alleged defect of parties plaintiff, it cannot be raised in the appellate court for the first time: Ralph v. Lomer, 3 Wash. 401.

The objection of defect of parties is waived, if not raised by answer or demurrer: Harrington v. Miller, 4 Wash. 808; First Nat. Bank v. Hamor, 49 Fed. 45.

If a demurrer is interposed, but dropped from the calendar for want of prosecution, the defect is waived, when cured by action had at the trial: Livesley v. O'Brien, 3 Wash. 546. And the objection that the complaint does not state a cause of action, first raised by demurrer, is waived by the withdrawal of the demurrer and answering on the merits, and cannot be subsequently raised by an objection to any evidence: Watson v. Kent, 35 Wash. 21; Healy v. King County, 37 Wash. 184. Where evidence outside the pleadings is taken without objection to the form of the pleading, the defect should be disregarded and the pleading ordered amended: Galliher v. Cadwell, 3 W. T. 501; Johnson v. Bellingham Bay Imp. Co., 13 Wash. 455. The objection that the complaint does not allege defendant's negligence as the proximate cause of plaintiff's injury cannot be raised for the first time on appeal, when the evidence sufficiently connects the one as the proximate cause of the other, thereby warranting the court in deeming the complaint amended to correspond therewith: Selby v. Vancouver Water Works Co., 32 Wash. 522.

Although a complaint fail to state a cause of action, if that objection be not assigned in appellant's brief, and is not presented until oral argument on appeal, the supreme court will ignore the point: Francioli v. Brue, 4 Wash. 124.

In an action to recover damages for wrongful attachment a denial of that paragraph of plaintiff's complaint alleging them constitutes a negative pregnant, which, if not cured by the evidence, entitled plaintiff to judgment in the whole amount asked for: Cole v. Noerdlinger, 22 Wash. 51.

A judgment upon the pleadings in an action upon a mutual and open account is properly restricted to the amount admitted in the answer to be due: Griffith v. Maxwell, 25 Wash. 658.

Where a defendant did not raise the objection, either by demurrer or answer, that the action was barred by the statute of limitations, until after trial and judgment and the case came back for retrial after reversal on appeal, the objection must be deemed as waived: Bay View Brewing Co. v. Grubb, 31 Wash. 34.

A failure to properly traverse original pleadings is immaterial where amended pleadings were filed by both parties: Ward v. Ward, 14 Wash. 640.

Where a case is tried upon an agreed statement of facts, objections to the pleadings may be eliminated from the case on appeal: Clambey v. Corliss, 41 Wash. 327.

An objection that the court has no jurisdiction, first raised by demurrer, is not waived by failing to except to the order overruling the demurrer, where the answer expressly reserved the point and at the trial the evidence was objected to for the same reason: West v. Martin, 47 Wash. 417.

Objection to the jurisdiction of the subject matter is not waived by a general appearance: Id.

Leave to sue a receiver is jurisdictional, and cannot be waived by him, and under this section the question may be raised at any stage of the case either in the lower or appellate court: Brown v. Rauch, 1 Wash. 497. Overruled in High v. Shelton S. W. R. Co., 20 Wash. 16.

If a complaint on a policy of fire insurance is insufficient because it fails to show what other insurance was upon the property burned, the objection cannot, in the absence of the record showing the facts in evidence on the trial, be raised for the first time in the appellate court: Coats v. West Coast F. etc. Co., 4 Wash. 375.

A complaint which shows a contract for sale and transfer of soldiers' additional homestead scrip, seeking a money judgment thereon, without stating facts to exonerate plaintiffs from blame, fails to state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action, advantage of which may be taken for the first time in the appellate court: McIntosh v. Renton, 2 W. T. 121; Sears v. Williams, 9 Wash. 428.

A motion by defendant to open a default judgment entered, not made on a special appearance, as well as a subsequent answer, waives objections theretofore made to the jurisdiction of the person: Sayward v. Carlson, 1 Wash. 29.

After overruling a demurrer to a complaint, and answer over by the defendants, it is discretionary to permit a renewal of the demurrer: Blalock v. Condon, 51 Wash. 604.

§ 264. (4912.) What Answer Shall Contain.

The answer of the defendant must contain,—

1. A general or specific denial of each material allegation of the complaint controverted by the defendant, or of any knowledge or information thereof sufficient to form a belief;

2. A statement of any new matter constituting a defense or counterclaim, in ordinary and concise language without repetition. [Cf. L. '54, p. 139, § 44; L. '69, p. 21, § 80; L. '77, p. 18, § 82; Cd. '81, § 82, 2 H. C., § 194.]

See next section, definition of counterclaim.

See supra, § 258, and notes, complaint.

See supra, § 259, and notes, demurrer of defendant.

See infra, § 273, joinder of defenses.

See infra, § 273, what may be set forth in answer.

See infra, § 293, answer in justification and mitigation.

See infra, § 297, material allegations not controverted are admitted.

See infra, § 305, when pleading may be stricken.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2261-2268, §§ 35-64.

DENIALS: Id., pp. 2264, 2265, §§ 50-53. An answer denying "generally each and every allegation" of the complaint, is a good general denial, and defendant may introduce competent evidence under such plea: Renter v. Straight, 1 Wash. 365.

Admissibility of evidence under general denial in action for malicious prosecution: See Kellogg v. Scheuerman, 18 Wash. 294.

A paragraph of an answer denying the allegation of a specific paragraph of the complaint is sufficient; so also an answer to a paragraph of a complaint alleging several distinct matters "that whether the matters and things set forth are true or false, defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient thereof to form a belief, and therefore denies the same": Seattle Nat. Bank v. Meerwaldt, 8 Wash. 630.

An allegation in an answer that defendant "has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief" is a sufficient denial to put in issue the allegations of the paragraph of complaint to which it is addressed: Colby v. Spokane, 12 Wash. 690.

But where the complaint avers an agreement between plaintiff and defendant, a denial of information or knowledge sufficient to form a belief as to the facts alleged is not sufficient to raise any issue of fact, as the presumption is that the defendant has positive knowledge whether or not the averment is true: Raymond v. Johnson, 17 Wash. 232.

A denial of sufficient knowledge or information to form a belief as to the allegations of a complaint that the plaintiff, at request of a firm composed of one defendant and the intestate of the other defendant, executed a written guaranty in their behalf, and an affirmative defense that, if the guaranty was executed, its execution was for the purpose of defrauding the firm or one of the members thereof, may be included in the same answer, as they are not necessarily inconsistent defenses: Corbitt v. Harrington, 14 Wash. 197.

An answer which states that it "does not deny or admit" the allegations of plaintiff's complaint does not constitute a general or specific denial, and is insufficient: Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 650. And where the answer does not deny the facts stated in a paragraph of the complaint, but controverts the conclusion drawn by the pleader from the facts stated, it fails to traverse any material fact: Id.

Although the denial may not be as specific as good pleading requires, for the reason that defendants "say that they deny each and every allegation," yet where there is no motion to make the same more specific, and it appears from the answer as a whole what allegations are denied and what are admitted, the denial is sufficient: Town of Denver v. Spokane Falls, 7 Wash. 226.

If the answer, as a whole, sets up a semblance of defense, its sufficiency cannot be determined on a motion to strike it out as irrelevant: Hatch v. Tacoma etc. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 1, 7; followed in Silsby v. Tacoma etc. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 295.

Although an answer may be defective, if it can be gathered therefrom that an issue is tendered upon a material matter, it is error to render judgment upon the pleadings in plaintiff's favor: Rourk v. Miller, 3 Wash. 73.

A denial, on information and belief, as to the filing of a lien notice in the county auditor's office, is insufficient: Sumpter v. Burnham, 51 Wash. 599.

SUFFICIENCY OF DENIALS, AS TO PARTICULAR ALLEGATIONS.—In a negligence case, in which defendant pleads a general denial, and also plaintiff's contributory negligence, and there is no motion to make the answer more specific, evidence of plaintiff's intoxication, as the cause of the injury received by him, is admissible: Carter v. Seattle, 19 Wash. 597.

The denial in an answer of an allegation in the complaint that plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law tenders no issue of fact: Abbott v. Gaches, 20 Wash. 517.

The interposition of a sworn answer denying all the equities of plaintiffs' complaint, which entitles them to the appointment of a receiver pendente lite, will not raise a prima facie case in favor of defendants, unless such answer is full and responsive to all the material allegations of the complaint: Cameron v. Groveland Imp. Co., 20 Wash. 169; Roberts v. Center, 26 Wash. 435; Sherman v. Sweeny, 29 Wash. 321.

A denial of a contract is not aided by setting up another version of the contract: Puget Sound Iron Co. v. Worthington, 2 W. T. 472; Trumbull v. Jackman, 9 Wash. 524; Peterson v. Seattle Traction Co., 23 Wash. 615.

Affirmative defenses which are mere denials add nothing to the general denial: Johnston v. McCart, 24 Wash. 19; Adams v. Casey, 39 Wash. 37.

In an action to quiet title to property levied upon as that of the community and claimed by the plaintiff as her separate property, an answer affirmatively alleging that the same was community property, amounts to no more than a denial and requires no reply: Dueber v. Wolfe, 47 Wash. 634.

An insufficient plea of confession and avoidance is in effect a mere denial: Roberts v. Center, 26 Wash. 435.

In an action of unlawful detainer, an answer that defendants were holding under a different lease from that alleged in the complaint is only an argumentative denial, and adds nothing to a general denial in the answer: Ryan v. Lambert, 49 Wash. 649.

In an action upon a written guaranty of a note, which was denied by the answer, an affirmative answer admitting an indorsement in blank and alleging that the written guaranty was thereafter fraudulently stamped on the note and setting forth the fraudulent means whereby the indorsement in blank was secured and the previous fraud perpetrated on the defendant, adds nothing to the denials of the answer, and it is error to submit the affirmative defense to the jury, no affirmative relief having been asked: O'Connor v. Slatter, 48 Wash. 493.

NEGATIVE PREGNANT: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2265, § 55. An answer reiterating the words of a complaint "that whether said warrant came into the hands of plaintiff as alleged, this defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief, and he therefore denies the same," constitutes a negative pregnant: National Bank v. Meerwaldt, 8 Wash. 630.

A denial "in manner and form" admits the allegation of the complaint: Seattle v. Buzby, 2 W. T. 25.

A simple denial that fifty dollars is a reasonable attorney's fee admits that any sum less than fifty dollars is a reasonable attorney's fee: Proulx v. S. & P. M. Co., 6 Wash. 478, 484.

The traverse of an affidavit for attachment denying that defendant "is about to assign, secrete and dispose of his property with intent to hinder and delay creditors" is a negative pregnant, and raises no issue: Hansen v. Doherty, 1 Wash. 461.

A denial of having received the particular amount alleged to be due plaintiff is worthless, and tenders no issue; and in the absence of other matters of defense, plaintiff would be entitled to judgment on the pleadings: Dillon v. Spokane Co., 3 W. T. 498.

An allegation in an answer that "each and every of four separate causes of action set forth in the complaint did not accrue within six years," contains a negative pregnant, and it is error to grant judgment for failure to deny the same: Gammon v. Dyke, 2 W. T. 266; distinguished in Penter v. Straight, supra. See, also, Columbia Nat. Bank v. Western Iron and Steel Co., 14 Wash. 162; Cole v. Noerdlinger, 22 Wash. 51. As to the present force of the rule in this state relating to negative pregnant, see O'Brien v. Seattle Ice Co., 43 Wash. 217.

GENERAL DENIALS IN PARTICULAR CASES.—A plea of general denial does not admit the corporate existence of a plaintiff, where that is a necessary allegation of the complaint; such denials are intended to put plaintiff to his proof as to every allegation material to his cause of action: Town of Denver v. Spokane Falls, supra.

In an action upon a contract against a corporation, an insufficient denial of the complaint admits that the person shown to have made the contract sued on was the authorized agent of the corporation: Frost v. Ainslie L. Co., 8 Wash. 241.

If the gist of the complaint is that the master has injured the servant and the proof shows the injury to have been caused by a fellow-servant, defendant may move for a nonsuit, without having pleaded any other defense than the general denial: Sayward v. Carlson, 1 Wash. 29.

In an action on a judgment of another state, an answer which denies the jurisdiction of the court which granted it, and that the cause of action ever existed, states mere conclusions of law, and is an insufficient plea to the jurisdiction: Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512, 522; see Aultman v. Mills, 9 Wash. 68.

In a complaint upon a promissory note alleging that the payees had, "for value received, duly delivered, transferred and assigned said promissory note to plaintiffs, who are now the owners and holders thereof," an issue of ownership is tendered by a general denial: Tullis v. Shannon, 3 Wash. 716.

Where the allegations of a complaint in an action upon a bond sufficiently set forth that it was founded on a good consideration, an averment in the answer that "the bond was wholly and absolutely without any consideration" amounts merely to a denial, and not to new matter requiring a reply: Frank v. Jenkins, 11 Wash. 611.

An allegation in an answer that representations were false and fraudulent, regarding sale of lands, and that by reason thereof defendants were induced to execute and deliver the notes sued on, without stating wherein such representations were false, is the mere expression of an opinion and tenders no issue: National Bank v. Hughson, 5 Wash. 100.

An answer setting up a conditional contract for conveyance of lands, but failing to show an offer to reconvey or surrender the premises held by vendee, is bad on demurrer: Kenworthy v. Merritt, 2 W. T. 155.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2267, 2268, § 59. The defendant must, in his answer, deny the matters alleged, or must state new matter in avoidance, or by way of counterclaim: Puget Sound Iron Co. v. Worthington, 2 W. T. 472.

An affirmative defense is subject to the same rules as the case of a plaintiff who has the affirmative of an issue: Wadhams v. Page, 6 Wash. 103, 107.

A defendant is required to set forth his matter of defense specifically, and with the same precision and accuracy which are required of a plaintiff, when alleging new matter: Meeker v. Wren, 1 W. T. 73; Roeder v. Brown, 1 W. T. 112.

Affirmative matter in an answer, which, in effect, amounts to nothing more than a denial of the allegations of the complaint, and a reply thereto, adds nothing to the issue already formed by defendant's general denial, and if defendant denies making the contract alleged, it is irrelevant to the cause to set forth a contract he admits he did make: P. S. I. Co. v. Worthington, supra; cited in Trumbull v. Jackman, 9 Wash. 527. See Distler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200; Osten v. Winehill, 10 Wash. 33.

An answer alleging "that more than six years have elapsed since the cause of action on said judgment accrued," simply states the conclusion necessarily inferred from the facts alleged in the complaint and is not new matter requiring a reply: Lake v. Steinbach, supra.

Where an affirmative defense is pleaded, it is error to instruct the jury that "if you believe from the evidence that all the material allegations of the complaint have been proven by a preponderance of the evidence, then you will find for the plaintiff," since it, in effect, ignores the defense pleaded: Dignan v. Spurr, 3 Wash. 309.

In an action by a creditor against a retiring partner to recover a partnership debt, an answer alleging that the creditor had agreed to look to the other partner for payment is an affirmative defense, and, as such, must be supported by a preponderance of the evidence: Wadhams v. Page, 1 Wash. 420.

In an action of forcible entry and detainer, an answer alleging that the defendant had been in the quiet possession of the premises for more than a year preceding the filing of the complaint, but which fails to allege that defendant's estate therein had not ended, is insufficient under § 1836 of the Code of 1881: Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Strand, 1 Wash. 133.

In an action to foreclose a purchase money mortgage, given for land which grantor covenanted to own in fee simple, but to which he had neither legal nor equitable title, the mortgagor may set off his expenses and outlay in defending and compromising a suit in ejectment in which plaintiff has shown a good cause of action, as a constructive eviction is thereby established: Potvin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460.

In an action of ejectment, when plaintiff pleads title by virtue of a certificate of purchase from a receiver of public money of the United States, defendant may properly plead, by way of inducement, a certain state of facts, by reason of which the commissioner of the general land office caused such certificate to be canceled: Hays v. Parker, 2 W. T. 198.

In an action to recover for services in doing the county printing the allegations of the answer that plaintiff had sold his paper in which he contracted to do the printing and had refused to perform his contract, by reason of which defendant had contracted with another to do the printing for which plaintiff now sues, state a good defense: Rathbun v. Thurston Co., 8 Wash. 238.

In an action to recover rent under a lease, an answer substantially alleging that it was conceded by all the parties that the lease was void, that defendants surrendered the premises to plaintiffs, that a new agreement was made to occupy at a fair and reasonable rental, and that defendants reentered thereunder, is not obnoxious to demurrer, but the frivolous and redundant matter therein and its uncertainty can only be reached by a motion to strike out or to make more certain: Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54.

An answer must contain allegations of all facts, which, when plaintiff's case is established, the defendant must prove in order to defeat a recovery: Bruce v. Foley, 18 Wash. 96.

An answer as a whole admits that a sum was received by defendants as a loan, where, in an action for money loaned, the answer admits that a portion was to be regarded as a loan, and the claim is then made that the other portion was to be applied upon a board bill due from plaintiff to defendant, and which thereby paid the board bill, leaving nothing further due thereon, and a further clause in the answer alleges that no part of the board bill had been paid and that the same is now due and owing, thereby neutralizing the claim that only part of the money was a loan: Hendelman v. Kahan, 50 Wash. 247.

The objection that an action was prematurely brought must be pleaded to be available, and cannot be raised for the first time on motion for new trial: Leo Kee v. Wah Sing Chong, 31 Wash. 678.

NEW MATTERS HELD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES.—Any new matter or relation, the truth of which is essential to the pleader's case: McKenzie v. Oregon Imp. Co., 5 Wash. 409. Illegal contract: Maitland v. Zanga, 14 Wash. 92. Statute of limitations, when not appearing on face of the complaint: Damon v. Leque, 17 Wash. 573. Want of consideration, for the execution of a promissory note: Griffith v. Wright, 21 Wash. 494.

In an action in this state upon a promissory note executed in Oregon on a loan made there, an answer alleging that under § 3587, Oregon Statutes, such note is usurious, is demurrable, as the only effect of the Oregon statute would be to prevent the collection of interest in excess of ten per centum: McDaniel v. Pressler, 3 Wash. 636.

In an action upon a policy of insurance issued by a company incorporated in this state upon property in the state of New York, the allegations of the answer in the particular case held to state a good defense: Wood v. Cascade Fire etc. Ins. Co., 8 Wash. 427.

SPECIAL DEFENSES—ESTOPPEL: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1104, § 65. An estoppel must be specially pleaded to be available as a defense: Walker v. Baxter, 6 Wash. 244; Jacobs v. National Bank, 15 Wash. 358. Facts of the particular case held insufficient as a plea of estoppel: Walker v. Baxter, supra; Huggins v. Milwaukee Brew. Co., 10 Wash. 579; Interstate Sav. & L. Assn. v. Knapp, 20 Wash. 255; Gay v. Havermale, 27 Wash. 390.

Matter by way of estoppel is available as a defense in an action at law as well as in equity: Sweeney v. Pacific Coast Elevator Co., 14 Wash. 562.

Failure of defendants to deny liability, and their taking of a joint receipt for sum paid, will not operate as an estoppel on the ground that they led plaintiff, the assignee of the original contractor, to believe that they had jointly contracted, or were jointly liable, when plaintiff before bringing suit sought to hold but one of defendants liable: Pacific Cable etc. Co. v. McNatt, 2 Wash. 216.

PAYMENT: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2234, § 21. When payment is not pleaded it cannot be proved under a plea of general denial of the allegations of the complaint: Maney v. Hart, 11 Wash. 67; Spokane M. & L. Co. v. McChesney, 1 Wash. 609; Richards v. Jefferson, 20 Wash. 160.

USURY.—Usury must be pleaded when relied on as a defense: Brundage v. Burke, 11 Wash. 679.

RES JUDICATA.—The plea of res judicata is not available as a defense where the parties to the action are not the same as in the one in which the judgment sought to be set up was rendered: De Mattos v. Jordan, 15 Wash. 378.

A valid judgment for plaintiff finally negatives every defense that might and should have been raised against the action, for the purpose of every subsequent suit between the same parties or their privies in reference to the same subject matter: Isensee v. Austin, 15 Wash. 352.

The assignees of a contract are barred by the rule of res judicata from maintaining a suit to be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee in a certain mortgage, which they had agreed to pay in part consideration of their contract, by reason of overpayments on such contract, when judgment has already been obtained against their assignors canceling the contract for nonperformance, and such rights as the assignees now claim would have been available as a defense by their assignors in the former action: Isensee v. Austin, supra; following Wilkes v. Davis, 8 Wash. 112, which lays down the rule of res judicata.

A judgment in a former suit on an express contract is not a bar to a second suit on a quantum meruit for the same services, when it takes different evidence to establish the two causes of action: Buddress v. Schaffer, 12 Wash. 310.

In a suit upon a contractor's bond the defense of res judicata cannot be set up by reason of the fact that in a prior action one of the sureties had recovered judgment against the obligee for moneys advanced to pay laborers upon the obligee's promise to refund: De Mattos v. Jordan, 15 Wash. 378.

An item for services between certain dates, which the jury are instructed not to allow, but upon which evidence was given and which does not constitute a separate cause of action, cannot, after final judgment in the case for the remainder of the claim sued upon, be recovered in a subsequent action: Stern v. Wash. Nat. Bank, 14 Wash. 511.

One against whom a judgment is obtained for part only of the items claimed is not obliged to see that the judgment recites anything about the items rejected, in order to plead the judgment as a bar to a subsequent action on such item: Id.

Where judgment in an action for damages for breach of contract was sought, res judicata cannot be pleaded to an action on certain promissory notes which were given as consideration for the contract: Allen v. Wall, 7 Wash. 316.

The plea of res judicata applies, as a general doctrine, not only to points upon which the court was actually required by the parties to form an opinion and pronounce judgment, but to every point which properly belongs to the subject of litigation, and which the parties, exercising reasonable diligence, might have brought forward at the time: Sayward v. Thayer, 9 Wash. 22; followed in State v. Gloyd, 14 Wash. 5, 7.

Where an electric light company has secured a restraining order prohibiting a city from interfering with it while stretching certain wires, which had been torn down the night before by the city officials, a subsequent action by the city seeking to restrain the company from replacing its wires involves identical issues and is subject to a plea in abatement: Tacoma v. Commercial etc. Power Co., 15 Wash. 515.

A bankrupt who has been discharged can plead the discharge in defense of a claim that a debt was incurred in obtaining property by false pretenses, where the debt was a provable debt, and the same issue was raised by the creditor on proving the debt in the bankruptcy court in order to defeat the discharge, and the discharge was granted notwithstanding the claim of fraud: Johnson v. Joslyn, 45 Wash. 310.

FORBEARANCE.—A promise to forbear to sue for a definite time, where the promise is based upon a sufficient consideration, may be pleaded in bar to an action: Staver & Walker v. Missimer, 6 Wash. 173.

An accepted order upon a third person for the payment of a debt not due is sufficient consideration of forbearance: Id.

ULTRA VIRES.—If a banking corporation has received and retained the benefits of a transaction, it cannot set up the plea of ultra vires: Tootle v. First Nat. Bank, 6 Wash. 181.

ANOTHER ACTION PENDING: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2264, § 47. Where a plea of another action pending has been interposed, a reply that, subsequent to the filing of the plea, the suit whose pendency was alleged had been dismissed, is good against demurrer: Boyle v. G. N. Ry. Co., 13 Wash. 383.

The fact that a stay of proceedings of a cause in a court of this state has been granted on motion instead of answer setting up the pendency of an action in another state involving the same subject matter is not ground for reversal: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 686; citing Neufelder v. No. British etc. Ins. Co., 10

Wash. 393; Neufelder v. German-Am. Ins. Co., 6 Wash. 336.

The pendency of a creditor's bill in another state which seeks to subject to the claims of the creditors the proceeds of an insurance policy, upon which an assignee of the assured had instituted an action in this state, will not constitute a ground for stay of proceedings here, when the assignee has not been made a party to the action in the foreign court, even though it is averred in the pleadings therein that the assignment was invalid because of fraud: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 686.

Notice by the defendant in an action in this state to the plaintiff that the debt claimed by plaintiff is the subject of another action in a foreign state against the same defendant imposes no obligation on plaintiff to appear in the foreign court and defend the action there: Id. See, also, State ex rel. Bank v. Tallman, 29 Wash. 411.

TENDER OF DEED.—Where a complaint for the rescission of a contract for the sale of land alleges that the complainants are willing to complete the contract, if the court finds a good, marketable title could be made to them, an answer by the defendants offering to make a deed either by the executor or by a commissioner, as the court shall decree, constitutes a sufficient tender of a deed, under the issue as made by the complaint: Hyde v. Hiller, 10 Wash. 586.

ACCORD AND SATISFACTION.—Failure to allege payment or tender in plea of accord and satisfaction in the particular case held fatal: Rogers v. Spokane, 9 Wash. 168.

As to what constitutes an accord and satisfaction for breach of a covenant of warranty, see Reichel v. Jeffrey, 9 Wash. 250.

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.—In order to take advantage of the statute of limitations, the fact that a defendant was a nonresident of the state at the time the cause of action against him accrued must be affirmatively alleged in his answer, in the absence of such averment in the complaint, in order to rebut the presumption of residence within the state: Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 659.

NONJOINDER.—If the defect of nonjoinder of a codebtor in a contract or judgment does not appear on the face of the complaint, advantage of the omission can only be taken by plea in abatement, and a defendant who fails to so plead is deemed to have waived the objection: First Nat. Bank v. Hamor (Wash.), 49 Fed. 45. See, supra, § 263.

INCONSISTENT DEFENSES: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2262, 2263, §§ 42-44. A plea of want of consideration in an answer is inconsistent with an admission in an affirmative defense that there was a consideration for the contract sued on, and in such case plaintiff cannot be put upon proof of the matter denied: Allen v.

Olympia L. & P. Co., 13 Wash. 307; citing Seattle Nat. Bank v. Carter, 13 Wash. 281; Norris Safe and Lock Co. v. Clark, 28 Wash. 268. See Davis v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 19 Wash. 65.

Where an allegation of general denial in an answer is followed in an affirmative defense by a special averment of the truth of the matter which had been denied, the defenses are so inconsistent they cannot stand together, and the plaintiff will not be compelled to establish the truth of an allegation in his complaint to which such defenses are set up: Seattle Nat. Bank v. Carter, 13 Wash. 281; Allen v. Olympia etc. Co., 13 Wash. 310; cited in Corbett v. Harrington, 14 Wash. 197; Lamberton v. Shannon, 13 Wash. 404; Olympia v. Stevens, 15 Wash. 601.

In an action upon a promissory note, a general denial that defendants had as principals promised to pay the sum alleged in the complaint to plaintiff, "except as herein expressly admitted, explained, or qualified," will, in the absence of anything restricting the application of such qualifications to the general denial, apply to an affirmative defense; and, in such case, the averments in the affirmative defense that defendants indorsed as sureties only, will destroy the effect of the general denial, as being inconsistent therewith: Lamberton v. Shannon, 13 Wash. 404; Seattle Nat. Bank v. Carter, 13 Wash. 281; Allen v. Olympia L. & P. Co., 13 Wash. 307; Allen v. Chambers, 13 Wash. 327.

In an action to recover damages for death resulting from the alleged negligence of defendant, an answer denying negligence, and setting up further, that, if there was any, the plaintiff's intestate was guilty of contributory negligence, is not objectionable as setting up inconsistent defenses: Pugh v. O. I. Co., 14 Wash. 331; cited in Glass v. Coleman, 14 Wash. 639. See Seattle Nat. Bank v. Carter, 13 Wash. 281; Corbett v. Harrington, 14 Wash. 197; Davis v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 19 Wash. 365; Spencer v. Terrel, 17 Wash. 514; Lord v. Horr, 30 Wash. 477; Irwin v. Holbrook, 32 Wash. 319; Irwin v. Buffalo Pitts Co., 39 Wash. 346; Bluett v. Wilce, 43 Wash. 492. In an action of ejectment where a plaintiff fails to require an election by the defendant, when he has pleaded an affirmative defense inconsistent with his denials, the plaintiff cannot take advantage of the defects in the answer by way of request for instructions, to the effect that the burden of proof was upon the defendant to show want of title in the plaintiffs: Lynch v. Richter, 10 Wash. 486. A denial of the execution of a contract, and an affirmative defense setting up that any signature of the defendant secured by plaintiff to any contract was obtained by trickery and fraud, which was set forth.

are not inconsistent defenses: Loveland v. Jenkins-Boys Co., 49 Wash. 369.

AMENDMENTS.—The fact that the court allows defendants to amend their answer at the trial, after three answers had already been filed in the case, does not constitute an abuse of discretion on the part of the court: Barnes v. Packwood, 10 Wash. 50.

The action of the trial court in permitting the amendment of an answer to a complaint on a promissory note, on the day of trial, so as to change an admission of its execution to a denial thereof, without a showing of good grounds therefor, and its refusal to grant a new trial to plaintiff, who was misled by the original answer into the assumption that no proof of execution was necessary, is an abuse of discretion on the part of the court warranting a reversal: Gould v. Gleason, 10 Wash. 477.

Where the nature of the answer interposed to a complaint and the proof thereunder clearly indicate that it was the intention of defendant to plead a three years' statute of limitations as a bar, and by mistake the defendant in pleading such statute had specified two years instead of three, it is not an abuse of discretion for the court after the hearing of the cause, to allow an amendment correcting the mistake, although the equities of the case may be in favor of the plaintiff: Morgan v. Morgan, 10 Wash. 99.

WAIVER BY APPEARANCE, ETC.—Objection to jurisdiction of the person of the defendant is waived by appearance and pleading to the merits: Meigs v. Keach, 1 W. T. 305.

Objections to jurisdiction of the person taken before entry of default are waived by motion to open default and by the subsequent filing of an answer: Sayward v. Carlson, 1 Wash. 29.

An objection for misnomer of plaintiff is waived by filing an answer to the merits; but it is not prejudicial error for the court to order the filing of an amended complaint after issue joined, where no considerable expense or delay is suffered: Lee v. Lee, 3 Wash. 236.

The filing of a substituted answer does not operate as a waiver of exception to an order striking out an affirmative defense in the original pleading: Schulte v. Littlejohn, 2 Wash. 129.

JUDGMENT ON PLEADINGS: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2289, 2290, §§ 145-150. If an answer is filed which fails to controvert the material allegations of the complaint, plaintiff is entitled to judgment for failure to answer, although plaintiff may have filed a reply to the defective answer: Port v. Parfit, 4 Wash. 369; King v. I. R. & N. Co., 1 Wash. 127.

In an action for purchase price of land, where there is no denial of the allegation that defendants were in possession at the time of the commencement of the action, nor of any other material allegation thereof, plaintiff is entitled to judgment on the pleadings: Hanna v. Savage, 7 Wash. 414.

In an action upon a promissory note, plaintiff is entitled to judgment on the pleadings, when the answer admits the execution of the note and negatives the allegation of nonpayment in the complaint merely by general denial: National Bank v. Western Iron & Steel Co., 14 Wash. 162.

§ 265. (4913.) Counterclaim Defined.

The counterclaim mentioned in the preceding section must be one existing in favor of a defendant and against a plaintiff, between whom a several judgment might be had in the action, and arising out of one of the following causes of action:—

1. A cause of action arising out of the contract or transaction set forth in the complaint as the foundation of the plaintiff's claim, or connected with the subject of the action;

2. In an action arising on contract, any other cause of action arising also on contract, and existing at the commencement of the action. [Cf. L. '54, p. 140, § 45; L. '69, p. 21, § 81; L. '77, p. 19, § 83; Cd. '81, § 83; 2 H. C., § 195.]

See infra, § 823.

As to when a counterclaim may be interposed against an assigned debt, see supra, § 191.

Cited in 3 Wash. 368; 7 Wash. 560; 8 Wash. 646; 9 Wash. 463; 10 Wash. 194; 11 Wash. 574; 12 Wash. 598; 16 Wash. 373; 16 Wash. 566; 26 Wash. 182; 28 Wash. 236; 32 Wash. 653; 33 Wash. 469; 33 Wash. 621; 48 Wash. 446; 51 Wash. 665.

Sufficiency, in general and what may be subject of counterclaim; See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2569-2572, §§ 1-15; Myers v. Landrum, 4 Wash. 762; Graham v. McCoy, 17 Wash. 63; Young v. Borzone, 26 Wash. 4; Maney v. Hart, 11 Wash. 67; Spaulding v. Burke, 33 Wash. 679; Gordon v. Decker, 19 Wash. 188; Peterson v. Johnson, 20 Wash. 497; Fishburne v. Merchants' Bank, 42 Wash. 473; Peters v. Lewis, 33 Wash. 617; Tacoma Mill Co. v. Perry, 32 Wash. 650; Corliss v. Dunning, 8 Wash. 332; First Nat. Bank v. Parker, 28 Wash. 234; Federal Iron etc. Co. v. Hock, 42 Wash. 668.

A counterclaim is in the nature of a cross-complaint, and must state a cause of action against the plaintiff, who is really a defendant therein: Caine v. Seattle & Northern Ry. Co., 12 Wash. 596, 598.

A cross-complaint is in the nature of an original action: Northwestern & P. H. Bank v. Ridpath, 29 Wash. 687.

Under subdivision 1 there is no distinction whatever between liquidated and unliquidated damages, provided the cause of action arises out of the same contract or transactions, hence an unliquidated claim for damages may be a subject of counterclaim: Niver v. Nash, 7 Wash. 558.

The defendant may counterclaim for any cause of action against plaintiff arising on contract, whether liquidated or not: Shelton v. Conant, 10 Wash. 193.

If a counterclaim be not barred by the statute of limitations at the commencement of the action in which it is pleaded.

it does not become so afterward during the pendency of the action: Id.

Affirmative relief cannot be granted to the defendant in the absence of a cross-bill or counterclaim: Distler v. Debney, 7 Wash. 431.

Where a party proposes to amend his answer by including other matters as set-offs, he must show the demands sought to be offset, so that the court may ascertain whether it is a proper subject of setoff: Newberg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182.

A counterclaim for damages arising out of the wrongful issuance of attachment cannot be pleaded in answer to the complaint in the original action: Veysey v. Thompson, 49 Wash. 571.

As to counterclaim, see City of Whatcom v. B. B. Imp. Co., 16 Wash. 138; Conner v. Scott, 16 Wash. 371; First Nat. Bank v. Parker, 28 Wash. 234; Sheafe v. Hastie, 16 Wash. 563; Boyer v. Robinson, 26 Wash. 118.

Under subdivision 3 a defendant in an action at law may avail himself of both legal and equitable defenses: Ryan v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 356, 368; see Brown v. Hazard, 2 W. T. 464; Brown v. Bank, 132 U. S. 216; and a defendant in action to recover lands is entitled to set up any valid defense either legal or equitable: Edson v. Knox, 8 Wash. 642, 646.

A claim in which a stranger to the suit is interested jointly with the party to the action is not a proper subject of setoff: Williams v. Miller, 1 W. T. 88, 90.

One defendant is not entitled to set up by cross-complaint that a codefendant converted the property to his own use to the cross-complainant's damage, as such claim relates to matter not embraced in the original complaint: Hill v. Frink, 11 Wash. 562.

A demurrer to a counterclaim, on the ground that it did not arise out of the same transaction as the cause set out in the complaint, is waived by the admission, without objection, of evidence in support of the counterclaim: Reynolds v. Dickson, 48 Wash. 407.

If a complaint against a corporation does not allege its corporate character, objection thereto is waived by defendant's pleading a counterclaim as though plaintiff were in fact a corporation: Frost v. Ainslie L. Co., 3 Wash. 241.

In an action for partition of land, defendants may set off moneys paid out at request of plaintiff in defending the title to the land: Blackwell v. McLean, 9 Wash. 301.

Defendant in partition proceedings may set off the value of necessary improvements made by him upon the land, provided the claim for improvements is confined to their value as part of the land without regard to their cost: Id.

In an action for the rescission of a contract for the sale of land, and for the cancellation of notes and mortgage given to secure the purchase price, a counterclaim asking for the foreclosure of the mortgage on account of breach of conditions therein may properly be interposed: Duggar v. Dempsey, 13 Wash. 396.

Although a surety upon a building contract has, in an action for damages by the owner, set up by way of counterclaim a new contract with himself for the construction of the building after abandonment by the contractor, he may also set up a counterclaim upon the part of all the defendants under the original contract: Brodek v. Farnum, 11 Wash. 566.

In an action for damages upon a joint claim against several parties for breach of a building contract, any one of the defendants may, under §§ 264, 265, 406, plead the joint claim of all for any balance due under the contract by way of counterclaim, and would be entitled to judgment for any balance, over and above the damages sustained by plaintiffs: Id.

If inconsistent defenses have been pleaded, an election should be required of defendant as to which one he replies upon: Lynch v. Richter, 10 Wash. 486, 491.

Question as to whether or not such defenses are allowable under our statutes not decided: Id.

If, under a building contract, all differences between owner and contractor are to be submitted to a superintendent, there is no dispute as to contract price, and the superintendent has allowed certain items for extra work, the contractor may recover therefor, and the owner cannot set up any claim for damages in reduction of contract price or extra work when he has not presented such claim to the superintendent at a meeting of both parties to the contract held for the purpose of settling the account between them: Hughes v. Bravinder, 9 Wash. 595.

In an action instituted by the landlord against the tenant for rent, under the forcible entry and detainer act (§ 787 et seq., infra), an answer setting up a counterclaim on account of repairs made by tenant which it was the duty of the landlord to make, is demurrable on the ground that it does not state a defense: Phillips v. Port Townsend Lodge, 8 Wash. 529. It seems that in such an action defendant cannot interpose an answer alleging that in drawing up the lease certain terms thereof were omitted by mutual mistake, and asking that the lease be reformed to express the contract of the parties: Id.

A valid counterclaim cannot be based upon the transfer of a contract to furnish supplies to the United States, as such a transfer is forbidden by law: Turnbull v. Farnsworth, 1 W. T. 444.

In an action for unlawful detainer, it is inadmissible to set up a counterclaim for damages on account of loss of business, depreciation in property purchased for use on the leased premises, and for repairs, alleged as resulting from the action of the landlord: Ralph v. Lomar, 3 Wash. 401. Counterclaims and offsets are not available in actions for unlawful detainer: Phillips v. Port Townsend Lodge, supra; see infra, § 823.

In the foreclosure of a mortgage for purchase money, given for land covenanted by grantor in fee simple, but to which he had neither a legal nor equitable title, the mortgagor may counterclaim his expenses and outlay in defending and settling a suit in ejectment, stating a good cause of action, since constructive eviction is thereby established: Potwin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460.

In an action to rescind a sale and cancel a chattel mortgage given by the plaintiffs, a counterclaim setting up the mortgage and seeking its foreclosure is so connected with the cause of action that it may be properly interposed: Reynolds v. Dickson, 48 Wash. 407.

In an action of replevin for goods sold under a conditional bill of sale, the vendee may counterclaim for damages by reason of the vendor's breach of a contemporaneous agreement respecting the mode of payment, since the two contracts arise out of the same transaction: Gilbert Co. v. Husted, 50 Wash. 61.

In an action to quiet title by the cancellation of a contract of sale, upon which a first payment had been made, the defendant is not entitled to set up a counterclaim for the money paid, and a personal money judgment therefor is error, although repayment might have been adjudged a condition precedent to the equitable relief sought: Kane v. Borthwick, 50 Wash. 8.

§ 266. Setoff, When Allowed.

The defendant in a civil action upon a contract expressed or implied, may set off any demand of a like nature against the plaintiff in interest, which existed and belonged to him at the time of the commencement of the suit. And in all such actions, other than upon a negotiable promissory note or bill of exchange, negotiated in good faith and without notice before due, which has been assigned to the plaintiff, he may also set off a demand of a like nature existing against the person to whom he was originally liable, or any assignee prior to the plaintiff, of such contract, provided such demand existed at the time of the assignment thereof, and belonging to the defendant in good faith, before notice of such assignment, and was such a demand as might have been set off against such person to whom he was originally liable, or such assignee while the contract belonged to him. [Cd. '81, § 497; 2 H. C., § 806.]

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2569-2572, §§ 1-15, and notes to § 265, supra. Hill's Code appear to be recognized by the courts as still in force: See Sheafe v. Hastie, 16 Wash. 563, 567.

§ 267. Demand Against Beneficiary Set Off in Action by Trustee.

If the plaintiff be a trustee to any other, or if the action be in a name of the plaintiff who has no real interest in the contract upon which the action is founded, so much of a demand existing against those whom the plaintiff represents or for whose benefit the action is brought, may be set off as will satisfy the plaintiff's debt, if the same might have been set off in an action brought by those beneficially interested. [Cd. '81, § 498; 2 H. C., § 807.]

§ 268. Demand Against Decedent in Action by Executor.

In actions brought by executors and administrators, demands against their testators and intestates, and belonging to defendant at the time of their death, may be set off by the defendant in the same manner as if the action had been brought by and in the name of the deceased. [Cd. '81, § 499; 2 H. C., § 808.]

Under this section, in an action brought by an executor or administrator, a demand against the estate may be offset to the extent of plaintiff's recovery, without previous presentation of a claim therefor, as required by § 1470, infra: Mendenhall v. Davis, 52 Wash. 169.

§ 269. Effect of Judgment Against Executor.

When a setoff shall be established in an action brought by executors or administrators, and a balance found due to the defendant, the judgment rendered thereon against the plaintiff shall have the same effect as if the action had been originally commenced by the defendant. [Cd. '81, § 500; 2 H. C., § 809.]

§ 270. Setoff in Action Against Executor.

In actions against executors and administrators and against trustees and others, sued in their representative character, the defendants may set off demands belonging to their testators or intestates or those whom they represent, in the same manner as the person so represented would have been entitled to set off the same, in an action against them. [Cd. '81, § 501; 2 H. C., § 810.]

§ 271. Setoff must be Pleaded.

To entitle a defendant to a setoff he must set the same forth in his answer. [Cd. '81, § 502; 2 H. C., § 811.]

§ 271½. Judgment for Balance Only.

If the amount of the setoff, duly established, be equal to the plaintiff's debt or demand, judgment shall be rendered that the plaintiff take nothing by his action; if it be less than the plaintiff's debt or demand, the plaintiff shall have judgment for the residue only. [Cd. '81, § 503; 2 H. C., § 812.]

§ 272. No Judgment for Balance if Contract shall have been Assigned.

If there be found a balance due from the plaintiff in the action to the defendant, judgment shall be rendered in favor of the defendant for the amount thereof, but no such judgment shall be rendered against the plaintiff when the contract, which is the subject of the action, shall have been assigned before the commencement of such action nor for any balance due from any other person than the plaintiff in the action. [Cd. '81, § 504; 2 H. C., § 813.]

§ 273. (4913a.) What may be Set Forth in Answer.

The defendant may set forth by answer as many defenses and counter-claims as he may have, whether they be such as have heretofore been denominated legal or equitable, or both. They shall each be separately stated, and refer to the causes of action which they are intended to answer, in such a manner that they may be intelligibly distinguished. [L. '54, p. 140, § 45; Cd. '81, pt. of § 83; 2 H. C., pt. of § 195.]

See notes to § 264, supra.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2262, 2263, §§ 41-44.

Legal or equitable defenses or both may be set up in the answer: Hanna v. Reeves, 22 Wash. 6.

Pleading inconsistent defenses: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2262, § 42; Brown v. Porter, 7 Wash. 327; Seattle Nat. Bank v. Carter, 13 Wash. 281; Allen v. Olympia L. & P. Co., 13 Wash. 307; Davis v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 19 Wash. 65; Spencer v. Terrel, 17 Wash. 514; Lord v. Horr, 30 Wash. 477; Irwin v. Holbrook, 32 Wash. 349; Irwin v. Buffalo Pitts Co., 39 Wash. 346; Bluett v. Wilce, 43 Wash. 492.

Joinder of denial and affirmative matter: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2263, § 43; Seattle Nat. Bank v. Carter, 13 Wash.

281; Lamberton v. Shannon, 13 Wash. 404; Olympia v. Stevens, 15 Wash. 601; Lynch v. Richter, 10 Wash. 486; Corbitt v. Harrington, 14 Wash. 197; Pugh v. Oregon Imp. Co., 14 Wash. 331; Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 1070.

Defendant cannot be required to elect between a plea of general denial and an immaterial affirmative defense: See Norris Safe & Lock Co. v. Clark, 28 Wash. 268.

Pleas in abatement and bar: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2254, §§ 46-48; State ex rel. Holgate v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 33; Staver & Walker v. Missimer, 6 Wash. 173; Commercial Bank v. Hart, 10 Wash. 308; State ex rel. Scandinavian Amer. Bank v. Tallman, 29 Wash. 411.

§ 274. (4914.) Defendant may Demur to One or More Causes and Answer the Residue.

The defendant may demur to one or more of several causes of action stated in the complaint, and answer the residue. [L. '54, p. 140, § 46; Cd. '81, § 84; 2 H. C., § 196.]

See supra, § 260, grounds of demurrer.

See supra, § 261, when objection taken by answer.

See infra, § 286, making pleading more definite and certain.

§ 275. (4915.) Answer may be Stricken, When.

Sham, frivolous, and irrelevant answers and defenses may be stricken out on motion, and upon such terms as the court may in its discretion impose. [Cf. L. '54, p. 140, § 47; L. '69, p. 21, § 83; Cd. '81, § 85; 2 H. C., § 197.]

See infra, § 286, when irrelevant matter may be stricken.

Cited in 4 Wash. 59.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2291-2293, §§ 151-157.

Where the answer contains superfluous matter, this defect can only be reached by motion, and not by demurrer: Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54.

In the particular case, held error to strike certain paragraphs from answer: Distler v. Dabney, 7 Wash. 431.

In an action for breach of contract to clear land, an answer which admits the contract, but denies a breach thereof, and shows affirmatively the defendants were proceeding with due performance thereof until requested by plaintiff to desist, cannot be said to be either sham, frivolous or immaterial: Brown v. Porter, 7 Wash. 327.

A general denial of the material allegations of a complaint cannot be stricken out on the ground that it is a sham or frivolous pleading: Larson v. Winder, 14 Wash. 647.

A sham pleading is one good in form but false in fact: Brown v. Porter, 7 Wash. 327.

A denial of payment on certain particular dates is sham: Distler v. Dabney, 7 Wash. 431.

Motion to strike a motion will not be allowed: Mann v. Young, 1 W. T. 454.

A refusal to strike out a pleading cannot be reviewed where a new pleading was filed and no exception taken: Kratz v. Dawson, 3 W. T. 100.

Where a party refuses to answer interrogatories, the only judgment authorized is one of dismissal of his action, where no default is taken for his failure to reply to an affirmative defense, and no proof is introduced in support of the matters alleged in such defense: Waite v. Wingate, 4 Wash. 324.

The failure of a defendant in a divorce case to comply with an order for the payment of alimony and suit money to the plaintiff will not warrant the court in striking the defendant's answer: Bachelor v. Bachelor, 30 Wash. 639.

It is not error to strike an answer in a proceeding in which none is required to be filed: State ex rel. Ami Co. v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 675.

Insufficient allegations or denials are not grounds for striking an answer: See Hatch v. Tacoma etc. R. Co., 6 Wash. 1, 7; Silsby v. Tacoma etc. R. Co., 6 Wash. 295.

It is proper to strike an amended answer containing the same matters as the original answer held bad on demurrer: See Noyes v. Loughhead, 9 Wash. 325. See, also, Rochford v. Doty, 37 Wash. 232.

§ 276. (4916.) Plaintiff may Demur to Answer, When—Reply.

The plaintiff may demur to an answer containing new matter, when it appears upon the face thereof that such new matter does not constitute a defense or counterclaim, or he may for like cause demur to one or more of such defenses or counterclaims, and reply to the residue. [L. '54, p. 140, § 48; L. '69, p. 22, § 85; Cd. '81, § 87; 2 H. C., § 198.]

See notes to following section.

See supra, § 259, grounds of demurrer of defendant.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2273, §§ 83, 84.

Since the enactment of this section in 1854 the grounds of demurrer extended to defendant by § 259, supra, have been enlarged, but the grounds open to plaintiff are confined to this section: See on this subject, Pom. Rem., §§ 586, 595.

If an answer to a complaint raises material issues upon the matters alleged therein, it is not demurrable for want of facts: Bennett v. T. L. & W. Co., 3 Wash. 337.

An objection that answer does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defense is more properly raised by demurrer than by an objection to the evidence: Anderson v. Carothers, 18 Wash. 520.

No reply is necessary where by stipulation the facts are admitted, or where the allegations in an answer amount to mere denials: Fife v. Olson, 5 Wash. 789; Raymond v. Morrison, 9 Wash. 156.

A plaintiff is not called upon to reply to an affirmative defense while his demurrer to a special defense remains undetermined: Ewing v. Van Wagenen, 6 Wash. 39.

An affirmative defense setting up a different version of a contract than that alleged in the complaint cannot be construed as adding more than a general denial already made, and hence is properly demurrable: Peterson v. Seattle Traction Co., 23 Wash. 615.

§ 277. (4917.) When Plaintiff may Reply—Contents of.

When the answer contains new matter constituting a defense or counter-claim, the plaintiff may reply to such new matter, denying generally or specifically each allegation controverted by him, or any knowledge or information thereof sufficient to form a belief; and he may allege in ordinary and concise language, without repetition, any new matter, not inconsistent with the complaint, constituting a defense to such new matter in the answer. [Cf. L. '54, p. 140, § 48; L. '69, p. 22, § 84; L. '77, p. 19, § 86; Cd. '81, § 86; 2 H. C., § 199.]

See infra, § 297, material allegations not controverted deemed admitted.

Cited in 3 Wash. 204; 15 Wash. 115; 17 Wash. 674; 51 Wash. 445.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2269-2271, §§ 67-74.

A claim for relief as set forth in the complaint cannot be in any manner enlarged by plaintiff's reply: Bell v. Waudby, 4 Wash. 743.

The matters set up in the reply must be consistent with the case made in the complaint. A reply which states a cause of action for breach of a specific contract is inconsistent with a complaint counting on money had and received by defendant from plaintiff: Distler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200, 205.

A reply not inconsistent with the complaint is not a departure therefrom. We have no "new assignment" as at common law: Puget Sound Iron Co. v. Worthington, 2 W. T. 472.

A party cannot set up one cause of action in his complaint, and after answer made, abandon that and make an entire new cause of action in a reply: Osten v. Winehill, 10 Wash. 333.

Where the complaint in an action is founded on a quantum meruit for labor performed and materials furnished for defendant, and the answer sets up that the work was done under a written contract, the terms of which are set forth, a reply admitting the terms of the contract and that the work was to be done for a stipulated price, but alleging that plaintiff was prevented from fulfilling his contract by the failure of defendant to perform conditions thereof on his part, constitutes such a departure in pleading as to warrant a nonsuit: Id.

See Distler v. Dabney, supra.

If complaint and reply are inconsistent, and one negatives the other, yet if the issues have been fully tried and no harm or surprise resulted in consequence thereof, the error is harmless: Dearborn Foundry Co. v. Augustine, 5 Wash. 67.

By proceeding to trial without raising the objection that the reply constitutes a departure from the cause of action set out in the complaint, the defendant waives his right to urge the objection on appeal: Asplund v. Mattson, 15 Wash. 328.

When one portion of a reply to an affirmative defense set up in the answer, which alleges a contract between the parties authorizing the acts complained of, admits such contract, another portion of the reply denying the contract, on the ground that plaintiff had no power to make it, should be stricken out on motion of the defendant therefor: Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107.

Error of the court in refusing to strike a reply upon defendant's motion is cured by the action of the court in trying the case upon the theory that such reply was entirely irrelevant and immaterial: Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107.

The fact that a bill of particulars presents a case different from the complaint does not constitute a departure: Dudley v. Duval, 29 Wash. 528.

As to what constitutes a departure, see Gile v. Baseel, 38 Wash. 212.

Plaintiff need not reply to an affirmative defense until his demurrer to a special defense is determined: Ewing v. Van Wagenen, 6 Wash. 39.

Where issues are squarely presented in the complaint and answer, and the reply denies the facts set up in the answer, it is error to sustain a demurrer to the reply, and to dismiss the action: Davis v. Oldacres, 3 W. T. 593.

In an equity cause, the insufficiency of the reply is immaterial when the defendants fail to substantiate the allegations of their answer: Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33.

The failure of defendant to call attention of the trial court to the fact that his answer contains affirmative matter not replied to is a waiver of the right to take advantage of such omission: Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512, 522.

A plaintiff who improperly sues for money had and received cannot recover, although his real cause of action is disclosed by the answer and reply: Clark v. Sherman, 5 Wash. 681; distinguished in Dibble v. DeMattos, 8 Wash. 543.

Where the answer sets up that certain wheat was delivered in payment of "wheat notes," the purchase price of certain lands, a reply setting up the contract for sale of the land, defendant's want of title, etc., is not inconsistent with nor a departure from the complaint: Ankeny v. Clark, 1 Wash. 549.

An omission to plead in the reply a rescission of the contract, which does not mislead, nor affect defendant's rights, may be cured by amendment at any stage of the proceedings: Id.

In an action by a light company to enjoin a city and its officers from interfering with the company's franchise, to which a defense has been interposed that the franchise was forfeited, a reply setting up matters showing a waiver of forfeiture on the part of the city does not constitute a departure in pleading: Commercial Electric Light & P. Co. v. Tacoma, 17 Wash. 661.

New matter, not inconsistent with the complaint, constituting a defense to new matter set forth in the answer, may be alleged in the reply, without being open to the objection of being a departure from the cause stated in the complaint: McCorkle v. Mallory, 30 Wash. 632; Childs Lum. & Mfg. Co. v. Page, 28 Wash. 128; Dodds v. Gregson, 35 Wash. 402.

In an action upon a contract, where the defendant alleged failure to perform within the time limit, it is not a departure to set up in the reply a modification of the original contract as to the time limit and delay occasioned by the defendant preventing a performance within such time, which was thereby waived: Erickson v. McLellan & Co., 46 Wash. 661.

A denial in a reply that defendants hold under a certain lease is not inconsistent with a denial of the validity of the lease: Ryan v. Lambert, 49 Wash. 649.

It is not a material variance, that, in an action for a divorce, the plaintiff, in reply to an answer setting up the illegality of the marriage, proved the annulment of the marriage: Buckley v. Buckley, 50 Wash. 213.

In an action for unlawful detainer it is unnecessary to reply to affirmative matter contained in the answer: Fife v. Olson, 5 Wash. 789.

The failure to reply to defendant's allegations of title and color of title is immaterial, when the stipulated facts upon which the cause is tried admit title in the plaintiffs: Id.

In an action upon a policy of fire insurance to which a plea of release has been interposed by the defendant, the plaintiff may, under the code system, set up in his reply that the release was procured by fraud, and is not required to first obtain a decree in equity canceling the release before instituting an action upon the policy: Sanford v. Royal Ins. Co., 11 Wash. 653.

In such an action it is not necessary to restore the consideration received for the release before attacking it on the ground of fraud, if such restoration be provided for in the judgment sought: Id.

Refusal to render judgment for defendant because of failure to reply to an affirmative answer, will not be ground of reversal when the record shows no rule of court prescribing time in which a reply must be filed: Waite v. Wingate, 4 Wash. 324.

Allowing reply to be filed after motion for judgment or after time fixed by rules of court cannot be urged as error where no abuse of discretion is shown: Stinson v. Sachs, 8 Wash. 391; Mounts v. Goranson, 29 Wash. 261. This section is not applicable to pleadings in a justice's court. The only provision for a reply in a justice's court is in subdivision 3 of § 1779, infra; that is, when the answer sets up a setoff by way of defense; all other new matter in the answer is to be deemed denied: Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Strand, 1 Wash. 133.

§ 278. (4918.) Judgment for Failure to Plead to New Matter.

If the answer contain a statement of new matter constituting a defense or counterclaim, and the plaintiff fail to reply or demur thereto within the time prescribed by law, the defendant may move the court for such judgment as he is entitled to on the pleadings, and if the case require it, he may have a jury called to assess the damages. [Cf. L. '54, p. 140, § 49; L. '69, p. 22, § 86; Cd. '81, § 88; 2 H. C., § 200.]

See infra, § 411, judgments by default.

Cited in 4 Wash. 373; 5 Wash. 662.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2269, §§ 65-68.

If the answer fails to controvert the material allegations of the complaint, plaintiff is entitled to judgment for failure to answer, although plaintiff may have filed a reply to such defective answer: Port v. Parfit, 4 Wash. 369; such judgment is not technically a judgment on the pleadings, but a judgment authorized by § 411, infra, on failure to answer: Id.; see Dillon

v. Spokane Co., 3 W. T. 498; King v. Ilwaco R. & N. Co., 1 Wash. 127; Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 659.

It is only to new matter, inconsistent with the complaint, that reply is necessary: See Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 659; Frank v. Jenkins, 11 Wash. 611.

An affirmative answer to which there is no reply operates as a finding of the court: Smith v. Ormsby, 20 Wash. 396.

Judgment on pleadings is erroneous, when grounded on plaintiff's failure to reply to an allegation of the answer which is merely a denial of a corresponding allegation of the complaint: Raymond v. Morrison, 10 Wash. 156.

Judgment on the pleadings is not authorized where a reply, though insufficient in law, has actually been filed to the affirmative matter in the answer: Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107.

Where a plea of another action pending has been interposed, a reply that, subsequent to the filing of the plea, the suit whose pendency was alleged had been dismissed is good against demurrer: Boyle v. Great Northern R. Co., 13 Wash. 383.

Judgment on insufficient reply: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2290, § 147; Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107.

Judgment on pleadings in general: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2289-2291, §§ 145-152.

Where the burden of an issue is on defendant, judgment in his favor on the pleadings is not warranted: Hoshor v. Kautz, 19 Wash. 258.

A defect in the complaint in failing to state a cause of action does not justify a final judgment for defendant on the merits after plaintiff's opening statement to the jury, and the sufficiency of the complaint will not be considered upon appeal from such a judgment: Redding v. Puget Sound Iron etc. Works, 36 Wash. 642.

Admissions by plaintiff of affirmative defenses pleaded by defendant warrants a judgment in his favor on the pleadings: Rockford Shoe Co. v. Jacob, 6 Wash. 421.

While the sufficiency of pleadings should not generally be tested by motion for judgment thereon, the practice is proper where it is apparent that no technical objection is made and that the pleadings are incapable of amendment, and the parties elect to stand thereon for that reason: Hubenthal v. Spokane etc. R. Co., 43 Wash. 677.

Immaterial variance between the proof and pleadings does not warrant a judgment in favor of defendant where the pleadings can be amended without prejudice to him: See Ernst v. Fox, 26 Wash. 520.

On motion for judgment on the pleadings, the allegations of complaint and reply are admitted notwithstanding denials of the answer: Fishburne v. Merchants' Bank, 42 Wash. 473. A claim in the reply of a rescission of a lease set up in the answer is within the issues: Snyder v. Harding, 34 Wash. 286.

Objections to the sufficiency of denials in the answer will be deemed waived unless seasonably made: Howard v. Hibbs, 22 Wash. 513.

§ 279. (4919.) Demurrer or Motion to Reply.

The defendant may demur to any new matter contained in the reply, when it appears upon the face thereof that such new matter is not a sufficient reply to the facts stated in the answer. Sham, frivolous, and irrelevant replies may be stricken out in like manner and on the same terms as like answers and defenses. [Cf. L. '54, p. 140, § 50; L. '69, p. 22, § 87; Cd. '81, § 89; 2 H. C., § 201.]

See supra, § 259, grounds of defendant's demurrer.

See supra, § 275, when answer may be stricken.

When one portion of a reply to an affirmative defense set up in the answer, which alleges a contract between the parties authorizing the acts complained of, admits such contract, another portion of the reply denying the contract, on the ground that plaintiff had no power to make it, should be stricken out on motion of the defendant therefor: Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107.

It is proper to sustain a demurrer to a reply which does not traverse the affirmative matters of an answer: Hughes v. N. Y. Life Ins. Co., 32 Wash. 1.

§ 280. (4920.) Court Rules Fixing Times for Pleading.

The court shall establish the rules prescribing the time in which pleadings subsequent to the complaint shall be filed. [L. '57, p. 10, § 10; Cd. '81, § 90; 2 H. C., § 202; see Const., Art. IV, § 24.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 325.

The appellate court will not take judicial notice of the rules of the superior courts adopted in pursuance of this section: Waite v. Wingate, 4 Wash. 324.

As to time for filing pleadings, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2288, § 142.

CHAPTER VIII.

VERIFICATION OF PLEADINGS.

§ 281. (4925.) Subscription and Verification of Pleadings.

Every pleading shall be subscribed by the party or his attorney, and except a demurrer, shall also be verified by the party, his agent or attorney, to the effect that he believes it to be true. The verification must be made by the affidavit of the party, or if there be several parties united in interest and pleading together, by one at least of such parties, if such party be within the county and capable of making the affidavit; otherwise the affidavit may be made by the agent or attorney of the party. The affidavit may also be made by the agent or attorney if the action or defense be founded on a written instrument for the payment of money only, and such instrument be in the possession of the agent or attorney, or if all the material allegations of the pleading be within the personal knowledge of the agent or attorney. When the affidavit is made by the agent or attorney, it must set forth the reason of his making it. When a corporation is a party, the verification may be made by any officer thereof, upon whom service of a notice [summons] might be made; and when the state, or any officer thereof in its behalf, is a party, the verification may be made by any person to whom all the material allegations of the pleading are known. When the party is absent from or a nonresident of the county in which suit is brought, the verification may be made by the agent or attorney of said party. [Cf. L. '54, p. 141, §§ 53, 54; L. '67, p. 92, § 1; L. '69, p. 23, § 89; Cd. '81, § 91; L. '88, p. 29, § 1; 2 H. C., § 203.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 126; 40 Wash. 212.

As to verification of pleadings, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2286, §§ 129-131.

Under this section, covering the verification of pleadings, a complaint asking for a temporary injunction verified upon the belief of the applicant is sufficient: Cady v. Case, 11 Wash. 124.

The verification of complaint in divorce, to the effect that plaintiff believes the contents of the complaint to be true, is sufficient: Burdick v. Burdick, 7 Wash. 533.

On appeal a defective verification will be treated as amended, or disregarded: Smith v. Newell, 32 Wash. 369.

§ 282. (4926.) When Verification may be Omitted.

When, in the judgment of the court, an answer to an allegation in any pleading might subject the party answering to a criminal prosecution, the verification of the answer to such allegation may be omitted. No pleading shall be used in a criminal prosecution against the party as evidence of a fact alleged in such pleading. [Cf. L. '54, p. 141, § 54; L. '69, p. 23, § 90; Cd. '81, § 92; 2 H. C., § 204.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 8.

§ 283. (4927.) Pleadings are not Proof on Trial.

Pleadings sworn to by either party in any case shall not, on the trial, be deemed proof of the facts alleged therein, nor require other or greater proof on the part of the adverse party. [L. '54, p. 219, § 484; Cd. '81, § 741; 2 H. C., § 792.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 237.

The pleadings of a party may be introduced in evidence against him and its admissions therein are conclusive unless shown to have been made under a mistake: O. R. & N. Co. v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 195.

While an original complaint does not cease to be a part of the record by reason of the filing of an amended complaint, nevertheless the plaintiff cannot avail himself of any allegations contained in the original complaint, although his adversary may: Sengfelder v. Hill, 16 Wash. 355.

It is not error to exclude evidence of facts which are admitted: Charlton v. Markland, 36 Wash. 40.

As to the admissibility of verified pleadings in evidence and their effect, see Bellingham Bay etc. R. Co. v. Strand, 1 Wash. 133; Tingley v. Fairhaven Land Co., 9 Wash. 34; Goldwater v. Burnside, 22 Wash. 215; Stanley v. Stanley, 32 Wash. 489. As to admissibility of bill of particulars, see American Copper etc.

Works v. Galland-Burke B. & M. Co., 30 Wash. 178.

Where an allegation of an amended complaint is not denied by the answer, it is error to permit the introduction in evidence of the first complaint in the action, which contains an allegation contrary to the allegation of the amended complaint admitted as true by the answer: Goldwater v. Burnside, 22 Wash. 215.

The rule as to the amount of testimony necessary to overcome a sworn answer in chancery is abrogated by this section: Lee v. Lee, 3 Wash. 236.

CHAPTER IX.

GENERAL RULES OF PLEADING.

§ 284. (4930.) Pleading Written Instruments and Accounts—Bill of Particulars.

It shall not be necessary for a party to set forth in a pleading a copy of the instrument of writing, or the items of an account therein alleged; but unless he file a verified copy thereof with such pleadings, and serve the same on the adverse party, he shall, within ten days after a demand thereof in writing, deliver to the adverse party a copy of such instrument of writing, or the items of an account, verified by his own oath, or that of his agent or attorney, to the effect that he believes it to be true, or be precluded from giving evidence thereof. The court, or judge thereof, may order a further account, when the one delivered is defective; and the court may, in all cases, order a bill of particulars of the claim of either party to be furnished. [L. '54, p. 142, § 55; Cd. '81, § 93; 2 H. C., § 205.]

See supra, § 258, what complaint shall contain.

See infra, §§ 342, 343, subpoena duces tecum.

See infra, §§ 1254-1263, documentary evidence.

See note to § 408, infra.

Cited in 2 Wash. 342; 3 Wash. 769; 15 Wash. 217; 25 Wash. 665; 35 Wash. 195; 43 Wash. 221.

As to bill of particulars, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2286-2288, §§ 133-139.

As to pleading written instruments, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2255, § 14; Id., p. 2286, § 132; Seal v. Cameron, 24 Wash. 62; Hays v. Dennis, 11 Wash. 360.

The filing by defendant of a motion for a bill of particulars is sufficient, ipso facto, to extend the time for answering: Plummer v. Weil, 15 Wash. 427.

The object of a bill of particulars or the items of an account is to apprise the defendant of the nature and extent of the cause of action in order that he may, with greater certainty, plead thereto: Ferry v. King Co., 2 Wash. 337, 343.

Where an action is upon an instrument in writing, the setting forth of a copy thereof in the complaint, which was duly verified, is a substantial compliance with this section, requiring a verified copy to be filed, etc.: Id., 342.

If accounts sued on are public accounts, equally accessible to both parties, it is not error for the court to refuse to order plaintiff to furnish a bill of particulars to defendant, as the ordering of a bill of particulars is a matter largely of discretion with the trial court: Ferry v. King Co., supra; see Isham v. Parker, 3 Wash. 755.

The defendant is not entitled to a bill of particulars when its only office would be to make plaintiff disclose the specific evidence upon which he relies for a recovery: Blackburn v. Washington Gold Min. Co., 19 Wash. 361; Ingram v. Wishkah Boom Co., 35 Wash. 191.

In an action by an attorney for services, it is error to require the plaintiff to file a bill of particulars placing a valuation on each item of the service, where the employment was all in one continuous matter and it appeared that the services were so blended together and related to each other that it was impossible to separate one service from another; since bills for the services of an attorney stand upon a different footing from other claims: Moore v. Scharnikow, 48 Wash. 564.

The refusal of the court, in an action for damages for failure to transport plaintiff, to require plaintiff to furnish a bill of particulars showing the respective amounts claimed for loss of time, trouble, annoyance, disappointment and anxiety of mind, is not an abuse of discretion, especially where the damages claimed are general in their nature and are not required to be specifically alleged: Turner v. Gt. Northern Ry. Co., 15 Wash. 213.

When plaintiff makes a bona fide attempt to comply with defendant's demand for a bill of particulars, and if defendant, on account of its insufficiency, moves for an additional itemized account, he cannot object to proof thereunder on the ground of its insufficiency after allowing his motion to lie dormant and entering upon the trial without objection: Isham v. Parker, supra.

If a bill of particulars furnished by plaintiff pursuant to an order of the court is insufficient, the court has authority to order him to file a further and amended bill of particulars: Plummer v. Weil, 15 Wash. 427.

In an action by an attorney to recover the value of professional services he may be required to particularize the services and the value of each item, and his failure to keep an account thereof cannot be set up as an excuse for not complying: Id.

The fact that a defendant, at the time of filing his affidavit of merits for removal of cause in objection to the jurisdiction of the court, does not demur or answer, but makes demand for a bill of particulars preparatory to answering, is a substantial compliance with § 208, supra: State v. Superior Court, 5 Wash. 518.

A plaintiff who furnishes a bill of items, on which his complaint is founded, though under no obligation to do so, is confined to the proof of the items set out therein, although a number of years may have elapsed between the filing of the complaint and the trial: Seattle v. Packer, 13 Wash. 450.

A bill of particulars is not a pleading, and is not a part of the complaint for the purpose of subsequent pleadings but only to the extent of restricting the plaintiff's proof to the matters therein specified: Dudley v. Duval, 29 Wash. 528.

A bill of particulars not filed before the trial, but furnished upon the oral request of the opposite party, is subject to the same rule: Howells v. North American T. & T. Co., 24 Wash. 689; American Copper etc. Works v. Galland-Burke etc. Co., 30 Wash. 178.

Where, in an action for slander, a bill of particulars was furnished showing when and before whom the words were spoken, the plaintiff is not entitled to show that the words were spoken at other times and places; and such proof, introduced for the purpose of showing malice, will not support a verdict where the complaint was not amended: Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545.

Motion to make definite and certain is not equivalent to a demand for bill of particulars: Goupille v. Chaput, 43 Wash. 702.

The fact that a bill of particulars presents a case different from the complaint does not constitute a departure in pleading: Dudley v. Duval, 29 Wash. 528.

§ 285. (4931.) Pleadings Liberally Construed.

In the construction of a pleading, for the purpose of determining its effect, its allegation[s] shall be liberally construed, with a view to substantial justice between the parties. [L. '54, p. 142, § 56; Cd. '81, § 94; 2 H. C., § 206.]

See supra, § 258, what complaint shall contain.

See supra, § 144, laws to be liberally construed.

Cited in 4 Wash. 59; 11 Wash. 363; 27 Wash. 104; 35 Wash. 684.

As to construction of pleadings in general, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2256, 2257, §§ 16-21.

Under this section, pleadings must be liberally construed, with the aim to arrive at substantial justice, and it is no longer the rule that a pleading must be most strongly construed against the pleader: Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54.

A suitor is no longer to be turned out of court, if by making all reasonable intendments, enough can be seized hold of in his pleadings to show that he has rights which ought to be enforced: Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 107, 110.

The rule as to liberal construction of pleadings applies only to matters of form; and does not go to the fundamental requisites of a cause of action, and it is therefore still necessary that they should present a clear and unequivocal statement of the cause of action or defense: See P. S. I. Co. v. Worthington, 2 W. T. 472; Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215, 223; Newberg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182; Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779; Grout v. Tacoma Eastern R. Co., 33 Wash. 524; Malloy v. Benway, 34 Wash. 315.

General averments are always controlled by the specific allegations of fact in a pleading: Malloy v. Benway, 34 Wash. 315.

Express admissions in an answer control direct averments to the contrary: Irwin v. Buffalo-Pitts Co., 39 Wash. 346.

Inappropriate words will be construed in support of complaint if there are sufficient allegations to show what was meant: Boyle v. Great Northern R. Co., 13 Wash. 383.

Pleadings are to be liberally construed on a motion for judgment on the pleadings: Townsend v. Price, 19 Wash. 415.

A complaint for fraud and false representations, although exceedingly meager, will be liberally construed and upheld if possible, when attacked for the first time at the trial: Walsh v. Meyer, 40 Wash. 650.

After verdict, where no motion has been made to make the pleadings more definite and certain, they will be liberally construed to sustain the judgment: Johnson v. Leonhard, 1 Wash. 564; Coats v. W. C. Fire Ins. Co., 4 Wash. 375; Lyen v. Bond, 3 W. T. 407; King v. Ilwaco R. & N. Co., 1 Wash. 127; Montesano v. Blair, 12 Wash. 188; Bishop v. Averill, 17 Wash. 209;

Mosher v. Bruhn, 15 Wash. 332; Hall v. Woolery, 20 Wash. 440; Carey v. Hays, 41 Wash. 580.

If the pleadings are not full and accurate, the remedy is by motion to cure the defect: P. S. I. Co. v. Worthington, supra; or have his pleading dismissed: Chambers v. Hoover, supra.

Although a pleading fail to allege any value to collateral pledged as security, yet some value will be presumed from the allegation that they were accepted and retained upon agreement to extend the notes secured thereby: Commercial Bank v. Hart, 10 Wash. 303.

On objections first urged on appeal, pleadings will be liberally construed or considered as amended: Island County v. Babcock, 17 Wash. 438; State ex rel. Sander v. Jones, 20 Wash. 576; Turner v. Turner, 33 Wash. 118; Livingston v. Lovegren, 27 Wash. 102. Where the language of an affidavit is capable of two constructions, that which is plainly consonant with common sense and the actual facts must be adopted: Goore v. Goore, 24 Wash. 139.

§ 286. (4932.) Irrelevant, Redundant and Indefinite Matter, How Objected to.

If irrelevant or redundant matter be inserted in a pleading, it may be stricken out on motion of any person aggrieved thereby; and when the allegations of a pleading are so indefinite or uncertain that the precise nature of the charge or defense is not apparent, the court may require the pleading to be made definite and certain by amendment, or may dismiss the same. [L. '54, p. 142, § 57; Cd. '81, § 95; 2 H. C., § 207.]

See supra, § 275, and notes, when answer may be stricken.

See notes to last section.

See infra, § 305, when informal pleadings may be stricken.

Cited in 10 Wash. 540; 43 Wash. 221.

As to motions to strike irrelevant or redundant matter, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2292, § 157.

As to motions to make more definite and certain, see Id., p. 2293, §§ 158-161. Matter is irrelevant which has no bearing upon the question in controversy, but if the alleged irrelevancy carries with it a doubt as to its sufficiency in law the question should be raised by demurrer and not by motion: Hatch v. T. O. & G. H. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 1, 7.

Evidential matter in a pleading may be stricken on motion: Bigelow v. Scott, 2 W. T. 378, 380.

Superfluous matter in a pleading can only be reached by motion; it is not a defect for which a demurrer will lie: Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54.

Recitals of evidence, and arguments in pleading, although not denied, are of no avail: Meeker v. Gilbert, 3 W. T. 369, 377.

A defendant who has pleaded irrelevant affirmative matter in his answer cannot complain of a refusal to strike like irrelevant matter from the reply in response thereto: P. S. I. Co. v. Worthington, 2 W. T. 472.

A general denial of the material allegations of a complaint cannot be stricken out on the ground that it is sham or frivolous pleading: Larson v. Winder, 14 Wash. 647.

It is not prejudicial error for the court to refuse to strike a portion of defendant's answer in divorce which, though not constituting a defense to the action, sets forth the physical condition of defendant and present and prospective financial condition of the party: Lee v. Lee, 3 Wash. 236.

In an action for damages to abutting property for the construction and operation of a railroad in a street, an answer which is, in effect, a plea of license from the city cannot be stricken out as irrelevant and immaterial; its sufficiency can only be tested by demurrer: Hatch v. T. O. & G. H. Ry. Co., supra.

This section is applicable to petitions necessary in probate practice: Renton v. Campbell, 10 Wash. 533.

The allegations must be specific and certain: Roedes v. Brown, 1 W. T. 112; Wilkeson Coal & Coke Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177; Hastings v. Anacortes Packing Co., 29 Wash. 224; Woodcock v. Guy, 33 Wash. 234.

Error in striking part of a pleading is not prejudicial if sufficient remains to enable the party to put in his whole case: Penter v. Staight, 1 Wash. 365.

The failure of the court to strike parts of a complaint relating to the damages is not prejudicial when no evidence is introduced thereunder and the court correctly instructs the jury as to the proper rule of damages: Waldron v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 22 Wash. 253; Tyler v. North American T. & T. Co., 24 Wash. 253.

Defendant may properly plead by way of inducement certain facts showing the illegality of plaintiff's title, and it is error to strike such matter: Hays v. Parker, 2 W. T. 198.

Irrelevant and redundant matter may be struck out: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2293, § 157; Allen v. Olympia L. & P. Co., 13 Wash. 307; State v. Lorenz, 22 Wash. 289; Williams v. Minemire, 23 Wash. 393; Jordan v. Coulter, 30 Wash. 116; Rand, McNally & Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 420; Tait v. Pigott, 38 Wash. 59.

Making more definite and certain: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2293, §§ 158-161.

If interrogatories have not been sufficiently answered the remedy is by motion to make more specific: Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601.

In an action for libel it is proper to require the complaint to set out the libelous article in full: McClure v. Review Pub. Co., 38 Wash. 160.

Where an answer to a complaint admits part of a paragraph and denies the remainder, and there exists in the mind of the plaintiff any doubt as to the meaning of such denial, it is his duty to move to make the answer more definite and certain: O'Brien v. Seattle Ice Co., 43 Wash. 217.

The objection that allegations are too indefinite and uncertain can only be reached by motion: Columbia & Puget Sound R. Co. v. Hawthorne, 3 W. T. 353; Wilkeson Coal & Coke Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177; Fares v. Gleason, 14 Wash. 657; Waldo v. Milroy, 19 Wash. 156; Croft v. Northwestern Steamship Co., 20 Wash. 175; Hall v. Law Guarantee & T. Soc., 22 Wash. 305; but see Kizer v. Caufield, 17 Wash. 417.

In an action to obtain a deed of tide lands, by reason of the alleged ownership of abutting upland, the plaintiff may be required to set forth a description of the uplands which were the basis of his right to purchase the tide lands, and the same would not be requiring him to plead his evidence; and it is not an abuse of discretion to dismiss the action upon plaintiff's refusal so to do: Washington etc. Imp. Co. v. Cannel Coal Co., 45 Wash. 462.

The objection that some of the allegations in a complaint are conclusions of law must be reached by motion to make more certain: Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779; Isaacs v. Holland, 4 Wash. 54.

A complaint alleging negligence in the manufacture and bottling of a dangerous explosive called champagne cider by failing to observe the proper temperature, amount of gas, and strength of the bottles, and failing to attach labels or give notice of the danger, is not demurrable as being so indefinite as to be meaningless, but the remedy is by motion to make more definite and certain: Weiser v. Holzman, 33 Wash. 87.

The denial of a motion to make a complaint for personal injuries more definite and certain as to an allegation that plaintiff was "otherwise greatly bruised and injured" is not prejudicial error where no evidence was given of injuries other than those particularly described in the complaint and in a trial amendment thereof: Helbig v. Grays Harbor Elec. Co., 37 Wash. 130.

Where by a complaint it appeared that the defendant agreed to keep as trustee any money earned by the plaintiff in America, it is proper to overrule a motion to make the same more definite and certain by stating what employment the plaintiff agreed to engage in, since she did not obligate herself to engage in any business: Goupille v. Chaput, 43 Wash. 702.

In an action to recover damages to property occasioned by flooding, a motion to make a complaint more definite and certain should be granted, where damage to lands, tenements, furniture, hay, livestock, lumber and other personal property is lumped at $2000, without any particular description of the personal property damaged: Berg v. Humptulips Boom etc. Co., 38 Wash. 342.

Where there is sufficient in the pleading to advise the adverse party or the matter is, or should be, within the knowledge of both parties, the motion should be denied: Ekstrand v. Barth, 41 Wash. 321; Port Townsend v. Trumbull, 40 Wash. 386; Boyer v. Robison, 43 Wash. 97.

A motion to make more definite made two months before trial is waived by failing to bring it up for hearing, until after the commencement of the trial: Isham v. Parker, 3 Wash. 755. But see Griffith v. Wright, 21 Wash. 494.

The overruling of a motion to make more definite and certain becomes unimportant in view of testimony subsequently introduced covering the points in questions: Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524.

The fact that the allegations of a complaint are not so full and particular as they should be respecting any issue cannot be taken advantage of by motion to withdraw from the jury the evidence upon such issue, where the allegations are sufficient to advise defendant of the nature and amount of the demand against him: Johnson v. San Juan Fish & P. Co., 31 Wash. 238.

A motion to strike will be considered as a demurrer if so treated by the parties and court below: Seal v. Cameron, 24 Wash. 62. Appeal does not lie from an order striking a complaint from the files: Vaktaren Pub. Co. v. Pacific etc. Pub. Co., 41 Wash. 355; but see Hays v. Peavey, 43 Wash. 163.

Defects or uncertainties in a pleading may be cured by the pleadings and admissions of the adverse party: Sengfelder v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 5 Wash. 121; Cerf, Schloss & Co. v. Wallace, 14 Wash. 249; Megrath v. Gilmore, 15 Wash. 558; Bates v. Drake, 28 Wash. 447; Rattelmiller v. Stone, 28 Wash. 104.

§ 287. (4933.) Judgments of Inferior Courts, How Pleaded.

In pleading a judgment or other determination of a court or office[r] of special jurisdiction, it shall not be necessary to state the facts conferring jurisdiction, but such judgment or determination may be stated to have been duly given or made. If such allegation be controverted, the party pleading shall be bound to establish on the trial the facts conferring jurisdiction. [L. '54, p. 142, § 58; Cd. '81, § 96; 2 H. C., § 208.]

See supra, § 258, what complaint shall contain.

See infra, §§ 1255, 1256, foreign judgments and evidence to sustain them, etc.

Cited in 18 Wash. 99; 45 Wash. 422.

§ 288. (4934.) Conditions Precedent, How Pleaded.

In pleading the performance of conditions precedent in a contract, it shall not be necessary to state the facts showing such performance, but it may be stated generally that the party duly performed all the conditions on his part; and if such allegation be controverted, the party pleading shall be bound to establish, on the trial, the facts showing such performance. [L. '54, p. 142, § 59; Cd. '81, § 97; 2 H. C., § 209.]

See supra, § 258, what complaint shall contain.

Cited in 42 Wash. 307; 50 Wash. 662, 663.

This section has reference only to conditions precedent or necessary to the creation of the contract or to the perfecting of the right of action, and not to conditions subsequent: Port Blakely Mill Co. v. Hartford Fire Ins. Co., 50 Wash. 657.

§ 289. (4935.) Private Statutes, How Pleaded.

In pleading a private statute, or a right derived therefrom, it shall be sufficient to refer to such statute by its title, and the day of its passage, and the court shall thereupon take judicial notice thereof. [L. '54, p. 142, § 60; Cd. '81, § 98; 2 H. C., § 210.]

See supra, § 258, what complaint shall contain.

Cited in 21 Wash. 350.

§ 290. (4936.) Existence of City or Town, How Pleaded.

In pleading the existence of any city or town in this state, it shall be sufficient to state in such pleading that the same is an existing city or town, incorporated or organized under the laws of the state of Washington. [Cd. '81, § 2063; 1 H. C., § 767.]

§ 291. (4937.) Ordinances, How Pleaded.

In pleading any ordinance of a city or town in this state, it shall be sufficient to state the title of such ordinance and the date of its passage, whereupon the court shall take judicial knowledge of the existence of such ordinance, and the tenor and effect thereof. [Cd. '81, § 2064; 1 H. C., § 768.]

See supra, § 289, and notes, pleading private statute.

See supra, § 258, what complaint shall contain.

Cited in 9 Wash. 241.

It is not necessary to plead an ordinance by title, number and date of passage in a complaint filed in a court of the municipality, as it is the duty of such court to take judicial notice of the ordinance: Seattle v. Pearson, 15 Wash. 575. See, also, Seattle v. Turner, 29 Wash. 515.

A conviction in a city police court of the violation of a city ordinance, which was read to the jury by the court from a bound volume of ordinances printed by authority of the city, cannot be objected to on appeal on the ground that the ordinance was not introduced in evidence, where no objection was taken below, since the existence of the ordinance was sufficiently established or would be judicially noticed: Spokane v. Griffith, 49 Wash. 293.

§ 292. (4938.) Libel or Slander, How Pleaded.

In an action for libel or slander, it shall not be necessary to state in the complaint any extrinsic facts for the purpose of showing the application to the plaintiff of the defamatory matter out of which the cause arose, but it shall be sufficient to state generally that the same was published or spoken concerning the plaintiff; and if such allegation be controverted, the plaintiff shall be bound to establish on trial that it was so published or spoken. [L. '54, p. 142, § 61; Cd. '81, § 99; 2 H. C., § 211.]

See supra, § 258, what complaint shall contain.

See infra, § 2777, criminal libel.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1714, §§ 20, 21.

Oral defamation does not constitute criminal libel: State v. McArthur, 5 Wash. 558.

In civil actions, the question whether a publication constitutes libel is one of law to be determined by the court where the language is unambiguous: Urban v. Helmick, 15 Wash. 155.

In determining whether the language is libelous, it must be given its ordinary meaning, and the meaning cannot be extended by innuendo beyond what the words justify in connection with the extrinsic facts: Id.

It is not libelous per se to accuse some one of being deficient in some quality which the law does not require him as a good citizen to possess: Id.

A publication charging a hotel proprietor with being a "hog" for the reason that he would not trade at home and build up the home trade and town as much as possible, but sent to another city for supplies, because he wanted to make it all, is not libelous per se: Id.

A plaintiff will be required to set out in full an alleged libelous article if the full meaning of the objectionable part can only be ascertained by construing it in connection with the whole article: McClure v. Review Pub. Co., 38 Wash. 160.

A complaint for libel setting out the publication of the fact that plaintiff secured a marriage license, attempted to suppress the fact, and could not find the bride, is demurrable for want of sufficient facts, where it contains no inducement or innuendo and it is not alleged that any of the statements published are false, the statements not being libelous per se: Whitehouse v. Cowles, 48 Wash. 546.

In an action for defamation of character, the failure to charge in the complaint that the words were maliciously spoken is not objectionable, if other words expressive of malicious intent are used: Stewart v. Major, 17 Wash. 238.

It is actionable slander per se to say of a man that he "has another wife back east," as the words in effect charge bigamy: Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545.

It is not actionable per se to utter orally that a man is not fit to associate with other people, and has been in jail two or three years back east: Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545.

§ 293. (4939.) Answers in Justification and Mitigation.

In an action mentioned in the last section, the defendant may, in his answer, allege both the truth of the matter charged as defamatory, and any mitigating circumstances to reduce the amount of damages; and whether he prove the justification or not; he may give in evidence the mitigating circumstances. [L. '54, p. 143, § 62; Cd. '81, § 100; 2 H. C., § 212.]

See supra, § 264, what answer shall contain.

See infra, § 2157, truth of matters as defense in criminal libel.

Laws 1899, p. 101, for the retraction of newspaper libels, was repealed by Laws 1905, p. 13, § 1.

Cited in 11 Wash. 509; 40 Wash. 312, 313.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1714, §§ 17-19.

The publication by a newspaper as an item of news of certain actions and conduct of an individual, at the time of the supposed discovery of a crime, from which damaging inferences might be drawn as to his having committed the crime, is not libelous, there being no direct charge of crime, if what is stated concerning his actions and conduct is true: Haynes v. Spokane Chronicle Pub. Co., 11 Wash. 503.

Under this section the truth of the statement of acts and facts may be shown to defeat recovery in an action for libel, although it is pleaded merely in mitigation of damages and not by way of justification: Id.

A publication which appears libelous upon its face may not be so in fact, by reason of something which is not apparent from the words themselves, and which may be shown by pleading and proving extrinsic facts in mitigation or in justification: Id.

The finding of a jury upon a question whether a publication is within the definition of libel correctly given them by the court, will not be disturbed: Id. See, also, Chambers v. Leiser, 43 Wash. 285; Leghorn v. Review Pub. Co., 31 Wash. 627.

As to facts constituting justification, see Hall v. Elgin Dairy Co., 15 Wash. 542.

A conditional statement charging a man with bigamy "if what Mr. D. tells me is true," made by a member of a fraternal order, of and respecting an applicant for membership, and made to a member of the order while the applicant's reputation was under investigation for the purpose of showing his unfitness, is a privileged communication for which damages cannot be recovered, where D. had told the defendant that plaintiff (who had a wife and children here) "had another wife and children in Illinois," and had communicated to the defendant circumstances known to D. back east, from which it appears that the plaintiff was not a bigamist, but had secured a divorce from his first wife, that he had been charged with perjury in so doing, had settled the matter by giving notes to her, and had paid only one of the notes: Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545.

Where the complaint in an action for slander alleged the uttering of a positive charge of bigamy, a justification in the answer admitting that the words were uttered conditionally, i. e., "If what Mr. D. has told me is true," is not inconsistent with a general denial, and does not admit the allegation of the complaint: Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545.

§ 294. (4940.) Falsely Charging Certain Crime, Actionable.

Every charge of incest, fornication, adultery, or whoredom falsely made by any person against a female, also words falsely spoken of any person charging such person with incest or the infamous crime against nature, either with mankind or the brute creation, shall be [actionable] in the same manner as in the case of slanderous words charging a crime the commission of which would subject the offender to death or other degrading penalties. [L. '54, p. 219, § 487; Cd. '81, § 747; 2 H. C., § 798.]

Cited in 17 Wash. 239.

§ 295. (4941.) Answers in Actions to Recover Property Distrained.

In an action to recover the possession of property distrained doing damage, an answer that the defendant or person by whose command he acted was lawfully possessed of the real property upon which the distress was made, and that the property distrained was at the time doing damage thereon, shall be good without setting forth the title to such real property. [L. '54, p. 143, § 63; Cd. '81, § 101; 2 H. C., § 213.]

See supra, § 264, what answer must contain.

See infra, § 3187, statute relating to distraint of animals doing damage.

§ 296. (4942.*) Joinder of Causes of Action.

The plaintiff may unite several causes of action in the same complaint, when they all arise out of,—

1. Contract, express or implied; or
2. Injuries, with or without force, to the person; or
3. Injuries, with or without force, to property; or
4. Injuries, to character; or

5. Claims to recover real property, with or without damages for the withholding thereof; or

6. Claims to recover personal property, with or without damages for the withholding thereof; or

7. Claims against a trustee, by virtue of a contract or by operation of law.

8. The same transaction.

But the causes of action so united must affect all the parties to the action, and not require different places of trial, and must be separately stated. [L. '07, p. 172, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 143, § 64; L. '61, p. 51, § 5; L. '69, p. 25, § 100; Cd. '81, § 102; 2 H. C., § 214.]

See supra, § 153, form of action.

See supra, § 180, when executor, trustee, etc., may sue alone.

See supra, § 255, forms of pleadings.

See supra, § 258, what complaint shall contain.

See notes to § 796, infra.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 32-34, §§ 19-24.

It is not an improper joinder to seek, in an action for divorce and alimony, to set aside certain fraudulent conveyances, on which the award of alimony is dependent: Prouty v. Prouty, 4 Wash. 174.

Legal and equitable causes of action may be joined in the same complaint, without affecting the allegation in either necessary to constitute a cause of action: Thompson v. Caton, 3 W. T. 31.

Where plaintiff endeavors to state equitable and legal causes as separate causes of action, and in fact but one cause is stated, it is error to require an election and to dismiss the case for failure to elect between the two causes: Brown v. Calloway, 34 Wash. 175.

Under Bal. Code, § 4942, it is proper to join a cause of action upon a guaranty to pay plaintiff's salary to a certain date with a cause upon an express contract to pay the salary after such date: Dudley v. Duval, 29 Wash. 528.

It is not a misjoinder of causes of action to unite in one complaint an action for the recovery of damages for the breach of a contract, and an action alleging wrongful conversion of certain buildings and camp equipment erected by virtue of the same contract: McCorkle v. Mallory, 30 Wash. 632.

In an action to recover both actual and statutory damages, the plaintiff should be required to elect whether he will seek to recover actual or the statutory damages; but failure to do so is not prejudicial where only statutory damages were awarded: Galbraith v. Carmode, 43 Wash. 456.

In an action to establish water rights, based upon the plaintiffs' claims under (1) riparian ownership, (2) appropriation, and (3) contract, a motion to separately state the several causes of action and to elect upon which they will rely is properly overruled; since there was but one indivisible cause of action, and the independent sources of plaintiff's title do not constitute separate causes: Hutchinson v. Mt. Vernon Water etc. Co., 49 Wash. 469.

As to pleading separate causes of actions, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2259, §§ 28-30; Nor. Pac. R. Co. v. Hess, 2 Wash. 383; Seattle Trust Co. v. Kerry, 19 Wash. 389; Page v. Page, 43 Wash. 293; Sly v. Palo Alto Gold Min. Co., 28 Wash. 485. See, also, Saunders v. U. S. Marble Co., 25 Wash. 475.

Under this section several causes of action must be separately stated, even in equity, or the complaint will be struck out: Hockersmith v. Ferguson, 51 Wash. 256.

Under Bal. Code, § 4942, causes of action upon two distinct contracts may be joined in one action: Moylan v. Moylan, 50 Wash. 341.

An action on contract and an action on tort cannot be joined: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 33, § 22; Clark v. Great Northern R. R. Co., 31 Wash. 658; Willey v. Nichols, 18 Wash. 528; Sanders v. Stimson Mill Co., 34 Wash. 357; Lambert v. La Conner Trad. etc. Co., 37 Wash. 113; Voss v. Bender, 32 Wash. 566.

In an action for wrongful eviction, it is proper to join causes of actions for property destroyed and for other property converted to the use of the defendant, where the same arise out of the same wrongful act: McClure v. Campbell, 42 Wash. 252.

Where a complaint sets forth facts tending to show a liability both in tort and on contract, such recital is not open to objection on the ground of stating more than one cause of action, when such facts all relate to a single transaction and are relied upon as the basis of a single cause of action: Barto v. Nix, 15 Wash. 563.

If the complaint sets forth two causes of action without separately stating them, it is not error to refuse to strike out certain portions thereof when the causes could be properly joined; the proper remedy is by motion to require them to be separately stated: Richardson v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., 10 Wash. 648; Moore v. Brownfield, 10 Wash. 439.

A complaint attempting to allege causes of action against the state to annul a judgment of conviction in a criminal case, against the state dental board with reference to the issuance of a license to practice dentistry, and against the members of the board and certain dental societies for damages, is demurrable on the ground of misjoinder of causes of action: Brown v. State, 46 Wash. 399.

There is no improper joinder of causes of action in a complaint to reform plaintiffs' absolute deed, which was intended as a mortgage, and to restore the plaintiffs' rights in the premises by placing them in possession, and for the cancellation of a fraudulent judgment of ouster obtained by the grantors in the deed: Gustin v. Crockett, 14 Wash. 536.

Parties and interests affected by joinder: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 33, § 24; Huggins v. Sutherland, 39 Wash. 352; Johnson v. S. E. Co., 39 Wash. 211; Gilmore v. Skookum Box Factory, 20 Wash. 703; Utterback v. Meeker, 16 Wash. 185; Brodek v. Farnum, 11 Wash. 565.

Splitting or consolidating causes of action: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 34, §§ 25-27; Achey v. Creech, 21 Wash. 319; Peterson v. Dillon, 27 Wash. 78; Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517; Wheeler, Osgood & Co. v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617.

§ 297. (4943.) Material Allegations not Controverted Admitted, Except in Reply.

Every material allegation of the complaint not controverted by the answer, and every material allegation of new matter in the answer not controverted by the reply, shall, for the purpose of action, be taken as true; but the allegation of new matter in a reply is to be deemed controverted by the adverse party, as upon a direct denial or avoidance, as the case may require. [L. '69, p. 26, § 101; L. '77, p. 22, § 103; Cd. '81, § 103; 2 H. C., § 215.]

See next section.

See supra, § 264, what answer must contain.

See supra, § 277, what reply must contain.

Cited in 2 Wash. 482; 5 Wash. 662; 11 Wash. 617; 42 Wash. 307.

Admissions by failure to traverse: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2267, § 57; Sengfelder v. Mutual Life Ins. Co., 5 Wash. 121; Roberts v. Center, 26 Wash. 435; Sherman v. Sweeny, 29 Wash. 321.

Every material allegation of the complaint not controverted by the answer shall be taken as true: Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 659, 662.

An answer which merely controverts the conclusions drawn by the pleader from the facts stated does not traverse any material fact, and presents no issue: Id., 659.

An insufficient denial is in effect no denial and admits the facts well pleaded: Frost v. Ainslie L. Co., 3 Wash. 241, 243.

If no reply is filed to affirmative matter in the answer, it is error to treat the affirmative matter as denied and take evidence thereunder—since it is to be pleaded as true: Johnson v. Maxwell, 2 Wash. 482.

The failure of defendant to call the attention of the trial court to the fact that his answer contains affirmative matter not replied to is a waiver of the right to take advantage of such omission: Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512, 522.

In a suit for wages, when the allegations of the complaint regarding employment are admitted, proof of that fact is unnecessary, and errors committed in introduction of testimony regarding employment are im-material: Fitzgerald v. School Dist., 5 Wash. 112.

An allegation of "no consideration" is not new matter requiring a reply: Frank v. Jenkins, 11 Wash. 617.

The allegations of an answer will not be construed as admissions unless so intended or the answer requires it: Turner v. Turner, 3 Wash. 118; American Copper etc. Works v. Galland-Burke etc. Co., 30 Wash. 178; Browder v. Phinney, 37 Wash. 70; Collier v. Great Northern R. Co., 40 Wash. 639. Express admissions in an answer control direct averments to the contrary, since the pleading must be construed most strongly against the pleader, and in the absence of an amendment evidence contrary to the admission is properly excluded: Irwin v. Buffalo Pitts Co., 39 Wash. 346.

A plea of general denial does not admit the corporate existence of plaintiff where that is a necessary allegation of the complaint: Denver v. Spokane Falls, 7 Wash. 220.

A general allegation of fraud in a complaint is not admitted by a demurrer thereto: Olympia Water Works v. Gelbach, 16 Wash. 482.

A motion to quash a writ of mandamus admits the facts stated, but not the conclusions drawn therefrom: Hester v. Thompson, 35 Wash. 119.

Where a building contract permits the owner to fix the damages for delay and requires arbitration if the contractor dissents, and the reply admits that the damages were fixed, the plaintiff cannot avoid the effect of such admission by showing that the delay was not its fault, where those defenses had not been submitted to arbitration or any attempt made to arbitrate; and judgment is properly given on the pleadings for the amount claimed, less the damages fixed: Childs Lum. & Mfg. Co. v. Page, 32 Wash. 250.

§ 298. (4944.) Material Allegations Defined.

A material allegation in a pleading is one essential to the claim or defense, and which could not be stricken from the pleading without leaving it insufficient. [L. '54, p. 143, § 65; Cd. '81, § 104; 2 H. C., § 216.]

CHAPTER X.

MISTAKES AND AMENDMENTS.

§ 299. (4949.) Variance, When Material.

No variance between the allegation in a pleading and the proof shall be deemed material, unless it shall have actually misled the adverse party to his prejudice in maintaining his action or defense upon the merits. Whenever it shall be alleged that a party has been so misled, that fact shall be proved to the satisfaction of the court, and in what respect he has been misled, and thereupon the court may order the pleading to be amended upon such terms as shall be just. [L. '54, p. 143, § 66; Cd. '81, § 105; 2 H. C., § 217.]

Variance generally: See notes to § 301, failure of proof.

See next section.

As to what plaintiff may prove under general denial, see § 264, supra, and notes.

Cited in 1 Wash. 545; 2 Wash. 520; 3 Wash. 487; 3 Wash. 534; 5 Wash. 57; 16 Wash. 48; 21 Wash. 640; 22 Wash. 142; 24 Wash. 155; 26 Wash. 527; 26 Wash. 553; 29 Wash. 534; 30 Wash. 169; 38 Wash. 543; 39 Wash. 54; 43 Wash. 222; 50 Wash. 688.

As to variances, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2301-2304, §§ 180-190.

As to evidence admissible under pleading, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2297-2301, §§ 69-79.

The definition of variance given in this section is anything but definite, and its application has ever been a fruitful source of trouble and disagreements among jurists, some claiming, with much force, that its principal mission is to provide for a quarrel between court and counsel: Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538, 545.

When the testimony fails to meet the allegations of the complaint, but is received without objection or motion to strike or suggestion of surprise, a nonsuit is properly refused: Guley v. N. W. Coal & T. Co., 7 Wash. 491, 493; and the complaint should be considered amended to correspond with the facts proven: Murray v. Meade, 5 Wash. 693; Olson v. Snake River etc. R. Co., 22 Wash. 139; Taylor v. Ballard, 24 Wash. 191; Richardson v. Moore, 30 Wash. 406; Gay v. Havermale, 30 Wash. 622; Helphrey v. Strobach, 13 Wash. 128; Al-lend v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 21 Wash. 324; State v. Lorenz, 22 Wash. 289; Kinthead v. Holmes & Bull Fur. Co., 24 Wash. 216; Green v. Tidball, 26 Wash. 338.

The omission to plead in a reply a rescission of a contract, which does not mislead the defendant, nor affect his substantial right, may be cured by amendment at any stage of the proceedings: Ankeny v. Clark, 1 Wash. 549. See next section.

In an equity case the decision will be based upon the evidence introduced without objection, regardless of the pleadings, yet it is the duty of the court to exclude testimony wholly irrelevant when objected to: Davis v. Hincheliffe, 7 Wash. 199.

A plaintiff cannot allege one cause of action in his complaint and then, by means of a reply, recover upon an entirely different cause of action: Dibble v. DeMattos, 8 Wash. 542, 543; Comegys v. Am. L. Co., 8 Wash. 661, 667; Clark v. Sherman, 5 Wash. 681; Dietz v. Winehill, 6 Wash. 109, 110; Osten v. Winehill, 10 Wash. 333; Distler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200; see Ankeny v. Clark, supra.

A defendant cannot urge a variance between the contract pleaded by plaintiff and the one offered in evidence, when the judgment is based on the contract pleaded by defendant in his answer: Megrath v. Gilmore, 15 Wash. 558; Rattelmiller v. Stone, 28 Wash. 104. A defendant cannot complain that evidence and instructions were not applicable to the issues presented by the complaint, when such issues were brought in by his affirmative answer: Ryan

v. Lambert, 49 Wash. 649. Where the complaint in an action to recover for personal injuries contains a general allegation of negligence, any fact tending to contribute approximately to the injury is admissible in evidence thereunder: Uren v. Golden Tunnel Min. Co., 24 Wash. 261; Clukey v. Seattle Elec. Co., 27 Wash. 70; Crooker v. Pac. Lounge & Mattress Co., 34 Wash. 191; Thomson v. Issaquah Shingle Co., 43 Wash. 253.

In an action for personal injuries, in which the complaint alleges certain items of special damages, and prays for a sum in excess thereof, it is proper to allow a trial amendment alleging general damages in a sum equal to the difference between the special damages and the sum prayed for, where proof of the general damages was admitted without objection, and the defendant did not move for a continuance on making its claim of surprise: Lobb v. Seattle etc. R. Co., 48 Wash. 238.

IN PARTICULAR CASES.—An action for money had and received is not supported by proof that plaintiff had paid defendant certain sums of money on a written contract for conveyance of land, which had been rescinded by plaintiff: Distler v. Dabney, supra.

Where complainant seeks a recovery for goods sold defendants as partners, it is error to admit evidence to show, and to instruct the jury on the theory, that defendants were a corporation: Kelly v. Johnson, 5 Wash. 785.

Where the complaint in an action on a note alleges that plaintiff had loaned the defendant money, there is no variance when the evidence shows that the money had been loaned by plaintiff's wife, but was in fact his money: Piling v. Morse, 5 Wash. 797.

In an action to recover land, and set aside defendant's deed, plaintiff declared specially on a defective deed, averring title thereunder, but upon the trial introduced over defendant's objection a prior deed to remedy such defective deed. Held, no error, since, the case being an equitable one, the particularity of pleading made use of by plaintiff was not necessary; the liberality of the rule in regard to amendments permitted plaintiff to put in the evidence and amend his pleadings to conform thereto on proper terms, and it appeared that defendant was denied no indulgence that he asked by reason of being misled by the pleadings: Carson v. Railsback, 3 W. T. 168.

Where a complaint described a judgment as rendered for costs in the sum of $19.30, and the judgment offered was rendered for $18.30, the defendant is not misled and the variance is immaterial: Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512.

The variance is immaterial when the complaint describes a city warrant for street improvement as Stevens street warrant "A, 896," and the proof shows that its number should be "A, 893," when the amounts, date of issue, rate of interest and payee correspond with the allegations: Roe v. Cutter, 4 Wash. 611.

Proof that services were performed and a bill rendered therefor, which was stated to be satisfactory, sustains a recovery either on contract or on a quantum meruit for the services: Wright v. Lake, 48 Wash. 469.

EVIDENCE HELD ADMISSIBLE OR NOT ADMISSIBLE UNDER ALLEGATIONS IN INSTRUMENTS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2298, § 170; Washington Bridge Co. v. Improvement Co., 12 Wash. 272; Skagit R. & L. Co. v. Cole, 2 Wash. 57; Stephens v. Spokane, 11 Wash. 41; Everett Land Co. v. Maney, 16 Wash. 552; Interstate Sav. & Loan Assn. v. Knapp, 20 Wash. 225; Carroll v. Caine, 27 Wash. 402. An indefinite memorandum of a settlement between parties, making no reference to a wheat transaction in controversy, is inadmissible to show a settlement when none was pleaded: Wees v. Page, 47 Wash. 213. Under allegations regarding fraud: See Rathbone, Sard & Co. v. Frost, 9 Wash. 162; Cade v. Head Camp, W. O. W., 27 Wash. 218; McMullen v. Rousseau, 40 Wash. 497.

Under allegations regarding title and ownership, see Rogers v. Miller, 13 Wash. 82; Miller v. Lake In. Co., 27 Wash. 447; Kemp v. Folsom, 14 Wash. 16.

EVIDENCE HELD ADMISSIBLE OR NOT ADMISSIBLE UNDER AVERMENTS OF ANSWERS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2299, § 173; Corliss v. Dunning, 8 Wash. 332; Brown v. Seattle City R. Co., 16 Wash. 465; Kennedy v. School Dist. No. 1, 20 Wash. 399; Wasmund v. Harm, 36 Wash. 170; United States, Use etc. v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 40 Wash. 87; Wheeler v. Aberdeen, 45 Wash. 63.

EVIDENCE HELD ADMISSIBLE UNDER GENERAL ISSUE OR GENERAL DENIALS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2299, § 174. Any evidence which tends to disprove the allegations of the complaint: Penter v. Staight, 1 Wash. 365; Fairhaven v. Cowgill, 8 Wash. 686; Nichols v. Opperman, 6 Wash. 618; Trumbull v. Jackman, 9 Wash. 524; Kellogg v. Scheuerman, 18 Wash. 293; Peterson v. Seattle Traction Co., 23 Wash. 615; Bay View Brew. Co. v. Grubb, 24 Wash. 163; Lund v. St. Paul M. & M. R. Co., 31 Wash. 286; Armstrong v. Musser Lumber & Mfg. Lum. Co., 43 Wash. 584; Parker v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 190; Carkeek v. Boston Nat. Bank, 16 Wash. 399; Chrast v. O'Connor, 41 Wash. 360.

EVIDENCE HELD INADMISSIBLE UNDER GENERAL DENIAL: Griffith v. Wright, 21 Wash. 494; Nunn v. Jordan, 31 Wash. 506; Murray v. Okanogan Livestock etc. Co., 12 Wash. 259; Buddress v. Schafer, 12 Wash. 310; McKay v. Elwood, 12 Wash. 579; Bruce v. Foley, 18 Wash. 96.

One who waives a defense set out in her answer, and is permitted to offer proof of another defense which she fails to establish, and thereupon seeks relief under the defense that had been waived, cannot object that the court went out of the issues in the cause in deciding equities to which the parties appeared to be entitled under the evidence: Budlong v. Budlong, 48 Wash. 645.

Defenses to be specially pleaded: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2301, § 178; Maitland v. Zanga, 14 Wash. 92; Taylor v. Modern Woodmen of America, 42 Wash. 304.

Under a general denial and plea of contributory negligence evidence as to plaintiff's intoxication is admissible: Carter v. Seattle, 19 Wash. 597.

A bill of particulars limits the proof to the items charged therein: Seattle v. Parker, 13 Wash. 450; Dudley v. Duval, 29 Wash. 528; Howells v. North Amer. Trans. & Trad. Co., 24 Wash. 689; American Copper etc. Works v. Galland-Burke etc. Co., 30 Wash. 178; but see Spokane & Idaho Lum. Co. v. Loy, 21 Wash. 501.

In an action on a conditional fire insurance policy, declared upon as unconditional, there is no reversible error, where the evidence shows the fire not to have been of the excepted classes, and the statute as to variances was not complied with: Pencil v. Home Ins. Co., 3 Wash. 485.

Plaintiff should be nonsuited in an action upon a fire insurance policy in which the complaint declares upon a contract for insurance upon a certain building to cover $500, when the evidence shows that the contract was for a policy in the sum of $600 upon two buildings upon the same lot: Waldron v. H. M. Ins. Co., 9 Wash. 534.

An allegation that a water-closet is out of repair, without any attempt to allege defect in the original construction, does not furnish the foundation for proof of defective construction: Bernhard v. Reeves, 6 Wash. 424; Imhoof v. Northwestern Lum. Co., 43 Wash. 387.

On the question of undue influence, where there is no allegation nor testimony that defendants had solicited an attorney who drew the deed and contract to use his influence with plaintiff to make the deed, defendants' offer to prove that they had not solicited said attorney is immaterial: Kennedy v. Currie, 3 Wash. 442.

In an action to recover commissions on sale of real estate, defendants may, under the general issue, show that plaintiff was in the employ of the purchasers, and receiving compensation from them, in order to discredit his testimony as to the making of a contract pleaded: Dillon v. Folsom, 5 Wash. 439.

Under an allegation in a complaint for damages that the defendant so negligently conducted itself in the management of its car that, through its negligence and its servants in driving the car, plaintiff was injured, it is admissible to prove defects in the brake-rod of the car: Cogswell v. West St. & N. End etc. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 46.

In an action by a servant for injuries received by the negligence of his master where the complaint alleges that he left his work to go to the water-closet and was injured while on the way there, and the proof shows that he was on his way to his work in the morning, but had not yet begun work when injured, there is no material variance: Sayward v. Carlson, 1 Wash. 29.

The fact that the plaintiff was unable to prove the particular cause of a collision of street-cars, as set forth in her complaint, does not deprive her of the benefit of the presumption that negligence is presumed from the happening of a collision, since that was alone the substance of the issue, and the particular cause alleged need not be proved: Lobb v. Seattle, Renton & Southern R. Co., 48 Wash. 238.

Proof cannot be limited to allegations which are mere conclusions of the pleader, where there are other sufficient allegations in the complaint: Allend v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 21 Wash. 324; Mercier v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 24 Wash. 147.

Proof of special damages is inadmissible when no allegation as to such damages is made in the pleadings: Meeker v. Gardella, 1 Wash. 139; Kaufman v. Tacoma etc. R. Co., 11 Wash. 632; Stowe v. La Conner Trad. & Transp. Co., 39 Wash. 28.

Where the evidence of defects in an engine, and also evidence of the character of the work and wages received by plaintiff prior to a collision in which he was injured, were admitted under allegations respectively of gross negligence on the defendant's part and of permanent disability from injury suffered, it was held that the evidence was admissible that such allegations were broad enough to cover the testimony, and if not, no ground of exception would lie under this section: N. P. R. Co. v. O'Brien, 1 Wash. 599.

In a suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien against the "Installment Building & Loan Company" for materials furnished the corporation itself, it is an immaterial variance that the notice of lien offered in evidence describes the corporation as the "Installment Building & Loan Association": I. B. & L. Co. v. Wentworth, 1 Wash. 467.

But a notice is insufficient which states that a lien is claimed "upon that certain wooden frame building situated upon the S. E. corner of Tenth and J street, upon lot 12 in block 4016," when the proof shows the materials were furnished in the construction of a dwelling-house on lots 1 and 2 in block 3919: Mt. Tacoma Mfg. Co. v. Cultum, 5 Wash. 294.

After verdict, when no motion has been made to make the pleadings more definite and certain, they will be liberally construed to sustain the judgment: Johnson v. Leonhard, 1 Wash. 564; Livesley v. O'Brien, 3 Wash. 546.

In an action based upon promissory notes which had been signed upon their face by the defendant as maker, it is not a variance to put such notes in evidence, although containing an indorsement over the signature of individuals who had not been made parties to the effect that "we hereby severally join in the execution of the within notes as original makers thereof and waive presentation and protest notice": Hinchman v. Point Defiance R. Co., 14 Wash. 349. See, also, Anderson v. New York Life Ins. Co., 34 Wash. 616.

Variance between allegation and proof: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2301-2305, §§ 181-191.

A variance regarding a fact not properly in issue is immaterial: State ex rel. Olson v. Allen, 14 Wash. 684.

An immaterial variance between the pleadings and proof will not be considered or the pleading will be treated as amended: Mercier v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 24 Wash. 147; Irbv v. Phillips, 40 Wash. 618.

The pleadings may be amended at the trial if there is no material change in the issues and the adverse party has not been surprised or prejudiced: Wolf v. Hemrich Bros. Brew. Co., 28 Wash. 187; McClammy v. Spokane, 36 Wash. 339; Leghorn v. Review Pub. Co., 31 Wash. 627; State v. Lorenz, 22 Wash. 289; Westland Pub. Co. v. Royal, 36 Wash. 399; McDonough v. Great Northern R. Co., 15 Wash. 244; Allend v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 21 Wash. 324; Smith v. Michigan Lum. Co., 43 Wash. 402; Gritman v. U. S. Fidelity etc. Co., 41 Wash. 77; Helbig v. Grays Harbor Elec. Co., 37 Wash. 130; Morrissey v. Faucett, 28 Wash. 52; Stern v. Sill, 39 Wash. 557; Whitney v. Priest, 26 Wash. 48; Van Behren v. Rettkowski, 37 Wash. 247; State ex rel. Matson v. Superior Court, 42 Wash. 491; Cummings v. Weir, 37 Wash. 42. Or a new trial may be granted: See Ernst v. Fox, 26 Wash. 526. Where the defendant's demurrer to the complaint is overruled and he stands thereon, the judgment must be limited to the demand in the complaint, and amendments to conform to the proof cannot be made: State v. Pittenger, 37 Wash. 384.

Variance between pleadings and proofs as to performance of contracts will be held immaterial if the adverse party has not been misled to his prejudice: Bigelow v. Scott, 2 W. T. 378; Olson v. Snake River Val. R. Co., 22 Wash. 139; Childs Lum. & Mfg. Co. v. Page, 28 Wash. 128; Dudley v.

Duval, 29 Wash. 528; Meals v. De Soto Placer Min. Co., 33 Wash. 302; Griffith v. Ridpath, 38 Wash. 540; Bringgold v. Spokane, 27 Wash. 202.

Where the proof offered would not support the theory of the complaint, the variance is material: Koyukuk Min. Co. v. Van de Vanter, 30 Wash. 385; Butler v. Carvin, 33 Wash. 621; Albin v. Seattle Elec. Co., 40 Wash. 51; Jacobs v. First Nat. Bank, 15 Wash. 358; Price Baking Powder Co. v. Rinear, 17 Wash. 95; Scholey v. De Mattos, 18 Wash. 504; Dickey v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 19 Wash. 350.

Partial failure of proof as to full performance of contracts or damages claimed in pleading may be treated as immaterial variance: Washburn v. Case, 1 W. T. 253; Olson v. Snake River Valley R. Co., 22 Wash. 139; Sterrett v. Northport Min. & Smelt. Co., 30 Wash. 164.

Variance to be material must have misled the adverse party to his prejudice: Denny v. Saywood, 10 Wash. 422; Mercier v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 24 Wash. 147; Dudley v. Duval, 29 Wash. 528; Olson v. Snake River Valley R. Co., 22 Wash. 139; Grissom v. Hofius, 39 Wash. 51.

Failing to prove an unnecessary allegation is not a variance: Freeman v. Gloyd, 43 Wash. 607.

Variance between pleadings and proofs as to parties or persons is immaterial if adverse party has not been misled or prejudiced: Post-Intelligencer Pub. Co. v. Harris, 11 Wash. 500; Bignold v. Carr, 24 Wash. 413; Dennis v. First Nat. Bank, 33 Wash. 161; Vulcan Iron Works v. Burrell Constr. Co., 39 Wash. 319.

In an action for slander in uttering of a man that he has "another wife and child back east," in effect charging him with the crime of bigamy, it is a fatal variance to prove that "he has a wife and child back east and is living with another woman here," which would only constitute the crime of adultery; since the old rule that in slander a variance is fatal has not been relaxed to such an extent as to allow allegation as to one crime and proof of another: Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545.

Proof of a conditional statement of slanderous words does not support an allegation of a positive or direct statement: Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545.

§ 300. (4950.) Immaterial Variance, Effect of.

When the variance is not material, as provided in the last section, the court may direct the fact to be found according to the evidence, or may order an immediate amendment without costs. [L. '54, p. 144, § 67; Cd. '81, § 106; 2 H. C., § 218.]

See notes to last section.

§ 301. (4951.) Failure of Proof.

When, however, the allegation of the cause of action or defense to which the proof is directed is not proved, not in some particular or particulars only, but in its entire scope and meaning, it shall not be deemed a case of variance within the last two sections, but a failure of proof. [L. '54, p. 144, § 68; Cd. '81, § 107; 2 H. C., § 219.]

See notes to § 299, supra.

Cited in 1 Wash. 543; 1 Wash. 545; 22 Wash. 143; 26 Wash. 553; 28 Wash. 190; 29 Wash. 543; 38 Wash. 661. See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2305, § 191.

The rule that the allegata and probata should correspond prevails under the code as well as under the common law: Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538, 541; Carson v. Railsback, 3 W. T. 168.

An action for money had and received is not supported by proof that plaintiff had paid defendant certain sums of money upon a written contract which had been rescinded by plaintiff: Distler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200; or upon a contract for payment of money in consideration of the surrender of an interest in real estate: Clark v. Sherman, 5 Wash. 681; following Distler v. Dabney, supra; and plaintiff cannot recover in an action improperly brought as one for money had and received, although the real cause of action may be disclosed by the answer and reply: Clark v. Sherman, supra.

On a complaint alleging an express contract between plaintiff and defendant, no recovery can be had on proof of a contract between defendant and a third party for plaintiff's benefit: Haynes v. T. O. & G. H. R. Co., 7 Wash. 211, 213.

In an action on notes given for purchase price of land, although evidence to show a tender of a deed would have been vain and useless, yet where plaintiff has not pleaded an excuse for tender, he cannot urge the uselessness of complying with the obligation on his part: Underwood v. Tew, 7 Wash. 297.

In an action against partners for goods sold and delivered, it is error to admit evidence to show, and to instruct the jury on the theory, that defendants were a corporation: Kelly, Dunn & Co. v. Johnson, 5 Wash. 785.

In a suit against a carrier to recover damages for wrongful ejection of a passenger from a vessel, in which he pleads the contract of carriage, breach and circumstances of aggravation causing additional injury, a failure to prove the contract is not a variance, but a total failure of proof: Magee v. O. R. & N. Co., 46 Fed. (Wash.) 734.

Proof of an illegal consideration for a note cannot be given under the allegation of no consideration, but the facts showing the illegality must be pleaded: Lyts v. Keevey, 5 Wash. 606.

In an action of replevin by a mortgagee to recover the mortgaged property which had been attached while in his possession by creditors of the mortgagor, it was error, after excluding the mortgage by reason of invalidity, to treat the transaction brought about by the mortgage as a pledge, and admit oral testimony to establish the relation of pledgor and pledgee: Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538.

In an action of replevin, where personal property had been mortgaged to plaintiffs by third parties afterward, but prior to the maturity of the debt, delivered by the mortgagors to the defendant, it is a failure of proof, and not a mere variance, curable by amendment, to prove the existence of the mortgage in support of the allegations of plaintiff's ownership: Silsby v. Aldridge, 1 Wash. 117.

In an action for the possession of personal property, where plaintiff claims as owner under a bill of sale from a third party, and the proof shows that he is merely a mortgagee, he cannot recover: Kerron v. M. P. L. & M. Co., 1 Wash. 241.

There is a marked distinction between an immaterial variance and an absolute failure of proof, since the former may be cured by amendment while the latter is fatal to the action or defense: Dudley v. Duval, 29 Wash. 528; Malloy v. Benway, 34 Wash. 315; Weber v. Snohomish Shingle Co., 37 Wash. 576.

Where the complaint alleges a contract between the plaintiff as one party, and the defendants jointly as the other parties, and the proof showed a contract between the defendant agent as one party, and his two employers jointly, as the other party, there is a fatal variance amounting to a failure of proof under this section: Hartman v. Belden, 38 Wash. 655.

In an action for slander in charging a man with being a bigamist, proof that he did not actually call him a bigamist, but said he had a wife back east and was living with another woman here, is not only a total failure of proof, but amounts to a positive denial of the allegation: Bleitz v. Carton, 49 Wash. 545.

§ 302. (4952.) Variance in Action to Recover Personal Property.

Where the plaintiff in an action to recover the possession of personal property, on a claim of being the owner thereof, shall fail to establish on trial such ownership, but shall prove that he is entitled to the possession thereof by virtue of a special property therein, he shall not thereby be defeated of his action, but shall be permitted to amend, on reasonable terms, his complaint, and be entitled to judgment according to the proof in the case. [L. '57, p. 10, § 11; L. '69, p. 27, § 106; Cd. '81, § 108; 2 H. C., § 220.]

See notes to last section.

Cited in 1 Wash. 119; 16 Wash. 48.
In an action of replevin the defendant may, under a general denial of plaintiff's title and right of possession, show title to the property in himself: Harvey v. Ivory, 35 Wash. 397.

§ 303. (4953.) Amendments, Allowance of.

The court may, in furtherance of justice, and on such terms as may be proper, amend any pleadings or proceedings, by adding or striking out the name of any party, or by correcting a mistake in the name of a party, or a mistake in any other respect, and may, upon like terms, enlarge the time for answer or demurrer. The court may likewise, upon affidavit showing good cause therefor, after notice to the adverse party, allow, upon such terms as may be just, an amendment to any pleading or proceeding in other particulars, and may, upon like terms, allow an answer to be made after the time limited by this code, and may, upon such terms as may be just, and upon payment of costs, relieve a party, or his legal representatives, from a judgment, order, or other proceeding taken against him through his mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect. [L. '54, p. 144, § 69; L. '75, p. 11, § 20; Cd. '81, § 109; L. '91, p. 106, § 3; 2 H. C., § 221.]

Superseded so far as concerns the vacation of a divorce decree by § 235, supra: Metler v. Metler, 32 Wash. 494.

See supra, § 250, amendments to notices.

See infra, § 307, and notes, what defects may be disregarded.

See infra, § 472, vacation of judgments.

See supra, § 245, opening default in certain cases.

See infra, § 464, causes for vacation and modification of judgments.

See infra, § 677, amendments in attachment proceedings.

For provision relating to amendments on appeal from justices' courts, see infra, § 1788.

As to the amendment of pleadings in general, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2276-2286, §§ 99-128.

The act of February 26, 1891, entitled "An act relating to pleadings in civil actions, and amending §§ 76, 77 and 109 of the code of Washington of 1881," does not conflict with Art. 2, § 19, of the constitution, although § 109 of the Code of 1881 concerns the time within which courts may vacate judgments: Marston v.

Humes, 3 Wash. 267, 269; overruling Harland v. Territory, 3 W. T. 131.

The limitation of time contained in the prior law is entirely omitted in the amendment: Id.

AMENDMENTS are allowed, in the discretion of the court, upon such terms as shall seem just: Williams v. Miller, 1 W. T. 88; Silsby v. Frost, 3 W. T. 388.

The power of the court to allow amendments to pleadings is largely discretionary, and its exercise will not be reviewed on appeal, unless the discretion has been abused, and especially not where ample opportunity has been offered to meet and defend against the amended pleading: Silsby v. Frost, supra; Hulbert v. Brackett, 8 Wash. 438; Morgan v. Morgan, 10 Wash. 99; Belles v. Miller, 10 Wash. 259; Seward v. Derickson, 12 Wash. 225; McDonough v. Great Northern R. Co., 15 Wash. 244; Ogle v. Jones, 16 Wash. 319; West Seattle Land & Imp. Co. v.

Herren, 16 Wash. 665; Seattle v. Baxter, 20 Wash. 714; Hart Lum. Co. v. Rucker, 20 Wash. 383; Long v. Eisenbeis, 23 Wash. 556; Daly v. Everett Pulp & P. Co., 31 Wash. 252; Thomas v. Price, 33 Wash. 459; Cummings v. Weir, 37 Wash. 42; Helbig v. Grays Harbor Elec. Co., 37 Wash. 130; Davis v. Seattle, 37 Wash. 223; Van Behren v. Rettkowski, 37 Wash. 247; and for a proper exercise of such discretion in allowing or refusing such amendments, see, also, Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497; Maney v. Hart, 11 Wash. 67; Price v. Scott, 13 Wash. 574; Price Baking Powder Co. v. Rinear, 17 Wash. 95.

If an amended complaint is filed, any error of the court in ruling upon the original complaint is thereby waived: Bell v. Waudby, 4 Wash. 743; but where a demurrer to a pleading is improperly sustained and an exception taken thereto the objection is not waived by the filing of an amended complaint: Wood v. Mastick, 2 W. T. 64; and opportunity should be given to amend if the pleading is amendable: Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215.

When the court directs the amendment of a pleading a copy thereof need not be served, unless expressly ordered by the court: Williams v. Miller, supra.

The refusal of the trial court to allow an amendment substituting entirely new parties plaintiff is not an abuse of discretion: Liebmann v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 520. But see Zeimantz v. Blake, 39 Wash. 6; Davis v. Seattle, 37 Wash. 223.

The nature and character of a proper amendment of pleadings must be made to clearly appear to the appellate court before it will review the action of the lower court in refusing to allow the same: Newberg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182.

Under the statute permitting amendments to pleadings, it is within the discretion of the court to permit the filing of an amended answer on the merits after a finding against defendant, setting up the pendency of another suit: State v. Superior Court, 9 Wash. 366; or allowing the setting up of the statutes of limitation in an amended reply before trial: Thomas v. Price, 33 Wash. 459; or allowing amendments after reversal and remand for further proceedings: Interstate Sav. & L. Assn. v. Knapp, 20 Wash. 225; Richardson v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., 18 Wash. 368.

An omission to plead in a reply a rescission of a contract, which does not mislead the defendant, nor affect his substantial rights, may be cured by amendment at any stage of the proceedings: Ankeny v. Clark, 1 Wash. 549; see Distler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200; Osten v. Weinhill, 10 Wash. 333.

The refusal of the court to permit a defendant to amend its answer so as to set up another defense, after plaintiff had rested, which if granted would have necessitated a continuance to procure testimony to meet the new defense, is not an abuse of discretion: Skagit R. & L. Co. v. Cole, 2 Wash. 57.

A suitor may be required on motion to conform his statement of fact to the rules of good pleading, and if he refuse, may be turned out of court: Chambers v. Hoover, 3 W. T. 107.

The liberality of the rule regarding amendments permits the evidence to be put in and an amendment of pleadings to conform thereto, on proper terms: Carson v. Railsback, 3 W. T. 168; see Carson v. Dahms, 3 W. T. 176, 178; Carson v. Chandler, 3 W. T. 177; Leaman v. Thompson, 43 Wash. 579.

In an action between former partners, upon an alleged promise to pay whatever amount was overdrawn on dissolution of the partnership, it is an abuse of discretion to refuse leave to amend the complaint so as to ask an accounting, where it appears at the trial that no such promise was made as alleged, but that the parties had been equal partners and that defendant had overdrawn a sum that could be determined only upon an accounting; since a party is not to be turned out of court if entitled to any relief: Maitland v. Purdy, 49 Wash. 575.

An order setting aside a homestead for the use of a widow and children is a final order which can be set aside only by motion for a new trial or petition on statutory grounds, under this section and § 464, and cannot be vacated on petition of the widow on the mere allegation that the property was community property and that she was entitled to the exclusive possession of the same: In re McKeever's Estate, 48 Wash. 429.

Where, without objection, evidence is taken on the trial upon matters which ought to be affirmatively pleaded in defense, and the cause submitted for decision upon such evidence, the court should disregard the defect in the pleadings, or order an amendment to conform to the evidence: Galliher v. Cadwell, 3 W. T. 501.

The ordering of an amendment of the complaint on the trial, because of a misnomer of plaintiff, is harmless error, where there is no inconsiderable delay or expense: Lee v. Lee, 3 Wash. 236.

It is not an abuse of discretion for the court to allow an answer to be amended at the trial, although three answers had already been filed in the case: Barnes v. Packwood, 10 Wash. 50.

The amendment of a complaint during the progress of a trial rests in the discretion of the court and when it appears that no different answer is required, that defendant is not taken by surprise and does not ask time to answer the new pleading, its allowance is not an abuse of discretion: Hulbert v. Brackett, 8 Wash. 438; for abuse of discretion, see Gould v. Gleason, 10 Wash. 477; Norris Safe & Lock Co. v. Clark, 28 Wash. 268; McCleary v. Willis, 35 Wash. 676; Carstens & Earles v. Hine, 39 Wash. 498.

If the nature of the answer and proof thereunder clearly indicate that it was the intention to plead a three years' statute of limitations as a bar, and by mistake the pleading had specified a two years' limitation, it is not an abuse of discretion, after the hearing of the cause, to allow an amendment correcting the mistake although the equities be in favor of plaintiff: Morgan v. Morgan, 10 Wash. 99.

An affidavit and notice of application to amend an affirmative defense are not necessary where it appears that a mistake was made in drawing the first answer: Cooke v. Cain, 35 Wash. 353; Daly v. Everett Pulp & Paper Co., 31 Wash. 252.

In an action upon a note payable on demand in case the maker transfers his real estate before maturity, an amended complaint alleging the transfer of his real estate is not inconsistent with the original complaint alleging a transfer of "certain" of his real estate, and is allowable: Love-day v. Parker, 50 Wash. 260.

Terms and conditions as to amendments are within discretion of court: Williams v. Miller, 1 W. T. 88; Silsby v. Frost, 3 W. T. 388; Morrissey v. Faucett, 28 Wash. 52.

Where plaintiff relies upon on express admission in the answer and insists upon claiming a surprise, a refusal to allow an amendment except upon condition of a continuance, is within the discretion of the court: Irwin v. Buffalo Pitts Co., 39 Wash. 346. It is error to refuse a continuance on allowing a trial amendment changing the issues or alleging additional matter to surprise of defendant: Gould v. Gleason, 10 Wash. 476; Wright v. Northern R. Co., 38 Wash. 64; Eldridge v. Young America etc. Min. Co., 27 Wash. 297.

The sufficiency of defendant's excuse for delay in filing answer to a complaint after the setting aside of the original judgment therein is a matter resting largely in the discretion of the trial court for determination: Woodham v. Anderson, 32 Wash. 500.

An affidavit in supplemental proceedings may, with permission, be amended, to conform to the original proceeding: Murne v. Schwabacher, 2 W. T. 130.

If a complaint has been amended twice, the refusal to grant a third amendment is not an abuse of discretion, especially when the application is not accompanied with the proposed amended pleading: Balch v. Smith, 4 Wash. 497; Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1; Harris v. Cowles, 38 Wash. 331.

Amendments should be liberally allowed in appeals from justices of the peace, so long as the issue in the justice's court be not made different thereby. Amendments should, however, be allowed, in the discretion of the court, to promote the ends of justice, and the refusal of such an amendment is error: Newberg v. Farmer, supra.

In a case appealed from a justice of the peace to the superior court, it is discretionary with the court to allow amendments to the pleadings used before the justice, and prohibition will not lie to prevent such action: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 705.

A claim in a complaint of a homestead in the premises may be amended by alleging subsequent performance of acts required to perfect the same: Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1.

An amendment introducing new elements of damages in addition to those originally claimed is properly denied: Anderson v. Harper, 30 Wash. 378.

An amendment to the complaint is proper where it does not affect the material issues involved, although contradictory of the complaint: Hadevis v. Nutting, 43 Wash. 40.

Upon sustaining a demurrer to a petition and granting leave to amend, the court is not thereby precluded from overruling a demurrer to an amended petition stating substantially the same facts with some additional averments: Murphy v. Murphy, 43 Wash. 142.

VACATING JUDGMENTS.—A motion to vacate a judgment is directed to the discretion of the trial court, and its action in passing thereon will not be reversed, unless showing made therefor leaves no room for the exercise of discretion by it: Livesley v. O'Brien, 6 Wash. 553.

A court will not open a judgment regularly entered, although it may be through mistake, unless it appears that the judgment was wrongful or oppressive: N. P. etc. Ry. Co. v. Black, 3 Wash. 327.

Where judgment has been taken against defendant by default for failure to answer, it should be vacated when it appears that he has a meritorious defense and was misled by a statement of plaintiff's attorney, that the cause would be tried several months later than the time at which default was taken: Bast v. Hyson, 6 Wash. 170.

It is not an abuse of discretion for a trial court to deny a motion to vacate a judgment by default, when the only ground claimed for relief is that defendant's counsel was prevented from answering, on account of absence from the city: Sanborn v. Furniture Mfg. Co., 5 Wash. 150; nor to deny a motion to vacate a judgment, when the affidavits in support of the motion show only a want of attention to the case by counsel and client: Myers v. Lundrum, 4 Wash. 762.

Mistake of an attorney in noting the day in which answer must be filed, when a summons is handed him by a client, owing to which mistake judgment by default is taken against his client for want of answer, will warrant the court in setting aside the default: Reitmeir v. Seigmund, 13 Wash. 624.

This section authorizes a trial court to vacate its own order denying a new trial, taken against a party through mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect: Little Bill v. Dyslin, 51 Wash. 675.

An order vacating a judgment will not be reversed on the technical ground that it was granted after denial of a former motion for such order, when on the same grounds, when the first motion should have been granted: Clein v. Wandschneider, 14 Wash. 257.

Under § 109 of the Code of 1881, of which this section is an amendment, it was held that an order vacating a judgment, whether at the same term or within five months thereafter, is not appealable: Lilienthal v. Wright, 1 Wash. 1; Gower v. Gower, 1 Wash. 16; see contra, N. P. etc. Ry Co. v. Black, 3 Wash. 327.

In Freeman v. Ambrose, 12 Wash. 1, it is held that an order setting aside a default is not appealable.

An order of the court granting a motion to vacate a default judgment for $500 upon condition that the defendant would give bond in the sum of $2,000, to secure the payment of any judgment that might be rendered against it, is not an abuse of the discretion vested in the court in such cases by this section, when it appears that the object of the defendant was to postpone action for the purpose of defeating the judgment on execution, and there is no showing of inability on the part of defendant to furnish the bond: Halter v. Spokane Soap Works Co., 12 Wash. 662.

As to vacation of judgments, when taken through mistake, surprise, or inadvertence, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1602, §§ 110-112.

See further as to vacation of judgments: Chehalis County v. Ellingson, 21 Wash. 638; Spokane & Idaho Lumber Co. v. Stanley, 25 Wash. 653; Griffith v. Maxwell, 25 Wash. 658; Spokane Co. v. Colfelt, 30 Wash. 628; Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 156; Denton v. Merchants Nat. Bank, 18 Wash. 387; Hull v. Vining, 17 Wash. 352; Hart Lumber Co. v. Rucker, 17 Wash. 600.

AMENDMENT OF PLEADINGS AT TRIAL: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2278, § 104, and cases cited. The amendment of a complaint to correspond to the proof is a matter within the discretion of the court, and will only be disturbed when it appears that injustice was thereby done to defendant: Seward v. Derrickson, 12 Wash. 225.

It is within the discretion of the court to permit the amendment of a complaint after the close of plaintiff's testimony, and it is not an abuse of such discretion when the amendment is not of such a character as to materially change the cause of action, nor such as to occasion surprise or place opposing counsel at a disadvantage: McDonough v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 15 Wash. 244; following Hulbert v. Brackett, 8 Wash. 438.

Refusal to allow defendant to amend his answer upon application therefor made after the plaintiff's testimony has been introduced, is not an abuse of the court's discretion: Price v. Scott, 13 Wash. 574.

Denial of defendant's application to file an amended answer, at the trial, setting up a counterclaim, is not an abuse of discretion when the defendant had once waived the filing of it: Maney v. Hart, 11 Wash. 67.

In an action to recover for labor performed and material furnished to defendant in the driving of a certain number of piles, it is not error to permit plaintiff, at the time of going to trial, to amend his complaint, over the objection of defendant, by striking therefrom the claim for materials furnished, as modification of the complaint imposes no additional burden on defendant in conducting his defense, nor does it materially change the issues so as to require further preparation for trial: Id.

Where, after trial commenced, leave is granted to file a supplemental answer setting up a counterclaim, it is not error to require the trial to proceed, after the court had announced that a demurrer would be sustained, it being understood that it was so traversed by oral demurrer: Veysey v. Thompson, 49 Wash. 571.

An objection to the amendment of a complaint on the trial, so as to show recovery of a judgment in the supreme court of another state instead of in the circuit court, is waived by an admission that there is a judgment-roll against the party objecting and that it is a proper exemplification of the judgment rendered in the supreme court of the state, when such admission is made in connection with a demand for opening and closing the case before the jury on other issues: Edmunds v. Black, 13 Wash. 490.

A trial amendment to show venue in replevin is within the discretion of the court: Standard Furniture Co. v. Anderson, 38 Wash. 582.

Where the court withdraws the case from the jury for the purpose of an accounting the pleadings may be considered amended: Goupille v. Chaput, 43 Wash. 702.

It is not necessary to amend where the issue was raised by denials: Vulcan Iron Works v. Burrell Const. Co., 39 Wash. 319.

It is an abuse of discretion to refuse leave to set up a defense omitted by mistake: Van Lehn v. Morse, 16 Wash. 672.

Where a demurrer to a defense has been sustained, and no amendment is offered until the trial, it is not an abuse of discretion to refuse to allow a trial amendment, when the adverse party makes a claim of surprise: United States, Use etc. v. Aetna Indem. Co., 40 Wash. 87.

No abuse of discretion appears where application to amend was made several days before the trial, and no request for a continuance was made: Shine v. Culver, 42 Wash. 484.

The denial of a nonsuit is not such surprise as warrants an amendment to the answer: Vulcan Iron Works v. Burrell Const. Co., 39 Wash. 319.

It is not error to refuse to allow an amendment immaterial to the issue: Tebbetts v. Northern Commercial Co., 36 Wash. 599.

An application by defendants to amend their answer so as to question the individual liability of one of them, made at the commencement of a second trial after the cause had been once tried and appealed on the same pleadings, is a matter peculiarly within the discretion of the superior court, and its action will not be disturbed in the absence of a showing of abuse of such discretion: Bishop v. Averill, 19 Wash. 490.

An amended answer, containing explanatory matters, may be allowed where plaintiff is not taken by surprise: Brown v. Baruch, 24 Wash. 572.

On motion for judgment against a garnishee, his answer will be treated as amended to meet the issue raised by the reply: McAvoy v. Jennings, 39 Wash. 109.

It is not prejudicial error to refuse to allow an intervener to file a cross-complaint setting up fraud when the cause has already been tried on that issue: Biddle Pur. Co. v. Pt. Townsend Steel etc. Co., 16 Wash. 681.

A verbal amendment to the reply may be made at the trial where defendant is not prejudiced thereby: Bergman v. London etc. Fire Ins. Co., 34 Wash. 398.

On an issue of adverse possession an amended reply stating new facts is permissible where the issue is not changed by such amendment: Kline v. Stein, 38 Wash. 124.

The filing of an amendatory demurrer is within the discretion of the trial court: Roche v. Spokane County, 22 Wash. 121; McClaine v. Fairchild, 23 Wash. 758.

§ 304. (4954.) Amendments, How Made.

When any pleading or proceeding is amended before trial, mere clerical errors excepted, it shall be done by filing a new pleading, to be called the amended complaint, or otherwise, as the case may be. Such amended pleading shall be complete in itself, without reference to the original, or any preceding amended one. [L. '69, p. 27, § 108; Cd. '81, § 110; 2 H. C., § 222.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 612; 16 Wash. 357.

Mode of making amendment: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2280, § 106.

Under this section an amendment is effected by filing a new pleading: Luce v. Luce, 15 Wash. 608, 612.

When the court directs the amendment of a pleading under this section a copy need not be served unless the court so orders: Williams v. Miller, 1 W. T. 88.

An offer to amend must show what the proposed amendment is: Newberg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182.

Amendment by interlineation allowed: See Newman v. Buzard, 24 Wash. 225.

A complaint to foreclose a logger's lien may be amended without permission by adding new parties plaintiff and defendant, and also asking damages for the eloignment of the logs, and a ruling of the lower court refusing to strike such an amended complaint will not be reversed: Cross v. Dore, 20 Wash. 121.

§ 305. (4955.) Informal Pleadings, Stricken Out—Amendment of.

Any pleading not duly verified and subscribed may, on motion of the adverse party, be stricken out of the case. When any pleading contains more than one cause of action or defense, if the same be not pleaded separately, such pleading may, on motion of the adverse party, be stricken out of the case. When a motion to strike out is allowed, the court may, upon such terms as may be proper, allow the party to file an amended pleading; or if the motion be disallowed, and it appear to have been made in good faith, the court may, upon like terms, allow the party to plead over. [L. '69, p. 27, § 109; Cd. '81, § 111; 2 H. C., § 223.]

See supra, § 258, what complaint must contain.

See supra, § 259, subd. 5, grounds of defendant's demurrer.

See supra, § 264, what answer must contain.

See supra, § 286, striking irrelevant, redundant and indefinite matter.

See supra, § 275, striking sham, frivolous and irrelevant answers.

See supra, § 282, when verification may be omitted.

Cited in 40 Wash. 212.

The action of the trial court in striking out an answer, and giving judgment on the pleadings, because the answer had been once ruled as demurrable and had been again filed, after the sustaining of a demurrer to an amended answer, will not be disturbed, although such procedure may not be strictly regular: Noyes v.

Longhead, 9 Wash. 325; see Hays v. Peavey, 43 Wash. 163.

When the record shows that, subsequent to the denial of a motion to strike out the reply, a new complaint was filed, and a new chain of pleadings made, and no objection saved, the appellant cannot insist that the refusal to strike the reply was error: Kratz v. Dawson, 3 W. T. 100.

§ 306. (4956.) Defendant Designated by Fictitious Name, When.

When the plaintiff shall be ignorant of the name of the defendant, it shall be so stated in his pleading, and such defendant may be designated in any pleading or proceeding by any name, and when his true name shall be discovered, the pleading or proceeding may be amended accordingly. [L. '54, p. 144, § 70; L. '69, p. 28, § 110; Cd. '81, § 112; 2 H. C., § 224.]

See supra, § 229, process against unknown parties.

§ 307. (4957.) Harmless Errors Disregarded.

The court shall, in every stage of an action, disregard any error or defect in pleadings or proceedings which shall not affect the substantial rights of the adverse party, and no judgment shall be reversed or affected by reason of such error or defect. [L. '54, p. 144, § 71; Cd. '81, § 113; 2 H. C., § 225.]

See supra, § 250, effect of imperfect notice, amendment.

See supra, § 303, amendments generally.

See infra, § 412, vacating judgments by default.

Objections and waiver: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2305-2311, §§ 192-214.

While the venue in an action to recover specific personal property is jurisdictional, yet the omission to allege that it was within the county in which the action is brought is harmless and should be disregarded, when the sheriff's return on file in the cause shows the property to be within the jurisdiction: Stiles v. James, 2 W. T. 194; see Eakin v. McCraith, 2 W. T. 112.

Testing a complaint by motion instead of demurrer is harmless where the motion was in substance a demurrer and so treated: Bethel v. Robinson, 4 Wash. 446; Seal v. Cameron, 24 Wash. 62.

The overruling of a demurrer to an answer is not error when the demurrer is practically a denial of all the averments of the complaint: Schell v. Walla Walla, 44 Wash. 43.

Erroneous rulings on demurrers will be considered waived or treated as harmless error if cured by subsequent proceedings in case: Moore v. Walla Walla, 2 W. T. 184; Penter v. Staight, 1 Wash. 365; Lowman v. West, 7 Wash. 407; Washington

Nat. Bldg. etc. Assn. v. Saunders, 24 Wash. 321; Marvin v. Yates, 26 Wash. 50; Washington Nat. Bldg. etc. Assn. v. Saunders, 24 Wash. 321; Crane Co. v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 43 Wash. 516; Asplund v. Mattson, 15 Wash. 328; Moran Bros. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 19 Wash. 266. See, also, Kinhead v. Holmes etc. Co., 24 Wash. 216; Green v. Tidball, 26 Wash. 339; or by filing amended pleadings: Bell v. Waudby, 4 Wash. 743; Prescott v. Puget Sound etc. Dredg. Co., 31 Wash. 177; Reed v. Parker, 33 Wash. 107; Hays v. Peavey, 43 Wash. 163; Maris v. Clevenger, 29 Wash. 395; see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2309, § 204; or by pleading over: Tolmie v. Dean, 1 W. T. 46; Ward v. Moorey, 1 W. T. 104; Renton v. St. Louis, 1 W. T. 215; but not after exception taken and going to trial: Wood v. Mastick, 2 W. T. 64; Jones v. St. Paul etc. R. Co., 16 Wash. 25; Scott v. Hallock, 16 Wash. 439. See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2309, § 205.

Error in ruling on objections to complaint is waived by pleading over and trial on merits: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2306, § 196. See, also, Bell v. Waudby, 4 Wash. 743; Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107; Blumauer v. Clock, 24 Wash. 596; Nye v. Kelly, 19 Wash. 73; Bates v. Drake, 28

Wash. 447; Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 413.

Error in rulings on motions is harmless if cured by the pleadings or further action in case: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 309, § 208; Kratz v. Dawson, 3 W. T. 100; Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107, 45 Pac. 739; Du Clos v. Batcheller, 17 Wash. 389; Boardman v. Hager, 24 Wash. 487; Rattelmiller v. Stone, 28 Wash. 104; Anderson v. Harper, 30 Wash. 378; Curtis v. Tenino Stone Quarries, 37 Wash. 355; In re Pike St., 42 Wash. 551; Federal Iron & B. B. Co. v. Hock, 42 Wash. 668; Johnson v. Seattle Elec. Co., 39 Wash. 211; but see Pettygrose v. Rothschild, 2 Wash. 6.

A party is bound by the legal effect of his evidence upon an issue whether it was made or not made by the pleadings: Sherman v. Sweeny, 29 Wash. 321; or where the evidence has not been objected to: Bruce v. Foley, 18 Wash. 96.

Defects in pleadings or proceedings, if not prejudicial, may be treated as eliminated by verdict or judgment: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2310, 2311, §§ 212, 213; Johnson v. Leonhard, 1 Wash. 564; Moran Bros. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 19 Wash. 266; Moynahan v. Interstate Min. etc. Co., 31 Wash. 417; Price Baking Powder Co. v. Rinear, 17 Wash. 95; Pain v. Isaacs, 10 Wash. 173; Edmunds v. Black, 13 Wash. 490; Green v. Tidball, 26 Wash. 338; Jacobson v. Aberdeen Pack. Co., 26 Wash. 175; Brown v. Gillett, 33 Wash. 264; Gallamore v. Olympia, 34 Wash. 379; Prescott v. Puget Sound Bridge etc. Co., 31 Wash. 177; Ellsworth v. Layton, 37 Wash. 340; Clark v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 29 Wash. 139; King v. Ilwaco R. & Nav. Co., 1 Wash. 127; Titlow v. Cascade Oatmeal Co., 15 Wash. 652; Bonne v. Security Sav. Soc., 35 Wash. 696; Carstens v. Milo, 40 Wash. 335.

§ 308. (4958.) Supplemental Pleadings, When Allowed.

The court may, on motion, allow supplemental pleadings showing facts which occurred after the former pleadings were filed. [L. '54, p. 144, § 72; Cd. '81, § 114; 2 H. C., § 226.]

Cited in 1 Wash. 375; 3 Wash. 657; 27 Wash. 335.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2284-2286, §§ 123-128.

The refusal of the court to allow the filing of a supplemental complaint, after the plaintiff has allowed the time to expire to further plead on the sustaining of a demurrer to the original complaint, is not an abuse of discretion: Davis v. Erickson, 3 Wash. 654.

Where an action, of equitable cognizance, has been treated by all parties as one at law, it is not error to permit the filing of a supplemental complaint asking for judgment generally, after defendant's action has prevented plaintiff from securing equitable relief: Kleeb v. Bard, 7 Wash. 41; see Bard v. Kleeb, 1 Wash. 375.

When the maker of a note pays an assignee thereof who holds the same as security after institution of suit thereon by the payee, a supplemental complaint claiming attorney's fees, and alleging collusion between maker and assignee to prevent judgment for attorney's fees, pleading held insufficient: Davis v. Erickson, supra.

In an action by a wife to vacate a judgment and sale against her husband involving community real estate, leave to file a supplemental complaint, alleging proceedings and decree for divorce between herself and husband, during its pendency, and her purchase of her husband's interest in lands at sheriff's sale, was properly denied, as amounting to a substitution of a different cause of action: Andrews v. Andrews, 3 W. T. 286.

Where a temporary injunction had been granted an attaching creditor, before judgment in a law action, against the foreclosure by a wife of a fraudulent chattel mortgage of the attached property, a supplemental pleading should have been allowed, showing the rendition of judgment in the law action, instead of dismissing the original bill, for failing to show a judgment to be protected: Meacham Arms Co. v. Swarts, 2 W. T. 413.

Allowing or not allowing the filing of supplemental pleadings is largely discretionary: Long v. Eisenbeis, 23 Wash. 556; McDaniels v. Gowey, 30 Wash. 412; Burnett v. Ewing, 39 Wash. 45.

A purchaser pendente lite of the claim of a party to an action will not be permitted to come in and take part in the proceedings in the cause without the filing of supplemental pleadings, unless by consent of the other parties to the suit: Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318.

Supplemental answer showing payment should be allowed where the facts warrant it: Burnett v. Ewing, 39 Wash. 45.

It is proper to allow a supplemental answer to show a settlement made after the verification and service of the original answer: McRea v. Warehime, 49 Wash. 194.

A conditional tender of money by defendant is waived by bringing the same into court without condition, and its acceptance by plaintiffs does not waive any rights, and cannot be pleaded in a supplemental answer as an abandonment of the right of action: Tilden v. Gordon & Co., 34 Wash. 92.

An order refusing leave to file a supplemental complaint is reviewable on appeal without any formal exceptions, where it is embodied in a written order and journal entry in the cause: Burnett v. Ewing, 39 Wash. 45.

New grounds for complaint and new demands arising since institution of suit may be set forth in a supplemental complaint: Scoland v. Scoland, 4 Wash. 118;

Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601; Pacific Bridge Co. v. U. S. Fidelity etc. Co., 33 Wash. 47; Hodges v. Price, 38 Wash. 1; Belles v. Miller, 10 Wash. 259.

A supplemental complaint will not be allowed where it would introduce an entirely new cause of action not existing at commencement of the action: Lawrence v. Pederson, 34 Wash. 1.

CHAPTER I.

ISSUES IN CIVIL ACTIONS.

§ 309. (4962.) Issues Defined, Kinds of.

Issues arise upon the pleadings when a fact or conclusion of law is maintained by one party and controverted by the other. They are of two kinds—First, of law; and second, of fact. [Cf. L. '54, p. 163, § 179; Cd. '81, § 200; 2 H. C., § 333; L. '93, p. 415, § 28.]

Cited in 24 Wash. 96.

§ 310. (4963.) Issue of Law Arises, When.

An issue of law arises upon a demurrer to the complaint, answer or reply. [Cf. L. '54, p. 163, § 180; Cd. '81, § 201; 2 H. C., § 334; L. '93, p. 415, § 29.]

See supra, §§ 258, 259, 264, and notes.

Cited in 17 Wash. 602.

§ 311. (4964.) Issue of Fact, How Raised.

An issue of fact arises,—

First: Upon a material allegation in the complaint controverted by the answer; or Second: Upon new matter in the answer, controverted by the reply; or Third: Upon new matter in the reply, except when an issue of law is joined thereon.

Issues both of law and of fact may arise upon different and distinct parts of the pleadings in the same action. [Cf. L. '54, p. 163, § 181; Cd. '81, § 202; 2 H. C., § 335; L. '93, p. 415, § 30.]

§ 312. (4965.) Trial Defined.

A trial is the judicial examination of the issues between the parties, whether they are issues of law or fact. [L. '93, p. 416, § 31.]

Cited in 17 Wash. 602.

§ 313. (4966.) Issue of Law, How Tried.

An issue of law shall be tried by the court, unless it is referred as provided by the statutes relating to referees. [Cf. L. '54, p. 164, § 183; Cd. '81, § 204; 2 H. C., § 337; L. '93, p. 416, § 32.]

Cited in 16 Wash. 384.

§ 314. (4967.) Issue of Fact, How Tried.

An issue of fact, in an action for the recovery of money only, or of specific real or personal property shall be tried by a jury, unless a jury is waived, as provided by law, or a reference ordered, as provided by statute relating to referees. [Cf. L. '54, p. 164, § 183; L. '69, p. 50, § 208; L. '73, p. 52, § 206; Cd. '81, § 204; 2 H. C., § 337; L. '93, p. 416, § 33.]

See infra, § 316, for notes as to waiver of jury.

See infra, § 1848, waiver of jury in justices' courts.

Cited in 28 Wash. 71; 30 Wash. 6.

As to right of trial by jury, under this section, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1646, §§ 2, 3.

A proceeding to recover specific real or personal property must be tried by jury: In re Alfstad's Estate, 27 Wash. 175;

Winston v. Crowe, 28 Wash. 65; Filley v. Murphy, 30 Wash. 1.

Where the pleadings in a case filed in probate raise the issue as to the right of possession of real and personal property, a jury trial is demandable, under this section: Filley v. Murphy, 30 Wash. 1.

§ 315. (4968.) Trial of Other Issues.

Every other issue of fact shall be tried by the court, subject, however, to the right of the parties to consent, or of the court to order, that the whole issue, or any specific question of fact involved therein, be tried by a jury, or referred. [L. '93, p. 416, § 34.]

Cited in 16 Wash. 384.

§ 316. Jury Fee—Advance Deposit—Waiver of Jury.

In all civil actions triable by a jury in the superior court any party to the action may, at or prior to the time the case is called to be set for trial, serve upon the opposite party or his attorney, and file with the clerk of the court a statement of himself, or attorney, that he elects to have such case tried by jury. At the time of filing such statement such party shall also deposit with the clerk of the court $12.00, which deposit, in the event that the case is settled out of court prior to the time that such case is called to be heard upon trial, shall be returned to such party by such clerk. Unless such statement is filed and such deposit made, the parties shall be deemed to have waived trial by jury, and consented to a trial by the court: Provided, that, in the superior courts of counties of the first class such parties shall serve and file such statement, in manner herein provided, at any time not later than two days before the time the case is called to be set for trial. [L. '03, p. 50, § 1; L. '09, p. 715, § 1.]

See supra, § 314, waiver of jury in certain cases.

See infra, § 2144, waiver of jury in criminal cases.

See infra, § 2116, jury cannot be waived in capital cases.

See infra, § 997, no jury in divorce cases.

Bal. Code, § 5028, providing for waiver of jury trials, was repealed by § 3 of the act of 1903.

Cited in 33 Wash. 536; 33 Wash. 537; 33 Wash. 539; 36 Wash. 603; 38 Wash. 687; 39 Wash. 106; 40 Wash. 355.

Legal actions may be tried by the court, but equitable actions must be so tried: Enos v. Wilcox, 3 Wash. 44, 47.

The trial of a cause by the court, when an issue of fact is made, there being no waiver of a jury as provided by § 314, supra, is an assumption of power not authorized by law: Johnson v. Goodtime, 1 W. T. 484.

When mere silence does not constitute a waiver under Bal. Code, § 5028, see King Co. v. Hill, 1 Wash. 404, 407.

Under § 314, supra, and Bal. Code, § 5028, it was held, where defendant demanded a jury on the original complaint, but, after the latter had been amended, went to trial without demanding a jury, but requested the appointment of a reporter to take the evidence, that this did not operate as a waiver to a right to a jury and that § 314 was mandatory: Meeker v. Gilbert, 3 W. T. 369.

Where a case proceeds to trial before the court on the merits, without objection or demand for a jury trial, the objection cannot be raised on appeal: Stetson & Post M. Co. v. McDonald, 5 Wash. 496, 498.

If the jury has been waived in an action, and trial had before a referee, the waiver holds good for a retrial after reversal on appeal: Park v. Mighell, 7 Wash. 304.

A jury trial cannot be demanded in trying the issue raised by a motion to discharge an attachment: Windt v. Banniza, 2 Wash. 147.

Any right that a defendant may have to a trial by jury is waived by his allowing the issues to be made up as though the action were one properly triable in equity: Frye v. Hill, 14 Wash. 83.

As to waiver of right to trial by jury, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1648, §§ 17-22.

This section is not unconstitutional as imposing any unreasonable conditions upon the right of trial by jury: State ex rel. Clark v. Neterer, 33 Wash. 535.

Defendant waives a jury by his default and failure to demand the same, under this section: Oregon R. & Nav. Co. v. McCormick, 46 Wash. 45.

This section applies to condemnation proceedings: See Chelan County v. Navarre, 38 Wash. 684.

Under this section it is within the discretion of the court to allow a trial by jury, though a jury was not demanded at the time the case was set for trial: Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601; Fleming v. Wilson, 39 Wash. 106, 1104; Hart v. Cascade Timber Co., 39 Wash. 279.

A demand for a jury trial is waived where the trial is transferred to another judge, on the theory that the cause is of an equitable nature, with the suggestion that the party may save his right to a jury trial by a motion to remand, and no objection or motion to remand is made, and the trial is had without calling the trial judge's attention to the demand: Zilke v. Woodley, 36 Wash. 84.

Where plaintiff's action is founded upon a written contract, the withdrawal of the case from the jury at the close of plaintiff's case and directing a verdict for defendant, is in no sense a deprivation of the constitutional right of trial by jury: Creagh v. Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 19 Wash. 108.

Where no demand for a jury trial was made below, the question will not be considered on appeal: Grimm v. Pacific Creosoting Co., 50 Wash. 415.

IN EQUITABLE ACTIONS AND DEFENSES.—It is error to compel the trial of a cause as an action at law, when both complaint and answer invoke the equity powers of the court: Distler v. Dabney, 7 Wash. 431; Hamar v. Peterson, 9 Wash. 152.

The refusal to direct a jury trial of issues of fact in an equity cause is not ground of reversal, since the verdict of a jury therein would be only advisory: Dearborn F. Co. v. Augustine, 5 Wash. 67; but the court has authority in an equitable action to direct a trial of the issues of fact therein: Id.; following State v. Lichtenberg, 4 Wash. 553. See, also, Wheeler v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617.

It is discretionary with the court to submit questions of fact to the jury, or to try all the issues itself, in equitable causes: Wintermute v. Carner, 8 Wash. 585.

The foreclosure of a mechanic's lien is of equitable cognizance, and a demand for a jury trial therein need not be recognized: Bldg. & L. Co. v. Wentworth, 1 Wash. 467; and defendant, in such suit, by setting up a claim for damages for breach of contract, cannot demand a jury trial: Inst. Bldg. & L. Co. v. Wentworth, supra.

Where defendant interposes an equitable defense in an action to recover possession of land, and does not demand a jury trial, or allege omission of jury trial as ground for a new trial, the omission to try the case by a jury is not assignable error by defendant: Keane v. Brigger, 3 Wash. 338, 351; Morgan v. Bell, 3 Wash. 554, 563.

Section 997, infra, dispensing with jury trials in divorce cases, also cuts off the right to have an issue therein of conspiracy to defraud plaintiff tried by a jury: Prouty v. Prouty, 4 Wash. 174.

Where an equity case is tried before a jury, and its verdict is a determination of the entire issue, judgment should be rendered in accordance therewith, when no findings of fact have been made by the court and when the verdict has not been set aside as contrary to the evidence: Roberts v. Sabin, 14 Wash. 35.

If all parties voluntarily submit their controversy to the equity side of the court, the fact that plaintiff had an adequate remedy at law cannot be raised by motion to dismiss upon trial: Wilkeson C. & C. Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177.

The refusal of a court to direct a jury trial of issues of fact in an equity cause, not ground for reversal: Dearborn Foundry Co. v. Augustin, 5 Wash. 67.

§ 317. Fee Deposited to be Part of Costs.

The amount deposited by the party demanding a trial by jury shall be a part of the taxable costs in such action. The amounts received by the clerk on account of jury fees shall be accounted for as such other fees received. [L. '03, p. 50, § 2.]

§ 318. (4969.) Agreement to Refer.

The [waiver of a jury or] agreement to refer, shall be by stipulation of the parties filed, or the oral consent of parties given in open court and entered in the records: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to restrict the chancery powers of the judges, or to authorize the trial of any issue by a jury, when the complaint alleges an equitable claim, and seeks relief solely upon the ground of the equities of the demand made by the pleadings in the action. [Cf. L. '54, p. 164, § 183; L. '69, p. 50, § 208; L. '73, p. 52, § 206; Cd. '81, § 204; 2 H. C., § 337.]

Superseded as to waiver of jury by § 316, supra.

See infra, § 1848, waiver of jury in justices' courts.

See supra, § 92, definition of petit jury.

The first paragraph of this section as contained in Hill's Code is omitted as being covered by §§ 313-315, supra.

Augustine, 5 Wash. 67; Hamar v. Peterson, 9 Wash. 152; Murray v. Okanogan Live Stock etc. Co., 12 Wash. 259; In re Alfstad's Estate, 27 Wash. 175; Winston v. Crowe, 28 Wash. 65; Filley v. Philadelphia Mortgage etc. Co., 33 Wash. 464; Gaffney v. Megrath, 23 Wash. 476.

This section is not an infringement of the right to trial by jury: State ex rel. Clark v. Neterer, 33 Wash. 335.

§ 319. (4970.) Notice of Trial.

At any time after the issues of fact are completed in any case by the service of complaint and answer or reply when necessary, as provided in title three, either party may cause the issues of fact to be brought on for trial, by serving upon the opposite party a notice of trial at least three days before any day provided by rules of court for setting causes for trial, which notice shall give the title of the cause as in the pleadings, and notify the opposite party that the issues in such action will be brought on for trial at the time set by the court; and the party giving such notice of trial shall, at least three days before the day of setting such causes for trial file with the clerk of the court a note of issue containing the title of the action, the names of the attorneys and the date when the last pleading was served; and the clerk shall thereupon enter the cause upon the trial docket according to the date of the issue. In case an issue of law raised upon the pleadings is desired to be brought on for argument, either party shall, at least three days before the day set apart by the court under its rules for hearing issues of law, serve upon the opposite party a like notice of trial and furnish the clerk of the court with a note of issue as above provided, which note of issue shall specify that the issue to be tried is an issue of law; and the clerk of the court shall thereupon enter such action upon the motion docket of the court. When a cause has once been placed upon either docket of the court, if not tried or argued at the time for which notice was given, it need not be noticed for a subsequent session or day, but shall remain upon the docket from session to session or from law day to law day until final disposition or stricken off by the court. The party upon whom notice of trial is served may file the note of issue and cause the action to be placed upon the calendar without further notice on his part. [L. '93, p. 416, § 35.]

§ 320. (4971.) After Notice Either Party may Bring Issue to Trial.

Either party, after the notice of trial, whether given by himself or the adverse party, may bring the issue to trial, and, in the absence of the adverse party, unless the court for good cause otherwise directs, may proceed with his case, and take a dismissal of the action, or a verdict or judgment, as the case may require. [L. '93, p. 417, § 36.]

§ 321. (4972.) Pleadings, When to be Filed.

All pleadings in any civil action shall be filed with the clerk of the court, on or before the day when the case is called for trial, or the day when any application is made to the court for an order therein, and in case the moving party shall fail, or neglect to cause the pleadings to be filed with the clerk of the court as above required, the adverse party may apply to the court, without notice, for an order on such moving party to file such pleadings forthwith, and for a failure to comply with such order the court may order the cause dismissed unless good cause is shown for granting an extension of time within which to file such pleadings. [L. '93, p. 417, § 37.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 641; 22 Wash. 442; 38 Wash. 171.

Failure to file complaint does not make the judgment void for want of jurisdiction: Snohomish Land Co. v. Blood, 40 Wash. 626; but see Ashcraft v. Powers, 22 Wash. 441.

CHAPTER II.

TRIAL OF CIVIL ACTIONS.

§ 322. (4977.) Motion for Continuance, When Allowed.

A motion to continue a trial on the ground of the absence of evidence shall only be made upon affidavit showing the materiality of the evidence expected to be obtained, and that due diligence has been used to procure it, and also the name and residence of the witness or witnesses. The court may also require the moving party to state, upon affidavit, the evidence which he expects to obtain; and if the adverse party admit that such evidence would be given, and that it be considered as actually given on the trial, or offered and overruled as improper, the trial shall not be continued. The court, upon its allowance of the motion, may impose terms or conditions upon the moving party. [Cf. L. '54, p. 164, § 184; L. '69, p. 50, § 209; Cd. '81, § 205; 2 H. C., § 338.]

See infra, § 484, costs on postponement.

See infra, §§ 1847, 1850, continuance in justices' courts.

See infra, § 2135, continuance in criminal cases.

Cited in 8 Wash. 726; 14 Wash. 581; 29 Wash. 380; 34 Wash. 204; 49 Wash. 13.

As to right to continuance in general, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 553-557, §§ 1-21.

As to surprise at trial, as a ground for continuance, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 556, § 19; Straw-Ellsworth Mfg. Co. v. Cain, 20 Wash. 351; Vulcan Iron Works v. Burrell Constr. Co., 29 Wash. 319; O'Neill v. Lindsey, 41 Wash. 649; Lampe v. Jacobsen, 46 Wash. 533; Dunlop v. Seattle, Renton & Southern R. Co., 47 Wash. 576; Merrill v. O'Bryan, 48 Wash. 415; Hendelman v. Kahn, 50 Wash. 247. Amendment of pleadings, when sufficient grounds for continuance: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 556, § 20; Silsby v. Frost, 3 W. T. 388; Lee v. Lee, 3 Wash. 236; Hart Lumber Co. v. Rucker, 20 Wash. 383; Eldridge v. Young America & Cliff Cons. Min. Co., 27 Wash. 297; Wright v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 38 Wash. 64.

An application for continuance is addressed to the sound discretion of the court: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547; State v. Murphy, 9 Wash. 204; Juch v. Hanna, 11 Wash. 676; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; State v. Burns, 19 Wash. 52; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339; Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601; Leghorn v. Nydell, 39 Wash. 17; Bank of Montreal v. Howard, 44 Wash. 10; Spokane v. Costello, 42 Wash. 182.

Due diligence must be shown in attempting to procure the testimony of witnesses to entitle a party to a continuance: Roeder v. Brown, 1 W. T. 112.

If there is a failure to show due diligence in securing attendance or depositions of absent witnesses, a denial of an application for continuance will not be disturbed: O. R. & N. Co. v. Dacres, 1 Wash. 195; Juch v. Hanna, supra; Maggs v. Morgan, 30 Wash. 604.

The denial of an application for a continuance in order to obtain the attendance of a witness residing in another county is not error where there is no showing of diligence in procuring his attendance, or that his testimony would not be cumulative, or that the same matter could be proved by some other witness in attendance: State v. Brooks, 4 Wash. 328; State v. Murphy, 9 Wash. 204; State v. Wilson, 9 Wash. 218; State v. Hutchinson, 14 Wash. 580; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; Maggs v. Morgan, 30 Wash. 604; Benson v. Hamilton, 34 Wash. 201; Creech v. Aberdeen, 44 Wash. 72.

A party cannot be forced to trial the instant the cause is at issue, but is entitled to a continuance, upon a proper showing that the principal witness is absent from the state: Robertson v. Woolery, 6 Wash. 156; State v. Williams, 18 Wash. 47.

Time to prepare for trial is a matter of right as much as time to plead, and cannot be taken away under any principle of justice: Id., 157; Wright v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 38 Wash. 64.

Where a party seeks the benefit of the testimony of a witness too intoxicated to testify, he should move for an adjournment until the witness should become competent: Fox v. Territory, 2 W. T. 297.

A defendant in a criminal case is entitled to a continuance upon a showing that a necessary witness is under conviction for the crime of perjury, from which an appeal is pending, and that defendant asks for a continuance until the appellate court shall have heard and determined the appeal: State v. Harras, 22 Wash. 57.

As to showing that a witness is sick and cannot attend, see McClellan v. Gaston, 18 Wash. 472.

Necessity and materiality of the evidence desired must be shown in the affidavit: State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373; Jackson v. Mercantile Mutual Fire Ins. Co., 45 Wash. 244; Maloney v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 46 Wash. 645; Portland and Seattle R. Co. v. Ladd, 47 Wash. 88; Gauthier v. Wood & Iverson, 49 Wash. 8.

Refusal to grant a continuance on account of absence of principal counsel is not an abuse of discretion, where applicant is represented by other attorneys, and the trial had been begun before the application is made: Skagit R. & L. Co. v. Cole, 2 Wash. 57; Zelinsky v. Price, 8 Wash. 256; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435. Nor where counsel has voluntarily withdrawn before trial: McInnes v. Sutton, 35 Wash. 384; State v. Underwood, 35 Wash. 558; see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 554, §§ 11, 12.

The refusal of the court to grant a continuance on the ground that the defendant could not have the services of a certain attorney on the day that the cause was set for trial, such day having been fixed at the instance of defendant after the setting aside of a default against him, is not an abuse of discretion: Catlin v. Harris, 7 Wash. 542.

If the affidavit for continuance shows clearly that the witness' testimony would have been irrelevant, frivolous, and inadmissible, it is not error to overrule the motion: Ward v. Moorey, 1 W. T. 104, 105.

Granting a continuance, in a criminal case, without the personal presence of the accused, is not in violation of the constitution giving the accused the right to appear and defend in person, etc.: State v. Duncan, 7 Wash. 336.

One charged with a crime is entitled to a continuance only in case he makes a showing therefor required in other cases: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547.

Where the state, in order to avoid a continuance because of absence of a material witness, has admitted that the testimony set forth in the affidavit for continuance would be given if witness were present, it cannot impeach such testimony by showing that the absent witness had made different statements on a prior occasion: State v. Carter, 8 Wash. 272.

In postponing a trial, under § 484, the court cannot require the applicant to pay more than ten dollars to the adverse party in addition to witness fees: Tacoma Nat. Bank v. Peet, 9 Wash. 222, 528.

Where the imposition of terms as a condition of postponement does not require immediate payment, the party upon whom the condition is imposed may appear and defend at the trial, notwithstanding his failure to make payment: Id.

The presumption that the proceedings of courts are regular does not obtain where the court has imposed an excessive condition for the postponement of a trial, when the adverse party has failed to comply with a request of a party applying for postponement to show the costs incurred: Id.

Upon granting a continuance upon the application of the plaintiff, the court may impose the payment of costs within thirty days, and dismiss the action, without prejudice, at the cost of plaintiff, upon non-payment of the costs of the continuance within the time fixed: Soder v. Adams Hardware Co., 38 Wash. 607.

This section is not unconstitutional as to witnesses without the state whose attendance the court cannot compel, for as to such witnesses the appellant would only have the right to take their depositions, and the admission would be of as much benefit as a deposition: State v. Hutchinson, 14 Wash. 580.

Where several causes have been assigned for hearing upon the same day, the disposition of the causes is a matter in the discretion of the trial court, and the plaintiff in one of the causes would not be entitled to a continuance on the ground that some of the causes preceding his in the order of assignment had not been heard and disposed of prior to the calling of his cause for trial: Juch v. Hanna, supra.

A defendant is not entitled to a continuance in order to make up the issues as to a defendant subsequently appearing: National Bank of Commerce v. Galland, 14 Wash. 502.

Absence or illness of defendant are not alone sufficient grounds for continuance: See Puget Sound etc. Depot v. Brown Alaska Co., 42 Wash. 681.

It cannot be said that the trial court abused its discretion in refusing a continuance on the ground of the absence of one of the defendants, who for some time had been ill in another state, where the action had been pending a long time, the trial had been continued two or three times, and the plaintiff admitted that the absent defendant would testify as claimed in the affidavit for a continuance: Traynor v. White, 44 Wash. 560; Hill v. Hill, 42 Wash. 250.

§ 323. (4978.) Impaneling Jury.

When the action is called for trial, the clerk shall prepare separate ballots containing the names of the jurors summoned who have appeared and not been excused, and deposit them in a box. He shall then draw from the box twelve names, and the persons whose names are drawn shall constitute the jury. If the ballots become exhausted before the jury is complete, or if from any cause a juror or jurors be excused or discharged, the sheriff, under the direction of the court, shall summon from the bystanders, citizens of the county, as many qualified persons as may be necessary to complete the jury. Whenever it shall be requisite for the sheriff to summon more than one person at a time from the bystanders or body of the county, the names of the talesmen shall be returned to the clerk, who shall thereupon write the names upon separate ballots and deposit the same in the trial-jury box, and draw such ballots separately therefrom, as in the case of the regular panel. The jury shall consist of twelve persons, unless the parties consent to a less number. The parties may consent to any number not less than three, and such consent shall be entered by the clerk on the minutes of the trial. [Cf. L. '54, p. 164, § 185; L. '69, p. 51, § 210; Cd. '81, § 206; 2 H. C., § 339.]

See supra, §§ 109, 110, provisions for open venire.

Cited in 6 Wash. 187; 12 Wash. 180; 17 Wash. 550; 19 Wash. 59; 22 Wash. 133; 40 Wash. 584.

If objection is not taken to a juror at the time of impaneling the jury, the same is waived: Clarke v. Territory, 1 W. T. 68.

An error arising in impaneling a jury is not prejudicial to defendant, if, under the evidence, the court is warranted in directing a verdict for plaintiff: Clancy v. Reis, 5 Wash. 371.

The fact that the sheriff does not make his return on a special venire of jurors until after the commencement of the trial, is not ground for challenge: State v. Payne, 6 Wash. 563.

An order to fill the panel from bystanders is good, if those summoned have the necessary qualifications: Yelm Jim v. Territory, 1 W. T. 63; Clarke v. Territory, supra.

The ordering of a venire for additional jurors before the regular panel is exhausted, when none of the additional jurors are shown to have been called until the original panel was exhausted, is a mere irregularity: Blanton v. State, 1 Wash. 265.

Where the court orders the United States marshal to summon a talesman from the bystanders to fill an exhausted panel, the sheriff being present, and, so far as the record shows, not disqualified, and defendant objects, but fails to challenge the juror, and the juror is not shown to be unfit to try the cause, it is error without prejudice: Meeker v. Gardella, 1 Wash. 139.

If the panel of petit jurors has been discharged, the court is authorized, under Laws of 1863, page 401, § 8, to summon a jury to try the case: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547.

Under this section, when the jury list has become exhausted before the completion of a jury, jurors may be summoned from the bystanders, even if some of those drawn may have failed to appear, as the presumption is that they had been properly excused by the court: State v. Holmes, 12 Wash. 169.

Mere informalities in drawing, selecting and certifying a jury list by the county commissioners are not ground of challenge to the panel, if it appears that the commissioners selected the list and caused it to be transmitted to the clerk of the court: State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403.

Although error may be committed in calling a jury, it is not prejudicial when the verdict rendered by them is directed by the court: State v. Trimbell, 12 Wash. 440.

§ 324. (4979.) Challenges—Kind and Number.

Either party may challenge the jurors, but when there are several parties on either side, they shall join in a challenge before it can be made. The challenge shall be to individual jurors, and be peremptory or for cause. Each party shall be entitled to three peremptory challenges. [L. '54, p. 165, § 186; Cd. '81, § 207; 2 H. C., § 340.]

See notes to § 333, infra.

Cited in 50 Wash. 93; 52 Wash. 231.

As to order and exhaustion of peremptory challenges, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1659, § 60; State v. Eddon, 8 Wash. 292; Poncin v. Furth, 15 Wash. 201; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435.

Error of the court in allowing a fourth peremptory challenge is harmless where it does not appear that the jury was rendered partial by the mistake, and the last juror was passed for cause: Creech v. Aberdeen, 44 Wash. 72.

Under this section a challenge by defendants separately appearing is properly denied where one of the defendants refuses to join therein: Colfax Nat. Bank v. Davis, 50 Wash. 92.

An abutting owner having a separate trial in condemnation cases is not entitled to exercise separate challenges, under this section: Manhattan Building Co. v. Seattle, 52 Wash. 226.

§ 325. (4980.) Peremptory Challenge, Defined.

A peremptory challenge is an objection to a juror for which no reason need be given, but upon which the court shall exclude him. [L. '69, p. 51, § 212; Cd. '81, § 208; 2 H. C., § 341.]

§ 326. (4981.) Challenge for Cause, Defined.

A challenge for cause is an objection to a juror, and may be either,—
1. General; that the juror is disqualified from serving in any action; or
2. Particular; that he is disqualified from serving in the action on trial.
[L. '69, p. 51, § 213; Cd. '81, § 209; 2 H. C., § 342.]

See supra, § 94, competency of jurors.

See supra, § 97, exemption from jury service.

See supra, § 100, who may be excused.

See supra, § 111, challenge for previous service within one year.

See infra, § 330, and notes, challenge for implied bias.
 See infra, § 331, and notes, challenge for actual bias.
 See infra, § 332, exemption a personal privilege.
 See infra, § 2141, and note, challenge for cause in criminal actions.
 Cited in 14 Wash. 411.

§ 327. (4982.) General Causes of Challenge.

General causes of challenge are:—

1. A conviction for a felony;
2. A want of any of the qualifications prescribed by law for a juror;
3. Unsoundness of mind, or such defect in the faculties of the mind or organs of the body as renders him incapable of performing the duties of a juror. [L. '69, p. 52, § 214; Cd. '81, § 210; 2 H. C., § 343.]

See notes to last section.

As to qualifications of jurors, in general, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1650, §§ 27-30.

Women, not being electors, are not qualified to sit as jurors: Harland v. Territory, 3 W. T. 131; White v. Territory, 3 W. T. 397; Rumsey v. Territory, 3 W. T. 332a; Walker v. Territory, 2 W. T. 286; Rosencrantz v. Territory, 2 W. T. 267, holding that married women are competent to sit as grand jurors; overruled in Harland v. Territory, supra.

The objection that a venireman is not a resident, on account of a two years' absence from the territory, with a fixed intention of returning, is not sufficient. The circumstance of such person voting in another state would not establish a residence there against his sworn statement of residence here and unchanged intention: Clarke v. Territory, 1 W. T. 68.

§ 328. (4748.) Previous Service Within One Year.

It shall be sufficient cause of challenge to any juror called to be sworn in any cause that he has been summoned upon an open venire and attended said court as a juror at any session of said court held within one year prior to the time of such challenge; or that he has been summoned from the bystanders or body of the county, and has served as a juror in any cause upon such summons, within one year prior to the time of such challenge. [L. '91, p. 88, § 11; 2 H. C., § 66.]

For first part of this section see supra, § 111.

Service upon a jury within the previous year does not render one incompetent to serve as a juror, in the absence of a challenge: State v. Hall, 24 Wash. 255.

§ 329. (4983.) Particular Causes of Challenge.

Particular causes of challenge are of two kinds:—

1. For such a bias as, when the existence of the facts is ascertained, in judgment of law disqualifies the juror, and which is known in this code as implied bias;
2. For the existence of a state of mind on the part of the juror in reference to the action, or to either party, which satisfies the trier, in the exercise of a sound discretion, that he cannot try the issue impartially and without prejudice to the substantial rights of the party challenging, and which is known in this code as actual bias. [L. '69, p. 52, § 215; Cd. '81, § 211; 2 H. C., § 344.]

See next two sections.

Cited in 3 Wash. 104; 30 Wash. 141; 46 Wash. 411.

§ 330. (4984.) Implied Bias, Defined.

A challenge for implied bias may be taken for any or all of the following causes, and not otherwise:—

1. Consanguinity or affinity within the fourth degree to either party;
2. Standing in the relation of guardian and ward, attorney and client, master and servant, or landlord and tenant, to the adverse party; or being a member of the family of, or a partner in business with, or in the employment for wages of the adverse party; or being surety or bail in the action called for trial, or otherwise, for the adverse party;
3. Having served as a juror on a previous trial in the same action, or in another action between the same parties for the same cause of action, or in a criminal action by the state against either party upon substantially the same facts or transaction;
4. Interest on the part of the juror in the event of the action, or the principal question involved therein, excepting always the interest of the juror as a member or citizen of the county or municipal corporation. [Cf. L. '54, p. 165, 187; L. '69, p. 52, § 216; Cd. '81, § 212; 2 H. C., § 345.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 103; 24 Wash. 524; 30 Wash. 637.

Bias in general: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1653-1657, §§ 40-53.

It is not sufficient for a party to declare in general terms that he objects to a juror, or that he challenges a juror. The grounds of the challenge must be specifically stated: State v. Biles, 6 Wash. 186.

Error in refusing to allow a challenge for cause to a jurymen, and thereby forcing defendant to peremptorily challenge him, is not prejudicial unless defendant exhausts thereby his peremptory challenges: State v. Moody, 7 Wash. 395.

The former employer of a decedent is disqualified as a juror in a trial for his murder: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99.

The interest of jurors as taxpayers of a county, in an action against the county, will not disqualify them from serving on the case: Rathbun v. Thurston Co., 8 Wash. 238; State v. King, 12 Wash. 288.

As to implied bias from business connection or transactions with party or attorney, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1652, § 42; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 515; McCorkle v. Mallory, 30 Wash. 632; State v. Lewis, 31 Wash. 75; Swope v. Seattle, 36 Wash. 113. As to incompetency on the grounds of bias of one summoned as a witness, to serve as juror, see State v. Stentz, 30 Wash. 134.

Service in similar cause: See State v. Van Waters, 36 Wash. 358.

A jurymen in an action for personal injuries is not subject to challenge for cause because he states that he has a prejudice against that class of cases, which it might take evidence to remove, where his answers show that he is frank and fair, knew nothing of the case, and would try the case upon the evidence, disregarding any feelings or prejudice he might have against that class of cases: Denham v. Washington Water P. Co., 38 Wash. 354.

§ 331. (4985.) Challenge for Actual Bias.

A challenge for actual bias may be taken for the cause mentioned in the second subdivision of section three hundred and twenty-nine. But on the trial of such challenge, although it should appear that the juror challenged has formed or expressed an opinion upon what he may have heard or read, such opinion shall not of itself be sufficient to sustain the challenge, but the court must be satisfied, from all the circumstances, that the juror cannot disregard such opinion and try the issue impartially. [L. '69, p. 53, § 217; Cd. '81, § 213; 2 H. C., § 346.]

See notes to previous section.

See infra, § 2142, disqualifying opinions in criminal actions.

Cited in 3 Wash. 104; 8 Wash. 15; 14 Wash. 411.

It is not every opinion formed or expressed that will disqualify a juror, but only such as prevent the giving of a fair trial and impartial verdict: State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12.

Where a juror states that he has an impression as to the merits of the cause on trial, he should not be permitted to answer whether or not it is favorable to the defendant: White v. Territory, 1 Wash. 279.

If the venireman states that he has formed and expressed an opinion which would require evidence to remove, but that he would try the case on the law and the evidence, he is disqualified: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99.

It is ground of challenge to a juror when he states that he knows one of the parties and would believe his statement of a fact when contradicted only by the statements of a witness he did not know: Stinson v. Sachs, 8 Wash. 391.

A hypothetical opinion expressed by a juror prior to a trial, that if what he had read about the case was true the accused ought to be convicted on general principles, is not cause for a new trial: State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12.

A venireman who states that he has read accounts of the affair in the current newspapers; that he has talked with others regarding it, and heard them express opinions; that he has formed but not expressed an opinion, and that his former impressions would not influence him as a juror, is competent: Rose v. State, 2 Wash. 310; State v. Gile, 8 Wash. 12; but if he states that he has formed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused which would take strong evidence to remove, but that he could lay aside his previous impression and be governed by the evidence given at the trial and the law as charged by the court, he is incompetent: State v. Murphy, 9 Wash. 204; State v. Wilcox, 11 Wash. 215.

It is no disqualification that the juror heard what purported to be the facts from several persons relative to the killing, soon after the occurrence, when he testifies that he could disregard any impression received therefrom, and try the case fairly upon the evidence: State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512.

As to formation and expression of opinion as to cause, see, further, 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1654-1656, §§ 46-48; State v. Farris, 26 Wash. 205; State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 112; State v. Moodey, 18 Wash. 165; State v. Lattin, 19 Wash. 57; State v. Harras, 22 Wash. 57; State v. Royse, 24 Wash. 440; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 515; State v. Krug, 12 Wash. 288; Heasley v. Nichols, 38 Wash. 485; State v. Carey, 15 Wash. 549; State v. Croncy, 31 Wash. 122.

§ 332. (4986.) Exemption not Cause of Challenge.

An exemption from service on a jury shall not be cause of challenge, but the privilege of the person exempted. [L. '69, p. 53, § 218; Cd. '81, § 214; 2 H. C., § 347.]

See supra, § 97, who are exempt from jury service.

See supra, §§ 111, 328, previous service within one year.

§ 333. (4987.) Peremptory Challenges, How Taken.

The jurors having been examined as to their qualifications, first by the plaintiff and then by the defendant, and passed for cause, the peremptory challenges shall be conducted as follows, to wit:—

The plaintiff may challenge one, and then the defendant may challenge one, and so alternately until the peremptory challenges shall be exhausted. The panel being filled and passed for cause, after said challenge shall have been made by either party, a refusal to challenge by either party in the said order of alternation shall not defeat the adverse party of his full number of challenges, but such refusal on the part of the plaintiff to exercise his challenge in proper turn shall conclude him as to the jurors once accepted by him, and if his right be not exhausted, his further challenges shall be confined, in his proper turn, to talesmen only. [L. '69, p. 53, § 219; Cd. '81, § 215; 2 H. C., § 348.]

See infra, §§ 2137, 2139, criminal practice.

Cited in 8 Wash. 305; 8 Wash. 307; 15 Wash. 203; 29 Wash. 462.

Challenges, when to be taken: See notes to § 324, supra.

Under the provisions of this section, governing peremptory challenges, the defendant cannot proffer a peremptory challenge to a juror on the panel, when the jury has been passed for cause and the defendant has failed to peremptorily challenge such juror until after several talesmen have been called and examined in place of jurors excused at the peremptory challenge of the plaintiff, as the right of challenge must be exercised alternately by the adverse parties: Poncin v. Furth, 15 Wash. 201.

Waiver of challenge only applies to jurors then in the box: See State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435.

§ 334. (4988.) Order of Taking Challenges.

The challenges of either party shall be taken separately, in the following order, including in each challenge all the causes of challenge belonging to the same class:—

1. For general disqualification;
2. For implied bias;
3. For actual bias;
4. Peremptory. [L. '69, p. 53, § 220; Cd. '81, § 216; 2 H. C., § 349.]

Cited in 30 Wash. 141.

§ 335. (4989.) Trial and Exceptions to Challenges.

The challenge may be excepted to by the adverse party for insufficiency, and if so, the court shall determine the sufficiency thereof, assuming the facts alleged therein to be true. The challenge may be denied by the adverse party, and if so, the court shall try the issue, and determine the law and the facts. [L. '69, p. 53, § 221; Cd. '81, § 217; 2 H. C., § 350.]

See supra, § 330, and notes.

As to objections and exceptions to challenges, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1659, § 62; State v. Moody, 7 Wash. 395; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Rutten, 13 Wash. 203; State v. Stentz, 30 Wash. 134; State v. Carey, 15 Wash. 549; State v. Champoux, 33 Wash. 339.

As to examination of jurors and trial of challenges, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1658, 1659, §§ 58, 59; White v. Territory, 3 W. T. 397; Id., 1 Wash. 279; State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99; Piper v. Spokane, 22 Wash. 147; State v. Holedger, 15 Wash. 443; State v. Royse, 24 Wash. 440; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; Abby v. Wood, 43 Wash. 379.

On the examination of a juror on his voir dire it is not proper to ask the juror the question: "After hearing all the evidence and the testimony and the instructions of this court in the cause, if there yet remains in your mind a reasonable doubt regarding the guilt of the defendant, would you return a verdict of not guilty in his favor?": State v. Bokien, 14 Wash. 403.

In impaneling a jury it is proper in the trial of a challenge for actual bias to interrogate the jurors as to their relation to the attorneys of the parties, and particularly whether they sustain the relation of clients: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Holmes, 3 W. T. 202.

It is improper to ask a juror whether he would give as much credit to witnesses professing a certain religious belief as he would to members of any other faith: Horst v. Silverman, 20 Wash. 233.

Upon a prosecution for a homicide, committed by rigging a spring gun in a trunk, the defendant is entitled to ask veniremen, upon their voir dire, whether the fact of a death from such acts would create any prejudice or bias against the defendant, and it is prejudicial error to sustain objections thereto: State v. Marfaudille, 48 Wash. 117.

§ 336. (4990.) Trial of Challenge—Rules Governing.

Upon the trial of a challenge, the rules of evidence applicable to testimony offered upon the trial of an ordinary issue of fact shall govern. The juror challenged, or any other person otherwise competent, may be examined as a witness by either party. If a challenge be determined to be sufficient, or found to be true, as the case may be, it shall be allowed, and the juror to whom it was taken excluded; but if determined or found otherwise, it shall be disallowed. [L. '69, p. 54, § 222; Cd. '81, § 218; 2 H. C., § 351.]

See notes to last section.

§ 337. (4991.) Challenge, Exception and Denial may be Oral.

The challenge, the exception, and the denial may be made orally. The judge of the court shall note the same upon his minutes, and the substance of the testimony on either side. [L. '69, p. 54, § 233; Cd. '81, § 219; 2 H. C., § 352.]

See notes to § 335, supra.

§ 338. (4992.) Oath of Jurors.

As soon as the number of the jury has been completed, an oath or affirmation shall be administered to the jurors, in substance, that they and each of them will well and truly try the matter in issue between the plaintiff and defendant, and a true verdict give, according to the law and evidence as given them on the trial. [L. '69, p. 54, § 224; Cd. '81, § 220; 2 H. C., § 353.]

See infra, § 2143, oath to jury in criminal cases.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1660, § 63; Hartigan v. Territory, 1 W. T. 447; State v. Gin Pon, 16 Wash. 425; State v. Johnny Tommy, 19 Wash. 270.

As to the form of oath administered to the jury, it is sufficient if in substance that prescribed, yet it is better to follow the statutory formula: Leonard v. Territory, 2 W. T. 381.

If the record recites that a jury were duly sworn, this shows that a proper oath was administered: Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13.

§ 339. (4993.*) Manner of Conducting Trials—Charging Jury.

When a jury has been sworn, the trial shall proceed in the following manner:

(1) The plaintiff shall briefly state the cause of action and the evidence by which he expects to sustain it. The defendant may in like manner state the defense, and the evidence he expects to offer in support thereof, but nothing in the nature of comments or argument shall be allowed in opening a case. It shall be optional with the defendant whether he states his case before or after the close of the plaintiff's evidence.

(2) The plaintiff, or the party upon whom rests the burden of proof in the whole action, must first produce his evidence; the adverse party will then produce his evidence.

(3) The parties then will be confined to rebutting evidence, unless the court shall consider that justice requires that evidence in the original case may then be offered.

(4) The court must reduce the charge to be given the jury to writing, and at the conclusion of the evidence he shall read his written charge to the jury. Either party may request such instructions as he deems material to the case, and the court may hear them upon the propriety of the requested instructions before finally settling the charge that he will give. If a stenographer shall be in attendance upon the trial of the cause, the court shall have the right to dictate the charge he desires to give to such stenographer, and to have the stenographer reduce the same to writing for him and a copy for each of the parties plaintiff and defendant. And the cost thereof shall be taxed as other costs in the action. When the charge shall have been given by the court, the plaintiff, or party having the burden of proof, may, by himself, or one counsel, address the court and jury upon the law and facts in the case, after which the adverse party may address the court and jury in like manner, by himself and one counsel or by two counsel, and be followed by the party or counsel of the party first addressing the court. No more than two speeches on behalf of the plaintiff or defendant shall be allowed. After the argument shall have been concluded, the jury shall retire to consider their verdict, and shall take with them to the jury room, among other matters proper to be taken to their jury room for further consideration by them, the written charge given them by the court. Either party, at any time before the hearing of a motion for a new trial may except to the instructions given by the court, or any part thereof. [L. '09, p. 184, § 1. Cf. L. '69, p. 54, § 225; Cd. '81, § 221; 2 H. C., § 354; L. '03, p. 119, § 1.]

CONSTITUTIONAL RESTRAINT ON COURT.—"Judges shall not charge juries with respect to matters of fact, nor comment thereon" (Const., Art. IV, § 16), hence it is error to tell the jury that there is no dispute in the testimony on a certain point, or that any fact is conclusively proven: Bardwell v. Ziegler, 3 Wash. 34; Ledyard v. West. St. Elec. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 64.

The provision of the constitution is intended to prevent the judge from conveying to the jury his opinion upon the facts, in order that these matters may be left to the exclusive province of the jury: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99, 121, and all remarks and observations by the court as to the facts before the jury are positively prohibited: State v. Walters, 7 Wash. 246; see Freidrich v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358, 366; State v. Hyde, 20 Wash. 234; Blue v. McCabe, 5 Wash. 125.

Comment on the facts by the judge during the progress of the trial, when not prejudicial to the party complaining, is harmless error: Earles v. Bigelow, 7 Wash. 581. Unless such comment is excepted to at the time, and called to the attention of the court, the error is waived: Id., 588. Or comment on a matter not in issue: See Nunn v. Jordan, 31 Wash. 506. Or that verdict should not exceed amount demanded: See Goldthorpe v. Clark-Nickerson Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 467.

In moving against the sufficiency of evidence, counsel challenging the court to pass upon its sufficiency and are not prejudiced by the remarks of the judge thereon, within the constitutional inhibition, if they fail to secure the absence of the jury in the interval: Blue v. McCabe, 5 Wash.

125; Palchen v. P. & L. M. Co., 6 Wash. 486; see Schmieg v. Wald, 1 W. T. 473.

It is unlawful comment for the trial judge, in overruling an objection to evidence, to remark that he did not consider it very material or entitled to much weight; and the same is prejudicial error where the same related to the intoxication of the plaintiff and affected the credibility of his evidence at the time in question, as to which there was a sharp conflict in the evidence: Schneider v. Great Northern R. Co., 47 Wash. 45.

It is unlawful comment for the judge to state what anyone with common sense must say upon an issue: Spencer v. Arlington, 49 Wash. 121.

An instruction that the jury may consider the relations of the parties and witnesses, their interest, temper, bias, demeanor, intelligence and credibility in testifying, does not infringe the constitutional prohibition: Klepsch v. Donald, 4 Wash. 436; see Lyts v. Keevey, 5 Wash. 606.

Questions as to the weight of the evidence, or as to the credibility of witnesses, are for the jury: See Jose v. Stetson, 20 Wash. 648; Cowie v. Seattle, 22 Wash. 659; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199; Gilmore v. Seattle & Renton Ry. Co., 29 Wash. 150; Nelson v. McLellan, 31 Wash. 208; Herbert v. Hillman, 50 Wash. 83; Garretson v. Tacoma R. & Power Co., 50 Wash. 24.

Although isolated sentences in an instruction may be objectionable, and may intimate to the jury the opinion of the trial judge as to the value of some portions of the evidence, yet, if the instructions clearly give the jury to understand that the facts are exclusively for them to consider, and taken as a whole fairly state the law, they are sufficient: White v. Territory, 1 Wash. 279.

Where the facts are undisputed showing gross negligence, an instruction that they constitute gross negligence is not error: N. P. Ry. Co. v. O'Brien, 1 Wash. 599.

An instruction that the law does not "require the eyes and ears of plaintiff to be infallible" held, in connection with the instructions as a whole, not to be a comment upon the facts: Steele v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 21 Wash. 287.

It is not error to omit or to briefly state the issues made by the pleadings: See Lambert v. La Conner Trad. & Transp.

Co., 37 Wash. 113; Wiest v. Coal Creek R. Co., 42 Wash. 176.

An instruction charging that certain facts are evidence of negligence, or that other facts would be evidence of contributory negligence, held, in the particular case properly refused as being for the jury to determine: Mitchell v. T. R. & M. Co., 9 Wash. 120.

The fact that the court in charging the jury rehearses the plaintiff's or defendant's theory of the case is not a comment on the facts in violation of the constitutional inhibition: Binnian v. Jennings, 14 Wash. 677.

A statement by the judge that "Here we come to some of the most important allegations on the part of the plaintiff, and to some of the most important issues of the case," was not reversible error in the absence of a showing of special injury to the party complaining: Von Fobel v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 32 Wash. 683.

An instruction to the jury that a judgment became a lien and encumbrance upon certain property, being upon a question of law, is not open to the objection of being a judicial comment on the facts in violation of the constitutional prohibition: Frank v. Jenkins, 11 Wash. 611.

The remarks of the court, preliminary to instructing the jury, that "you will be left to determine between the demands of public justice and the defense of the prisoner at the bar," is not prejudicial to defendant: State v. Brooks, 4 Wash. 328.

For misconduct of court in presence of jury, see State v. White, 10 Wash. 611, 615.

A comment upon the facts in violation of Const., Art. IV, § 16, necessitates a reversal: State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655.

References to evidence not amounting to criticisms or explanations are not unlawful comment on the facts: See State v. Surry, 23 Wash. 655; Drumheller v. Amer. Sur. Co., 30 Wash. 530; French v. Seattle Traction Co., 26 Wash. 264. In an action for money loaned, an instruction that the defendants admitted in their answer that the plaintiff loaned them the two sums of money claimed is not an unlawful comment on the evidence when it was not an issue in the pleadings; and in any event the same would not confuse the jury where the defendants had the benefit before the jury of their contention that only part of it was received as a loan, and where under the evidence and the whole case the jury must have understood the instruction as meaning that defendants only admitted receiving the money: Hendelman v. Kahan, 50 Wash. 247. An instruction to the jury based upon the contingency that they find damages to timber "by the noxious vapors arising from its smelter" is not unlawful comment on the evidence, it having been shown that the vapors or gases were destructive, since they were therefore noxious, and it is immaterial that they were so termed: Johnson v. Northport etc. Co., 50 Wash. 567.

The repetition by the court of a statement by a witness, for the purpose of further explanation from counsel, is not unlawful comment on the evidence: State v. Clem, 49 Wash. 273.

The statement in an instruction to a jury that this is an action to recover money lost at gambling is not an unlawful comment on the evidence: Crowley v. Taylor, 49 Wash. 511.

Telling the jury that the written agreement is the best evidence, not comment: See Carstens v. Earles, 26 Wash. 676. It is not unlawful comment on the evidence for the court, in directing the defendant to state his defense, to say that the nature of the case is such that the jury ought to know how defendant intended to meet the state's case: State v. King, 50 Wash. 312. An instruction in an action for slander upon the subject of justification "if the jury should find that the defendant was provoked to speak the slanderous words," to which the court added that it was based "on the assumption that you find the words were uttered," is not objectionable as assuming that the words were uttered, or as an unlawful comment on the facts: Childs v. Childs, 49 Wash. 27.

An instruction that the plaintiffs had, upon one of their causes of action, waived all claims except for nominal damages because of the difficulty of determining the exact amount, is not an unlawful comment on the facts by reason of stating the reasons for the waiver: Lownsdale v. Grays Harbor Boom Co., 36 Wash. 198.

Instructions as to damages, if the jury find "any at all" in a case in which nominal damages were conceded, did not mislead the jury where they found substantial damages: Collins v. Huffman, 48 Wash. 184.

As to assumptions by the court as to facts, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2756, § 69; Drumheller v. American Surety Co., 30 Wash. 530; Harris v. Carstens Packing Co., 43 Wash. 647; Eggleston v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 671; Bardwell v. Ziegler, 3 Wash. 34; Woo Dan v. Seattle, 5 Wash. 466; State v. Walters, 7 Wash. 246.

Comment on the facts in criminal cases: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 809-812, §§ 255-269; State v. Walters, 7 Wash. 246; State v. Duncan, 7 Wash. 336; State v. Carter, 15 Wash. 121; State v. Carey, 15 Wash. 549; State v. Mitchell, 22 Wash. 64; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435; State v. Fenton, 30 Wash. 325; State v. Eubank, 33 Wash. 293; State v. Detherage, 35 Wash. 326; *State v. T. 195; State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 462; State v. Riddell, 33 Wash. 324; State

v. Stents, 33 Wash. 444; State v. Manderville, 37 Wash. 365; White v. Territory, 4 W. T. 397; State v. Newton, 29 Wash. 373; Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13; State v. McPhail, 39 Wash. 199; State v. Brooks, 4 Wash. 328; State v. Crotts, 22 Wash. 245.

ARGUMENTS AND CONDUCT OF COUNSEL: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2746-2749, §§ 41-52. It is within the court's discretion to exclude the jury during argument of counsel upon the law of the case, and this does not infringe the constitutional rights of a defendant on trial under a criminal charge: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99.

It is the duty of the court to restrain counsel from transgressing the reasonable limits and proprieties of their argument: Skagit Ry. & L. Co. v. Cole, 2 Wash. 57, 74; Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13; and in all cases to restrict the argument of counsel to the facts in evidence, but counsel may draw their own inferences and conclusions from the facts in evidence and argue therefrom: Sears v. Seattle etc. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 227, 233; Chezum v. Parker, 19 Wash. 645; State v. Costello, 29 Wash. 366; Taylor v. Ballard, 24 Wash. 191.

Improper statements by counsel in argument, when seasonably restrained, may be cured by instructions to the jury to disregard them: Graves v. Smith, 7 Wash. 14, 22; Skagit R. & L. Co. v. Cole, supra; Bay View Brewing Co. v. Tecklenberg, 19 Wash. 469. Withdrawal or correction of objectionable matter: See Taylor v. Ballard, 24 Wash. 191; State v. Boyce, 24 Wash. 514; Clukey v. Seattle Electric Co., 27 Wash. 70; Graves v. Smith, 7 Wash. 14; Farnandis v. Great Northern R. Co., 41 Wash. 486; Thomson v. Issaquah Shingle Co., 43 Wash. 253; Cady v. Seattle, 42 Wash. 402.

Misconduct on part of attorney and court commented on in State v. Moody, 7 Wash. 395, 397; Abby v. Wood, 43 Wash. 379.

No error can be founded on improper arguments of counsel where no motion is made to strike it, or the court asked to instruct the jury to disregard it: State v. Regan, 8 Wash. 506; Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Hawthorne, 3 W. T. 353; State v. Ackles, 8 Wash. 462; State v. Bailey, 31 Wash. 89; Chezum v. Parker, 19 Wash. 645; Shoemaker v. Bryant Lum. etc. Co., 27 Wash. 637; Taylor v. Modern Woodmen, 42 Wash. 304.

The refusal to strike out improper remarks of counsel at the time of their utterance is harmless error when the court later instructs the jury to disregard them: State v. Regan, supra; Graves v. Smith, 7 Wash. 14. It is prejudicial error for counsel to comment in argument to the jury upon matters eliminated from the trial by the rulings of the court, where such argument was duly objected to at the time, with request that it be withdrawn from the jury, and where the court refused such request and subsequently refused to give properly requested instructions to disregard the same: Haustad v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., 44 Wash. 505. Where the evidence shows plaintiff's counsel was not present at a certain time and place, it is not prejudicial error for the counsel in argument to the jury to state that fact as a conclusion without stating that the "evidence shows" such fact: Hammock v. Tacoma, 44 Wash. 623. In an action against a city for personal injuries it is not necessarily prejudicial error, requiring a reversal, for plaintiff's counsel, in replying to comments on the absence of certain witnesses, to state in argument to the jury that they were working for the city and requested not to be called as witnesses, where it does not appear to have in any way affected the result: Id.

Counsel, as a general rule, have the right to comment on the fact that a person shown to be an important witness for the adverse party, and within reach, was not called in his behalf—but the rule is not applicable to a case where diligence has been used in procuring such witness: Mitchell v. T. Ry. & M. Co., 9 Wash. 120, 132; but where there has been no comment in the argument upon the presence of witnesses brought from a distance at a party's expense, the court may properly refuse to charge as to unfavorable inferences touching their credibility: Klepsch v. Donald, 8 Wash. 162. The refusal of a plaintiff in a personal injury case to permit her physicians to testify as to the result of their information obtained in a professional capacity cannot be made the subject of comment to the jury: Lane v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 21 Wash. 119.

Misconduct of counsel in argument in referring to a decision of the supreme court upon a former appeal is not reversible error or ground for a new trial, where, upon objection, the court instructed the jury to disregard the same, and both sides had made repeated reference to the decision, and where no abuse of discretion in refusing a new trial on that ground appears: Brennan v. Seattle, 46 Wash. 427.

Argument of counsel going beyond legitimate limits is not ground for reversal where the trial judge rebuked counsel and removed any prejudice the jury may have received: Barclay v. Puget Sound Lumber Co., 48 Wash. 241.

In personal injury cases, it is prejudicial error for counsel to endeavor to show, over objections, that defendant carries indemnity insurance: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2746, § 43; Iverson v. McDonnell, 36 Wash. 73; Lowsit v. Seattle Lumber Co., 38 Wash. 290; Stratton v. Nichols Lumber Co., 39 Wash. 323; Westby v. Washington Brick etc. Co., 40 Wash. 289. But not reversible error that testimony on cross-examination incidentally disclosed such fact: See Edwards v. Burke, 36 Wash. 107.

Argument on matters not in issue or outside of record not prejudicial if corrected by the court: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2747, §§ 46, 47; Vowell v. Issaquah Coal Co., 31 Wash. 103; State v. Van Waters, 36 Wash. 358; Taylor v. Modern Woodmen of America, 42 Wash. 304.

The practice of reading law to the jury not approved, though not ground for reversal unless prejudicial: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2747, § 45; Phelps v. S. S. City of Panama, 1 W. T. 518; State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512; Gallagher v. Buckley, 31 Wash. 380; Williams v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 39 Wash. 77.

It is not error to refuse to allow counsel to read statutes or judicial decisions as part of his argument to the jury: Ryan v. Lambert, 49 Wash. 649.

Defendant having waived his right to argument, it is proper to refuse to allow plaintiff further argument: See Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244.

Under a rule of court, an attorney may be considered as having waived his right to address the jury by being a witness for his client on the merits: See Voss v. Bender, 32 Wash. 566.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—As to the burden of proof, in general, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1119, 1120, §§ 31-34, and cross-references. In proceedings for the appropriation of land by railway companies, the burden of proof rests upon the company to show necessity for taking and the reasonable value of the land appropriated: Bellingham Bay & B. C. Ry. Co. v. Strand, 4 Wash. 311, 313.

In such proceedings the filing of an answer, where none is required by law, does not shift the burden of proof from petitioner to defendant: Seattle & M. Ry. Co. v. Murphine, 4 Wash. 448.

When the defendant has been allowed to open and close the proof, without objection in an action of ejectment, the plaintiff is not thereby entitled to an instruction that the burden of proof is on defendant to show want of title in plaintiff: Lynch v. Richter, 10 Wash. 486.

Where the defendant admits the indebtedness alleged but sets up an affirmative defense, thus assuming the burden of the issue, and the undisputed proofs fail to sustain such defense, the jury should be instructed to find for the plaintiff: Wadhams v. Page, 6 Wash. 103.

Contributory negligence is a matter to be established by defendant: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Hess, 2 Wash. 383; N. P. Ry. Co. v. O'Brien, 1 Wash. 599. And on an affirmative defense of due care the burden is on defendant, if the facts proved raise a presumption of negligence: See Foster v. Pacific Clipper Line, 30 Wash. 515.

In an action for price of brick, if defendant alleges a warranty or its equivalent, and breach thereof, the burden is on him to prove both warranty and breach: Tacoma Coal Co. v. Bradley, 2 Wash. 600.

INSTRUCTIONS—RULES GOVERNING.—As to rules governing instructions, in general, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2754-2769, §§ 66-117.

The giving of a partly written and partly oral charge to the jury is error, where written instructions have been requested; and the fact that a stenographer present in court took down the charge as given by the judge is not a sufficient compliance with the requirements of the statute in that respect: State v. Miles, 15 Wash. 534.

Where appellants did not ask for written instructions, nor join respondent in his request therefor, the appellants cannot urge the objection on appeal that they had no knowledge of respondent's having withdrawn his request for written instruction, and that they relied on the instructions being given in that form, and not orally: Hencke v. Babcock, 24 Wash. 556. Under the present section the employment of a private reporter who is not subject to the control of the court will not excuse the failure to instruct in writing: State v. Mayo, 42 Wash. 540. Where a stenographic report of instructions to the jury is made by a stenographer employed by both parties, he is sufficiently under the control of the court to constitute his report "instructions in writing," within the meaning of this section: Collins v. Huffman, 48 Wash. 184; Schon v. Modern Woodmen, 51 Wash. 482; Sturgeon v. Tacoma Eastern R. Co., 51 Wash. 124.

The statute requiring instructions to the jury to be in writing, when so requested, is mandatory, and is not complied with by oral instructions taken down by a stenographer employed by the parties: McIntosh v. Saw Mill Phoenix, 49 Wash. 152. Overruled in Schon v. Modern Woodmen, 51 Wash. 482.

The proviso in this section that injury must be shown to justify a reversal for the refusal of an instruction or ruling, has no application to the requirement that instructions shall be given in writing when so requested: McIntosh v. Saw Mill Phoenix, 49 Wash. 152. See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2758, §§ 80, 81.

It is sufficient to give an instruction but once; reiteration is a fault which should be avoided: Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Hawthorne, 3 W. T. 353; Pronger v. Old Nat. Bank, 20 Wash. 618; Henry v. Grant St. Elec. R. Co., 24 Wash. 246; Miller v. Dumon, 24 Wash. 648; Carstens v. Earles, 26 Wash. 676; Roberts v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 30 Wash. 25; McDannald v. Washington & Columbia R. Co., 31 Wash. 585.

Construction and effect of charge, as a whole: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2768, § 116.

Although an instruction standing alone may be erroneous, yet, if the instructions taken as a whole fairly state the law applicable to the facts, it cannot be complained of: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Hess, 2 Wash. 383; Wolf v. Hemrich Bros. Brewing Co., 28 Wash. 187; Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 46 Wash. 635.

Where one instruction modifies or explains another, the two should be considered together: Sears v. Seattle C. St. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 227, 236.

When a charge to the jury, taken as a whole, fairly states the law, it is sufficient: McQuillan v. Seattle, 13 Wash. 600; Duggan v. Pacific Boom Co., 6 Wash. 593; Brown v. Seattle City R. Co., 16 Wash. 465; Pronger v. Old Nat. Bank, 20 Wash. 618; Dow v. Dempsey, 21 Wash. 86; Wheeler v. North American Transp. Co., 21 Wash. 704; Henry v. Grant Street Electric Ry. Co., 24 Wash. 246; Miller v. Dumon, 24 Wash. 648; Traver v. Spokane St. R. Co., 25 Wash. 225.

The objectionable features in instructions are cured by other paragraphs stating the law clearly and correctly: Cameron v. Union Trunk Line, 10 Wash. 507.

Instructions must be considered as a whole, and, if they fairly state the law, there is no prejudicial error, although the court may use detached expressions which, if considered independently, would be technically erroneous: Seattle Gas etc. Co. v. Seattle, 6 Wash. 101; Carstens v. Earles, 26 Wash. 676; Roberts v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 30 Wash. 25; Bell v. Spokane, 30 Wash. 508; Gray v. Washington Water P. Co., 30 Wash. 665; Stowe v. La Conner Trad. & Transp. Co., 39 Wash. 28; Niemyer v. Washington Water Power Co., 45 Wash. 170; Starr v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 45 Wash. 128.

The failure of the court, in an action upon an insurance policy by an assignee, to charge the jury that the assignee had no greater rights than his assignors would have had, if suit had been brought by them, is not prejudicial: Sanford v. Royal Ins. Co., 11 Wash. 653.

It is not error to refuse an instruction embodying only an abstract principle of law, which assumes that its premises are proven facts in the case: Schmieg v. Wald, 1 W. T. 472. See Foster v. Seattle Electric Co., 35 Wash. 177.

No error can be predicated on refusal to give argumentative instructions: Eicholtz v. Holmes, 8 Wash. 71, 73; Cowie v. Seattle, 22 Wash. 659; Sullivan v. Seattle Electric Co., 44 Wash. 53.

Errors in instructions cured by withdrawal or giving other instructions: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2769, § 117, and p. 2761, § 91.

Error in admitting testimony is cured by subsequently instructing the jury to disregard it: Lyts v. Keevey, 5 Wash. 606; but an incorrect special instruction is not cured by a correct general instruction on the same subject: Baxter v. Waite, 2 W. T. 228; and it is held that an erroneous instruction is not cured by a subsequent correct one on the same subject, unless the latter specifically withdraws the former: Lockett v. Baxter, 3 W. T. 350, 353; Miller v. Vermurie, 7 Wash. 386; Elderkin v. Peterson, 8 Wash. 674; Gray v. Washington Water Power Co., 30 Wash. 665. But an erroneous instruction is harmless if in appellant's favor: See Tham v.

Steeb Shipping Co., 39 Wash. 271. A verdict will not be set aside because contrary to an erroneous instruction to the jury: See Bancroft v. Godwin, 41 Wash. 253. See, also, Davis v. Atlas Assur. Co., 16 Wash. 232; Gallagher v. Buckley, 31 Wash. 380; State v. Williams, 36 Wash. 143; Kirkham v. Wheeler-Osgood Co., 39 Wash. 415; Sullivan v. Wood & Co., 43 Wash. 259.

Where the testimony is conflicting it is error to give throughout the instructions undue prominence to the testimony of one party with only general reference to that of the other: Sexton v. School Dist., 9 Wash. 5; Mitchell v. T. Ry. & M. Co., 9 Wash. 120.

Prejudice will be presumed from repeating to the jury a comment made by the judge as to what anyone with common sense would say as to one of the material issues of fact, and the same would not be cured by instructions that the jury are sole judges of the fact and should disregard indications made by the court or counsel: Spencer v. Arlington, 49 Wash. 121.

When there is evidence, based upon an issue raised by the pleadings, which tends to prove a certain state of facts, it is not error for the court to charge the jury on the hypothesis of such state of facts, if further instructions present fairly the position of the adverse party: Lichty v. Tannatt, 11 Wash. 37; Irwin v. Buffalo Pitts Co., 39 Wash. 346.

Where instructions are given a jury sufficient to enable them to correctly determine the questions which the evidence in the cause tends to prove or disprove, it is not prejudicial error if any of the instructions given should not be strictly applicable to the material questions involved: Carstens v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 14 Wash. 644.

Instructions are inadequate where they leave the jury without light on the law governing the material issues of the cause: N. P. L. & M. Co. v. Kerron, 5 Wash. 214, 220. Reading judicial decisions to the jury on the complex question of what constitutes a fixture is not to be commended: Filley v. Christopher, 39 Wash. 22; and an instruction is erroneous which takes away from the consideration of the jury material points at issue: Upper v. Lowell, 7 Wash. 460, 461; and see Weeks v. Bussell, 8 Wash. 440; and it is error to refuse a proper request on the law as applicable to the evidence in the case: Mitchell v. T. R. & M. Co., 9 Wash. 120; see Seattle v. Buzby, 2 W. T. 26.

Where there was no evidence to support an allegation that the insufficiency of a belt shifter was a proximate cause of the accident, it is reversible error to submit the issue to the jury and to refuse a requested instruction withdrawing the same: Tergeson v. Robinson Mfg. Co., 48 Wash. 294.

When instructions proposed assume facts on which there is no testimony, and are based upon the pleadings and not the evidence, they should be refused: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2763, §§ 96, 97; Frost v. Ainslie L. Co., 3 Wash. 241; Bell v. Wash. C. S. Co., 8 Wash. 27, 31; Woodan v. S. E. R. & P. Co., 5 Wash. 466; Washington Iron Works v. McNaught, 35 Wash. 10; Nye v. Kelly, 19 Wash. 73; Einseidler v. Whitman County, 22 Wash. 388.

If an instruction is broader than the issues and brings in matter foreign thereto prejudicial in character, it is erroneous: Bernhard v. Reeves, 6 Wash. 424, 425; Kirby v. Ranier-Grand Hotel Co., 28 Wash. 705.

A charge to the jury that there was no evidence that would entitle defendants to recover any amount under the pleadings is proper when the issue made by defendants was that plaintiff was to pay for certain land in work and labor, and there was no proof introduced to show that the plaintiff refused to continue to perform work and labor in payment therefor: Robertson v. Woolley, 12 Wash. 326.

There is no occasion for instructing the jury as to the fact in issue if there be no evidence respecting it: Brown v. Forrest, 1 W. T. 201, 204.

An instruction inapplicable to the facts in the case is prejudicial error, tending to mislead the jury: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2762, § 93; State v. Jones, 3 Wash. 175; Frost v. Ainslie L. Co., 3 Wash. 241; Guley v. N. W. Coal & Tp. Co., 7 Wash. 491, 495; Cole v. Noerdlinger, 22 Wash. 51; Howells v. North American T. & T. Co., 24 Wash. 689. An instruction not pertinent to the issues in the case should not be given: Rowe v. Whatcom County R. & Light Co., 44 Wash. 658. Instructions upon a theory as to an accident are properly refused if there was no evidence to sustain such theory: Suell v. Jones, 49 Wash. 582. Upon refusal to give an instruction because not requested in proper form, it is not prejudicial error to fail to prepare and give another instruction on the same subject: Ramm v. Hewitt-Lea Lumber Co., 49 Wash. 263.

It is error to submit to the jury an issue in regard to which no evidence has been introduced: Tacoma L. & M. Co. v. Tacoma, 1 Wash. 12, 15; Edison v. Nov. Co., 8 Wash. 370; Comegys v. Am. L. Co., 8 Wash. 661; Guley v. N. W. Coal Co., 7 Wash. 491; and an instruction is also misleading which narrows the issue to a single question when other issues exist under the pleadings and evidence: Chamberlin v. Winn, 1 Wash. 501; or in which the language used is so confused and uncertain that it is misleading: Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Farrington, 1 Wash. 202, 205; see Blue v. McCabe, 5 Wash. 125; Gottstein v. Seattle L. etc. Co., 7 Wash. 424; Turner v. Great Nor. R. Co., 15 Wash. 213.

That an instruction is not simple and direct does not make it misleading: Carson v. Old Nat. Bank, 37 Wash. 279.

The unnecessary repetition of instructions might be ground for reversal: Chicago etc. R. Co. v. Alexander, 47 Wash. 131.

Where the questions of negligence and contributory negligence are for the jury, each side is entitled to have the same submitted on proper instructions: Gage v. Springston Lumber Co., 47 Wash. 141.

Although instructions as a whole may be correct, the case should be reversed if some parts are confusing and misleading, to the possible prejudice of the appellant: Gage v. Springston Lumber Co., Id.

An instruction, referring to the "facts and circumstances disclosed on the stand by the witnesses," is not misleading when there is also written evidence, when such statement was followed by and connected with the further charge to the jury that "you are the sole judges of the facts. These facts have been given you on the stand through witnesses and exhibits that have been placed in evidence here to enable you to find the facts": Sanford v. Royal Ins. Co., 11 Wash. 653; Carstens v. Earles, 26 Wash. 676; Anderson v. McDonald, 31 Wash. 274; Benson v. Spokane, 39 Wash. 101.

Although an instruction to the jury may have been wrongfully given, it is binding and conclusive upon the jury: Pepperall v. City Park Transit Co., 15 Wash. 176.

The improper use of the word "not" in an instruction, evidently unintentional, will not be regarded as misleading to the jury, when its use is connected with the statement of facts over which there is no controversy: Bokien v. State Ins. Co., 14 Wash. 39. See, also, Armstrong v. Musser Lum. & Mfg. Co., 43 Wash. 584.

The giving of an instruction based upon an hypothesis which is not parallel to the facts in the case is reversible error, where it may have tended to mislead the jury, unless, from the undisputed testimony, it is evident that no other verdict than the one returned could rightfully have been rendered: Martin v. Union Mut. Ins. Co., 13 Wash. 275.

Though separate clauses of an instruction may, in themselves, be misleading, yet, if the instruction, taken altogether, fairly informs the jury as to the law of the case, it will be upheld: Duggan v. Pac. Boom Co., 6 Wash. 593; Croft v. Northwestern S. S. Co., 20 Wash. 175; Smith v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 481. As to charges with reference to "Preponderance of Evidence," see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2759, § 85.

An instruction that plaintiff must establish all his material allegations by a preponderance of testimony is not misleading because the word "testimony" is used instead of "evidence": Noyes v. Pugin, 2 Wash. 653.

A party, having requested the court to charge that the jury must find certain facts in issue by a preponderance of evidence, cannot complain that the court did not require the evidence on those points to be more clear and positive: Gottstein v. S. L. & C. Co., 7 Wash. 424.

As an example of a charge upon the preponderance of evidence, see N. P. Ry. Co. v. Holmes, 3 W. T. 543.

Where an affirmative defense is pleaded, it is error to instruct the jury that "if you believe from the evidence that all the material allegations of plaintiff's complaint have been proven by a preponderance of the evidence, then you will find for plaintiff": Dignan v. Spurr, 3 Wash. 309.

An instruction charging the jury to find in a certain way unless the contrary "shall be established by a preponderance of the evidence satisfactory to your minds," is not misleading on the ground of telling the jury that more than a preponderance of evidence is required: Carstens v. Earles, 26 Wash. 676.

An instruction requiring proof of a certain fact by the preponderance of the evidence, and authorizing recovery if such fact is proved to the satisfaction of the jury, is not objectionable as authorizing a recovery upon proof to the jury's satisfaction without proof by the preponderance of the evidence: Childs v. Childs, 49 Wash. 27.

A charge that the defense of contributory negligence must be proved by defendant, by a preponderance of the evidence, is not objectionable as charging that it must be proved by defendant's evidence: Prior v. Eggert, 39 Wash. 481.

It is error to charge that the weight of evidence is with the greater number of unimpeached witnesses: McCowan v. Northeastern Siberian Co., 41 Wash. 675.

An instruction charging that the jury "should be satisfied by a clear preponderance of proof," is not misleading, when the court has just charged that "it is not required in a civil action to establish the facts beyond a reasonable doubt as in a criminal case, but a fair preponderance of proof is all that is required": Hart v. Niagara Fire Ins. Co., 9 Wash. 620; see O. R. & N. Co. v. Owsley, 3 W. T. 38.

Instructions in a particular case, held misleading, as making the question as to whom materials were sold turn upon the charge in plaintiff's books, and whether it was so charged by mistake: Sexton v. School Dist., 9 Wash. 5; see Mitchell v. T. Ry. & M. Co., 9 Wash. 120; Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537, 554.

Where a case is tried on the theory of a contract as set up in the answer, without objection, it is error to instruct upon the theory of a sale and apply the statute of frauds thereto, since the instructions ought to have been on the facts rather than the letter of complaint: Fox v. Utter, 6 Wash. 299, 301.

When counsel propose a proper charge, if given at all by the court, it ought to be given in the form submitted: Gottstein v. S. L. & C. Co., 7 Wash. 424, 427; but it is not error to refuse to give proper instructions in the language of requests, when the court, in other instructions, substantially covers them: Edison Gen. Elec. Co. v. Nav. Co., 8 Wash. 370, 40 Am. St. Rep. 910; State v. Freidrich, 4 Wash. 204; Spokane T. & D. Co. v. Hoefer, 2 Wash. 45; Seattle v. Buzby, 2 W. T. 25; Maling v. Crummey, 5 Wash. 222; Downs v. Seattle & M. R. Co., 5 Wash. 778, 783; Curry v. Catlin, 12 Wash. 323; Carstens v. Stetson & P. M. Co., 14 Wash. 644; Fleischner v. Beaver, 21 Wash. 6; Howay v. Goin-Northrup Co., 24 Wash. 88; Miller v. Dumon, 24 Wash. 648; French v. Seattle Traction Co., 26 Wash. 264; Wolf v. Hemrich Bros. Brewing Co., 28 Wash. 187; Roberts v. Port Blakely Mill Co., 30 Wash. 25; Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244; Foster v. Pacific Clipper Line, 30 Wash. 515; Smith v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 481; Hindle v. Holcomb, 34 Wash. 336; Young v. O'Brien, 36 Wash. 570; Go Fun v. Fidalgo Island Can Co., 37 Wash. 238; McKnight v. Seattle, 39 Wash. 516; Cowie v. Seattle, 22 Wash. 659; Smith v. Michigan Lumber Co., 43 Wash. 402; Hammock v. Tacoma, 44 Wash. 623; Curtis v. Barter Asphalt Paving Co., 44 Wash. 334; Payne v. Whatcom County Railway & Light Co., 47 Wash. 342; Ranous v. Seattle Electric Co., 47 Wash. 544; State v. Johnson, 47 Wash. 227; Ramm v. Hewitt-Lea Lumber Co., 49 Wash. 263; Engelker v. Seattle Electric Co., 50 Wash. 196; see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2764, § 101.

Where the court has rightly and fully instructed upon the question of reasonable doubt, it was not error to refuse an instruction upon the same subject asked for by defendant, although the request is correct in law: Timmerman v. Territory, 3 W. T. 445; Brewster v. Baxter, 2 W. T. 135.

Where instructions given embody all the law necessary for the determination of the material facts in the case, it is not error to refuse requested instructions, even if they correctly state the law applicable to the questions to be decided by the jury: Carstens v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 14 Wash. 644.

If a counsel desires special instructions adapted to particular phases of the case as presented by the evidence, he should submit requests therefor: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2764, § 99; Wilson v. Waldron, 12 Wash. 149.

Where one party asks instructions on the whole case, and the court charges as requested, errors of incompleteness are imputable to the party requesting the instructions, and the failure of the other party to ask for more specific instructions does not waive the error: Mitchell v. T. Ry. & M. Co., 9 Wash. 120.

If too general, there must be a request that instructions be made more specific: Cogswell v. West St. & N. E. Elec. R. Co., 5 Wash. 46; Brown v. Porter, 7 Wash. 327; Gottstein v. Seattle Lum. & Com. Co., 7 Wash. 424; Wilson v. Wal- dron, 12 Wash. 149; McQuillan v. Seattle, 13 Wash. 600; Dow v. Dempsey, 21 Wash. 86; Allend v. Spokane etc. Ry. Co., 21 Wash. 324; Carstens v. Earles, 26 Wash. 676; Rush v. Spokane Falls & N. Ry. Co., 23 Wash. 501; Enoch v. Spokane Falls & N. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 393; Reidt v. Spokane Falls N. & Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 623.

While a party may be entitled to have a clause of a requested instruction given in order to make more definite the charge upon a particular point, yet if he couples it with another clause which ought not to be given, the instruction may be refused as a whole: Duggan v. Pac. Boom Co., 6 Wash. 593.

A party cannot complain of the court's addition to an instruction asked by him, as diverting the minds of the jury from the point of the instruction, where the jury have already been properly instructed as to such point: Cogswell v. West St. etc. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 46.

Appellant cannot avail himself of incomplete and ambiguous instructions given by the court, unless he has first requested the court to make its instructions more full and complete, and it has refused so to do: Box v. Kelso, 5 Wash. 360; McQuillan v. Seattle, 1 Wash. 600. See, also, Allend v. Spokane Falls & N. Ry. Co., 21 Wash. 324; Lownsdale v. Gray's Harbor Boom Co., 21 Wash. 542; Eggleston v. Seattle, 33 Wash. 671; Howe v. West Seattle L. Imp. Co., 21 Wash. 594; Goldthorpe v. Clark-Nickerson Lumber Co., 31 Wash. 467.

It is not error to fail to instruct specifically that the defendant controverted the material facts of the complaint by denials, where it appears that the jury must have so understood the issues: Schwaninger v. McNeeley & Co., 44 Wash. 447.

In an action upon injunction bonds for damages by reason of being deprived of the control of a business, no prejudice results from the fact that the instructions inadvertently failed to permit recovery of damages for a certain day, where it was not shown that there was any change of conditions or particular damages sustained on such day: Collins v. Huffman, 48 Wash. 184.

It is not error to instruct upon the issues raised by evidence admitted without objection, although the same may not have been raised by the pleadings: Childs v. Childs, 49 Wash. 27.

It is not erroneous to instruct that, "if you should be satisfied that any witness has knowingly testified falsely in any material matter in this cause, you have a right to reject the whole of the testimony of such witness, unless on any point such testimony was corroborated by other unimpeached testimony," though it may not be aptly expressed on the subject of corroboration: Lyts v. Keevey, 5 Wash. 606.

Where counsel in argument to a jury exhibits paid checks of his client, which had not been introduced in evidence, and refers thereto for the purpose of refreshing his recollection as to dates and amounts, it is error for the court to refuse a request for an instruction to the jury to disregard counsel's argument in regard to them: Cohen v. Drake, 13 Wash. 102.

An instruction in a case where treble damages could be awarded under § 939, infra, that the jury could themselves assess the treble damages is erroneous, as it is for the court to treble the damages after the actual damages are found: McLeod v. Ellis, 2 Wash. 117.

Error in admitting incompetent evidence on the measure of damages is not cured by a proper instruction on the question: Kohne v. White, 12 Wash. 199.

It is error for the court to refuse to instruct that the fraud charged may be inferred by strong presumptive circumstances, although the only evidence tending to sustain the issue was circumstantial: McWilliams v. Cascade F. & M. Ins. Co., 7 Wash. 48.

Where the complaint is put in evidence as an exhibit, it is error for the court to refuse to charge as to its legal effect as evidence: Tingley v. Fairhaven L. Co., 9 Wash. 34.

If the verdict is unmistakably in accordance with the evidence and consonant with justice, it will not be disturbed on account of erroneous instructions: Carroll v. Centralia Water Co., 5 Wash. 613; Davis v. Gilliam, 14 Wash. 206; Secor v. O. I. Co., 15 Wash. 35; Bay View Brewing Co. v. Techlenberg, 19 Wash. 469; Ott v. Press Pub. Co., 40 Wash. 308.

It is error to instruct the jury to find a verdict unless the facts are established by undisputed proofs: Mesterman v. Home Mutual Ins. Co., 5 Wash. 524, 526.

The trial court is authorized, after the return of the jury with its verdict, and before its reception, to correct any erroneous instruction given, and send the jury back to deliberate under the instructions as altered: Jack v. Territory, 2 W. T. 101.

Where no attack has been made upon an answer to a complaint in the lower court, the defendant is entitled to have the jury charged upon any phase of the case as made by the evidence, which is responsive to the issues: Secor v. O. S. Co., 15 Wash. 35.

The fact that one instruction given by the court had been inadvertently withheld by the clerk, upon a request from the jury during their deliberations to have the instructions sent them, cannot be urged as error, in the absence of any showing that the appellant was prejudiced by such omission: No. River Boom Co. v. Smith, 15 Wash. 138.

For examples in actions for damages for personal injuries, see Spurrier v. Front St. etc. Ry. Co., 3 Wash. 659; Hawkins v. Front St. etc. Ry. Co., 3 Wash. 592; Redford v. Spokane St. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 55; Bell v. Wash. Cedar etc. Co., 8 Wash. 27; Carroll v. Centralia Water Co., 5 Wash. 613; Woo Dan v. Seattle etc. Ry. etc. Co., 5

Wash. 466; Ledyard v. West St. etc. Elec. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 64; Payne v. Spokane St. Ry. Co., 15 Wash. 522; Richardson v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., 10 Wash. 648; Cameron v. Union Trunk Line, 10 Wash. 507; Mitchell v. Tacoma Ry. & Motor Co., 13 Wash. 560.

An instruction in an action for malicious prosecution, that if the jury find that defendants willfully testified falsely against plaintiff, they may find that there was no probable cause to warrant or excuse prosecution, and that the same was malicious, is not erroneous: Jones v. Jenkins, 3 Wash. 17. And an instruction in such case that the jury may allow plaintiff such sum as will compensate him for injured credit, peace of mind, and mental suffering is not misleading as to use of word "credit": Id.

In an action in which special damages are alleged in a certain sum, and the only specific proof on the subject puts the damages at a less sum, it is error to refuse defendant's request to charge the jury that no greater sum than the amount given in proof could be assessed as damages: Reickhoff v. Irrigation Co., 10 Wash. 139.

A charge to the jury that the burden was on plaintiff to show what amount of damage he had suffered by reason of the failure of the contractor to complete the building in the time fixed by the contract and that they should allow him such amount as they found was established by the evidence is not erroneous, when plaintiff has not specifically requested the court's construction as to whether the amount of damages for each day's delay was liquidated and fixed by the parties in their contract: De Mattos v. Jordan, 15 Wash. 378.

An instruction as to application of payments, to the effect that where the debtor, at the time, neglected to specify the particular debt he desires to have it applied to, the creditor, it was held, had the right to apply it as he preferred: Frazier v. Miller, 7 Wash. 521.

An instruction in a suit for personal services on an order, to the effect that defendants would be liable for the amount named therein, held erroneous as ignoring the necessity of presentation and notice of non-payment: Agee v. Smith, 7 Wash. 471.

The refusal of a request to instruct that a corporation must have authority from its board of directors in order to transfer a note is not error when unaccompanied by other instructions sufficient to inform the jury that such authority may be conferred in many ways: Blue v. McCabe, 5 Wash. 125.

In an action which seeks to charge defendant as a silent partner, not as a partner by holding out, the introduction of proof tending to show that he has made admissions of the partnership, but not to plaintiff or anyone representing it, will not warrant the court in charging the jury that "if you find from the evidence that the defendant, J. A. McGoldrick, has admitted there was a partnership between him and decedent T. J. Mahoney, and was interested with him in the undertaking business during the times set forth in the complaint, that is, in both the goodwill of such business and stock of goods used in such business, then your verdict should be for the plaintiff": Willamette Casket Co. v. McGoldrick, 10 Wash. 229.

If the evidence concerning the rescission of a contract is conflicting, it is error to refuse to instruct the jury, that if they believe from the evidence that such an agreement for the rescission of the contract set out in the complaint was made as is alleged in defendant's answer, then the parties would be bound by such an agreement, and the jury must find for the plaintiff: Dignan v. Spurr, 3 Wash. 309.

In an action for damages resulting from street grading, instruction held to state the proper rule of damages: Koch v. Investment Co., 9 Wash. 405.

In an action against a bank to recover for payment of a check alleged to be forged, it is not error to charge that a bank need not regard handwriting in the body of the check it pays, but must look to the signature alone: Crane v. Dexter Horton & Co., 5 Wash. 479.

Where there is evidence that a bill of sale under which defendant in replevin claimed title had been given in compromise of a disputed claim, it is error to instruct that such bill of sale conveys no right to the property in question: Chamberlain v. Winn, 1 Wash. 501.

EXCEPTIONS TO INSTRUCTIONS, ETC.: See notes under chapter on Exceptions, infra, § 381 et seq. See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2766, 2767, §§ 106-115.

Although an instruction may be erroneous, the error is unavailing unless excepted to at the trial: Johnson v. Tacoma C. L. Co., 3 Wash. 722; Smith v. U. S., 1 W. T. 262.

The exceptions taken to a charge must be specific and not general to be availing: Meeker v. Gardella, 1 Wash. 139, 148; Cunningham v. Seattle Elec. Ry. Co., 3 Wash. 471; Freidrich v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358, 368; Maling v. Crummey, 5 Wash. 222.

The refusal of the court to allow counsel to except orally in the presence of the jury to instructions given is not error: State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512.

Under the act of 1893, page 112, § 4 (§ 384, infra), exception can be taken to an instruction by merely specifying the instruction excepted to, without stating the grounds: Sexton v. School Dist., 9 Wash. 5.

Errors alleged as to instructions, in that they improperly state the law, are confusing, conflicting, misleading and present false issues, are too general to be considered, when they do not point out the respects in which they are erroneous: Shoemaker v. Bryant Lum. etc. Co., 27 Wash. 637.

Where the bill of exceptions does not contain all of the instructions given, the particular instruction objected to, although erroneous, will be presumed to be cured by other parts of the charge: O. R. & N. Co. v. Galliher, 2 W. T. 70. Contra: Payne v. Spokane St. R. Co., 15 Wash. 522.

Error in an instruction is ground for reversal unless it affirmatively appears that it was not prejudicial: McLeod v. Ellis, 2 Wash. 117; Gustin v. Jose, 11 Wash. 348; Lillie v. Shaw, 22 Wash. 234. An exception to an instruction is not properly taken where the exception attributes to the court language not used and conveying a different meaning: Anderson v. Harper, 30 Wash. 378.

An exception to an instruction giving simply its number, but not specifying any ground is insufficient to raise a question which has been ignored in such instruction: Patchen v. P. & L. M. Co., 6 Wash. 486, 490.

If the instructions given are not numbered, nor so designated that they can be distinguished, a general exception to the giving of the charge will be insufficient: Cunningham v. Seattle Elec. Ry. Co., supra.

A particular form of exception to refusal to instruct as requested sanctioned in Bell v. Wash. Cedar Shingle Co., 8 Wash. 27.

Where instructions consisted of a series of separate propositions, and the exception to the charge was "to the giving of which and to the giving of each part thereof," it is insufficient, as the court cannot say that no part of the charge was sound: Meeker v. Gardella, 1 Wash. 139.

The action of the district court in granting or refusing instructions cannot be reviewed, unless there is a bill of exceptions showing the evidence to which the instructions pertain: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547.

If the record on appeal sets out a proper exception to instructions, and there is nothing to indicate that it was not taken at the time the instructions were given, it will be treated as a definite exception: Miller v. Vermurie, 7 Wash. 386.

Where instructions have not been made a part of the record on appeal by a statement of fact or other appropriate action of the court, and had not been sent to the appellate court as part of the record, they will be stricken therefrom: Medcalf v. Bush, 4 Wash. 386; Cunningham v. S. E. Ry. Co., 3 Wash. 471.

The appellate court will not examine into the opinion of the court below, to see whether instructions upon abstract propositions of law are correct. The bill of exceptions must show whether the instructions given or refused were pertinent to the case: Yelm Jim v. Territory, 1 W. T. 63.

If any particular portion of a charge has been specifically and properly excepted to, and the exceptions allowed, the judge who tried the cause cannot afterward, by interlineations, modify or change the instructions given as to the matter in dispute: In re Rosner, 5 Wash. 488.

The instructions of the lower court transmitted to the appellate court as a separate paper, without the clerk's certificate, will be stricken from the files: Puget Sound Iron Co. v. Worthington, 2 W. T. 472.

Where, under all the evidence, it appears that the defendant was entitled to have the jury instructed to find a verdict in his favor, the supreme court will, on reversal of the judgment, direct a dismissal of the action: Bernhard v. Reeves, 6 Wash. 424.

Where plaintiff's testimony is sufficient to establish all the allegations of the complaint in issue, and defendant introduces no proof, but rests on a motion for nonsuit, the court is warranted in instructing a verdict for plaintiff: Clancey v. Reis, 5 Wash. 371; Clancey v. Williams, 5 Wash. 492; writs of error dismissed in the above cases in 154 U. S. 514, 524. See Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Brillard, 5 Wash. 492.

Where the failure of the court to charge the jury in writing as requested is not excepted to, the error is immaterial: Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537, 544.

If a request to charge is first made in writing after the evidence is closed, such request is seasonable, notwithstanding a rule of court provides that notice of the intention to so request shall be given at or before the commencement of the trial. Where there is a conflict between the law and a rule of court the former must prevail: Id.

EVIDENCE—PRACTICE IN RELATION TO: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2743-2745, §§ 27-33. The order of time in which testimony is presented to the jury is not material: McKenzie v. O. I. Co., 5 Wash. 409, 411.

And it is within the discretion of the trial court to reopen the case for the introduction of additional testimony: Thorne v. Joy, 15 Wash. 83; Bergman v. London etc. Fire Ins. Co., 34 Wash. 398. Or after motion for nonsuit: See Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517; Knapp v. Order of Pendo, 36 Wash. 601. It is within the discretion of the court to reopen a case for the introduction of further testimony, after motion for nonsuit is made, and no abuse appears where no prejudice or surprise is shown: Richardson v. Agnew, 46 Wash. 117.

Testimony offered to show diligence in producing a written instrument, as foundation for the introduction of secondary evidence of its contents, is directed to the court and not to the jury: Tibbals v. Iffland, 10 Wash. 451.

The question of contributory negligence is for the jury, and it is only in rare cases that the court is justified in withdrawing it from them: McQuillan v. Seattle, 10 Wash. 464.

When the facts in regard to the statement of an account are agreed upon, the question of what is a reasonable time within which the account will be presumed to become stated, is one of law; and, when the facts are not agreed upon, it is a mixed question of law and fact: Ault v. I. S. & L. Assn., 15 Wash. 627.

The construction of a written contract being a question of law, it is not error to refuse to allow the jury to construe it: Livesley v. O'Brien, 3 Wash. 546.

Although testimony on trial may be of slight significance, yet when pertinent to the issues it is not error to allow the jury to pass on its weight: Brown v. Porter, 7 Wash. 327.

Where plaintiff rested after introducing certain evidence, and the defendant declined to offer evidence, the oral announcement by the court that, while in grave doubt upon certain points, it would find for the defendants, does not prevent the court from reopening the case for further testimony by the plaintiffs, two days later, on due application and notice, before entry of formal judgment, the opening of the case being discretionary under such circumstances: Reiff v. Coulter, 47 Wash. 678.

It is discretionary to reopen a case for further evidence upon a showing that it was unknown to counsel, where the opposite party is given an opportunity to rebut the same: Lueders v. Tenino, 49 Wash. 521.

Even hearsay evidence, when admitted without objection, and allowed to remain in the case for want of a motion to strike, is some proof of the facts stated: Easter v. Hall, 12 Wash. 160. It is not error to exclude hearsay evidence, expressly stating that ground, although the same was only objected to as evidence of conversations with a deceased person: Richardson v. Agnew, 46 Wash. 117.

Irrelevant testimony admitted over objection will not justify a reversal when not prejudicial: Crane v. Dexter Horton & Co., 5 Wash. 479; Woo Dan v. Seattle Elec. Ry. etc. Co., 5 Wash. 466; Earles v. Bigelow, 7 Wash. 581; Price v. Scott, 13 Wash. 574; Schwede v. Hemrich, 29 Wash. 124; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; Keating v. Pacific Steam Whaling Co., 21 Wash. 415.

Any question as to materiality or competency of testimony offered should be raised by objection; but in an equitable action it is not necessary for either party to take an exception to a ruling thereon: Scully v. Book, 3 Wash. 182.

Error in permitting leading questions is harmless when upon an immaterial matter: Pilling v. Morse, 5 Wash. 797.

And the admission of incompetent evidence in rebuttal of immaterial evidence is harmless error: Klepsch v. Donald, 8 Wash. 162; State v. Nelson, 13 Wash. 523; Croft v. Northwestern Steamship Co., 20 Wash. 175; Crooker v. Pacific Lounge etc. Co., 34 Wash. 191; Williams v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 42 Wash. 597.

The admission or exclusion of rebuttal evidence being within the court's discretion, the introduction in rebuttal of merely cumulative evidence is not an abuse of such discretion: Cogswell v. West St. etc. Elec. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 46; Ramage v. Littlejohn, 17 Wash. 386; Elster v. Seattle, 18 Wash. 304; Seattle v. Griffith Realty & Bk. Co., 28 Wash. 605; Gaudie v. Northern Lumber Co., 34 Wash. 34. Or where the evidence should have been presented in chief: See Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 244.

An objection to the admissibility of evidence is insufficient unless the grounds thereof are stated: Earles v. Bigelow, 7 Wash. 581.

When part of a witness' answer to a question is competent, and part incompetent, a general objection to it as a whole should be overruled: Spurlock v. Pt. T. So. Ry. Co., 13 Wash. 29.

Although the ground upon which the trial court has excluded testimony may have been improper, yet if any good reason exists for its exclusion, the court's action will be sustained: Lyts v. Keevey, 5 Wash. 606; Chezum v. Parker, 19 Wash. 645.

But it is error to refuse to admit competent evidence, not cumulative: See Schlotsfeldt v. Bull, 18 Wash. 64. As to plaintiff's evidence in chief regarding defenses disclosed or claimed by defendant, see Sandquist v. Independent Tel. Co., 38 Wash. 313; Malstrom v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 20 Wash. 195.

An objection that testimony is inadmissible under the pleading is properly overruled, where the same testimony has been voluntarily drawn out by the party objecting, although in part from adverse witnesses, whose testimony it failed to contradict: Tacoma L. & W. Co. v. Huson, 13 Wash. 124. But error in sustaining objections to evidence is not waived by failing to ask further questions on the same point: See State v. Shelton, 16 Wash. 590; Anderson v. White, 18 Wash. 658.

Argument of counsel based upon incompetent testimony, not objected to when offered, cannot be reached on appeal: Sears v. Seattle etc. St. Ry., 6 Wash. 227.

Error in refusal to admit testimony is cured by its admission later on: McKenzie v. O. I. Co., 5 Wash. 409.

Or by an instruction withdrawing it from the consideration of the jury: Lyts v. Keevey, 5 Wash. 606.

A motion to strike out all the testimony relating to a particular subject is properly denied when some of it is clearly competent: Yake v. Pugh, 13 Wash. 78; Spokane v. Costello, 42 Wash. 182; Newman v. Buzard, 24 Wash. 225.

If a witness has testified positively to a fact it is not competent for the party introducing him to elicit from him a statement as to the reasons which led him to come to the conclusions to which he has testified: Springer v. Tacoma Traction Co., 15 Wash. 660.

Where counsel examine a witness as to facts not admissible in evidence the other party is entitled to re-examine as to the testimony elicited: Dutcher v. Howard, 15 Wash. 693.

The taking of the testimony of a plaintiff, who is unable to attend court at the time of trial, at his residence, in the presence of judge, jury and counsel for the respective parties, while irregular, is not prejudicial error: Sutton v. Snohomish, 11 Wash. 24. A party need not try a case by piecemeal: Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537; Penn Mortgage Inv. Co. v. Gilbert, 13 Wash. 684; Snohomish County v. Ruff, 15 Wash. 637; Reef v. Tibbals, 18 Wash. 656.

Error in admitting a written instrument in evidence for the reason that there was no proof of its execution cannot be urged on appeal, when merely general objections were interposed in the court below that it was incompetent and that no proper foundation had been laid for its introduction: McElroy v. Williams, 14 Wash. 627.

A question asking a party as to what arrangement he had in relation to getting his pay for certain property is properly excluded where a written contract has already been put in evidence covering the subject: Glick v. Weatherwax, 14 Wash. 560.

The exclusion of evidence tending to establish a fact essential to the plaintiffs' recovery is not prejudicial error, where the fact is not disputed: Id.

Objections to evidence should be specific or they will not be considered on appeal: See State v. Owens, 15 Wash. 468; Johnson v. Irwin, 16 Wash. 652; Anderson v. New York Life Ins. Co., 34 Wash. 616; Beebe v. Redward, 35 Wash. 615.

Where upon objection to testimony offer of other proof is made, and the objection is modified in such a way as to lead the court and counsel to believe that the first objection is waived, it cannot be urged as error, although no waiver was intended: Pearce v. Greek Boys' Mining Co., 48 Wash. 38.

An objection to parol evidence of a deed, on the ground that there was no sufficient evidence of its loss, is waived if not made when the parol evidence was offered: Holly Street Land Co. v. Beyer, 48 Wash. 422.

Where copies of wills are conceded to be correct copies, and they are treated by court and counsel as being regularly admitted to probate, objection to the want of proper foundation is waived: Kenney Presbyterian Home v. Kenney, 45 Wash. 100.

Failure to require filing of a copy of an original judgment read in evidence is not prejudicial: See Barnes v. Gerberg, 27 Wash. 126. Where correct copies of original wills were offered in evidence and objections on that ground expressly waived, an objection that the wills were irrelevant and incompetent does not raise the point that no proof of authentication or probate was offered with the wills, the probate thereof being on file in the same court.

and such an objection to the wills cannot be considered for the first time on appeal: Kenney Presbyterian Home v. Kenney, 45 Wash. 106.

Separation and exclusion of witnesses rests in discretion of court: See Griffith v. Ridpath, 38 Wash. 540. The disobedience of a witness to an order excluding witnesses from the courtroom does not disqualify him, and he should not be prevented from testifying except for a party's connivance in his disobedience: Hendelman v. Kahan, 50 Wash. 247.

On limiting number of expert witnesses on value of land, see Swope v. Seattle, 36 Wash. 113.

A request for a record in a certain case is not a sufficient offer of proof: Nason v. Northwestern Milling etc. Co., 17 Wash. 142.

Withdrawing evidence erroneously admitted cures the error: See Yakima Valley Bank v. McAllister, 37 Wash. 566.

It is not error to refuse to withdraw evidence competent under the theory of the case: See Johnson v. San Juan Fish & Po. Co., 31 Wash. 238.

WITNESSES.—It is error for a judge presiding at the trial of a cause to testify therein, over the objection of a party: Maitland v. Zanga, 14 Wash. 92.

If the competency of a witness to testify as an expert is not raised in the lower court, it cannot be urged on appeal: Robinson v. Marino, 3 Wash. 434.

In an attempt to sustain the testimony of a witness by showing that he had made statements out of court similar to his affidavit filed in the case, the proper method is for the sustaining witness to testify what the statements were without reference to the affidavit: State v. Murphy, 9 Wash. 204.

Latitude in the admission or rejection of evidence, matters of opinion, etc.: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2895, §§ 57-59; Crane v. Horton & Co., 5 Wash. 479; State v. Gates, 28 Wash. 689; Stossel v. Van de Vanter, 16 Wash. 9; Service v. Deming Inv. Co., 20 Wash. 658.

Leading questions, hostile witnesses, repetitions of answers, etc.: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2896, §§ 60-62; Pilling v. Morse, 5 Wash. 797; State v. Elswood, 15 Wash. 453; Harris v. Halverson, 23 Wash. 779; Schwede v. Hemrich, 29 Wash. 124; Edwards v. Burke, 36 Wash. 107; State v. Dalton, 43 Wash. 278; State v. Roller, 30 Wash. 692; Nunn v. Jordan, 31 Wash. 506; Jones v. Western Mfg. Co., 32 Wash. 375; Miller v. Denman, 49 Wash. 217.

Examination by court: See Knox v. Fuller, 23 Wash. 34; Dawson v. Dawson, 40 Wash. 656.

Allowing witness to give his reasons for knowledge or recollection: See Yelm Jim v. Territory, 1 W. T. 63; Sprenger v. Tacoma Traction Co., 15 Wash. 660.

REFRESHING MEMORY: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2897, §§ 67, 68; Williams v. Miller, 1 W. T. 88; Brotton v. Langert, 1 Wash. 227; American Bldg. etc. Assn. v. Hart, 2 Wash. 594; Tingley v. Fairhaven Land Co., 9 Wash. 34; Bergman v. Shoudy, 9 Wash. 331; State v. Douette, 31 Wash. 6; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144; Kellog v. Scheuerman, 18 Wash. 293.

It is inadmissible to testify from a memorandum prepared seven months subsequent to deposit of trunk in warehouse, in an action for recovery of value of contents: Bergman v. Shoudy, 9 Wash. 331.

Reference to memoranda, if entries were not made at the time as result of matters wholly within witness' own knowledge, but derived from reports of servants, is inadmissible: Tingley v. Fairhaven Land Co., 9 Wash. 34.

A witness will not be permitted to read from a memorandum prepared by his clerks as to items of payments made him, when he does not know how the clerk made up the memorandum: Bratton v. Langert, 1 Wash. 227.

Nor refresh his memory from a written list copied by him from an extract of a record made by an under clerk: American Bldg. etc. Assn. v. Hart, 2 Wash. 594.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.—The character and extent of cross-examination rests largely in the discretion of the court, and unless abused to the injury of the party complaining, the judgment will not be reversed: Carroll v. Centralia Water Co., 5 Wash. 613.

The refusal to permit further cross-examination, after a subject has once been gone into on cross-examination, and dropped, is not prejudicial error: Koch v. Investment Co., 9 Wash. 405.

A question propounded to a witness on cross-examination is properly excluded where the witness has already been fully examined concerning the matter to which the question relates: Gilliam v. Davis, 14 Wash. 183.

A witness called to identify the signature to a receipt claimed to have been given him, as defendant's agent, in full of account, may be cross-examined as to moneys he has received and paid out for and on account of plaintiff: Patchen v. Parke & Lacy M. Co., 6 Wash. 486.

As to order, scope and extent of cross-examination, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2298, §§ 71-77; Birkel v. Chandler, 26 Wash. 241; Carroll v. Centralia Water Co., 5 Wash. 613; Fleischner v. Beaver, 21 Wash. 6; Gilliam v. Davis, 14 Wash. 183; Koch v. Sackman-Phillips Inv. Co., 9 Wash. 405; Nunn v. Jordan, 31 Wash. 506; State v. Roller, 30 Wash. 692; Stowe v. La Conner Trad. & Transp. Co., 39 Wash. 28; Tibbals v. Iffland, 10 Wash. 451; Knox v. Parker, 2 Wash. 34; Lynn v. Waldron, 38 Wash. 82; Dimmick v. Collins, 24 Wash. 78; Coey v. Darknell, 25 Wash. 518; Littell v. Saulsberry, 40 Wash. 550; White v. Territory, 1 Wash. 279; Bell v. Washington Cedar Shingle Co., 8 Wash. 27; State v. Rutten, 13 Wash. 203.

In a criminal prosecution it is proper to allow cross-examination of the defendant's witnesses tending to discredit their positive statements: State v. Katon, 47 Wash. 1.

In a personal injury case, upon cross-examination of plaintiff's husband, who was commonly called "doctor" and who had given to the conductor his address with a handbill advertising his treatment, it is proper to allow questions as to whether witness was a regular physician, and whether he had given treatment to his wife: Grant v. Spokane Traction Co., 47 Wash. 112.

In a prosecution for forgery of an order for witness fees, it is proper to exclude cross-examination of state's witness to show her animosity to the accused by evidence that she was a friend of a party unsuccessfully defended by the accused: State v. Gilluly, 50 Wash. 1.

It is proper to exclude cross-examination of a party as to what he would have done under supposed circumstances which did not exist: Russell v. Schade Brewing Co., 49 Wash. 362.

Kleeb*, 40 Wash. 634; Stowe v. La Conner Trad. & Transp. Co., 39 Wash. 28.

Roller*, 30 Wash. 692; Dodds v. Gregson, 35 Wash. 402; Patchen v. Parke & Lacy Mach. Co., 6 Wash. 486; Walters v. Seattle R. & S. R. Co., 48 Wash. 233.

Cross-examination of party: See Clukey v. Seattle Electric Co., 27 Wash. 70.

Questions assuming facts or calling for repetition of answers: See State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Mann, 39 Wash. 144; Gilliam v. Davis, 14 Wash. 183.

Leading questions to defendant under the guise of cross-examination: See Bishop v. Averill, 17 Wash. 209.

Redirect examination, scope and extent of: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2901, §§ 88-90; State v. Erving, 19 Wash. 435; Latimer v. Baker, 25 Wash. 192; State v. Anderson, 20 Wash. 193; Green v. Western Am. Co., 30 Wash. 87; State v. Regan, 8 Wash. 506; Larsen v. Sedro Wooley, 49 Wash. 135.

EXPERT TESTIMONY AND OPINIONS: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1159-1165, §§ 184-219. Upon the question of the genuineness of a signature, it is competent for experts to make comparisons with admittedly genuine signatures of the same person to papers which are not otherwise properly in evidence in the case: More v. Palmer, 14 Wash. 134.

A witness is competent to testify to his opinion as to the genuineness of handwriting, after showing knowledge of the handwriting, founded on adequate means of knowledge, there being no precise standard fixing the degree of knowledge necessary: Poncin v. Furth, 15 Wash. 201.

If the disputed signature of a check is in court together with five hundred genuine ones, it is not error to reject photographs of the disputed and certain genuine signatures taken side by side: Crane v. Dexter Horton & Co., 5 Wash. 479.

The opinion of a witness that plaintiff was badly hurt by falling into an excavation negligently left unguarded by defendant is admissible: Sutton v. Snohomish, 11 Wash. 24; see De Wald v. Ingle, 31 Wash. 616.

In actions for damages for personal injuries the testimony of a physician as to the probable results of such injuries, when founded upon the present condition of the plaintiff, is admissible: Ah How v. Furth, 13 Wash. 550; Taylor v. Ballard, 24 Wash. 191.

In an action for damages for injuries inflicted by a vicious dog, it is competent to ask witness to tell, from his knowledge as a surgeon and general practitioner, what was the probable cause of the wounds inflicted on plaintiff: Robinson v. Marino, 3 Wash. 434.

The general rule that witnesses may not give opinions as to matters of fact does not preclude evidence of common observers, who may state the result of their observations of matters which cannot be produced to a jury exactly as they were observed by the witnesses: Sears v. Seattle etc. St. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 227; Stossel v. Van De Vanter, 16 Wash. 9; State v. Stockhammer, 34 Wash. 262.

As to mental condition or capacity: Clum v. Barkley, 20 Wash. 103; In re Gorkow's Estate, 20 Wash. 563; Higgins v. Nethery, 30 Wash. 239.

As to management and operation of vehicles, machinery and appliances, see Smith v. Dow, 43 Wash. 407.

As to custom or usage, see Dossett v. St. Paul etc. Lum. Co., 40 Wash. 276.

As to laws of other states or countries, see Clark v. Eltinge, 38 Wash. 376.

As to value, see Johnson v. Tacoma, 51 Wash. 51; Lines v. Alaska Commercial Co., 29 Wash. 133.

Competency of experts: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1163, 1164, §§ 207½-211.

As to knowledge, experience and skill in general, see Seattle & M. R. Co. v. Roeder, 30 Wash. 245.

As to machinery and mechanical devices and appliances, see Lambert v. La Conner Trad. & Transp. Co., 37 Wash. 113; Thomson v. Issaquah Shingle Co., 43 Wash. 253.

As to speed of railroad trains or cars, see Traver v. Spokane Street Ry. Co., 25 Wash. 225; Halverson v. Seattle Electric Co., 35 Wash. 600; Cook v. Stimson Mill Co., 41 Wash. 314.

Examination of experts: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1164, 1165, §§ 212-217; Czarecki v. Seattle etc. R. Co., 30 Wash. 288; Edwards v. Burke, 36 Wash. 107.

A question as to how much a medical expert is paid for testifying in "these cases" is properly excluded as assuming that the witness had testified for the party in other cases than the one on trial, where there was no evidence of such fact: Rowe v. Whatcom County R. & Light Co., 44 Wash. 658.

In an action for personal injuries resulting in alleged curvature of the spine, whether the test applied by other physicians to determine the fact of the curvature was a fair or proper test is a proper matter of opinion for a medical expert, which it is error to exclude as being a question for the jury to determine: Id.

A physician, who testified on plaintiff's case in chief that plaintiff had curvature of the spine, may be asked in rebuttal whether the test applied by other physicians was a fair test, when he was not questioned in chief as to any tests: Id.

IMPEACHING WITNESS: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2903-2909, §§ 97-126. A witness cannot be impeached as to his truth and veracity by the testimony of other witnesses that, from their knowledge of his reputation, they would not believe him under oath: State v. Miles, 15 Wash. 534.

A witness who has testified at a former trial on the same subject matter may be impeached by the stenographer reading from his notes taken at former trial, after laying the foundation therefor: Klepsch v. Donald, 8 Wash. 162.

But a transcript of the stenographer's notes showing the testimony of a witness on a former trial is not competent evidence for impeaching the witness' testimony in a subsequent trial of the same cause: Redford v. Spokane St. Ry Co., 15 Wash. 519.

If error is committed in permitting a question with a view of impeaching a witness, it is harmless where witness denies the imputed declaration and the testimony of the impeaching witness is subsequently stricken out: Sears v. Seattle etc. St. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 227.

In an action against a city for personal injuries sustained by reason of street work carried on by a contractor, it is not error, on cross-examination of a son of the contractor, for the purpose of showing his interest and discrediting his testimony, to show the fact that the contractor might be ultimately liable to the city for the amount of any recovery against the city: Perry v. Centralia, 50 Wash. 670.

JUDICIAL NOTICE: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1114-1116, §§ 1-18. The court will take judicial notice of the officers of counties in which it sits: State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499; of its own records: Wilkes v. Davis, 8 Wash. 112; that a railway company is a common carrier: Boyle v. G. N. Ry. Co., 13 Wash. 383; of the distance between Seattle and Puyallup and of their relation to each other, will be taken by the court for the purpose of determining from the market price of cattle in one place what it must be in the other: Blumenthal v. Pac. Meat Co., 12 Wash. 331.

Judicial notice will be taken of the general laws of the United States authorizing national banks, hence the incorporation of such bank may prima facie be established by parol: Yakima Nat. Bank v. Knipe, 6 Wash. 348. See National Bank v. Galland, 15 Wash. 502.

CUSTOM: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 857, 858, §§ 1-6. In an action for services upon a quantum meruit, testimony showing customary price for similar services is competent, where there is a conflict of evidence as to whether there was a rate agreed on: Noyes v. Pugin, 2 Wash. 653.

In an action against a railroad company for damages for keeping horses for a number of days upon a plank floor after arrival at destination, evidence of a custom to keep horses upon a plank floor in that locality is admissible: Moses v. Pt. Townsend etc. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 595.

In an action against a railway company for death of child by reason of an unlocked turntable, evidence of custom of railways to keep turntables unfastened at all times, held inadmissible: Ilwaco etc. Nav. Co. v. Hedrick, 1 Wash. 446.

Evidence of custom held admissible to explain ambiguities of contract in Adamant etc. Co. v. Bank of Commerce, 5 Wash. 232. But inadmissible in Vollrath v. Crowe, 9 Wash. 374, and Berdwell v. Ziegler, 3 Wash. 34.

PAROL TO CONTRADICT, VARY, EXPLAIN, ETC., WRITTEN CONTRACTS: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1148-1154, §§ 142-165. If a written contract is full and clear in its terms, without any appearance of ambiguity, it will be presumed that all negotiations leading up to it are merged therein, and parol evidence is inadmissible to vary, alter or add to its terms: Gurvey v. Morrison, 12 Wash. 456. See Gordon v. Parke & Lacy M. Co., 10 Wash. 18.

Parol evidence as to representations made before execution cannot be introduced to contradict or enlarge the scope of the contract, unless it is alleged that the same was signed by mistake or fraud, or without full knowledge of the conditions thereof: Staver & Walker v. Rogers, 3 Wash. 603.

If it is sought to vary the terms of a written agreement on the ground that through mutual mistake it fails to express the agreement actually made, a mere preponderance of proof will not be sufficient, but the evidence establishing the mutuality of the mistake must be clear, unequivocal and convincing: Barnes v. Packwood, 10 Wash. 50; following Voorhies v. Hennessy, 7 Wash. 243.

As to admission of oral evidence to explain terms of written contract and situation of the parties, see Langert v. Ross, 1 Wash. 250.

In an action upon a judgment of a sister state, want of jurisdiction may be shown by defendant, even to extent of contradicting express recitals in the record of such sister state: Aultman v. Mills, 9 Wash. 68; Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512.

If the assignment of a debt is shown to be in writing, it is error to permit parol proof of the transaction until absence of writing is accounted for: Voorhies v. Hennessy, 7 Wash. 243.

ADMISSIBILITY UNDER PARTICULAR ISSUES: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2287-2301, §§ 168-179. Under the general plea of payment, evidence is admissible showing delivery of personal property to the creditor, if it is shown to have been accepted and applied in payment of the demand: Edmunds v. Black, 13 Wash. 490.

In an action upon a judgment, defendant's plea of payment is established by evidence that plaintiff had received from defendant's father the plaintiff's own bond for a sum which he stated in a letter to defendant was bigger than the judgment and he thought they were square: Edmunds v. Black, 15 Wash. 73.

Proof of special damages is inadmissible when no allegation as to such damages is made in the pleadings: Kaufman v. Tacoma, Olympia etc. Ry. Co., 11 Wash. 632.

Evidence of a failure of consideration is inadmissible in the absence of a plea setting up such defense: Murray v. Okanogan L. S. etc. Co., 12 Wash. 260.

Evidence to establish the illegality of a contract upon which an action is founded cannot be introduced by a defendant who has not put the matter in issue by pleading it: Maitland v. Zanga, 14 Wash. 92.

A written contract is always admissible in evidence under a general allegation that a contract had been entered into, without indicating whether it was in writing or not: Stephens v. Spokane, 11 Wash. 41; Arnott v. Spokane, 6 Wash. 442, distinguished.

A general allegation of ownership of a mining claim is sustained by proof of right to occupy under the mining laws of the United States: Donahue v. Johnson, 9 Wash. 188.

In an action to recover for the value of services rendered, defendants cannot, under mere denial of their value, prove that the services were not rendered, but are confined to proof of the value of the services: Baddress v. Schaffer, 12 Wash. 310.

Although a waiver of the conditions of a contract may not have been pleaded, still a court of equity is entitled to consider proofs of such waiver which have been admitted in evidence without objection: Washington Bridge Co. v. Improvement Co., 12 Wash. 272.

When fraud is alleged it must have more conclusive proof to warrant the entry of a judgment than mere inferences springing from one or two suspicious circumstances: Kleeb v. Frazer, 15 Wash. 517.

In a suit upon a promissory note by the indorsee, in which the maker sets up the defense that the same had been paid in garnishment proceedings as a debt due the original payee, the action of the court in discharging the jury and finding for defendant is unwarranted, when there is conflicting evidence as to whether or not the indorsee had appeared in the garnishment proceedings: Wolverton v. Glasscock, 15 Wash. 279.

In an action upon an open account, in which defendant denied that he ever ordered or received the goods, evidence as to whether he had ever notified plaintiff of his selling out is immaterial: Wilson v. Waldron, 12 Wash. 149.

In an action for damages resulting from bite of a dog, where one of the principal issues is whether or not the dog is vicious, it is competent to show that on prior occasions he had bitten or attempted to bite other persons: Robinson v. Marino, 3 Wash. 434.

EVIDENCE OF AGENCY: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2320-2322, §§ 1-11. The authority of an agent cannot be established by his own declarations: Western Security Co. v. Douglass, 14 Wash. 215; Weideman v. Tacoma Ry. & Motor Co., 7 Wash. 517.

In an action to recover a team of horses sold by plaintiff's agent without authority, as alleged, the declaration of plaintiff that "A. (his agent) wants to sell that team," although not made to purchaser, is admissible as tending to show scope of agent's authority: McDonald v. Freed, 3 Wash. 469.

In an action to recover the price of goods sold, the admission of an order therefor, signed in defendant's name by another, directing the shipment of the goods, no agency having been shown, is not reversible error, where it subsequently appears that the person who brought the order to plaintiff had previously obtained goods for defendant, and had been in plaintiff's store with him, and the latter does not deny the receipt of the goods sued for, nor of those previously obtained: Benson v. Hart, 10 Wash. 301.

OF BOOK ENTRIES: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1144, § 127. In an action for goods sold to defendant, but delivered, under the alleged contract, to a third party, it is error to permit plaintiff to introduce, as proof of the contract, a ledger kept by him in which he had first charged the goods to the third party, and had subsequently written defendant's name above that of the third party: Bartlett v. Morgan, 4 Wash. 723.

An account-book of the services rendered, with credits, kept by plaintiff, is admissible in an action for services as a domestic in the family of a decedent: Ah How v. Furth, 13 Wash. 550.

PRESUMPTIONS: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1117-1119, §§ 19-30. The rule that a valuable consideration for a note is presumed from the proof of due execution and the production of a note by a plaintiff, applies alike in actions against the maker while alive, and in actions against his administrators upon the rejected claim founded upon such note: Pocin v. Furth, 15 Wash. 201.

The presumption is that a note is in the same condition when offered in evidence as when signed, and it is admissible although it show on its face that it had been changed after originally written: Yakima Nat. Bank v. Knipe, 6 Wash. 348.

The presumption that an account had been consented to so as to become a stated account is not warranted by proof showing that an attorney had presented his bill for services to a client in another city, and that, some twenty days after the receipt of the letter, the latter had written asking for information in order to determine as to the justness of the account, which the attorney failed to give; and the fact that the client had not denied the bill rendered would not show an agreement thereto, so long as the demand for information had not been complied with: Ault v. I. S. & L. Assn., 15 Wash. 627.

The presumption that a letter duly mailed has reached its destination will have but little weight against positive testimony to the effect that it was never received: Id.

OF PARTNERSHIP.—In an action seeking to charge defendant as a silent partner, the books of account kept by the one engaged in carrying on the business in his own name are not admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving that they contain nothing tending to show that defendant was in any way recognized as a partner: Willamette Casket Co. v. McGoldrick, 10 Wash. 229.

The admission in evidence of a page in a city directory for the purpose of showing that a defendant was a member of a certain firm, there being no proof that he had authorized the insertion of his name therein, or even that he knew the directory contained such a statement, is erroneous: First Nat. Bank v. Loggi, 14 Wash. 699.

JUDGMENTS, WRITTEN INSTRUMENTS, ETC.—A judgment may be introduced in evidence in a subsequent suit involving the same subject matter, when it is between the same parties, but the fact that a person was joined as a defendant in one action and not in the other will not affect the admissibility of the record, when it appears that he was not a real party in interest: Leggett v. Ross, 14 Wash. 41.

In an action by husband and wife to recover possession of certain community land, it is admissible to introduce in evidence a judgment involving the same subject matter, although rendered in an action brought by the husband alone, the presumption being that the action was brought with the knowledge and consent of the wife, in the absence of any showing to the contrary: Id.

Where the object of an action is to affect a written instrument, only clear and satisfactory proof will justify a decree in favor of the plaintiffs: Thorne v. Joy, 15 Wash. 83.

In an action upon a fire insurance policy, plaintiff cannot introduce in evidence letters from the company's local agents to its general agents tending to show that the company had not come to a final determination in regard to the payment of plaintiff's claim of loss, for the purpose of excusing plaintiff from bringing his action within the time limited by the policy: Hill v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 14 Wash. 164.

In an action by the alleged assignee of a note and mortgage to foreclose same, statements of the mortgagee that the mortgagor is indebted to him on a note and mortgage, made in the absence of such assignee, are not admissible in evidence: Allen v. Swerdfiger, 14 Wash. 461.

In an action seeking to subject land, which had been conveyed away by an insolvent debtor, to a judgment obtained against him, evidence is admissible for the purpose of showing that the value of the land was greatly in excess of the consideration for the transfer, when it is charged in the complaint, by proper averment, that the transfer was made in fraud of creditors: Murray v. Shoudy, 13 Wash. 33.

The declarations of one holding the legal title to real estate, that another has no interest therein, are not admissible: Reese v. Murnan, 5 Wash. 373.

In an action to recover a sum of money, which plaintiff had been induced to pay for the purchase of a mine in reliance upon false representations of the defendants, evidence is admissible showing that the defendants had made representations to other parties than plaintiff, and to the people in the vicinity generally, regarding the existence and character of the mine and the value of its ores, such representations being part of one continuous scheme or transaction for the purpose of selling the mine to anyone that could be induced to buy: Oudin v. Crossman, 15 Wash. 519.

The receipt and application of a bond by a creditor in payment of his demand is not sufficiently established by testimony of the debtor that the creditor had written to him acknowledging the receipt of the bond and stating that "he guessed they were about square": Edmunds v. Black, 13 Wash. 490.

The intention to make machinery a permanent part of the building to which it is attached cannot be proved by testimony as to the actual state of mind of the person attaching it to the real estate at the time of its annexation, but must be gathered from circumstances surrounding the transaction, and from what was said and done at the time: Washington Nat. Bank v. Smith, 15 Wash. 160.

In an action upon a promise to pay cost of certain improvements evidence is not admissible to show that the value of the land was not enhanced thereby: Charvat v. Meyers, 5 Wash. 799.

Proof of the condition and value of property before and after the date of a bill of sale inadmissible unless it is shown that the condition, value and quantity thereof remained the same: Sayward v. Nunan, 6 Wash. 87, 95.

In an action to recover for labor performed in driving piles for defendant, testimony showing what prices had been charged by plaintiff for driving piles for other persons in the vicinity is immaterial: Maney v. Hart, 11 Wash. 67.

In an action against a lumber company for damages for not furnishing a purchaser the grade of lumber he had contracted for, it is not error to permit defendant to inroduce in evidence the stencil plates used in marking the lumber when the plaintiff had already introduced testimony as to the marking of the lumber: Sarstens v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 14 Wash. 643.

Evidence as to the amount of noise made by a cable is admissible in an action for damages for injuries received by reason of the negligence of defendant in running its cable cars: Ah How v. Furth, 13 Wash. 550.

§ 340. (4994.) Court may Direct Judgment and Discharge Jury, When.

In all cases tried in the superior court with a jury in which the legal sufficiency of the evidence shall be challenged, and the court shall decide as a matter of law what verdict should be found, the court shall thereupon discharge the jury from further consideration of the case, and direct judgment to be entered in accordance with its decision. [L. '95, p. 64, § 1.]

See infra, § 408, judgment of nonsuit.

Cited in 20 Wash. 255, 543; 21 Wash. 331, 513; 22 Wash. 474; 23 Wash. 507, 531; 28 Wash. 176; 31 Wash. 631; 35 Wash. 81.

As to direction of verdicts, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2750-2753, §§ 59-64.

If there is no conflict in the proofs, the court is authorized in taking the case from the jury and rendering judgment for the amount claimed: Underwood v. Stack, 15 Wash. 497; Rinear v. Skinner, 20 Wash. 541. But not if there are doubtful questions of fact, or court bases its action on evidence brought out on improper cross-examination: See Spokane & Idaho Lumber Co. v. Loy, 21 Wash. 501; Richardson v. Spangle, 22 Wash. 14.

The plaintiff is entitled to a peremptory instruction charging the jury to find in his favor upon the issues raised by the pleadings, when there is no substantial contradiction of the testimony introduced by him: Squires v. Zumwalt, 12 Wash. 241; Pacific Nat. Bank v. Aetna Indemnity Co., 33 Wash. 428; Green v. Tidball, 26 Wash. 338; Lownsdale v. Grays Harbor Boom Co., 36 Wash. 198. But the court errs in directing the verdict, when there is sufficient testimony upon the material issues, although contradictory: Brookman v. State Ins. Co., 18 Wash. 308. It is error to direct judgment for defendant where there is a conflict in the evidence upon a valid defense to the action: Menasha Wooden Ware Co. v. Nelson, 45 Wash. 543. A challenge to the sufficiency of the evidence should be overruled, if the testimony makes a case for the plaintiff, whether strictly within the pleadings or not: Meyers v. Syndicate Heat & Power Co., 47 Wash. 48.

A challenge to the sufficiency of the evidence does not raise the objection that the jury disregarded an erroneous instruction which was binding on them, and under which there was not evidence to sustain the verdict: Id.

Insufficiency of the evidence may be urged after waiver of a nonsuit, by a motion to direct a verdict, or for judgment notwithstanding the verdict: Adams v. Peterman Mfg. Co., 47 Wash. 484. Where the facts are admitted and show no negligence on the part of the defendant, the question is one of law for the court, and a verdict should be directed: Johnson v. Great Northern R. Co., 49 Wash. 98.

Where the evidence would have justified a court in discharging the jury and rendering judgment for plaintiff, the fact that the court directed the jury to bring in a verdict for plaintiff is without prejudice: National Bank v. Galland, 14 Wash. 502.

In an action upon promissory notes the court is warranted in directing a verdict for plaintiff, although the defendants interpose the defense of release by subsequent contract, when the evidence thereof is of a vague and uncertain character and there is no showing of a consideration for such subsequent agreement: Gurney v. Morrison, 12 Wash. 456.

Failure to state a case fully is not ground for a directed judgment: Redding v. Puget Sound Iron etc. Co., 36 Wash. 642; Brooks v. McCabe & Hamilton, 39 Wash. 62.

Under a properly directed verdict for nominal damages, a verdict for $26 was held erroneous: Trumbull v. School District, 22 Wash. 631.

If the court would not be warranted in granting a nonsuit it would not be warranted in directing a verdict for the defendant: Weir v. Seattle Electric Co., 41 Wash. 657.

As to operation and effect of motion or request for directed verdict, see Knox v. Fuller, 23 Wash. 34.

As to discharge of jury and decision by court, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2764, § 65; Nat. Bank of Commerce v. Galland, 14 Wash. 502; Fidelity Trust Co. v. Palmer, 27 Wash. 473; Murray v. Bush, 29 Wash. 662; West Seattle Land etc. Co. v. Novelty M. Co., 31 Wash. 435. The rule that the trial court is justified in taking a case from the jury where the testimony so strongly predominates that it would have been its duty to set aside a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, does not prevail in this state, since here the granting of a new trial rests in the discretion of the trial court and to concede the same power in directing a judgment would practically abrogate trial by jury: Weir v. Seattle Elec. Co., 41 Wash. 657.

The trial judge has no power to discharge the jury and render judgment for the defendant because he thought a new trial would be necessary if any other verdict was rendered, unless there is no sufficient legal testimony to sustain a verdict for the plaintiff: Morris v. Warwick, 42 Wash. 480.

§ 341. (4995.) Special Findings.

Any party may, when the evidence is closed, submit in distinct and concise propositions the conclusions of fact which he claims to be established, or the conclusions of law which he desires to be adjudged, or both. They may be written, and handed to the court, or, at the option of the court, oral, and entered in the judge's minutes. [L. '69, p. 56, § 226; Cd. '81, § 22; 2 H. C., § 355.]

See supra, § 339, subd. 4, requests for instructions.

As to special interrogatories and findings, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2773-2775, §§ 136-143.

Directing the jury to make special findings or answer special interrogatories rests in the discretion of court, and is not reviewable on appeal: See Columbia & P. S. R. R. Co. v. Hawthorne, 3 W. T. 353; Pencil v. Home Ins. Co., 3 Wash. 485; Bailey v. Tacoma Traction Co., 16 Wash. 48; Walker v. McNeill, 17 Wash. 582; Hart Lum. Co. v. Rucker, 20 Wash. 383; Morrison v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 34 Wash. 70.

Special findings should be required when necessary to fully determine the rights of all parties: McDougall v. Walling, 15 Wash. 78.

Where requests for special findings are made the court should, after having determined that the requests are proper, instruct the jury that it is their duty to answer each one of them, and until such requests have been answered by the jury, without any attempt at evasion, the general verdict should not be received: Redford v. Spokane St. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 55.

Appellant cannot object that there was no evidence to support a verdict against him, after asking and securing the submission of special interrogatories to the jury upon the supposition that there was testimony on the subject, and where no motion for a nonsuit was made: Dixon v. Bausman, 17 Wash. 304; Mitchell v. Matheson, 23 Wash. 723.

Requesting the submission of special interrogatories does not make the answers binding, where there was no evidence to sustain the findings, and the defendant had challenged the sufficiency of the evidence by motions for nonsuit and for a directed verdict for insufficiency of the evidence: Larson v. American Bridge Co., 40 Wash. 224.

It is proper to refuse to allow an interrogatory as to a matter not in dispute: See Wilkie v. Chandon, 1 Wash. 355.

§ 342. (4996.) Court to Decide What During Trial.

All questions of law, including the admissibility of testimony, the facts preliminary to such admission, and the construction of statutes and other writings, and other rules of evidence, are to be decided by the court, and all discussions of law addressed to it. [L. '69, p. 56, § 227; Cd. '81, § 223; 2 H. C., § 356.]

See notes to § 339, supra.

§ 343. (4997.) Jury to Decide All Questions of Fact.

All questions of fact, other than those mentioned in the section preceding, shall be decided by the jury, and all evidence thereon addressed to them. [L. '69, p. 56, § 228; Cd. '81, § 224; 2 H. C., § 357.]

Cited in 30 Wash. 325.

§ 344. (4998.) View by Jury of Premises.

Whenever in the opinion of the court it is proper that the jury should have a view of real property which is the subject of litigation, or of the place in which any material fact occurred, it may order the jury to be conducted in a body, in the custody of a proper officer, to the place, which shall be shown to them by the judge, or by a person appointed by the court for that purpose. While the jury are thus absent, no person other than the judge, or person so appointed, shall speak to them on any subject connected with the trial. [L. '69, p. 56, § 229; Cd. '81, § 225; 2 H. C., § 358.]

See infra, § 2160, view in criminal cases.

Cited in 47 Wash. 245.

As to view and inspection of premises, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2739, § 13; and 1 Remington's Digest, p. 799, § 213.

In the trial of a proceeding for the appropriation of land, it is within the discretion of the trial court to permit the jury to view the premises: Bellingham Bay etc. Ry. Co. v. Strand, 4 Wash. 311; or in an action for damages: Kelsch v. Donald, 4 Wash. 436. Or in criminal actions: State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512; State v. Hunter, 18 Wash. 670.

The inspection of the premises by a portion of the jury in an action of unlawful detainer cannot be urged as error on appeal, when the appellant has failed to take an exception to a remark of the court telling them that they might visit the premises on their own responsibility: Gilmore v. H. W. Baker Co., 12 Wash. 468.

A view by the jury in a condemnation case does not preclude the appellate court from a review of the questions of fact: See In re East Spring Street, 41 Wash. 366.

Under this section the court may appoint a person other than an officer to point out a place to be viewed by a jury: In re Jackson Street, 47 Wash. 243.

The objections that a person appointed to point out property to a jury in making a view is an interested witness, and was not sworn, are too late if first made on motion for a new trial; and are not ground for reversal unless it is shown that a substantial right of the party was prejudiced: In re Jackson Street, 47 Wash. 243.

§ 345. (4999.) Admonitions to Jury.

The jurors [may be kept together in charge of a proper officer, or may, in the discretion of the court, at any time before the submission of the cause to them, be permitted to separate; in either case they] may be admonished by the court that it is their duty not to converse with any other person, or among themselves, on any subject connected with the trial, or to express any opinion thereon, until the case is finally submitted to them. [L. '69, p. 56, § 230; Cd. '81, § 226; 2 H. C., § 359.]

Superseded as to the bracketed words by the next section, except in felony cases.

See infra, § 349, manner of keeping jurors while deliberating.

See infra, § 2159, prohibition against separation in criminal cases.

Cited in 18 Wash. 45; 19 Wash. 275.

Separation of jurors in criminal actions: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 825, § 324; State v. Rogan, 18 Wash. 43; State v. Barkuloo, 18 Wash. 141; State v. Mason, 19 Wash. 94; State v. Burns, 19 Wash. 52; State v. Johnny Tommy, 19 Wash. 270; State v. Harras, 22 Wash. 67; State v. Parker, 25 Wash. 405; State v. Stockhammer, 34 Wash. 262.

Where there is nothing in the record showing the separation of the jury after agreeing upon their verdict, the matter cannot be urged as error on appeal: Maling v. Crummey, 5 Wash. 222.

The jury in a criminal prosecution cannot be permitted to separate without defendant's consent: State v. Place, 5 Wash. 773.

Separation is only authorized during trial, and cannot be consented to after verdict signed and sealed and before discharge: Anderson v. State, 2 Wash. 183; see Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 552, 561.

Drunkenness of a juror during the progress of a trial, even if he were sober when the testimony was introduced and at the time of rendering the verdict, is such misconduct as to warrant a reversal of the case: Hedican v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 21 Wash. 488.

For a juror to talk with one of the parties in a public place during an intermission, on a subject not connected with the case, is not sufficient ground for reversal: See Vowell v. Issaquah Coal Co., 31 Wash. 103.

§ 346. Separation of Jury.

In no action or proceeding whatsoever, except felony cases, shall the jury sworn to try the issues therein be kept together and in custody of the officers of the court, save during the actual progress of the trial, until the case shall have been finally submitted to them for their decision. Whenever the jury are kept together in custody of the officer, when the trial is not in progress, they shall be supplied with meals at regular hours, and with comfortable sleeping and toilet accommodations. [L. '09, p. 135, § 8.]

SEPARATION OF JURY.—Allowing one direct supervision of the officer, is not a separation: Edwards v. Washington Territory, 1 W. T. 195.

§ 347. (5000.) Proceeding in Case Juror Becomes Ill.

If after the formation of the jury, and before verdict, a juror become sick so as to be unable to perform his duty, the court may order him to be discharged. In that case, unless the parties agree to proceed with the other jurors, a new juror may be sworn and the trial begin anew; or the jury may be discharged and a new jury then or afterwards formed. [L. '69, p. 56, § 231; Cd. '81, § 227; 2 H. C., § 360.]

See infra, § 353, discharge of jury without verdict.

§ 348. (5001.) Juror as Witness.

A juror may be examined by either party as a witness, if he be otherwise competent. If he be not so examined, he shall not communicate any private knowledge or information that he may have of the matter in controversy to his fellow jurors, nor be governed by the same in giving his verdict. [L. '69, p. 57, § 232; Cd. '81, § 228; 2 H. C., § 361.]

See infra, § 1210, competency of witnesses.

Cited in 30 Wash. 141.

One whose name had been indorsed on an information as a witness for the state is incompetent to serve as a juror on the ground of bias, even though he disclaims any, when he has knowledge of material controverted facts in the case: State v. Stevens, 30 Wash. 134.

§ 349. (5002.) Care of Jury While Deliberating.

After hearing the charge, the jury may either decide in the jury-box or retire for deliberation. If they retire, they must be kept together in a room provided for them, or some other convenient place, under the charge of one or more officers, until they agree upon their verdict, or are discharged by the court. The officer shall, to the best of his ability, keep the jury thus separate from other persons, without drink, except water, and without food, except ordered by the court. He must not suffer any communication to be made to them, nor make any himself, unless by order of the court, except to ask them if they have agreed upon their verdict, and he shall not, before the verdict is rendered, communicate to any person the state of their deliberations or the verdict agreed upon. [L. '54, p. 166, § 194; L. '69, p. 57, § 233; Cd. '81, § 229; 2 H. C., § 362.]

Custody, control and deliberations of jury: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2769-2771, §§ 118-120.

The jury may be put in charge of a sworn officer of the court who has testified for the state: Edwards v. Washington Territory, 1 W. T. 195.

As to manner of arriving at verdict, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2770, § 121; Watson v. Reed, 15 Wash. 440; Stanley v. Stanley, 32 Wash. 489; Bell v. Butler, 34 Wash. 131; Conover v. Neher-Ross Co., 38 Wash. 172.

§ 350. (5003.) Expenses of Keeping Jury.

If, while the jury are kept together, either during the progress of the trial or after their retirement for deliberation, the court order them to be provided with suitable and sufficient food and lodging, they shall be so provided by the sheriff, at the expense of the county. [L. '69, p. 57, § 234; Cd. '81, § 230; 2 H. C., § 363.]

§ 351. (5004.) Jury may Take Certain Papers.

Upon retiring for deliberation, the jury may take with them the pleadings in the cause, and all papers which have been received as evidence on the trial (except depositions), or copies of such parts of public records or private documents given in evidence as ought not, in the opinion of the court, to be taken from the person having them in possession. [L. '54, p. 166, § 195; L. '69, p. 57, § 235; Cd. '81, § 231; 2 H. C., § 364.]

See supra, § 339, instructions may be taken to jury-room.

Cited in 21 Wash. 72; 33 Wash. 359; 52 Wash. 136.

The language of this section appears to authorize only the pleadings and papers received in evidence, except depositions to go to the jury-room.

TAKING EVIDENCE TO JURY-ROOM: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 826, § 327; State v. Webster, 21 Wash. 64; State v. Yourex, 30 Wash. 611. A hat and blood-stained garments that have been admitted in evidence may be taken by jurors to the jury-room: Doctor Jack v. Territory, 2 W. T. 101. And they may take a copy of the statutes of the state: Edwards v. Territory, 1 W. T. 195.

Where an original complaint has been superseded by an amended one and is not in issue in the case, it is not error to allow the jury to take it with them to the jury-room: Swadling v. Barneson, 21 Wash. 699.

The jury may take exhibits to the jury-room under this section: State v. Simmons, 52 Wash. 132.

§ 352. (5005.) Jury may have Further Instructions, When.

After the jury have retired for deliberation, if they desire to be informed of any point of law arising in the case, they may require the officer having them in charge to conduct them into court. Upon their being brought into court the information required shall be given in the presence of or after notice to the parties or their attorneys. [Cf. L. '54, p. 166, § 196; L. '69, p. 57, § 236; Cd. '81, § 232; L. '91, p. 103, § 1; 2 H. C., § 365.]

Where the judge, after the jury has retired, receives from them through the bailiff the form of verdict submitted for plaintiff in which the jury claim there is a mistake, and returns the same, stating that it is in form as intended, such communication between judge and jury is not prejudicial error: Marine S. Bank v. Young, 5 Wash. 394.

The action of the trial court in leaving the bench and entering the jury-room, at the request of that body while in consultation, is such misconduct as to warrant a reversal: State v. Wroth, 15 Wash. 621.

Recalling a jury after it had been deliberating and insinuating what its verdict should be is reversible error: State v. Thield, 36 Wash. 365.

§ 353. (5006.) Discharge of Jury Without Verdict.

The jury may be discharged by the court on account of the sickness of a juror, or other accident or calamity requiring their discharge, or by consent of both parties, or after they have been kept together until it satisfactorily appears that there is no probability of their agreeing. [L. '69, p. 58, § 237; Cd. '81, § 233; 2 H. C., § 366.]

See supra, § 339, and notes, coercing jury.

See supra, § 347, discharge for illness of juror.

Cited in 28 Wash. 622, 29 Wash. 368.

See State v. Costello, 29 Wash. 366.

§ 354. (5007.) If Jury Discharged, Cause Continued for Trial.

In all cases where a jury are discharged or prevented from giving a verdict, by reason of accident or other cause, during the progress of the trial, or after the cause is submitted to them, the action shall thereafter be for trial anew. [Cf. L. '69, p. 58, § 238; Cd. '81, § 234; L. '91, p. 104, § 2; 2 H. C., § 367.]

Cited in 28 Wash. 622.

§ 355. (5008.) Recess of Court While Jury are Deliberating.

While the jury are absent the court may adjourn from time to time, in respect to other business, but it is nevertheless to be deemed open for every purpose connected with the cause submitted to the jury until a verdict is rendered or the jury discharged. [Cf. L. '54, p. 166, § 197; L. '69, p. 58, § 239; Cd. '81, § 235; 2 H. C., § 368.]

Adjournments should be treated as recesses, as the court is always in session: Const., Art. IV, § 6.

§ 356. (5009.) Proceedings When Jury have Agreed.

When the jury have agreed upon their verdict they shall be conducted into court by the officer having them in charge. Their names shall then be called, and if all do not appear, the rest shall be discharged without giving a verdict. [L. '69, p. 58, § 240; Cd. '81, § 236; 2 H. C., § 369.]

§ 357. (5010.) Manner of Giving Verdict.

If the jury appear, they shall be asked by the court or the clerk whether they have agreed upon their verdict, and if the foreman answer in the affirmative, he shall, on being required, declare the same. [L. '69, p. 58, § 241; Cd. '81, § 237; 2 H. C., § 370.]

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2771, 2772, 5 Wash. 394; Frost v. Ainslie Lbr. Co., 3 §§ 122-132; Marine Sav. Bank v. Young, Wash. 241; State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111.

§ 358. (5011.) Ten Jurors may Render Verdict in Civil Cases.

In all trials by juries of twelve in the superior court, except criminal trials, when ten of the jurors agree upon a verdict, the verdict so agreed upon shall be signed by the foreman, and the verdict shall stand as the verdict of the whole jury, and have all the force and effect of a verdict agreed to by twelve jurors. [L. '95, p. 59, § 1; Const., Art. I, § 21.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 441.

Upon receiving a verdict in the absence of counsel pursuant to stipulation, where, upon a poll of the jury, at first but nine agree, it is not error for the court, in the absence of counsel, to repeat the instructions as to the number necessary to agree, and to grant a request of a juror to allow him to change his vote, in case a mistake was made: Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535.

§ 359. (5012.) Jury may be Polled.

When the verdict is returned into court either party may poll the jury, and if ten of the jurors answer that it is the verdict said verdict shall stand. In case ten of the jurors do not answer in the affirmative the jury shall be returned to the jury-room for further deliberation. [L. '95, p. 59, § 2.]

Cited in 35 Wash. 542.

After polling the jury as to a general verdict, it is proper to poll them as to special findings en masse: Norman v. Hopper, 38 Wash. 415.

§ 360. (5013.) Correction of Informal Verdict.

If the verdict be informal or insufficient, it may be corrected by the jury under the advice of the court, or the jury may again be sent out. [Cf.

L. '69, p. 58, § 242; Cd. '81, § 238; 2 H. C., § 371; the first clause of this section is repealed by L. '95, p. 59, § 2.]

See last section, polling jury.

See notes to § 399, new trial—excessive verdict.

Cited in 3 Wash. 246; 17 Wash. 563.

If the jury, in an action upon a contract, bring in a verdict which, under the pleadings, is either a mistake or a compromise, the court may refuse to receive it and direct the jury to find the full sum claimed, or nothing: Frost v. Ainslie L. Co., 3 Wash. 241.

The trial court may reduce a verdict which appears to be excessive, and to have been rendered under the influence of passion or prejudice: Wilson v. N. P. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 621, 628.

§ 361. (5014.) Receiving Verdict and Discharging Jury.

When the verdict is given, and is such as the court may receive, and if no juror disagree or the jury be not again sent out, the clerk shall file the verdict. The verdict is then complete, and the jury shall be discharged from the case. The verdict shall be in writing, and under the direction of the court shall be substantially entered in the journal as of the day's proceedings on which it was given. [L. '69, p. 59, § 243; Cd. '81, § 239; 2 H. C., § 372.]

Superior court always open except on nonjudicial days: See Const., Art. IV, § 6.

As to form and correction of verdict, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2772, §§ 126-132.

The court is deemed always open for the purpose of receiving the verdict of a jury in a cause submitted to them: Edwards v. Territory, 1 W. T. 195.

If the jury come into court and request the judge to correct a clerical error in a form of verdict submitted to them, and thereafter agree upon and return such corrected verdict, no error can be predicated: Marine S. Bank v. Young, 5 Wash. 394.

A verdict finding for plaintiff in a certain entitled cause, without naming defendant, against whom rendered, is sufficient: Blue v. McCabe, 5 Wash. 125.

A verdict, in an action for use and occupation, assessing "damages at $3,050, and legal interest," is bad for uncertainty, and will not sustain a judgment for any sum except the words "and legal interest" be treated as surplusage: Mecker v. Gardella, 1 Wash. 139; Western M. Co. v. Blanchard, 1 Wash. 230.

Where the verdict of the jury in an action on a promissory note is merely for the principal and interest thereof, it is not error for the court in rendering judgment to add in the amount of attorney's fee provided for in the note: Hardy v. Hohl, 11 Wash. 1; citing Yakima Nat. Bank v. Knipe, 6 Wash. 348.

The fact that the court, in an action upon a promissory note, assessed the amount of attorney's fees due thereon, and added same to the verdict, is not prejudicial error: Yakima Nat. Bank v. Knipe, 6 Wash. 348.

A verdict in the form instructed by the court, with the addition of the words "in the above-entitled cause" is in effect the filling in of the form instructed: Phillips v. Mihran, 38 Wash. 402.

The verdict of a jury cannot be assailed on the ground that juries are inclined to be prejudiced in cases between individuals and corporations: Hanstad v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 44 Wash. 505.

A verdict for $1,472.80 will not be held to be the result of passion or prejudice from the fact that, from certain figures and argument, counsel seemed to have conceded that the amount should not exceed $1,167.10, but rather of a mistake on the part of the jury, authorizing its correction by the court, where the evidence was very conflicting, many items were in dispute, and the amount found was less than the complaint claimed and which might have been allowed under the instruction: Richardson v. Agnew, 46 Wash. 117.

Error cannot be assigned on the action of the court in sending the jury back with the pleadings, to cure an oversight in not sending the same to the jury-room, after the verdict had been read but before it was received or filed, where the jury presently returned with the same verdict, which was received and filed: Matthews v. Spokane, 50 Wash. 107.

CHAPTER III.

THE VERDICT.

§ 362. (5019.) General and Special Verdict, Defined.

The verdict of a jury is either general or special. A general verdict is that by which the jury pronounces generally upon all or any of the issues either in favor of the plaintiff or defendant. A special verdict is that by which the jury find the facts only, leaving the judgment to the court. [L. '54, p. 167, § 198; Cd. '81, § 240; 2 H. C., § 373.]

See last section.

Where a plea of abatement by the death of a party is united with a plea to the merits, a general verdict disposes of both, although no evidence was offered thereon: State ex rel. Holgate v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 33.

§ 363. (5020.) Verdict in Actions for Specific Personal Property.

In an action for the recovery of specific personal property, if the property has not been delivered to the plaintiff, or the defendant by his answer claim a return thereof, the jury shall assess the value of the property if their verdict be in favor of the plaintiff; or if they find in favor of the defendant, and that he is entitled to a return thereof, they may at the same time assess the damages, if any are claimed in the complaint or answer, which the prevailing party has sustained by reason of the detention or taking and withholding such property. [L. '54, p. 167, § 199; Cd. '81, § 241; 2 H. C., § 374.]

See infra, § 434, judgments in actions for specific property.

See infra, § 573, claim by third party to property levied on, etc.

Cited in 3 Wash. 251; 5 Wash. 279; 22 Wash. 308; 35 Wash. 401; 38 Wash. 403.

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2507, § 42.

In an action to recover personal property the jury should assess the value of the property whether the verdict be for plaintiff or defendant: Meeker v. Johnson, 3 Wash. 247.

A verdict for plaintiff, which merely assesses the damages, but without finding the value of the property, is prejudicial error: Id.; Quinn v. Parke & Lacy M. Co., 5 Wash. 276.

A verdict in replevin is sufficient without being in the alternative, when the point is not raised in the court below: McGraw v. Franklin, 2 Wash. 17.

There is no authority in an action of replevin when the verdict is for defendant for entering judgment of any kind against the sureties in plaintiff's bond to secure possession: Eidson v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 225.

Although the verdict, when against claimant on trial of title to property levied upon under attachment, should find that claimant was not the owner and the value thereof, yet the verdict is not defective nor prejudicial when it is in favor of the attaching creditor and within the value of the property as admitted by the pleadings: Peterson v. Wright, 9 Wash. 202.

In an action for the recovery of specific personal property, a verdict of the jury that they find for the plaintiff that she is the owner of the property mentioned in the complaint, and that the value of said property is the sum of $330, is equivalent to the requirements of this section: Hall v. Law Guarantee etc. Soc., 22 Wash. 306.

§ 364. (5021.) Rendition of General or Special Verdict, When.

In every action for the recovery of money only, or specific real property, the jury, in their discretion, may render a general or special verdict. In all other cases, the court may direct the jury to find a special verdict in writing upon all or any of the issues, and in all cases may instruct them, if they render a general verdict, to find upon particular questions of fact to be stated in writing, and may direct a written finding thereon. The special verdict or finding shall be filed with the clerk and entered in the minutes. [L. '54, p. 167, § 200; Cd. '81, § 242; 2 H. C., § 375.]

Cited in 3 Wash. 495; 15 Wash. 82; 17 Wash. 592; 46 Wash. 615.

Special verdicts and findings: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2773, § 136.

A special verdict is where the jury find the facts and leave the judgment to the court: Willey v. Morrow, 1 W. T. 474.

A direction to the jury to make special findings is within the discretion of the court, and in the exercise of this discretion a refusal to so direct is not error: Columbia etc. Ry. Co. v. Hawthorne, 3 W. T. 353; Morrison v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 34 Wash. 70; Bailey v. Tacoma Traction Co., 16 Wash. 48; Walker v. McNeil, 17 Wash. 582; Hart Lbr. Co. v. Rucker, 20 Wash. 383. See, also, Mounts v. Goranson, 29 Wash. 262.

The submission of special interrogatories is a matter entirely in the hands of the trial court, and its refusal to submit them cannot be assigned as error: Pencil v. Home Ins. Co., 3 Wash. 485; see 142 U. S. 492.

Questions submitted to a jury for a special finding should call for a direct answer, and should be such that all minds would understand them alike; and if not so framed the court should refuse to submit them: Wilkie v. Chandon, 1 Wash. 355, 358.

Requests for special findings should be so drawn as to call for an answer as direct as the nature of the inquiry will admit, and should generally admit of an answer by yes or no: Redford v. Spokane St. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 55, 61.

When requests for special findings are made, the court should, when the requests are proper, instruct the jury that it is their duty to answer each of them, and the general verdict should not be received until such requests have been answered without evasion: Id., 55.

If the jury make a special finding and it affirmatively appears that an instruction given was harmless in the light of such finding, the same is not prejudicial, although erroneous: Eicholtz v. Holmes, 8 Wash. 71; Brasen v. Seattle, L. S. & E. Ry. Co., 4 Wash. 754.

It is not error to submit two forms for a general verdict in an action of ejectment, in the absence of any request for special findings as provided by this section: Stangair v. Roads, 46 Wash. 613.

A judgment for plaintiff notwithstanding a verdict for the defendant is properly entered where the plaintiff's case was established and defendant's evidence was too vague to constitute a defense: Fishburne v. Robinson, 49 Wash. 271.

§ 365. (5022.) Special Verdict Controls.

When a special finding of facts shall be inconsistent with the general verdict, the former shall control the latter, and the court shall give judgment accordingly. [L. '54, p. 167, § 201; Cd. '81, § 243; 2 H. C., § 376.]

Cited in 1 Wash. 522; 15 Wash. 366; 25 Wash. 77; 34 Wash. 41.

As to findings inconsistent with general verdict, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2774, §§ 141-143.

Special findings control when they are inconsistent with the general verdict: Willey v. Morrow, 1 W. T. 474; Stewart v. Walla Walla etc. Pub. Co., 1 Wash. 521; Pepperall v. City Park Transit Co., 15 Wash. 176; Ottison v. Edmunds, 15 Wash. 362; Gerhard v. Warrell, 20 Wash. 492; Mitchell v. Matheson, 23 Wash. 723; Engstrom v. Merriam, 25 Wash. 73; Hobert v. Seattle, 32 Wash. 330. When special verdict susceptible of two constructions, such construction should be given as will support the general verdict: Mercier v. Travelers' Ins. Co., 24 Wash. 147; McCorkle v. Mallory, 30 Wash. 632. A special finding must be irreconcilably inconsistent with the general verdict to warrant setting the latter aside: Gaudie v. Northern Lumber Co., 34 Wash. 34; Byrne v. Funk, 38 Wash. 506; Abby v. Wood, 43 Wash. 379.

While ordinarily special findings control a general verdict when inconsistent with it, a finding which involves the expression of an opinion upon a legal proposition will not be allowed to control the fact found by a general verdict or be held to vitiate it: Silsby v. Frost, 3 W. T. 388.

Answering an interrogatory "doubtful" may be equivalent to a negative finding: See Norman v. Hopper, 38 Wash. 415. An answer to a special interrogatory, to the effect that plaintiff had not "walked around" a manhole three or four times and did not know of its location, is proper where it simply appeared that she had passed by and knew of its general location, and the same is not inconsistent with a general verdict for plaintiff: Perry v. Centralia, 50 Wash. 670.

In an action by a trespasser for personal injuries sustained in being put off a moving freight train, a special verdict finding that the brakeman did not strike the plaintiff and knock him off the side of the car is inconsistent with a general verdict for the plaintiff, where there was no evidence of any other ground of recovery to sustain the general verdict; and it is error to deny defendant's motion for judgment: Crowley v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 46 Wash. 85. See, also, Boucher v. O. R. & N. Co., 50 Wash. 627; Grant v. Spokane Traction Co., 47 Wash. 512.

§ 366. (5023.) Jury to Assess Amount of Recovery.

When a verdict is found for the plaintiff in an action for the recovery of money, or for the defendant when a setoff for the recovery of money is established beyond the amount of the plaintiff's claim as established, the jury shall also assess the amount of the recovery; they may also, under the direction of the court, assess the amount of the recovery when the court gives judgment for the plaintiff on the pleadings. [Cf. L. '54, p. 167, § 202; Cd. '81, § 244; L. '91, p. 104, § 3; 2 H. C., § 377.]

See infra, § 411, judgment by default.

Cited in 35 Wash. 480.

Where a verdict is returned without assessment of the amount of the recovery, but there was no disputed question of fact and the amount is known, the court could either direct a verdict or discharge the jury and enter the judgment: Casety v. Jamison, 35 Wash. 478.

A verdict for a specified sum, "with interest," is not void for uncertainty, where the action was for money loaned at a certain date, and both the amount and date were admitted in the answer: Brown v. Gillett, 39 Wash. 495. See, also, Lincoln County v. Brock, 37 Wash. 14.

CHAPTER IV.

TRIAL BY THE COURT.

§ 367. (5029.) Findings and Conclusions, How Made.

Upon the trial of an issue of fact by the court, its decisions shall be given in writing and filed with the clerk. In giving the decision, the facts found and the conclusions of law shall be separately stated. Judgment upon the decision shall be entered accordingly. [L. '54, p. 168, § 205; Cd. '81, § 246; 2 H. C., § 379.]

See Const., Art. IV, § 20, decision of court must be rendered within ninety days.

See infra, § 399, grounds for new trial.

See infra, § 402, notice of intention to move for new trial.

Cited in 1 Wash. 371, 375, 376, 406; 5 Wash. 185; 8 Wash. 590; 9 Wash. 465; 11 Wash. 459; 12 Wash. 562; 21 Wash. 142; 25 Wash. 620; 26 Wash. 455; 27 Wash. 215; 35 Wash. 66; 40 Wash. 3, 4; 47 Wash. 47; 49 Wash. 364.

As to findings of facts and conclusions of law, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2277, §§ 150-158.

The object of this section is for the protection of the court as well as the parties; it gives the court opportunity to place its views of the law and facts in definite form, and to the parties the means of an inexpensive review of the case: Bard v. Kleeb, 1 Wash. 370.

Findings are necessary in actions at law tried by the court without a jury: Id.; Kilroy v. Mitchell, 2 Wash. 407; and no judgment can be rendered until the findings have been filed: Sadler v. Niesz, 5 Wash. 182. Special findings of fact by the court are unnecessary, when its decree is one dismissing the action: Murray v. Shoudy, 13 Wash. 33; Noyes v. King County, 18 Wash. 417. See, also, Walsh v. Bushell, 26 Wash. 576; Wilson v. Aberdeen, 25 Wash. 615; Knowles v. Rogers, 27 Wash. 211.

An appeal taken immediately after the filing of findings and before the entry of judgment thereon is premature and will be dismissed: Bartlett v. Reichennecker, 5 Wash. 369.

The decision of the court is the findings of law and fact, and the judgment must be in accordance therewith. The facts found and conclusions of law must be separately stated: Willey v. Morrow, 1 W. T. 474, 478.

The findings of fact are deemed a special verdict and are subject to the same rules; and that they may be found is a substantial right: Bard v. Kleeb, supra.

They answer to a special verdict, while the conclusions of law are in the nature of a general verdict: Willey v. Morrow, 1 W. T. 474, 479; and the findings being inconsistent with the conclusions, the former should control: Id.

Findings of fact, either legal or equitable, should cover all the issues, and not merely such as will support the judgment: Potwin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460.

Where the findings of fact are not commensurate with the issues, or are insufficient to sustain the conclusions of law, the remedy is by motion in the lower court for further findings and not by appeal: Eakin v. McCraith, 2 W. T. 112; Slayton v. Felt, 40 Wash. 1.

If the substantial rights of the parties are not prejudiced by meager findings the judgment will not be disturbed on appeal, following the rule of statute in § 307, supra: Id. Or for failure to make requested findings where the result would have been the same: See Carstens & Earles v. Hine, 39 Wash. 498.

When a jury is waived and trial had by the court, the findings may be amended at any time before judgment: Calhoun v. Gilliland, 2 W. T. 174. Findings and conclusions may be under one cover if separately set forth: See Shepard v. Gove, 26 Wash. 452; Barnham's Estate, In re, 41 Wash. 570. Findings of fact and conclusions of law may be stated upon the same page, if segregated, especially in an equitable action: Peirce v. Wheeler, 44 Wash. 326.

Formal findings of fact are not necessary for a review of an order allowing or disallowing exceptions to the final accounting of an administrator: Horton v. Barto, 17 Wash. 675. Unless exception noted, objections to form are waived: Ach v. Carter, 21 Wash. 140.

Where findings are made by the lower court and immediately thereafter judgment is entered, the opposite party is given no opportunity to move for a new trial; and hence the findings may be reviewed on direct appeal: Kennedy v. Derickson, 5 Wash. 289.

The fact that the court rendered judgment immediately upon the filing of the findings of fact cannot be raised on appeal: Main v. Johnson, 7 Wash. 321.

A conclusion of law that plaintiff is entitled to judgment as prayed for in complaint is sufficient, when based upon findings of fact made by the court upon issues which are not complicated: Gaffney v. McGrath, 11 Wash. 456; see this case for findings in an action of unlawful detainer held sufficient.

A recital in the court's order "that there is not sufficient evidence to support the allegations of plaintiff's complaint, and that defendant's allegations are true," is not a finding of fact: King Co. v. Hill, 1 Wash. 404.

The recital in a judgment that "the court finds the matters and things set forth in the complaint are true," is not a sufficient finding of facts, particularly when the reply admits that one of the allegations of the complaint is untrue: Bard v. Kleeb, supra.

It is not an abuse of the discretionary powers of a trial court to reopen a case after its submission and receive further testimony, when due notice is given to the complaining party: Rogers v. Miller, 13 Wash. 82.

As to necessity of findings of fact, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 124, § 162.

In actions at law: Kilroy v. Mitchell, 2 Wash. 407; Enos v. Wilcox, 3 Wash. 14; Wintermute v. Carner, 8 Wash. 585; Knowles v. Rogers, 27 Wash. 211; White Crest Canning Co. v. Sims, 30 Wash. 374; Slyfield v. Willard, 43 Wash. 179.

Otherwise in equity: See Bard v. Kleeb, 1 Wash. 370; Kilroy v. Mitchell, 2 Wash. 407; King County v. Hill, 1 Wash. 404; Sadler v. Niesz, 5 Wash. 182; Potwin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460; Wilson v. Aberdeen, 25 Wash. 614.

Upon the trial of a cause before a court without a jury, testimony offered should be liberally received, to avoid the necessity of a reversal in case of a trial de novo on appeal: Degginger v. Martin, 48 Wash. 1.

In view of this section, the oral opinion of the court, delivered at the conclusion of the testimony, that judgment should go for the defendant, does not preclude the court from afterward deciding to enter written findings and a judgment in favor of the plaintiff; as until the decision is made in writing it is under the control of the court: Russell v. Schade Brewing Co., 49 Wash. 362.

IN EQUITY CASES.—While the act of 1893 (§ 381 et seq., infra) did not expressly make this section applicable to equity causes, the implication is strong that it should be so applied: Potwin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460, 465.

In decisions prior to the laws of 1893, findings of fact and conclusions of law were held to be proper in a suit in equity, but not essential to the validity of the judgment: Kilroy v. Mitchell, 2 Wash. 407; see § 451 of the Code of 1881, held to apply to equitable suits: Id. The rule was otherwise, however, in divorce cases: § 996, infra.

And it was said that this section had no application to equitable actions in Wintermute v. Carner, 8 Wash. 585. See, also, Bard v. Kleeb, 1 Wash. 370; Kilroy v. Mitchell, 2 Wash. 407; Enos v. Wilcox, 3 Wash. 44, 46; explained in Rice v. Stevens, 9 Wash. 298, 301; White Crest Canning Co. v. Sims, 30 Wash. 374.

In the trial of equity causes on appeal, the supreme court is not bound by the findings of the lower court: Yesler v. Hochstettler, 4 Wash. 349.

Equity causes will not be reviewed on the findings alone: Stenger v. Roeder, 3 Wash. 412.

In an equity case in which the court dismisses the action, it is not error to refuse to make findings of fact: Bluett v. Wilce, 43 Wash. 492.

ON APPEAL.—On appeal, the written opinion of the trial judge, not purporting to be a finding of facts, will, on motion, be stricken out: King Co. v. Hill, 1 Wash. 63.

The failure to include the findings in the record on appeal will be fatal to a review of the judgment: State v. Rohde, 8 Wash. 362.

Although findings of fact should be made to sustain a judgment, yet an appeal will not be dismissed for want thereof on motion of the party who should have caused them to be made: Greer v. Squire, 9 Wash. 359.

The party aggrieved must except to findings in order to raise any question thereon in the appellate court, under §§ 382, 383, 387, 1736, infra: Rice v. Stevens, supra.

The findings of the lower court will not be disturbed where the testimony is conflicting, and there is evidence to support the findings: Drown v. Ingels, 3 Wash. 424.

A finding of fact will be upheld by the appellate court so long as there is evidence tending to support it, although from the evidence the appellate court would make a different finding were the question presented to it as to the lower court:

Baker v. McAllister, 2 W. T. 48. See, also, Shelton Logging Co. v. Gosser, 26 Wash. 126.

Unless a finding is so clearly unfounded as to warrant its being set aside if made by a jury, it should not be disturbed on appeal. It stands as a special verdict and must be so treated: Reynolds v. Dexter Horton & Co., 2 Wash. 185; Fisher v. Quigley, 2 Wash. 327; Kilroy v. Mitchell, 2 Wash. 407.

If it appears from the findings of fact that, although incompetent and immaterial testimony had been admitted, they were not based thereon, the error is not prejudicial: Merchants' Nat. Bank v. Peet, 9 Wash. 237.

§ 368. (5030.) Order of Proceedings—Findings Deemed Verdict.

The order of proceedings on a trial by the court shall be the same as provided in trials by jury. The finding of the court upon the facts shall be deemed a verdict, and may be set aside in the same manner and for the same reason, as far as applicable, and a new trial granted. [L. '69, p. 60, § 251; Cd. '81, § 247; 2 H. C., § 380.]

See notes to last section.

See infra, § 399, setting aside findings for insufficiency of evidence.

Cited in 2 Wash. 190; 20 Wash. 495; 35 Wash. 66; 49 Wash. 364.

The findings of the court upon the facts are deemed a verdict: Willey v. Morrow, 1 W. T. 474, 478; Enos v. Wilcox, 3 Wash. 44; and must be supported by the testimony: Sheehan v. Levy, 1 Wash. 149.

CHAPTER V.

TRIAL BY REFEREES.

§ 369. (5033.) Reference by Consent.

All or any of the issues in the action, whether of fact or law, or both, may be referred upon the written consent of the parties; but either party shall have the right in an action at law, upon an issue of fact, to demand a trial by jury. [Cf. L. '54, p. 168, § 206; Cd. '81, § 248; 2 H. C., § 381.]

See supra, § 82, referees defined.

See supra, § 83 et seq., court commissioners.

See note to next section as to reference without consent.

Cited in 1 Wash. 405; 16 Wash. 385.

As to reference and referees, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2486, §§ 1-11.

Disputed questions of fact in an equity case cannot be litigated in the supreme court on affidavits. The right practice is for the trial court to refer such matters to a referee to take testimony and report the same to the court as provided in the next section: Lammon v. Giles, 3 W. T. 117.

§ 370. (5034.) Reference Without Consent, When.

When the parties do not consent, the court or judge may, upon the application of either [or of its own motion], direct a reference in all cases formerly cognizable in chancery in which reference might be made:—

1. When the trial of an issue of fact shall require the examination of a long account on either side, in which case the referees may be directed to hear and decide the whole issue, or to report upon any specific question of fact involved therein; or

2. When the taking of an account shall be necessary for the information of the court, before judgment upon an issue of law, or for carrying a judgment or order into effect; or

3. When a question of fact, other than upon the pleadings, shall arise, upon motion or otherwise, in any stage of the action; or

4. When it is necessary for the information of the court in a special proceeding. [L. '54, p. 168, § 207; Cd. '81, § 249; 2 H. C., § 382.]

See note to § 375.

§ 371. (5035.) To Whom Reference may be Ordered.

A reference may be ordered to any person or persons, not exceeding three, agreed upon by the parties. If the parties do not agree, the court or judge may appoint one or more, not exceeding three. [L. '54, p. 168, § 208; L. '69, p. 61, § 254; Cd. '81, § 250; 2 H. C., § 383.]

§ 372. (5036.) Qualifications of Referees.

When the appointment of referees is made by the court or judge, each referee shall be,—

1. Qualified as a juror as provided by statute;
2. Competent as juror between the parties;
3. A duly admitted and practicing attorney. [L. '54, p. 169, § 209; Cd. '81, § 251; 2 H. C., § 384.]

See supra, §§ 94, 97, 324 et seq., qualifications and competency of jurors.

§ 373. (5037.) Challenges to Referees.

When the referees are chosen by the court, each party shall have the same right of challenge as to such referees, which shall be made and determined in the same manner and with like effect as in the formation of juries, except that neither party shall be entitled to a peremptory challenge. [L. '69, p. 61, § 256; Cd. '81, § 252; 2 H. C., § 385.]

See supra, § 324 et seq., challenges to jurors.

§ 374. (5038.) Trial by Referees.

Subject to the limitations and directions prescribed in the order of reference, the trial by referees shall be conducted in the same manner as a trial by the court. They shall have the same power to grant adjournments, administer oaths, preserve order, punish all violations thereof upon such trial, compel the attendance of witnesses, and to punish them for nonattendance or refusal to be sworn or testify, as is possessed by the court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 169, § 210; L. '69, p. 62, § 257; Cd. '81, § 253; 2 H. C., § 386.]

See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2486, §§ 4, 5.

If a jury has been waived in an action, and trial had before a referee, the waiver holds good for a retrial of the cause after reversal on appeal: Park v. Mighell, 7 Wash. 304.

If a cause has been referred to a referee to take proofs and report the same to the court, the refusal of the referee to grant a request for an adjournment, which was not objected to at the time, nor upon the trial before the court subsequently upon the report of the referee, cannot be raised as ground of error for the first time on appeal: Tacoma Grocery Co. v. Draham, 8 Wash. 263.

§ 375. (5039.) Referee's Report shall Contain What.

The report of the referees shall state the facts found, and when the order of reference includes an issue of law, it shall state the conclusions of law separately from the facts. The referees shall file with their report the evidence received upon the trial. If evidence offered by either party shall not be admitted on the trial, and the party offering the same except to the decision rejecting such evidence at the time, the exceptions shall be noted by the referees, and they shall take and receive such testimony and file it with the report. Whatever judgment the court may give upon the report, it shall, when it appears that such evidence was frivolous and inadmissible, require the party at whose instance it was taken and reported to pay all costs and disbursements thereby incurred. [Cf. L. '54, p. 169, § 210; L. '69, p. 62, § 258; Cd. '81, § 254; 2 H. C., § 387.]

See infra, § 377, judgment on report of referee.

See notes to § 370, supra.

Cited in 3 Wash. 471; 7 Wash. 123.

As to report and findings of referees, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2486, §§ 7-11.

Where an action at law is tried before a referee, charged to find facts and law, he should find the facts in detail; and, in case of a counterclaim, he should state clearly the items allowed for and against each party: Park v. Mighell, 3 Wash. 737.

A court commissioner may, on the order of the court, after filing his report in a cause, make supplemental report concerning stipulations entered into between the parties before him: Wheeler, Osgood & Co. v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617.

If a case has been reversed on appeal on the ground that it was tried before referee and no findings of fact had been made by him, and had been remanded upon an order that the cause be heard by the same referee upon the testimony already taken, he is not disqualified by reason of his proceedings in the former trial from making his findings of fact upon the testimony previously taken: Park v. Mighell, 7 Wash. 304.

The stenographer's longhand notes of the testimony taken before the referee in an action at law, and attached to and made a part of the referee's report, are sufficient on appeal: Bash v. Culver Gold M. Co., 7 Wash. 122; see Healy v. Seward, 5 Wash. 319.

Under the appeal act of 1890, depositions taken by a referee in an equity case will not be considered by the supreme court, unless settled by a statement of facts and certified by the court or judge trying the cause: Likens v. Cain, 4 Wash. 307.

Where the referee employs a stenographer and typewriter in taking testimony, his fees cannot be increased to more than twenty cents per folio for writing testimony, under § 483, infra: Polk v. Migheli, 3 Wash. 737.

§ 376. (5040.) Filing Report and Proceedings Thereon.

The report shall be filed with the clerk. Either party may, within such time as may be prescribed by the rules of the court, or by special order, move to set the same aside, or for judgment thereon, or such order or proceeding as the nature of the case may require. [Cf. L. '69, p. 62, § 259; Cd. '81, § 255; 2 H. C., § 388.]

§ 377. (5041.) Judgment on Referee's Report.

The court may affirm or set aside the report, either in whole or in part. If it affirms the report, it shall give judgment accordingly. If the report be set aside, either in whole or in part, the court may make another order of reference, as to all or so much of the report as is set aside, to the original referees or others, or it may find the facts and determine the law itself and give judgment accordingly. Upon a motion to set aside a report, the conclusions thereof shall be deemed and considered as the verdict of the jury. [L. '69, p. 62, § 260; Cd. '81, § 256; 2 H. C., § 389.]

See infra, § 483, fees of referee.

Cited in 1 Wash. 405, 407; 2 Wash. 341; 5 Wash. 731.

The court may affirm or set aside the referee's report: King Co. v. Hill, 1 Wash. 404.

Findings of fact made by a referee in an equity cause may be set aside and others made by the court, they being merely advisory: Pratsch v. Aberdeen Packing Co., 7 Wash. 346; Horr v. Aber- deen Packing Co., 7 Wash. 354; Fairhaven L. Co. v. Jordan, 5 Wash. 729.

Where the court sets aside the referee's report, and orders the cause to be retried before it, the admission of evidence on such retrial which adds nothing material to plaintiff's case is not prejudicial error: Fairhaven L. Co. v. Jordan, supra.

The appellate court will assume, in the absence of the evidence, that the facts found by the referee are true, and that they were warranted by the evidence: Ferry v. King Co., 2 Wash. 337.

If a cause has been referred, and the record shows that the issues were settled before testimony was taken, and it does not appear that the findings were reported prior to completion of testimony, objection that the cause was referred before the issues were made up, and that the facts were found and reported before testimony was taken will be disregarded on appeal: Wheeler Osgood & Co. v. Ralph, 4 Wash. 617.

CHAPTER VI. AGREED CASES.

§ 378. (5044.) Submission of Controversies Without Action.

Parties to a question in difference which might be the subject of a civil action may, without action, agree upon a case containing the facts upon which the controversy depends, and present a submission of the same to any court which would have jurisdiction if an action had been brought. But it must appear by affidavit that the controversy is real, and the proceedings in good faith to determine the rights of the parties. The court shall thereupon hear and determine the case and render judgment thereon as if an action were pending. [L. '69, p. 73, § 300; Cd. '81, § 298; 2 H. C., § 421.]

See infra, § 431, manner of taking and entering judgments.

Cited in 33 Wash. 540.

When a case is tried upon an agreed statement of facts, respondents cannot avoid any relief to which the agreed facts show the appellant entitled: Northern Pacific Ry. Co. v. Miller, 20 Wash. 21.

§ 379. (5045.) Judgment as in Other Cases.

Judgment shall be entered in the judgment-book as in other cases, but without costs for any proceedings prior to the trial. The case, the submission, and a copy of the judgment shall constitute the judgment-roll. [L. '69, p. 74, § 301; Cd. '81, § 299; 2 H. C., § 422.]

See infra, § 431 et seq., manner of taking and entering judgments.

§ 380. (5046.) Judgments Enforced as in Other Cases.

The judgment may be enforced in the same manner as if it had been rendered in an action, and shall be in the same manner subject to appeal. [L. '69, p. 74, § 302; Cd. '81, § 300; 2 H. C., § 423.]

See infra, §§ 510-519, exemptions.

CHAPTER VII. EXCEPTIONS.

§ 381. (5050.) Definition.

An exception is a claim of error in a ruling or decision of a court, judge or other tribunal, or officer exercising judicial functions, made in the course of an action or proceeding or after judgment therein. [L. '93, p. 111, § 1.]

See infra, §§ 2186, 2224, exceptions in criminal cases.

See infra, Title XI, "Appeals."

For former laws on the subject of this chapter, see L. '54, p. 169, §§ 211-214; L. '77, §§ 261-267; Cd. '81, §§ 257-263; L. '85, pp. 70-73, §§ 1-8; L. '90, p. 333; L. '91, p. 348, §§ 25-27; 2 H. C., §§ 390-398.

Cited in 3 Wash. 122; 7 Wash. 362, 363; 11 Wash. 336, 410; 12 Wash. 26, 68, 336; 9 Wash. 299, 465, 573; 10 Wash. 154, 165; 28 Wash. 615.

§ 382. (5051.) When to be Taken.

It shall not be necessary or proper to take or enter an exception to any ruling or decision mentioned in the last section which is embodied in a written judgment, order or journal entry in the cause. But this section shall not apply to the report of a referee or commissioner, or to findings of fact or conclusions of law in a report or decision of a referee or commissioner, or in a decision of a court or judge upon a cause or part of a cause, either legal or equitable, tried without a jury. [L. '93, p. 112, § 2.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 202; 29 Wash. 43; 32 Wash. 452; 34 Wash. 584; 39 Wash. 49; 50 Wash. 697.

The evidence in an equity case or in an action tried by the court without a jury will not be reviewed on appeal, when no exceptions were taken to the findings of the court, nor other or different findings requested: Forest v. Gilchrist, 14 Wash. 4, and cases cited; Irwin v. Water Co., 12 Wash. 112; Brick Co. v. Adler, 12 Wash. 24; Montesano v. Blair, 12 Wash. 188; Rice v. Stevens, 9 Wash. 298; McKee v. Whitworth, 15 Wash. 536.

Under this section it is not necessary to take any exception to a judgment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 122, § 151: Woodhurst v. Cramer, 29 Wash. 40; Doremus v. Root, 23 Wash. 710; Murray v. Shoudy, 13 Wash. 33; McAllister v. McAllister, 28 Wash. 613; Spencer v. Commercial Co., 36 Wash. 374.

But an exception to judgment for want of findings must be called to attention of court below: See Walsh v. Bushell, 26 Wash. 576.

Refusing to allow the filing of a supplemental complaint is reviewable without exception: See Burnett v. Ewing, 39 Wash. 45.

Objection to judgment for costs against plaintiff's sureties on a cost bond, upon dismissal of an action of ejectment, may be first made on appeal without moving below to retax the costs, as no exceptions to a judgment are necessary: Hamilton v. Witner, 50 Wash. 689.

As to necessity for exceptions to decision or findings in general, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 119, 120, § 145; Rice v. Stevens, 9 Wash. 298; Montesano v. Blair, 12 Wash. 188; Murray v. Okanogan Livestock etc. Co., 12 Wash. 259; Stoddard v. Seattle Nat. Bank, 12 Wash. 658; Forrest v. Gilchrist, 14 Wash. 4; Hill v. Lowman, 15 Wash. 503; McKee v. Whitworth, 15 Wash. 536; Philadelphia Mortgage etc. Co. v. New Whatcom, 19 Wash. 225; Cole v. Price, 22 Wash. 18; Cedar Canyon Con. Min. Co. v. Yarwood, 27 Wash. 271; High v. Emerson, 23 Wash. 103; Reilly v. Anderson, 33 Wash. 58; Carstens v. Alaska Steamship Co., 39 Wash. 229; Corbett v. Civil Service Com. of Seattle, 33 Wash. 190; Adams v. Casey, 39 Wash. 37; Shaw v. Benesh, 37 Wash. 457; Poor v. Cudihee, 37 Wash. 609; Smith v. Glenn, 40 Wash. 262.

Exceptions to findings are unnecessary where proper and timely exceptions are taken to findings proposed by appellant and refused by the court: Home Sav. etc. Assn. v. Burton, 20 Wash. 688.

Exceptions to a cost bill cannot be reviewed where the evidence on the hearing was not brought up by a bill of exceptions or statements of facts, and counsel do not agree as to what matters were considered by the court: Ames v. Farmers and Mechanics' Bank, 48 Wash. 328.

Where no exceptions are taken to findings of fact in an equitable action, and the findings support the conclusions and the judgment, the findings cannot be reviewed, and the statement of facts will be struck out on motion and the judgment affirmed: Hoeschler v. Bascom, 44 Wash. 673.

Errors committed upon an inquisition of lunacy cannot be reviewed where no exceptions were taken: State ex rel. Mackintosh v. Superior Court, 45 Wash. 248.

Where no exceptions are taken to findings of fact, the evidence cannot be reviewed: Bybee v. Bybee, 45 Wash. 187; Pierce v. Pettit, 46 Wash. 668; Lauridsen v. Lewis, 50 Wash. 605.

Necessity of exceptions to review errors of law: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 120, § 146; Washington Brick etc. Mfg. Co. v. Adler, 12 Wash. 24; McPherson v. Smith, 14 Wash. 226; Schlotfeldt v. Bull, 18 Wash. 64; Lewis v. McDougall, 19 Wash. 388; Schlotfeldt v. Bull, 17 Wash. 6; Rowe v. Whatcom County R. & Light Co., 44 Wash. 658.

Where no exceptions are taken to the findings, the only question is whether the findings support the conclusions and judgment: Hannegan v. Roth, 12 Wash. 65; Willamette Casket Co. v. Cross Undertaking Co., 12 Wash. 190; Moyer v. Van de Vanter, 12 Wash. 377; Griswold v. Case, 13 Wash. 623; Carstens & Earles v. Leidigh etc. Lumber Co., 18 Wash. 450; Brown v. Kern, 21 Wash. 211; In re Clifford, 37 Wash. 460.

Error cannot be assigned upon the exclusion of evidence the materiality of which does not appear from the questions, unless the party informs the court what he expected to prove thereby so that the court could determine its materiality: Chlopeck v. Chlopeck, 47 Wash. 256. In the absence of exceptions to the findings they are conclusive, and the evidence cau-not be reviewed: Ferdig v. Simpson, 47 Wash. 475; Mantle v. Dabney, 47 Wash. 394.

The findings of a trial judge who heard all the witnesses, will not be disturbed on appeal where the evidence is conflicting, and there is unquestionable testimony to support the findings: Coates v. Teabo, 44 Wash. 271; Carr v. Cohn, 44 Wash. 586; Sorrill v. McGougan, 44 Wash. 558.

If there is no contention as to findings, or judgment is on the pleadings, no exception is necessary: See Cathcart v. Bryant, 28 Wash. 31; Payette v. Ferrier, 31 Wash. 43.

Exception to sufficiency of pleadings not necessary when question previously raised: See Travis v. Ward, 2 Wash. 30; Cook v. Tibbals, 12 Wash. 207; Fremont Milling Co. v. Denny, 12 Wash. 251; State ex rel. Swerdfiger v. Whitney, 12 Wash. 420; Jackson v. McAuley, 13 Wash. 298; Arey v. Arey, 22 Wash. 261; Hathaway v. McDonald, 27 Wash. 659.

As to striking statement for failure to except, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 120, § 147; Peters v. Lewis, 33 Wash. 617; Horrell v. California-Oregon etc. Assn., 40 Wash. 531; Lilly v. Eklund, 37 Wash. 532; Bringgold v. Bringgold, 40 Wash. 121; Smith v. Glenn, 40 Wash. 262; Crowe & Co. v. Brandt, 50 Wash. 499.

As to necessity for exceptions to conclusions of law, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 120, § 148; Woodhurst v. Cramer, 29 Wash. 40; Robins v. Paulson, 30 Wash.

459; Adams v. Washington etc. Co., 38 Wash. 243; First Nat. Bank v. Coles, 40 Wash. 528; Gerhard v. Worrell, 20 Wash. 492.

As to necessity of objections in criminal cases, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 838-840. §§ 384-392.

Objections to evidence: See State v. Melvern, 32 Wash. 7.

Objections to indictment or information: See State v. Rogan, 18 Wash. 43; State v. Anderson, 20 Wash. 193.

Objections to proceedings at trial: See State v. Straub, 16 Wash. 111; State v. Gates, 28 Wash. 689.

Objections to rulings on evidence: See State v. Craemer, 12 Wash. 217; State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551.

Objections to arguments and conduct of counsel, and to form of verdict: See State v. Regan, 8 Wash. 506; State v. McCann, 16 Wash. 249; State v. Fenton, 30 Wash. 325; State v. Bailey, 31 Wash. 89; State v. Snider, 32 Wash. 299.

Necessity of exceptions in criminal cases: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 839, § 391; Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262; Freidrich v. Territory, 2 Wash. 358; State v. Williams, 13 Wash. 335; State v. Carter, 15 Wash. 121; State v. Crotts, 22 Wash. 245.

A general exception to an instruction in a criminal case containing several propositions is insufficient if the instruction is in part correct: State v. Gohl, 46 Wash. 408.

§ 383. (5052.) Manner of Taking in Cases Tried by Court.

Exceptions to the report of a referee or commissioner, or to findings of fact or conclusions of law in a report or decision of a referee or commissioner, or in a decision of a court or judge upon a cause or part of a cause, either legal or equitable, tried without a jury, may be taken by any party, either by stating to the judge, referee or commissioner when the report or decision is signed, that such party excepts to the same, specifying the part or parts excepted to (whereupon the judge, referee or commissioner, shall note the exceptions in the margin or at the foot of the report or decision); or by filing like written exceptions within five days after the filing of the report or decision, or, where the report or decision is signed subsequently to the hearing and in the absence of the party excepting, within five days after the service on such party of a copy of such report or decision or of written notice of the filing thereof. [L. '93, p. 112, § 3.]

As to time and manner of taking exceptions, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 122, § 151½.

Where exceptions to findings of fact and conclusions of law are not taken within five days after their filing, they are insufficient to secure a review in the appellate court of the evidence upon which they are based: National Bank v. Vinegar Works, 15 Wash. 126.

The court has no power to extend the time for taking exceptions to findings of fact and conclusions of law: Id.

Under this section, written exceptions to findings must be filed within five days after notice of the decision: Rice v. Stevens, 9 Wash. 298; Irwin v. Olympia Waterworks, 12 Wash. 12; Ballard v. First Nat. Bank, 13 Wash. 670. When notice of the filing of findings not served, exceptions must be taken within five days after acquiring notice in any way: Irwin v. Olympia Waterworks, 12 Wash. 112; Fisher v. Kirschberg, 17 Wash. 290; Mann v. Provident Life etc. Co., 42 Wash. 581; Kinkade v. Witherop, 29 Wash. 10. See Brooks v. James, 18 Wash. 335.

An order striking exceptions to findings is proper where the record sustains its recitals that the exceptions were not filed within five days after service of a copy: Fulton v. Methow Trading Co., 45 Wash. 136.

Exception, not taken in time, will not be noticed: See Home Sav. etc. Assn. v. Burton, 20 Wash. 688.

Error cannot be assigned in the failure of the court to make findings of fact and conclusions of law in mandamus proceedings, where no request therefor was made below: State ex rel. Cicoria v. Corgiat, 50 Wash. 95.

As to form and sufficiency of exceptions to findings, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 121, § 149; Ach v. Carter, 21 Wash. 140; Bignold v. Carr, 24 Wash. 413; Young v. Borzone, 26 Wash. 4; Burrows v. Kinsley, 27 Wash. 694; Ranahan v. Gibbons, 23 Wash. 255; Fremont Milling Co. v. Denny, 12 Wash. 251; Robins v. Paulson, 30 Wash. 459; Humphries v. Sorenson, 33 Wash. 563; Bank v. Doherty, 42 Wash. 317.

Sufficiency of general exceptions to findings: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 121, § 150.

A general exception to the several findings of fact is insufficient to bring up for review any question upon the evidence: Hannegan v. Roth, 12 Wash. 65; Cook v. Tibbals, 12 Wash. 207; Moyer v. Van De Vanter, 12 Wash. 377; Schoonover v. Condon, 12 Wash. 475; Irwin v. Olympia Waterworks, 12 Wash. 112; Ballard v. Keane, 13 Wash. 201; Payette v. Willis, 23 Wash. 299; Woodhurst v. Cramer, 29 Wash. 40.

Unless all the findings are erroneous: Washington Liquor Co. v. Northwest Livestock Co., 18 Wash. 71; Brown v. Coey, 12 Wash. 659 (mem.); Neeley v. Democratic Pub. Co., 12 Wash. 659; Peters v. Lewis, 33 Wash. 617; Lilly v. Eklund, 37 Wash. 532.

A general exception to findings of facts is insufficient to secure a review of the evidence: Smith v. Glenn, 40 Wash. 262; Horrell v. California-Oregon etc. Assn., 40 Wash. 531; Mason v. McLean, 6 Wash. 31; Bringgold v. Bringgold, 40 Wash. 121; Spaulding v. Burke, 33 Wash. 679. One general exception to all findings of fact made or refused is insufficient to secure a review of the evidence; and in such case the statement will be struck out when no error is assigned on the exclusion of evidence, and the judgment affirmed if supported by the findings: Pederson v. Ullrich, 50 Wash. 211; Peters v. Lewis, 33 Wash. 617.

One general exception to the refusal of proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law is insufficient to secure a review of the findings made: Crowe & Co. v. Brandt, 50 Wash. 499.

§ 384. (5053.) Manner of Taking in Jury Cases.

Exceptions to a charge to a jury, or to a refusal to give as a part of such charge instructions requested in writing, may be taken by any party by stating to the court, after the jury shall have retired to consider of their verdict, and, if practicable, before the verdict has been returned, that such party excepts to the same, specifying by numbers of paragraphs or otherwise the parts of the charge excepted to, and the requested instructions the refusal to give which is excepted to; whereupon the judge shall note the exceptions in the minutes of the trial, or cause the stenographer (if one is in attendance) so to note the same. [L. '93, p. 112, § 4.]

Exceptions to instructions may be taken at any time before the hearing of a motion for a new trial: See supra, § 339.

Cited in 9 Wash. 7; 15 Wash. 244, 260; 29 Wash. 473; 37 Wash. 580.

Instructions, and failure or refusal to give instructions: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 118, § 142; Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262; Brown v. Forest, 1 W. T. 201; Seattle Land Co. v. Day, 2 Wash. 451; Blumberg v. McNear, 1 W. T. 141; Johnson v. Tacoma Cedar Lumber Co., 3 Wash. 722; Blumenthal v. Pacific Meat Co., 12 Wash. 331; State v. Williams, 13 Wash. 335; Pepperall v. City Transit Co., 15 Wash. 176; Anderson v. Crothers, 18 Wash. 520; State v. McGilvery, 20 Wash. 240; State v. Anderson, 20 Wash. 193; Rei- ner v. Crawford, 23 Wash. 669; Dodds v. Gregson, 35 Wash. 402; Hawkins v. Casey, 38 Wash. 625; Duteau v. Seattle Elec. Co., 45 Wash. 418; Austin v. Bellingham, 45 Wash. 460.

Where exceptions were dictated to the stenographer by an attorney in his place at the attorney's table, with the presiding judge upon the bench, it cannot be objected that the judge could not hear the exceptions, since it was his duty to do so: Ongaro v. Twohy, 49 Wash. 93.

Manner of taking and entering exceptions: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2766, §§ 107, 108; McDonough v. G. N. Ry. Co., 15 Wash. 244; Miller v. Vermurie, 7 Wash. 386; State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 512. See, also, Goetzinger v. Rosenfeld, 16 Wash. 392.

As to sufficiency of general exceptions to instructions, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 118, § 143; Sexton v. School Dist. No. 34, 9 Wash. 5; Bell v. Washington Cedar Shingle Co., 5 Wash. 27; Meeker v. Gardella, 1 Wash. 139; Cunningham v. Seattle El. R. Co., 3 Wash. 471; Maling v. Crummev, 5 Wash. 222; McDonough v. Great Northern R. Co., 15 Wash. 244; State v. Katon, 47 Wash. 1; Rowe v. Whatcom Co. R. & Light Co., 44 Wash. 658; Allend v. Spokane Falls etc. R. Co., 21 Wash. 324; Rush v. Spokane Falls etc. R. Co., 23 Wash. 501; Gallamore v. Olympia, 34

Wash. 379; Dow v. Dempsey, 21 Wash. 86. See, also, 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2766, § 109, and cases cited.

As to specific exceptions to instructions, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 119, § 144; State v. Robinson, 12 Wash. 491; Patchen v. Parke & Lacy Mach. Co., 6 Wash. 486; Sweeney v. Pacific Coast Elevator Co., 14 Wash. 562; Edmunds v. Black, 15 Wash. 73; Rush v. Spokane Falls etc. R. Co., 23 Wash. 501.

In the absence of a bill of exceptions or statement of facts showing all the instructions, and of any exceptions to the instructions given, error in instructions cannot be reviewed: State v. Rourk, 44 Wash. 464.

§ 385. (5054.) How Entered in Minutes.

Exceptions to any ruling upon an objection to the admission of evidence, offered in the course of a trial or hearing, need not be formally taken, but the question put or other offer of evidence, together with the objection thereto and the ruling thereon, shall be entered by the court, judge, referee or commissioner (or by the stenographer, if one is in attendance) in the minutes of the trial or hearing, and such entry shall import an exception by the party against whom the ruling was made. [L. '93, p. 112, § 5.]

Cited in 16 Wash. 354; 52 Wash. 183.

Under this section an exception is not necessary where an objection is interposed and a ruling made on the offer of evidence: Nelson v. Western Steam Nav. Co., 52 Wash. 177.

§ 386. (5055.) Manner of Taking and Entry.

Exceptions to any ruling or decision made in the course of a trial or hearing, or in the progress of a cause, except those to which it is provided in this chapter that no exception need be taken and those to which some other mode of exception is in this chapter prescribed, may be taken by any party by stating to the court, judge, referee or commissioner making the ruling or decision, when the same is made, that such party excepts to the same; whereupon such court, judge, referee or commissioner shall note the exception in the minutes of the trial, hearing or cause, or shall cause the stenographer (if one is in attendance) so to note the same. [L. '93, p. 113, § 6.]

Cited in 42 Wash. 328.

§ 387. (5056.) Review on Appeal.

Alleged error in any order, ruling or decision to which it is provided in this chapter that no exception need be taken, or in any report, finding of fact, conclusion of law, charge, refusal to charge, or other ruling or decision which shall have been excepted to by any party as prescribed in this chapter, shall be reviewed by the supreme court, upon an appeal taken by the party against whom any such ruling or decision was made, or in which he has joined, from any other appealable order or from the final judgment in the cause, where such error, if found to exist, would materially affect the correctness of the judgment or order appealed from: Provided, the ruling or decision, the alleged error in which is sought to be so reviewed, together with the exception thereto, if any, was a matter of record in the cause in the first instance, or before the hearing of the appeal has been brought into the record in the manner prescribed in this chapter. And any such alleged error shall also be considered in the court wherein or by a judge whereof the same was committed, upon the hearing and decision of a motion for a new trial, a motion for judgment notwithstanding a verdict, or a motion to set aside a referee's report or decision, made by a party against whom the ruling or decision to be reviewed was made, whether the alleged erroneous ruling or decision is a part of the record or not, where the alleged error, if found to exist, would materially affect the decision of the motion. But no exception to any appealable order or to any final judgment shall be necessary or proper in order to secure a review of such order or judgment upon direct appeal therefrom. [L. '93, p. 113, § 7.]

See supra, § 339, manner of conducting trial.

Cited in 8 Wash. 185; 12 Wash. 26, 68; 31 Wash. 560.

No statement of facts is necessary on appeal when the only matter to be determined is whether the lower court ruled correctly upon the questions of law presented: Watson v. Sawyer, 12 Wash. 35; State v. McQuade, 12 Wash. 554; Howard v. Shaw, 10 Wash. 151; Railway Co. v. Johnson, 7 Wash. 97.

Where the only error assigned is the judgment of dismissal of a complaint, which is substantially the sustaining of a demurrer thereto, there is no necessity for a bill of exceptions: Long v. Billings, 7 Wash. 267.

Where the judgment recites that it was rendered upon the pleadings and oral admissions of the parties in open court, it will not be disturbed on appeal where the record does not set forth the oral admissions, the presumption being that the judgment was sustained by the facts presented to the lower court: Byers v. Rothschild, 11 Wash. 296; Gay v. Havermale, 30 Wash. 622.

A verdict will not be disturbed on appeal if there is sufficient evidence to support it upon any theory, where no exceptions were taken to the instructions to the jury of the lower court: Blumenthal v. Meat Co., 12 Wash. 331.

Findings of fact and exceptions thereto are unnecessary to obtain a review of the facts in the case where the trial court ordered a judgment of nonsuit: Murray v. Shoudy, 13 Wash. 33.

Exceptions to findings of fact taken nearly a year after their filing, and nearly three months subsequent to notice of appeal, will not be considered by the appellate court: Ballard v. Bank, 13 Wash. 670.

Where there is no exception to a finding of the court that a lien notice was sufficient, or a refusal by the court to find it insufficient, the question of its sufficiency cannot be raised on appeal, even though it was admitted in evidence over the appellant's objection: McPherson v. Smith, 14 Wash. 226; Wash. Mfg. Co. v. Adler, 12 Wash. 24.

An erroneous instruction, when not complained of and excepted to, constitutes on appeal the law of the case, and the record will not be examined at the instance of the respondent for the purpose of determining wherein it is erroneous: Pepperal v. Transit Co., 15 Wash. 176.

Errors not raised in the court below cannot be urged on appeal: State v. Owens, 15 Wash. 468.

McCraith*, 2 W. T. 112; Sweeney v. Pacific Elevator Co., 14 Wash. 562; Moran Bros. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 19 Wash. 266; Guarantee Loan etc. Co. v. Galliher, 12 Wash. 507; *Gustin v. § 388. (5057.) Bill of Exceptions, What Constitutes.

Any party to any action or proceeding may, at any stage thereof, have any rulings or decisions of the court, or a judge, referee or commissioner thereof, in the cause, together with the necessary evidence, papers or proceedings connected therewith or on which the same were based, and the exceptions thereto, if any, not already a part of the record in the cause, or so much of all or any thereof as is not already a part of the record, made a part of the record in the cause, by the certifying of a bill of exceptions as in this chapter provided. And any such party may, after the making of an appealable order or the final judgment in the cause, have all rulings, decisions, evidence, papers, proceedings and exceptions in the cause, or so much thereof as may be material to an appeal from such appealable order or from the final judgment, as the case may be, not already a part of the record, made a part of the record in the cause by the certifying of a statement of facts, as in this chapter provided. The certifying of a bill of exceptions or statement of facts shall not prevent the subsequent certifying of other bills of exceptions or statements of facts, or both, comprising other matters in the cause, at the instance of the same or another party; but only one bill of exceptions or statement of facts can be settled or certified after the rendition of the final judgment in the cause. [L. '93, p. 114, § 8.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 94; 21 Wash. 368; 47 Wash. 596.

Although a transcript on appeal is properly certified, yet where the bill of exceptions accompanying it is a detached paper without authentication, the supreme court will ignore the errors shown in the bill: Stinson v. Sachs, 8 Wash. 391.

Where the record contains an exception to the refusal of the court to grant a new trial on the ground of insufficiency of the evidence, and a bill of exceptions is made a part thereof for the purpose of bringing the evidence into the record, it is unnecessary that the bill of exceptions contain any assignment of error: Shotwell v. Dodge, 8 Wash. 337.

In an equity case where the decision is based upon evidence, an appeal is dismissed or the judgment affirmed unless there is a statement of facts bringing up all the evidence: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 160, § 264; Swift v. Stine, 3 W. T. 18; United States v. Lone Fisherman, 3 W. T. 316; Caton v. Switzler, 3 W. T. 242; Kenyon v. Knipe, 3 W. T. 243; Snyder v. Kelso, 3 Wash. 181; *Enos v. Reed, 36 Wash. 638; Kubillus v. Ewert, 40 Wash. 38; Whitehouse v. Nelson Dry Goods Co., 40 Wash. 189; Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 413.

As to incorporating matters of record, exhibits, affidavits, and other documents, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 163-166, §§ 272-275.

Affidavits introduced in evidence at the trial are not properly a part of the transcript, but must be included in the statement of facts or they cannot be considered: State v. Humason, 5 Wash. 499; Heffner v. Board of County Commrs., 16 Wash. 273; Jacobson v. Lunn, 16 Wash. 487; Shorno v. Doak, 45 Wash. 613; Gray v. MacLean, 33 Wash. 244; State v. Yandell, 34 Wash. 409; Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535; Taylor v. Modern Woodmen of America, 42 Wash. 304; State v. Dalton, 43 Wash. 278.

Affidavits used upon a hearing to quash a service of summons must be brought up on appeal by bill of exceptions or statement of facts, or appeal from the order will be dismissed: McCart v. Racine Woolen Mills, Blake & Co., 48 Wash. 314.

But if the affidavits are attached to motions or the certificate shows that affidavits were considered, they need not be included in statement of facts: See Richardson v. Richardson, 43 Wash. 634; State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 435; Templeman v. Evans, 35 Wash. 302.

Under this and the next section, the respondent may propose and have certified a statement of facts or bill of exceptions, although the same is unnecessary to present appellant's case; but if the respondent has not appealed or excepted to the findings, the statement serves no useful purpose, and will be struck out: Lauridsen v. Lewis, 47 Wash. 594.

§ 389. (5058.) Bill of Exceptions—Amendments—Notice to Settle.

A party desiring to have a bill of exceptions or statement of facts certified must prepare the same as proposed by him, file it in the cause and serve a copy thereof on the adverse party, and shall also serve written notice of the filing thereof on any other party who has appeared in the cause. Within ten days after such service any other party may file and serve on the proposing party, any amendments which he may propose to the bill or statement. Either party may then serve upon the other a written notice that he will apply to the judge of the court before whom the cause is pending or was tried, at a time and place specified, the time to be not less than three nor more than ten days after service of the notice, to settle and certify the bill or statement; and at such time and place, or at any other time or place specified in an adjournment made by order or stipulation, the judge shall settle and certify the bill or statement. If the judge is absent at the time named in a notice or fixed by adjournment, a new notice may be served. If no amendment shall be served within the time aforesaid, the proposed bill or statement shall be deemed agreed to and shall be certified by the judge at the instance of either party, at any time, without notice to any other party on proof being filed of its service, and that no amendments have been proposed; and if amendments be proposed and excepted [accepted], the bill or statement as so amended shall likewise be certified on proof being filed of its service and the service and acceptance of the amendments. [L. '93, p. 114, § 9.]

Service upon a respondent of a proposed statement of facts prior to its filing is insufficient to give the court jurisdiction: Erickson v. Erickson, 11 Wash. 76; and the statement of facts will be stricken from the files where it appears in the record that the copy was served before the original was filed: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 170, § 286; Boyle v. Railway Co., 13 Wash. 383; Barkley v. Barton, 15 Wash. 33; State v. Yandell, 34 Wash. 409.

A statement of facts will not be stricken by the appellate court upon the ground that it was served before filing, when the only showing to that effect is an affidavit presented to the appellate court alleging that fact: State v. Moss, 13 Wash. 42; Chandler v. Shingle Co., 13 Wash. 89.

And the same is true as to proposed amendments: See Standard Furniture Co. v. Anderson, 38 Wash. 582.

A bill of exceptions will be stricken from the transcript, upon motion, when no notice of its settlement had been given to the adverse party: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 172, § 292; State v. Howard, 15 Wash. 425; Caton v. Switzler, 3 W. T. 242; Kenyon v. Knipe, 3 W. T. 243; United States v. Lone Fisherman, 3 W. T. 316; Taylor v. Osborn, 1 Wash. 189; Emigh v. State Ins. Co., 3 Wash. 122; State v. Hoyt, 4 Wash. 818; Bowen v. Cain, 7 Wash. 469; American Asphalt Co. v. Gribble, 8 Wash. 255; First Nat. Bank of Aberdeen v. Andrews, 11 Wash. 409; Cuschner v. Longbehn, 44 Wash. 546.

As to notice of filing and service of copy, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 171, § 289.

Failure to serve written notice of filing of a proposed statement of facts upon a party who has appeared in a cause, while not such an irregularity as to work a loss of jurisdiction, is ground for striking the statement, and for affirmance of the judgment when there is no question for review outside the statement: First Nat. Bank v. Andrews, 11 Wash. 409; McQuillan v. Seattle, 7 Wash. 331.

Service of notice of the settlement of a statement of facts by mail is not sufficient where both parties reside in the same place: Bowen v. Cain, 7 Wash. 469. As to service upon attorneys, see Tacoma Mill Co. v. Sherwood, 11 Wash. 492.

Where the notice of settlement designates no place at which application therefor is to be heard, the statement will be stricken on the ground that it was settled and certified without notice to respondent: Asphalt Co. v. Gribble, 8 Wash. 255.

The fact that notice of the settlement was given prior to the rendition of judgment is not ground for striking the statement, when the notice designated a day subsequent to the judgment as the time when application for the settlement would be made: Phillips v. Port Townsend, 8 Wash. 529.

Where a notice was given for the settlement of a statement of facts and bill of exceptions, and a statement was prepared and filed at the time notice was given, the fact that the court, after consideration, finally settled the objections of appellant by bill of exceptions, is not error: Miller v. Vermurie, 7 Wash. 386.

Where respondent does not appear at the settlement of the statement of facts, and there is no copy of the notice of the settlement in the record, the statement will be stricken on motion: Ward v. Tucker, 7 Wash. 399.

A respondent who was present at the time of the settlement of a statement of facts, and who fails to object that it was not noted for settlement upon the date, cannot raise such objection for the first time on appeal: McGlaughlin v. Merriam, 7 Wash. 111.

Where respondents have had an opportunity to propose amendments to the statement of facts, and have neglected to do so, they will not be permitted to bring into the record a supplemental statement: In re Hill's Heirs, 7 Wash. 421.

Where a statement has been settled on the day set therefor, and no amendments have been proposed within the required time, the court cannot subsequently alter or amend the statement and then amend his certificate so as to make it conform to the statement thus altered: Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537.

Where an amendment has erroneously been made to a statement of facts, the proper remedy is by mandamus to compel the lower court to settle a proper statement: Scott v. Bourn, 13 Wash. 471; Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537.

Notice of the filing is waived by the filing of a motion to strike out the statement: Hansen v. Nilson, 17 Wash. 606.

Upon service of a proposed statement, notice of the filing is not necessary except as to the other parties appearing: See Bennett v. Supreme Tent etc. Maccabees, 40 Wash. 431.

As to time required for notice of settlement, see Martin v. Sunset Telephone etc. Co., 18 Wash. 260.

Copy served need not contain filing mark, but service upon the clerk of an attorney while he himself is present in his office is not sufficient: See Spokane & Idaho Lum. Co. v. Loy, 21 Wash. 501; Times Printing Co. v. Seattle, 25 Wash. 149.

As to notice where no amendments are filed, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 173, § 293. Where no amendments or objections to a statement of facts have been served by the respondent on the appellant, the statement may be certified by the judge in the absence and without notice to the respondent: Maney v. Hart, 11 Wash. 67; Ward v. Huggins, 7 Wash. 617; Bruce v. Foley, 18 Wash. 96; Ward v. Huggins, 7 Wash. 617; Sadler v. Niesz, 5 Wash.

182; Hansen v. Nilson, 17 Wash. 606; Home Savings & Loan Assn. v. Burton, 20 Wash. 688; O'Neile v. Ternes, 32 Wash. 528. The settlement of a statement is valid and legal upon the day set for hearing, when no amendments have been proposed within the prescribed time, although the court, by an order prior to said date, has extended the time for settlement for the purpose of allowing amendments to be proposed: Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537.

When a case is heard upon an agreed statement of facts, stipulated to be all the facts in the case, and the decree is based thereon, no other statement of facts is necessary on appeal: Asher v. Sekofsky, 10 Wash. 379.

Notice once properly given is sufficient: See Dodds v. Gregson, 35 Wash. 402.

As to proof of service of notice, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 174, § 298; Davies v. Cheadle, 31 Wash. 168; Mooney v. State, 2 Wash. 487; Snyder v. Kelso, 3 Wash. 181; Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524; State v. Hinchley, 5 Wash. 326.

If first notice of settlement is insufficient, new notice may be served: See Prospector's Development Co. v. Brook, 31 Wash. 187.

A notice that fails to name the place where the application for settlement will be made is insufficient, and warrants striking the statement: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 174, § 300; Coats v. West Coast Fire & M. Ins. Co., 4 Wash. 375; American Asphalt Co. v. Gribble, 8 Wash. 255; Merchants' Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Ault, 14 Wash. 701; Kroenert v. Gustason, 19 Wash. 373.

As to necessity for settlement in general, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 175, § 301; Scott v. Bourn, 13 Wash. 471; Bank of Shelton v. Willey, 7 Wash. 535; Oliver v. Lewis, 9 Wash. 572; Wintermute v. Carner, 8 Wash. 585; Madigan v. West Coast etc. Ins. Co., 3 Wash. 454; Taylor v. City Council of Tacoma, 15 Wash. 92; Sprague v. Meagher, 32 Wash. 62.

By whom and where to be settled: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 175, §§ 302, 303; Hanson v. Tompkins, 2 Wash. 508; Rauh v. Scholl, 19 Wash. 30; Anderson v. Provident Life & Trust Co., 26 Wash. 192; Nelson v. Seattle Traction Co., 25 Wash. 602; Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33; Graton v. McKnight Mfg. Co. v. Redelsheimer, 28 Wash. 370.

Where settlement to be made: Prospectors' Development Co. v. Brooks, 31 Wash. 187; Downs etc. Assn. v. Pioneer Mut. Ins. Assn., 41 Wash. 372; O'Neile v. Ternes, 32 Wash. 528.

The statement or bill may be settled after ninety days, but must be filed within that time: See Dodds v. Gregson, 35 Wash. 402; Floding v. Denholm, 40 Wash. 463. See, also, Wollin v. Smith, 27 Wash. 399.

As to determining the facts at the settlement, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 177, § 306; Madigan v. West Coast etc. Ins. Co., 3 Wash. 454; Howard v. Ross, 3 Wash. 292; State ex rel. Quade v. Allyn, 2 Wash. 470; In re Rosner, 5 Wash. 488; Jones v. Jenkins, 3 Wash. 17; Doyle v. McLeod, 4 Wash. 732; U. S. Savings etc. Co. v. Jones, 9 Wash. 434. Upon a dispute in the settlement of statement of facts by a successor in office, the judge who tried the case can be subpoenaed and compelled to testify: Gunderson v. Cochrane, 3 Wash. 476; Watt v. O'Brien, 6 Wash. 415; Hallam v. Tillinghast, 19 Wash. 20.

As to power of lower court to correct statement after settlement, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 178, § 308; In re Hill's Heirs, 7 Wash. 421; Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537; Anderson v. Northern Pac. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 44; In re Holburte's Estate, 38 Wash. 199.

§ 390. (5059.) How Written Evidence Certified.

Depositions and other written evidence on file shall be appropriately referred to in the proposed bill or statement, and when it is certified the same or copies thereof, if the judge so direct, shall be attached to the bill or statement and shall thereupon become a part thereof. [L. '93, p. 115, § 10.]

See notes to § 388, supra.

Cited in 11 Wash. 78; 11 Wash. 602; 32 Wash. 532; 40 Wash. 582.

Exhibits and written evidence introduced upon the trial need not be attached to the statement of facts upon appeal until it is certified, if appropriate reference to the exhibits has been made in the copy of the statements served upon the respondents: Douthitt v. MacCulsky, 11 Wash. 601.

A statement of facts which refers to certain exhibits received in evidence as included in the record is insufficient, where such exhibits are not attached to the statement nor among the papers transmitted to the supreme court: State v. Directors, 14 Wash. 222.

Where it was stipulated upon the trial that certain evidence introduced in another action should be admitted as a part of the case and considered by the court, such evidence must be included in the statement of facts, and a failure to so include it will render the statement insufficient: Id.

In order that affidavits, claimed to have been used on the hearing below, may be considered a part of the record on appeal, there must be a certificate of some sort to show that they in fact were presented or read to the lower court: Clay v. Irrigation

Co., 14 Wash. 543; Winsor v. McLachlan, 12 Wash. 154.

In order that affidavits used on a motion for a new trial or on a motion for a continuance may be heard on appeal they must be made a part of the record by a proper bill of exceptions or statement of facts: State v. Howard, 15 Wash. 425.

§ 391. (5060.) Certificate, What to Contain—How Signed.

The judge shall certify that the matters and proceedings embodied in the bill or statement, as the case may be, are matters and proceedings occurring in the cause and that the same are thereby made a part of the record therein; and, when such is the fact, he shall further certify that the same contains all the material facts, matters and proceedings heretofore occurring in the cause and not already a part of the record therein, or (as the case may be) such thereof as the parties have agreed, to be all that are material therein. The certificate shall be signed by the judge, but need not be sealed; and thereupon all the matters and proceedings embodied in the bill of exceptions or statement of facts, as the case may be, shall become and thenceforth remain a part of the record in the cause, for all the purposes thereof and of any appeal therein. The judge may correct or supplement his certificate according to the fact, at any time before an appeal is heard. And if the judge refuse to settle or certify a bill of exceptions or statement of facts, or to correct or supplement his certificate thereto, in a proper case, he may be compelled so to do by a mandate issued out of the supreme court, either pending an appeal or prior thereto. [L. '93, p. 115, § 11.]

Where it appears that the testimony is without any certificate showing that it is all the testimony in the case, and was not served upon the respondents, it will be stricken from the record: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 182, § 317; Case v. Ham, 9 Wash. 54; Collins v. Seattle, 2 W. T. 354; Zenkner v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 3 W. T. 60; Kirby v. Collins, 6 Wash. 297; Taylor v. City Council of Tacoma, 15 Wash. 92; State ex rel. Miller v. Seattle, 45 Wash. 691.

A trial judge cannot be compelled to certify that the statement "contains what the parties have agreed and accepted to be all the material facts, matters and proceedings heretofore occurring in the cause, and not already a part of the record," when in fact only a part of the testimony has been incorporated therein: State v. Parker, 9 Wash. 653.

The appellate court will not disregard the certificate of the trial judge that the statement of facts and the attached exhibits contain all the material facts, matters, things and proceedings occurring at the trial, merely because the statement is in a narrative form: Murray v. Shoudy, 13 Wash. 33. See, also, Thompson v. Huron Lum. Co., 5 Wash. 527; Case v. Ham, 9 Wash. 54; Parker v. Esch, 5 Wash. 296.

As to what included in "all the material facts," see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 182, § 318; Jones v. Jenkins, 3 Wash. 17; Doyle v. McLeod, 4 Wash. 732; Thompson v. Huron Lum. Co., 5 Wash. 527; Bruce v. Foley, 18 Wash. 96; Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537; Kellog v. Bradley, 3 Wash. 429.

What is equivalent to certifying all the material facts: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 182, § 319; King County v. Hill, 1 Wash. 63; Miller v. Wash. Savings Bank, 5 Wash. 200; Schlaechter v. Miller, 4 Wash. 463; Demaris v. Barker, 33 Wash. 200; Clark-Harris Co. v. Douthitt, 4 Wash. 465; Small v. Geddis, 4 Wash. 518; State v. Carey, 4 Wash. 424; Holm v. Gilchrist, 7 Wash. 615; Kane v. Kane, 35 Wash. 517.

As to conclusiveness of certificate as to all the facts, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 183, §§ 320-322; State v. Dunn, 22 Wash. 67; Reilley v. Anderson, 33 Wash. 58; Holburte's Estate, In re, 38 Wash. 199; Swift v. Swift, 39 Wash. 600; State ex rel. Van Name v. Board of Directors, Dist. No. 3, 14 Wash. 222; Nickeus v. Lewis County, 23 Wash. 125.

As to agreed facts, see Nickens v. Lewis Co., 23 Wash. 125; Powell v. Nolan, 27 Wash. 318; State v. Maines, 26 Wash. 160.

As to effect of supplemental certificate: Christofferson v. Pfennig, 16 Wash. 491; Littlejohn v. Miller, 5 Wash. 399; Medcalf v. Bush, 4 Wash. 386.

An appeal will not be dismissed for insufficient certificate: See Cunningham v. Spokane Hydraulic M. Co., 20 Wash. 450; O'Neile v. Ternes, 32 Wash. 528. The judge alone can make the certificate, and a certificate from the clerk of the court cannot take its place: See Howard v. Ross, 3 Wash. 292; Chapin v. Bokee, 4 Wash. 1; State v. Brew, 4 Wash. 95; Demaris v. Barker, 33 Wash. 200.

Upon dispute between appellant and the lower court as to what should be incorporated in the statement or bill, the supreme court may order a reference to determine the matter: See Van Lehn v. Morse, 16 Wash. 219; Hallam v. Tillinghast, 19 Wash. 20.

Where the judge refuses to settle or certify a proper statement of facts, the supreme court will compel him to act by mandamus: Rosner, In re, 5 Wash. 488; Warburton v. Ralph, 9 Wash. 537; Scott v. Bourn, 13 Wash. 471; State v. Maines, 26 Wash. 160; State ex rel. Klein v. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 44; State ex rel. Richardson v. Superior Court, 41 Wash. 439; Holburte's Estate, In re, 38 Wash. 199.

The court will not be compelled by mandate to insert matters not considered or outside of issues: See Washington Liquor Co. v. Alladio Cafe Co., 28 Wash. 176; State ex rel. Dutch Miller Min. etc. Co. v. Superior Court, 30 Wash. 43. Nor to permit the withdrawal, correction, and re-filing of a statement after it is agreed to, although the time for filing and proposing a statement has not expired: State ex rel. Royal v. Linn, 35 Wash. 116.

§ 392. (5061.) How Certified upon Change or Death of Judge.

If the judge before whom the cause was pending or tried shall from any cause have ceased to be such judge he shall, notwithstanding, settle and certify, as the late judge, any bill of exceptions or statement of facts that it would be proper for him to settle and certify if he were still such judge, and such acts on his part shall have the same effect as if he were still in office; and he may be compelled by mandate so to do, as if still in office. If such judge shall die or remove from the state while in office or afterwards, within the time within which a bill of exceptions or statement of facts, in a cause that was pending or tried before him, might be settled and certified under the provisions of this chapter, and before having certified such bill or statement, such bill or statement may be settled by stipulation of the parties with the same effect as if duly settled and certified by such judge while still in office. But if the parties cannot agree, and if such judge, when removed from the state, does not attend within the state and settle and certify a bill of exceptions or statement of facts in case one has been duly proposed, his successor in office shall settle and certify such bill or statement in the manner in this chapter provided, and in so doing he shall be guided, so far as practicable, by the minutes taken by his predecessor in office, or by the stenographer, if one was in attendance on the court or judge, and may, in order to determine any disputed matter not sufficiently appearing upon such minutes, examine under oath the attorneys in the cause who were present at the trial or hearing, or any of them. [L. '93, p. 116, § 12.]

See note to § 389, supra.

Cited in 7 Wash. 364; 19 Wash. 21; 26 Wash. 164.

The judge before whom a case is begun and who disposes of the main issues in the case is the only one authorized to settle and certify a statement of facts, notwithstanding that during the trial the case was transferred to a judge sitting with a jury for the purpose of disposing of certain questions of fact: Hill v. Young, 7 Wash. 33.

The act of 1893 authorizing certain judges whose term of office had expired to settle and certify statements of fact, did not empower such judges to transfer the matter to their successors in office: Michigan Co. v. Saunders, 7 Wash. 302.

§ 393. (5062.) When to be Filed—Effect of Irregularity.

A proposed bill of exceptions or statement of facts must be filed and served either before or within thirty days after the time begins to run within which an appeal may be taken from the final judgment in the cause, or (as the case may be) from an order with a view to an appeal from which the bill or statement is proposed: Provided, that the time herein prescribed may be enlarged either before or after its expiration, once or more, but not for more than sixty days additional in all, by stipulation of the parties, or for good cause shown and on such terms as may be just, by an order of the court or judge wherein or before whom the cause is pending or was tried, made on notice to the adverse party. And the certifying of a bill of exceptions or statement of facts provided for by this chapter, and the filing and service of the proposed bill or statement, the notice of application for the settlement thereof, and all other steps and proceedings leading up to the making of the certificate, shall be deemed steps and proceedings in the cause itself, resting upon the jurisdiction originally acquired by the court in the cause, and no irregularity or failure to pursue the steps prescribed by this chapter on the part of any party, or the judge, shall affect the jurisdiction of the judge to settle or certify a proper bill of exceptions or statement of facts. [L. '93, p. 116, § 13.]

Cited in 8 Wash. 587; 9 Wash. 574; 21 Wash. 369; 25 Wash. 146; 26 Wash. 306; 27 Wash. 34; 30 Wash. 62; 31 Wash. 217; 38 Wash. 674; 32 Wash. 318; 32 Wash. 533; 33 Wash. 198; 35 Wash. 65; 35 Wash. 406; 51 Wash. 474.

Notice of settlement of the statement of facts given within thirty days after the filing of a judgment is sufficient, although the judgment bears an earlier date: McGlaughlin v. Merriam, 7 Wash. 111.

A statement of facts, which was received by the clerk on the thirtieth day after the rendition of the judgment, will not be stricken from the record when filed by the clerk as received on the day following its actual receipt: Bank v. Willey, 7 Wash. 535.

Where a statement of facts is not filed within thirty days after judgment, although handed to the bailiff of the court to be carried to the clerk within the required time, it will be stricken: McQuillan v. Seattle, 7 Wash. 331.

The service of a proposed statement of facts upon the only parties adverse to the appellant is sufficient, although there are other parties to the action who do not join in the appeal: Howard v. Shaw, 10 Wash. 151.

A statement of facts filed ninety-one days after final judgment will, upon motion, be stricken from the files: Loos v. Rondema, 10 Wash. 164.

The objection that the statement of facts was not filed within the time required by statute, being a jurisdictional question, may be raised for the first time in the appellate court: Id. See Thomas v. Lincoln County, 32 Wash. 317.

The time within which a statement of facts must be settled cannot be extended unless notice of the application is given to the adverse party, or a sufficient excuse for failing to give such notice is shown: McQuestion v. Morrill, 12 Wash. 335.

As to time of filing, and the extension thereof, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 170, §§ 287, 288. A statement of facts must be filed within thirty days under this section, and it will be stricken from the files if filed thereafter without any extension of time having been made: Zindorf Construction Co. v. Western American Co., 27 Wash. 31; Baker v. Washington Iron Works, 11 Wash. 335; Tatum v. Boyd, 11 Wash. 712; State v. Landes, 26 Wash. 325; Jones v. Herrick, 33 Wash. 197; State v. Yandell, 34 Wash. 409; Driscoll v. Dufur, 45 Wash. 494; State v. Aschenbrenner, 45 Wash. 125.

The supreme court will not review the discretion of the lower court in granting an extension of time within which to file a proposed statement of facts: State ex rel. Bickford v. Benson, 21 Wash. 365; Greely v. Newcomb, 21 Wash. 357; Fulton v. Methow Trading Co., 45 Wash. 136.

Time for filing may be extended by written stipulation but not beyond the ninety days: See Dodds v. Gregson, 35 Wash. 402; Thomas v. Lincoln County, 32 Wash. 317; Humes v. Hillman, 39 Wash. 107; Driscoll v. Dufur, 45 Wash. 494; Brown v. Kinney, 48 Wash. 448; Owen v. Casey, 48 Wash. 673; State v. Seaton, 26 Wash. 305; Crowley v. McDonough, 30 Wash. 57; Hotel Co. v. Merchants' Ice Co., 41 Wash. 620.

As to when time begins to run where motions are made for new trial or to vacate judgments irregularly entered, see State ex rel. Payson v. Chapman, 35 Wash. 64; Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535; State ex rel. Hennessy v. Huston, 32 Wash. 154; Hennessy v. Tacoma Smelt. & Ref. Co., 33 Wash. 423; Lamona v. Cowley, 31 Wash. 297.

As to effect of striking out statement or bill, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 183, § 334, and cases cited.

§ 394. (5063.) Return of Bill—Extension of Time for Brief.

The copy of a proposed bill or statement which is served as in this chapter prescribed, shall be returned to the party serving the same upon the bill or statement being certified, if he has appealed to the supreme court, or upon his thereafter appealing, for his use in preparing his brief on the appeal, and the time limited by any law or rule of court for the service and filing of his brief shall be enlarged by any delay in returning such copy as herein required to the extent of such delay; and when he serves his brief he shall return such copy to the party on whom it was originally served, and his brief shall not be deemed served till such copy is so returned by him. [L. '93, p. 117, § 14.]

Cited in 31 Wash. 218.

§ 395. (5064.) What shall be Part of Record.

All reports of referees or commissioners, with the testimony and other evidence returned into court therewith, all findings of fact and conclusions of law made in writing by a judge, referee or commissioner and signed by him, all charges to a jury made wholly in writing, all instructions requested in writing to be given as part of a charge, all verdicts, general or special, and all rulings and decisions embodied in a written judgment, order or journal entry in the cause, together with all exceptions, if any, taken to any thereof, as well as all papers and matters hitherto deemed a part of the record, shall be deemed and are hereby declared to become, upon being filed in the cause, or, as the case may be, embodied in a journal entry, a part of the record in the cause, for all the purposes thereof and of any appeal therein; and it shall not be necessary or proper, for any purpose, to embody the same in any bill of exceptions or statement of facts. [L. '93, p. 117, § 15.]

See notes to §§ 388, 389, supra.

Cited in 12 Wash. 324; 14 Wash. 545; 33 Wash. 212; 48 Wash. 299.

A stenographer's longhand notes of testimony taken before a referee in an action at law, and attached to and made a part of the referee's report, is sufficient on appeal, without the filing of a statement of facts: Bash v. Mining Co., 7 Wash. 122.

Testimony taken before commissioners and not returned with their report must be included in the statement of facts: State ex rel. Richardson v. Superior Court, 41 Wash. 439.

§ 396. (5065.) How Certified When Cases Consolidated.

When two or more causes shall have been consolidated it shall not be necessary, for any purposes of an appeal which concerns only one or more, and not all of the original causes, to embody in a bill of exceptions or statement of facts any fact, matter or proceeding that relates solely to an original cause with which the appeal is not concerned; and the bill or statement shall be certified as in this act prescribed, notwithstanding the omission therefrom of such facts, matters and proceedings. [L. '93, p. 118, § 16.]

The fact that an appeal involves two separate causes which had been consolidated will not warrant the supreme court in entertaining jurisdiction of the appeal from a single decree entered therein, when some of the defendants have not been served with notice of appeal, although there may have been a proper service upon all the defendants in one of the causes as originally instituted: Cornell v. Hotel Co., 15 Wash. 433.

§ 397. (5066.) Construction of Chapter.

This chapter shall apply to and govern all civil actions and proceedings, both legal and equitable, and all criminal causes, in the superior courts, but shall not apply to courts of justices of the peace or other inferior courts or tribunals from which an appeal does not lie directly to the supreme court. This chapter shall govern proceedings had after it shall take effect, in actions then pending as well as those in actions thereafter begun; but it shall not affect any right acquired or proceeding had prior to the time when it shall take effect, nor restore any right or enlarge any time then already lost or expired. And except as above provided all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed. [L. '93, p. 118, §§ 17, 18.]

Cited in 8 Wash. 586; 9 Wash. 575.

Where the law governing appeals is changed, the settlement of a statement of facts on a pending appeal must be governed by the provisions of the new law, although judgment had been rendered and notice of appeal given prior to its taking effect: Wintermute v. Carner, 8 Wash. 585.

CHAPTER VIII.

NEW TRIALS.

§ 398. (5070.) New Trial, Defined.

A new trial is a re-examination of an issue [of fact] in the same court after a trial and decision by a jury, court, or referees. [L. '54, p. 170, § 215; Cd. '81, § 275; 2 H. C., § 399.]

Cited in 12 Wash. 2; 17 Wash. 602; 26 Wash. 329; 28 Wash. 624; 35 Wash. 66.

§ 399. (5071.*) When New Trial may be Granted.

The former verdict or other decision may be vacated and a new trial granted, on the motion of the party aggrieved, for any of the following causes materially affecting the substantial rights of such party:

1. Irregularity in the proceedings of the court, jury or adverse party, or any order of the court, or abuse of discretion, by which such party was prevented from having a fair trial;

2. Misconduct of prevailing party or jury; and whenever any one or more of the jurors shall have been induced to assent to any general or special verdict to a finding on any question or questions submitted to the jury by the court, other and different from his own conclusions, and arrived at by a resort to the determination of chance or lot, such misconduct may be proved by the affidavits of one or more of the jurors;

3. Accident or surprise which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against;

4. Newly discovered evidence, material for the party making the application, which he could not with reasonable diligence have discovered and produced at the trial;

5. Excessive or inadequate damages appearing to have been given under the influence of passion or prejudice;

6. Error in the assessment of the amount of recovery, whether too large or too small, when the action is upon a contract, or for the injury or detention of property;

7. Insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict or the decision, or that it is against law;

8. Error in law occurring at the trial and excepted to at the time by the party making the application. [L. '09, p. 53, §1. Cf. L. '54, p. 170, § 216; L. '69, p. 67, § 278; Cd. '81, § 276, 2 H. C., § 400.]

See supra, §§ 339, 360, and notes.

See notes to §§ 387-390, supra.

See supra, § 362 et seq., verdict.

See supra, § 367, findings, etc., in trial by court.

See infra, § 2181 et seq. and notes, new trial and arrest of judgment in criminal cases.

See infra, § 465, new trial for reasons occurring after verdict, etc.

See infra, § 1716, subd. 6, authorizing appeals from an order granting a new trial.

Cited in 3 Wash. 21; 8 Wash. 185; 9 Wash. 53; 11 Wash. 34; 12 Wash. 2; 12 Wash. 617; 15 Wash. 440; 18 Wash. 347; 19 Wash. 280; 22 Wash. 682; 26 Wash. 329; 28 Wash. 624; 34 Wash. 335; 35 Wash. 67; 42 Wash. 8; 42 Wash. 481.

A motion for a new trial is not necessary, except to call the attention of the court to and obtain a ruling upon matters not previously presented, and which there had been no opportunity to present at the trial: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 123, § 153; Jones v. Jenkins, 3 Wash. 558; Burns v. Commencement Bay L. I. Co., 4 Wash. 558; Sultan W. & P. Co. v. Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., 31 Wash. 558.

The making of a motion below for a new trial upon the statutory grounds does not save an objection going to the form of the action, in that the testimony shows a variance or a failure of proof, where no objection was made to the admission of the evidence, nor any motion for nonsuit on account of failure of proof, nor any request for an instruction to find for the appellant for such reason: Sweeney v. Pacific Coast Elevator Co., 14 Wash. 562.

The granting of a new trial on statutory grounds is discretionary: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2146, § 3; State v. Buhmann, 16 Wash. 700; State v. Symes, 17 Wash. 596; McBroom & Wilson Co. v. Gandy, 18 Wash. 79; Holgate v. Parker, 18 Wash. 206; Langston v. Ephriam, 21 Wash. 282; Callihan v. Washington Water P. Co., 27 Wash. 154; Dunkle v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co., 20 Wash. 254; Gardner v. Lovegren, 27 Wash. 356; Gray v. Washington Water etc. Co., 27 Wash. 713; Kohler v. Fairhaven & N. W. R. Co., 8 Wash. 452; Doyle v. Great Northern R. Co., 43 Wash. 558; Sharp v. Greene, 22 Wash. 677.

The granting or refusal of a new trial is matter within the discretion of the trial court: Smith v. United States, 1 W. T. 262; Rinehart v. Watson, 11 Wash. 526; Rotting v. Cleman, 12 Wash. 615.

The refusal of the trial court to set aside the verdict and grant a new trial is an exercise of discretion, not reviewable by the appellate court, unless the discretion has been abused, or there is a great preponderance of the evidence against the verdict: Page v. Rodney, 2 W. T. 461; affirming Gove v. Moses, 1 W. T. 7; Corbitt v. Harrington, 14 Wash. 197; Rinehart v. Watson, supra.

Granting new trial cannot be considered an abuse of discretion, where there is a substantial conflict in the testimony: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2150, § 23. See, also,

1 Remington's Digest, p. 219, § 406; Bender v. Rinker, 21 Wash. 636; Trumbull v. School District No. 7, 22 Wash. 631; O'Rourke v. Jones, 22 Wash. 629; Friedman v. Manley, 21 Wash. 43; Sharp v. Greene, 22 Wash. 677; Tacoma v. Tacoma Light & W. Co., 16 Wash. 288. But see, Id., 17 Wash. 458; Clark v. Great Northern R. Co., 37 Wash. 437; Latimer v. Black, 24 Wash. 231.

Courts are reluctant to set aside verdicts of juries, even where they have themselves heard the testimony, and they should be more reluctant to disturb the verdict when as an appellate court they have not heard the testimony, hence the appellate court will not set aside the verdict unless there is no evidence to sustain it: Williams v. Miller, 1 W. T. 88, 91.

The court may extend the time in which to file a motion for a new trial after the time fixed by statute has expired; and this may be done so as to validate a motion ineffectual because not filed in time: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 2155, § 44; Bailey v. Drake, 12 Wash. 99; Leavenworth v. Billings, 26 Wash. 1; Bullock v. White Star Steamship Co., 30 Wash. 448; Kreielsheimer v. Nelson, 31 Wash. 406.

Renewal of motion for: See Burnham v. Spokane Mercantile Co., 18 Wash. 207, 51 Pac. 363.

As to when verdict should be set aside, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 222, § 412.

An erroneous ruling that works no prejudice to a party is not cause for a new trial: Newberg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182; but a verdict manifestly against the evidence and contrary to law should be set aside: King Co. v. Collins, 1 W. T. 469.

A new trial may be awarded though the verdict be supported by some evidence, when it appears that it is insufficient to support the verdict: Pederson v. Seattle etc. St. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 202; Welever v. Advance Shingle Co., 34 Wash. 331.

As to when verdict should not be set aside, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 223, § 412, and cases cited.

If there is sufficient legal testimony to support the verdict of a jury, although the testimony may be conflicting, the verdict should not be disturbed: Puget Sound etc. Ry. Co. v. Ingersoll, 4 Wash. 675; Brasen v. S. L. etc. Ry. Co., 4 Wash. 754; Dillon v. Folsom, 5 Wash. 439; Booth v. Columbia etc. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 531; Burden v. Cropp, 7 Wash. 198; Noyes v. Pugin, 2 Wash. 653; Lybarger v. State, 2 Wash. 553; Graves v. Griffith R. etc. Co., 3 Wash. 742; Rotting v. Cleman, 12 Wash. 615.

The verdict of a jury will not be disturbed where there is sufficient evidence to establish all the facts necessary to sustain the issue made by the successful party, although the court may be of the opinion that the evidence on the other side is of greater weight: Burden v. Cropp, 7 Wash. 198; Dougan v. Abbott, 7 Wash. 370; Harper v. Sinclair, 7 Wash. 373, 376.

If the jury disregard the law as given by the court, it is the court's duty to instantly set aside the verdict: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Hess, 2 Wash. 383, 393.

A verdict which, under the pleadings, is either a mistake or a compromise, should not be received, but the jury should be directed to find the full sum or nothing: Frost v. Ainslie L. Co., 3 Wash. 241.

As to review of the granting of new trial or rehearing, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 219, § 406, and cases cited.

The action of the lower court in granting a new trial will not be reversed on appeal, if there is any theory upon which such action can be sustained: Trumbull v. Jackman, 9 Wash. 524; Tilden v. Gordon & Co., 25 Wash. 593; Anderson v. McDonald, 31 Wash. 274; Bracka v. Fish, 28 Wash. 410; McBroom & Wilson Co. v. Gandy, 18 Wash. 79.

Where the verdict has been rendered against defendants jointly and the evidence shows a separate and not a joint employment, the granting of a new trial is not an abuse of discretion: Id.

Assuming that the trial judge should not have undertaken to tell the jury upon what state of facts defendants would be deemed negligent, yet, having done so, and having drawn a correct conclusion from the facts stated, a new trial will not be granted on that ground, for the reason that no injury could result therefrom: Carroll v. Centralia W. Co., 5 Wash. 613.

PRACTICE.—A motion for a new trial need only present such grounds as arise or are ascertained subsequent to the trial, which the party had no opportunity to or could not raise during the trial: Jones v. Jenkins, 3 Wash. 17, 22.

Where the record shows that the motion for a new trial was made on several grounds, but does not show upon which of them the ruling of the court was based, the order will not be reversed if it was within the sound discretion of the court to make it upon any of the grounds stated: Rotting v. Cleman, 12 Wash. 615.

The allegations of the grounds of a motion for a new trial in the language of the statute is sufficient under this section: Id., 21.

Under former statutes, held, that a motion for a new trial, not specifically stating the grounds relied on save in the statutory language, was properly denied: Dawson v. Baum, 3 W. T. 464; Bradshaw v. Territory, 3 W. T. 265.

The granting of a motion for a new trial, in which over fifty distinct assignments of error are alleged, without specifying the grounds upon which the order is based, cannot be urged as res adjudicata upon any of the grounds assigned: State v. Largent, 9 Wash. 691.

Where there was no motion for a new trial on the ground of insufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict, the question cannot be raised on appeal from an order denying defendant's motion for judgment upon special issues submitted to the jury: Tingley v. Fairhaven L. Co., 9 Wash. 34.

A new trial may be granted as to defendants who answer, and denied as to a defaulting defendant, although the motion is made on behalf of all: Ex parte Lowman etc. Co., 2 Wash. 427; State ex rel. Holgate v. Superior Court, 19 Wash. 114.

EXCESSIVE VERDICT.—As to what considered excessive damages, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 881, §§ 79-94. Where a verdict is larger than is warranted by the evidence it is excessive, and it is error to deny a motion for a new trial: Brotton v. Langert, 1 Wash. 227; Wait v. Robertson Mortgage Co., 37 Wash. 282; Prosch v. Seattle, 46 Wash. 553.

A verdict of $15,000 for injuries to a child of nine years of age, necessitating the amputation of one of his legs, is not excessive: Roth v. Union Depot Co., 13 Wash. 525.

A verdict for $1,000 is not excessive in an action for damages as result of a collision in which plaintiff was injured and bruised, her wagon destroyed, and contents seriously damaged and horses injured: Spurrier v. Front St. etc. Ry Co., 3 Wash. 659.

Verdict for $15,000 in action for personal injuries held not excessive in Sears v. Seattle etc. St. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 227.

A verdict for $13,625 is not excessive for injuries received through the negligence of defendant when it appears that the plaintiff was a healthy man prior to the injury; that as a result of the accident he received a scalp wound, an injury to the small of the back, and probably a resultant injury to the kidneys; that the lower extremities are partially paralyzed, and that he cannot walk without crutches; that he suffers much pain, sleeps but little, and will never be able to do work as a turner and millwright, or any other kind of labor, and will probably not live longer than a year: Sutton v. Snohomish, 11 Wash. 24.

If the trial court finds that a portion of the damages assessed by the jury is excessive, it is not required to grant a new trial, but may properly direct a remission of the excessive portion of the verdict: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 898, § 133; McDonough v. Gt. No. Ry. Co., 15 Wash. 244; Winter v. Shoudy, 9 Wash. 52; Kohler v. Fairhaven etc. Ry. Co., 8 Wash.

452; Rigney v. Tacoma L. & W. Co., 9 Wash. 245; Bailey v. Cascade Timber Co., 35 Wash. 295; Hughes v. Dexter Horton Co., 26 Wash. 110; Waite v. Robertson Mtg. Co., 37 Wash. 282; McOwen v. Seattle El. Co., 48 Wash. 362.

Verdict for $7,000 in action for personal injuries reduced to $5,000 in Cogswell v. West St. etc. Elec. St. Ry. Co., 5 Wash. 47.

A verdict of $30,000 for injuries inflicted upon a child of tender years through defendant's negligence in the operation of its cable car is excessive, and should be reduced to $12,000, though the injuries were severe and the results to the plaintiff very serious: Mitchell v. Tacoma Ry. & Motor Co., 13 Wash. 560.

Where a party refuses to comply with the order of the court requiring a remission of a portion of the verdict as a condition for granting a new trial, the order will not be reversed unless the trial court clearly abused its discretion: Kohler v. Fairhaven etc. Ry. Co., 8 Wash. 452; Rigney v. Tacoma L. & W. Co., 9 Wash. 247.

A verdict for $750 for slander by the utterance in a public street in the presence of numerous persons of words questioning the chastity of a woman is not excessive: Childs v. Childs, 49 Wash. 27.

NEW TRIAL FOR ERRORS AND IRREGULARITIES.—For failure of justice, see Brennan v. Seattle, 39 Wash. 640. Error of court in giving judgment on account of variance instead of allowing amendments: See Ernst v. Fox, 26 Wash. 526.

It is not a valid reason for a new trial that the judge was a nonresident of the city and unacquainted with real estate values, or that he was personally acquainted with some of the witnesses: Sharp v. Greene, 22 Wash. 677.

Errors occurring at trial and not excepted to are not grounds for new trial: State v. Owens, 15 Wash. 468.

As to grounds for new trial in general, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2147-2151, §§ 6-33; Mitchell v. Matheson, 23 Wash. 723; Tacoma v. Tacoma Light & Water Co., 16 Wash. 288; Clark v. Great Northern R. Co., 37 Wash. 537; Sharp v. Greene, 22 Wash. 677; Wallerich v. Puget Sound Warehouse Co., 38 Wash. 501.

NEWLY DISCOVERED EVIDENCE: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2152-2154, §§ 34-40. Where newly discovered evidence would tend to produce a different verdict than the one rendered, it is error to refuse a new trial: Lafond v. Smith, 8 Wash. 26. See, also, Binns v. Emery, 45 Wash. 215.

A new trial should not be granted for newly discovered evidence unless the court is satisfied that the legitimate effect of such evidence would be to change the verdict rendered; mere cumulative or corroborative evidence is not sufficient. What the newly discovered evidence is must be made clearly to appear: McKilver v. Manchester, 1 W. T. 255; Leschi v. Territory, 1 W. T. 13; Tolmie v. Dean, 1 W. T. 46.

A new trial will not be granted on the ground of newly discovered evidence in order that a witness may elaborate his testimony on matters which would contradict his previous testimony: State v. Nordstrom, 7 Wash. 506.

Where it appears that evidence assigned as newly discovered is material and could not have been previously discovered with diligence, it is an abuse of discretion to refuse a new trial: State v. Stover, 3 Wash. 206; State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 462; State v. Webb, 20 Wash. 500.

The denial of a motion for a new trial based upon newly discovered evidence is not erroneous, when neither the materiality of the evidence nor the exercise of due diligence in attempting to secure it are reasonably made to appear from the affidavit supporting the motion: Wilson v. Waldron, 12 Wash. 149.

As to diligence in procuring evidence, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2152, § 35; Reeder v. Traders' Nat. Bank, 28 Wash. 139; Bullock v. White Star Steamship Co., 30 Wash. 448; Booth v. Columbia etc. R. Co., 6 Wash. 531; Jordan v. Seattle, 30 Wash. 298; Colins v. Bacon, 38 Wash. 80; Brennan v. Seattle, 39 Wash. 640; Dumontier v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 39 Wash. 264; State v. Vance, 29 Wash. 438.

A new trial for newly discovered evidence is properly denied where no diligence was shown: Goodrich v. Kimble, 49 Wash. 516.

Discretion is involved in the granting of a new trial for newly discovered evidence where the evidence was conflicting or insufficient, and the same will not be disturbed on appeal where no abuse of discretion appears: Cummings v. Sunich, 44 Wash. 665.

It is discretionary to deny a new trial on the ground that the stenographer had lost his notes, the appellant offering to pay all costs in order to get a correct record: Moylan v. Moylan, 49 Wash. 341.

When evidence is merely cumulative: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2153, § 37; Wiseman v. Eastman, 21 Wash. 163; Benson v. Hamilton, 34 Wash. 201; O'Toole v. Faulkner, 34 Wash. 371; State v. Underwood, 35 Wash. 558; Thayer v. Spokane County, 36 Wash. 63; Shannon v. Tacoma, 41 Wash. 220; Brennan v. Seattle, 39 Wash. 640.

New trial should not ordinarily be granted to impeach or attack credibility of witnesses: See Seattle Lum. Co. v. Sweeney, 43 Wash. 1; Harvey v. Ivory, 35 Wash. 397.

As to sufficiency and probable effect of newly discovered evidence in causing different result, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2154, § 40; Tyler v. North Amer. Trad.

etc. Co., 24 Wash. 252; Pierson v. Pierce, 42 Wash. 164.

A new trial for newly discovered evidence as to the location of a lost corner is properly denied where such evidence is vague and indefinite: Strunz v. Hood, 44 Wash. 99.

SURPRISE: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 2150, 2151, §§ 26-33. Surprise cannot exist as ground for a new trial when the pleadings put the parties on notice of the matters claimed as a surprise: Booth v. Columbia etc. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 531.

In an action for goods sold and delivered to which the defendant had filed a general denial, plaintiff is not entitled to a new trial on the ground of surprise, because of the testimony of the defendant denying that he had ever ordered or received the goods: Wilson v. Waldron, 12 Wash. 149. See, also, Friedman v. Manley, 21 Wash. 43; Czarecki v. Seattle & S. F. R. & N. Co., 30 Wash. 288. As to power and duty of court in general, see State v. John Port Townsend, 7 Wash. 462; La Fond v. Smith, 8 Wash. 26; Allen v. Chambers, 18 Wash. 341; Pincus v. Puget Sound Brew. Co., 18 Wash. 108; Friedman v. Manley, 21 Wash. 43.

When witness not subpoenaed, his absence will not be held surprise: Clemans v. Western, 39 Wash. 290; Woods v. Globe Nav. Co., 40 Wash. 376.

Surprise by the overruling of a decision of the supreme court entitles party to a new trial: Hull v. Vining, 17 Wash. 352; Allen v. Chambers, 18 Wash. 341.

Payment of costs may be imposed as condition for granting new trial for inadvertence or surprise: See O'Toole v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 39 Wash. 688; Seaton v. Cook, 45 Wash. 27.

But not where court erroneously construed the pleadings: See Casey v. Maldore, 19 Wash. 279.

MISCONDUCT OF COUNSEL, JURY, OR JUDGE: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2147, 2148, §§ 11-17. Counsel may be permitted to draw their own inferences or conclusions from the particular facts in evidence, and illogical or incorrect inferences in argument do not constitute grounds for a new trial: Sears v. Seattle C. St. Ry. Co., 6 Wash. 227, 233.

Certain acts of the presiding judge during the trial held misconduct and entitling defendant in a criminal case to a new trial: State v. Coella, 3 Wash. 99. See State v. Coella, 8 Wash. 513.

A new trial should be granted when it is shown that the successful litigant and one jurymen during the trial had been walking the streets and conversing together and were also playing cards and drinking together in a saloon: Vollrath v. Crowe, 9 Wash. 374. See, also, Shannon v. Tacoma, 41 Wash. 220; Hedican v. Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 21 Wash. 488; Buchanan v. Laber, 39 Wash. 410.

When a jury has determined upon a verdict in favor of a plaintiff in an action for the recovery of damages, there is no impropriety in the jury's resorting to lot to find the average sense of the jury upon the amount of the verdict to be returned, when there is no agreement to be bound thereby and the minds of the jurors are free to deliberate and act upon the result, using the same as a basis of discussion in arriving at the amount of the recovery they should award: Watson v. Reed, 15 Wash. 440. See, also, Rice Fisheries Co. v. Pacific Realty Co., 35 Wash. 535; Conover v. Nehrer-Ross Co., 38 Wash. 172.

A verdict arrived at by chance is such misconduct as requires a new trial: Goodman v. Cody, 1 W. T. 329, 34 Am. Rep. 815, 816, and extended note. As to further misconduct of jury, see Schultz v. Simmons Fur Co., 46 Wash. 555; Brennan v. Seattle, 46 Wash. 427.

Neither perjury nor failure to suggest evidence is ordinarily sufficient grounds for a new trial: McDougall v. Walling, 21 Wash. 478; Friedman v. Manley, 21 Wash. 675.

It is not misconduct on the part of the plaintiff, in a personal injury case, which would warrant a new trial, that, during an extended argument to the jury on behalf of the defendant, plaintiff, who was very nervous as a result of her injuries, burst into a crying spell, and was taken out of court in view of the jury: Connell v. Seattle, Renton & Southern R. Co., 47 Wash. 510.

It is misconduct of the prevailing party requiring a new trial, for his counsel, in argument to the jury, to repeat a prejudicial comment on the evidence made by the judge when the jury was not present, counsel stating that the same was "said here by one who knows more about these things than I do," since the inference would carry to the jury that the judge had made such unlawful comment: Spencer v. Arlington, 49 Wash. 121.

A new trial is properly granted for permitting, over objection, adverse comment to the jury by counsel on the fact that the plaintiff in a personal injury case had refused to consent to the examination of his physician as to facts learned in a professional capacity: Kiehlhoefer v. Washington Water Power Co., 49 Wash. 646.

IN EQUITY.—In an equity cause a motion for a new trial is unnecessary; hence the failure to file a motion for a new trial in such case within the time provided by law cannot defeat an appeal: Littlejohn v. Miller, 5 Wash. 399, 402; Sadler v. Niesz, 5 Wash. 182.

A statement of facts need not be prepared for use on the hearing of a motion for a new trial: Id.

ON APPEAL.—Held, under former statutes, that the granting or refusing a new trial is not a final decision and no appeal lies therefrom: McCormick v. Walla Walla etc. Ry. Co., 1 W. T. 512.

An appeal may be taken without making any motion for a new trial in an equity cause: Littlejohn v. Miller, supra.

Under § 450, Code of 1881, the appellate court may review and reverse any judgment of the lower court, although no motion for a new trial be made: Johnson v. Maxwell, 2 Wash. 482; see Morgan v. Bell, 3 Wash. 558.

A motion for a new trial is not necessary in order to give validity to an appeal, where no opportunity is given to attack the findings: Kennedy v. Derrickson, 5 Wash. 289.

As to necessity of motion for new trial in general, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 123, §§ 153-163.

The premature entry of a judgment upon the verdict of a jury before notice of a new trial could be interposed is not ground for vacating the judgment, when the motion for a new trial has, nevertheless, been given a full hearing and decided on its merits: National Bank v. Weymouth, 11 Wash. 412.

Where the matters alleged as error were involved in the disposition of the case, and were fully presented to the court below, a motion for a new trial is unnecessary: Tullis v. Shannon, 3 Wash. 716.

Under the appeal act of March 22, 1889, it is sufficient, without making a formal assignment of errors, to specify the errors in appellant's motion for a new trial, and cite them in its brief: Watson v. Grays Harbor B. Co., 3 Wash. 283.

Where the transcript fails to show a bill of exceptions, and also that a motion for a new trial was made below, the writ of error will be dismissed: Clark Co. v. Commissioners, 1 W. T. 250.

If plaintiff, instead of going to trial, moves for and obtains a judgment on the pleadings, he cannot afterward complain of the judgment, though it be for a nominal sum: Hadlam v. Ott, 2 W. T. 165.

Certiorari will not lie to review the action of the lower court in granting a new trial: State v. Superior Court, 6 Wash. 201.

Failure to enter judgment until several days after a motion for a new trial is overruled constitutes no ground for error: Voorhies v. Hennessy, 7 Wash. 243.

§ 400. (5072.) Specification of Grounds for New Trial.

In no case of motion for a new trial hereafter made in the courts of this state shall it be necessary to specify the grounds thereof, otherwise than in the language of the last preceding section, specifying the grounds upon which a motion for a new trial may be made. [L. '88, p. 30, § 1; 2 H. C., § 401.]

See notes to last section.

See infra, § 401, when affidavit may be used.

Cited in 3 Wash. 21.

In granting a new trial, asked on several grounds, it is discretionary to make a general order without stating specific reasons therefor, and not error to refuse a request to state the specific grounds: Best v. Seattle, 50 Wash. 533.

As to specification of errors, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2155, § 46.

§ 401. (5074.) When Affidavits may be Used.

The motion for a new trial shall state the grounds or causes for which a new trial is asked, and if made for any of the causes mentioned in the first, second, third, or fourth subdivision of section 399, the facts upon which it is based may be shown by affidavit. [Cd. '81, § 278; 2 H. C., § 403.]

See supra, § 400, specification of grounds.

See supra, § 399, and notes, grounds for new trial.

See infra, § 403, what affidavits must show.

Cited in 2 Wash. 562.

A motion for a new trial because of the insufficiency of the evidence, or that the verdict is contrary to law, must be made upon the written statement required by this section: Jones v. Wiley, 1 W. T. 603.

The misconduct of the jury in separating without authority must be shown by affidavit: Lyberger v. State, 2 Wash. 552.

Affidavits in support of a motion for a new trial under Laws of 1886 are a part of the record on appeal without a statement of facts or bill of exceptions being settled: Anderson v. State, 2 Wash. 183.

As to what may be shown by affidavits, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2155, §§ 49-51; Marvin v. Yates, 26 Wash. 50; Pincus v. Puget Sound Brew. Co., 18 Wash. 108; Reeder v. Traders' Nat. Bank, 28 Wash. 139; O'Toole v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 39 Wash. 688; Wilson v. Waldron, 12 Wash. 149; Brennan v. Seattle, 39 Wash. 640; Dumontier v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 39 Wash. 264.

§ 402. (5075.) Notice and Motion, Practice.

The party moving for a new trial must, within two days after the verdict of a jury, if the action was tried by a jury, or two days after notice in writing of the decision of the court or referee, if the action was tried without a jury, file with the clerk, and serve upon the adverse party, his motion for a new trial, designating the grounds upon which it will be made. If the motion is made upon affidavits, the moving party must, within two days after serving the motion, or such further time as the court in which the action is pending, or the judge thereof may allow, file such affidavits with the clerk, and serve a copy thereof upon the adverse party, who shall have two days to file counter affidavits, or such further time as the court may allow, a copy of which must be served upon the moving party. [Cf. L. '69, p. 68, § 282; Cd. '81, §§ 279, 280; L. '91, p. 102, § 1; 2 H. C., § 404; L. '97, p. 13, § 1.]

See infra, § 431, time of entering judgment.

See notes to § 399, supra.

Cited in 11 Wash. 413; 17 Wash. 126; 26 Wash. 3; 35 Wash. 67; 40 Wash. 39.

Under § 250, supra, authorizing courts to enlarge or extend the time within which by statute any act is to be done or proceeding taken after the time therefor has expired, a court may extend the time in which to file a motion for a new trial after the expiration of the time fixed by statute: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2154, § 44; Bailey v. Drake, 12 Wash. 99; Bullock v. White Star S. S. Co., 30 Wash. 448; Kreilheimer v. Nelson, 31 Wash. 406.

Under such circumstances, there is no prejudicial error in the court's entering an order extending the time for filing a motion for a new trial, although the order by its terms is to take effect as of a prior date and thus validate a motion for a new trial which was ineffectual by reason of its not having been filed in time: Bailey v. Drake, 12 Wash. 99. A successor in office of judge may grant a new trial in a case heard before his predecessor: Rank v. Scholl, 19 Wash. 30; Nelson v. Seattle Traction Co., 25 Wash. 602. Successive motions for new trial on the same grounds cannot be considered by trial judge or his successor: See Coyle v. Seattle Electric Co., 31 Wash. 181; Burnham v. Spokane Mer.

Co., 18 Wash. 207. The practice upon entering judgment and the right to move for a new trial is the same in equity as in cases tried before a jury: State ex rel. Payson v. Chapman, 35 Wash. 64.

The statute requiring a judgment to be entered immediately upon return of the verdict does not change the rule, under the former statute, whereby the court had power to extend the time for moving for a new trial after the time therefor had expired: McAllister v. Seattle Brewing & Malting Co., 44 Wash. 179.

As to time for application, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2154, § 43; McBroom & Wilson Co. v. Gandy, 18 Wash. 79; Turner v. Bailey, 12 Wash. 634; Boarman v. Hinckley, 17 Wash. 126; Kubillus v. Ewert, 40 Wash. 38.

Notice of a motion for a new trial is a sufficient notice of intention to apply therefor: Boarman v. Hinckley, 17 Wash. 126.

The party filing a motion for a new trial is not entitled to notice of the time of hearing the motion: Burnham v. Spokane Mercantile Co., 18 Wash. 207.

Order for judgment instead of new trial: See Griffith v. Maxwell, 19 Wash. 614; Buffalo Pitts Co. v. Dearing, 37 Wash. 591.

§ 403. (5076.) What Affidavits for Motion must Show.

If the motion be supported by affidavits, and the cause be newly discovered evidence, the affidavits of any witness or witnesses, showing what their testimony will be, shall be produced, or good reasons shown for their non-production. [L. '54, p. 170, § 219; L. '69, p. 68, § 284; Cd. '81, § 282; L. '91, p. 103, § 2; 2 H. C., § 405.]

See supra, § 401, when affidavits may be used.

CHAPTER IX.

JUDGMENTS IN GENERAL.

§ 404. (5080.) Judgment, Defined.

A judgment is the final determination of the rights of the parties in the action. [L. '54, p. 171, § 220; Cd. '81, § 283; 2 H. C., § 406.]

See supra, § 278, judgment on pleadings for want of reply.

See infra, § 408, judgment of nonsuit.

See infra, § 411, judgment by default.

See infra, § 413, judgment by confession.

Cited in 25 Wash. 656; 31 Wash. 186.

Judgments generally: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1573-1642.

JUDGMENT — VALIDITY AND EFFECT OF.—A judgment which goes beyond the issues and attempts to settle questions not submitted for a judicial determination, is unwarranted: American etc. Assn. v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 11 Wash. 619. The fact that the trial was not confined to the issues, and that findings were made outside thereof, does not require a reversal, where other findings within the issues support the judgment: State ex rel. Weidert v. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 81.

A person may be bound by a decree, though not a technical party to the action, if he be interested in the subject matter of the action and exercise the right of participating in the defense thereto: Douthitt v. MacCulsky, 11 Wash. 601; Shoemaker v. Finlayson, 22 Wash. 12.

An item of special damage, which, though recoverable, was not alleged in the complaint, cannot be included in the judgment: Levy v. Sheehan, 1 Wash. 149.

A judgment against an insane surety upon a forthcoming bond in attachment proceedings is not void, if the surety was not insane at the time the bond was given: Pollock v. Horn, 13 Wash. 626.

Questions as to irregularities in the proceedings in which a judgment is rendered against an insane person cannot be raised in a collateral attack: Id.; Park v. Mighell, 3 Wash. 737; Belers v. Miller, 10 Wash. 259.

The fact that the insanity of a judgment debtor had been established prior to the rendition of judgment against him would not exempt his property from the operation of an execution flowing from a legal judgment, which had not been fraudulently or wrongfully obtained: Pollock v. Horn, supra.

A decision of the supreme court establishing property rights between parties will be held conclusive when collaterally attacked in a subsequent action: Morrow v. Moran, 5 Wash. 692.

Although the pleadings may not entitle defendants to affirmative relief, a decree determining their rights between each other is voidable, and not void, where the court had jurisdiction of the persons and subject matter: Jones v. Sander, 2 Wash. 329.

Where an attack is made upon a judgment in a collateral action, when it appears that the court had jurisdiction of the person and of the subject matter in the original action, it must be presumed, until rebutted, that the court continued to act within its jurisdiction throughout the case; and, although the pleadings as filed would not support the judgment rendered, the presumption is that the court may have considered the pleadings amended to correspond with the proof offered and have entered judgment in pursuance of such amendment: Baldwin v. Baer, 10 Wash. 414.

As to presumption in favor of validity of judgment, when attacked collaterally, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1610, §§ 143-150; Christofferson v. Pfennig, 16 Wash. 491; Case Threshing Machine Co. v. Sires, 21 Wash. 322; McKenna v. Cosgrove, 41 Wash. 332; Collett v. N. P. R. Co., 23 Wash. 600; Morrison v. Berlin, 37 Wash. 600; Sullivan's Estate, In re, 40 Wash. 202; Yamashita, In re, 30 Wash. 234. As against collateral attack upon the ground that a summons was insufficient to give a court jurisdiction, it will be presumed in aid of a decree, which recites that service of the complaint and notice had been duly made according to law, that another and sufficient summons was issued, where there was ample time for the service of another summons after completion of the publication of the first: Rogers v. Miller, 13 Wash. 82. As to grounds of collateral attack, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1611-1613, §§ 151-162; Dubuque v. Stich, 16 Wash. 641; Dolan v. Jones, 37 Wash. 176; Baldwin v. Baer, 10 Wash. 414; Krutz v. Batts, 18 Wash. 460; State v. Washington Dredging etc. Co., 43 Wash. 508; Kizer v. Canfield, 17 Wash. 417; Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199; *State ex rel. Judgment may be given for or against one or more of several plaintiffs, and for or against one or more of several defendants; and it may, when the justice of the case requires it, determine the ultimate rights of the parties on each side, as between themselves. § 407. (5082.) Judgments Against Several Defendants.

In an action against several defendants, the court may, in its discretion, render judgment against one or more of them, whenever a several judgment is proper, leaving the action to proceed against the others. [L. '54, p. 171, § 222; Cd. '81, § 285; 2 H. C., § 408.]

If only one of two defendants, sued as partners, is served with process, it is error to render personal judgment against both, but under § 68 of the Code of 1881, judgment may be taken against the one served and the joint property of both: McCoy v. Bell, 1 Wash. 504; see supra, § 236.

In an action against joint defendants, where judgment by default has been rendered against one, and judgment against the other on a trial of the action, it is not error to grant a new trial as to defendant who answered and deny it as to the defaulting defendant: Ex parte Lowman & Hanford Co., 2 Wash. 427.

In an action against two corporations for materials furnished them upon request of certain of their officers, a joint judgment cannot be sustained where there is no evidence that the officers had authority to bind defendants jointly: Pacific Cable Co. v. McNatt, 2 Wash. 216.

CHAPTER X.

JUDGMENT OF NONSUIT.

§ 408. (5085.) Judgment of Dismissal or Nonsuit, When Granted.

An action may be dismissed, or a judgment of nonsuit entered, in the following cases:—

1. By the plaintiff himself, at any time before the jury retire to consider their verdict, unless setoff be interposed as a defense, or unless the defendant sets up a counterclaim to the specific property or thing which is the subject matter of the action;

2. By either party, upon the written consent of the other;

3. By the court, when the plaintiff fails to appear on trial, and the defendant appears and asks for a dismissal;

4. By the court, when, upon the trial and before the final submission of [the] case, the plaintiff abandons it;

5. By the court, on the refusal or neglect of the plaintiff to make the necessary parties, after having been ordered by the court;

6. By the court, on the application of some of the defendants, where there are others whom the plaintiff fails to prosecute with diligence;

7. By the court, for disobedience of the plaintiff to an order concerning the proceedings in the action;

8. By the court, upon motion of the defendant, when, upon the trial, the plaintiff fails to prove a sufficient cause for the jury. [L. '54, p. 171, § 223; Cd. '81, § 286; 2 H. C., § 409.]

See supra, § 196, bringing in new parties.

See supra, § 189, who are necessary parties.

See supra, § 340, directing verdict.

See notes to § 284, supra.

Cited in 2 Wash. 542; 3 Wash. 141, 638; 4 Wash. 119, 326, 373, 652, 810; 7 Wash. 408; 8 Wash. 636; 15 Wash. 430; 17 Wash. 602; 20 Wash. 126; 23 Wash. 445; 24 Wash. 325; 25 Wash. 263, 666; 33 Wash. 540; 43 Wash. 521; 44 Wash. 405; 46 Wash. 82; 49 Wash. 515.

DISMISSAL and nonsuit in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 942-949, §§ 1-26. The first words of this section providing that an action may be dismissed, etc., does not render the dismissal discretionary with the court when the plaintiff fails to prove a sufficient case for the jury. In such case the words "may be" are equivalent to "must be": Tolmie v. Dean, 1 W. T. 46.

Technically a motion for a nonsuit is not applicable to an equitable action, but treated as a motion to dismiss it may be entertained: Scoland v. Scoland, 4 Wash. 118, 119; to secure the advantage of such a motion in equity the party must stand upon it: Id.; Cattell v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 541. There can be no nonsuit in a criminal case as in a civil action, but the proper practice is to ask the court to direct an acquittal: State v. Hyde, 22 Wash. 551.

Plaintiff may, as at common law, dismiss his bill at any time before final decree, upon payment of costs: Waite v. Wingate, 4 Wash. 324. Overruled, see Washington Nat. Bldg. etc. Assn. v. Saunders, 24 Wash. 321. See, also, McKee v. McKee, 32 Wash. 247.

The plaintiff is not entitled to dismiss his action to quiet title, claimed under a certain land contract, alleged to have been fraudulently assigned to defendant, after answer by the defendant setting up title in himself by virtue of the assignment of the contract and conveyance thereunder, and praying that his title be quieted; since the answer is a counterclaim connected with the subject of the action and arises out of the same contract or transaction set out in the complaint: Gray v. Granger, 48 Wash. 442.

Plaintiff's right of dismissal in equitable actions remains as at common law and is not taken away by this and the succeeding section: Somerville v. Johnson, 3 Wash. 140.

Plaintiff's right of dismissal is not cut off by an intimation by the court of its judgment and before findings are made: Id. But see Herrick v. Neisz, 16 Wash. 74.

A party voluntarily dismissing his action and causing judgment to be rendered thereon cannot prosecute an appeal therefrom: Liebmann v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 520; Mahneke v. Tacoma, 1 Wash. 18.

It is error to deny plaintiff's motion for the dismissal of his action and grant defendant's motion therefor after a demurrer to the complaint is sustained: Lowman v. West, 7 Wash. 407.

The rights accorded the plaintiff under subdivision 1 are absolute in a proper case: Id.

As to plaintiff's right to dismiss action, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 943-945, §§ 3-11; Washington Nat. Bldg. etc. Assn. v. Saunders, 24 Wash. 321; Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 155; Lowman v. West, 7 Wash. 407; Chehalis County v. Ellingson, 21 Wash. 638; Simpson v. Brown Bros. & Co., 1 W. T. 247; Bellingham Bay etc. Co. v. Strand, 14 Wash. 144; Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524.

As to involuntary dismissal and nonsuit, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 945-948, §§ 12-22. Dismissal as to part of cause of action: See Hays v. Hill, 23 Wash. 730.

Error as to nature or form of remedy: See Browder v. Phinney, 30 Wash. 74; McKay v. Calderwood, 37 Wash. 194; Brown v. Calloway, 34 Wash. 175; Wilson Coal etc. Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177; Robinson v. Brooks, 31 Wash. 60; Winsor v. Hanson, 40 Wash. 423. Defects and objections as to process and as to pleadings: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 946, §§ 18, 19; Neff v. Neff, 32 Wash. 82; Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524; Murray v. Meade, 5 Wash. 693; Richardson v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., 6 Wash. 52; Wilkeson Coal & Coke Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177; In re Renton's Estate, 10 Wash. 533; Noerdlinger v. Huff, 31 Wash. 360; Johnson v. S. E. Co., 39 Wash. 211.

Discontinuance by omissions or irregularities in proceedings or for want of prosecution: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 947, 948, §§ 20, 21; Spokane & Vancouver etc. Co. v. Colfelt, 30 Wash. 628; Bank of Commerce v. Warren, 8 Wash. 477; Langford v. Murphey, 30 Wash. 499; Hoffmeister v. Renton Coal Co., 40 Wash. 48; Arthur v. Washington Water Power Co., 42 Wash. 431; First Nat. Bank v. Hunt, 40 Wash. 190; Bignold v. Carr, 24 Wash. 413; In re Sullivan's Estate, 40 Wash. 202.

Dismissal for failure to comply with order of court: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 948, § 22; Washington Bank of Walla Walla v. Horn, 24 Wash. 299; Norris Safe & Lock Co. v. Clark, 34 Wash. 104; Carlson Bros. & Co. v. Van de Vanter, 19 Wash. 32; Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524; Wilkeson Coal & Coke Co. v. Driver, 9 Wash. 177.

NONSUIT, WHEN GRANTED: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 948, § 23. A nonsuit may be entered on the voluntary order of the court, under subdivisions 4, 5 and 7, but not otherwise: McDaniel v. Pressler, 3 Wash. 636, 639. See, also, State ex rel. Hennessy v. Huston, 32 Wash. 154; Kirby v. Pease, 33 Wash. 511.

When plaintiff's case is concluded and there is nothing to submit to the jury, a nonsuit must be granted: Beck v. Ravena M. Co., 5 Wash. 560.

Under this section the plaintiff is entitled to voluntary nonsuit at any time before the jury retires, if there is no set-off or counterclaim interposed: Fisk v. Tacoma Smelting Co., 49 Wash. 514.

It is not beyond the power of a trial court to reverse its ruling denying a motion for a nonsuit, where immediately after the oral announcement extensive arguments followed, and no judgment or formal order was made, the motion having at first been considered as merely formal: Brown v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 44 Wash. 1.

Where the burden of proof is shifted from the plaintiff to the defendant by a prima facie case sufficient to overcome a presumption in favor of the defendant, and is then shifted back to the plaintiff by defendant's counter evidence, plaintiff's prima facie case must, on demurrer to the evidence, be measured by defendant's evidence, and determined as a matter of law in the light of defendant's explanations: Long v. McCabe & Hamilton, 52 Wash. 422.

As to grounds, and right to move, for nonsuit, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2751, §§ 56, 57. A judgment of nonsuit will be sustained if any one of the grounds relied on therefor is sufficient, although the lower court may have founded its ruling upon an inadequate reason: Brennan v. Front St. C. Ry. Co., 8 Wash. 353. If the court would not be warranted in granting a nonsuit it would not be warranted in directing a verdict for the defendant: Spokane & I. Lumber Co. v. Loy, 21 Wash. 501; Weir v. Seattle Elec. Co., 41 Wash. 657.

A nonsuit should be granted when the evidence for plaintiff is insufficient to sustain a judgment in his favor: Wolff v. Madden, 6 Wash. 514; but the court will not take a case from the jury when there is any evidence to support it: Ward v. Moorey, 1 W. T. 104; Welch v. Fransioli, 46 Wash. 590; and upon a motion for a nonsuit where a doubtful question is presented, the safer practice is to let the case go to the jury: Burns v. Commencement Bay L. & I. Co., 4 Wash. 558, 559.

If the evidence introduced in an action tends to establish the allegations of the complaint, its sufficiency should be determined by the jury, and not by the court on a motion for nonsuit: Tibbals v. Mt. Olympus Water Co., 10 Wash. 329.

A motion for nonsuit should be granted where there is no testimony upon which a recovery can be founded: Burns v. Commencement Bay L. & I. Co., supra. See United States v. Kelly, 3 W. T. 421.

Where there is conflicting testimony, but the clear weight of the evidence is with either side, the court is justified in taking the case from the jury: Guley v. N. W. Coal & T. Co., 7 Wash. 491.

When plaintiff has failed to make a case on the proofs adduced by him, defendant is entitled to a nonsuit, although upon cross-examination of plaintiff's witnesses he has asked certain questions, the answers to which may tend to establish a defense: Hoge v. Wilson, 5 Wash. 161.

Where there is a variance between the proof and the complaint, the proof having been received without objection, the court should, upon a motion for a nonsuit, consider the complaint amended to correspond with the facts proven: Murray v. Meade, 5 Wash. 693; State ex rel. Jenkins v. Equitable Indemnity Assn., 18 Wash. 514.

In an equity case, where a motion for a nonsuit is erroneously refused, the error is waived by the subsequent admission of testimony sufficient to make a prima facie case: Cattell v. Ferguson, 3 Wash. 541.

Although the court may err in denying defendant's motion for dismissal of the case at the close of plaintiff's testimony, the error is cured by defendant's thereafter proceeding with the case: Scoland v. Scoland, 4 Wash. 118.

A motion for a nonsuit is waived by proceeding with the trial, and the case will thereafter be reviewed on the entire testimony only: Ryan v. Lambert, 49 Wash. 649.

The withdrawal of a demurrer to a complaint and joining issue by answer does not waive the right to move to dismiss the action for want of sufficient facts to state a cause of action, where the complaint was amended after the demurrer was interposed: Hemrich Bros. Brewing Co. v. Kitsap County, 45 Wash. 454.

After an improper denial of a motion for nonsuit at the close of plaintiff's case, the fact that defendant opens his defense operates as a waiver of the motion only to the extent of allowing plaintiff the benefit of any evidence subsequently introduced: Matson v. Port Townsend S. Ry

Co., 9 Wash. 449; Morgan v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., 6 Wash. 577.

Where, under the evidence, defendant is entitled to an instruction for a verdict in his favor, on a reversal of the judgment on appeal, a dismissal will be directed: Bernhard v. Reeves, 6 Wash. 424.

It is error to direct a verdict of nonsuit for insufficiency of the original complaint, where leave has been granted to file an amended one to correspond with the proofs, if the proofs show a cause of action: Richardson v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., 6 Wash. 52. But see Johnson v. Seattle Electric Co., 39 Wash. 211; Noerdlinger v. Huff, 31 Wash. 360.

In passing upon a motion for a nonsuit it is not error for the court to comment on the evidence in the jury's presence: Blue v. McCabe, 5 Wash. 125; Patchen v. Park & Lacy M. Co., 6 Wash. 486.

Where a nonsuit has been granted, no motion for a new trial is necessary to secure a review on appeal: Burns v. Commencement Bay L. Co., 4 Wash. 558.

The court cannot dismiss an action for defect of parties, when it is not raised by demurrer or answer, except upon the refusal or neglect of the plaintiff to make the necessary parties after ordered to do so: Harrington v. Miller, 4 Wash. 808.

The court upon a trial without a jury may grant a nonsuit at the close of plaintiff's evidence, on the ground that a fair preponderance of the proof established facts preventing recovery by plaintiff, although there is evidence tending to sustain plaintiff's claim: Lambuth v. Stetson & Post Mill Co., 14 Wash. 187.

SPECIAL CASES.—A nonsuit entered on the ground of absence of counsel should be set aside when plaintiff's counsel appeared within twenty minutes after the calling of court at the early hour of 8:30 A. M.; and it is an abuse of discretion to refuse to vacate the order, especially when counsel on both sides are willing to waive the technicality and proceed with the trial: Bank of Commerce v. Warren, 8 Wash. 477. Where defendant admits a portion of plaintiff's indebtedness to be due, and tenders the amount into court, it is error to nonsuit plaintiff: Mace v. Gaddis, 3 W. T. 125.

If complaint on attachment bond fails to allege that damages incurred have not been paid, and no proof is offered on that point, defendants are entitled to a nonsuit: Church v. Campbell, 7 Wash. 547.

In an action to charge an undisclosed principal with liability for purchase of certain property, a nonsuit should be granted when the evidence fails to show that the defendant had any relation to the property or parties from which a liability could be implied: Harper v. Sinclair, 7 Wash. 372, 374.

Where one of two joint lessees paid all the money on contract of lease, and brings his individual action to recover the money paid, on breach of contract, ignoring the lease and failing to make his colessee a party, a nonsuit should be granted: Dietz v. Weinhill, 6 Wash. 109. The defendant is not entitled to a dismissal for non-joinder, as a necessary party, of one who claimed a lien upon corporate stock in suit, where the adverse party is entitled to a judgment ordering a sale subject to the lien: Hardin v. White Swan Min. etc. Co., 26 Wash. 583. An information in the nature of quo warranto is properly dismissed when the suit is not brought by the officer authorized or charged by law to institute the suit: State ex rel. Attorney Gen. v. Seattle Gas etc. Co., 28 Wash. 488, 38 Pac. 946. In an action against a married woman to foreclose a mechanic's lien for a building erected on her land, under contract with her husband, plaintiff should be nonsuited where the wife is not shown to have had any knowledge of the contract, and the proof is insufficient to show that the husband was her agent: Cattell v. Ferguson, supra.

A corporation is entitled to a nonsuit, in an action against it and its general manager jointly to recover the price of goods sold and delivered to a third person, when the evidence fails to connect the corporation with the transaction: Cosh-Murray Co. v. Adair, 9 Wash. 686.

A motion for nonsuit on the ground that plaintiff had not shown that the officers of a corporation had authority to indorse and transfer a promissory note is properly denied when the testimony tends to show that the note was cashed at the instance of the maker, a director in the corporation, and for the company's benefit: Blue v. McCabe, 5 Wash. 125.

In an action to recover a balance due on account, it is error to nonsuit plaintiff, when it appears from the evidence that he had given an order to a third party for the sum due from defendant, on the supposition that it was a certain amount, but, in fact, as the evidence showed, there was a further amount due him: Patchen v. Park & Lacy M. Co., supra.

In an action against husband and wife to recover real estate commissions, in which a judgment of nonsuit had been rendered in favor of the wife, a verdict for both defendants is harmless error where plaintiff is not deprived of any substantial right, and has failed to except to the verdict when rendered: Dillon v. Folsom, 5 Wash. 439.

In an action to recover for labor performed by the plaintiff for defendant, a nonsuit is proper, when the evidence shows that the labor was performed at the request of other parties than the defendant, although the work may have resulted in a benefit to the latter: Bunker v. Blair, 14 Wash. 106.

It is error to nonsuit plaintiff in an action for damages for assault and battery, when the evidence shows an infraction of plaintiff's legal rights, from which damages follow as a legal consequence: Hannan v. Gross, 5 Wash. 703.

In an action for personal injuries to a child trespassing on defendant railway company's right of way without defendant's knowledge, unless defendant's negligence is shown to amount to wantonness, a nonsuit should be granted: Matson v. Port Townsend S. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 449.

Where an action is brought by a widow and minor children to recover damages for the wrongful killing of her husband, and it was claimed that only the personal representatives could recover, it is improper to dismiss the action for want of jurisdiction: Dahl v. Tibbals, 5 Wash. 259, 262.

The question of liability of a city for injuries sustained by an individual by reason of a defective street is a question of law, which should be raised by demurrer and not by a motion for nonsuit: Sutton v. Snohomish, 11 Wash. 24.

NEGLIGENCE.—In an action for damages by an employee for personal injuries sustained by defendant's negligence, where no negligence is proved by plaintiff, a nonsuit must be ordered: Weideman v. Tacoma Ry. & M. Co., 7 Wash. 517.

In an action for damages for personal injuries inflicted by a corporation upon one of its employees evidence of the employment by defendant of a negligent and unskilled physician to treat plaintiff is presumptive negligence, and will avoid a nonsuit: Richardson v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., supra.

In an action for damages for personal injuries plaintiff should not be nonsuited on the ground of contributory negligence, when the evidence shows that he was guilty of no negligence contributing to his injury: Ladouceur v. N. P. Ry. Co., 4 Wash. 38.

A nonsuit should be granted where it clearly appears that the plaintiff has been guilty of such contributory negligence as precludes his recovery: N. P. Ry. Co. v. Holmes, 3 W. T. 202; and where the testimony shows that the injury was caused by a fellow-servant, the defendant may move for a nonsuit without having pleaded such defense in his answer: Sayward v. Carlson, 1 Wash. 29.

Defendant is entitled to a nonsuit in an action for personal injuries occasioned by defendant's negligence, if it appears from plaintiff's case that plaintiff is chargeable with contributory negligence: Krennan v. Front St. C. Ry. Co., 8 Wash. 363.

A nonsuit should be granted in an action for negligence where the evidence is not sufficient to establish negligence on the part of defendant; or if shown that there was contributory negligence: Morgan v. Carbon Hill Coal Co., 6 Wash. 577.

In an action for damages for personal injuries consequent upon defendant's negligence, held, that the facts of the particular case authorized the granting of a nonsuit: Cooney v. G. N. Ry. Co., 9 Wash. 292.

The refusal of the trial court to open a case after a motion for nonsuit so that plaintiff may the next morning have the testimony of a witness made a part of her affirmative evidence, does not show such an abuse of the discretion lodged in it in such matters as to warrant the interference of the appellate court, when it appears that plaintiff had full knowledge as to the nature of the testimony and rested her case without any suggestion of the absence of such witness and of efforts on her part to procure his attendance: Martin v. Union Mut. Ins. Co., 13 Wash. 275.

Where it appears from the evidence introduced by plaintiff in an action for damages for injuries received by reason of the alleged negligence of defendants, that the negligence, if any, was that of an independent contractor, the defendants are entitled to a nonsuit, although they may not have pleaded such fact as a defense: Easter v. Hall, 12 Wash. 160.

In an action for damages for breach of contract to float a wreck, in which the only element of damages claimed was the difference between the value of a wrecked vessel and what she would probably have been worth as a vessel afloat, the plaintiff should be nonsuited when the evidence shows that the only contract entered into was that two tugs should use their best efforts, pulling together at high tide, to raise the wreck, for a fixed price for the pull, and that all chances of getting the vessel off were to be taken by plaintiff: Benjamin v. Puget Sd. Coml. Co., 12 Wash. 476.

In an action for damages for the improper construction of a building and the use of defective materials therein, and for loss of rents, the defendant is not entitled to a nonsuit, because the proof shows that payments were made by plaintiffs after the expiration of the time fixed for the completion of the building and after knowledge of a change in the plans of construction, when the proof also tends to show that defective materials had been used without their knowledge: Brodek v. Far-num, 11 Wash. 565.

Under this section the court is warranted in dismissing an action upon the failure of the plaintiff to comply with an order directing an amended bill of particulars to be furnished: Plummer v. Weil, 15 Wash. 427.

Neither findings of fact nor conclusions of law are required on the part of a trial court when it grants a motion for a nonsuit in a jury case: Berkley v. Barton, 15 Wash. 33.

In an action which seeks to charge defendant as assignee of a written lease for a term of years, plaintiff should be nonsuited when there is no proof that the assignment was in writing: Jacobs v. National Bank, 15 Wash. 358.

A nonsuit is improper, when there is sufficient testimony to sustain a verdict, although the facts testified to may be inadmissible in evidence and are only properly in the case as a result of the unchallenged examination of witnesses: Dutcher v. Howard, 15 Wash. 693.

§ 409. (5086.) All Other Judgments are on the Merits.

In every case other than those mentioned in the last section, the judgment shall be rendered on the merits. [L. '54, p. 171, § 224; Cd. '81, § 287; 2 H. C., § 410.]

See supra, § 404, judgments defined.

§ 410. (5087.) Effect of Judgment of Nonsuit.

When a judgment of nonsuit is given, the action is dismissed; but such judgment shall not have the effect to bar another action for the same cause. [L. '69, p. 70, § 290; Cd. '81, § 288; 2 H. C., § 411.]

Cited in 46 Wash. 82.

As to dismissal without prejudice, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 949, § 24; Russell v. Blair, 18 Wash. 339; Chehalis County v. Ellingson, 21 Wash. 638; Bates v. Drake, 28 Wash. 477; Dunkle v. Spo- kane Falls & N. R. Co., 20 Wash. 254; Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 155; Hubenthal v. Spokane etc. R. Co., 43 Wash. 677; State Medical Examining Board v. Stewart, 46 Wash. 79; Budlong v. Budlong, 48 Wash. 65.

CHAPTER XI.

JUDGMENT BY DEFAULT.

§ 411. (5090.) Judgment for Failure to Answer.

Judgment may be had if the defendant fail to answer to the complaint, as follows:—

1. In any action arising on contract for the recovery of money only, the plaintiff may file with the clerk proof of personal service of the summons and complaint on one or more of the defendants. The court shall thereupon enter judgment for the amount claimed against the defendant or defendants, or against one or more of the several defendants, in the cases provided for in section 236. Where the defendant, by his answer, in any such action, shall not deny the plaintiff's claim, but shall set up a counterclaim amounting to less than the plaintiff's claim, judgment may be had by the plaintiff for the excess of said claim over the said counterclaim;

2. In other actions the plaintiff may, upon the like proof, apply to the court after the expiration of the time for answering, for the relief demanded in the complaint. If the taking of an account or of the proof of any fact be necessary to enable the court to give judgment, or to carry the judgment into effect, the court may take the account or hear the proof, or may, in its discretion, order a reference for that purpose. Where the action is for the recovery of damages, in whole or in part, the court may order the damages to be assessed by a jury; or if to determine the amount of damages the examination of a long account be necessary, by a reference as above provided. If the defendant give notice of appearance in the action before the expiration of the time for answering, he shall be entitled to five days' notice of the time and place of application to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint;

3. In [an] action where the service of the summons was by publication, the plaintiff, upon the expiration of the time for answering, may, upon proof of service by publication, apply for judgment; and the court must thereupon require proof of the demand mentioned in the complaint, and must require the plaintiff or his agent to be examined on oath respecting any payments that have been made to the plaintiff, or to anyone for his use on account of such demand, and may render judgment for the amount which he is entitled to recover, or for such other relief as he may be entitled to. [Cf. L. '54, p. 171, § 225; L. '69, p. 70, § 291; L. '77, p. 59, § 293; Cd. '81, § 289; 2 H. C., § 412.]

See supra, § 192, persons severally liable.

See supra, §§ 220-254, summons and service.

See supra, § 236, judgment against one defendant where others not served.

See supra, § 278, judgment for failure to plead to new matter.

See supra, § 366, assessment by jury of amount of recovery, when.

See supra, §§ 369-377, trial by referee.

See supra, § 406, judgment may be rendered against whom.

See supra, § 407, judgment against several parties.

See infra, § 436, proceedings against defendants not served.

See infra, § 1230, judgment for failure to answer interrogatories.

See infra, § 1858, judgment by default in justice's court.

See notes to next section.

DEFAULT: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1585-1587, §§ 21-34. To entitle a party to a default a motion therefor is necessary separate from that for judgment: State v. Hunter, 4 Wash. 651, 652.

Although a formal default is not entered against a defendant before trial, yet a judgment against him will be upheld on appeal where the record shows that the time for answering had expired, and that testimony was given at the trial of amounts due from him to plaintiff: Proulx v. Stetson & Post M. Co., 6 Wash. 478. It is not necessary to enter the default in a separate order: Warner v. Miner, 41 Wash. 98.

It is error to render judgment against a party in default before the default is entered: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Sparkman, 2 Wash. 165; distinguished in Proulx v. Stetson etc., supra; or to render judgment by default for want of appearance, when a demurrer is on file: Walla Walla etc. Co. v. Budd, 2 W. T. 336; Canada Settlers' Loan & Trust Co. v. Murray, 20 Wash. 656. Or where a motion to stay proceedings has not been disposed of: See Richardson v. Richardson, 43 Wash. 634.

A plaintiff is not called upon to reply to an affirmative defense in an answer while his demurrer thereto remains undetermined: Ewing v. Van Wagenen, 6 Wash. 39.

Where only one of two defendants is served with process it is error to render personal judgment against both, though they are alleged to be partners: McCoy v. Bell, 1 Wash. 504.

Allowing a default before publication of summons for the time required, where there is no evidence of a copy being mailed to defendant, renders the judgment void for want of jurisdiction: Montgomery v. Manning, 1 W. T. 434; see Garrison v. Cheeney, 1 W. T. 489.

The mere corporal presence of a party or his agent in court, without demurring, answering or giving notice of appearance, will not prevent default being entered against him: McCoy v. Bell, supra.

An action is not abandoned by the delay of four years after entry or default, in proceeding to judgment, and judgment then entered without notice to the defendant is not void: Peirce v. Nat. Bank of Germantown, 44 Wash. 404.

Where defendants were in default, and the court ordered judgment of default unless an answer should be filed showing a meritorious defense, and answers were filed showing no defense, the answers may be stricken and judgment of default entered: American Bonding Co. v. Dufur, 49 Wash. 632.

A special appearance by a nonresident defendant, to move to set aside a judgment and default entered against him, does not waive any jurisdictional rights: Paxton v. Daniell, 1 Wash. 19.

On judgment rendered against a nonresident defendant, and attachment of property, objection to the jurisdiction taken before entry of default is waived by motion to open default, and by subsequent filing of an answer: Sayward v. Carlson, 1 Wash. 29.

Judgment for failure to answer can be entered, as of course, without proof under subdivision 1 of this section only in case the summons and complaint have been served and proof thereof filed with the clerk, and this requirement is not abolished by the act of February 2, 1888, making it no longer necessary to serve a copy of the complaint on defendant in order to acquire jurisdiction: Spokane Falls v. Curry, 2 Wash. 541; but the original note and mortgage upon which an action is brought, without proof of their authenticity, or of payments made thereon, is insufficient to warrant a default under subdivision 3 of this section: State v. Hunter, 4 Wash. 651, 652. As to proof of cause of action, see Citizens' Nat. Bank of Dayton v. Columbia County, 23 Wash. 441; Ferguson v. Hoshi, 25 Wash. 664; Titus v. Larson, 18 Wash. 145.

The refusal to grant a default for failure to answer within the prescribed time will be presumed to have been based upon good and sufficient reasons in the absence of a showing to the contrary in the statement of facts: Mason v. McLean, 6 Wash. 31.

Where defendant refuses to plead after overruling his demurrer to the complaint, a court may, under this section, proceed to take evidence upon the allegations of the complaint: Cross v. Johnson, 20 Wash. 124.

The judgment of a court of general jurisdiction rendered upon default will be presumed valid, although the record does not affirmatively show that all the steps required by the statute have been complied with, and it will only be held void when it affirmatively appears from the record that the court had no jurisdiction to render it: Munch v. McLaren, 9 Wash. 676, 679; Kalb v. German Sav. & Loan Soc., 25 Wash. 349.

It is only void, and not erroneous, judgments that may be collaterally attacked: Kizer v. Caufield, 17 Wash. 417. But denial of rights will be presumed prejudicial, unless it affirmatively appears from the record to the contrary: Collett v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 23 Wash. 600, 63 Pac. 225. The ruling of the trial court permitting a reply to be filed on the same day that defendant moved for judgment on the pleadings for want of a reply, will not be disturbed, when there is no showing of abuse of discretion: Stinson v. Sachs, 8 Wash. 391.

A judgment by default rendered in chambers at Seattle is valid in a cause pending in the court at Port Townsend, it being in the same territorial judicial district: Murne v. Schwabacher, 2 W. T. 130.

A judgment rendered by the superior court without proper service of summons is invalid on the ground of want of jurisdiction: State v. Superior Court, 6 Wash. 353, 355. But failure of record to show proper service of process is a mere irregularity if default was duly entered: Twigg v. James, 37 Wash. 434; Sellers v. Pacific Wrecking etc. Co., 34 Wash. 111. The recital of due service contained in a default judgment is not conclusive upon a direct attack by appeal from the judgment, on overruling an objection to the jurisdiction and motion to vacate the default: French v. Ajax Oil etc. Co., 44 Wash. 305.

A defendant personally served with summons who suffers judgment by default cannot object to the summons for the first time in the appellate court: Baker v. Pre-witt, 3 W. T. 595.

In an action before a justice of the peace under § 1858, infra, where defendants fail to appear on the expiration of one hour from the time set for trial, and plaintiff demands judgment, it is the justice's duty to so enter it, and being entered it cannot be modified or changed: McCoy v. Bell, 1 Wash. 504.

JUDGMENT FOR FAILURE TO ANSWER INTERROGATORIES.—Judgment may be given against a defendant for failure to answer interrogatories within the time prescribed by § 1230, infra: Livesley v. O'Brien, 6 Wash. 553; and under the same section the only judgment authorized is one of dismissal where no default is taken for his failure to reply to an affirmative defense, and no proof is introduced in support of the matters alleged in such defense: Waite v. Wingate, 4 Wash. 324.

A judgment by default against the husband for his failure to answer interrogatories, is not binding on the wife as to community property: See Glass v. Buttner, 39 Wash. 296.

After default duly entered, a party is not entitled to notice of further proceedings: See Norris v. Campbell, 27 Wash. 654.

JUDGMENT ON PLEADINGS: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 2289, §§ 145-150. Where defendant fails to plead, or if he files an answer which does not controvert the material allegations of the complaint which tenders no issue requiring proof, then plaintiff is entitled to judgment. It is not technically a judgment on the pleadings, but a judgment for failure to answer: Port v. Parfit, 4 Wash. 369, 373; see Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 659, 663; Seattle Nat. Bank v. Meerwaldt, 8 Wash. 630, 636; Seattle Cedar Lumber Mfg. Co. v. Ballard, 50 Wash. 123.

The practice of granting judgment on the pleadings upon an oral motion, at the time the case is set for trial, condemned. The proper theory is set out in Port v. Parfit, supra, and five days' notice should be given of the time and place of application as prescribed in subdivision 2 of this section: Seattle Nat. Bank v. Meerwaldt, supra; see Noyes v. Loughhead, 9 Wash. 325, 327.

If the answer does not controvert any of the material allegations of the complaint, or contain any new matter constituting a defense or counterclaim, and no reply is made, it is improper to render judgment on the pleadings, under § 278, supra, but plaintiff may, after the time for answering has expired, disregard such answer and move for default and judgment: Lake v. Steinbach, 5 Wash. 659, 663.

Judgment on the pleadings is not authorized where a reply, though insufficient in law, has actually been filed to the affirmative matter in the answer: Davis v. Ford, 15 Wash. 107.

In an action upon a promissory note, plaintiff is not entitled to judgment on the pleadings when the answer admits the execution of the note but alleges a failure of consideration, and also that the defendant's signature was obtained by fraud: P. T. So. Ry. Co. v. Weir, 15 Wash. 507. See, also, Helmer v. Title Guaranty & Surety Co., 50 Wash. 411.

Where the record shows that after a motion for judgment on the pleadings had been sustained, evidence was introduced by plaintiff in support of his cause, and upon the same the court based its findings, it will be presumed on appeal that the motion was treated by the court as a demurrer to the answer: Bethel v. Robinson, 4 Wash. 446.

If plaintiff, instead of going to trial, as he might have done on the question of the measure of damages, move the lower court for judgment in his favor on the pleadings, and that court award him judgment in a nominal amount, he cannot afterward complain of such judgment: Hadlan v. Ott, 2 W. T. 165.

Failure of defendant to plead a former judgment as res judicata does not estop the defendant from taking advantage of the defense by motion for judgment on the pleadings, where the plaintiff sets up the former adjudication as affirmative matter in a reply: Collins v. Gleason, 47 Wash. 62.

Where an answer denies no material allegations of the complaint it is not error to render judgment on the pleadings: Hanna v. Savage, 7 Wash. 414; King v. Ilwaco etc. Nav. Co., 1 Wash. 127.

In an action on a promissory note, plaintiff is entitled to judgment on the pleadings, when the answer admits the execution thereof and negatives the allegation of nonpayment in the complaint merely by a general denial: National Bank v. Western Iron & Steel Co., 14 Wash. 162.

Where defendant has objected to the introduction of evidence on account of a departure in plaintiff's pleadings and has afterward moved for a nonsuit, he has thereby saved his right to urge the error on appeal, although he has failed to move for judgment on the pleadings: Osten v. Winehill, 10 Wash. 333; see Distler v. Dabney, 3 Wash. 200.

The failure to reply to an allegation in an answer which is equivalent to a mere denial of the corresponding allegation of the complaint is not ground for judgment on the pleadings: Raymond v. Morrison, 9 Wash. 156.

The entry of a default against a defendant is waived by allowing him to participate in the subsequent proceedings in the cause, to serve and be served with motions, and by otherwise treating him as a party thereto: Cornell University v. Denny Hotel Co., 15 Wash. 433.

Where a motion for default for failure to plead within the time ordered by the court has been denied, it must be presumed on appeal that sufficient was shown to justify the exercise of the court's discretion in that regard: Plummer v. Weil, 15 Wash. 427; following Mason v. McLean, 6 Wash. 35.

A motion for default cannot be made after defendant's appearance, on the ground that the appearance presented a frivolous and dilatory motion, where the court did not regard the motion as frivolous but properly sustained the same: Washington etc. Imp. Co. v. Cannel Coal Co., 45 Wash. 462.

This section is not mandatory in the sense that failure to enter judgment immediately will result in loss of jurisdiction: Peirce v. National Bank of Germantown, 44 Wash. 404.

§ 412. (5091.) Court may Set Aside Default.

The court may, in its discretion, before final judgment, set aside any default, upon affidavit showing good and sufficient cause, and upon such terms as may be deemed reasonable. [L. '54, p. 171, § 225, subd. 4; L. '69, p. 72, § 292; Cd. '81, § 290; 2 H. C., § 413.]

See supra, § 303, release from judgment.

See supra, § 307, harmless defects disregarded.

See infra, § 464, proceedings to vacate and modify judgments.

See notes to last section.

VACATING DEFAULT: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1587-1590, §§ 35-50.

Discretion of court: See Id., p. 1587, § 36; Spokane v. Curry, 2 Wash. 541; Myers v. Landrum, 4 Wash. 762; Hull v. Vining, 17 Wash. 352; Titus v. Larsen, 18 Wash. 145; Everett Produce Co. v. Smith Bros., 40 Wash. 566; McBride v. McGinley, 31 Wash. 573; Twigg v. James, 37 Wash. 434.

If judgment has been rendered against a party not served with process, but in whose behalf an unauthorized attorney has appeared, the judgment will be set aside as a nullity: McEachern v. Brackett, 8 Wash. 652. But want of authority in attorney must be clearly shown: Turner v. Turner, 33 Wash. 118.

Affidavit of merits not necessary to set aside void or prematurely entered judgment: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1589, § 47; Walla Walla Print. etc. Co. v. Budd, 2 W. T. 336; Hole v. Page, 20 Wash. 208; Wheeler v. Moore, 10 Wash. 309; Bennett v. Supreme Tent etc. Maccabees, 40 Wash. 431.

As to excuses for default, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1588, 1589, §§ 40-45; Hull v. Vining, 17 Wash. 352; Titus v. Larsen, 18 Wash. 145; see Dalgardno v. Trumbull, 25 Wash. 362; Reitmeir v. Sigmund, 13 Wash. 624; Warner v. Miner, 41 Wash. 98; Jordan v. Hutchinson, 39 Wash. 373; Moody v. Reichow, 38 Wash. 303.

It is not an abuse of discretion to deny a motion to vacate a judgment by default when the only ground alleged therefor is that defendant's counsel was prevented from answering the complaint because of absence from the city: Sanborn v. Centralia F. Co., 5 Wash. 150; nor to set aside a default for failure to file an answer until notice of default, where no legal excuse is shown, although the answer filed presents a meritorious defense: Haynes v. Schwartz Co., 5 Wash. 433; nor to vacate a judgment by default, when the only ground shown is want of attention to the case by counsel and clients; such an order is a final order after judgment and appealable: Myers v. Landrum, 4 Wash. 762.

Where judgment has been taken by default for failure to answer, it should be set aside when it appears that defendant has a defense upon the merits, and was misled by plaintiff's attorney as to the time of trial: Bast v. Hysom, 6 Wash. 170.

Where judgment is obtained, and execution sale had thereunder, against a defendant, on a default upon a false return of the sheriff that he had been served with summons, the return may be attacked in a proceeding to set aside the judgment and sale: Johnson v. Gregory & Co., 4 Wash. 109; Northwestern & P. H. Bank v. Ridpath, 29 Wash. 687.

Although judgment by default, in an action for foreclosure of a mortgage upon realty, may have been erroneously rendered, because a demurrer to the complaint was pending at the time, yet the judgment cannot be attacked on that ground in an action of ejectment brought by the purchaser under execution sale for the purpose of obtaining possession of the premises: Belles v. Miller, 10 Wash. 259; see Belles v. Carroll, 6 Wash. 131.

Where default has been entered against plaintiff for delay in appearing at the time set for trial, it is an abuse of discretion to refuse to vacate the same, when he comes into court and moves to vacate the same within twenty minutes of the time, and defendant consents thereto: Bank of Commerce v. Warren, 8 Wash. 477.

APPEAL.—The remedy of a party against whom judgment by default is claimed to have been irregularly entered in the court below is not by appeal, but by motion in the trial court to set aside such judgment: Belles v. Carroll, 6 Wash. 131; but it was held in the territorial court that an appeal will lie from a judgment rendered by default in the district court: Baker v. Prewett, 3 W. T. 474; see Myers v. Landrum, 4 Wash. 762; and also that a writ of error will lie from a judgment by default: Montgomery v. Manning, 1 W. T. 434; cited in Garrison v. Cheeney, 1 W. T. 489, 495.

No appeal lies from a judgment by default entered by consent of defendant: Port v. Parfit, 4 Wash. 369.

CHAPTER XII.

JUDGMENT BY CONFESSION.

§ 413. (5093.) When Judgment may be Given on Confession.

On the confession of the defendant, with the assent of the plaintiff or his attorney, judgment may be given against the defendant in any action, before or after answer, for any amount or relief not exceeding or different from that demanded in the complaint. [Cf. L. '54, pp. 172, 173, §§ 226-228; L. '69, p. 72, § 293; Cd. '81, § 291; 2 H. C., § 414.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 501.

As to judgments by confession, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1584, §§ 14-17.

A debtor may make confession of judgment in a pending action, but the action, when brought, must be in the usual sense a hostile one. In such an action the confession need only be acknowledged, and the statute does not prescribe what it shall contain: Puget Sound Nat. Bk. v. Levy, 10 Wash. 499, 503; but where a debtor employs his own attorney to bring suit against him in behalf of a certain creditor, and consents to an entry of judgment therein, so as to work a preference in favor of such creditor, the judgment is one by confession, and is regulated by § 418, infra: Id.

A confession of judgment by the defendant in an attachment suit does not have the effect of waiving the attachment lien: Schloss v. State Bank, 4 Wash. 726.

A husband may confess judgment, but the community realty is not affected thereby unless the debt upon which the judgment was given was a community debt: Andrews v. Andrews, 3 W. T. 286, 290.

A confession of judgment for the amount of premium notes due an insurance company is not equivalent to a payment of the premium: Proebstel v. State Ins. Co., 14 Wash. 669.

§ 414. (5094.) How Corporations and Minors may Confess Judgment.

When the action is against the state, a county or other public corporation therein, or a private corporation or a minor, the confession shall be made by the person who, at the time, sustains the relation to such state, corporation, county, or minor as would authorize the service of a notice [summons] upon him; or in the case of a minor, if a guardian for the action has been appointed, then by such guardian; in all other cases, the confession shall be made by the defendant in person. [L. '69, p. 72, § 294; Cd. '81, § 292; 2 H. C., § 415.]

On whom service of summons may be made in the cases mentioned in the statute: See supra, §§ 226, 227.

A judgment by confession, made by an insolvent corporation in favor of one of its creditors, who has knowledge of its insolvent condition, and which confession is given and accepted for the purpose of making a preference in favor of such creditor over others, is void as against the other creditors: Compton v. Schwabacher Bros. & Co., 15 Wash. 306; Conover v. Hull, 10 Wash. 673.

A receiver for an insolvent corporation is not estopped from assailing a confession of judgment by the corporation as fraudulent by reason of the fact that in a former receivership the receiver had treated the judgment as valid, and had been discharged by the court upon a false representation that all the debts of the corporation, except a balance on such judgment, had been paid: Id.

§ 415. (5095.) Judgment by Confession Against Persons Jointly Liable.

When the action is upon a contract, and against one or more defendants jointly liable, judgment may be given, on the confession of one or more defendants, against all the defendants thus jointly liable, whether such defendants have been served or not, to be enforced only against their joint property and against the joint and separate property of the defendant making the confession. [L. '69, p. 72, § 295; Cd. '81, § 293; 2 H. C., § 416.]

See note to § 464, infra.

Judgment against persons jointly liable: See supra, § 407.

Cited in 7 Wash. 539; 12 Wash. 197.

One partner may confess judgment binding against all the partners, in so far as it is enforceable against partnership property and the separate property of the partner making the confession: Bank of Shelton v. Willey, 7 Wash. 535.

§ 416. (5096.) Confession, How Made.

The confession and assent thereto shall be in writing and subscribed by the parties making the same, and acknowledged by each before some officer authorized to take acknowledgments of deeds. [L. '69, p. 72, § 296; L. '77, p. 60, § 298; Cd. '81, § 294; 2 H. C., § 417.]

See § 418, infra, as to requisites of statement.

Cited in 10 Wash. 501.

§ 417. (5097.) Judgment by Confession Without Action.

A judgment by confession may be entered without action, either for money due or to become due, or to secure any person against contingent liability on behalf of the defendant, or both, in the manner prescribed by this chapter. [L. '69, p. 73, § 297; Cd. '81, § 295; 2 H. C., § 418.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 501; 13 Wash. 77.

§ 418. (5098.) Requisites of Statement.

A statement in writing shall be made, signed by the defendant and verified by his oath, to the following effect:—

1. It shall authorize the entry of judgment for a specified sum;

2. If it be for money due or to become due, it shall state concisely the facts out of which the indebtedness arose, and shall show that the sum confessed to be due is justly due or to become due;

3. If it be for the purpose of securing the plaintiff against a contingent liability, it shall state concisely the facts constituting the liability, and show that the sum confessed therefor does not exceed the same. [L. '69, p. 73, § 298; Cd. '81, § 296; 2 H. C., § 419.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 500; 10 Wash. 504; 13 Wash. 77.

§ 419. (5099.) Proceedings in Court on Presentation of Statement.

The statement must be presented to the superior court, or a judge thereof, and if the same be found sufficient, the court or judge shall indorse thereon an order that judgment be entered by the clerk, whereupon it may be filed in the office of the clerk, who shall enter a judgment for the amount confessed, with costs. Execution may be issued and enforced thereon in the same manner as upon judgments in other cases. [Cf. L. '69, p. 73, § 299; L. '77, p. 61, § 301; Cd. '81, § 297; 2 H. C., § 420.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 501.

CHAPTER XIII.

ARBITRATION, AND JUDGMENT THEREON.

§ 420. (5102.) Disputes may be Submitted to Arbitration.

All persons desirous to end, by arbitration, any controversy, suit, or quarrel, except such as respect the title to real estate, may submit their difference to the award or umpirage of any person or persons mutually selected. [L. '60, p. 324, § 1; L. '63, p. 81, § 231; Cd. '81, § 264; 2 H. C., § 424.]

See infra, § 1485, arbitration of claims against estates.

Cited in 27 Wash. 39.

Arbitration and award: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 264-267, §§ 1-16.

Whenever the terms of a contract leave it doubtful whether the settlement of a disputed question is intended to be left to the final decision of arbitrators, the construction is in favor of the right to resort to the courts for redress: Van Horne v. Watrous, 10 Wash. 525. An agreement to pay for the value of a wharf which was to be "appraised" is not an agreement to arbitrate in case of a disagreement: Hart Lumber Co. v. Everett Land Co., 20 Wash. 71.

An agreement for arbitration providing that the finding of the arbitrators should be approved by the city council in order to be binding upon the city merely constitutes the council a member of the board of arbitrators and is valid: Lidgerwood

Park Waterworks Co. v. Spokane, 19 Wash. 365.

A party who has submitted a matter in dispute to arbitration is not estopped from revoking the submission and repudiating the award, when the bias and prejudice of one of the arbitrators was unknown at the time of submission, and knowledge thereof only developed during the progress of the arbitration, as a consequence of his conduct, taken in connection with the inadequate amount allowed: Glover v. Rochester-German Ins. Co., 11 Wash. 143.

Conditions precedent to action, and effect on pending or subsequent action: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 264, 265, §§ 3, 4; Zindorf Construction Co. v. Western American Co., 27 Wash. 31; Hughes v. Bravinder, 9 Wash. 595; Lidgerwood Park Waterworks Co. v. Spokane, 19 Wash. 365; Winsor v. German Savings & Loan Society, 31 Wash. 365.

§ 421. (5103.) Agreement to be in Writing.

Said agreement to arbitrate shall be in writing, signed by the parties, and may be by bond in any sum, conditioned that the parties entering into said submission shall abide the award. [L. '60, p. 324, § 2; Cd. '81, § 265; 2 H. C., § 425.]

An affirmative defense of settlement by arbitration is demurrable where it fails to allege any written agreement for arbitration, the filing of any award, or any approval of the same by the court: Owen v. Casey, 48 Wash. 673.

§ 422. (5104.) How Arbitration Conducted.

The said arbitrators shall be duly sworn to try and determine the cause referred to them, and a just award make out, under the hands and seals of a majority of them, agreeably to the terms of the submission. Said award, together with the written agreement to submit, shall be sealed up by the arbitrators and delivered to the party in whose favor it shall be made, who shall deliver the same, without breaking the seal, to the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein said arbitration is held, who shall enter the same on record in his office. A copy of the award, signed by said arbitrators, or a majority of them, shall also be delivered to the party in whose favor it is rendered, who shall, if the matter be not settled, serve a copy of the same on the adverse party, and if no exceptions be filed against the same within twenty days after such service, judgment shall be entered as upon the verdict of a jury, and execution may issue thereon, and the same proceedings [may be had] upon said award, with like effect as though said award were a verdict in a civil action. [Cf. L. '63, p. 324, § 3; Cd. '81, § 266; L. '91, p. 104, § 1; 2 H. C., § 426.]

Cited in 5 Wash. 207, 208; 5 Wash. 210, 211; 34 Wash. 48.

When an arbitration of the differences between parties has failed for any reason the superior court is clothed with full jurisdiction to proceed to a final determination of the controversy, and an order of such court setting aside the award of the arbitrators is not such a final order as will sustain an appeal: Tacoma R. & M. Co. v. Cummings, 5 Wash. 206.

An award made without hearing the parties is void: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 265, § 8; Van Hook v. Burns, 10 Wash. 22; Brown's Executors v. Farnandis, 27 Wash. 232; McDonald v. Lewis, 18 Wash. 300.

Where an agreement for an arbitration expressly limits the time within which the award is to be made, the power of the arbitrators expires at that time: Jordan v. Lobe, 34 Wash. 42.

§ 423. (5105.) Compensation of Arbitrators—Penalty.

The arbitrators chosen under the provisions of this chapter shall each be allowed three dollars per day, to be taxed with other costs of suit, but if either party fail to appear on the day agreed upon for the arbitrators to meet, said party shall be liable for all costs accruing that day, unless his absence was unavoidable, and shall be so established to the satisfaction of said arbitrators. And any arbitrator failing to attend on the day appointed, unless delayed by sickness or unavoidable accident, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars to the school fund of the county, to be recovered by action before a justice of the peace, in the name of the county commissioners of the county. [Cf. L. '60, p. 324, § 4; L. '69, p. 65, § 269; Cd. '81, § 267; 2 H. C., § 427.]

§ 424. (5106.) Exceptions to Award.

The party against whom an award may be made may except in writing thereto for either of the following causes:—

1. That the arbitrators or umpire misbehaved themselves in the case;
2. That they committed an error in fact or law;
3. That the award was procured by corruption or other undue means. [L. '60, p. 324, § 5; Cd. '81, § 268; 2 H. C., § 428.]

Cited in 5 Wash. 207-211; 13 Wash. 355, 356.

If the award substantially complies with the law, it should not be disturbed for mere technical defects: Bachelor v. Wallace, 1 W. T. 107.

When the terms of submission authorize a majority of the three arbitrators to make a finding, it is sufficient if made by two; although but two signed the findings: Id. and when all three appear to have been See, also, Jordan v. Lobe, 34 Wash. 42; sworn it will be presumed that all acted, McDonald v. Lewis, 18 Wash. 300.

§ 425. (5107.) Proceedings of Court on Such Exceptions.

If upon exceptions filed it shall appear to the said superior court that the arbitrators have committed error in fact or law, the court may refer the cause back to said arbitrators, directing the amendment of said award forthwith, returnable to said court, and on the failure so to correct said proceedings, the court shall be possessed of the case and proceed to its determination. [Cf. L. '60, p. 325, § 6; Cd. '81, § 269; L. '91, p. 105, § 2; 2 H. C., § 429.]

See supra, § 422, and notes, conducting arbitrations.

Cited in 5 Wash. 207-211; 13 Wash. 355, 356.

The only power of the superior court, under this section, upon the hearing of exceptions to an award is to refer the cause back to the arbitrators for amendment in case of error in fact or law, or to confirm the award, as made; with the merits of the controversy the court has nothing to do: School Dist. v. Sage, 13 Wash. 352.

§ 426. (5108.) Powers of Arbitrators.

Arbitrators, or a majority of them, shall have power,—

1. To compel the attendance of witnesses duly notified by either party, and to enforce from either party the production of all such books, papers, and documents as they may deem material to the cause;

2. To administer oaths or affirmations to witnesses;

3. To adjourn their meetings from day to day, or for a longer time, and also from place to place, if they think proper;

4. To decide both the law and the fact that may be involved in the cause submitted to them. [L. '60, p. 325, § 7; Cd. '81, § 270; 2 H. C., § 430.]

Cited in 13 Wash. 355, 356.

Under this section, providing that arbitrators shall have power to decide both the law and the fact involved in the cause submitted to them, and there being no provision made for the preservation of the evidence received by them, the courts cannot sustain an exception to an award on the ground that the arbitrators committed error in fact or in law, unless such error appears upon the face of the award, or in some paper delivered with it: School Dist. v. Sage, 13 Wash. 352.

An award by arbitrators, when fairly and honestly made upon due consideration of all the evidence before them, is conclusive and binding upon the parties: Id.

As to matters of law, arbitrators are not bound in all cases to follow the strict rules of law governing courts, unless restricted by the agreement to submit, but may decide in accordance with their views of the equitable rights of the parties: Id.

An award will not be set aside on account of error in law, even where arbitrators are required to decide according to the strict rules of law, if the error complained of is not plain, or if the point of law is a doubtful one: Id.

An award of an arbitrator pursuant to an agreement of submission providing that the award shall in all things be faithfully "kept and observed" is final, and cannot be reviewed by the courts in the absence of any showing that the arbitrator was guilty of misconduct or corruption: Skagit County v. Trowbridge, 25 Wash. 140.

Practice as to awards of arbitrators stated: Tacoma R. & M. Co. v. Cummings, 5 Wash. 206, 208-210.

§ 427. (5109.) Rules of Evidence.

The laws in force in this state relating to evidence and the manner of procuring the attendance of witnesses shall govern in arbitrations. [L. '60, p. 325, § 8; Cd. '81, § 271; 2 H. C., § 431.]

§ 428. (5110.) Arbitrators may Punish Contempts.

The law governing proceedings for contempt, in the trial of cases before justices of the peace, so far as the same may be applicable, shall apply to the proceedings before arbitrators. [L. '60, p. 325, § 9; Cd. '81, § 272; 2 H. C., § 432.]

See infra, §§ 1891-1897, contempt before justices of the peace.

§ 429. (5111.) Costs Taxed Against Losing Party.

The costs of witnesses, and other fees in the case, shall be taxed against the losing party; said fees shall be indorsed upon the award, and when said award is affirmed as the judgment of the superior court, execution shall issue therefor as for costs in civil actions. [L. '60, p. 325, § 10; Cd. '81, § 273; 2 H. C., § 436.]

§ 430. (5112.) Award, When Affirmed, has Force of a Judgment.

Such award, when so affirmed, shall be in all respects like any other judgment of the superior court, and a transcript of such judgment, or execution issued thereon, recorded in the county auditor's [clerk's] office in the same manner as other judgments, shall be a lien upon real estate in said county. [L. '60, p. 325, § 11; Cd. '81, § 274; 2 H. C., § 434.]

See supra, §§ 404-407, judgments in general.

See notes to § 426, supra.

See infra, § 445, liens of judgments of superior court.

As to conclusiveness of adjudication, see dorf Const. Co. v. Western Am. Co., 27 1 Remington's Digest, p. 267, § 16; Skagit Wash. 31; School District v. Sage, 13 Wash. County v. Trowbridge, 26 Wash. 140; Zin- 352.

CHAPTER XIV.

MANNER OF TAKING AND ENTERING JUDGMENTS.

§ 431. (5115.*) Time of Entering Judgment.

When a trial by jury has been had, judgment shall be entered by the clerk immediately in conformity to the verdict, and a transcript of said judgment may be immediately filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court of any other county in the state in the manner provided by law: Provided, however, that if a motion for a new trial shall be filed, execution shall not be issued upon said judgment until said motion shall be determined: And provided, further, that the granting of a motion for a new trial shall immediately operate as the vacation and setting aside of said judgment. [L. '03, p. 285, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 173, § 229; Cd. '81, § 301; L. '91, p. 76, § 1; 2 H. C., § 435.]

See supra, § 18, nonjudicial days.

See supra, § 363, verdict in actions for specific personal property.

See supra, § 365, and note, special findings.

See supra, § 402, motion for new trial.

See supra, §§ 404-407, judgments in general.

See supra, § 408, judgment of nonsuit.

See supra, § 412, judgment by default.

See supra, § 413 et seq., judgment by confession.

See infra, § 435, when and what must be entered.

See infra, § 464, vacation or modification of judgments.

Cited in 11 Wash. 413; 26 Wash. 228; 35 Wash. 66; 36 Wash. 324; 35 Wash. 537; 37 Wash. 485; 49 Wash. 303, 304.

As to entry, record and docketing of judgments, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1593-1596, §§ 69-82.

A plaintiff cannot take judgment for more than his complaint shows that he is entitled to under the law: King Co. v. Ferry, 5 Wash. 536, 557.

The existence of a judgment, though not entered in the court's journal as by statute contemplated, nor bearing the file-marks of the clerk, may be established by competent proof after the death of the judge rendering it: Eakin v. McCraith, 2 W. T. 112.

The clerk of the court being the custodian of its records, according to the statutes, a judgment record offered in evidence, certified by the clerk, is sufficient without any certificate of the judge that the clerk is the custodian of the records: Bignold v. Carr, 24 Wash. 413.

As to signature, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1595, § 79.

The signature of the judge to the journal entry of the judgment entry offered in evidence is not necessary to make it valid: Richie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512, 26 Am. St. Rep. 877; Ainsworth v. Territory, 3 W. T. 270. Judgment may properly be signed on day it is rendered and notice of application is not necessary: See White Crest Canning Co. v. Sims, 30 Wash. 375; Brooks v. James, 16 Wash. 335; Fisher v. Puget Sound Brick etc. Co., 34 Wash. 578. Failure to enter judgment against appellant immediately after the rendition of a verdict, and that it was not signed until after denial of a new trial, are mere irregularities, and harmless error when no prejudice appears: Schultz v. Simmons Fur. Co., 46 Wash. 555. See, also, Rauh v. Scholl, 19 Wash. 30; Harris v. Fidalgo Mill Co., 38 Wash. 169.

Failure to enter judgment immediately after return of verdict is not ground for reversal: See Harris v. Fidalgo Mill Co., 38 Wash. 169.

A judgment entered by the clerk immediately upon rendition of the verdict, pursuant to this section, is not void because the fees required by § 497, infra, were not collected by the clerk; and failure to collect the fees does not affect the finality of the judgment for the purposes of appeal: Chilcott v. Globe Nav. Co., 49 Wash. 302.

As to premature entry and entry nunc pro tunc, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1594, §§ 71, 72.

The premature entry of a judgment upon the verdict of a jury before notice of a new trial could be interposed, is not ground for vacating the judgment, when the motion for a new trial has, nevertheless, been given a full hearing and decided on its merits: Port Townsend Nat. Bank v. Weymouth, 11 Wash. 412; Kinkade v. Witherop, 29 Wash. 10.

Although a judgment may not be entered within the time provided by law, it is not thereby rendered void: Brown v. Porter, 7 Wash. 327; West Phil. etc. Trust Co. v. Olympia, 19 Wash. 150; Quareles v. Seattle, 26 Wash. 226; State ex rel. Brown v. Brown, 31 Wash. 397.

The district court has no jurisdiction, even with the consent of parties, to enter as of a past term a decree rendered at chambers in vacation: P. S. A. Co. v. Pierce Co., 1 W. T. 75.

Judgments nunc pro tunc are only allowed in furtherance of justice, never to work injustice: Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143; Schulze v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., 41 Wash. 614.

Where the record fails to show that an order made in vacation, and directing a judgment to be entered nunc pro tunc, was within the statute, such judgment then directed to be entered cannot be regarded as relating back to a prior date: Hale v. Finch, 1 W. T. 17. But see Barthrop v. Tucker, 29 Wash. 666.

Failure to decide a case within ninety days after its submission does not render the judgment void: See Demaris v. Barker, 33 Wash. 200; Moylan v. Moylan, 49 Wash. 341.

Entry of judgment is to be distinguished from rendition thereof: See Quareles v. Seattle, 26 Wash. 226; Sears v. Kilbourne, 28 Wash. 194; Barthrop v. Tucker, 29 Wash. 666; State ex rel. Brown v. Brown, 31 Wash. 397.

§ 433. (5117.) Judgment in Case of Setoff.

If a setoff established at the trial exceed the plaintiff's demand so established, judgment for the defendant shall be given for the excess; or if it appear that the defendant is entitled to any [other] affirmative relief, judgment shall be given accordingly. [L. '54, p. 173, § 231; Cd. '81, § 303; 2 H. C., § 437.]

See supra, §§ 269-272, judgment in case of setoff.

§ 434. (5118.) Judgment in Actions to Recover Personal Property.

In an action to recover the possession of personal property, judgment for the plaintiff may be for the possession or value thereof, in case a delivery cannot be had, and damages for the detention. If the property has been delivered to the plaintiff, and the defendant claim a return thereof, judgment for the defendant may be for a return of the property, or the value thereof in case a return cannot be had, and damages for taking and withholding the same. [L. '54, p. 173, § 232; Cd. '81, § 304; 2 H. C., § 438.]

See supra, § 363, verdict in actions for specific personal property.

See infra, § 707, and notes, action of replevin.

See infra, § 573 et seq., adverse claim to property levied on.

Cited in 8 Wash. 636; 10 Wash. 227; 22 Wash. 309.

As to judgment in actions of replevin, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 2508, 2509, §§ 44-51; Bancroft-Whitney Co. v. Gowan, 24 Wash. 66; Dow v. Dempsey, 21 Wash. 86; Hall v. Law Guarantee & T. Soc., 22 Wash. 305; Eidson v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 225; Kehoe v. McConaghy, 29 Wash. 175; Harvey v. Ivory, 35 Wash. 397.

No authority can be found in this section for entering any other judgment than one for the return of the property or, in case return cannot be had, for its value, and under its provision such judgment can only be rendered against plaintiff or defendant in the action, and there is no authority for entering judgment against sureties in the bond given to secure possession: Eidson v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 225, 227.

In an action of replevin judgment in favor of plaintiff should be for possession of the property in controversy, or in case delivery cannot be had, for the value thereof, with damages for the detention: National Bank v. Meerwaldt, 8 Wash. 630.

§ 435. (5119.) Where and What must be Entered.

All judgments shall be entered by the clerk, subject to the direction of the court, in the journal, and shall specify clearly the amount to be recovered, the relief granted, or other determination of the action. [L. '69, p. 75, § 307; Cd. '81, § 305; 2 H. C., § 439.]

See supra, § 431, and notes, when judgment shall be entered.

Cited in 26 Wash. 228; 31 Wash. 402.

The existence of a judgment, though not entered in the court's journal as contemplated by statute, nor having the file-mark of the clerk, may be established by competent proof after the death of the judge rendering it: Eakin v. McCraith, 2 W. T. 112.

A clerical error of the county clerk in recording a judgment by filling up a blank for the date six days later than the filing date is immaterial, as the date of the judgment was the date of its filing: Warner v. Miner, 41 Wash. 98.

An order does not become final until entered: See State ex rel. Brown v. Brown, 31 Wash. 397.

It is not necessary for the validity of a decree or judgment that it be served upon any party to a cause after it has been filed: See Western Security Co. v. Lafleur, 17 Wash. 406; Fisher v. Puget Sound Brick Co., 34 Wash. 578.

An indorsement of "O. K." will be considered an assent as to form only where exceptions were taken: See Humphries v. Sorenson, 33 Wash. 563.

§ 436. (5120.) Summons. After Judgment, to Joint Debtor not Originally Served.

When a judgment is recorded [entered] against one or more of several persons jointly indebted upon an obligation by proceeding as provided in section 236, such defendants who were not originally served with the summons, and did not appear to the action, may be summoned to show cause why they should not be bound by the judgment in the same manner as though they had been originally served with the summons. [L. '77, p. 64, § 318; Cd. '81, § 314; 2 H. C., § 440.]

Section 13, p. 411 of Laws 1893, being § 236 of this code, is inserted instead of § 177 of 2 Hill's Code, the latter being considered repealed by the former law.

See supra, § 192, persons severally liable, how sued.

See supra, § 236, proceedings against defendants severally liable.

See supra, § 407, judgments against several defendants.

See supra, § 415, confession of judgment by joint debtors.

§ 437. (5121.) What Such Summons must Contain.

The summons as provided in the last section must describe the judgment, and require the person summoned to show cause why he should not be bound by it, and must be served in the same manner and returnable within the same time as the original summons. It is not necessary to file a new complaint. [L. '77, p. 64, § 319; Cd. '81, § 315; 2 H. C., § 441.]

See supra, § 245, manner of making service of summons.
See references under last section.

§ 438. (5122.) Must be Supported by Affidavit.

The summons must be accompanied by an affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent, representative, or attorney, that the judgment, or some part thereof, remains unsatisfied, and must specify the amount due thereon. [L. '77, p. 65, § 320; Cd. '81, § 316; 2 H. C., § 442.]

§ 439. (5123.) Defenses in Such Case.

Upon the service of such summons and affidavit, the defendant may answer within the time specified therein, denying the judgment, or setting up any defense which may have arisen subsequently to the taking of the judgment, or he may deny his liability on the obligation upon which the judgment was rendered, except a discharge from such liability by the statute of limitations. [L. '77, p. 65, § 321; Cd. '81, § 317; 2 H. C., § 443.]

§ 440. (5124.) What Constitute Pleadings in Such Case.

If the defendant in his answer deny the judgment, or set up any defense which may have arisen subsequently, the summons, with the affidavit annexed, and the answer, constitute the written allegations in the case; if he deny his liability on the obligation upon which the judgment was rendered, a copy of the original complaint and judgment, the summons with the affidavit annexed, and the answer constitute such written allegations. [L. '77, p. 65, § 322; Cd. '81, § 318; 2 H. C., § 444.]

§ 441. (5125.) Trial and Entry in Such Cases.

The issue formed may be tried as in other cases, but when the defendant denies in his answer any liability on the obligation upon which the judgment was rendered, if a verdict be found against him, it must not exceed the amount remaining unsatisfied on such original judgment, with interest thereon. [L. '77, p. 65, § 323; Cd. '81, § 319; 2 H. C., § 445.]

See supra, § 361, and notes, receiving verdict and discharging jury.

Where plaintiff obtained a verdict for a certain sum, "with legal interest," and the court gave judgment for interest from date sixty days after the making of the contract, the judgment is erroneous: Western M. & L. Co. v. Blanchard, 1 Wash. 230, 235; Meeker v. Gardella, 1 Wash. 139.

§ 442. (5126.) Judgment-roll—What Constitutes.

Immediately after entering the judgment, the clerk shall attach the following papers in the case, which shall constitute the judgment-roll:—

1. If the complaint has not been answered by any defendant, and no pleading has been filed by an intervener, he shall attach together, in the order of their filing, issuing, and entry, the complaint, summons, and proof of service, and a copy of the entry of judgment;

2. In all other cases he shall attach together in like manner the summons and proof of service, the pleadings, bill of exceptions, all orders relating to change of parties, together with a copy of the entry of judgment, and all other journal entries or orders in any way involving the merits and necessarily affecting the judgment. [Cf. L. '54, p. 173, § 233; Cd. '81, § 306; L. '91, p. 77, § 3; 2 H. C., § 446.]

§ 443. (5127.) How Judgment-roll Indorsed and Preserved.

In all cases, the clerk shall attach upon the outside of the judgment-roll a blank sheet of paper, upon which he shall indorse the name of the court, the title of the action, for whom judgment was given, and the amount or nature thereof and the date of its entry. [L. '91, p. 77, § 4; 2 H. C., § 447.]

CHAPTER XV.

JUDGMENT LIENS.

§ 444. (5131.) Execution Docket.

Every clerk shall keep in his office a well-bound book, to be called the execution docket, which shall be a public record, and open during the usual business hours to all persons desirous of inspecting it. [L. '54, p. 173, § 234; Cd. '81, § 307; 2 H. C., § 448.]

See supra, § 75, books to be kept by clerk.

§ 445. (5132.) Judgment Lien.

The real estate of any judgment debtor and such as he may acquire, shall be held and bound to satisfy any judgment of the district or circuit court of the United States, if rendered in this state, or of the superior or supreme court, or any judgment of a justice of the peace for the period of five years from the day on which said judgment was rendered, and such judgments shall be a lien thereupon to commence as follows: Judgments of the superior court of the county in which real estate of the judgment debtor is situated, from the date of the entry thereof; judgments of the district or circuit courts of the United States, if rendered in this state; judgments of the supreme court; judgments of the superior court of any county other than the county in which said judgment was rendered, and judgments of a justice of the peace, from the time of the filing and indexing of a duly certified transcript or abstract of such judgments, as provided by this chapter, with the county clerk of the county in which said real estate is situated. [Cf. L. '54, p. 175, § 240; L. '57, p. 11, § 15; L. '60, p. 51, § 234; L. '69, p. 78, § 317; Cd. '81, § 321; 2 H. C., § 460; L. '93, p. 65, § 1; see also 2 H. C., §§ 449, 450, 455, 456, 457, 460, and L. '93, p. 67, § 9.]

75; 28 Wash. 196; 29 Wash. 255, 665; As to the lien of judgments, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1630-1633, §§ 237-251.

Under § 449, 2 Hill's Code, the filing in the county auditor's office of a transcript of a judgment, instead of the abstract thereof required to be entered by the clerk in the execution docket, is all that is necessary to create a lien upon the judgment debtor's land in the county; and the requirement that the names of the parties shall be set forth at length is merely a requirement that the names shall be stated as shown by the judgment entry: Lamey v. Coffman, 11 Wash. 301; and the fact that the amount of costs is not shown in the transcript will not defeat the lien of the principal judgment itself: Id. See, also, Murray v. Briggs, 29 Wash. 245; Fuller & Co. v. Hull, 19 Wash. 400.

The obtaining of a general judgment lien held not to cut off the subsequent selection of a homestead at any time before sale to satisfy the judgment: McMillan v. Mau, 1 Wash. 26; Philbrick v. Andrews, 8 Wash. 7.

Judgment liens are voidable where a judgment debtor in failing circumstances confesses judgment in favor of certain creditors, who have knowledge of his condition, after the intention to make an assignment had been fully formed in his mind, and follows the confession with an assignment for the benefit of creditors: Hyman v. Barmon, 6 Wash. 516.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage on certain real estate, to which one of the defendants interposes the defense that he has a paramount interest by reason of a judgment lien, against a leasehold interest in the land, evidence is admissible to show that the actual interest of the judgment interest in the lands is less than it is made to appear by the county records: Book v. Willey, 8 Wash. 267.

The judgment lien provided by § 460, 2 Hill's Code, as attaching to all the real estate of the judgment debtor in any county after the filing of a transcript thereof in the office of the county auditor, will not attach to lands conveyed by the judgment debtor to his wife, prior to the rendition of judgment, although the judgment was for a community debt; and the subsequent conveyance of such lands, for value prior to any proceedings taken by the judgment creditor attacking the transfer from husband to wife, is sufficient to pass the land free from all claims of the judgment creditor: Sawtelle v. Weymouth, 14 Wash. 21. See, also, Preston-Parton Mill Co. v. Dexter Horton & Co., 22 Wash. 236.

As to commencement of lien, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1631, § 241; Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143; Shumway v. Orchard, 12 Wash. 104; Fuller & Co. v. Hall, 19 Wash. 400; Quareles v. Seattle, 26 Wash. 226; State ex rel. Brown v. Brown, 31 Wash. 397; Whitworth v. McKee, 32 Wash. 83.

As to property affected and extent of lien, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1631, §§ 243, 244; Traders' Nat. Bank of Spokane v. Schorr, 20 Wash. 1; Book v. Willey, 8 Wash. 267; Dawson v. McCarty, 21 Wash. 314; Phoenix Min. etc. Co. v. Scott, 20 Wash. 48; Woodhurst v. Cramer, 29 Wash. 40.

Absence from the state by the judgment debtor does not extend the lien of the judgment, which under this section expires five years after the date of the rendition of the judgment: Hemen v. Rinehart, 45 Wash. 1.

As to priorities between judgments or between judgments and conveyances, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1632, §§ 246, 247; Mayer v. Morgan, 26 Wash. 71; Goetzinger v. Rosenfeld, 16 Wash. 392; Dawson v. McCarty, 21 Wash. 314; Dow v. Ballard, 28 Wash. 87; Boyer v. Robinson, 26 Wash. 118; Hall v. Law Guar. etc. Soc., 22 Wash. 306. See, also, Young v. Davis, 50 Wash. 504.

§ 446. (5133.) Clerk's Record Index.

It shall be the duty of the county clerk to keep a proper record index, both direct and inverse, of any and all judgments, abstracts or transcripts of judgments in his office, and all renewals thereof, and such index shall refer to each party against whom the judgment is rendered or whose property is affected thereby, [which index] together with the records of said judgments, shall be open to public inspection during regular office hours. [Cf. 2 H. C., § 452; L. '93, p. 66, § 6.]

See references to § 445, supra.

§ 447. (5133a.) Assignment or Satisfaction, Filing—Notice.

Any assignment or satisfaction of judgment, or any certified transcript of such assignment or satisfaction, may be recorded in any county auditor's office, or county clerk's office, in which the judgment is of record, and from the time of filing for record shall be notice of such assignment or satisfaction. [L. '97, p. 10, § 1.]

 Operation and effect of assignment of judgment and rights of assignee: See § 448. (5134.) Entries in Execution Docket.

He shall leave space on the same page, if practicable, with each case, in which he shall enter, in the order in which they occur, all the proceedings subsequent to the judgment in said case until its final satisfaction, including the time when and to what county the execution is issued, and when returned, and the return or the substance thereof. When the execution is levied on personal property which is returned unsold, the entry shall be: "Levied (noting the date) on property not sold." When any sheriff shall furnish the clerk with a copy of any levy upon real estate on any judgment the minutes of which are entered in his execution docket, the entry shall be: "Levied upon real estate," noting the date, and shall refer to the page upon the book of levies where the same is entered, as is hereinafter provided. When any execution issued to any other county is returned levied upon real estate in such county, the entry in the docket shall be: "Levied on real estate of —, in — county," noting the date, county, and defendant whose estate is levied upon, and when the money is made, or any part thereof, the amount and time when made shall be entered; also, when a writ of error has been taken, or the judgment is appealed, modified, discharged, or in any manner satisfied, the facts in respect thereto shall be entered. The parties interested may also assign or discharge such judgment on such execution docket. When the judgment is fully satisfied in any way, the clerk shall write the word "satisfied," in large letters across the face of the entry of such judgment. [L. '54, p. 174, § 237; Cd. '81, § 310; 2 H. C., § 451.]

See next section.

See supra, § 75, duties of clerks.

See supra, § 444, execution docket.

See infra, § 454, entry of satisfaction.

§ 449. (5135.) Book of Levies.

The clerk shall also keep in his office a well-bound book, to be called a book of levies, which shall be a public record, and open during the usual business hours to all persons desirous of inspecting the same, in which he shall enter all levies upon real estate in his county, when delivered to him by the sheriff, as provided by law. An alphabetical index shall be prefixed to the book of levies, containing the names of all persons upon whose real estate such levies have been made, and when such levies are discharged in any manner, an entry thereof shall be made in the margin of the book of levies where the levy is recorded. [L. '54, p. 174, § 239; Cd. '81, § 313; 2 H. C., § 454.]

§ 450. (5136.) Transcripts from Justices' Courts.

Any judgment of any justice of the peace of any county in this state, shall become a lien upon any real estate of the judgment debtor, and such as he may acquire in that county wherein said judgment was rendered by the filing of a duly certified transcript from the docket of said justice in the county clerk's office of said county wherein said judgment was rendered, and upon such filing said judgment shall become to all intents and purposes a judgment of said superior court of said county, said judgment of said justice of the peace shall become a lien upon the real estate of the judgment debtor and such as he may acquire in any county other than that in which the same was rendered by the filing in the office of the county clerk of that county a duly certified abstract of the record of said judgment, from the office of the county clerk of that county in which the certified transcript of the said judgment of said justice of the peace was originally filed. § 451. (5137.) Abstract of Judgment, Contents of.

An abstract of a judgment as provided for in this chapter shall contain:—

1. The name of the party or parties in whose favor the judgment was rendered;

2. The name of the party or parties against whom the judgment was rendered;

3. The date of the rendition of the judgment;

4. The amount for which the judgment was rendered, and in the following manner, viz.: Principal, $——; interest, $——; costs, $——; total, $——. [L. '93, p. 66, § 3.]

§ 452. (5138.) Transcript of Justice's Docket.

A transcript of a judgment of a justice of the peace provided for by this chapter shall contain an exact copy of the judgment from the justice's docket. [L. '93, p. 66, § 4.]

See references to § 445, supra.

See infra, § 1770, justice's docket, contents of.

§ 453. (5139.) Entry of Abstract or Transcript of Judgment.

It shall be the duty of the county clerk to enter in his execution docket any duly certified abstract or transcript of any judgment of any of the courts mentioned in this chapter, and he shall index the same in the same manner as judgments originally rendered in the superior court of the county of which he is clerk. [L. '93, p. 66, § 5.]

See references to § 445, supra.

§ 454. (5140.) Satisfaction of Judgments.

When any judgment shall be paid and satisfied, the satisfaction shall be noted upon the records thereof in the execution docket as satisfied, giving the date of such satisfaction, and when the same shall be signed by the judgment creditor or his attorney the lien thereof against said real estate shall be satisfied and discharged. [L. '93, p. 66, § 7.]

As to payment, satisfaction and discharge of judgments, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1637, §§ 268 271.

On an application by defendants to the district court for an order citing plaintiff to show cause why the judgment against the defendant should not be satisfied and discharged of record, an order made by the court that the judgment be modified and reformed by striking out and disallowing the attorney's fee included therein was erroneous for the reason that it was not within the scope of the original order to show cause, and a bare exception to such final order was, under the circumstances, sufficient: Hawks v. Votaw, 1 Wash. 70.

As to mode and sufficiency of payment, see Brown v. Kern, 21 Wash. 211; Standard Furniture Co. v. Van Alstine, 31 Wash. 499.

§ 455. Satisfaction of Judgments of Federal Court—Penalty for Failure.

When the amount due on any judgment is paid off or satisfied in full, the plaintiff, or those legally acting for him, must acknowledge satisfaction thereof in the margin of the record of the judgment, or by the execution of an instrument in writing referring to the judgment, acknowledged and filed in the office of the auditor or recorder in every county where the judgment is a lien. If he fail to do so within sixty days after having been requested in writing so to do, he shall forfeit to the defendant the sum of fifty dollars. [L. '90, p. 98, § 3; 2 H. C., § 458.]

"Any judgment": This section can apply only to judgments of the United States courts. The title of the act is "An act relating to the filing and recording of transcripts of judgments rendered in this state by the district or circuit courts of the United States."

All judgments which are liens upon real estate by reason of their having been filed in any county auditor's office, shall continue to be liens thereupon in the manner now provided by law. [L. '93, p. 67, § 8.]

See references to § 445, supra.
See notes to last section.

§ 457. (5142.*) Interest on Judgments.

Judgments hereafter rendered founded on written contracts, providing for the payment of interest until paid at a specified rate, shall bear interest at the rate specified in such contracts, not in any case, however, to exceed ten per cent per annum: Provided, That said interest rate is set forth in the judgment; and all other judgments shall bear interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from date of entry thereof. [L. '99, p. 129, § 6. Cf. 2 H. C., § 459; L. '95, p. 350, § 4.]

See infra, § 6250 et seq., legal rates of interest.

Judgment on a promissory note, payable on demand, with "interest at three per cent per month," cannot bear a higher than the legal rate: Roder v. Brown, 1 W. T. 112. A judgment, given in a condemnation suit, draws interest at the legal rate: See State ex rel. Donofrio v. Humes, 34 Wash. 347.

§ 458. (5143.) Appeal does not Suspend Lien.

An appeal to the supreme court or stay of execution shall not affect any existing lien; and in all cases of an appeal the date of final judgment in the supreme court shall be the time from which said five years shall commence to run. Personal property shall only be held from the time it is actually levied upon. [Cf. L. '54, p. 175, §§ 240, 241; L. '60, p. 79, § 319; Cd. '81, § 322; 2 H. C., § 461.]

REVIVAL OF JUDGMENTS.

§ 459. (5148.) Judgment Lien Expires When.

After the expiration of six years from the rendition of any judgment it shall cease to be a lien or charge against the estate or person of the judgment debtor. [L. '97, p. 52, § 1.]

This and the next two sections are void as to existing contracts: See note to § 462, infra.

§ 460. (5149.) Proceedings for Extension Denied.

No suit, action, or other proceedings shall ever be had on any judgment rendered in the state of Washington by which the lien or duration of such judgment, claim or demand, shall be extended or continued in force for any greater or longer period than six years from the date of the entry of the original judgment. [L. '97, p. 52, § 2.]

See note to § 462, infra.

§ 461. (5150.) Exceptions.

When the lien of any judgment, as specified in section 459, has run six years, or its duration will be less than one year by reason of this act, then the lien of such judgment shall continue for one year from and after the taking effect of this act. [L. '97, p. 52, § 3.]

"This act" took effect June 9, 1897.

Cited in 21 Wash. 400; 37 Wash. 270.

§ 462. When Judgments may be Revived—Procedure.

If any judgment shall remain unsatisfied in whole or in part, at the end of five years after the date of its rendition, the lien thereof may be revived and continued, as in this section provided:

(1) The judgment creditor, his assignee, or the party to whom said judgment is due and payable, shall file a motion with the clerk of the court where judgment is entered, to revive and continue the lien of the same, with leave to issue an execution. The motion shall state the names of the parties to the judgment, the date of its entry, the amount claimed to be due thereon, or the particular property, of which the possession was thereby adjudged to such party, remaining undelivered. The motion shall be subscribed and verified in the same manner as an original complaint.

(2) At any time after filing such motion, the party may cause notice to be served on the judgment debtor in like manner and with like effect as a summons; said notice shall be attached to a copy of said motion, by the clerk of the court, and be served by the sheriff or other officer as an original summons. It shall cite the judgment debtor to appear and show cause why the said motion should not be allowed. The time in which the judgment debtor shall be required to appear, shall be the same as is prescribed for answer to a complaint, and the law applicable to service of a summons, shall apply to the service of such notice. In case the judgment debtor be dead, the notice may be served upon his legal representatives.

(3) The judgment debtor, or in case of his death, his representatives, may file an answer or demurrer to such motion within the time allowed by law to answer a complaint, alleging any defense to such motion which may exist. If no answer be filed within the time prescribed, the motion shall be allowed as of course. The moving party may demur or reply to the answer. The pleadings shall be subscribed and verified, and the proceedings concluded as in original actions.

(4) The word "representatives," in this section shall be deemed to include any or all of the persons in whose possession property of the judgment debtor may be which is liable to be taken and sold or delivered in satisfaction of the execution, and not otherwise.

(5) The order shall specify the amount due upon such unsatisfied judgment for which execution is to issue, or the particular property, possession of which is to be delivered; it shall be entered in the journal and docketed as a judgment, and a final record shall be made of the proceedings in the same manner as a judgment. [Cd. '81, § 323; 2 H. C., § 462.]

This and the next section were repealed by L. '97, p. 53, § 4, but are retained, as the repeal did not affect any existing contract obligations or judgments recovered thereon.

The proceedings authorized by this chapter to revive a judgment are not the commencement of an action; nor do the provisions of § 157, supra, limiting to six years the time in which an action may be commenced on a judgment or decree, apply to judgments rendered by the courts of this state: Burns v. Conner, 1 Wash. 6.

As to time for revival and limitations, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1636, §§ 265-267; Denio v. Benham, 24 Wash. 485; Sears v. Kilbourne, 28 Wash. 194; Barthrop v. Tucker, 29 Wash. 666; Hayton v. Beason, 31 Wash. 317; Tacoma Nat. Bank v. Sprague, 33 Wash. 285; State ex rel. Quiney v. Collins, 31 Wash. 564.

The appearance of a defendant to contest the revival of a judgment, void for want of service of process, does not waive service of process in the original action; and he cannot be required to answer the complaint upon entry of a decree setting aside the judgment: Waterman v. Bash, 46 Wash. 212.

In a proceeding to revive a judgment, the jurisdiction of the court may be attacked by answer and the same is a direct attack on the judgment: Waterman v. Bash, 46 Wash. 212.

This section does not prohibit actions on domestic judgments, which under § 157, supra, may be commenced within six years:

Lilly-Brackett Co. v. Sonnemann, 50 Wash. 487.

The legislature has power to reduce the time within which a proceeding may be commenced to revive an existing judgment, provided the right is not thereby arbitrarily and summarily cut off; since the same pertains only to the remedy and does not affect vested rights: Gaffney v. Jones, 44 Wash. 518.

A judgment upon a contract prior to the enactment of this section may be revived by a direct action at law brought thereon: Meikle v. Cloquet, 44 Wash. 513.

The act of 1897, which includes the three preceding sections, together with a repeal of this and the following section, is unconstitutional, so far as judgments on pre-existing contracts are concerned: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1635, 1636, §§ 264-267; Bettman v. Cowley, 19 Wash. 207; Palmer v. Laberee, 23 Wash. 409; Denio v. Benham, 24 Wash. 485; Raught v. Lewis, 24 Wash. 47; Williams v. Packard, 39 Wash. 217; Fischer v. Kittinger, 39 Wash. 174; Howard v. Ross, 38 Wash. 627.

But is not void as to existing judgments founded in tort: See Gaffney v. Jones, 39 Wash. 587.

As to operation and effect of revival, see Palmer v. Laberee, 23 Wash. 409; Brier v. Traders' Nat. Bank, 24 Wash. 695.

§ 463. Proof for Revival—No Revival After Six Years.

Such motion shall not be granted unless it be established by oath of the party, or other satisfactory proof, that the judgment, or some part thereof, remains unsatisfied. The order of the court granting such leave shall operate as a revival of the judgment for the amount found due at the time of such revival, and the same shall be and continue a lien upon real estate of the judgment debtor for a period of five years from and after the date of such order, in like manner with the original judgment: Provided, that a transcript thereof shall, within twenty days, be filed in the office of the county auditor of the county where the lands lie of such judgment debtor, or said lien shall be suspended till such transcript be filed. Revived judgments shall bear the same interest and be in all respects similar to original judgments as to lien and enforcement of collection: Provided, however, that no judgment shall be revived or continued unless proceedings for such revival or continuance shall be commenced within six years after the date of its rendition: Provided further, that this act shall not apply to any judgment now in existence until one year from the time this act takes effect. [L. '91, p. 165, § 1; 2 H. C., § 463.]

See notes to last section.

CHAPTER XVII.

VACATION AND MODIFICATION OF JUDGMENTS.

§ 464. (5153.) Causes for Vacation or Modification of Judgments.

The superior court in which a judgment has been rendered, or by which or the judge of which a final order has been made, shall have power, after the term [time] at which such judgment or order was made, to vacate or modify such judgment or order:—

1. By granting a new trial for the cause, within the time and in the manner, and for any of the causes prescribed by the sections relating to new trials;
2. By a new trial granted in proceedings against defendant, served by publication only as prescribed in section 235;
3. For mistakes, neglect, or omission of the clerk, or irregularity in obtaining the judgment or order;
4. For fraud practiced by the successful party in obtaining the judgment or order;
5. For erroneous proceedings against a minor [or] person of unsound mind, when the condition of such defendant does not appear in the record, nor the error in the proceedings;
6. For the death of one of the parties before the judgment in the action;
7. For unavoidable casualty or misfortune preventing the party from prosecuting or defending;
8. For error in a judgment shown by a minor, within twelve months after arriving at full age. [L. '75, p. 20, § 1; Cd. '81, § 436; 2 H. C., § 1393.]

See supra, § 235, relief in cases where personal service not had.

See supra, § 303, relief from judgments, etc.

See supra, § 398 et seq., new trials.

See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1598-1607, §§ 94-133.

The provisions of this chapter are not applicable to criminal cases: Thompson v. Territory, 1 W. T. 547.

A motion to vacate and set aside a judgment is directed to the discretion of the trial court, and its action in passing thereon will not be reversed on appeal, unless the showing made therefor leaves no room for the exercise of discretion of the lower court: Livesley v. O'Brien, 6 Wash. 553. Upon the vacation of a judgment entered for want of prosecution, it is discretionary for the trial court to make the same conditional upon the payment of an attorney's fee in excess of the statutory fee for the trial of a cause without a jury: Redding v. Puget Sound etc. Works, 44 Wash. 200.

While the party seeking to have a judgment set aside must proceed with diligence, within the year allowed by § 467, the question of diligence, as well as the sufficiency of the showing, is addressed to the discretion of the lower court, and its action in granting a petition therefor will only be set aside when it appears that there is an abuse of such discretion: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1599, § 99; Bozzie v. Vaglio, 10 Wash. 270; McDougal v. Walling, 21 Wash. 478; McCord v. McCord, 24 Wash. 529; Clein v. Wandschneider, 14 Wash. 257; State ex rel. Rucker v. Superior Court, 18 Wash. 227; Wilson v. Seattle Dry Dock etc. Co., 26 Wash. 297. See, also, Roberts v. Shelton Southwestern R. R. Co., 21 Wash. 427; Morrison v. Morrison, 25 Wash. 467; Williams v. Breen, 25 Wash. 666; Morrison v. Steenstra, 45 Wash. 175.

A defect in the record, not materially affecting the merits, is not sufficient cause for setting aside a judgment: Nesqually Mill Co. v. Taylor, 1 W. T. 1.

Where substantial rights have been denied defendant an affidavit of merits is not required of him to have the judgment vacated: Walla Walla P. & P. Co. v. Budd, 2 W. T. 336, 339; Hole v. Page, 20 Wash. 208; Bennett v. Supreme Tent etc. Maccabees, 40 Wash. 431. See, also, Titus v. Larsen, 18 Wash. 145. The presumption of jurisdiction from the recital in a tax foreclosure judgment of due service of summons is not overcome by defects in the record: Bock v. Sanders, 46 Wash. 62.

An independent action or proceeding will not lie for the purpose of setting aside a judgment in a former suit between the same parties, when the action is based upon the error of the court in setting aside a verdict in such suit: Davis v. Fields, 9 Wash. 78.

But otherwise as to clerical errors: See Long v. Eisenbeis, 18 Wash. 423.

A motion to vacate a judgment under this section cannot be made for error of law: Warren v. Hershberg, 52 Wash. 38.

If a judgment erroneous, but not void, has been entered against a party, he should either appeal or apply to the court in the manner and within the time prescribed by law to have it set aside. After the expiration of the time prescribed, the district judge has no power to vacate or modify the judgment: Hawks v. Votaw, 1 Wash. 70.

After the time fixed by law or the well-established practice, a judgment which is neither void on its face nor affected by fraud in its procurement, nor want of jurisdiction, stands for absolute verity; and neither the court which rendered nor the appellate court which has affirmed it has jurisdiction to vacate, modify or otherwise affect it: Wolferman v. Bell, 8 Wash. 140.

As to time for application, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1605, §§ 121, 122; Denton v. Merchants' Nat. Bank, 18 Wash. 387; Boston Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Hammond, 21 Wash. 158; Scott v. Hanford, 37 Wash. 5; Twigg v. James, 37 Wash. 434.

An action for the vacation of a judgment against a minor is barred if not brought within a year after the arrival of such minor at the age of majority: Hill v. Lowman, 15 Wash. 503. As to limitations on and laches in actions for vacation of judgment, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1609, § 142; Long v. Eisenbeis, 18 Wash. 423; West Phila. Title & Trust Co. v. Olympia, 19 Wash. 150; Boston Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Hammond, 21 Wash. 158; Peyton v. Peyton, 28 Wash. 278.

After the close of the next term of the district court, subsequent to the one in which the judgment was rendered, the court has no power to grant relief from such judgment: Hancock v. Stewart, 1 W. T. 323.

A judgment regularly entered will not be opened although entered by mistake, unless it appears from the motion therefor that it is wrongful or oppressive: Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Black, 3 Wash. 327; Davis v. Fields, supra; Western Security Co. v. Lafuer, 17 Wash. 406. See, also, Land Mortgage Bank v. Nicholson, 24 Wash. 258; Chehalis County v. Ellingson, 21 Wash. 638.

It is no ground for vacating a judgment that it was irregularly entered as a judgment at law in a suit in equity: Tacoma L. & M. Co. v. Wolff, 7 Wash. 478.

For defects in process, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1600, § 102; Snider v. Bedere, 39 Wash. 130; Sellers v. Pacific Wrecking etc. Co., 34 Wash. 111; Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 155.

If it is sought to secure the vacation of a judgment on the ground that it was rendered without proper service on defendant, and was based upon a promissory note which defendant never executed, the proceeding is governed by the provisions of this chapter and not by § 303, supra: Wheeler v. Moore, 10 Wash. 309.

Vacation on the ground of fraud: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1602, §§ 113-115; Snohomish Land Co. v. Blood, 40 Wash. 626; McDougall v. Walling, 21 Wash. 478; Fried- man v. Manley, 21 Wash. 675; Morrison v. Steenstra, 45 Wash. 175; see, also, Hochkin v. Bussell, 46 Wash. 7.

A judgment will not be vacated or modified on the ground of fraud when the only basis for such allegation is the fact that plaintiff sought for and obtained a decree of foreclosure covering all the land described in the mortgage, although a certain portion of the land had been released by the mortgagee: State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 591.

Where a proceeding is instituted in the lower court, for the purpose of vacating and modifying a judgment of the supreme court on appeal, the question of the jurisdiction of the lower court is involved to the extent that the supreme court is authorized, by writ of prohibition, to review and prohibit such proceeding, when it would be an unwarranted interference with such judgment: State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 591.

A decree which vests one-half of the community property in the children of a testator is not affected by the setting aside of a subsequent unauthorized and illegal decree rendered in the same cause upon intervention proceedings: Mason v. McLean, 6 Wash. 31.

It is not error for a court, while refusing to vacate a judgment in a proceeding therefor, to modify the judgment as to the amount of costs taxed therein: Tacoma L. & M. Co. v. Wolff, supra; Shearer v. Buckley, 31 Wash. 370.

Vacation for error of law, etc.: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1600, §§ 106, 107; Kuhn v. Mason, 24 Wash. 94; In re Barker's Estate, 33 Wash. 79; Snohomish Land Co. v. Blood, 40 Wash. 626.

Error of law committed by the court in including attorney fees in a judgment rendered against a partnership, upon the confession of judgment by one of the partners upon a promissory note of the firm, cannot be corrected by petition to vacate the judgment, when no fraud has been practiced upon the court, but must be reached by appeal: Dickson v. Matheson, 12 Wash. 196.

A motion to vacate a judgment for irregularities or fraud under this section cannot be made more than two years after entry of the judgment without a showing of unavoidable casualty or misfortune preventing the party from defending and diligence in making his motion: Warren v. Hershberg, 52 Wash. 38.

As to irregularities in proceedings before judgment, see State ex rel. Grady v. Lockhart, 18 Wash. 531; Lamona v. Cowley, 31 Wash. 297.

An omission from the records of the district court cannot be supplied by the order of the judge in vacation, unless authorized by statute, and it must appear on the face of the records that he acted within the statute: Hale v. Finch, 1 W. T. 517.

An amendment to § 109 of the Code of 1881 (§ 303 supra), taking away the five months' limitation on the modification of judgments rendered, is operative upon a judgment rendered ten months prior to the passage of the amendment, and as other provisions of the code allow the vacation and modification of judgments within one year after the rendition, it is competent for the legislature to extend or change the time within which it could be attacked: Marston v. Humes, 3 Wash. 267.

A court of general jurisdiction can, irrespective of statute, clear its record of judgments void for want of jurisdiction: Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 234.

Judgment may be vacated because of unauthorized appearance of attorney: See Ashcraft v. Powers, 22 Wash. 440.

A judgment will not be vacated on grounds already passed on: See Friedman v. Manley, 21 Wash. 675; Roberts v. Shelton Southwestern R. Co., 21 Wash. 427; Winstone v. Winstone, 40 Wash. 272.

As to inherent power and duty of court to modify a judgment entry to make it conform to the judgment actually entered, see O'Bryan v. American Inv. & Imp. Co., 50 Wash. 371.

§ 465. (5154.) Petition for New Trial.

When the grounds for a new trial could not with reasonable diligence have been discovered before, but are discovered after the term [time] when the verdict, report of referee, or decision was rendered or made, the application may be made by petition filed as in other cases, not later than after the discovery, on which notice shall be served and returned, and the defendant held to appear as in an original action. The facts stated in the petition [complaint] shall be considered as denied without answer. The case shall be tried as other cases by ordinary proceedings, but no motion shall be filed more than one year after the final judgment was rendered. [L. '75, p. 21, § 2; Cd. '81, § 437.]

"After the discovery": The act of 1875 provided as follows: "not later than the second term after the discovery," etc., but "terms" are now abolished.

See supra, § 399, and notes, new trial.

Cited in 25 Wash. 470; 25 Wash. 573.

§ 466. (5155.) Petition to Vacate, etc., to be by Motion, When.

The proceedings to vacate or modify a judgment or order for mistakes or omissions of the clerk, or irregularity in obtaining the judgment or order, shall be by motion served on the adverse party, or on his attorney in the action, and within one year. [Cf. L. '75, p. 21, § 3; Cd. '81, § 438; L. '91, p. 44, § 1; 2 H. C., § 1394.]

See notes to next section.

Cited in 3 Wash. 720; 13 Wash. 675; 23 Wash. 251; 25 Wash. 470, 573, 659; 44 Wash. 295.

Under this section, a petition for the vacation of an order of court cannot be entertained, when the application is not made within one year from date of the order: Green v. Williams, 13 Wash. 674; Denton v.

Merchants' Nat. Bank, 18 Wash. 387; Boston Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Hammond, 21 Wash. 158; Twigg v. James, 37 Wash. 434.

A judgment which has been irregularly obtained may be vacated and set aside by the court on motion therefor, although a remedy by petition is afforded by the next section: Griffith v. Maxwell, 25 Wash. 658.

§ 467. (5156.) Petition to be Verified, When.

The proceedings to obtain the benefit of subdivisions two, three, four, five, six, and seven of section 464 shall be by petition verified by affidavit, setting forth the judgment or order, the facts or errors constituting a cause to vacate or modify it, and if the party is a defendant, the facts constituting a defense to the action; and such proceedings must be commenced within one year after the judgment or order was made, unless the party entitled thereto be a minor or person of unsound mind, and then within one year from the removal of such disability. [Cf. L. '75, p. 21, § 4; Cd. '81, § 439; L. '91, p. 45, § 2; 2 H. C., § 1395.]

See supra, §§ 464, 465, and notes, causes and petition for vacating judgment.

Cited in 7 Wash. 482; 10 Wash. 272; 17 Wash. 601; 21 Wash. 161; 23 Wash. 247; 24 Wash. 100; 25 Wash. 270, 573, 655, 659; 28 Wash. 301; 31 Wash. 59; 34 Wash. 307; 37 Wash. 437; 39 Wash. 680; 43 Wash. 25; 45 Wash. 22; 50 Wash. 477.

Application and proceedings: See 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1603-1607, §§ 118-133.

It is not an abuse of discretion for the trial court to deny a motion to vacate a judgment when the affidavits in support thereof show only a want of attention to the case by the counsel and client: Myers v. Landrum, 4 Wash. 762.

The vacation of a judgment for the causes stated in the last preceding section must be sought exclusively by petition: Whidby Land and Develop. Co. v. Nye, 5 Wash. 301; Williams v. Breen, 25 Wash. 666.

Form and requisites of application: See Kuhn v. Mason, 24 Wash. 94; State ex rel. Hennessy v. Huston, 32 Wash. 54; Nolan v. Arnot, 36 Wash. 101; Hoefer v. Sawtelle, 43 Wash. 23.

An action by a guardian ad litem for relief from a void judgment against an insane ward is not barred, under this section, until "within one year from the removal of the disability," and hence not while the ward is hopelessly insane: Curry v. Wilson, 45 Wash. 19.

§ 468. (5157.) Proceedings.

In such proceedings the party shall be brought into court in the same way, on the same notice as to time, mode of service and mode of return, and the pleadings shall be governed by the same principles, and issues be made up by the same form, and all the proceedings conducted in the same way, as near as can be, as in original action by ordinary proceedings, except that the facts stated in the petition shall be deemed denied without answer, and defendant shall introduce no new cause, and the cause of the petition shall alone be tried. [Cf. L. '75, p. 22, § 5; Cd. '81, § 440; L. '91, p. 45, § 3; 2 H. C., § 1396.]

Cited in 7 Wash. 482; 21 Wash. 639; 23 Wash. 247; 25 Wash. 470, 573, 655; 31 Wash. 59; 32 Wash. 178, 437; 34 Wash. 307; 43 Wash. 512.

As to nature and form of proceedings and requisites of application, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1603, §§ 118, 119; Roberts v. Shelton Southwestern R. Co., 21

Wash. 427; Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244; Williams v. Breen, 25 Wash. 666; Spokane & Idaho Lum. Co. v. Stanley, 25 Wash. 653.

The proper proceeding suggested to vacate judgments in Whidby L. & B. Co. v. Nye, 5 Wash. 301.

A court of equity will sustain a demurrer to a complaint to vacate a judgment at law, unless facts justifying such action appear in the complaint: Wingard v. Jameison, 2 W. T. 402.

In proceedings for vacating a judgment no affidavit of merits is necessary, the petitioner being required to state facts upon oath; nor is it necessary to tender an answer until after it is determined that the grounds alleged are sustained: Wheeler v. Moore, 10 Wash. 309.

A complaint in an action to vacate a judgment of foreclosure is insufficient, when there is no showing that it was not an equitable one, or that the judgment would be different if the cause were retried: Hill v. Lowman, 15 Wash. 503.

Where a judgment has been vacated because of the irregularity of the plaintiff in obtaining it, it operates to avoid an execution sale made under it, as between the parties, and cancels the purchase by the execution plaintiff of the property sold: Benney v. Clein, 15 Wash. 581.

Since the court has inherent power to modify a judgment entry to make it conform to the judgment actually entered, independent of any statute, it is not material under what statute the party seeks relief: O'Bryan v. American Inv. etc. Imp. Co., 50 Wash. 371.

Prohibition will not lie to prevent the threatened erroneous vacation of a judgment, where the same would be a final disposition of the case, since there is an adequate remedy by appeal: State ex rel. Twigg v. Superior Court, 34 Wash. 643.

Where judgment on the pleadings is granted, the remedy is by appeal and not by motion to vacate the judgment for irregularity: Ellis v. Moon, 40 Wash. 114.

The power to set aside a void judgment is inherent in the court: Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 155; and may be exercised by the successor of a judge or by a judge pro tem. who tried the case: Shepard v. Gove, 26 Wash. 452; State ex rel. Rucker v. Superior Court, 18 Wash. 227; Fisher v. Puget Sound Brick etc. Co., 34 Wash. 578.

As to parties and notice on application for vacation, see 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1606, §§ 124, 125; Kuhn v. Mason, 24 Wash. 94; Morrison v. Morrison, 25 Wash. 466; Collins v. Kinneer, 37 Wash. 453; Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 155; Spokane & Idaho Lumber Co. v. Stanley, 25 Wash. 653; Dwyer v. Nolan, 40 Wash. 459; Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244.

A general appearance in support of a motion to set aside a void judgment does not validate the judgment or waive the question of jurisdiction: Bennett v. Supreme Tent etc. Maccabees, 40 Wash. 431.

Vacation of a judgment cannot be objected to for want of notice, where the record shows service of notice of motion and an appearance by the party to contest the motion: Stark Brothers v. Royce, 44 Wash. 287.

Operation and effect of vacation: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1607, §§ 131-133.

The denial of a petition to vacate a judgment is final, and res adjudicata as against any subsequent independent procedure seeking the same relief: Burnham v. Spokane Mercantile Co., 18 Wash. 207; Wilson v. Seattle Dry Dock etc. Co., 26 Wash. 297; Chezum v. Claypool, 22 Wash. 498; McCord v. McCord, 24 Wash. 529; In re Lamona's Estate, 29 Wash. 394. See, also, Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244.

Where a motion to vacate a judgment is denied on the ground that the motion was improper and the rights of the parties could not be adjudicated in such a proceeding, it is res adjudicata upon that question, although not made on the merits; and the court cannot grant a second motion to vacate based on the same grounds: Pierce County v. Bunch, 49 Wash. 599.

§ 469. (5158.) Valid Defense.

The judgment shall not be vacated on motion or petition until it is adjudged that there is a valid defense to the action in which the judgment is rendered; or if the plaintiff seeks its vacation, that there is a valid cause of action; and when judgment is modified, all liens and securities obtained under it shall be preserved to the modified judgment. [L. '75, p. 22, § 6; Cd. '81, § 441; 2 H. C., § 1397.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 388; 25 Wash. 671; 43 Wash. 25.

The provisions of this section relating to the preservation of judgment liens applies as well to judgment liens upon personalty as upon realty: Smith v. DeLanty, 11 Wash. 386, 388.

The fact that a judgment has in form been set aside and vacated and a new one entered will not destroy the lien of the former judgment, when the new judgment is a slight modification of the original judgment in the matter of amount: Smith v. DeLanty, supra.

This section does not contemplate a trial upon the merits before vacating but merely that there is substantial evidence in support of a defense: Williams v. Breen, 25 Wash. 666.

As to affidavit of merits on application, see Hoefer v. Sawtelle, 43 Wash. 23.

In an independent action in equity to vacate a judgment, alleged to be void for want of jurisdictional process, it is necessary for the plaintiff to allege that he has or had a meritorious defense, or that the judgment was inequitable, the plaintiff not being a nonresident: Brandt v. Little, 47 Wash. 194.

§ 470. (5159.) Grounds to Vacate must First be Tried.

The court may first try and decide upon the grounds to vacate or modify a judgment or order, before trying or deciding upon the validity of the defense or cause of action. [L. '75, p. 22, § 7; Cd. '81, § 442; 2 H. C., § 1398.]

Cited in 10 Wash. 311.

§ 471. (5160.) Injunction.

The party seeking to vacate or modify a judgment or order may obtain an injunction suspending proceedings on the whole or part thereof, which injunction may be granted by the court or the judge, upon its being rendered probable, by affidavit or petition sworn to, or by exhibition of the record, that the party is entitled to have such judgment or order vacated or modified. [L. '75, p. 22, § 8; Cd. '81, § 443; 2 H. C., § 1399.]

§ 472. (5161.) Construction.

The provisions of this chapter shall not be so construed as to affect the power of the court to vacate or modify judgments or orders as elsewhere in this code provided; nor shall any judgment of acquittal in a criminal action be vacated under the provisions of this chapter. [L. '91, p. 45, § 4; 2 H. C., § 1400.]

See supra, § 303, relief from judgments, etc.

A defendant in a criminal action cannot be tried after an acquittal on the merits: Const., Art. I, § 9.

Cited in 10 Wash. 36; 25 Wash. 655.

§ 473. (5162.) Judgment upon Denial of Application.

In all cases in which an application under this chapter to vacate or modify a judgment or order for the recovery of money is denied, if proceedings on the judgment or order shall have been suspended, judgment shall be rendered against the plaintiff [in this proceeding] for the amount of the former judgment or order, interest, and costs, together with damages at the discretion of the court, not exceeding ten per cent on the amount of the judgment or order. [Cf. L. '75, p. 22, § 9; Cd. '81, § 444; L. '91, p. 45, § 5; 2 H. C., § 1401.]

CHAPTER XVIII.

COSTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

§ 474. (5165.) Compensation of Attorneys—Costs.

The measure and mode of compensation of attorneys and counselors shall be left to the agreement, expressed or implied, of the parties, but there shall be allowed to the prevailing party upon the judgment certain sums by way of indemnity for his expenses in the action, which allowances are termed costs. [L. '54, p. 201, § 367; Cd. '81, § 505; 2 H. C., § 823.]

Costs in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 669-689, §§ 1-101. Attorneys' fees: See Id., p. 677, § 40.

The statute allows parties to make their own agreement as to attorneys' fees, but in the absence of any agreement, § 481, infra, regulates the matter: Potwin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460, 465.

A judgment for $125 attorney's fee against a plaintiff on dismissal of a suit in ejectment on the ground that he knew at the time of instituting suit that certain of defendants were infant children for whom a guardian ad litem must be appointed is erroneous: Mason v. McLean, 6 Wash. 31.

§ 475. (5166.) Amount, How Fixed.

In all cases of foreclosure of mortgages and in all other cases in which attorneys' fees are allowed, the amount thereof shall be fixed by the court at such sum as the court shall deem reasonable, any stipulations in the note, mortgage or other instrument to the contrary notwithstanding; but in no case shall said fee be fixed above contract price stated in said note or contract. [Cf. L. '85, p. 176, § 1; L. '88, p. 9, § 1; L. '91, p. 83, § 1; 2 H. C., § 803; L. '95, p. 81, § 1.]

See infra, § 481, and notes, statutory attorney's fee.

See notes to last section and to § 1116, infra.

See infra, § 1141, attorney's fee on foreclosure of mechanics' liens.

Cited in 7 Wash. 323; 11 Wash. 110; 15 Wash. 207, 29; 18 Wash. 463, 508, 556; 19 Wash. 84, 192, 612, 630.

Stipulation and amount of attorneys' fees: See 2 Remington's Digest, p. 1969, § 243; Scholey v. Demattos, 18 Wash. 504; Dennis v. Moses, 18 Wash. 538; Gordon v. Decker, 19 Wash. 188; Vermont Loan & T. Co. v. Greer, 19 Wash. 611; McDougall v. Walling, 19 Wash. 80.

The supreme court may allow attorney's fees in that court in foreclosure of a lien although the cause be remanded to the lower court for further proceedings: Seattle & W. W. Ry. Co. v. Ah Kow, 2 W. T. 36.

On foreclosure of mechanic's lien, the supreme court will not allow additional attorneys' fees: See Lavanway v. Cannon, 37 Wash. 593; Sweatt v. Hunt, 42 Wash. 96.

A condition in a note providing for the payment of attorney's fees in case of suit to enforce collection does not affect its negotiability: Second Nat. Bank v. Anglin, 6 Wash. 403.

Where the complaint in foreclosure alleges that $250 is a reasonable attorney's fee, and the answer denies that any sum greater than $100 is a reasonable fee, in the absence of testimony $100 is all the court is warranted in allowing: Dexter Horton & Co. v. Long, 2 Wash. 435.

The reasonableness of an attorney's fee when denied must be proven as any other fact: Id., 440.

In the foreclosure of a mortgage providing for $250 as attorney's fees to be taxed as part of the costs in case of settlement after suit, the action will not be dismissed until said sum be paid, although all other sums and costs were paid into court: Hoyt v. Smith, 4 Wash. 640.

Under this section, in giving judgment upon a promissory note, the plaintiff is entitled to judgment for attorney's fee in the amount specially contracted to be paid by the terms of the note, even if the same might otherwise be deemed excessive in amount: Exchange Nat. Bank v. Wolverton, 11 Wash. 108; affirmed in Pocin v. Furth, 15 Wash. 201, 207.

The action of the court in allowing the attorney's fee provided in a note and mortgage as payable in case of foreclosure is warranted, although there is no other proof of the value of services in such proceedings than the agreement contained in the instruments sued upon, which had been introduced in evidence: Ames v. Bigelow, 15 Wash. 532.

Where a note and mortgage provide in absolute terms for the payment of an attorney's fee, in case of suit, the mortgagee is entitled to a lien therefor upon the property, notwithstanding the mortgage may also provide that such attorney's fees might be retained out of the moneys made upon the foreclosure sale: Watson v. Sawyer, 12 Wash. 35.

Where a number of lien claimants have united in one suit for the foreclosure of their respective liens, an attorney's fee of $20 in each case is not excessive: Garneau v. Port B. M. Co., 8 Wash. 467.

An attorney's fee of $2,000 for enforcing a lien of $21,000, held excessive, and that the same should be reduced to $1,000 at least. It is not the policy of the law to allow large or exorbitant attorney's fees:

Huttig v. Denny Hotel Co., 6 Wash. 122, 127.

If the attorney's fees in the foreclosure of a logger's lien is left to the discretion of the court, a judgment therefor will not be disturbed, although no testimony as to its reasonable value was offered: Proulx v. Stetson & P. M. Co., 6 Wash. 478.

In order to recover costs and attorney's fees in a suit to foreclose a mortgage on real estate, where the mortgagor dies pending suit, it is not necessary to present the claim to the administrator of the mortgagor's estate within one year: Reed v. Miller, 1 Wash. 426. See Scammon v. Ward, 1 Wash. 179.

Where a mortgage provides for an attorney's fee of twenty per cent of the entire amount due, which sum is claimed by the plaintiff upon foreclosure, the court cannot upon rendering a decree award the plaintiff a less sum: Haywood v. Miller, 14 Wash. 660.

The finding of $60 as an attorney's fee in a foreclosure suit, without proof, is error: Cowie v. Ahrenstedt, 1 Wash. 416.

Where a written contract between attorney and client in respect to litigation with insurance companies over a certain loss by fire provided that the client should pay $500 as full payment of services, whether the case was lost or won, upon its final determination, and should pay an additional $500, making in all $1,000, in case judgment was obtained against the companies, "these respective sums in either event, to be full compensation for all services growing out of or rendered in the insurance matter," the attorney is not entitled to further compensation for litigating the matter in the supreme court, the contract, by its terms, covering all the work in all the courts: Niagara Fire Ins. Co. v. Hart, 13 Wash. 651.

Where a wife settles with her husband her action for divorce, her attorneys cannot intervene in the suit and obtain judgment for their fees and costs advanced: Hillman v. Hillman, 42 Wash. 595.

§ 476. (5167.) Prevailing Party Entitled to Costs and Disbursements.

In any action in the superior court of Washington, the prevailing party shall be entitled to his costs and disbursements; but the plaintiff shall in no case be entitled to costs taxed as attorneys' fees in actions within the jurisdiction of a justice of the peace, when commenced in the superior court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 201, §§ 368, 369; Cd. '81, §§ 506, 507; L. '83, p. 42, § 1; L. '90, p. 337, § 1; 2 H. C., § 824.]

See supra, § 429, costs in arbitration.

See supra, § 474, costs and attorney's fees.

See infra, § 1178, costs in action upon liens on logs.

See infra, § 1275, costs in actions to restore lost records.

Parties entitled: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 474, 475, §§ 19-23; Koyukuk Min. Co. v. Van de Vanter, 30 Wash. 385; Hillman v. Hillman, 42 Wash. 595; Grays Harbor Boom Co. v. McAmant, 21 Wash. 465.

For cases in which it was held proper for plaintiff to recover costs in both trial and appellate courts, see Bell v. Waudby, 4 Wash. 743, 748, 7 Wash. 203. See Vermont Loan & T. Co. v. Greer, 19 Wash. 611.

The costs of granting a writ of prohibition against a superior court, to prevent its trying a case for want of jurisdiction, should be taxed against the plaintiff in the lower court as the real party in interest: State v. Superior Court, 5 Wash. 518; State ex rel. Middlebrook v. Reid, 17 Wash. 267.

An assignee is entitled to recover his costs in an action to recover the proceeds of goods converted, as an incident of his judgment: Mansfield v. First Nat. Bank, 6 Wash. 603.

In a particular case in condemnation proceedings, held, that plaintiff was entitled to his costs and disbursements, including $15 attorney's fees: Owsley v. O. P. & N. Co., 1 Wash. 491.

Where the husband dismisses his action for divorce the court may properly render judgment against him for costs and reasonable expenses incurred by the wife in preparation of defense, including counsel fees: Thorndike v. Thorndike, 1 W. T. 175.

In an action upon a foreign judgment, a verdict for the aggregate amount of the judgment, costs and interest is not erroneous. The costs of the proceeding in the foreign jurisdiction were a part of the judgment: Ritchie v. Carpenter, 2 Wash. 512.

Upon the reversal of an order of the lower court denying plaintiff's motion to dismiss his action, there having been no appearance or resistance by defendant at any stage of the case, it is inequitable to impose costs on defendant: Somerville v. Johnson, 3 Wash. 140.

Where an action is dismissed because the statute upon which it is founded has been repealed during its pendency neither party is entitled to a judgment for costs, and these sections do not apply to such case: Thurston Co. v. Seammell, 7 Wash. 94.

Under the Law of 1854, § 369, where plaintiff sues in the district court for more than one hundred dollars and recovers judgment for less than one hundred dollars, costs should be taxed against him: Bagley v. Carpenter, 2 W. T. 19, 22; overruling Ebey v. Engle, 1 W. T. 72.

In prohibition restraining action on the part of the superior court, the costs should be taxed against the party in the original action at whose instance the court was proceeding unlawfully: State v. Superior Court, 15 Wash. 500.

An application for a writ of certiorari is an "action," within the meaning of the statute relating to the taxation of costs: State ex rel. Spokane Terminal Co. v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 453.

§ 477. (5168.) Limitations.

In an action for an assault and battery, or for false imprisonment, libel, slander, malicious prosecution, criminal conversation, or seduction, if the plaintiff recover less than ten dollars, he shall be entitled to no more costs or disbursements than the damage recovered. [L. '54, p. 202, § 370; L. '69, p. 123, § 460; Cd. '81, § 508; 2 H. C., § 825.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 12, 16.

This section, which was § 508 of the Code of 1881, being a special enactment relating to costs in particular cases, is not repealed by the act of March 27, 1890 (§ 476, supra), which was a general enactment relating to costs: Meade v. French, 4 Wash. 11.

The provisions of this section cannot be construed so as to give additional costs to the defendant in case of recovery by plaintiff of less than ten dollars damages: Id., 16. For reasons for this enactment, see Id., 15.

§ 478. (5169.) Limited to One of Several Actions.

When several actions are brought on one bond, undertaking, promissory note, bill of exchange, or other instrument in writing, or in any other case for the same cause of action against several parties, who might have been joined as defendants in the same action, no costs or disbursements shall be allowed to the plaintiff in more than one of such actions, which may be at his election, if the parties proceeded against in the other actions were, at the commencement of the previous action, openly within this state. [L. '54, p. 202, § 371; Cd. '81, § 509; 2 H. C., § 826.]

Where a widow brought suit against a county in her own name for the wrongful death of her husband, and upon submitting to a voluntary nonsuit, judgment for $264 costs was entered against her, it is an abuse of discretion, upon the commencement of a suit by her as administratrix for the benefit of the widow and children, to stay proceedings as to the widow's claim until the costs of the former action were paid, where it appears that she is without means, has three small children to support, that she and the children had been ill, dependent upon charity, and inmates of the county poor farm, and no additional costs would accrue to the county by reason of the inclusion of the widow's claim: Archibald v. Lincoln County, 50 Wash. 55.

§ 479. (5170.) Costs to Defendant, When.

In all cases where costs and disbursements are not allowed to the plaintiff, the defendant shall be entitled to have judgment in his favor for the same. [L. '54, p. 202, § 372; Cd. '81, § 510; 2 H. C., § 827.]

Cited in 7 Wash. 96.

This section does not apply to cases where neither party is entitled to costs: Thurston Co. v. Scammel, 7 Wash. 94, 96.

The plaintiff in an equitable action, on payment of costs, may dismiss his bill at any time before final decree: Waite v. Wingate, 4 Wash. 324.

When an action is dismissed because the statute upon which it is founded has been repealed during its pendency neither party is entitled to judgment for costs, and these sections do not apply to such a case: Thurston Co. v. Scammel, supra.

§ 480. (5171.) Costs to Defendants Defending Separately.

In all actions where there are several defendants not united in interest, and making separate defenses by separate answers, and the plaintiff fails to recover judgment against all, the court may award costs to such defendants as recover judgments in their favor, or either of them. [L. '54, p. 202, § 373; Cd. '81, § 511; 2 H. C., § 828.]

See infra, §§ 579, 580, levy of execution on joint property.

Cited in 30 Wash. 391.

In an action to reform a deed without prior demand on defendant for correction, the costs upon a decree of reformation should be assessed against the plaintiff: Seward v. Spurgeon, 9 Wash. 74.

And the same rule is applicable to a claim secured by lien: See Frazer v. Rutherford, 26 Wash. 658.

Successful defendants are entitled to attorneys' and witnesses' fees where several actions for the foreclosure of liens concerning separate and distinct persons and property, in which separate judgments are required, are consolidated: Grays Harbor Boom Co. v. McAmmant, 21 Wash. 465.

As to costs to persons defending separately, see Koyukuk Min. Co. v. Van de Vanter, 30 Wash. 385; Wittler-Corbin Machinery Co. v. Martin, 47 Wash. 123; Springer v. Ayer, 50 Wash. 642.

§ 481. (5172.) Costs as Attorney Fee—Amount Taxable.

When allowed to either party, costs, to be called the attorney fee, shall be as follows:—

1. In all actions settled before issue is joined, five dollars;
2. In all actions where judgment is rendered without a jury, ten dollars;
3. In all actions where judgment is rendered after impaneling a jury, fifteen dollars;
4. In all actions removed to the supreme court and settled before argument, ten dollars;
5. In all actions where judgment is rendered in the supreme court after argument, fifteen dollars. [L. '54, p. 202, § 374; L. '69, p. 124, § 464; Cd. '81, § 512; 2 H. C., § 829.]

In State ex rel. Spokane Terminal Co. v. Superior Court, 40 Wash. 453, it was held that subdivision 5, omitted from Ballinger's Code, was not superseded by Laws 1893, p. 132, § 29 (§ 1744, infra), but whether subdivision 4 is superseded was not expressly decided.

See supra, §§ 474, 475, compensation of attorneys.

See infra, § 1744, costs allowed prevailing party in supreme court.

Cited in 26 Wash. 136; 34 Wash. 434; 40 Wash. 453, 454.

Where there is an agreement in a contract covering attorney's fees, the statutory attorney fee is improperly included in a cost bill: Potwin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460, 465.

The effect of the limitation of five per cent for attorney's fees in a mortgage expressed the reasonable maximum agreed upon, and an allowance by the court in excess thereof is to that extent excessive; and this is true although the note recites that the maker would pay "such sum as the court may adjudge reasonable as attorney's fees": Id. See notes to § 474.

The right to the statutory attorney fee of fifteen dollars in cases tried before a jury is not lost by reason of the fact that after a trial is begun, the cause is disposed of by the court upon motion for a nonsuit or by directing a verdict: Kimble v. Kimble, 14 Wash. 369.

In an action at law the court can impose no costs by way of attorney's fee excepting such as are expressly provided by statute:

Larson v. Winder, 14 Wash. 647; Spencer v. Commercial Co., 36 Wash. 374.

In an action to set aside a deed, in which a tender of moneys paid on the purchase price has not been kept good, the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment for costs upon a finding in his favor, and a decree entitling him to reconveyance on repayment of the moneys received from defendant: Fares v. Gleason, 14 Wash. 657.

And before action, a defendant need not include the cost of filing a lien notice: See Young v. Borzone, 26 Wash. 4.

Where an attorney fee is provided by statute in certain forms of action, it is erroneous to allow in addition thereto the statutory fee of $10 allowed as costs to the prevailing party: Montesano v. Blair, 12 Wash. 188; Bolster v. Stocks, 13 Wash. 460.

Only the statutory attorney's fee can be allowed in an action foreclosing a lien for alimony under a decree awarding divorce and alimony: Trumble v. Trumble, 26 Wash. 133.

In an action by a resident taxpayer to restrain the payment of warrants, it is error to allow an attorney's fee of $500 upon giving judgment for the plaintiff: Criswell v. Directors School Dist. No. 24, 34 Wash. 420.

In a common-law action for the wrongful suing out of an attachment, an allowance of $75 as an attorney's fees is error, only the statutory fee being recoverable: McGill v. Fuller & Co., 45 Wash. 615.

§ 482. (5173.*) Disbursements, etc.—Cost Bill.

The prevailing party, in addition to allowance for costs, as provided in the last section, shall also be allowed for all necessary disbursements, including the fees of officers allowed by law, the fees of witnesses, the necessary expenses of taking depositions, by commission or otherwise, and the compensation of referees. The disbursements shall be stated in detail and verified by affidavit, and shall be served on the opposite party or his attorney, and filed with the clerk of the court, within ten days after the judgment; Provided, the clerk of the court shall keep a record of all witnesses in attendance upon any civil action, for whom fees are to be claimed, with the number of days in attendance and their mileage, and no fees or mileage for any witness shall be taxed in the cost bill unless they shall have reported their attendance at the close of each day's session to the clerk in attendance at such trial. [L. '05, p. 32, § 1. Cf. L. '54, p. 202, § 375; L. '69, p. 124, § 465; L. '77, p. 109, § 517; Cd. '81, § 513; 2 H. C., § 830.]

Taxation of costs: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 679, 680, §§ 50-57. Items taxable: Id., pp. 676-679, §§ 33-49.

Where costs depend upon facts not ascertained from the record, the cost bill should itemize the charge so that the opposing party may know what is claimed: Potwin v. Blasher, 9 Wash. 460.

Costs on execution, being accruing costs which the sheriff adds as they are made, have no place in a cost bill: Id.

Johnson*, 17 Wash. 264; Deering v. Holcomb, 26 Wash. 588; Stowe v. La Conner Trad. & Transp. Co., 39 Wash. 28.

It is proper to tax as costs the advance jury fee paid by the prevailing party prior to a stipulation to waive a jury trial: Lilly v. Lilly, Bogardus & Co., 39 Wash. 337.

Stenographers' fees for attendance and transcribing testimony cannot be taxed: See Bringold v. Spokane, 19 Wash. 333.

Cost of copies of documents admitted in evidence may be included in cost bill: See New Whatcom v. Bellingham Bay etc. Co., 16 Wash. 137; McCleary v. Willis, 35 Wash. 676; Hamilton v. Witner, 50 Wash. 689.

It is error to tax as costs fees paid a private citizen for preparing copies of complaint and summons, and for service thereof on defendant: Creighton v. Cole, 10 Wash. 472; a rule of the superior court allowing such costs is invalid: Id.

A witness who attends a trial and testifies upon request, without process, is entitled to compensation: Christensen v. Union Trunk Line, 6 Wash. 75.

A witness from outside the state is entitled to mileage within the borders of the state: Carlson Bros. & Co. v. Van de Vanter, 19 Wash. 32; State v. Lorenz, 22 Wash. 289.

Fees of witnesses present, though not sworn, may be taxed: Ivall v. Willis, 17 Wash. 645; McCleary v. Willis, 35 Wash. 676.

The clerk is not authorized to tax fees approving appeal and supersedeas bond: Soules v. McLean, 7 Wash. 451.

A sheriff is not entitled to commissions, under § 497, infra, upon the sale of mortgaged property on foreclosure, where plaintiff bids in the property for the amount of the mortgage debt, and no moneys pass through his hands: State v. Prince, 9 Wash. 107.

§ 483. (5174.) Fees of Referees.

The fees of referees shall be five dollars to each for every day necessarily spent in the business of the reference, and twenty cents per folio for writing testimony; but the parties may agree in writing upon any rate of compensation, and thereupon such rate shall be allowed. [Cf. L. '54, p. 202, § 376; L. '77, p. 109, § 518; Cd. '81, § 514; 2 H. C., § 831.]

See supra, § 423, fees of arbitrators.

See infra, § 500, "folio" defined.

Cited in 3 Wash. 741.

A referee cannot increase his fees to more than twenty cents per folio for writing the testimony, although he employs a stenographer for that purpose: Park v. Mighell, 3 Wash. 737.

§ 484. (5175.) Costs on Postponement of Trial.

When an application shall be made to a court or referees to postpone a trial, the payment to the adverse party of a sum not exceeding ten dollars, besides the fees of witnesses, may be imposed as the condition of granting the postponement. [L. '54, p. 203, § 377; Cd. '81, § 515; 2 H. C., § 832.]

See supra, § 322, motion for continuance.

Cited in 9 Wash. 225.

More than ten dollars in addition to witness fees cannot be imposed as a condition for postponement of a trial: Tacoma Nat. Bank v. Peet, 9 Wash. 222.

Dismissal for nonpayment of continuance fee: Soder v. Adams Hardware Co., 38 Wash. 607.

§ 485. (5176.) Costs Where Tender is Made.

When, in an action for the recovery of money, the defendant alleges in his answer that, before the commencement of the action, he tendered to the plaintiff the full amount to which he is entitled, in such money as by agreement ought to be tendered, and thereupon brings into court, for the plaintiff, the amount tendered, and the allegation be found true, the plaintiff shall not recover costs, but shall pay them to the defendant. [Cf. L. '54, p. 203, § 378; Cd. '81, § 516; 2 H. C., § 833.]

Cited in 51 Wash. 665.

Effect of tender or deposit: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 673, § 11; Fares v. Gleason, 14 Wash. 657; Young v. Borzone, 26 Wash. 4.

Where money is paid into court, in the nature of a tender, and is received by the plaintiff, his act terminates his right to further litigation; and neither he nor his attorney will afterward be permitted to return a part of the money, or even the whole of it, and prosecute an appeal: Lyons v. Bain, 1 W. T. 482.

A tender of money paid into court by a defendant in an action to foreclose a lien may, in the discretion of the court, be made liable for the payment of costs taxed in favor of the plaintiff: Kruegel v. Kitchen, 33 Wash. 214.

§ 486. (5177.) Deposit with Clerk by Defendant of Tender, Effect of.

If the defendant, in any action pending, shall at any time deposit with the clerk of the court, for the plaintiff, the amount which he admits to be due, together with all costs that have accrued, and notify the plaintiff thereof, and such plaintiff shall refuse to accept the same in discharge of the action, and shall not afterwards recover a larger amount than that deposited with the clerk, exclusive of interest and cost, he shall pay all costs that may accrue from the time such money was so deposited. [L. '54, p. 203, § 379; Cd. '81, § 517; 2 H. C., § 834.]

Cited in 4 Wash. 671.

In an action by a vendor to recover purchase money, obtained by fraud in the sale of lands, the amount tendered and deposited in court by an intervener, claiming as successor in interest of the defendant, and which was not accepted, cannot be awarded to the plaintiff, upon judgment against the defendant, but belongs to the intervener: Lazier v. Cady, 44 Wash. 339.

§ 487. (5178.) Costs in Appeals from Justice's Court.

In all civil actions tried before a justice of the peace, in which an appeal shall be taken to the superior court, and the party appellant shall not recover a more favorable judgment in the superior court than before the justice of the peace, such appellant shall pay all costs. [L. '54, p. 203, § 380; Cd. '81, § 518; 2 H. C., § 835.]

The expression "a more favorable judgment," in the above section, does not mean a few dollars or cents larger or smaller than the judgment recovered in the justice's court, but one substantially more favorable, which is to be determined by the court, in view of the circumstances of each particular case: Baxter v. Scoland, 2 W. T. 86.

Where plaintiff claims more than $100 and recovers less than that sum in such action, defendant is entitled to costs: Bagley v. Carpenter, 2 W. T. 19; overruling in part Ebey v. Engle, 1 W. T. 72.

§ 488. (5179.) Costs Against Guardian of Infant Plaintiff.

When costs are adjudged against an infant plaintiff, the guardian or person by whom he appeared in the action shall be responsible therefor, and payment may be enforced by execution. [L. '54, p. 203, § 381; Cd. '81, § 519; 2 H. C., § 836.]

§ 489. (5180.) Costs in Cases of Executors, etc.

In [an] action prosecuted or defended by an executor, administrator, trustee of an express trust, or a person expressly authorized by statute, costs shall be recovered as in an action by or against a person prosecuting [or defending] in his own right, but such costs shall be chargeable only upon or collected of the estate of the party represented, unless the court shall direct the same to be paid by the plaintiff or defendant personally for mismanagement or bad faith in such action or defense. [L. '54, p. 203, § 382; Cd. '81, § 520; 2 H. C., § 837.]

See supra, § 180, executors, etc., as parties to actions.

§ 490. (5181.) Assignee Liable for Costs, When.

When the cause of action, after the commencement of the action, by assignment, or in any other manner, becomes the property of a person not a party thereto, and the prosecution or defense is thereafter continued, such person shall be liable to the costs in the same manner as if he were a party. and payment thereof may be enforced by execution. [Cf. L. '54, p. 203, § 383; L. '69, p. 125, § 473; Cd. '81, § 521; 2 H. C., § 838.]

§ 491. (5182.) Costs Against State or County.

In all actions prosecuted in the name and for the use of the state, or in the name and for the use of any county, the state or county shall be liable for costs in the same case and to the same extent as private parties. [L. '54, p. 203, § 384; Cd. '81, § 522; 2 H. C., § 839.]

See infra, § 508, county to pay costs, when.

See infra, § 2228 et seq., costs and cost bills in criminal actions.

As to liabilities of the state and the county for costs in criminal actions, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 687, §§ 93, 94; State v. Rutledge, 40 Wash. 9.

State: See State ex rel. Thurston County v. Grimes, 7 Wash. 445.

Court, 32 Wash. 80; State ex rel. News Pub. Co. v. Milligan, 4 Wash. 29; Presby v. Klickitat County, 5 Wash. 329.

The costs in an action against the state to confirm the sale of school lands made under the territorial laws should be assessed against the plaintiff, although judgment may be in his favor; but the state is liable for the costs of an unsuccessful appeal from such judgment: Romine v. State, 7 Wash. 215.

A court has no power to charge a county with the expense of stenographer's fees in taking testimony in a civil suit: State v. Superior Court, 4 Wash. 30.

In criminal cases where the appellant is successful, costs are taxable against the state: See State v. Rutledge, 40 Wash. 9.

§ 492. (5183.) Costs in Revisory Proceedings.

When the decision of a court of inferior jurisdiction, in an action or special proceeding, is brought before the supreme court or a superior court for review, such proceedings shall, for purpose of costs, be deemed an action at issue upon a question of law from the time the same is brought into the supreme court or superior court, and costs thereon may be awarded and collected in such manner as the court shall direct, according to the nature of the case. [L. '54, p. 204, § 385; Cd. '81, § 523; 2 H. C., § 840.]

See infra, § 1744, costs on appeal.

Upon a writ of certiorari, where the lower tribunal has no jurisdiction to adjudge costs, the superior court would be without jurisdiction to enter judgment for the costs incurred before such lower tribunal: Bringgold v. Spokane, 19 Wash. 333.

Upon reversing a judgment in disbarment proceedings for costs in a substantial amount, the defendant is entitled to his costs on appeal, to be taxed against the state, and not against the relators: State ex rel. Dill v. Martin, 45 Wash. 76.

As to costs upon dismissal of appeal, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 681, § 63; Henry v. Great Northern R. Co., 16 Wash. 417; Bash v. Eisenbeis, 16 Wash. 700; Lemey v. Coffman, 11 Wash. 301; McKenzie v. Royal Dairy, 35 Wash. 390; Seattle, In re, 40 Wash. 450; Ramsdell v. Ramsdell, 47 Wash. 444.

Upon affirmance, modification or reversal of judgment of lower court: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 682, §§ 64-67.

On affirmance: See Wiley v. Morrow, 1 W. T. 474; Herford v. Doud, 3 Wash. 430; In re Holburte's Estate, 38 Wash. 199; Spencer v. Commercial Co., 36 Wash. 374; *Hart v. § 493. (5184.) Costs in Discretion of Court.

In all actions and proceedings other than those mentioned in this chapter, where no provision is made for the recovery of costs, they may be allowed or not; and if allowed, may be apportioned between the parties, in the discretion of the court. [L. '54, p. 204, § 387; Cd. '81, § 525; 2 H. C., § 842.]

The court may apportion the costs when some of the causes of action are of an equitable nature: Churchill v. Stephenson, 14 Wash. 620.

Or may order costs paid out of a tender deposited in court: See Kruegel v. Kitchen, 33 Wash. 214.

In an action to re-establish a lost corner it is error to tax the costs to the successful party, but the same should be equitably apportioned by an equal division between the parties: Strunz v. Hood, 44 Wash. 99.

§ 494. (5185.) Retaxation of Costs.

Any party aggrieved by the taxation of costs by the clerk of the court may, upon application, have the same retaxed by the court in which the action or proceeding is had. [L. '54, p. 204, § 388; Cd. '81, § 526; 2 H. C., § 843.]

Cited in 35 Wash. 137.

As to retaxation, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 680, §§ 56-58.

The amount of costs need not be stated in the judgment; they are taxed by the clerk from his records and papers on file in the case and the party complaining must move the lower court for a retaxation: Huntington v. Blakeney, 1 W. T. 111; Newburg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182; and they cannot be retaxed in the appellate court unless there was a motion therefor denied in the court below: Burrichter v. Cline, 3 Wash. 135; Miskel v. Stone, 1 W. T. 229, 230;

Jenkins v. Powe, 19 Wash. 113; Bringgold v. Spokane, 19 Wash. 333.

Questions affecting the taxation of costs will not be reviewed by the appellate court where no error in the matter is assigned: Kratz v. Dawson, 3 W. T. 100.

A motion in the supreme court to retax costs will not be entertained where six months has elapsed after issuance of execution and prior to the question being raised, and the motion indefinite as to the items objected to: B. B. & B. C. Ry. Co. v. Strand, 5 Wash. 807; Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 413.

A witness who attends a trial and testifies upon request, without process, is entitled to compensation: Christensen v. Union Trunk Line, 6 Wash. 75.

Where the only error committed by a magistrate in a criminal trial was in taxing costs under a law which had been repealed, the superior court should, in reviewing said action in certiorari, retax the costs and affirm the judgment: State v. White, 8 Wash. 230.

It is error, while refusing to vacate a judgment in a proceeding therefor, to modify the judgment as to the amount of costs taxed therein: Tacoma L. etc. Co. v. Wolff, 7 Wash. 478.

Presumption that costs were properly taxed: See Newberg v. Farmer, 1 W. T. 182; Shearer v. Buckley, 31 Wash. 370; Port Townsend v. Lewis, 34 Wash. 413; McCleary v. Willis, 35 Wash. 676.

Payment and remedies for collection: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 686, 687, §§ 85-91; Schweder v. Hemrich, 29 Wash. 124; Plumley v. Simpson, 31 Wash. 147; Arthur v. Washington Water Power Co., 42 Wash. 431.

§ 495. (5186.) Security for Costs, When Required.

When a plaintiff in an action resides out of the county, or is a foreign corporation, security for the costs and charges which may be awarded against such plaintiff may be required by the defendant. When required, all proceedings in the action shall be stayed until a bond, executed by two or more persons, be filed with the clerk, conditioned that they will pay such costs and charges as may be awarded against the plaintiff by judgment, or in the progress of the action, not exceeding the sum of two hundred dollars. A new or additional bond may be ordered by the court or judge, upon proof that the original bond is insufficient security, and proceedings in the action stayed until such new or additional bond be executed and filed. The plaintiff may deposit with the clerk the sum of two hundred dollars in lieu of a bond. [L. '54, p. 204, § 389; Cd. '81, § 527; 2 H. C., § 844.]

Cited in 8 Wash. 310; 16 Wash. 337; 17 Wash. 565; 28 Wash. 168; 34 Wash. 156; 39 Wash. 259; 48 Wash. 427.

As to security for payment of costs, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 675, §§ 24-32.

Under this section the defendant may require security for costs of a nonresident plaintiff, but this right must be exercised promptly, and before answer, or after answer if the fact of nonresidence remains unknown to him and application is made within a reasonable time after knowledge of such fact; a failure to make application seasonably operates as a waiver of the right: Swift v. Stine, 3 W. T. 518.

Where a nonresident plaintiff institutes an action against several defendants, he cannot be compelled to give a separate bond for costs to each defendant appearing and claiming same: Robinson v. Haller, 8 Wash. 309.

A nonresident plaintiff may withdraw his deposit of costs on dismissing his action: See Dane v. Daniel, 28 Wash. 155.

Security for costs cannot be required of a nonresident defendant asking for affirmative relief: See State ex rel. Hanna v. Superior Court, 17 Wash. 564.

Residence in the county in which an action is brought is not a requisite for a surety upon a cost bond: Brooks v. James, 16 Wash. 335.

This section applies to insufficiency in the amount of the bond as well as to the sufficiency of the sureties: Morris v. Warwick, 48 Wash. 426.

Effect of failure to give security: See Carlson Bros. & Co. v. Van de Vanter, 19 Wash. 32; Johnston v. Gerry, 34 Wash. 524; Morris v. Warwick, 48 Wash. 426.

As to summary remedies against surety, see Trumbull v. Jefferson County, 37 Wash. 604.

A cost bond filed pursuant to the order of the federal court is not void because of the fact that the action was dismissed for want of jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action, as the federal court has jurisdiction to render a judgment for costs in such a case; and power to require security for costs is incident to the court's power to render judgment for costs: Carrau v. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 47 Wash. 656.

§ 496. Judgment Against Surety on Cost Bond.

Whenever any bond or undertaking for the payment of any costs to any party shall be filed in any action or other legal proceeding in any court in this state and judgment should be rendered for any such costs against the principal on any such bonds or against the party primarily liable therefor in whose behalf any such bond or undertaking has been filed, such judgment for costs shall be rendered against the principal on such bond or the party primarily liable therefor and at the same time also against his surety or sureties on any or all such bonds or undertakings filed in any such action or other legal proceeding. [L. '09, p. 633, § 1.]

§ 497 (1609,* 1610.*) Schedule of Fees of Officers, Witnesses, etc.

The several officers herein named shall collect the fees herein prescribed for their official services:

When no issue of fact is joined in the case and no judgment other than a dismissal or discontinuance, without trial of an issue of fact is rendered, no further fee need be paid.

Where, after an issue of fact has been joined, the cause is dismissed or discontinued without trial of such issue, the party causing such dismissal or discontinuance to be entered shall pay, at the time of the entry thereof, a further fee of $1.00.

If a judgment other than a dismissal or discontinuance is rendered, the party obtaining the same shall pay, at the time of the entry thereof, a further fee as follows:

1. Where the judgment is rendered without the taking of proof of any fact pleaded:

(a) If no adverse party has appeared in the case, $2.00.

(b) Or if an adverse party has appeared, $3.00.

5. Where the judgment is rendered in an action for the foreclosure of a lien or mortgage or partition of real estate:

(a) If no adverse party has appeared in the case, $6.00.

(b) If an adverse party has appeared, $8.00.

6. For making a transcript on appeal to the supreme court, or for transcribing the records in any action for any other purpose, 10 cents per folio.

7. For comparing a transcript on appeal, or transcript of the record in any action where the party has prepared it himself, 5 cents per folio.

The appellant in appeals from judgments of a justice of the peace, shall at the time of docketing his appeal, pay a docket fee of $1.00.

Under this section prior to amendment a sheriff was not entitled to commissions on sale of mortgaged premises under decree of foreclosure when the property was bid in by plaintiff for amount of mortgage debt, and no moneys passed through sheriff's hands: State v. Prince, 9 Wash. 107; State v. O'Loughlin, 9 Wash. 529; State v. Pugh, 9 Wash. 694.

The failure of witnesses to make proof of their attendance and mileage before the clerk is not a ground of objection to the taxation of such costs in civil cases, as § 498, infra, requiring such proof applies to criminal cases: Kimble v. Kimble, 14 Wash. 369.

A sheriff is not entitled to a commission upon the sale of mortgaged premises under a decree of foreclosure, where the property was bid in by the plaintiff for the amount of the mortgage debt, although the officer and the purchaser may have intended that a portion of the sum bid should be in payment of a commission demanded by the officer: Sodeberg v. King Co., 15 Wash. 194; following State v. Prince, 9 Wash. 108.

Where the sheriff, upon making a foreclosure sale, has been paid by the bidder, who was the plaintiff in the action, a certain sum as commission, such sum constitutes a surplus in the hands of the sheriff, which it is his duty to pay over to the judgment debtor: Id.

Assumpsit will lie against a county for the recovery of sums charged by the sheriff as commissions upon foreclosure sales and by him mistakenly paid into the treasury, when such sums constitute a surplus in his hands to which the judgment debtor is entitled: Id.

Want of privity between the parties is no obstacle to an action for money had and received: Id.

A payment by the sheriff into the county treasury of a surplus arising from a foreclosure sale, made without the knowledge or consent of the judgment debtor, cannot be considered as a voluntary payment by the latter: Id.

The provisions of this section requiring a party instituting any action or proceeding to pay a fee of four dollars when the cause is entered in the court, etc., has no application to the filing and entry of a transcript of a justice of the peace in the execution docket of the county clerk: State v. Gordon, 8 Wash. 488.

And a garnishment proceeding being auxiliary to the principal action does not fall within the provision requiring the plaintiff to pay the clerk's fee of four dollars for instituting an action: Kelly v. Ryan, 8 Wash. 536.

As the federal constitution gives Congress power to establish a uniform rule of naturalization, the act of June 29, 1906, fixing the fees to be charged by all clerks of courts exercising jurisdiction in naturalization cases, applies to state courts where the state constitution confers such jurisdiction; and the fee authorized by a state statute cannot be collected: State ex rel. Newman v. Libby, 47 Wash. 481.

Laws of 1903, page 290 [repealed by this section], prescribing a scale of fees, based upon the valuation of the estate, to be paid to the clerk of the court upon filing the first papers in probate, imposes a charge in the nature of a property tax upon estates, which is void because not uniform or levied in proportion to value, where the fees exacted are paid into the general fund of the county and have no relation to the services rendered in the administration of the estate: State ex rel. Nettleton v. Case, 39 Wash. 177.

Failure to collect clerk's fees does not affect the finality of the judgment for the purposes of an appeal: Chilcott v. Globe Nav. Co., 49 Wash. 302.

§ 498. (1609a.) Witnesses and Jurors in Criminal Cases.

No fees shall be allowed to witnesses in criminal causes unless they shall have reported their attendance at the close of each day's session to the clerk in attendance thereon. No allowance of mileage shall be made to a juror or witness who has not verified his claim of mileage under oath before the clerk of the court on which he is in attendance. [L. '95, p. 15, §§ 1, 2.]

Cited in 14 Wash. 373.

§ 499. Salaried Officers not to Receive Fees.

No state, county, municipal or other public officer within the state of Washington, who receives from the state, or from any county or municipi-pality therein, a fixed and stated salary as compensation for services rendered as such public officer, shall be allowed or paid any per diem for attending or testifying on behalf of the state of Washington, or any county or municipality therein, at any trial or other judicial proceeding, in any state, county or municipal court within this state; nor shall such officer, in any case, be allowed nor paid any per diem for attending or testifying in any state or municipal court of this state, in regard to matters and information that have come to his knowledge in connection with and as a result of the performance of his duties as a public officer as aforesaid: Provided, this act shall not apply when any deduction shall be made from the regular salary of such officer by reason of his being in attendance upon the superior court, but in such cases regular witness fees shall be paid; and further, that if a public officer be subpoenaed and required to appear or testify in judicial proceedings in a county other than that in which he resides, then said public officer shall be entitled to receive per diem and mileage as provided by statute in other cases; and, provided further, that this act shall not apply to police officers when called as witnesses in the superior courts during hours when they are off duty as such officers. [L. '01, p. 212, § 1; L. '03, p. 10, § 1.]

§ 500. (1612.) "Folio" Defined, and Matters Concerning.

The term "folio," when used as a measure for computing fees or compensation, shall be construed to mean one hundred words, counting every two figures necessarily used as a word. Any portion of a folio, when in the whole draft or paper there should not be a complete folio, and when there shall be an excess over the last folio exceeding a quarter, it shall be computed as a folio. The filing of a paper shall be construed to include the certificate of the same. [L. '69, p. 373, § 5; Cd. '81, § 2093; 1 H. C., § 3022.]

§ 501. (1613.) Mileage in Certain Cases.

When any sheriff, constable, or coroner serves more than one process in the same cause, or on the same person, not requiring more than one journey from his office, he shall receive mileage only for the most distant service. [L. '69, p. 373, § 16; Cd. '81, § 2094; 1 H. C., § 3023.]

§ 502. (1614.) Witness Fee not Allowed to Attorney.

No attorney in any case shall be allowed any fees as a witness in such case. [L. '69, p. 374, § 17; Cd. '81, § 2095; 1 H. C., § 3024.]

§ 503. (1615a.) Mileage to be Computed from Courthouse, When.

Mileage of officers who are required to reside at the county seat shall be computed from the courthouse of the county, and every portion of a mile shall be computed as one mile. [L. '69, p. 374, § 19; Cd. '81, § 2097; 1 H. C., § 3026.]

Compare amendment of 1886, p. 156, § 1, void for defective title.

§ 504. (1619.) Costs of Publication to be Paid in Advance.

When, by law, any publication is required to be made by an officer of any suit, process, notice, order, or other papers, the costs of such publication shall, if demanded, be tendered by the party procuring such publication before such officer shall be compelled to make publication thereof. [L. '69, p. 373, § 14; Cd. '81, § 2092; 1 H. C., § 3021.]

§ 505. (1620.) Fees Payable in Advance, When.

All fees are invariably due in advance where demanded by the officer required to perform any official act, and no officer shall be required to perform any official act unless his fees are paid when he demands the same: Provided, this section shall not apply when the officer performs any official act for his county or the state. [L. '69, p. 374, § 21; Cd. '81, § 2099; 1 H. C., § 3028.]

Cited in 1 Wash. 96.

Under § 4003, infra, and this section, it is no defense for the sheriff against an action for damages for failure to levy an execution to allege that his fees were not tendered him, where he has made no demand therefor in advance of service: Haas v. Gaddis, 1 Wash. 90.

§ 506. (1621.) Officers not to Serve Until Fees are Paid—Liability Afterwards.

The officers mentioned in this act shall not, in any case except for the state or county, perform any official services unless the fees prescribed for such service are paid in advance, and on such payment the officer must perform the services required. For every failure or refusal to perform official duty when the fees are tendered, the officer is liable on his official bond. [L. '90, p. 315, § 39; 1 H. C., § 3009.]

See notes to § 4075.

Cited in 8 Wash. 260.

§ 507. (1622.) Fees of Witness are to be Paid in Advance, When.

Witnesses in civil cases shall be entitled to receive upon demand their fees for one day's attendance, together with mileage going to the place where they are required to attend, if such demand is made to the officer or person serving the subpoena at the time of service. [L. '69, p. 374, § 22; Cd. '81, § 2100; 1 H. C., § 3029.]

Fees of witnesses outside of state: See Carlson Bros. & Co. v. Van de Vanter, 19 Wash. 32; State v. Lorenz, 22 Wash. 289.

§ 508. (1624.) County to Pay Costs, When and When not.

Each county shall be liable to pay the per diem and mileage, or other compensation in lieu thereof, to jurors of the county attending the district court; the fees of the sheriff for maintaining prisoners charged with crimes, and his costs in conveying them to and from the district court, as well as their board while there; the per diem and mileage, or such other compensation as is allowed in lieu thereof, of the sheriff of the county, when in criminal cases he is required to attend or travel to the superior court out of the limits of his own county; the costs in criminal cases taken from the county to the district court: Provided, that none shall be so paid by the treasurer unless the particular items shall be approved by the judge and certified by the clerk under the seal of the court: And provided further, that for the time or travel which may be paid by the parties or United States, no payment from the county fund shall be allowed, and no officer, juror, or witness shall receive from the county double pay as a per diem for the same time, or as traveling expenses or mileage for the same travel, in how many different capacities or in however many different causes they may be summoned, notified, or called upon to testify or attend in. [Cf. L. '57, p. 22, § 10; L. '63, p. 425, § 10; L. '69, p. 420, § 9; Cd. '81, § 2103; 1 H. C., § 3050.]

See supra, § 491, costs against state or county.

This and the next following section are for the most part incompatible with the organization of the courts under the state constitution. There being a doubt as to what portions thereof survive, they are given as they appeared in the code of 1881.

§ 509. (1625.) Expenses in Lieu of Mileage.

Whenever a juror, witness, or officer is required to attend a court, or travel on official business out of the limits of his own county, and entitled to mileage, in lieu thereof he may at his option receive his actual and necessary traveling expenses by the usually traveled route in going to and returning from the place where the court is held, or where the business is discharged. [Cf. L. '63, p. 424, §§ 6, 8; L. '69, p. 419, § 7; Cd. '81, § 2109; 1 H. C., § 3049.]

This is only a part of Bal. Code, § 1625; see § 4085, infra.

CHAPTER I. EXECUTIONS.

§ 510. (5192.) Execution to Enforce Judgment.

The party in whose favor judgment has been given or may hereafter be given or entered in any court of record in this state or the territory of Washington may have an execution issued at any time for the collection or enforcement of the same: Providing, that if a period of five years shall have elapsed without an execution being issued on such judgment, then execution shall not issue thereafter until such judgment shall be revived in the manner provided for by law. [Cf. L. '54, p. 175, § 242; L. '69, p. 79, § 320; Cd. '81, § 325; L. '88, p. 94, § 1; 2 H. C., § 464.]

Superseded and modified by §§ 445, 458, supra: Whitworth v. McKee, 32 Wash. 83.

An order of sale is, in effect, merely an execution and may be issued at any time before the limitation provided in this section expires: Hamilton v. Carter, 12 Wash. 510, 518.

Nature and essentials of execution in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1172, §§ 1-3; Murray v. Meade, 5 Wash. 693; Marks v. Pence, 31 Wash. 426; State ex rel. Jefferson County v. Hatch, 36 Wash. 164; Grant v. Cole, 23 Wash. 542.

ALIAS WRITS.—Where a judgment was satisfied by an execution and the money was held by the sheriff under a stipulation to abide the result of another action, the creditor is not entitled to an alias execution for the purpose of recovering interest on the sum the sheriff had been holding: Adams v. National Bank of Commerce, 30 Wash. 20.

Quashing, vacating and relief against execution: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1177, §§ 30-33; Tacoma Nat. Bank v. Sprague, 33 Wash. 285; Sturgiss v. Dart, 23 Wash. 244; Otis Bros. & Co. v. Nash, 26 Wash. 39; Hewitt v. Root, 31 Wash. 312; Phelan v. Smith, 22 Wash. 397; Grant v. Cole, 23 Wash. 542; Noerdlinger v. Huff, 31 Wash. 360.

§ 511. (5193.) Four Kinds of Executions.

There shall be four kinds of execution: One against the property of the judgment debtor; another against his person; the third for the delivery of the possession of real or personal property, or such delivery with damages for withholding the same; and the fourth, commanding the enforcement of or obedience to any special order of the court. And in all cases there shall be an order to collect the costs. [L. '54, p. 176, § 245; Cd. '81, § 327; 2 H. C., § 465.]

§ 512. (5194.) Enforcement in Particular Cases.

When a judgment requires the payment of money, or the delivery of real or personal property, the same may be enforced in those respects by execution, as provided in this chapter. When it requires the performance of any other act, a certified copy of the judgment may be served on the party against whom it is given, or the person or officer who is required thereby, or by law, to obey the same, and a writ shall be issued commanding him to obey or enforce the same. If he refuses, he may be punished by the court as for a contempt. [L. '54, p. 176, § 244; Cd. '81, § 326; 2 H. C., § 466.]

See infra, § 578 et seq., service of writ.

§ 513. (5195.) Form and Contents of Writ.

The writ of execution shall be issued in the name of the state of Washington, sealed with the seal of the court, and subscribed by the clerk, and shall be directed to the sheriff of the county in which the property is situated, or coroner when the sheriff is a party or interested, and shall intelligibly refer to the judgment, stating the court, the county where judgment was rendered, the names of the parties, the amount of the judgment if it be for money, and the amount actually due thereon, and shall require substantially as follows:—

1. If it be against the property of the judgment debtor, it shall require the sheriff to satisfy the judgment, with interest, out of the personal property of the debtor, and if sufficient personal property cannot be found, out of his real property upon which the judgment is a lien;

2. If it be against real or personal property in the hands of personal representatives, heirs, devisees, legatees, tenants of real property, or trustees, it shall require the sheriff to satisfy the judgment, with interest, out of such property;

3. If it be against the person of the judgment debtor, it shall require the sheriff to arrest such debtor, and commit him to the jail of the county until he shall pay the judgment, with interest, or be discharged according to law;

4. If it be for the delivery of the possession of real or personal property, it shall require the sheriff to deliver the possession of the same, particularly describing it, to the party entitled thereto, and may, at the same time, require the sheriff to satisfy any charges, damages, or rents and profits recovered by the same judgment, out of the personal property of the party against whom it was rendered, and the value of the property for which the judgment was recovered, shall be specified therein. If a delivery thereof cannot be had, and if sufficient personal property cannot be found, then out of his real property. When it is to enforce obedience to any special order, it shall particularly command what is required to be done or to be omitted. When the nature of the case shall require it, the execution may embrace one or more of the requirements above mentioned. And in all cases the execution shall require the collection of all interest, costs, and increased costs thereon. [Cf. L. '54, p. 176, § 246; L. '69, p. 81, § 324; Cd. '81, § 328; 2 H. C., § 467.]

See infra, § 516, execution against the person.

See infra, § 578 et seq., service of writ.

See infra, § 611, kinds of executions.

Process must run in the name of the state of Washington: Const., Art. IV, § 27.

As to cure of defects in form of writ by confirmation of sale, see Pederson v. Lease, 48 Wash. 253.

§ 514. (5196.) To What County Execution may Issue.

The party in whose favor judgment has been rendered, entered, or given in any court of record in this state for the recovery of money, or against the property of a judgment debtor, may have execution issued thereon for the collection or enforcement of such judgment to the sheriff of any county in this state: Provided, that when a judgment requires the delivery of real or personal property execution shall be issued to the sheriff of the county where the property, or some part thereof, is situated. [Cf. L. '54, p. 177, § 247; Cd. '81, § 329; L. '88, p. 95, § 2; 2 H. C., § 468.]

An execution cannot be issued by the superior court of one county upon a transcript of a judgment entered in another county, and a sale on such an execution is void: Humphries v. Sorenson, 33 Wash. 563; Murray v. Briggs, 29 Wash. 245.

§ 515. (5197.) Sheriff's Duty on Receiving Execution.

The sheriff shall indorse upon the writ of execution the time when he received the same, and such execution shall be returnable within sixty days after its date to the clerk who issued the same. And no sheriff shall retain any moneys collected on execution more than twenty days before paying the same to the clerk of the court who issues the writ, under penalty of twenty per cent on the amount collected, to be paid by the sheriff, the one-half to the party to whom the judgment is payable, and the other half to the county commissioners of the county wherein the action was brought, for the use of the school fund of said county. And the clerk shall, immediately after the receipt of any moneys collected on any judgment, notify the party to whom the same is payable, and pay over the amount to the said party on demand. On failure to so notify and pay over, without reasonable cause shown for delay, the clerk shall forfeit and pay the same penalty to the same parties as is above prescribed for the sheriff. [Cf. L. '54, p. 177, § 248; L. '69, p. 83, § 226; Cd. '81, § 330; 2 H. C., § 469.]

Proceeds, return, payment, satisfaction and discharge: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1187, 1188, §§ 78-88.

Money collected by the sheriff on execution sale, and paid in to the clerk of the court, is in the clerk's custody to be paid by him to the proper party: State v. Superior Court, 3 Wash. 702.

Where an execution sale has been had on a judgment by default, obtained under a false return of summons of the sheriff, the return may be assailed in a proceeding to set aside the judgment: Johnson v. Gregory, 4 Wash. 109.

The law requires the sheriff to pay to the clerk of the court the moneys collected on execution; and he cannot receive moneys on an execution in one case and pay it out in satisfaction of a judgment in another: Hamilton v. Carter, 12 Wash. 510, 517.

§ 516. (5198.) Execution Against the Person.

If the action be one in which the defendant may be arrested as provided by law, an execution against the person of the judgment debtor may be issued to any county in the state: Provided, that the sheriff shall not arrest the defendant if he shall deliver to him the property subject to levy, sufficient to satisfy said judgment. [L. '54, p. 177, § 249; Cd. '81, § 331; 2 H. C., § 470.]

See Const., Art. I, § 17, absconding debtor.

See infra, § 748, arrest and bail.

§ 517. (5199.) Imprisonment of Defendant upon Execution.

A person arrested on execution shall be imprisoned within the jail, or the liberties thereof, and kept at his own expense until satisfaction of the execution or his legal discharge; but the plaintiff shall be liable to the sheriff, in the first instance, for such expense as in other cases of arrest in the same manner and to the same extent as therein prescribed. [L. '54, p. 177, § 250; Cd. '81, § 332; 2 H. C., § 471.]

§ 518. (5200.) What Property Subject to Execution.

§ 519. (5201.) Execution in Name of Assignee, Executor, etc.

In all cases in which a judgment has been recovered in any of the courts of this state, which shall have been assigned to any person, execution may issue in the name of the assignee, upon the assignment being recorded in the execution docket by the clerk of the court in which the judgment is recovered; and in all cases in which a judgment has been recovered in any such court, and the person in whose name execution might have issued dies, execution may issue in the name of the executor, administrator, or legal representative of such deceased person upon the letters testamentary or of administration, or other sufficient proof, being filed in said cause and minuted upon said execution docket by the clerk of the court in which said judgment is entered, and upon an order of said court, or the judge thereof, which may be made on an ex parte application, and the provisions of this section shall extend to all judgments heretofore recovered, as well as to those hereafter to be recovered, and to cases of persons now deceased, as well as to those who may hereafter die. [L. '69, p. 84, § 330; Cd. '81, § 334; L. '86, p. 75, § 1; 2 H. C., § 472.]

§ 520. (5202.) Franchises Liable to Sale Under Execution or Foreclosure.

All franchises of every kind and nature heretofore or hereafter granted, shall be subject to sale upon execution, and upon order of sale issued upon foreclosure of mortgage, in the same manner as any other personal property may be sold upon execution or upon order of sale under foreclosure of mortgage, except as hereinafter provided. [L. '97, p. 96, § 1.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 54; 22 Wash. 490.

A "news contract" which passes under the name of "franchises" in the newspaper trade is not a franchise within the meaning of this section: Lawrence v. Times Printing Co., 22 Wash. 482.

An execution sale of "franchises" under a foreclosure of a mortgage on a newspaper, its plant, franchises, circulation and goodwill, describes no property as a franchise with sufficient particularity to be identified, and hence passes no title to any rights which existed under a contract between the mortgagor and the Associated Press for news service: Lawrence v. Times Printing Co., 22 Wash. 482.

§ 521. (5203.) Manner of Levy and Sale of Franchises.

The levy of such execution or order of sale shall be made by filing in the office of the auditor of the county in which the franchise was granted, a copy of the same, together with a notice in writing that under such execution or order of sale the officer levying the same has levied upon the franchise to be sold, specifying the time and place of sale, the name of the owner of the franchise, the amount of the claim or judgment for the satisfaction of which the franchise is to be sold, and the name of the plaintiff in the action in which the decree of foreclosure or judgment is entered; and by serving a copy of such execution or order of sale and notice, upon the judgment debtor, or his attorney of record, if any, in the action in which judgment was rendered, twenty days prior to date of sale. Notice may be served upon a defendant in the same manner that summons is served in civil actions. The sale of any franchise under execution or order of sale upon foreclosure must be made at the front door of the courthouse in the county in which the franchise was granted, not less than twenty days after the levy of the execution or order of sale and the giving of the notice as in this act provided. [L. '97, pp. 96, 97, §§ 2, 3.]

CHAPTER II.

THE STAY OF EXECUTIONS.

§ 522. (5204.) Stay, in What Cases Allowed.

Stay of execution shall be allowed on judgments rendered in the supreme court and superior courts as follows:—

In the supreme court,—

1. On all sums under five hundred dollars, thirty days;
2. On all sums over five and under fifteen hundred dollars, sixty days;
3. On all sums over fifteen hundred dollars, ninety days.

On judgments rendered in the superior court,—

1. On all sums under three hundred dollars, two months;
2. On all sums over three hundred and under one thousand dollars, five months;
3. On all sums over one thousand dollars, six months. [Cf. L. '54, p. 377, § 1; L. '60, p. 328, § 1; Cd. '81, § 335; 2 H. C., § 473.]

See infra, § 728, release of errors on stay of proceedings.

See infra, § 737, injunction to stay proceedings—damages.

§ 523. (5205.) Bond Required for Stay.

Before any execution shall be stayed under the provisions of this chapter, the defendant shall give bond to the opposite party in double the amount of the judgment and costs, with surety, to the satisfaction of the clerk, conditioned to pay said judgment, interest, costs, and increased costs at the expiration of the period of said stay. [L. '54, p. 378, § 2; Cd. '81, § 336; 2 H. C., § 474.]

See infra, § 1722, stay bond on appeal.

Cited in 50 Wash. 40, 41.

To prevent injustice or surprise in case of a false return of a sheriff the court on a proper showing may stay proceedings: Washington Mill Co. v. Kinneer, 1 W. T. 99.

§ 524. (5206.) Judgment may be Entered Against Sureties.

If the judgment is not satisfied at any time after the expiration of the period for which execution has been stayed, the plaintiff may, upon motion supported by an affidavit that such judgment, or any part thereof, is unpaid, and stating how much still remains due thereon, have judgment against the sureties upon said bond for the balance remaining due, and have an execution therefor, upon which no stay shall be allowed. [L. '54, p. 378, § 3; Cd. '81, § 337; 2 H. C., § 475.]

Cited in 50 Wash. 41.

§ 525. (5207.) Qualification and Justification of Sureties.

The sureties upon a bond for stay of execution shall possess the same qualifications and justify in the same manner as bail upon arrest in civil actions. [L. '54, p. 378, § 4; Cd. '81, § 338; 2 H. C., § 476.]

See infra, § 748 et seq., arrest and bail.

§ 526. (5208.) Stay for Part of Period.

When execution has not been stayed, and execution issues before the time has elapsed for which it might have been stayed, as is herein provided, the defendant may have stay for the balance of the time upon giving the proper bond and surety, which bond and surety shall be approved by and justified before the sheriff. [L. '54, p. 378, § 5; Cd. '81, § 339; 2 H. C., § 477.]

§ 527. (5209.) Bond Lodged with Clerk.

Bonds required by this chapter shall, when taken, be lodged with the clerk of the court where the judgment was rendered and placed on file in his office. [L. '54, p. 378, § 6; Cd. '81, § 340; 2 H. C., § 478.]

CHAPTER III.

HOMESTEADS AND EXEMPTIONS.

§ 528. (5214.) Homestead, of What Consists.

The homestead consists of the dwelling-house, in which the claimant resides, and the land on which the same is situated, selected as in this chapter provided. [L. '95, p. 109, § 1.]

See Const., Art. XIX, § 1.

See notes to § 5918.

See supra, § 445, and notes, judgment lien.

See infra, §§ 535, 536, abandonment of homestead.

See infra, § 552, value of homestead.

See infra, § 558, selection of homestead.

See infra, §§ 585, 1465, probate homestead.

See infra, §§ 1102, 1103, exemptions in assignments for benefit of creditors.

For former laws on this subject see: L. '54, p. 178; L. '61, pp. 42, 52; L. '69, p. 85; Cd. '81, §§ 341-348; 2 H. C., §§ 480-490.

Cited in 16 Wash. 377; 17 Wash. 435; 25 Wash. 5; 30 Wash. 40, 54, 313; 32 Wash. 83, 98; 41 Wash. 460, 461, 464, 465; 46 Wash. 577; 48 Wash. 377.

As to nature, acquisition, and extent of homestead: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1371, §§ 1-13.

There was no way pointed out by the Code of 1881 by which a homestead could be identified or claimed: Parsons v. Pearson, 9 Wash. 48, 50; but under the provisions of § 346 of Laws 1877, the homestead claimant was required to cause the word "homestead" to be entered on the margin of the record; this provision, however, was repealed by the Code of 1881: Philbrick v. Andrews, 8 Wash. 7.

As to necessity of occupancy, see Philbrick v. Andrews, 8 Wash. 7; Anderson v. Stadlmann, 17 Wash. 433; In re Feas' Estate, 30 Wash. 51; Lewis v. Mauerman, 35 Wash. 136.

The mere occupancy by the judgment debtor and his family of certain lands as a homestead is a sufficient selection thereof under the provisions of § 481 of 2 Hill's Code: Philbrick v. Andrews, supra; and the obtaining of a general judgment lien does not cut off a subsequent selection thereof at any time before sale, to satisfy the judgment: McMillan v. Mau, 1 Wash. 26; Wiss v. Stewart, 16 Wash. 376; In re Feas' Estate, 30 Wash. 51; Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1; Anderson v. Stadlmann, 17 Wash. 433.

As to levy of attachment or execution, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1376, § 341.

Under former laws the sale of a homestead under execution worth less than $1,000 was void, and the title was not disturbed: Asher v. Sekofsky, 10 Wash. 379, 382; Philbrick v. Andrews, 8 Wash. 7.

A sheriff's deed based upon an execution sale of a lot of land is void, under the homestead law, where it appears that the lot was the only real property of the execution defendant in the state, and that they occupied it as a family residence, and that it was worth less than $1,000; that they claimed it as exempt, and took every means to prevent the sale by notifying the sheriff, warning purchasers, and protesting against confirmation: Asher v. Sekofsky, 10 Wash. 379.

A sale of homestead under general execution is absolutely void: See Whitworth v. McKee, 32 Wash. 83.

Mortgage or other encumbrance as waiver of right: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1376, § 31.

Article XIX of the Constitution, providing that the legislature shall by law protect a certain portion of the homestead from forced sale, does not apply when the homestead has been voluntarily encumbered: Oregon Mortgage Co. v. Hesner, 14 Wash. 515; affirmed in Stone v. So Relle, 14 Wash. 704. See, also, Wiss v. Stewart, 16 Wash. 376; Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1.

Estoppel to claim homestead: See Traders' Nat. Bank of Spokane v. Schorr, 20 Wash. 1.

§ 529. Exemption of Homestead—Time for Selection.

There shall be also exempt from execution and attachment to every householder, being the head of a family, a homestead not exceeding in value the sum of one thousand dollars, while occupied as such by the owner thereof, or his or her family. Said homestead may consist of a house and lot or lots in any city, or of a farm consisting of any number of acres, so that the value of the same shall not exceed the aforesaid sum of one thousand dollars. Such homestead may be selected at any time before sale. [Cd. '81, § 342; 2 H. C., § 481.]

This section, except the last sentence, seems to be superseded

See infra, § 552, homestead of the value of $2,000 exempt.

See notes to preceding section.

The provision in this section as to the time for selection was not superseded by subsequent laws: Wiss v. Stewart, 16

Wash. 376; In re Feas' Estate, 30 Wash. 51; Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1; Anderson v. Stadlmann, 17 Wash. 433.

§ 530. (5215.) From What may be Selected.

If the claimant be married the homestead may be selected from the community property, or the separate property of the husband, or, with the consent of the wife, from her separate property. When the claimant is not married, but is the head of a family within the meaning of section 553 the homestead may be selected from any of his or her property. [L. '95, p. 109, § 2.]

Section 1404 of 1 Hill's Code was rendered obsolete by this section and §§ 531 and 553 infra.

As to rights of surviving husband, wife, children or heirs, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1374, §§ 21-27.

The surviving wife is entitled to the homestead, even though it was the separate property of the husband: Anderson v. Stadlmann, 17 Wash. 433.

But not where the husband has deeded his property to another: In re Eyer's Estate, 7 Wash. 291. See Boggan v. Ried, 1 Wash. 515.

The interest of a surviving husband in community realty claimed as a homestead during the life of the community is not exempt from the lien of a mortgage executed by him purporting to cover the whole of the realty: Wortman v. Vorhies, 14 Wash. 152.

After the death of the wife the husband may select a homestead from the community property: See In re Feas' Estate, 30 Wash. 51.

But a minor child cannot as against the other heirs of the community: See Stewin v. Thrift, 30 Wash. 36.

§ 531. (5216.) When Selected from Wife's Separate Estate.

The homestead cannot be selected from the separate property of the wife without her consent, shown by her making the declaration of homestead. [L. '95, p. 109, § 3.]

See notes to last section.

See supra, note to § 528.

§ 532. (5217.) Exempt from Forced Sale.

The homestead is exempt from execution or forced sale, except as in this chapter provided. [L. '95, p. 109, § 4.]

See supra, note to § 528.

The exception "as in this chapter provided" is stated in § 537, infra.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1376, § 34; National Bank v. Schorr, 20 Wash. 1; Philbrick v. Andrews, 8 Wash. 7; Traders' Whitworth v. McKee, 32 Wash. 83.

§ 533. (5218.*) When Homestead Subject to Execution.

The homestead is subject to execution or forced sale in satisfaction of judgments obtained: 1. On debts secured by mechanic's, laborer's, materialmen's or vendor's liens upon the premises. 2. On debts secured by mortgages on the premises executed and acknowledged by the husband and wife or by any unmarried claimant. [L. '95, p. 110, § 5; L. '09, p. 71, § 1.]

See notes to § 528.

As to liabilities enforceable against homestead, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1373, §§ 14-18.

A mechanic's lien may be claimed for the erection of a dwelling-house, although the premises are at the time intended to be claimed as a homestead: Parsons v. Pearson, 9 Wash. 48.

A mortgagee, proceeding at law to enforce a deficiency judgment, by a sale of the homestead, is estopped from claiming an equitable lien on the homestead by reason of its purchase with the proceeds of waste committed upon the mortgaged premises: Harding v. Atlantic Trust Co., 26 Wash. 536.

A mortgage need not expressly mention the homestead: See Brown v. Elwell, 17 Wash. 442.

§ 534. (5219.) How Conveyed or Encumbered.

The homestead of a married person cannot be conveyed or encumbered unless the instrument by which it is conveyed or encumbered is executed and acknowledged by both husband and wife. [L. '95, p. 110, § 6.]

Cited in 44 Wash. 168, 169; 50 Wash. 112.

As to joinder of husband and wife in mortgaging homestead, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1374, § 20.

A mortgage by the husband alone of his separate property in which the wife has a right to claim a homestead exemption is void as to her: Anderson v. Stadlmann, 17 Wash. 433.

When husband has power of attorney from wife, authorizing him to mortgage all their real estate, he can make a valid mortgage of their homestead, without her joining: Oregon Mortgage Co. v. Hoshner, 14 Wash. 515.

A homestead claimant may mortgage the homestead after final proof, before the issuance of a patent: Rogers v. Minneapolis Threshing Machine Co., 48 Wash. 19.

This section does not apply to homesteads under the federal land laws: Ritzville Hardware Co. v. Bennington, 50 Wash. 111.

§ 535. (5220.) How Abandoned.

A homestead can be abandoned only by a declaration of abandonment, or a grant thereof, executed and acknowledged,—

1. By the husband and wife if the claimant is married;
2. By the claimant, if unmarried. [L. '95, p. 110, § 7.]

See infra, § 571, and notes, waiver.

Cited in 30 Wash. 56; 35 Wash. 159; 44 Wash. 168.

As to abandonment or waiver of homestead, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1375, §§ 28-31; In re Feas' Estate, 30 Wash. 51; Asher v. Sekofsky, 10 Wash. 379; Anderson v. Stademann, 17 Wash. 433; Smith v. Ferry, 43 Wash. 460.

A widow is not deprived of her homestead rights by the fact that she was driven therefrom by her husband without cause and not permitted to return, where she never evinced any intention of abandoning the same, and the property constituted the home of the husband at the time of his death: In re Murphy's Estate, 46 Wash. 574.

§ 536. (5221.) Declaration, When Effectual.

A declaration of abandonment is effectual only from the time it is filed in the office in which the homestead was recorded. [L. '95, p. 110, § 8.]

See note to § 528.

§ 537. (5222.) Proceedings on Execution Against Homestead.

When the execution for the enforcement of a judgment obtained in a case not within the classes enumerated in section 533 is levied upon the homestead, the judgment creditor may apply to the superior court of the county in which the homestead is situated for the appointment of persons to appraise the value thereof. [L. '95, p. 110, § 9.]

See note to § 528.

See infra, § 552, value of homestead.

Cited in 44 Wash. 169.

§ 538. (5223.) Verified Petition.

The application must be made upon verified petition, showing,—

1. The fact that an execution has been levied upon the homestead;
2. The name of the claimant;
3. That the value of the homestead exceeds the amount of the homestead exemption. [L. '95, p. 110, § 10.]

See note to § 528.

§ 539. (5224.) Petition, Where Filed.

The petition must be filed with the clerk of the superior court. [L. '95, p. 110, § 11.]

See note to § 528.

§ 540. (5225.) Notice.

A copy of the petition, with a notice of the time and place of hearing, must be served upon the claimant at least ten days before the hearing. [L. '95, p. 110, § 12.]

See note to § 528.

§ 541. (5226.) Hearing and Appointment of Appraisers.

At the hearing the judge may, upon the proof of the service of a copy of the petition and notice and of the facts stated in the petition, appoint three disinterested resident freeholders of the county to appraise the value of the homestead. [L. '95, p. 110, § 13.]

See note to § 528.

The statute authorizing the setting aside of a homestead to a widow by the probate court from the community real property does not require the appointment of appraisers to determine the value: Smith v. Ferry, 43 Wash. 460.

§ 542. (5227.) Oath of Appraisers.

The persons appointed, before entering upon the performance of their duties, must take an oath to faithfully perform the same. [L. '95, p. 111, § 14.]

See note to § 528.

§ 543. (5228.) View of Premises.

They must view the premises and appraise the value thereof, and if the appraised value exceeds the homestead exemption, they must determine whether the land claimed can be divided without material injury. [L. '95, p. 111, § 15.]

See note to § 528.

§ 544. (5229.) Report of Appraisers.

Within fifteen days after their appointment they must make to the court a report in writing, which report must show the appraised value and their determination upon the matter of a division of the land claimed. [L. '95, p. 111, § 16.]

See note to § 528.

Four lots in one tract may be set aside to a widow as a homestead, although there are two houses thereon, one under lease, where the whole tract was purchased for a home, was less than $1,000 in value, and the evidence as to the value of the buildings is not clear, one appearing to be a mere shack: In re Murphy's Estate, 46 Wash. 574. See Waldron v. Kineth, 41 Wash. 459; Lewis v. Mauerman, 35 Wash. 156.

§ 545. (5230.) Division of Property, When.

If, from the report, it appears to the court that the land claimed can be divided without material injury the court must, by an order, direct the appraisers to set off to the claimant so much of the land including the residence, as will amount in value to the homestead exemption, and the execution may be enforced against the remainder of the land. [L. '95, p. 111, § 17.]

See note to § 528.

§ 546. (5231.) Sale, When.

If, from the report, it appears to the court that the land claimed exceeds in value the amount of the homestead exemption and that it cannot be divided, the court must make an order directing its sale under the execution. [L. '95, p. 111, § 18.]

See note to § 528.

Where the law respecting the sale of homesteads was not complied with and no exemption at all allowed, an execution sale of premises that have been duly selected as a homestead cannot be sustained on the theory that since the judgment was obtained the exemption for a homestead was increased from $1,000 to $2,000, and premises were worth more than $1,000: Lewis v. Mauerman, 35 Wash. 156.

A wife may maintain an action in her own name to restrain the sale of the community realty in which she and her husband claim the right of homestead: Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1.

§ 547. (5232.) Bids.

At such sale no bid must be received unless it exceeds the amount of the homestead exemption. [L. '95, p. 111, § 19.]

See note to § 528.

§ 548. (5233.) Application of Proceeds.

If the sale is made, the proceeds thereof, to the amount of the homestead exemption, must be paid to the claimant and the balance applied to the satisfaction of the execution. [L. '95, p. 111, § 20.]

See note to § 528.

§ 549. (5234.) Money from Sale Protected.

The money paid to the claimant is entitled to the same protection against legal process and the voluntary disposition of the husband which the law gives to the homestead. [L. '95, p. 111, § 21.]

See infra, § 566, proceeds of homestead exempt.

See note to § 528.

§ 550. (5235.) Compensation of Appraisers.

The compensation of the appraisers shall be two dollars per day each. [L. '95, p. 111, § 22.]

See note to § 528.

§ 551. (5236.) Costs.

The execution creditor must pay the costs of these proceedings in the first instance; but in the case provided for in sections 545 and 546 the amount so paid must be added as costs on execution, and collected accordingly. [L. '95, p. 111, § 23.]

See note to § 528.

§ 552. (5237.) Selection and Value of Homestead.

Homesteads may be selected and claimed in lands and tenements with the improvements thereon, not exceeding in value the sum of two thousand dollars. The premises thus included in the homestead must be actually intended and used for a home for the claimants, and shall not be devoted exclusively to any other purposes. [L. '95, p. 112, § 24.]

See supra, § 529, may be selected at any time before sale.

Cited in 30 Wash. 38.

Time for selection: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1372, § 9; McMillan v. Mau, 1 Wash. 26; Wiss v. Stewart, 16 Wash. 376; In re Feas' Estate, 30 Wash. 51; Ross v. Howard, 25 Wash. 1; Anderson v. Stadlmann, 17 Wash. 433.

The widow is entitled to claim a homestead in community land purchased for that purpose and occupied as a home by the deceased at the time of his death, although not previously selected as a homestead: In re Murphy's Estate, 46 Wash. 574.

§ 553. (5238.) Head of a Family Defined.

The phrase "head of the family," as used in this chapter, includes within its meaning,—

1. The husband or wife, when the claimant is a married person;
2. Every person who has residing on the premises with him or her, and under his or her care and maintenance, either,—

1. His or her minor child or the minor child of his or her deceased wife or husband;
2. A minor brother or sister or the minor child of a deceased brother or sister;
3. A father, mother, grandmother or grandfather;
4. The father, mother, grandfather or grandmother of deceased husband or wife;
5. An unmarried sister, or any other of the relatives mentioned in this section who has attained the age of majority, and are unable to take care of or support themselves. [L. '95, p. 112, § 25.]

See infra, § 565, householder defined.

§ 554. (5239.) Alienation in Case of Insanity.

In case of a homestead, if either the husband or wife shall become hopelessly insane, upon application of the husband or wife not insane to the superior court of the county in which the homestead is situated, and upon due proof of such insanity, the court may make an order permitting the husband or wife not insane to sell and convey or mortgage such homestead. [L. '95, p. 112, § 26.]

Cited in 45 Wash. 23.

Prior to the taking effect of this section there was no statutory authority for the mortgage of the homestead of an insane husband or wife, and a mortgage by a husband, for himself and as guardian for his insane wife, under authority of the probate court, was void, 2 Hill's Code, § 483, providing that no mortgage of the homestead shall be valid unless joined in by the wife: Curry v. Wilson, 45 Wash. 19.

§ 555. (5240.) Notice of Application.

Notice of the application for such order shall be given by publication of the same in a newspaper published in the county in which such homestead is situated, if there be a newspaper published therein, once each week for three successive weeks prior to the hearing of such application, and a copy of such notice shall be served upon the nearest male relative of such insane husband or wife, resident in this state, at least three weeks prior to such application, and in case there be no such male relative known to the applicant, a copy of such notice shall be served upon the prosecuting attorney of the county in which such homestead is situated; and it is hereby made the duty of such prosecuting attorney, upon being served with a copy of such notice, to appear in court and see that such application is made in good faith, and that the proceedings therein are fairly conducted. [L. '95, p. 112, § 27.]

§ 556. (5241.) Petition.

Thirty days before the hearing of any application under the provisions of this chapter, the applicant shall present and file in the court in which such application is to be heard a petition for the order mentioned, subscribed and sworn to by the applicant, setting forth the name and age of the insane husband or wife; a description of the premises constituting the homestead; the value of the same; the county in which it is situated; and such facts in addition to that of the insanity of the husband or wife relating to the circumstances and necessities of the applicant and his or her family as he or she may rely upon in support of the petition. [L. '95, p. 113, § 28.]

§ 557. (5242.) Order and Effect.

If the court shall make the order provided for in section 554, the same shall be entered upon the minutes of the court, and thereafter any sale, conveyance [or] mortgage made in pursuance of such order shall be as valid and effectual as if the property affected thereby was the absolute property of the person making such sale, conveyance or mortgage in fee simple. [L. '95, p. 113, § 29.]

§ 558. (5243.) Mode of Selection.

In order to select a homestead the husband or other head of a family, or in case the husband has not made such selection, the wife must execute and acknowledge in the same manner as a grant of real property is acknowledged, a declaration of homestead, and file the same for record. [L. '95, p. 113, § 30.]

See supra, § 529, may be selected at any time before sale.

§ 559. (5244.) Declaration, What to Contain.

The declaration of homestead must contain,—

1. A statement showing that the person making it is the head of a family; or when the declaration is made by the wife, showing that her husband has not made such declaration, and that she therefore makes the declaration for their joint benefit;

2. A statement that the person making it is residing on the premises or has purchased the same for a homestead and intends to reside thereon and claims them as a homestead;

3. A description of the premises;

4. An estimate of their actual cash value. [L. '95, p. 113, § 31.]

Where a homestead has been duly selected by recording the declaration, actual occupancy of the same is not necessary to maintain the right to the homestead exemption: Lewis v. Mauerman, 35 Wash. 156.

§ 560. (5245.) Declaration must be Recorded.

The declaration must be recorded in the office of the auditor of the county in which the land is situated. [L. '95, p. 114, § 32.]

See note to § 528.

Cited in 30 Wash. 39.

The original declaration, showing indorsement of county auditor of filing and recording, is admissible in evidence: See Smith v. Veysey, 30 Wash. 18.

There is no homestead right in property acquired since the passage of this act unless a declaration of homestead is executed and filed as therein required: Donaldson v. Winningham, 48 Wash. 374.

§ 561. (5246.) Tenure by Which Homestead is Held.

From and after the time the declaration is filed for record the premises therein described constitute a homestead. If the selection was made by a married person from the community property, the land, on the death of either of the spouses, vests in the survivor, subject to no other liability than such as exists or has been created under the provisions of this chapter; in other cases, upon the death of the person whose property was selected as a homestead, it shall go to his heirs or devisees, subject to the power of the superior court to assign the same for a limited period to the family of the decedent; but in no case shall it be held liable for the debts of the owner, except as provided in this chapter. [L. '95, p. 114, § 33.]

Wash. 84; Stewin v. Thrift, 30 Wash. 37; In re Feas' Estate, 30 Wash. 51.

The husband having failed to select a homestead during his lifetime does not debar his widow and children of such right, they living on the land at the time of and since his death: McMillan v. Mau, 1 Wash. 26, 29.

§ 562. (5247.) Subsequent Homestead Acquired by Proceeds of Former.

In case of the sale of said homestead, any subsequent homestead acquired by the proceeds thereof shall also be exempt from attachment and execution; nor shall any judgment or other claim against the owner of such homestead be a lien against the same in the hands of a bona fide purchaser for a valuable consideration. [L. '69, p. 87, § 342; Cd. '81, § 346; 2 H. C., § 485.]

See supra, §§ 548, 549, proceeds of sale exempt, when.

Cited in 20 Wash. 7; 44 Wash. 169; 50 Wash. 112.

Under this and § 534, and under a liberal construction of the exemption laws, the proceeds of such sale which the owner intends in good faith to reinvest in another homestead are exempt from garnishment: Becher v. Shaw, 44 Wash. 166.

The proceeds of a federal homestead are not exempt from execution, under a claim that the homesteader is the head of a family and intends to use the proceeds in the acquisition of a new homestead to be owned and occupied by him under the laws of the state; since this and § 534 apply only to the state exemptions of a certain value; the federal exemption from pre-existing debts being but a condition of the grant, irrespective of state exemption laws or value, and not applying to proceeds of a sale: Ritzville Hardware Co. v. Bennington, 50 Wash. 111.

§ 563. (5248.) Specification of Exempt Property.

The following property shall be exempt from execution and attachment, except as hereinafter specially provided:—

1. All wearing apparel of every person and family;
 2. All private libraries, not to exceed five hundred dollars in value, and all family pictures and keepsakes;
 3. To each householder, one bed and bedding, and one addition[al] bed and bedding for each additional member of the family, and other household goods and utensils and furniture not exceeding five hundred dollars, coin, in value. The other household goods and utensils and furniture specified above shall on the demand of the officer having the execution or attachment in hand, be selected by the husband, if present, if not present they shall be selected by his wife, and in case neither husband or wife, nor other person entitled to the exemption by having the description of a householder, shall be present to make the selection, then the sheriff shall make a selection of the household goods, utensils and furniture equal in value to said five hundred dollars, and shall return the same as exempt by inventory, and such selection by the sheriff or other person described above shall be prima facie evidence,—

4. To each householder, two cows, with their calves, five swine, two stands of bees, thirty-six domestic fowls, and provisions and fuel for the comfortable maintenance of such householder and family for six months, also feed for such animals for six months: Provided, that in case such householder shall not possess or shall not desire to retain the animals above named, he may select from his property and retain other property not to exceed two hundred and fifty dollars, coin, in value. The selection in the proviso mentioned shall be made in the manner and by the person and at the time mentioned in subdivision three, and said selection shall have the same effect as selections made under subdivision three of this section;

5. To a farmer, one span of horses or mules, with harness, or two yoke of oxen, with yokes and chains, and one wagon; also farming utensils actually used about the farm, not exceeding in value five hundred dollars in coin; also one hundred and fifty bushels of wheat, one hundred and fifty bushels of oats or barley, fifty bushels of potatoes, ten bushels of corn, ten bushels of peas, and ten bushels of onions for seeding purposes;

11. To a person engaged in lightering for his support or that of his family, one or more lighters, barges, or scows, and a small boat, with oars, sails, and rigging, not exceeding in the aggregate two hundred and fifty dollars, in coin, value;

12. To a teamster or drayman engaged in that business for the support of himself or his family, his team, consisting of one span of horses, or mules, or two yoke of oxen, or a horse and mule, with harness, yokes, one wagon, truck, cart, or dray;

13. To a person engaged in the business of logging for his support or that of his family, three yoke of work cattle and their yokes, and axes, chains, implements for the business, and camp equipments, not exceeding three hundred dollars, coin, in value;

14. A sufficient quantity of hay, grain, or feed to keep the animals mentioned in the several subdivisions of this chapter for six weeks. But no property shall be exempt from an execution issued upon a judgment for the price thereof, or any part of the price thereof, or for any tax levied thereon.

Each person shall be entitled to select the property to which he is entitled under the several subdivisions of this section. [Cf. L. '54, p. 178, § 253; L. '69, p. 87, § 343; L. '79, p. 157, § 1; Cd. '81, § 347; L. '83, p. 36, § 1; L. '86, p. 96, § 1; 2 H. C., § 486.]

The statute relating to exemptions of both personalty and realty is to be liberally construed, to effect their object: Puget Sound etc. Packing Co. v. Jeffs, 11 Wash. 466, and cases cited on page 469; Mikkleson v. Parker, 3 W. T. 531.

The words "himself and family" in subdivision 6 should be construed as "himself or family": See Geiger v. Kobilka, 26 Wash. 171.

Persons entitled to exemption: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1232, §§ 5-9; Potvin v.

Wickersham, 15 Wash. 646; Geiger v. Kobilka, 26 Wash. 171.

A partner is entitled to exemption out of partnership property for his individual debt, when he has control thereof pending suit to dissolve the partnership and there are no partnership debts unpaid: Dennis v. Kass, 11 Wash. 353; see Hays v. Dennis, 11 Wash. 364.

Subdivision 3 authorizes the selection of "other household goods, etc.," and prescribes how and by whom to be selected, but confers no right to select other property of a different character: Carter v. Davis, 6 Wash. 327, 330.

Although an attachment defendant may be entitled to exemption under subdivision 4 of this section, it is for him to make the claim, and plaintiff may primarily seize the property: Zelinsky v. Price, 8 Wash. 256.

The term "householder" in subdivision 4 of this section, making certain exemptions in favor of householders, has reference to the head of a family, notwithstanding the language used in § 481 of 2 Hill's Code, which provides for exemptions in certain cases to "any householder, being the head of a family": Peterson v. Bingham, 13 Wash. 178.

§ 564. (5248a.*) No Exemption Against Wages.

No property shall be exempt from execution for clerk's, laborer's or mechanic's wages earned within this state, nor for actual necessities, not exceeding fifty dollars in value or amount furnished to the defendant or his family within sixty days preceding the beginning of an action to recover therefor, nor shall any property be exempt from execution issued upon a judgment against an attorney or agent on account of any liability incurred by such attorney or agent to his client or principal on account of any moneys or other property coming into his hands from or belonging to his client or principal: Provided, that nothing herein shall be construed as repealing or in any wise affecting section 703, infra. [L. '97, p. 93, § 1; L. '01, p. 323, § 1; L. '03, p. 135, § 1.]

See infra, § 703, exemption of wages in garnishment.

For construction of Laws of 1901, page 323, superseded by this section, see Ervay v. Hill, 46 Wash. 457. Bal. Code, § 5248a was void: Copeland v. Pirie, 26 Wash. 481.

§ 565. (5248b.) Householder Defined.

A householder, as designated in all statutes relating to exemptions, is defined to be:—

1. The husband and wife, or either;
2. Every person who has residing with him or her, and under his or her care and maintenance, either,—
 - (a) His or her minor child, or the minor child of his or her deceased wife or husband;
 - (b) A minor brother or sister, or the minor child of a deceased brother or sister;

- (c) A father, mother, grandfather or grandmother;
- (d) The father, mother, grandfather or grandmother of deceased husband or wife;
- (e) An unmarried sister, or any other of the relatives mentioned in this section who has attained the age of majority, and are unable to take care of or support themselves. [L. '97, p. 93, § 2.]

See supra, § 553, head of family defined.

§ 566. (5249.) Pension Money Exempt.

Any money received by any citizen of the state of Washington as a pension from the government of the United States, whether the same be in the actual possession of such person or be deposited or loaned by him, shall be exempt from execution, attachment, or seizure by or under any legal process whatever. [L. '90, p. 88, § 1; 2 H. C., § 487.]

Under the Revised Statutes of the United States, § 108, pension money due or to become due is not liable to attachment, levy or seizure under legal or equitable process. For construction of this section, see Webb

v. Holt, 57 Iowa, 712; Crow v. Brown, 81 Iowa, 344; see Baugh v. Barrett, 69 Iowa, 495; Farmer v. Turner, 64 Iowa, 690; Goble v. Stephenson, 68 Iowa, 270.

§ 567. (5250.) When Pension Money Exempt to Family.

When a debtor dies or absconds, and leaves his family any money exempted by the last preceding section, the same shall be exempt to his family as provided in said section. [L. '90, p. 89, § 2; 2 H. C., § 488.]

See infra, § 571, and note, waiver of exemption.

§ 568. (5251.) Fire Insurance Money Exempt, When.

Whenever property, which by the laws of this state is exempt from execution or attachment, is insured and the same is destroyed by fire, then the insurance money coming to or belonging to the person thus insured, to an amount equal to the exempt property thus destroyed, shall be exempt from execution and attachment. [L. '95, p. 135, § 1.]

Moneys paid upon an insurance policy for destruction of household furniture are exempt for a reasonable time after loss, when the furniture itself was exempt, notwithstanding the fact that the money paid for the insurance may not be exempt: Puget Sound etc. Packing Co. v. Jeffs, 11 Wash. 466; decided under former laws; distinguished in Winsor v. McLachlan, 12 Wash. 156.

§ 569. (5252.) Proceeds of Life Insurance Exempt.

The proceeds or avails of all life and accident insurance shall be exempt from all liability for any debt. [Cf. L. '95, p. 336, § 1; L. '97, p. 70, § 1.]

Cited in 38 Wash. 372, 373.

As to the exemption of life insurance, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1234, §§ 15, 17; Puget Sound etc. Co. v. Jeffs, 11 Wash. 466; Winsor v. McLachlan, 12 Wash. 154.

A policy of life insurance and the money to become due under it belong from the moment the policy is issued to the beneficiary therein named, and it is beyond the power of the insured to transfer to any other person the interest of such beneficiary: In re Heilbron's Estate, 14 Wash. 536.

A legislative enactment which so far affects the remedy subsisting when and where a contract is made as substantially to impair and lessen the value of such contract, conflicts with § 10, article I, of the federal constitution, providing that "no state shall pass any law . . . impairing the obligation of contracts": Id.

A statute should not be given a retroactive construction when to so construe it impairs existing rights, unless it clearly appears that such was the legislative intention: Id.

This section construed and held to be prospective merely: In re Heilbron's Estate, 14 Wash. 536.

But it applies to a judgment founded upon a note dated September 10, 1896: Flood v. Libby, 38 Wash. 366.

A decision of the federal court that the national bankruptcy act subjects life insurance policies to the payment of debts, notwithstanding this section expressly exempting the same, does not affect such exemption when an attempt is made to enforce a debt under the state law: Flood v. Libby, 38 Wash. 366.

§ 570. (5253.) Separate Property of Wife Exempt, When.

All real and personal estate belonging to any married woman at the time of her marriage, and all which she may have acquired subsequently to such marriage, or to which she shall hereafter become entitled in her own right, and all her personal earnings, and all the issues, rents, and profits of such real estate, shall be exempt from attachment and execution upon any liability or judgment against the husband, so long as she or any minor heir of her body shall be living: Provided, that her separate property shall be liable for debts owing by her at the time of her marriage. [L. '54, p. 178, § 252; L. '69, p. 85, § 337; Cd. '81, § 341; H. C., § 480.]

See infra, § 5921, earnings of wife and children, separate property, when.

See infra, § 5931, wife's property liable for necessities.

Cited in 6 Wash. 512.

The statute exempting the personal earnings of wife from execution for her husband's debts must be construed to be a statute of exemptions, and in no sense as defining separate property: Abbott v. Wetherby, 6 Wash. 507, 512. See Clark v. Eltinge, 38 Wash. 376.

§ 571. (5254.) Waiver of Exemption—Absconding Debtors.

This chapter shall not be so construed as to prevent any single man, or married man, his wife joining him, from waiving, by agreement in writing, the benefit of this chapter: Provided, That any agreement of waiver made by a husband and wife shall be witnessed and acknowledged as required in case of a deed conveying real estate: And provided also, that nothing in this chapter shall be construed to exempt from attachment or execution the property, real or personal, of nonresidents, or a person who has left or is about to leave the state with the intent to defraud his creditors. [L. '69, p. 88, § 344; L. '77, p. 74, § 352; Cd. '81, § 348; 2 H. C., § 489.]

See supra, § 534, mortgage of homestead.

Notwithstanding the last clause of this section, pension money accruing to an absconding pensioner is exempt to his family under §§ 566, 567, supra.

Waiver or forfeiture of exemption: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1234, §§ 20, 21; State ex rel. Hill v. Gardner, 32 Wash. 550.

If a person leaves the state with intent to defraud his creditors his property is not exempt from attachment, nor can his wife claim the statutory exemption in his behalf: Carter v. Davis, 6 Wash. 327.

The provision of this section regarding waiving of exemptions is held repugnant to and annulled by constitution, article xix: Slyfield v. Willard, 43 Wash. 179.

Where debtors removed from their real estate upon which they had lived, and went to another state, secretly selling their personal property or removing the same, with intent to establish their residence in such other state and to defraud their creditors, they cannot, after attachment, return to the premises and claim a homestead exemption thereon by living on the premises for a month, no effort to set aside the attachment being made prior to sale on execution, and the return to the premises not being made in good faith; this section providing that the exemption shall not apply to such persons: Gullickson v. Fenlon, 48 Wash. 503.

§ 572. (5255.) Claim of Exemption and Proceedings Thereon.

When a debtor claims personal property as exempt, he shall deliver to the officer making the levy an itemized list of all the personal property owned or claimed by him, including money, bonds, bills, notes, claims, and demands, with the residence of the person indebted upon the said bonds, bills, notes, claims, and demands, and shall verify such list by affidavit. He shall also deliver to such officer a list, by separate items, of the property he claims as exempt. If the husband be absent or incapable of acting, the claim may be made, the list delivered and verified, by the wife. If the creditor, his agent or attorney, demand an appraisement thereof, two disinterested householders of the neighborhood shall be chosen, one by the debtor and the other by the creditor, his agent or attorney, and these two, if they cannot agree, shall select a third; [but if either party fail to choose an appraiser, or the two fail to select a third, or] if one or more of the appraisers fail to act, the officer shall appoint one. The appraisers shall forthwith proceed to make a list, by separate items, of the personal property selected by the debtor as exempt, which they shall decide as exempt, stating the value of each article, and annexing to the list their affidavit to the following effect: "We solemnly swear that, to the best of our judgment, the above is a fair cash valuation of the property therein described," which affidavit shall be signed by two appraisers at least, and be certified by the officer administering the oaths. The list shall be delivered to the officer holding the execution or other process, and be by him annexed to and made part of his return, and the property therein specified shall be exempt from levy and sale, and the other personal estate of the debtor shall remain subject thereto. In case no appraisement be required, the officer shall return with the process the list of the property claimed as exempt by the debtor. The appraisers shall each be entitled to one dollar, to be paid by the creditor, if all the property claimed by the debtor shall be exempt; otherwise, to be paid by the debtor. [L. '69, p. 88, § 346; L. '77, p. 74, § 353; Cd. '81, § 349; 2 H. C., § 490.]

Failure to include some articles in itemized list of exempt property does not forfeit debtor's right of exemption as to those articles: Mikkleson v. Parker, 3 W. T. 527.

A second list showing separate items of property is not necessary where the sworn statement already furnished contains a list of all the property: Wiser v. Thomas, 39 Wash. 40.

The proceeds of exempt property are also exempt: Traders' Nat. Bank v. Schorr, 20 Wash. 1.

Mandamus is the proper remedy to prevent sale of exempt property: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1236, § 28; State ex rel. Achey v. Creech, 18 Wash. 186; American Paper Co. v. Sullivan, 34 Wash. 391; State ex rel. Hill v. Gardner, 32 Wash. 550.

CHAPTER IV.

ADVERSE CLAIMS TO PROPERTY LEVIED UPON.

§ 573. (5262.) Claim by Third Person to Property Levied on or Attached.

When any other person than the judgment debtor shall claim property levied upon or attached, he may have the right to demand and receive the same from the sheriff or other officer making the attachment or levy, upon his making an affidavit that the property is his, or that he has a right to the immediate possession thereof, stating on oath the value thereof, and giving to the sheriff or officer a bond, with sureties in double the value of such property, conditioned that he will appear in the superior court of the county in which the property was seized within ten days after the bond is accepted by the sheriff or other officer, and make good his title to the same, or that he will return the property or pay its value to the said sheriff or other officer. [Cf. L. '54, p. 179, § 256; Cd. '81, § 350; L. '91, p. 79, § 1; 2 H. C., § 491.]

As to claims by third persons to property attached, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 310, §§ 46-52.

The provisions of this section, requiring claimant to make good his title within ten days after filing affidavit and bond is not mandatory. The sheriff and attaching plaintiff cannot after the property has been surrendered to claimant complain that the affidavit required by the statute has never been filed with the sheriff: Mayer v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 354; see Peterson v. Wright, 9 Wash. 202.

The sheriff cannot compel a claimant for property levied upon to execute the bond for claim and delivery: Carpenter v. Berry, 26 Wash. 255.

When property has been attached and released to a third person claiming the same, who makes affidavit and gives bond for the return thereof or its value, the laches of the sheriff in returning and filing the bond and affidavit will not oust the court of jurisdiction to try the question of title, in case judgment goes against him on the trial of title: Peterson v. Wright, 9 Wash. 202; State v. Superior Court, 6 Wash. 417.

The sheriff is the agent of the attaching creditor in filing bond and affidavit: Mayer v. Woolery, supra, 355.

A verdict is not defective nor prejudicial when in favor of the attaching creditor and within the value as admitted in the pleadings: Peterson v. Wright, supra,

Under the provisions of this section no pleading other than the claimant's affidavit is necessary, and no answer thereto is contemplated by the statute: Chapin v. Bokee, 4 Wash. 1; Seibenbaum v. DeLanty, 4 Wash. 596.

The trial of title is based upon the allegations of the affidavit, and a complaint being unnecessary, it is not error to strike it from the files: Sayward v. Nunan, 6 Wash. 87.

Pleading and proof on third party claims: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 311, § 50.

After property has been claimed under this section, the affidavit is deemed to be denied and the question of title is treated as an issue to be tried and determined in the court in which the execution issued: Levy v. Brown (Wash.), 53 Fed. 568, 569, Evidence of ownership is not required to be pleaded in claimant's affidavit, and such allegations therein will be treated as surplusage: Freeburger v. Gazzam, 5 Wash. 772; see Freeburger v. Caldwell, 5 Wash. 769. And claimant is not limited to proof of absolute ownership: See First Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Hagan, 16 Wash. 45.

The vendee in a bill of sale of chattels as security for a debt cannot maintain an action against a sheriff in possession of the same under attachment levy against the vendor: Seibenbaum v. DeLanty, supra.

See further as to pleading and proof: Chapin v. Bokee, 4 Wash. 1; Berlin v. Van De Vanter, 25 Wash. 465.

Where claimant's uncontradicted testimony establishes a prima facie title in himself, the verdict against claimant cannot stand upon evidence to the effect that the debtor's possession was that of an agent of the party from whom claimant derived title: Medcalf v. Bush, 4 Wash. 386.

The special statutory action under this section brought against a sheriff and an attaching creditor in which judgment is obtained for return of goods attached is a bar to another action against the sheriff, the attaching creditor, and the sureties on the indemnifying bond, to recover damages for the trespass: Dawson v. Baum, 3 W. T. 464; Scott v. McGraw, 3 W. T. 675; Dow v. Dempsey, 21 Wash. 86.

Upon a wrongful levy, the owner has a choice of remedies—replevin, trover or the statutory relief of claim and delivery: Carpenter v. Barry, 26 Wash. 255.

The allegation that the property claimed in the affidavit exceeded two hundred dollars in value is not sufficient to give appellate jurisdiction, but there must be a finding as to value by the lower court to invest the supreme court with jurisdiction: Herrin v. Pugh, 9 Wash. 637.

And where property seized under attachment as the property of the attaching debtor is claimed by third persons, and upon a trial of title to the property it is found to have a value exceeding two hundred dollars, an appeal to the supreme court will lie from the judgment in such proceeding, although the amount of the claim of the attaching creditor may be for a less sum: Eidson v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 225.

Sureties on a third party or redelivery bond appear in the action by signing the bond and have the right to appeal from the final judgment: Carstens v. Gustin, 18 Wash. 901.

The proceeding authorized by this and the following sections constitute a concurrent remedy with the action of replevin: Scott v. McGraw, 3 Wash. 675, 677; Chapin v. Bokee, 4 Wash. 1; Dawson v. Baum, 3 W. T. 464.

SHERIFF MAY RECOVER INDEMNITY.—A sheriff acting under the express direction of the attaching creditor, and attaching property of another than the debtor without notice that it is the property of such third person, may, after judgment against him for such wrongful attachment, recover indemnity against the creditor directing such attachment: Stanley v. Marsh, 1 Wash. 512.

§ 574. (5263.) Justification of Sureties.

If the sheriff or other officer require it, the sureties shall justify as in other cases, and in case they do not so justify when required, the sheriff or officer shall retain the property; if the sheriff or officer do not require the bail to justify, he shall stand good for their sufficiency. He shall date and indorse his acceptance upon the bond. [Cf. L. '54, p. 179, § 256; Cd. '81, § 351; 2 H. C., § 492.]

See infra, § 765, qualifications of bail.

§ 575. (5264.) Return of Officer—Trial.

The officer shall return the affidavit, bond, and justification, if any, to the office of the clerk of the superior court, and this [the] case shall stand for trial in said court. [Cf. L. '54, p. 179, § 257; Cd. '81, § 352; L. '91, p. 80, § 2; 2 H. C., § 493.]

See notes to § 573, supra.

Cited in 4 Wash. 763.

The execution plaintiff cannot, on the trial of the issue of title, interpose a counterclaim: Myers v. Landrum, 4 Wash. 762.

Where property seized by the sheriff under execution or attachment against a debtor is claimed by a third person, who files his affidavit and bond as required, such proceeding is a new and independent action, which must be placed on the trial docket of the court in the county where the property was seized, and the court of no other county has jurisdiction of the subject matter of the action: State v. Superior Court, 5 Wash. 639.

The affidavit and bond mentioned in this section shall be placed upon the trial docket, with claimant as plaintiff and the sheriff and plaintiff in execution as defendants, and no other pleadings are necessary: Chapin v. Bokee, 4 Wash. 1.

Plaintiff is not entitled to a directed verdict in his favor, upon a trial of the right of ownership to property, attached as the property of another, but which was claimed by plaintiff under a bill of sale, when there is any testimony tending to show that the transfer to plaintiff was made with intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors: Burns v. Woolery, 15 Wash. 134.

§ 576. (5265.) Parties.

The person claiming the property shall be plaintiff, and the sheriff and plaintiff in the execution defendants. [L. '54, p. 179, § 258; Cd. '81, § 353; 2 H. C., § 494.]

Cited in 16 Wash. 47.

§ 577. (5266.) Judgment and Costs.

If the claimant makes good his title to the property, the bond shall be canceled; if to a portion thereof, a like proportion of the bond shall be canceled; but if he shall not maintain his title, judgment shall be rendered against him and his sureties for the value of the property, or for such less amount as shall not exceed the amount due on the original execution or attachment. When the judgment is in favor of the sheriff for the entire property, the claimant shall pay the costs; when the claimant recovers all the property, judgment shall be given in favor of the claimant for costs; when the claimant recovers a portion of the property only, the costs shall be apportioned. When the plaintiff prevails, the costs may be taxed against the defendant who was plaintiff in the execution or attachment, or the court may, if it shall be of opinion that the sheriff attached or levied upon said property without the exercise of due caution, adjudge him to pay the costs, or any portion thereof. [L. '54, p. 179, § 259; Cd. '81, § 354; 2 H. C., § 495.]

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 312, §§ 51, 52.

The provisions of this section apply only to judgments rendered in special proceedings authorized by § 573, and not to actions brought under the provisions of § 707 et seq.: Eidson v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 225.

The proper judgment against a claimant failing to make good his title is for the amount of the execution creditor's claim, not exceeding the value of the property in controversy, irrespective of any priority claimant may be entitled to as against such creditor: Sayward v. Nunan, 6 Wash. 87.

The claimant and sureties are bound by claimant's allegations as to value of property attached: See Hill v. Gardner, 35 Wash. 529.

CHAPTER V.

SALE OF PROPERTY UNDER EXECUTION AND REDEMPTION.

§ 578. (5269.) Writ, How Executed.

When the writ of execution is against the property of the judgment debtor, it shall be executed by the sheriff as follows:—

1. If property has been attached, he shall indorse on the execution and pay to the clerk forthwith the amount of the proceeds of sales of perishable property or debts due the defendant received by him sufficient to satisfy the judgment;

2. If the judgment is not then satisfied, and property has been attached and remains in his custody, he shall sell the same, or sufficient thereof to satisfy the judgment;

3. If then any portion of the judgment remains unsatisfied, or if no property has been attached, or the same has been discharged, he shall levy on the property of the judgment debtor sufficient to satisfy the judgment;

4. Property shall be levied on in like manner and with like effect as similar property is attached;

5. Until a levy, personal property shall not be affected by the execution. When property has been sold or debts received by the sheriff on execution, he shall pay the proceeds thereof, or sufficient to satisfy the judgment, as commanded in the writ;

6. When property has been attached, and it is probable that such property will not be sufficient to satisfy the judgment, the execution may be levied on other property of the judgment debtor without delay. If after satisfying the judgment any property, or the proceeds thereof, remain in the custody of the sheriff, he shall deliver the same to the judgment debtor. [L. '69, p. 91, § 351; Cd. 81, § 355; 2 H. C., § 496.]

Sections 497 and 498 of 2 Hill's Code, relating to garnishment, are omitted as superseded by the later law embraced in § 680 et seq.

Execution sales in general: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1178-1188, §§ 36-84.

Personal property capable of manual delivery can only be levied on by the officer taking actual possession thereof; and such property of a judgment debtor in the hands of a garnishee is not in custodia legis by virtue of writs issued by the state court; hence there can be no conflict of jurisdiction by reason of a suit in equity to determine the rights of all parties asserting claims to such property commenced in the federal court after the return day of such writ: Chase v. Cannon (Wash.), 47 Fed. 674.

If a creditor places his execution in the sheriff's hands with directions not to levy, but to leave the debtor in possession and control of his goods, a levy under a subsequent judgment of another creditor is entitled to priority: Wunsch v. McGraw, 4 Wash. 72.

Such levies are treated as fraudulent and void, since the sheriff under the instructions given has no authority to proceed under the writs; hence the delivery to him is without force under such circumstances: Id., 74.

If A, in his own name, but as agent for B, buys chattels, such chattels are the property of B, and a seizure of them, by virtue of an execution against the property of A, is unlawful, and no title passes by means of a sale thereunder: Sires v. Newton, 1 W. T. 356. See, also, Washington Nat. Bank v. Moyer, 22 Wash. 622.

In decreeing the foreclosure of a lien on a contract for the sale of a lot and certain personalty thereon, it is error to order the personalty to be sold in accordance with the law governing the sale of real property on execution: Shelton v. Jones, 4 Wash. 692.

An equitable interest in lands may be sold on execution: Calhoun v. Leary, 6 Wash. 17.

A sale of land upon a judgment rendered for a community debt will divest the title of the community in the land: Id.; but the husband's interest in community cannot be sold to satisfy a judgment against him for his individual debt: Stockand v. Bartlett, 4 Wash. 730.

Community personalty may, however, be subjected to the husband's individual debt: See Powell v. Pugh, 13 Wash. 577; Morse v. Estabrook, 19 Wash. 92.

Community real estate is exempt from execution on a judgment rendered against the husband, who, as constable, wrongfully sells mortgaged personalty, under execution: Brotton v. Langert, 1 Wash. 73; Griffin v. Warburton, 23 Wash. 231.

Where, after levy of execution, the sheriff is informed that the judgment has been assigned, and is directed in writing by the execution plaintiff and his assignee to proceed with the execution, for the benefit of the assignee, the sheriff is liable in damages for releasing the property upon the subsequent direction of the attorney of the execution plaintiff: Murray v. Mead, 5 Wash. 693.

An execution creditor under a levy upon real estate in the possession of a prior mortgagee is not entitled to an award of damages paid into the court for the appropriation of the real estate: Commercial Nat. Bank of Seattle v. Johnson, 16 Wash. 536.

A judgment creditor purchasing at a sale under an alias execution issued after the judgment was fully paid acquires no title: O'Brien v. Allen, 42 Wash. 393.

§ 579. (5270.) Levy on Joint Realty.

When a defendant in execution owns real estate subject to execution jointly or in common with any other person, the judgment shall be a lien, and the execution be levied upon the interest of the defendant only. [L. '54, p. 220, § 499; Cd. '81, § 751; 2 H. C., § 802.]

Cited in 15 Wash. 135.

Under this and the next section, the sheriff, or, in proceedings in a justice's court, the constable, is authorized to levy execution upon partnership property to satisfy a judgment against an individual partner: Graden v. Turner, 15 Wash. 136.

§ 580. (5271.) Levy on Joint Personalty.

When he owns personal property jointly or in copartnership with any other person, and the interest cannot be separately attached, the sheriff shall take possession of the property, unless the other person having an interest therein shall give the sheriff a sufficient bond, with surety, to hold and manage the property according to law; and the sheriff shall then proceed to sell the interest of the defendant in such property, describing such interest in his advertisement as nearly as may be, and the purchaser shall acquire all the interest of such defendant therein; but nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to deprive the copartner of any such defendant of his interest in any such property. [L. '54, p. 220, § 499; Cd. '81, § 752; 2 H. C., § 802.]

Cited in 21 Wash. 14.

Under this section, the purchaser is not entitled to the possession of specific property as against the copartnership, and a levy thereon as the property of a member of the firm is void, and a wrongful conversion as against the copartnership: Skavdale v. Moyer, 21 Wash. 10.

§ 581. (5272.) Judgment Debtor may Retain Property, When.

When the sheriff shall levy upon personal property by virtue of an execution, he may permit the judgment debtor to retain the same, or any part thereof, in his possession until the day of sale, upon the defendant executing a written bond to the sheriff, with sufficient surety, in double the value of such property, to the effect that it shall be delivered to the sheriff at the time and place of sale; and for nondelivery thereof, an action may be maintained upon such bond by the sheriff or the plaintiff in the execution; but the sheriff shall not thereby be discharged from his liability to the plaintiff for such property. [Cf. L. '54, p. 182, § 268; L. '69, p. 92, § 354; Cd. '81, § 358; 2 H. C., § 499.]

§ 582. (5273.*) Notice of Sale.

Before the sale of property under execution, order of sale or decree, notice thereof shall be given as follows:

1. In case of personal property, by posting written or printed notice of the time and place of sale in three (3) public places in the county where the sale is to take place, for a period of not less than ten (10) days prior to the day of sale.

2. In case of real property, by posting a similar notice, particularly describing the property for a period of not less than four (4) weeks prior to the day of sale, in three (3) public places in the county, one of which shall be at the courthouse door, where the property is to be sold, and publishing a copy thereof once a week, consecutively, for the same period, in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county.

3. All notices of sales of property on execution or order of sale required by law to be published in any newspaper shall be so published in a newspaper of the county which shall be selected by the sheriff, and if there is no newspaper published, in the county, then such notice shall be published in the newspaper published in this state nearest to the place of sale: Provided, that if the person at whose instance the execution or order of sale is issued, or his attorney, shall present to the sheriff a receipt of the publisher of any newspaper, showing full payment for the publication, then the notice shall be published in that newspaper: And provided, further, that the charge for any such publication shall not exceed seventy-five cents per square for first insertion, and thirty-seven and one-half cents per square for each subsequent insertion. [L. '03, p. 381, § 1. Cf. L. '97, p. 265, § 1; L. '99, p. 86, § 3.]

Cited in 17 Wash. 612, 643; 18 Wash. 555, 583; 21 Wash. 400; 33 Wash. 60.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1178, §§ 36-39.

The sale of real property under execution has been governed, since its enactment, by Laws of 1899, page 85, whether the execution was issued under a judgment rendered prior or subsequent thereto: Whitworth v. McKee, 32 Wash. 83.

A sale of land on execution five years after the rendition of judgment is void where the judgment lien has not been revived, even though the execution may have been issued prior to the expiration of such judgment lien: Packwood v. Briggs, 25 Wash. 530; Hardin v. Day, 29 Wash. 664.

A stipulation in the instrument creating the debt that a sale may be made immediately after judgment is unenforceable, except in so far as a court of equity may be inclined to take cognizance of the same: Dennis v. Moses, 18 Wash. 537.

As to sufficiency of posting notices of sale, see Whitworth v. McKee, 32 Wash. 83.

Objection to an execution sale, on the ground that notice of the sale was not given as required by statute, cannot be made where the sheriff's return shows substantial compliance with the statute: Ervay v. Hill, 46 Wash. 457.

Parties to an action are not entitled to personal notice of the time and place of an execution sale, under Laws of 1899, page 86, § 3, amended by this section: Merritt v. Graves, 52 Wash. 57.

§ 583. (5285.*) Sale, How Conducted.

All sales of property under execution, orders of sale or decree, shall be made by auction between nine o'clock in the morning and four o'clock in the afternoon. After sufficient property has been sold to satisfy the execution, no more shall be sold. Neither the officer [officer] holding the execution, nor his deputy, shall become a purchaser, or be interested in any purchase at such sale. When the sale is of personal property capable of manual delivery, and not in the possession of a third person, association or corporation, it shall be within view of those who attend the sale, and be sold in such parcels as are likely to bring the highest price; and when the sale is of real property, consisting of several known lots or parcels, they shall be sold separately or otherwise as is likely to bring the highest price, or when a portion of such real property is claimed by a third person, and he requires it to be sold separately, such portion shall be sold separately. Sales of real property shall be made at the courthouse door on Saturday. [L. '97, p. 71, § 2; L. '99 p. 87, § 4.]

Sale in parcels, see notes to § 587, infra.

Cited in 18 Wash. 558, 592.

Upon the foreclosure of a mortgage upon land, a portion of which had been conveyed away subsequent to the mortgage, it is the duty of the court to ascertain whether the mortgaged premises can be sold in parcels without impairing the security of the mortgage, and, if so, to direct the sale of the land remaining to the mortgagor prior to the sale of that portion conveyed away by him: Solicitors etc. Co. v. Wash. etc. Ry. Co., 11 Wash. 684.

This section (2 Hill's Code, § 501) seems to recognize the right of one claiming a portion of the property which is to be sold to have his part sold separately: Id. 689.

§ 584. Sale of Leasehold Absolute.

Upon a sale of real property under execution, decree or order of sale, when the estate is less than a leasehold of two years unexpired term, the sale shall be absolute. In all other cases such property shall be subject to redemption, as hereinafter provided. At the time of the sale the sheriff shall give to the purchaser a certificate of the sale, containing a particular description of the property sold, the price bid for each distinct lot, or parcel, the whole price paid, and when subject to redemption, it shall be so stated. The matters contained in such certificate shall be substantially stated in the sheriff's return of his proceedings upon the writ. [L. '99, p. 87, § 5.]

§ 585. (5286.) Postponement of Sale.

If, at the time appointed for the sale, the sheriff should be prevented from attending at the place appointed, or, being present, should deem it for the advantage of all concerned to postpone the sale for want of purchasers, or other sufficient cause, he may postpone the sale not exceeding one week next after the day appointed, and so from time to time, for the like cause, giving notice of every adjournment by public proclamation made at the same time, and by posting written notices of such adjournment under the notices of sale originally posted by him. The sheriff, for like causes, may also adjourn the sale from time to time, not exceeding thirty days beyond the day at which the writ is made returnable, with the consent of the plaintiff indorsed upon the writ. [Cf. L. '54, p. 182, § 269; L. '69, p. 93, § 357; Cd. '81, § 361; 2 H. C., § 502.]

§ 586. (5287.) Bill of Sale by Sheriff.

When the purchaser of any personal property capable of manual delivery, and not in the possession of a third person, association, or corporation, shall pay the purchase money, the sheriff shall deliver to him the property, and if desired, shall give him a bill of sale containing an acknowledgment of the payment. In all other sales of personal property the sheriff shall give the purchaser a bill of sale with the like acknowledgment. [Cf. L. '54, p. 183, § 270; L. '69, p. 94, § 358; Cd. '81, § 362; 2 H. C., § 503.]

The fact that, at an execution sale, the purchaser did not pay the sheriff until four days thereafter, or that the execution debtor claims that he was not served with process in the action (although liable for the indebtedness and having notice of the action brought against him and others as partners), does not constitute proof of fraud in the sale or support an action for wrongful execution or conspiracy to defraud: Eaid v. Connolly, 48 Wash. 584.

§ 587. (5288.) Manner of Selling Real Estate.

The form and manner of sale of real estate by execution shall be as follows: The sheriff shall proclaim aloud at the place of sale, in the hearing of all the by-standers: "I am about to sell the following tracts of real estate (here reading the description) upon the following execution" (here reading the execution). He shall also state the amount which he is required to make upon the execution, which shall include damages, interests, and costs up to the day of sale, and increased costs. He shall then offer the land for sale, the lots and parcels separately or together, as he shall deem most advantageous. All land, except town lots, shall be sold by the acre. [Cf. L. '54, p. 181, § 262; L. '69, p. 94, § 359; Cd. '81, § 363; 2 H. C., § 504.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 266, 689; 19 Wash. 378. It is within the discretion of the sheriff, unless otherwise directed by the court making the order of sale, to sell lands upon execution against a judgment defendant either in mass or in parcels: Feek v. Brewer, 11 Wash. 264; Otis Bros. & Co. v. Nash, 26 Wash. 39. See, also, State ex rel. Twiss v. Carpenter, 19 Wash. 378.

§ 588. (5289.) Allotment When Sold by Acre.

When the land is sold by the acre, and any less number of acres than the whole tract or parcel is sold, it shall be measured off to the purchaser in a square form, from the northeast corner of the tract or parcel, unless some person having an interest in the land shall, at the sale, or prior thereto, and before the bidding is made, request that the land sold shall be taken from some other part, or in some other form; in such case, if such request is reasonable, the officer making the sale shall sell accordingly. [L. '54, p. 181, § 263; Cd. '81, § 364; 2 H. C., § 505.]

Cited in 11 Wash. 689.

§ 589. (5290.) Sale by Acre not to be Measured.

When an entire tract or parcel of land is sold by the acre, it shall not be measured, but shall be deemed and taken to contain the number of acres named in the description, and be paid for accordingly; and when the number of acres is not contained in the description, the officer shall declare, according to his judgment, how many acres are contained therein, which shall be deemed and taken to be the true number of acres. [L. '54, p. 182, § 264; Cd. '81, § 365; 2 H. C., § 506.]

§ 590. (5291.) Striking Off, Return, and Payment.

The officer shall strike off the land to the highest bidder, who shall forthwith pay the money bid to the officer, who shall return the money with his execution and his doings thereon to the clerk of the court from which the execution issued, according to the order thereof: Provided, however, that when final judgment shall have been entered in the supreme court, and the execution upon which sale has been made issued from said court, the proceedings on execution and return shall be docketed for confirmation in the superior court in which the action was originally commenced, and like proceedings shall be had as though said execution had issued from the said superior court. [L. '54, p. 182, § 265; L. '69, p. 95, § 362; Cd. '81, § 366; 2 H. C., § 507.]

Conveyance, proceeds, and return of sale: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1187, 1188, §§ 78-86; Lawrence v. Times Printing Co., 22 Wash. 482; Bryant v. Stetson & P. Mill Co., 13 Wash. 692; Pennsylvania Mtg. Co. v. Gilbert, 13 Wash. 684; Hamilton v. Carter, 12 Wash. 510; Gleason v. Tacoma Hotel Co., 16 Wash. 412.

This section has no application to cases where mortgaged property under decree of foreclosure is bid in by plaintiff for amount of mortgaged debt: State v. Prince, 9 Wash. 107, 110.

The sheriff is not entitled to commissions upon the sale of mortgaged premises under foreclosure, where plaintiff bids in the property for the amount of the mortgaged debt, and no moneys pass through the sheriff's hands: Id. 107; State ex rel. Sutter v. O'Loughlin, 9 Wash. 529; State ex rel. Cannon v. Pugh, 9 Wash. 694; Soderberg v. King County, 15 Wash. 194; Moody v. Northwestern etc. Bank, 20 Wash. 413.

Commissions wrongfully deducted should be credited on the judgment: See Spinning v. Pierce County, 20 Wash. 126.

Under this and the following section the "sale" of property under foreclosure means the knocking down of the property by the sheriff: State ex rel. Steele v. Northwestern etc. Bank, 18 Wash. 118.

§ 591. (5292.*) Confirmation of Sale of Land—Disposition of Proceeds.

Upon the return of any sale of real estate as aforesaid, the clerk shall enter the cause, on which the execution or order of sale issued, by its title, on the motion docket, and mark opposite the same: "Sale of land for confirmation," and the following proceedings shall be had:

(1.) The plaintiff at any time after ten days from the filing of such return shall be entitled, on motion therefor, to have an order confirming the sale, unless the judgment debtor, or in case of his death, his representative, shall file with the clerk within ten days after the filing of such return, his objections thereto.

(2.) If such objections be filed the court shall, notwithstanding, allow the order confirming the sale, unless on the hearing of the motion, it shall satisfactorily appear that there were substantial irregularities in the proceedings concerning the sale, to the probable loss or injury of the party objecting. In the latter case, the court shall disallow the motion and direct that the property be resold, in whole or in part, as the case may be as upon an execution received of that date.

(3.) Upon the return of the execution, the sheriff shall pay the proceeds of sale to the clerk, who shall then apply the same, or so much thereof as may be necessary, in satisfaction of the judgment. If an order of resale be afterwards made, and the property sell for a greater amount to any person other than the former purchaser, the clerk shall first repay to such purchaser the amount of his bid out of the proceeds of the latter sale.

(4.) Upon a resale, the bid of the purchaser at the former sale shall be deemed to be renewed and continue in force, and no bid shall be taken, except for a greater amount. An order confirming a sale shall be a conclusive determination of the regularity of the proceedings concerning such sale as to all persons in any other action, suit or proceeding whatever.

(5.) If, after the satisfaction of the judgment, there be any proceeds of the sale remaining, the clerk shall pay such proceeds to the judgment debtor, or his representative, as the case may be, at any time before the order is made upon the motion to confirm the sale: Provided, such party file with the clerk a waiver of all objections made or to be made to the proceedings concerning the sale; but if the sale be confirmed, such proceeds shall be paid to said party of course; otherwise they shall remain in the custody of the clerk until the sale of the property has been disposed of. Where there are no errors to oust the court of jurisdiction, an order confirming a sale under decree of foreclosure concludes inquiry into irregularities attending the sale, such as departure from the terms of the decree, and from the course and practice of the court: Parker v. Clein, 15 Wash. 581.

The fact that a higher bid is submitted after sale of lands on execution is not ground for refusing to confirm the sale, under subdivision 2 of this section: Merritt v. Graves, 52 Wash. 57.

§ 592. (5293.) Eviction of Purchaser—Recovery.

If the purchaser of real property sold on execution, or his successor in interest, be evicted therefrom in consequence of the reversal of the judgment, he may recover the price paid, with interest, and the costs and disbursements of the suit by which he was evicted, from the plaintiff in the writ of execution. [L. '69, p. 96, § 364; Cd. '81, § 368; 2 H. C., § 509.]

§ 593. (5294.) Contribution and Subrogation.

When property liable to an execution against several persons is sold thereon, and more than a due proportion of the judgment is levied upon the property of one of them, or one of them pays without a sale more than his proportion, he may compel contributions from the others; and when a judgment is against several, and is upon an obligation or contract of one of them as security for another, and the surety pays the amount, or any part thereof, either by sale of his property or before sale, he may compel repayment from the principal. In such case the person so paying or contributing shall be entitled to the benefit of the judgment to enforce contribution or repayment if within thirty days after his payment he file with the clerk of the court where the judgment was rendered notice of his payment and claim to contribution or repayment. Upon filing such notice, the clerk shall make an entry thereof in the margin of the docket where the judgment is entered. [L. '54, p. 183, § 272; Cd. '81, § 369; 2 H. C., § 510.]

See infra, §§ 978, 979, and notes, effect of satisfaction of judgment by sureties.

§ 594. (5295.*) Redemption from Sale.

Property sold subject to redemption, as above provided, or any part thereof separately sold, may be redeemed by the following persons, or their successors in interest:—

1. The judgment debtor or his successor in interest, in the whole or any part of the property separately sold.

2. A creditor having a lien by judgment, decree or mortgage, on any portion of the property, or any portion of any part thereof, separately sold, subsequent in time to that on which the property was sold. The persons mentioned in subdivision two of this section are termed redemptioners. [L. '99, p. 89, § 7. Cf. L. '97, p. 75, § 15.]

See notes to § 6750, infra.

As to redemption after sale under execution, see 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1185, 1186, §§ 73-77. As to right to redeem after sale under mortgage foreclosure, see 2 Remington's Digest, pp. 1972-1974, §§ 252-268.

The enactment of § 513, 2 Hill's Code, did not repeal by implication § 519 thereof: Debenture Corporation v. Warren, 9 Wash. 312.

The execution provided in chapter 34 of the Code of 1881 is entirely different from the order of sale on foreclosure of a mortgage: Parker v. Dacres, 2 W. T. 439; Id., 130 U. S. 43; Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143.

This chapter deals entirely with executions at law, and the right to redeem, granted by §§ 511-513, 1 Hill's Code, and does not in terms or by fair implication extend to property sold in any other manner: Parker v. Dacres, supra; Stevens v. Ferry (Wash.), 48 Fed. 11.

The holder of a sheriff's certificate of sale of land under execution is not such an owner thereof as to be entitled to any rights under § 2172, 1 Hill's Code, relating to preference rights of abutting owners on tide lands: Hays v. Merchants' Bank, 10 Wash. 573.

In sales under the foreclosure act, no execution issues, but a copy of the order of sale and judgment issues under the seal of the court to the sheriff, who proceeds to sell in accordance therewith, "as upon execution": Hays v. Miller, 1 W. T. 143.

The courts of the United States, sitting in equity, recognize a statutory right of redemption from a sale under a decree of foreclosure, and that the statute conferring it is a rule of property in the state: Parker v. Dacres, 130 U. S. 43.

The right to redeem after sale, whenever it exists, is statutory: Id.

A court of equity should refuse aid to a party asserting a right of redemption under the statute who has neglected without sufficient cause, before the expiration of six months from the confirmation of sale, to invoke the authority of the proper court to compel the sheriff to accept a tender made in conformity with law: Id.

If the mortgagor does not redeem within the time allowed, he cannot afterward recover the land from the purchaser or his grantee, on the ground that no valid deed was made by the sheriff: Stevens v. Ferry (Wash.), 48 Fed. 7, 11.

As to notice of application, see Baggott v. Turner, 21 Wash. 339.

The notice need not state the hour of the day when the application will be made: Id. Service of the notice may be proved by the testimony of the person serving it, without any return or affidavit thereof: Id.

The purchaser upon foreclosure sale is entitled to possession, or rental, where there is a tenant, of the property from the day of sale: Debenture Corp. v. Warren, 9 Wash. 312. But not where the judgment debtor had made a bona fide assignment of the rents prior to the lien of the judgment: See Griffith v. Burlingame, 18 Wash. 429.

Where the purchaser is entitled to possession during the period of redemption, the plaintiff in foreclosure is the proper party, upon the mortgagor's refusal to surrender possession, to proceed by petition for a writ of assistance: Id.

"During the same period," means the same period that the purchaser is entitled to when there is no tenant holding under an unexpired lease, viz., from the day of sale until a resale or redemption: Byers v. Rothschild, 11 Wash. 296, 299.

Actions to redeem and for accounting: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1186, § 77; McKay v. Smith, 27 Wash. 442; Kennedy v. Trumble, 32 Wash. 614.

§ 595. Time for Redemption.

The judgment debtor or his successor in interest, or any redemptioner, may redeem the property at any time within one year after the sale, on paying the amount of the bid, with interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent per annum to the time of redemption, together with the amount of any assessment or taxes which the purchaser or his successor in interest may have paid thereon after purchase, and like interest on such amount; and if the purchaser be also a creditor having a lien, by judgment, decree or mortgage, prior to that of the redemptioner, other than the judgment under which such purchase was made, the amount of such lien with interest. [L. '99, p. 89, § 8.]

Compare L. '54, p. 183; L. '69, p. 97; Cd. '81, § 370 et seq.; 2 H. C., § 511 et seq., superseded by the act of Mar. 10, '97.

§ 596. Successive Redemptions.

If property be so redeemed by a redemptioner, another redemptioner may, within sixty days after the last redemption, again redeem it from the last redemptioner by paying the sum paid on such last redemption with interest at the rate of eight per cent per annum, and the amount of any taxes or assessment which the last redemptioner may have paid thereon after the redemption by him, with like interest on such amount, and in addition thereto by paying the amount of any liens, by judgment, decree or mortgage, held by said last redemptioner prior to his own, with interest; but the judgment under which the property was sold need not be so paid as a lien. The property may be again, and as often as a redemptioner is so disposed, redeemed from any previous redemptioner within sixty days after the last redemption, on paying the sum paid on the last previous redemption with interest thereon at the rate of eight per cent per annum, and the amount of any assessments or taxes which the last previous redemptioner paid after the redemption by him, with like interest thereon, and the amount of any liens by judgment, decree or mortgage, other than the judgment under which the property was sold, held by the last redemptioner, previous to his own, with interest. If the purchaser or redemptioner shall pay any taxes or assessments, or have or acquire any such lien as herein mentioned, he must file a statement thereof with the auditor of the county where said property is situate before the property shall have been redeemed from him, otherwise the property may be redeemed without paying such tax, assessment or lien. Such statement shall be recorded by such auditor. [L. '99, p. 89, § 9.]

§ 597. Certificate of Redemption.

If no redemption be made within one year after the sale the purchaser or his assignee is entitled to a conveyance; or, if so redeemed, whenever sixty (60) days have elapsed, and no other redemption has been made, or notice given operating to extend period of redemption, and the time for redemption has expired, the last redemptioner or his assignee is entitled to a sheriff's deed; but in all cases the judgment debtor shall have the entire period of one year from the date of the sale to redeem the property. If the judgment debtor redeem he must make the same payments as are required to effect a redemption by the redemptioner. If the judgment debtor redeem, the effect of the sale is terminated and he is restored to his estate. A certificate of redemption must be filed and recorded in the office of the auditor of the county in which the property is situated, and the auditor must note the record thereof in the margin of the record of the certificate of sale. [L. '99, p. 90, § 10. Cf. L. '97, p. 75, § 16.]

§ 598. Payment on Successive Redemptions.

When two or more persons apply to the sheriff to redeem at the same time he shall allow the person having the prior lien to redeem first, and so on. The sheriff shall immediately pay the money over to the person from whom the property is redeemed, if he attend at the redemption; or if not, at any time thereafter when demanded. When a sheriff shall wrongfully refuse to allow any person to redeem, his right to redeem shall not be prejudiced thereby, and the sheriff may be required, by order of the court, to allow such redemption. [L. '99, p. 91, § 11.]

§ 599. Notice of Redemption—Certificate.

The mode of redeeming shall be as provided in this section. The person seeking to redeem shall give the sheriff at least five days written notice of his intention to apply to the sheriff for that purpose. It shall be the duty of the sheriff to notify the purchaser or redemptioner, as the case may be, or his attorney, of the receipt of such notice, if such person be within such county. At the time and place specified in such notice the person seeking to redeem may do so by paying to the sheriff the sum required. The sheriff shall give the person redeeming a certificate stating therein the sum paid on redemption, from whom redeemed, the date thereof and a description of the property redeemed. A person seeking to redeem shall submit to the sheriff the evidence of his right thereto, as follows:—

(1) If he be a lien creditor, a copy of the docket of the judgment or decree under which he claims the right to redeem, certified by the clerk of the court where such judgment or decree is docketed; or if he seeks to redeem upon mortgage, the certificate of the record thereof; also an affidavit, verified by himself or agent, showing the amount then actually due thereon.

(2) A copy of any assignment necessary to establish his claim, verified by the affidavit of himself or agent, showing the amount then actually due on the judgment, decree or mortgage.

(3) If the redemptioner or purchaser has a lien prior to that of the lien creditor seeking to redeem, such redemptioner or purchaser shall submit to the sheriff the evidence thereof, and the amount due thereon, or the same may be disregarded. [L. '99, p. 91, § 12.]

§ 600. Rents and Profits During Period of Redemption.

The purchaser, from the time of the sale until the redemption, and the redemptioner from the time of his redemption until another redemption, except as hereinafter provided, is entitled to receive from the tenant in possession the rents of the property sold, or the value of the use and occupation thereof. But when any rents or profits have been received by such person or persons thus entitled thereto, from the property thus sold, preceding the redemption thereof from him, the amount of such rents and profits, over and above the expenses paid for operating, caring for, protecting and insuring the property, shall be a credit upon the redemption money to be paid; and if the redemptioner or other person entitled to make such redemption, before the expiration of the time allowed for such redemption, files with the sheriff a demand in writing for a written and verified statement of the amounts of such rents and profits thus received, and expenses paid and incurred, the period for redemption is extended five (5) days after such sworn statement is given by such person thus receiving such rents and profits, or by his agent, to the person making such demand, or to the sheriff. It shall be the duty of the sheriff to serve a copy of such demand upon the person receiving such rents and profits, his agent or his attorney, if such service can be made in the county where the property is situate. If such person shall, for a period of ten days after such demand has been given to the sheriff, fail or refuse to give such statement, such redemptioner or other person entitled to redeem from such sale, making such demand, may bring an action within sixty days after making such demand, but not later, in any court of competent jurisdiction, to compel an accounting and disclosure of such rents, profits and expenses, and until fifteen days from and after the final determination of such action the right of redemption is extended to such redemptioner or other person making such demand who shall be entitled to redeem. If a sworn statement is given by the purchaser or other person receiving such rents and profits, and such redemptioner or other person entitled to redeem, who makes such demand, desires to contest the correctness of the same, he must first redeem in accordance with such sworn statement, and if he desires to bring an action for an accounting thereafter he may do so within thirty days after such redemption, but not later: Provided, that if such property be farming or agricultural property and be in possession of any purchaser or any redemptioner and is redeemed after the first day of April and before the first day of December, and the purchaser or his tenant has performed any work in preparing such property for crops, or planted crops, he shall be entitled to reimbursement for such work and labor or the right to retain possession of such property until the first day of December following, and the redemptioner shall be entitled to collect the reasonable rental value thereof during such farming year, unless such reasonable rental shall have been collected by such purchaser and accounted for to the redemptioner. [L. '99, p. 92, § 13.]

§ 601. Restraining Waste During Redemption Period.

Until the expiration of the time allowed for redemption the court may restrain the commission of waste on the property. But it is not waste for the person in possession of the property at the time of the sale or entitled to possession afterwards during the period allowed for redemption to continue to use it in the same manner in which it was previously used, or to use it in the ordinary course of husbandry, or to make the necessary repairs of buildings thereon, or to use wood or timber on the property therefor, or for the repairs of fences, or for fuel in his family while he occupies the property. [L. '99, p. 93, § 14.]

§ 602. Possession During Period of Redemption.

The purchaser from the day of sale until a resale or redemption, and the redemptioner from the day of his redemption until another redemption, shall be entitled to the possession of the property purchased or redeemed, unless the same be in the possession of a tenant holding under an unexpired lease, and in such case shall be entitled to receive from such tenant the rents or the value of the use and occupation thereof during the period of redemption: Provided, that when a mortgage contains a stipulation that in case of foreclosure the mortgagor may remain in possession of the mortgaged premises after sale and until the period of redemption has expired the court shall make its decree to that effect and the mortgagor have such right: Provided further, that as to any land so sold which is at the time of the sale used for farming purposes, or which is a part of a farm used at the time of sale for farming purposes the judgment debtor shall be entitled to retain possession thereof during the period of redemption and the purchaser or his successor in interest shall if the judgment debtor do not redeem have a lien upon the crops raised or harvested thereon during the period of such possession for interest on the purchase price at the rate of six per cent per annum during the period of possession and for any taxes with interest: And, provided further, that in case of any homestead occupied for that purpose at the time of sale, the judgment debtor shall have the right to retain possession thereof during the period of redemption without accounting for issues or value of occupation. [L. '99, p. 93, § 15.]

A purchaser, although entitled to rents under this section, cannot recover in advance rents so payable under contract between tenant and execution defendant, as the latter's right of redemption renders uncertain the period of time for which the execution purchaser is entitled to collect rents: Byers v. Rothchild, 11 Wash. 296.

Under § 519, 2 Hill's Code, entitling the purchaser at an execution sale of real property to possession and to the rents and profits from the date of sale, such execution sale, although no eviction has in fact occurred, is sufficient to warrant the commencement of an action by a vendee for breach of warranty: Frank v. Jenkins, 11 Wash. 611, citing 11 Wash. 460.

Under § 519, 2 Hill's Code, providing that the purchaser upon foreclosure sale shall be entitled to possession of the property from the day of sale until redemption, unless the same be in the possession of a tenant holding under an unexpired lease, in which case he shall be entitled to receive the rents or the value of the use and occupation thereof during the same period, the purchaser is entitled to the rents and profits without being required to account therefor to a subsequent redemptioner: Knipe v. Austin, 13 Wash.

189. Compare Hays v. Bank, 14 Wash. 195; Hardy v. Herriott, 11 Wash. 460.

As to possession during period of redemption, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1185, § 67; Hagerman v. Heltzel, 21 Wash. 444, 58 Pac. 580; State ex rel. Montgomery v. Superior Court, 21 Wash. 564; State ex rel. Steel v. Northwestern & Pac. etc. Bank, 18 Wash. 118; Canadian & Amer. Mort. & T. Co. v. Blake, 24 Wash. 102; Woodhurst v. Cramer, 29 Wash. 40; Murray v. Briggs, 29 Wash. 245.

Under § 519, 2 Hill's Code, a purchaser upon a foreclosure sale, who takes possession of the premises and leases them to another, cannot be required to account, at the suit of the mortgagor to redeem, for the rents and profits arising from the use and occupation of such premises for the period between sale and redemption: Hardy v. Herriott, 11 Wash. 460; citing Debenture Corp. v. Warren, 9 Wash. 312.

Certificate of redemption to the husband alone is sufficient: Carroll v. Hill Tract Improvement Co., 44 Wash. 569.

As to constitutionality, construction, and operation of the latter part of this section, relating to homesteads, see North Pacific Loan and Trust Co. v. Bennett, 49 Wash. 34.

§ 603. Sheriff's Deed.

In all cases where real estate has been, or may hereafter be sold in pursuance of law by virtue of an execution or other process, issued upon an ordinary money judgment, or by virtue of execution, or other process issued upon a decree for the foreclosure of a mortgage or other lien it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other officer making such sale to execute and deliver to the purchaser, or other person entitled to the same a deed of conveyance of the real estate so sold immediately after the time for redemption from such sale has expired: Provided, such sale has been duly confirmed by order of the court. In case the term of office of the sheriff or other officer making such sale shall have expired before a sufficient deed has been executed, then the successor in office of such sheriff shall, within the time specified in this act, execute and deliver to the purchaser or other person entitled to the same a deed of the premises so sold, and such deeds shall be as valid and effectual to convey to the grantee the lands or premises so sold, as if the deed had been made by the sheriff or other officer who made the sale. [L. '99, p. 94, § 16. Cf. L. '97, p. 75, § 16.]

See supra, § 591, confirmation of sale.

A certificate of purchase and confirmation of sale passes the substantial title of defendant upon an execution sale, and the fact that a deed in pursuance thereof was executed to the purchaser thereof after his death will not defeat the title of those claiming under him: Diamond v. Turner, 11 Wash. 189.

The fact that a judgment debtor, after a void execution sale of his homestead, and the execution of a sheriff's deed thereto, sells the land to a third party and removes therefrom, will not cure the invalidity of the sheriff's deed: Asher v. Sekofsky, 10 Wash. 379.

In an action by a redemptioner to set aside a sheriff's deed as having been made before the right of redemption had expired, the complaint does not state a cause of action when it nowhere alleges how long it was after the execution sale when the deed was made nor when there is no sufficient allegation as to any offer to redeem within the time provided by statute after the confirmation of sale: Bryant v. Stetson & Post M. Co., 13 Wash. 692.

The title of the purchaser relates back to the time the lien of the judgment attached: See Pennsylvania Mtg. Inv. Co. v. Gilbert, 13 Wash. 684.

§ 604. Entry of Deed.

The party to whom such sheriff's deed is given shall, upon receipt thereof, take the same to the clerk of the superior court, who shall enter in his book of levies, where the levy is recorded, the sale of real estate therein conveyed, and shall indorse the fact upon the deed, with the date when presented to him and when made: And no county auditor shall record any such deed without such indorsement. [L. '99, p. 95, § 17.]

CHAPTER VI.COMMISSIONERS TO CONVEY REAL ESTATE.*§ 605. (5300.) Court may Appoint, When.

The several superior courts may, whenever it is necessary, appoint a commissioner to convey real estate,—

1. When, by a judgment in an action, a party is ordered to convey real property to another, or any interest therein;

2. When real property, or any interest therein, has been sold under a special order of the court, and the purchase money paid therefor. [L. '54, p. 205, § 390; Cd. '81, § 528; 2 H. C., § 814.]

§ 606. (5301.) Contents of Deed.

The deed of the commissioner shall so refer to the judgment authorizing the conveyance that the same may be readily found, but need not recite the record in the case generally. [L. '54, p. 205, § 391; Cd. '81, § 529; 2 H. C., § 815.]

§ 607. (5302.) Conveyance Made in Pursuance of Judgment—Effect of.

A conveyance made in pursuance of a judgment shall pass to the grantee the title of the parties ordered to convey the land. [L. '54, p. 205, § 392; Cd. '81, § 530; 2 H. C., § 816.]

§ 608. (5303.) Conveyance Made in Pursuance of a Sale—Effect of.

A conveyance made in pursuance of a sale ordered by the court shall pass to the grantee the title of all the parties to the action or proceeding. [L. '54, p. 205, § 393; Cd. '81, § 531; 2 H. C., § 817.]

§ 609. (5304.) Approval by Court Necessary.

A conveyance by a commissioner shall not pass any right until it has been examined and approved by the court, which approval shall be indorsed on the conveyance, and recorded with it. [L. '54, p. 205, § 394; Cd. '81, § 532; 2 H. C., § 818.]

§ 610. (5305.) Execution of Conveyance.

It shall be sufficient for the conveyance to be signed by the commissioner only, without affixing the name of the parties whose title is conveyed, but the names of the parties shall be recited in the body of the conveyance. [L. '54, p. 205, § 395; Cd. '81, § 533; 2 H. C., § 819.]

§ 611. (5306.) Recording.

The conveyance shall be recorded in the office in which by law it should have been recorded had it been made by the parties whose title is conveyed by it. [L. '54, p. 205, § 396; Cd. '81, § 534; 2 H. C., § 820.]

§ 612. (5307.) Conveyance, How Enforced.

In case of a judgment to compel a party to execute a conveyance of real estate, the court may enforce the judgment by attachment or sequestration, or appoint a commissioner to make the conveyance. [L. '54, p. 205, § 397; Cd. '81, § 535; 2 H. C., § 821.]

CHAPTER VII.

PROCEEDINGS SUPPLEMENTAL TO EXECUTION.

§ 613. (5312.*) Order to Examine Judgment Debtor.

At any time within six years after entry of a judgment for the sum of twenty-five ($25) dollars or over, and after the return of an execution against property wholly or partially unsatisfied upon proof thereof, by affidavit or other competent written evidence satisfactory to the judge or after the issuing of an execution against property and upon proof by the affidavit of a party or otherwise to the satisfaction of the court or a judge thereof judgment debtor has property which he unjustly refuses to apply towards the satisfaction of the judgment, such court or judge may, by an order, require the judgment debtor to appear at a specified time and place before the judge granting the order, or a referee appointed by him, to answer concerning the same; and the judge to whom application is made under this act may, if it is made to appear to him by the affidavit of the judgment creditor, his agent or attorney that there is danger of the debtor absconding, order the sheriff to arrest the debtor and bring him before the judge granting the order. Upon being brought before the judge he may be ordered to enter into a bond, with sufficient sureties, that he will attend from time to time before the judge or referee, as shall be directed, during the pendency of the proceedings and until the final termination thereof. [L. '93, p. 435, § 1; L. '99, p. 146, § 1.]

For former laws on this subject compare: L. '54, pp. 183-186; L. '69, pp. 101-102; Cd. '81, §§ 381-387; 2 H. C., §§ 522-528.

See infra, § 647 et seq., attachments.

See infra, § 680 et seq., garnishments.

See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 1188-1191, §§ 85-106.

Issuance of an execution is a jurisdictional step necessary to sustain proceedings of this character: Timm v. Stegman, 6 Wash. 13; Allen v. Stalleup, 13 Wash. 631, 633.

The return of an execution unsatisfied is sufficient to authorize proceedings supplementary to execution: Klepsch v. Donald, 18 Wash. 150.

Such proceedings are held to be of equitable jurisdiction, intended to serve the end of a creditor's bill, and to be heard and determined by the judge with or without a jury, as he may desire: Murne v. Schwabacher, 2 W. T. 130. See infra, § 638; Mears v. Lamona, 17 Wash. 148; Klepsch v. Donald, 18 Wash. 150. Proceedings supplementary to execution involve the same principle as garnishment; Frankenthal v. Solomonson, 20 Wash. 460.

The provisions of title 8, chapter 6, of 2 Hill's Code, governing supplementary proceedings, do not afford an adequate remedy for setting aside a fraudulent conveyance of real property, and resort may consequently be had to a court of equity: Klosterman v. Mason Co. etc. Ry. Co., 8 Wash. 281.

As to contents of affidavit, see Klepsch v. Donald, 18 Wash. 150; Flood v. Libby, 38 Wash. 366.

The affidavit may be amended by permission so as to make it conform to the original proceedings: Murne v. Schwabacher, supra.

After arrest, and being advised of supplementary proceedings against him, a party cannot dispose of property in question and thus avoid responsibility: Id., 191.

This chapter does not warrant the citation and examination of officers of an insolvent corporation for which a receiver has been appointed: Allen v. Stalleup, 13 Wash. 631.

Salaries of public officers or employees cannot be reached: See Flood v. Libby, 38 Wash. 366.

Held, under §§ 524, 525, 2 Hill's Code, that the affidavit filed as basis for order need not state that execution has been issued against the judgment debtor: Timm v. Stegman, 6 Wash. 13.

This chapter does not authorize the enforcement, by contempt proceedings, of a judgment annulling a marriage and ordering the payment of certain money: Van Alstine, In re, 21 Wash. 194.

§ 614. (5313.) Warrant, How Vacated, etc.

A warrant issued as prescribed in the last section may be vacated or modified by the judge making the same, or by the court out of which the execution was issued, upon giving three days' notice to the opposite party. [L. '93, p. 435, § 2.]

§ 615. (5314.) Order to Discover Property, etc., of Judgment Debtor.

Upon proof by affidavit or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the judge, that execution has been issued as prescribed by section 613 of this chapter, and also that any person or corporation has personal property of the judgment debtor of the value of twenty-five dollars or over, or is indebted to him in said amount, the judge may make an order requiring such person or corporation, or an officer thereof, to appear at a specified time and place before him, or a referee appointed by him, and answer concerning the same. [L. '93, p. 436, § 2.]

Cited in 20 Wash. 460.

An order in supplemental proceedings "to appear before S., court commissioner," for examination, will be considered as an order of reference to a court commissioner, especially where the court of original jurisdiction construed the same to have that effect; since the journal entry is only evidence of the court's action, and on appeal will be given the same interpretation as given by the lower court: Howard v. Hanson, 49 Wash. 314.

§ 616. (5315.) Before Whom Examined—Referee to Certify Evidence.

An order requiring a person to attend and be examined, made pursuant to any provision of this chapter, must require him so to attend and be examined either before the judge to whom the order is returnable or before a referee designated therein. Where the examination is taken before a referee, he must certify to the judge to whom the order is returnable all of the evidence and other proceedings taken before him. [L. '93, p. 436, § 4.]

§ 617. (5316.) Proceedings upon Examination—Adjournment.

Upon an examination made under this chapter, the answer of the party or witness examined must be under oath. A corporation must attend by and answer under the oath of an officer thereof, and the judge may, in his discretion, specify the officer. Either party may be examined as a witness in his own behalf, and may produce and examine other witnesses as upon the trial of an action. The judge or referee may adjourn any proceedings under this chapter, from time to time, as he thinks proper. [L. '93, p. 436, § 5.]

The wife of a judgment debtor may be examined as to whether she has any of his property in her possession: See Frankenthal v. Solomonson, 20 Wash. 460.

§ 618. (5317.) Referee to be Sworn.

Unless the parties expressly waive the referee's oath, a referee appointed as prescribed in this chapter must, before entering upon an examination or taking testimony, subscribe and take an oath that he will faithfully and fairly discharge his duty upon the reference, and make a just and true report ac-according to the best of his understanding. The oath must be returned to the judge with the report of the testimony. [L. '93, p. 436, § 6.]

§ 619. (5318.) Order Authorizing Payment to Sheriff.

At any time after the commencement of a special proceeding authorized by this chapter, and before the appointment of a receiver therein, or the extension of a receivership thereto, the judge by whom the order or warrant was granted or to whom it is made returnable, may in his discretion upon proof by affidavit to his satisfaction that a person or corporation is indebted to the judgment debtor, and upon such notice given to such person or corporation as he deems just, or without notice make an order permitting the person or corporation to pay the sheriff designated in the order a sum on account of the alleged indebtedness not exceeding the sum which will satisfy the execution. A payment thus made is to the extent thereof a discharge of the indebtedness except as against a transferee from the judgment debtor in good faith, and for a valuable consideration, of whose rights the person or corporation had actual or constructive notice when the payment was made. [L. '93, p. 436, § 7.]

Judgment against a garnishee is unwarranted where it appears from the evidence that he signed a promissory note in his own name in favor of the principal debtor, but that his liability thereon was in fact as a trustee for others; that the note was not due; and that it was in the hands of a third party not before the court: Timm v. Stegman, 6 Wash. 13.

§ 620. (5319.) Order Requiring Delivery of Money, etc., to Sheriff or Receiver.

Where it appears from the examination or testimony taken in the special proceedings authorized by this chapter that the judgment debtor has in his possession or under his control money or other personal property belonging to him, or that one or more articles of personal property capable of manual delivery, his right to the possession whereof is not substantially disputed, are in the possession or under the control of another person, the judge by whom the order or warrant was granted, or to whom it is returnable, may in his discretion, and upon such notice given to such persons as he deems just, or without notice, make an order directing the judgment debtor, or other person, immediately to pay the money or deliver the articles of personal property to a sheriff designated in the order, unless a receiver has been appointed or a receivership has been extended to the special proceedings, and in that case to the receiver. [L. '93, p. 437, § 8.]

See notes to § 613, supra.

Cited in 38 Wash. 375.

See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 1190, § 99 et seq.

The finding in supplemental proceedings that certain realty is liable to execution and an order for its sale to satisfy a judgment, creates no special lien against the property, and where such property is claimed as a homestead it is entitled to exemption to the extent allowed under the statute granting a judgment debtor exemption of his homestead premises: Field v. Greiner, 11 Wash. 8.

In supplemental proceedings, upon a trial of the issue that the judgment debtors had property which they unjustly refused to apply toward the satisfaction of the judgment, the failure of the judgment debtors to assert their homestead rights in certain realty will not bar such claim thereafter: Field v. Greiner, 11 Wash. 8; decided under §§ 522, 528, 2 Hill's Code.

A garnishee cannot be required to turn over property upon which he has a lien until such lien is satisfied: Coombs v. Davis, 2 Wash. 466.

Where it appears from examination of defendant in proceedings supplementary to execution that he has personal property which he has withheld from execution, the court is warranted in ordering him to turn over such property to the sheriff for sale: Kleisch v. Donald, 18 Wash. 159.

A receivership in proceedings under this section will not be disturbed where the court finds generally that property is unjustly withheld by the judgment debtors, although an order as to certain exempt property is erroneous and reversed: Flood v. Libby, 38 Wash. 366.

§ 621. (5320.) Duty of Sheriff.

If the sheriff to whom money is paid or other property is delivered, pursuant to an order made as prescribed in the last section of this chapter, does not then hold an execution upon the judgment against the property of the judgment debtor, he has the same rights and power, and is subject to the same duties and liabilities with respect to the money or property, as if the money had been collected or the property had been levied upon by him by virtue of such an execution, except as provided in the next section. [L. '93, p. 437, § 9.]

§ 622. (5321.) How Money or Property Applied.

After a receiver has been appointed or a receivership has been extended to the special proceedings, the judge must, by order, direct the sheriff to pay the money, or the proceeds of the property, deducting his fees, to the receiver; or if the case so requires to deliver to the receiver the property in his hands. But if it appears to the satisfaction of the judge that an order appointing a receiver or extending a receivership is not necessary, he may, by an order reciting that fact, direct the sheriff to apply the money so paid, or the proceeds of the property so delivered, upon an execution in favor of the judgment creditor issued either before or after the payment or delivery to the sheriff. [L. '93, p. 438, § 10.]

§ 623. (5322.) Balance, How Disposed of.

Where money is paid or property is delivered as prescribed in the last four sections and afterwards the special proceeding is discontinued or dismissed, or the judgment is satisfied without resorting to the money or property, or a balance of the money or of the proceeds of the property, or a part of the property remains in the sheriff's or receiver's hands after satisfying the judgment and the costs and expenses of the special proceeding, the judge must make an order directing the sheriff or receiver to pay the money or deliver the property so remaining in his hands to the debtor, or to such other person as appears to be entitled thereto, upon payment of his fees and all other sums legally chargeable against the same. [L. '93, p. 438, § 11.]

§ 624. (5323.) Transfer of Property may be Enjoined, etc.

The judge by whom the order or warrant was granted or to whom it is returnable may make an injunction order restraining any person or corporation, whether a party or not a party to the special proceeding, from making or suffering any transfer or other disposition of or interference with the property of the judgment debtor or the property or debt concerning which any person is required to attend and be examined, until further direction in the premises. Such an injunction may be made simultaneously with the order or warrant by which the special proceeding is instituted, and upon the same papers or afterwards, upon an affidavit showing sufficient grounds therefor. The judge or court may, as a condition of granting an application to vacate or modify the injunction order require the applicant to give security in such sum and in such manner as justice requires. [L. '93, p. 438, § 12.]

§ 625. (5324.) Mode of Service of Certain Orders.

An injunction order or an order requiring a person to attend and be examined made as prescribed in this chapter must be served,—

1. By delivering to the person to be served a certified copy of the original order and a copy of the affidavit on which it was made;
2. Service upon a corporation is sufficient if made upon an officer, to whom a copy of a summons must be delivered. Where a summons is personally served upon a corporation, unless the officer to be served is specially designated in the order, the order may be served by any person who can serve a summons in an action. [L. '93, p. 439, § 13.]

§ 626. (5325.) Service of Warrant.

The sheriff, when he arrests a judgment debtor by virtue of a warrant issued as prescribed in this chapter, must deliver to him a copy of the warrant and of the affidavit upon which it was granted. [L. '93, p. 439, § 14.]

§ 627. (5326.) Proceedings, How Discontinued or Dismissed.

A special proceeding instituted as prescribed in this chapter may be discontinued at any time upon such terms as justice requires, by an order of the judge made upon the application of the judgment creditor. Where the judgment creditor unreasonably delays or neglects to proceed, or where it appears that his judgment has been satisfied, his proceedings may be dismissed upon like terms by a like order made upon the application of the judgment debtor, or of plaintiff in a judgment creditor's action against the debtor, or of a judgment creditor who has instituted either of the special proceeding[s] authorized by this chapter. Where an order appointing a receiver or extending a receivership has been made in the course of the special proceeding, notice of the application for an order specified in this section must be given in such manner as the judge deems proper, to all persons interested in the receivership as far as they can conveniently be ascertained. [L. '93, p. 439, § 15.]

§ 628. (5327.) Costs to Judgment Creditor.

The judge may make an order allowing to the judgment creditor a fixed sum as costs, consisting of his witness fees and referee's fees and other disbursements, and of a sum in addition thereto not exceeding twenty-five dollars, and directing the payment thereof out of any money which has come or may come to the hands of the receiver or of the sheriff within a time specified in the order. [L. '93, p. 439, § 16.]

Cited in 49 Wash. 320.

A judgment in supplemental proceedings requiring the judgment debtor to deliver certain personal property to the sheriff cannot require the payment of costs into court; but under this section, a fixed sum may be allowed as costs, to be paid out of any money which may come to the hands of the sheriff or receiver within a specified time: Howard v. Hanson, 49 Wash. 314.

§ 629. (5328.) Costs to Judgment Debtor.

Where the judgment debtor or other person against whom the special proceeding is instituted has been examined, and property applicable to the payment of the judgment has not been discovered, the judge may make an order allowing him a like sum as costs, and directing the payment thereof within a time specified in the order by the judgment creditor. [L. '93, p. 440, § 17.]

§ 630. (5329.) Disobedience of Order, How Punished.

A person who refuses, or without sufficient excuse neglects, to obey an order of a judge or referee made pursuant to any of the provisions of this chapter, and duly served upon him, or an oral direction given directly to him by a judge or referee in the course of the special proceeding, or to attend before a judge or referee according to the command of a subpoena duly served upon him, may be punished by the judge of the court out of which the execution issued, as for contempt. [L. '93, p. 440, § 18.]

§ 631. (5330.) Attendance of Judgment Debtor, Where.

A judgment debtor who resides or does business in the state cannot be compelled to attend pursuant to an order made under the provisions of this chapter at a place without the county where his residence or place of business is situated. Where the judgment debtor to be examined under this chapter is a corporation the court may cause such corporation to appear and be examined by making like order or orders as are prescribed in this chapter, directed to any officer or officers thereof. [L. '93, p. 440, § 19.]

§ 632. (5331.) Not Excused from Answering, When.

A party or witness examined in a special proceeding authorized by this chapter is not excused from answering a question on the ground that his examination will tend to convict him of a commission of a fraud, or to prove that he has been a party to or privy to or knowing of a conveyance, assignment, transfer or other disposition of property for any purpose; or that he or another person claims to be entitled as against the judgment creditor or receiver appointed or to be appointed in the special proceeding to hold property derived from or through the judgment debtor, or to be discharged from the payment of a debt which was due to the judgment debtor or to a person in his behalf. But an answer cannot be used as evidence against the person so answering in a criminal action or criminal proceeding. [L. '93, p. 440, § 20.]

§ 633. (5332.) Proceedings in Case of Joint Debtors.

When, in proceedings under this chapter, personal service of the summons in the action was not made on all of the defendants, a debt due to, or other personal property owned by, one or more of the defendants not summoned jointly with the defendants summoned, or with any of them, may be reached by proceedings under this chapter. [L. '93, p. 441, § 21.]

§ 634. (5333.) Continuance.

A special proceeding under this chapter instituted before one judge may be continued from time to time before another judge of the same court with like effect as if it had been instituted or commenced before the judge who last heard the same. [L. '93, p. 441, § 22.]

§ 635. (5334.) Proceedings Applicable to Judgments of Justices' Courts.

This chapter shall apply to judgments recovered in justice court upon which a transcript has been issued and filed with the clerk of the superior court. [L. '93, p. 441, § 23.]

§ 636. (5335.*) Proceedings, Before Whom Instituted.

Special proceedings under this chapter may be instituted and prosecuted before the superior court of the county in which the judgment was entered or any judge thereof, or before the superior court of any county to the sheriff of which an execution has been issued or in which a transcript of said judgment has been filed in the office of the clerk of said court or before any judge thereof. [L. '99, p. 146, § 2. Cf. L. '93, p. 441, § 24.]

§ 637. (5336.) Property Exempt from Seizure.

This chapter does not authorize the seizure of, or other interference with, any property which is expressly exempt by law from levy and sale by virtue of an execution, or any money, thing in action or other property held in trust for a judgment debtor where the trust has been created by, or the fund so held in trust has proceeded from, a person other than the judgment debtor; or the earnings of the judgment debtor for his personal services rendered within sixty days next before the institution of the special proceeding, where it is made to appear by his oath or otherwise that those earnings are necessary for the use of a family wholly or partly supported by his labor. [L. '93, p. 441, § 25.]

See supra, § 563 et seq., property exempt from execution.

Cited in 38 Wash. 371.

§ 638. (5337.) Proceedings are Special—To be Heard Without Jury.

Proceedings under this chapter are special proceedings, and shall be heard by the judge or referee before whom the same are returnable without a jury. [L. '93, p. 441, § 26.]

See note to § 613, supra.

§ 639. (5338.) Fees of Referee.

The fees of referees appointed in proceedings under this chapter shall be five dollars per day. [L. '93, p. 441, § 27.]

§ 640. (5339.) Receiver, When and How Appointed.

At any time after making an order requiring the judgment debtor or any other person to attend and be examined, or the issuing of a warrant, as prescribed in this chapter, the judge to whom the order or warrant is returnable, or the court out of which the order was issued, may make an order appointing a receiver of the property of the judgment debtor. At least two days' notice of the application for the order appointing a receiver must be given personally to the judgment debtor, unless the judge or court is satisfied that he cannot, with reasonable diligence, be found within the state, in which case the order must recite that fact and may dispense with the notice, or may direct notice to be given in any manner which the judge thinks proper. But where the order to attend and be examined or the warrant has been served upon the judgment debtor, a receiver may be appointed upon the return day thereof, or at the close of the examination, without further notice to him. [L. '93, p. 441, § 28.]

§ 641. (5340.) Notice to Other Creditors.

The judge must ascertain, if practicable, by the oath of the judgment debtor or otherwise, whether any other special proceeding authorized by this chapter is pending against the judgment debtor, or if a receiver has been appointed or application has been made for the appointment of a receiver of the property of the judgment debtor in any other action by a judgment creditor. If either is pending, and a receiver has not been appointed therein, notice of the application for the appointment of a receiver, and of all of the subsequent proceedings respecting the receivership, must be given in such manner as the judge directs to the judgment creditor prosecuting it. [L. '93, p. 442, § 29.]

§ 642. (5341.) Only One Receiver Appointed—Extending Receivership.

Only one receiver of the property of the judgment debtor shall be appointed. Where a receiver thereof has already been appointed the judge, instead of making the order prescribed in the last section, must make an order extending the receivership to the special proceedings before him. Such an order gives to the judgment creditor the same rights as if a receiver was appointed upon his application, including the right to apply to the court to control, direct or remove the receiver, or to subordinate the proceedings in or by which the receiver was appointed to those taken under his judgment. [L. '93, p. 442, § 30.]

§ 643. (5342.) Order to be Filed, Where.

An order appointing a receiver or extending a receivership must be filed in the office of the county clerk wherein the judgment-roll in the action is filed; or if the special proceeding is founded upon an execution issued out of a court other than that in which the judgment was rendered, in the office of the clerk of the county wherein the transcript of the judgment is filed. [L. '93, p. 442, § 31.]

§ 644. (5343.) When Property Vests in Receiver.

The property of the judgment debtor is vested in a receiver, who has duly qualified, from the time of filing the order appointing him or extending his receivership, as the case may be, subject to the following exceptions:—

1. Real property is vested in the receiver only from the time when the order, or a certified copy thereof, as the case may be, is filed with the auditor of the county where it is situated;

2. When the judgment debtor, at the time when the order is filed, resides in another county of the state, his personal property is vested in the receiver only from the time when a copy of the order, certified by the auditor in whose office it is recorded, is filed with the auditor of the county where he resides. [L. '93, p. 443, § 32.]

§ 645. (5344.) Receiver's Title, How Extended by Relation.

Where the receiver's title to personal property has become vested, as prescribed in the last section, it also extends back by relation, for the benefit of the judgment creditor, in whose behalf the special proceeding was instituted as follows:—

1. When an order requiring the judgment debtor to attend and be examined, or a warrant requiring the sheriff to arrest him and bring him before the judge, has been served, before the appointment of the receiver, or the extension of the receivership, the receiver's title extends back so as to include the personal property of the judgment debtor at the time of the service of the order or warrant;

2. Where an order or warrant has not been served as specified in the foregoing subdivision, but an order has been made requiring a person to attend and be examined concerning property belonging or a debt due to the judgment debtor, the receiver's title extends to the personal property belonging to the judgment debtor, which was in the hands or under the control of the person or corporation thus required to attend at the time of the service of the order, and to a debt then due to him from that person or corporation;

3. In every other case where notice of application for the appointment of a receiver was given to the judgment debtor, the receiver's title extends to the personal property of the judgment debtor at the time when the notice was served, either personally or by complying with the requirements or [of] an order prescribing a substitute for personal service;

4. Where the case is within two or more of the foregoing subdivisions of this section, the rule most favorable to the judgment creditor must be adopted. But this section does not affect the title of a purchaser in good faith without notice, and for a valuable consideration; or the payment of a debt in good faith and without notice. [L. '93, p. 443, § 33.]

§ 646. (5345.) Records to be Kept by Clerk.

Each county clerk must keep in his office a book indexed to the names of the judgment debtors, styled "book of orders appointing receivers of judgment debtors." A county clerk in whose office an order or a certified copy of an order is filed, as prescribed in this chapter, must immediately note thereupon the time of filing it, and as soon as practicable, must record it in the book so kept by him. He must also, upon request, furnish forthwith to any party or person interested, one or more certified copies thereof. For each omission to comply with any provision of this section, a county clerk forfeits to the party aggrieved two hundred and fifty dollars, in addition to all damages sustained by reason of the omission. [L. '93, p. 444, § 34.]

CHAPTER I. ATTACHMENTS.

§ 647. (5350.) Attachment, When Granted.

The plaintiff at the time of commencing an action, or at any time afterward before judgment, may have the property of the defendant, or that of any one or more of several defendants, attached in the manner hereinafter prescribed, as security for the satisfaction of such judgment as he may recover. [L. '86, p. 39, § 1; 2 H. C., § 288.]

For former enactments on this subject see: L. '54, pp. 155-162; L. '60, pp. 30-36; L. '63, pp. 112-120; L. '69, pp. 41-47; L. '71, pp. 9, 10; L. '73, pp. 43-50; L. '77, pp. 35-40; Cd. '81, §§ 174-192.

The foregoing provisions are repealed by the provisions of this chapter.

See supra, § 220 et seq., manner of commencing civil actions.

See supra, § 573 et seq., claim of third person to property attached.

See infra, § 680 et seq., provisions relating to garnishments.

See infra, § 1888, claim of third person in justice's court.

Cited in 10 Wash. 450; 29 Wash. 203.

Nature and grounds of attachment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 300, §§ 1-4.

The provisions of § 171, 2 Hill's Code, providing that civil actions shall be commenced by filing complaint with clerk, has not been repealed, in so far as issuance of writs of attachments are concerned, by § 220, supra: Cosh-Murray Co. v. Tutlich, 10 Wash. 449.

An attachment may issue in an equitable action, when the object is to recover a specified amount of money: Bingham v. Keylor, 19 Wash. 555; Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199.

An attachment is but an auxiliary proceeding: Nesqually M. Co. v. Taylor, 1 W. T. 1; Windt v. Banniza, 2 Wash. 147; Denny v. Sayward, 10 Wash. 422.

Property vested in a nonresident administrator is liable to attachment: Barlow v. Coggin, 1 W. T. 257.

There can be no valid attachment, unless property is found liable to attachment upon which the same can be made: Jean v. Dee, 5 Wash. 580, 582.

An attachment lien is sufficient to support a creditor's bill, without first obtaining judgment, where it is shown that the debtor is insolvent, and that an execution would prove unavailing: Benham v. Ham, 5 Wash. 128; following Meacham Arms Co. v. Swarts, 2 W. T. 412; Thompson v. Caton, 3 W. T. 31.

The owner of a mortgage has the right to intervene in a suit in which the mortgagor is a party defendant and in which the mortgaged property has been attached, for the purpose of having his mortgage lien declared prior to that of the attachment: Langert v. Brown, 3 W. T. 102.

An attachment may issue after the filing of a complaint and before service of summons, under the statutes of this state: Schwabacher Bros. & Co. v. Grocery Co., 14 Wash. 225; Cosh-Murray Co. v. Tutlich, supra.

Ownership or possession of property as determining liability: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 301, § 8; Clerf v. Montgomery, 15 Wash. 483, 1028; Johnson v. Irwin, 16 Wash. 652; Standard Furniture Co. v. Van Alstine, 31 Wash. 499.

§ 648. (5351.) Issuance of Writ, Affidavit for.

The writ of attachment shall be issued by the clerk of the court in which the action is pending; but before any such writ of attachment shall issue, the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, shall make and file with such clerk an affidavit showing that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff (specifying the amount of such indebtedness over and above all just credits and offsets), and that the attachment is not sought and the action is not prosecuted to hinder, delay, or defraud any creditor of the defendant, and either,—

1. That the defendant is a foreign corporation; or
2. That the defendant is not a resident of this state; or
3. That the defendant conceals himself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him; or

4. That the defendant has absconded or absented himself from his usual place of abode in this state, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him; or

5. That the defendant has removed or is about to remove any of his property from this state, with intent to delay or defraud his creditors; or

6. That the defendant has assigned, secreted, or disposed of, or is about to assign, secrete, or dispose of, any of his property, with intent to delay or defraud his creditors; or

7. That the defendant is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; or

8. That the defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting the debt or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought; or

9. That the damages for which the action is brought are for injuries arising from the commission of some felony, or for the seduction of some female. [L. '86, p. 39, § 2; 2 H. C., § 289.]

See references to last section.

See infra, § 677, and notes, amendment of affidavit.

Cited in 1 Wash. 463; 2 Wash. 151; 12 Wash. 284; 17 Wash. 297; 19 Wash. 557; 21 Wash. 635; 47 Wash. 164.

As to proceedings to procure attachment, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 302, §§ 10-16.

If, in instituting attachment proceedings, a paper is filed in form of an affidavit, signed by plaintiff's attorney, but not verified, the court is without jurisdiction of the subject matter: Tacoma Grocery Co. v. Draham, 8 Wash. 263; see, also, Nesqually Mill Co. v. Taylor, 1 W. T. 1.

An affidavit in attachment alleging that "defendant is about to assign, secrete and dispose of his property, with intent to delay and defraud his creditors," and an affidavit on a motion to discharge, averring that defendant "is not about to assign, secrete and dispose of his property with intent, etc.," admits that defendant is about to do any of the acts mentioned: Hanson v. Doherty, 1 Wash. 461.

A transfer of property by way of preference by an insolvent corporation, while against equity and good conscience, is not such a fraud in fact as will support an attachment by another creditor: Holbrook v. Peters & Miller Co., 8 Wash. 344.

There is sufficient ground to attach property in the hands of a third person when the testimony shows that the transfer of property to such party was fraudulent: Burns v. Woolery, 15 Wash. 134.

A plaintiff is entitled to a writ of attachment in an action to recover upon a debt which has been fraudulently contracted: Blackinton v. Rumpf, 12 Wash. 279.

An affidavit which alleges that defendant has assigned, etc., his property with intent to delay and defraud his creditors and that he is about to assign, etc., his property with like intent, is not open to the objection of being inconsistent and bad in form: Id.

In an action to recover the price of goods, in which the complaint alleged a secret partnership between the two defendants and that they conspired and colluded to defraud their creditors, the business being carried on in the name of one, who subsequently disposed of his property to the other and fled the country, the refusal of the court to dissolve an attachment which had been issued on the ground that defendants had secreted and disposed of their property and were about to do so with intent to delay and defraud creditors, and that they had been guilty of fraud in contracting the debt, is warranted, when it appears that the two had been partners, and after an alleged dissolution had maintained intimate relations; that on the night of the departure of the defendant conducting the business in his own name, they were seen removing goods from the store in a clandestine manner; that the alleged secret partner, while allowing an overdraft to be charged up to him at the bank, was able to pay the sum of $5,000 to the absconding debtor, which sum had been carried by him on his person for sixteen days; and that there had been a transfer of all the absconding debtor's real estate to the other defendant: Id.

Damages arising from the commission of a felony as grounds for attachment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 301, § 4; Brandenstein v. Way, 17 Wash. 293; Bingham v. Keylor, 19 Wash. 555; Tacoma Mill Co. v. Perry, 32 Wash. 650.

§ 649. (5352.) Attachment on Debt not Due.

An action may be commenced and the property of a debtor may be attached previous to the time when the debt becomes due, when nothing but time is wanting to fix an absolute indebtedness, and when the affidavit, in addition to that fact, states,—

1. That the defendant is about to dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors; or

2. That the defendant is about to remove from the state, and refuses to make any arrangements for securing the payment of the debt when it falls due, and which contemplated removal was not known to the plaintiff at the time the debt was contracted; or

3. That the defendant has disposed of his property, in whole or in part, with intent to defraud his creditors; or

4. That the debt was incurred for property obtained under false pretenses. [L. '86, p. 39, § 3; 2 H. C., § 290.]

See references to § 647.

Cited in 1 Wash. 153; 2 Wash. 382; 23 Wash. 595; 40 Wash. 337.

Under this section, the plaintiff must allege the fraudulent disposition of the property in his complaint, and, in case of denial, prove the same upon the trial: Cox v. Dawson, 2 Wash. 381.

In an action upon a note not yet due, when the allegation that defendants have disposed of their property, with intent to delay and defraud creditors, and that they are about to depart from the state without providing for payment of the note, are denied, and no proof is offered by plaintiff, judgment for plaintiff is unauthorized: Hanson v. Tompkins, 2 Wash. 508; citing Cox v. Dawson, supra; Augir v. Foresman, 23 Wash. 597.

Upon attachment for debt not due brought under this section, the complaint is demurrable, where it fails to allege a fraudulent disposition of the defendant's property, and it is not aided by the statements of the affidavit for attachment: Carstens v. Milo, 40 Wash. 335.

§ 650. (5353.) Answer, When to be Filed in Case Debt not Due.

If the debt or demand for which the attachment is sued out is not due at the time of the commencement of the action, the defendant is not required to file any pleadings until the maturity of such debt or demand, but he may, in his discretion, do so, and go to trial as early as the cause is reached. [L. '86, p. 40, § 4; 2 H. C., § 291.]

See references to § 647.

§ 651. (5354.) Judgment Suspended.

No final judgment shall be rendered in such action, unless the party consents, as in the last section, until the debt or demand upon which it is based becomes due. But property of a perishable nature may be sold as in other cases of attachment. [L. '86, p. 40, § 5; 2 H. C., § 292.]

See references to § 647.

§ 652. (5355.*) Bond for Attachment.

Before the writ of attachment shall issue the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, shall execute and file with the clerk a bond or undertaking, with two or more sureties, in the sum in no case less than three hundred dollars, in the superior court, nor less than fifty dollars in the justice court, and double the amount for which plaintiff demands judgment, conditional that the plaintiff will prosecute his action without delay and will pay all costs that may be adjudged to the defendant, and all damages which he may sustain by reason of the attachment, not exceeding the amount specified in such bond or undertaking, as the penalty thereof, should the same be wrongfully, oppressively or maliciously sued out. With said bond or undertaking there shall also be filed the affidavit of the sureties, from which it must appear that such sureties are qualified and that they are, taken together, worth the sum specified in the bond or undertaking, over and above all debts and liabilities, and property exempt from execution. No person not qualified to become bail upon arrest shall be qualified to become surety upon a bond or undertaking for an attachment: Provided, that when it is desired to attach real estate only, and such fact is stated in the affidavit for attachment and the ground of attachment is that the defendant is a foreign corporation or is not a resident of the state, or conceals himself so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, or has absconded or absented himself from his usual place of abode, so that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him, the writ of attachment shall issue without bond or undertaking by or on behalf of the plaintiff: And provided further, that when the claim, debt or obligation, whether in contract or tort, upon which plaintiff's cause of action is based, shall have been assigned to him, and his immediate or any other assignor thereof retains or has any interest therein, then the plaintiff and every assignor of said claim, debt or obligation who retains or has any interest therein, shall be jointly and severally liable to the defendant for all costs that may be adjudged to him and for all damages which he may sustain by reason of the attachment, should the same be wrongfully, oppressively or maliciously sued out. [L. '03, p. 47, § 1. Cf. L. '86, p. 40, § 6; 2 H. C., § 293.]

See references to § 647.

See § 654, and notes, action on bond.

See infra, § 765, qualifications of sureties in arrest and bail.

Cited in 6 Wash. 306; 11 Wash. 187; 20 Wash. 110.

An action having been brought against the sheriff for taking goods not belonging to the attachment debtor, and a judgment having been obtained therein against the sheriff, a subsequent action for trespass will not lie against him for the same matter, nor against the attaching creditor, or his sureties on the attachment bond: Dawson v. Baum, 3 W. T. 464.

If sureties on attachment bond did not justify, the attachment will hold between an attaching creditor and mortgagee; failure to justify is mere irregularity which can be cured: Baxter v. Smith, 2 W. T. 97.

Illegal foreclosure sale under a chattel mortgage cannot be shown by the sheriff in mitigation of damages for wrongful attachment: See Chezum v. Parker, 19 Wash. 645.

§ 653. (5356.) Additional Security, When may be Required.

The defendant may, at any time before judgment, move the court or judge for additional security on the part of the plaintiff, and if, on such motion, the court or judge is satisfied that the surety in the plaintiff's bond has removed from this state, or is not sufficient, the attachment may be vacated, and restitution directed of any property taken under it, unless in a reasonable time, to be fixed by the court or judge, further security is given by the plaintiff in form as provided in the preceding section. [L. '86, p. 40, § 7; 2 H. C., § 294.]

See references to § 647.

Cited in 48 Wash. 428.

§ 654. (5357.) Action on Bond, Damages.

In an action on such bond, the plaintiff therein may recover, if he shows that the attachment was wrongfully sued out, and that there was no reasonable cause to believe the ground upon which the same was issued to be true, the actual damages sustained and reasonable attorney's fees to be fixed by the court; and if it be shown that such attachment was sued out maliciously, he may recover exemplary damages, nor need he wait until the principal suit is determined before suing on the bond. [L. '86, p. 41, § 8; 2 H. C., § 295.]

See references to § 647.

See notes to § 404, supra, effect of judgment against an "insane surety."

Cited in 6 Wash. 29, 307; 12 Wash. 16; 20 Wash. 108.

LIABILITY FOR WRONGFUL ATTACHMENT: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 312, §§ 53-62. Sureties on sheriff's official bond are liable for the wrongful acts of sheriff or his deputy in attaching property exempt from execution: Mace v. Gaddis, 3 W. T. 125.

In an action for damages upon an attachment bond, an allegation that defendants gave a bond to plaintiff, not that they executed one, is insufficient: Church v. Campbell, 7 Wash. 547. And where there is a failure to allege that the damages incurred have not been paid, and no proof is offered to that effect, defendants are entitled to a nonsuit: Id., 548.

An action on an attachment bond for wrongful attachment is premature where an appeal from the final judgment is pending, involving the order dissolving the attachment, and the courts will take judicial notice of the pendency of the appeal: Maxwell v. Griffith, 20 Wash. 106.

A complaint is insufficient which fails to allege execution of the bond by the sureties, although a copy of the bond may be set out in the complaint: Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, 6 Wash. 302.

Plaintiff may show want of reasonable cause for the levy by proof as to conduct of his affairs and good faith of his transactions: Id.

Sureties on an attachment bond may be liable for damages, without prior demand upon the principal, or suit against him: Id.

The principal and sureties giving bond for attached property of a corporation are thereby estopped to deny its corporate existence: Id.

The wrongfulness of an attachment does not entitle the defendant therein to recover, but there must be proof that the same was sued out without reasonable cause to believe the grounds alleged: McGill v. Fuller & Co., 45 Wash. 615. Exemplary damages are not recoverable in a common-law action for the wrongful suing out of an attachment, the statute authorizing them only in actions on the attachment bond: Id.

In an action upon a bond for wrongful levy of an attachment, recovery may be had in one suit for damages to both the joint and individual property of obligees: Sloan v. Langert, 6 Wash. 26; and exemplary damages may be recovered for malicious attachment: Id.; Spokane T. & D. Co. v. Hoefer, 2 Wash. 45, distinguished.

Presumption of malice may be rebutted by testimony that defendant believed the matters stated in the attachment affidavit to be true, at time of its issuance, and that he fully laid the matter before his counsel and acted upon his advice: Id.

For sureties on an attachment bond to avoid liability for actual damages, reasonable cause must exist as a fact for the issuance of the writ; credible information warranting a belief in the existence of reasonable cause tends merely to disprove malice and thereby relieve from exemplary damages: Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, supra.

As to persons liable, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 313, § 56; Rudolph v. Mayer, 1 W. T. 133; Chezum v. Parker, 19 Wash. 645; Van de Vanter v. Davis, 23 Wash. 693.

Injury to commercial credit is not an element of damages for malicious attachment: Id. An assignee cannot maintain an action against an attaching creditor and sheriff for injury to business credit of his assignor as a result of an alleged malicious levy of the writ prior to assignment: Slauson v. Schwabacher, 4 Wash. 783.

Where no actual damages are proven, exemplary damages cannot be recovered upon an attachment maliciously sued out; and the mere fact of a failure to establish indebtedness in the principal action is not proof of malice in the issuance of the writ: Hilfrich v. Meyer, 11 Wash. 186; Levy v. Fleischner, Mayer & Co., 12 Wash. 15. Damages for detention of property cannot be recovered, where there is no proof of actual injury in consequence thereof: Hilfrich v. Meyer, supra. The fact that an attachment was dissolved is merely prima facie evidence that it was rightfully dissolved, and does not preclude further inquiry in an action on the bond: Sloan v. Langert, 6 Wash. 26.

In an action upon the bond, the costs of the principal action, to which the attachment was auxiliary, cannot be recovered as damages: Hilfrich v. Meyer, supra; Seattle Crockery Co. v. Haley, supra; Levy v. Fleischner, Mayer & Co., supra; Spokane T. & D. Co. v. Hoefer, supra.

The attorney's fees in proceedings for dissolving an attachment is a matter of damages to be submitted to the jury in an action on a bond, while the fees in an action on the bond are, under this section, to be fixed by the court: Maxwell v. Griffith, 20 Wash. 106.

In the particular case, sheriff held liable for failure to serve writ: Zelinsky v. Price, 8 Wash. 256. Damages for wrongful attachment: See Barnett v. O'Loughlin, 8 Wash. 260; Liebenthal v. Price, 8 Wash. 206. Sheriff not liable, when: See Haas

v. Gaddis, 1 Wash. 89; Dixon v. Barnett, 3 Wash. 645.

The fact that an attachment was sued out by the advice of attorneys to whom had been submitted all the facts in the case raises the presumption of reasonable cause for the action on the part of the attaching creditor, and in such cases there can be no recovery on the attachment bond even if the writ was wrongfully sued out: Id. But where the attorney has been falsely informed and not put in possession of all the facts, the question of probable cause for the wrongful attachment is for the jury: Voss v. Bender, 32 Wash. 566.

In an action for damages for wrongful attachment the measure of damages, where a sale of the goods levied on had been negotiated prior to attachment and the completion of the contract had been prevented by the levy, is the price of sale agreed upon and not the market value of the goods: Curry v. Catlin, 12 Wash. 323.

As to pleadings in actions on attachment bonds, see 1 Remington's Digest, p. 314, § 59; Cole v. Noerdlinger, 22 Wash.

51; Voss v. Bender, 32 Wash. 566; Church v. Campbell, 7 Wash. 547.

LIABILITY ON INDEMNIFYING BOND.—Sureties on an indemnifying bond, preliminary to issuance of attachment, are not liable for a tort committed by the sheriff making a levy, as by a willful conversion of the goods taken to his own use, unless such act was contemplated or advised by them: Dawson v. Baum, 3 W. T. 464.

Malice cannot be presumed as against sureties on such an indemnifying bond, who are mere strangers to the controversy, though they signed it without previously investigating the case: Dawson v. Baum, supra.

In an action on an attachment bond, under this section, the plaintiff is not entitled to damages by way of punishment, but the term, "exemplary damages," must be construed as being in compensation for injury to reputation, feelings and other damage of that character, of an intangible nature: Levy v. Fleischner, Mayer & Co., supra.

§ 655. (5358.) Contents of Writ—Levy.

The writ of attachment shall be directed to the sheriff of any county in which property of the defendant may be, and shall require him to attach and safely keep the property of such defendant within his county, to the requisite amount, which shall be stated in conformity with the affidavit. The sheriff shall in all cases attach the amount of property directed, if sufficient not exempt from execution be found in his county, giving that in which the defendant has a legal and unquestionable title a preference over that in which his title is doubtful or only equitable, and he shall, as nearly as the circumstances of the case will permit, levy upon property fifty per cent greater in valuation than the amount which plaintiff in his affidavit claims to be due. When property is seized on attachment, the court may allow to the officer having charge thereof such compensation for his trouble and expenses in keeping the same as shall be reasonable and just. [L. '86, p. 41, § 9; 2 H. C., § 296.]

See references to § 647.

Writ and levy: See 1 Remington's Digest, pp. 303-306, §§ 17-29.

The statute fails to provide a method of determining whether the levy is excessive or not, but the debtor in such cases should make application to the court for relief against an excessive levy: McConnell v. Kaufman, 5 Wash. 686.

Seizure of property under attachment does not divest the title; it merely creates a lien. The debtor may still sell subject to the lien, and title will become absolute upon its discharge, though other levies have been made thereon while in the sheriff's hands, subsequent to such sale: Dixon v. Barnett, 3 Wash. 645.

PROPERTY ATTACHABLE: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 301, §§ 5-9.

Lands acquired under the homestead laws of the United States are not subject to attachment or execution for homesteader's debts contracted prior to issuance of patent: Jean v. Dee, 5 Wash. 580; Hunter v. Wenatchee Land Co., 36 Wash. 541.

The property of a debtor, who has left the state with intent to defraud his creditors, is not exempt from attachment, and the wife cannot claim in his behalf the statutory exemption: Carter v. Davis, 6 Wash. 327.

Under the provisions of the assignment law (§ 1086 et seq.) property in possession of an assignee of an insolvent debtor is in custodia legis, and cannot be seized under attachment, although the assignment be alleged as fraudulent: Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. v. Adams, 5 Wash. 333.

The assets of an insolvent corporation form a trust fund for the benefit of its creditors, and are not subject to attachment: Thompson v. Huron Lum. Co., 4 Wash. 600; Conover v. Hull, 10 Wash. 673; McKay v. Elwood, 12 Wash. 579; Compton v. Schwabacher Bros. Co., 15 Wash. 306; State ex rel. Krisch v. Superior Court, 36 Wash. 91.

A levy of an attachment on chattels, subsequent to the execution of a mortgage thereon and prior to its filing of record, gives no lien on the same when mortgagee is in possession: First Nat. Bank v. Carter, 6 Wash. 494.

Notice to the sheriff that the goods about to be levied upon are in the possession of a chattel mortgagee is sufficient notice to the attaching creditors: First Nat. Bank v. Carter, 6 Wash. 494.

Prohibition will not lie at the instance of an attaching creditor to prevent a receiver, whose appointment is void, from taking possession of property other than that attached and which he is seeking to have seized under his attachment: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77.

A receiver appointed under a general order to take possession of an insolvent corporation's property takes no title to property in the custody of the sheriff under attachment lien, when the sheriff and lienors were not parties to the action in which the receiver was appointed: State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 210, following State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77; distinguished in State v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 63.

Although a defendant in attachment may be entitled to exemption under § 563, subdivision 4, it is for him to set up his claim, but the plaintiff has the right to primarily seize the property upon the writ: Zelinsky v. Price, 8 Wash. 256.

An attachment cannot be levied upon mortgaged chattels held by a debtor as mortgagee under a bill of sale absolute in form, although the officer was without notice of the true relation of debtor to the property: Voorhies v. Hennessy, 7 Wash. 243.

Any interest that a mortgagor has in mortgaged property can be reached by process of garnishment, but if the mortgagee be in possession thereof such possession cannot be disturbed until the mortgage debt is fully satisfied; modifying Byrd v. Forbes, 3 W. T. 318; Marsh v. Wade, 1 Wash. 538.

Where partnership property was attached in an action against one of the partners, and subsequently, but prior to judgment, creditors of the partnership attached and obtain judgment against the partnership, the sheriff's sale of the property on the individual judgment will not render him liable in damages: Haas v. Gaddis, 1 Wash. 89.

The holder of a bill of sale as security for a debt cannot maintain an action against the sheriff in possession of the goods under an attachment levy: Seibensbaum v. De Lanty, 4 Wash. 596.

Evidence held sufficient in a particular case to sustain a verdict against a sheriff for failure to levy a writ of attachment: Zelinsky v. Price, supra.

Where a sheriff has levied upon goods under an attachment, and possession thereof has been obtained by another under the terms of a delivery bond which requires a return to the officer, if return thereof shall be adjudged, the goods are in custodia legis, and cannot be levied upon by another officer pending the litigation of the case in which the original attachment was issued: Eidson v. Woolery, 10 Wash. 225.

In an action brought to foreclose a chattel mortgage, an attachment cannot be issued and levied upon other property, in anticipation of an unknown deficiency, in view of § 1125, providing that the plaintiff shall not prosecute any other action for the same matter while he is foreclosing his mortgage: Advance Thresher Co. v. Schimke, 47 Wash. 162.

PERSONAL PROPERTY CAPABLE OF MANUAL DELIVERY.—The sheriff must actually take into his possession or control property of this description: Byrd v. Forbes, 3 W. T. 324.

§ 656. (5359.) Writs to Different Counties—Costs.

Writs of attachment may be issued from the superior courts to different counties, and several may, at the option of the plaintiff, be issued at the same time, or in succession and subsequently, until sufficient property has been attached; but only those executed shall be taxed in the costs, unless otherwise ordered by the court, and if more property is attached in the aggregate than the plaintiff is entitled to have held, the surplus must be abandoned and the plaintiff pay all costs incurred in relation to such surplus. After the first writ shall have issued, it shall not be necessary for the plaintiff to file any further affidavit or bond, but he shall be entitled to as many writs as may be necessary to secure the amount claimed. [L. '86, p. 41, § 10; 2 H. C., § 297.]

See supra, references to § 647.

See Bingham v. Keyler, 25 Wash. 157.

§ 657. (5360.) Order of Execution of Writs.

Where there are several attachments against the same defendant, they shall be executed in the order in which they were received by the sheriff. [L. '86, p. 41, § 11; 2 H. C., § 298.]

See references to § 647.

PRIORITY OF ATTACHMENTS: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 304, § 21.

Where a sheriff has possession of mortgaged goods by consent of mortgagor and mortgagee, the levy of an attachment upon the same by a deputy sheriff, where he takes actual possession, will prevail over the rights acquired by another creditor who had, prior to such levy, placed a writ of attachment in the hands of the sheriff, but which was not levied until after the deputy had made his levy: Meacham Arms Co. v. Strong, 3 W. T. 61.

The prior levy by a deputy sheriff of a writ of attachment placed in his hands subsequent to the placing of an execution in the hands of the sheriff, will give the attachment lien priority over the execution: Wallace etc. Mfg. Co. v. Sharick, 15 Wash. 643; following Meacham Arms Co. v. Strong, 3 W. T. 65.

Priorities between attachments and other liens or claims: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 304, § 22; State ex rel. Hunt v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77; State ex rel. Perkins v. Graham, 9 Wash. 528; State ex rel. Baum v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 324; Alexander v. Hemrich, 4 Wash. 727; Wells v. Columbia Nat. Bank, 6 Wash. 621; Puget Sound Nat. Bank v. Levy, 10 Wash. 499; Schwabacher Bros. Co. v. Superior Court, 11 Wash. 63.

Transfers of property pending or subject to attachment: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 305, § 23; Baxter v. Smith, 2 W. T. 97; Langert v. Brown, 3 W. T. 102; First Nat. Bank v. Carter, 6 Wash. 494; Johnson v. Irwin, 16 Wash. 652; Clerf v. Montgomery, 15 Wash. 483; Hacker v. White, 22 Wash. 415; Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199.

§ 658. (5361.) Following Property into Adjoining County.

If, after an attachment has been placed in the hands of the sheriff, any property of the defendant is moved from the county, the sheriff may pursue and attach the same in an adjoining county, within twenty-four hours after removal. [L. '86, p. 42, § 12; 2 H. C., § 299.]

See references to § 647.

§ 659. (5362.) Manner of Executing Writ.

The sheriff to whom the writ is directed and delivered must execute the same without delay, as follows:—

1. Real property shall be attached by filing a copy of the writ, together with a description of the property attached, with the county auditor of the county in which the attached real estate is situated;

2. Personal property capable of manual delivery shall be attached by taking into custody;

3. Stock or shares, or interest in stock or shares, of any corporation, association, or company shall be attached by leaving with the president or other head of the same, or the secretary, cashier, or managing agent thereof, a copy of the writ, and a notice stating that the stock or interest of the defendant is attached in pursuance of such writ. [L. '86, p. 42, § 13; 2 H. C., § 300.]

See references to § 647.

Part of §§ 300, 303, 308, 312, 313, of 2 Hill's Code, the same being §§ 659, 662, 666, 667, 668, infra, together with all of §§ 305, 309, 310, 311, of 2 Hill's Code, are omitted, the same having been repealed by chapter II of this title, relating to garnishments: See Wooding v. Puget Sound Nat. Bank, 11 Wash. 527, 535.

Mode, sufficiency, etc., of levy: See 1 Remington's Digest, p. 303, §§ 18-20; Meacham Arms Co. v. Strong, 3 W. T. 61; McConnell v. Kaufman, 5 Wash. 686.

The sheriff must take into his actual custody chattels capable of manual delivery, in order to make an attachment levy thereon: Byrd v. Forbes, 3 W. T. 318.

Without the levy of an attachment on the property of a foreign corporation no jurisdiction can be obtained of the defendant, where the service is by publication: Dittenhoefer v. Clothing Co., 4 Wash. 519.

After judgment against a sheriff for wrongful levy, he may recover indemnity against the attaching creditor, under whose direction he attached the property of another without knowledge or notice that it was the property of another than the debtor: Standley v. Marsh, 1 Wash. 512.

Where property seized under attachment is sold by the debtor and the attachment released, but subsequent to the sale the sheriff levies another writ prior to the release, he cannot be held for its value without demand therefor, notwithstanding the demand should precede levy last made: Dixon v. Barnett, 3 Wash. 645.

Where the sheriff has attached defendant's property, and acting under an indemnity bond and by plaintiff's direction, holds the same against the rightful claimant, and has been compelled to pay a judgment for such wrongful levy, the title to the property remains in the sheriff in trust for the attachment plaintiff; and a private sale thereof by the sheriff under plaintiff's direction does not constitute a trespass, nor prejudice a recovery on the indemnity bond: Barnett v. O'Loughlin, 8 Wash. 260.

The filing of a writ of attachment in the county auditor's office is not constructive notice to one who subsequently acquires rights under a grantee of the attachment debtor: Johnson v. Irwin, 16 Wash. 652.

Where partnership property was attached in an action against one of the partners, and subsequently, but prior to judgment, creditors of the partnership attach and obtain judgment against the partnership, the sheriff's sale of the property on the individual judgment will not render him liable for damages: Haas v. Gaddis, 1 Wash. 89.

§ 660. (5363.) Examination of Defendant Touching His Property.

Whenever it appears by the affidavit of the plaintiff, or by the return of the attachment, that no property is known to the plaintiff or officer on which the attachment can be executed, or not enough to satisfy the plaintiff's claim, and it being shown to the court or judge by affidavit that the defendant has property within the state not exempt, the defendant may be required by such court or judge to attend before the court or judge, or referee appointed by the court or judge, and give information on oath respecting the same. [L. '86, p. 42, § 14; 2 H. C., § 301.]

See references to § 647.

§ 661. (5364.) Receiver Appointed for Attached Property.

The court before whom the action is pending, or the judge thereof, may at any time appoint a receiver to take possession of property attached under the provisions of this chapter, and to collect, manage, and control the same, and pay over the proceeds according to the nature of the property and the exigency of the case. [L. '86, p. 42, § 15; 2 H. C., § 302.]

See references to § 647.

Cited in 7 Wash. 80; 14 Wash. 326; 20 Wash. 249.

An attaching creditor has the right not only to have his debt paid out of the proceeds of the property attached, but also to have it retained intact until he obtains judgment and issues execution; and a non-attaching creditor cannot interfere therewith by securing a receiver: State v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77; see State v. Superior Court, 8 Wash. 210.

An attaching creditor whose application to intervene in a proceeding for the appointment of a receiver has no remedy by appeal, but may resort to prohibition to prevent the receiver from taking possession of the property attached: State v. Superior Court, supra.

The superior court has jurisdiction, under this section, to appoint a receiver in an attachment case, who shall have power to manage, control and sell the property, when it is of such a character that its value would be diminished by mere lapse of time, although there is an assignment for the benefit of creditors pending in the court: State v. Superior Court, 14 Wash. 324.

§ 662. (5365.) Sale Before Judgment, Perishable Property.

If any of the property attached be perishable, or in danger of serious and immediate waste or decay, the sheriff shall sell the same in the manner in which such property is sold on execution. Whenever it shall be made to appear satisfactorily to the court or judge that the interest of the parties to the action will be subserved by a sale of any attached property, the court or judge may order such property to be sold in the same manner as like property is sold under execution. Such order shall be made only upon notice to the adverse party or his attorney, in case such party shall have been personally served with a summons in the action. [L. '86, p. 42, § 16; 2 H. C., § 303.]

The title to goods sold under an attachment levy passes to the purchaser at the sale, although the levy may have been excessive, and the sale made between time of levy and of the judicial sale: McConnell v. Kaufman, 5 Wash. 686.

§ 663. (5366.) Custody of Money Received.

All moneys received by the sheriff under the provisions of this chapter and all other attached property shall be retained by him to answer any judgment that may be recovered in the action, unless sooner subjected to execution upon another judgment recovered previous to the issuing of the attachment. [L. '86, p. 43, § 17; 2 H. C., § 304.]

See references to § 647.

Money must be left intact until judgment: State ex rel. Arthur Mach. Co. v. Superior Court, 7 Wash. 77.

§ 664. (5367.) Attachment of Moneys in Hands of Officer.

A sheriff or constable may be garnished for money of the defendant in his hands. So may a judgment debtor of the defendant when the judgment has not been previously assigned on the record, or by writing filed in the office of the clerk, and by him minuted as an assignment on the margin of the execution docket, and also an executor or administrator may be garnished for money due from the decedent to the defendant. [L. '86, p. 43, § 19; 2 H. C., § 306.]

See references to § 647.

An order requiring persons, not impleaded in an action, except as garnishees, and having no notice, to deliver property claimed by them to another also not a party, but being the sheriff holding the attachment writ, is void for want of jurisdiction, and amounts to taking of private property without due process of law: Weisbach v. Arnold, 3 W. T. 111.

This section was not repealed by the later enactment on the subject of garnishments: See Pierce v. Commercial Inv. Co., 30 Wash. 272.

§ 665. (5368.) Attachment of Moneys in Court.

When the property to be attached is a fund in court, the execution of a writ of attachment shall be by leaving with the clerk of the court [a copy] thereof, with notice in writing specifying the fund. [L. '86, p. 43, § 20; 2 H. C., § 307.]

§ 666. (5369.) Inventory of Sheriff.

The sheriff shall make a full inventory of the property attached, and return the same with the writ. [L. '86, p. 43, § 21; 2 H. C., § 308.]

See references to § 647.

See note to § 659, omission of portion of section explained.

See infra, § 676, sheriff's return.

See infra, § 677, and notes, construction of this chapter.

§ 667. (5370.) Subjection of Attached Property to Judgment.

If judgment be recovered by the plaintiff, the sheriff shall satisfy the same out of the property attached by him which has not been delivered to the defendant or claimant as in this chapter provided, or subjected to execution on another judgment recovered previous to the issuing of the attachment, if it be sufficient for that purpose,—

1. By applying on the execution issued on said judgment the proceeds of all sales of perishable or other property sold by him, or so much as shall be necessary to satisfy the judgment;

2. If any balance remain due, he shall sell under the execution so much of the property, real or personal, as may be necessary to satisfy the balance, if enough for that purpose remain in his hands.

Notice of the sale shall be given and the sale conducted as in other cases of sales on execution. [L. '86, p. 44, § 25; 2 H. C., § 312.]

See references to § 647.
